Was the contract a valid one? It was, on the part of Child, to procure by lobby service, if possible, the passage of a bill providing for the payment of the claim. The aid asked by the younger Child of Trist, which indicated what he considered needful, and doubtless proposed to do and did do himself, is thus vividly pictured in his letter to Trist of the 20th February, 1871. After giving the names of several members of Congress from whom he had received favorable assurances, he proceeds: "Please write to your friends to write to any Member of Congress. Every vote tells, and a simple request may secure a vote, he not caring anything about it. Set every man you know at work, even if he knows a page, for a page often gets a vote."

In the Roman law it was declared that "A promise made to effect a base purpose, as to commit homicide or sacrilege, is not binding." In our jurisprudence a contract may be illegal and void because it is contrary to a constitution or statute, or inconsistent with sound policy and good morals. Lord Mansfield said: "Many contracts which are not against morality are still void as being against the maxims of sound policy."

It is a rule of the common law of universal application that where a contract, express or implied, is tainted with either of the vices last named, as to the consideration or the thing to be done, no alleged right founded upon it can be enforced in a court of justice.

Before considering the contract here in question it may be well, by way of illustration, to advert to some of the cases presenting the subject in other phases in which the principle has been adversely applied.

The court further says:

Within the condemned category are:

An agreement to pay for supporting for election a candidate for sheriff; to pay for resigning a public position to make room for another; to pay for not bidding at a sheriff's sale of real property; to pay for not bidding for articles to be sold by the Government at auction; to pay for not bidding to a contract to carry the mail on a specified route; to pay a person for his aid and influence in procuring an office, and for not being a candidate himself; to pay for procuring a contract from the Government; to pay for procuring signatures to a petition to the governor for a pardon; to sell land to a particular person, when the surrogate's order to sell should have been obtained; to pay for suppressing evidence and compounding a felony; to convey and assign a part of what should come from an ancestor by descent, devise, or distribution; to pay for promoting a marriage; to influence the disposition of property by will in a particular way.

The question now before us has been decided in four American cases. They were all ably considered, and in all of them the contract was held to be against public policy and void. We entertain no doubt that in such cases, as under all other circumstances, an agreement, express or implied, for purely professional services, is valid. Within this category are included drafting the petition to set forth the claim, attending to the taking of testimony, collecting facts, preparing arguments, and submitting them orally or in writing to a committee or other proper authority, and other services of like character. All these things are intended to reach only the reason of those sought to be influenced. They rest on the same principle of ethics as professional services rendered in a court of justice, and are no more exceptionable. But such services are separated by a broad line of demarcation from personal solicitation and the other means and appliances which the correspondence shows were resorted to in this case. There is no reason to believe that they involved anything corrupt or different from what is usually practiced by all paid lobbyists in the prosecution of their business.

The foundation of a republic is the virtue of its citizens. They are at once sovereigns and subjects. As the foundation is undermined, the structure is weakened. When it is destroyed, the fabric must fall. Such is the voice of universal history. The theory of our Government is that all public stations are trusts, and that those clothed with them are to be animated in the discharge of their duties solely by considerations of right, justice, and the public good. They are never to descend to a lower plane. But there is a correlative duty resting upon the citizen. In his intercourse with those in authority, whether executive or legislative, touching the performance of their functions, he is bound to exhibit truth, frankness, and integrity. Any departure from the line of rectitude in such cases is not only bad in morals, but involves a public wrong. No people can have any higher public interest, except the preservation of their liberties, than integrity in the administration of their government in all its departments.

The agreement in the present case was for the sale of the influence and exertions of the lobby agent to bring about the passage of a law for the payment of a private claim, without reference to its merits, by means which, if not corrupt, were illegitimate, and, considered in connection with the pecuniary interest of the agent at stake, contrary to the plainest principles of public policy. No one has a right, in such circumstances, to put himself in a position of temptation to do what is regarded as so pernicious in its character. The law forbids the inchoate step and puts the seal of its reprobation upon the undertaking.

If any of the great corporations were to hire adventurers who make market of themselves in this way to procure the passage of a general law with a view to the promotion of their private interests, the moral sense of every right-minded man would instinctively denounce the employer and employed as steeped in corruption and the employment as infamous.

If the instances were numerous, open, and tolerated, they would be regarded as measuring the decay of the public morals and the degeneracy of the times. No prophetic spirit would be needed to foretell the consequences near at hand. The same thing in lesser legislation, if not so prolific of alarming evils, is not less vicious in itself nor less to be condemned. The vital principle of both is the same. The evils of the latter are of sufficient magnitude to invite the most serious consideration. The prohibition of the law rests upon a solid foundation. A private bill is apt to attract little attention. It involves no great public interest, and usually fails to excite much discussion. Not unfrequently the facts are whispered to those whose duty it is to investigate, vouched for by them, and the passage of the measure is thus secured.

Mr. Chairman, I do not think that this subject has been discussed during my term of service in the House. I have been intending and shall yet introduce a bill on this subject. The people have the right to "petition" or "remonstrate" with Congress. A petition is a written instrument, signed by the petitioner and filed with the committee or filed with the court or with the clerk of the court, or filed with Congress. It is then open to the public. It does not mean this thing of going around through public places here and in the States and going behind closed doors, or riding out at midnight in automobiles, or working "under cover" to bring about legislation that should or should not be passed. Lobbying is in derogation of public morals and the public safety, and should not be allowed. The Supreme Court so declared in this case. I continue to read from that decision:

If the agent is truthful and conceals nothing, all is well. If he uses nefarious means with success, the springhead and the stream of legislation are polluted. To legalize the traffic of such service would open a door at which fraud and falsehood would not fail to enter and make themselves felt at every accessible point. It would invite their presence and offer them a premium. If the tempted agent be corrupt himself and disposed to corrupt others, the transition requires but a single step. He has the means in his hands, with every facility and a strong incentive to use them. The widespread suspicion which prevails and charges openly made and hardly denied lead to the conclusion that such events are not of rare occurrence. Where the avarice of the agent is inflamed by the hope of a reward contingent upon success and to be graduated by a percentage upon the amount appropriated, the danger of tampering in its worst form is greatly increased.

It is by reason of these things that the law is as it is upon the subject. It will not allow either party to be led into temptation where the thing to be guarded against is so deleterious to private morals and so injurious to the public welfare. In expressing these views we follow the lead of reason and authority.

We are aware of no case in English or American jurisprudence like the one here under consideration where the agreement has not been adjudged to be illegal and void.

We have said that for professional services in this connection a just compensation may be recovered. But where they are blended and confused with those which are forbidden the whole is a unit and indivisible. That which is bad destroys that which is good and they perish together. Services of the latter character, gratuitously rendered, are not unlawful. The absence of motive to wrong is the foundation of sanction. The tendency to mischief, if not wanting, is greatly lessened. The taint lies in the stipulation for pay. Where that exists, it affects fatally, in all its parts, the entire body of the contract. In all such cases, protior conditio defendentis. Where there is turpitude, the law will help neither party.

The older agent in this case is represented to have been a lawyer of ability and high character. The appellee is said to be equally worthy. This can make no difference as to the legal principles we have considered nor in their application to the case in hand. The law is no respecter of persons.

Decree reversed and the case remanded, with directions to dismiss the bill.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the committee for this indulgence. I dislike to read from books. I could have given you my ideas about "lobbying" much more quickly than I have been able to express them through the words of the Supreme Court, but I wanted the highest authority to speak for me to you. A man has a right to go before a committee and argue his case and he has a right to petition and the right to remonstrate and the courts have so declared, but to "lobby" is not his right. It is a nuisance at common law [laughter]—yes, or any other law.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. I would ask the gentleman if these remarks apply as well to what is known as the "people's lobby?"

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Oh, I hit evil wherever I see it. That "lobby" exists because of the élite's lobby. Sometimes I see evil on the outside of Gongress as well as on the inside, but very rarely is my friend from Maine [Mr. LITTLEFIELD] in error. We have honest differences of opinion, of course.

Now, Mr. Chairman, here we are fixing to punish the bribe giver and the bribe taker. I have put my finger here upon a crying evil, "lobbying," that every Member of this Congress knows in a general way, I may say, at least, is being carried on in the District of Columbia; and, I may say, it is carried on with our legislatures in the State of Tennessee and other States. Only last year, or year before that, Tennessee passed an antilobby law in the hope of exterminating this evil. The State of Massachusetts has a good law, and a number of the States have passed them as well, and yet here we have nothing in the District of Columbia to protect Congress and the people. We should have an antilobby law and enforce it.

[Here the hammer fell.]

Mr. MACON. Mr. Chairman, I would not take up a moment of the valuable time of this committee but for the fact that I understood the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] to indicate a moment ago that a bribe giver was worse than a bribe taker.

Mr. COCKRAN. About as bad.

Mr. MACON. We are now dealing with a provision of law that affects each and every one of us as Representatives, and I desire to let it be known that there is at least one Member upon this floor that insists that a bribe taker is worse than a bribe giver. When I entered upon the discharge of the duties of a Representative I took a solemn oath that I would support the Constitution and the laws of this nation, especially the Constitution. Therefore, should I accept a bribe from the bribe giver I have in addition to having disgraced myself by accepting a bribe, violated the sancity of my oath, and in addition to that, sir, I have seriously insulted the integrity, the honor, and the good name of every man, woman, and child in the district that I represent. Whenever a Representative accepts a bribe, he not only degrades his own name and character, but he reflects upon the integrity and the honor of every individual within the confines of his district, while upon the other hand the bribe giver only disgraces his own name and character. Of the two, Mr. Chairman, I would a thousand times prefer being a bribe giver to that of being a bribe taker, and I believe the gentleman from New York would, too.

Mr. COCKRAN. The gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. MACON], having made some reference to me, perhaps I should explain that the amendment which I have offered does not in any way mitigate the penalties denounced against the bribe taker, while it does impose disqualification from holding office upon any man convicted of corrupting an officer of the United States, in addition to the other penalties inflicted on him by the measure as it stands now. The statement of the gentleman concerning the solemn responsibility assumed by Members of Congress——

Mr. MACON. If the gentleman will yield, I will say that I am in favor of his amendment.

Mr. COCKRAN. The gentleman being in favor of my amendment, it is perhaps unnecessary to prosecute the discussion further. This much, however, I am moved to say by the tenor of his speech: It is twenty years since I was first honored by a seat on the floor of this House. I have served in six Congresses. During all that service I have never discerned an act or heard a whisper that could justify the slightest suspicion that any Member of this House was capable of stooping to questionable conduct, much less to consider an offer of a bribe. I have not, therefore, attempted to discuss the penalties which should be denounced against such a crime. The malefactors at whom I am aiming are men of immense resources, who might perhaps overcome the virtue of some poorly paid officer of the United States, and while profiting enormously from his fall, would yet escape with a lighter penalty if the offense were discovered and both convicted under the law as the committee reports it. I think it would be monstrous if the guilty official were disqualified from ever again holding office under the United States, while the corruptionist who had tempted him to his fall would remain eligible to fill the very office which had been defiled and betrayed through this depravity. The very idea of corrupting a Member of this body seems to me unthinkable, as was parricide among the Greeks. I would not be justified in taking the floor to discuss the penalties to be denounced against a crime that is improbable—almost inconceivable. But, sir, there are other officials whom the records of our courts show to have been susceptible to the wiles and seductions of skilled corruptionists, and I renew an expression of hope that this committee will incorporate into this penal code a disqualification from holding office for every briber who may succeed in corrupting an officer of the United States and thus becloud the credit of our Government.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, on behalf of the committee I object to the amendment. I object to it because this section is the existing law. Many Members have been misled because in printing it it appears in italics. It appears in italics because new to that section. That arose from the fact that in the existing law it says he shall be punished as under the preceding section. The preceding section was carried to another title and therefore the committee wrote into this section the exact language of the preceding section.

Now, therefore, I call attention to the fact that it is existing law. I call the attention of the House further to the fact that in this case the punishment is not alternative, fine or imprisonment, but fine and imprisonment. Any person convicted under that law must suffer imprisonment.

Mr. PERKINS. Does not the gentleman recognize there is a distinction in the criminality where it has reference to a public official bribed by a hundred dollars or a thousand dollars?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Heretofore, as I am informed, the portion of this sentence imposing a fine has been used for the purpose of recouping the Government for a loss sustained. I am not here to now discuss refined distinctions between different degrees of culpability.

Mr. PERKINS. But the law should be based upon a proper theory of criminality. You would not inflict upon a man who offers a small bribe the same punishment as you would upon a man who offers a large one.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I repeat, Mr. Chairman, I am not here to explain different degrees of culpability. I am here to reenact the present law as it stands, as it was enacted by Congress, and as it has been upon the statute books a great number of years. But I may say that the distinction between grand and petit larceny which exists in nearly all codes is based upon just this distinction.

Now referring to disqualification to hold office, it seems to be the policy of the Government to visit disqualification to hold office only as a punishment for malfeasance in office. Therefore sections containing such provisions are confined I think wholly in the Federal statutes to the betrayal of a public duty. There was an exception in the case of section 19. The gentleman from Missouri and the gentleman from New York will remember that section 19 provided for conspiracy to deprive a man of his rights guaranteed by the Constitution and laws. There was in that section a disqualification to hold office, and because it did not come under that general classification and because it was an exception to the general principles of lawmaking as here referred to, the committee accepted an amendment and permitted that clause to be stricken out. Future sections will be found in which officeholders and persons in position of trust and responsibility accepting a bribe are visited with this disqualification. This is existing law. I hope that this amendment will be voted down.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

Mr. COCKRAN. My resolution was offered as an amendment to the amendment of the gentleman from Missouri, but I am perfectly willing, with the consent of the committee, to withdraw it and offer it again. I withdraw it for the present, and will renew my motion after the vote is taken on the amendment of the gentleman from Missouri.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York will be withdrawn.

Mr. COCKRAN. Temporarily.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment of the gentleman from Missouri.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by striking out of section 41 all of said section between the word "than," in the 10th line, and the word "and," in the 13th line, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "ten thousand dollars."

The question was taken, and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. Division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 32, noes 43.

So the amendment was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York.

The Clerk read as follows:

Insert after "years," line 13, "and shall be disqualified thereafter from holding any office of honor or profit under the Government of the United States."

The question was taken, and the Chairman announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. COCKRAN. I ask for a division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 51, noes 64.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, I ask for a vote by tellers.

Tellers were ordered.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] will take their places as tellers.

The committee again divided, and tellers reported—ayes 71, noes 75.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment to section 41.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania offers an amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Insert after the word "tendered," in section 41, line 13, the following: "the value or amount thereof to be ascertained and certified by the jury as part of its verdict."

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that if it is wise to adopt and preserve a rule for the strict construction of criminal statutes upon the part of those who administer the law, it is doubly important that we who frame those laws should be guided by the utmost caution and rigid rules in their enactment.

The section to which my amendment relates attempts to provide two classes of penalties, one in the nature of a fine and the other in the nature of imprisonment. In the matter of imprisonment the verdict of guilty is sufficient warrant for the judge to sentence. In the matter of the fine, however, the penalty provided is three times the value of the thing given or received.

Suppose the article given or received is not cash, and of uncertain value, by what process does the judge fix the amount of the fine?

If the value of the article is laid in the indictment as one amount, which is the value fixed by the prosecutor, and this value in the minds of the jury be wholly different, while that of the judge still differs from both the prosecutor and the jury, who finally fixes the amount? Is it a question of law or a question of fact? Clearly not one of law, and therefore not for the court. Necessarily, it being a question of fact, it should be for the jury, and for that reason the jury should be given specific authority to ascertain it and certify it as part of its verdict. Otherwise the guilty will escape for want of adequate legislation, and to provide against such deficiency I believe this amendment should prevail.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania: Mr. Chairman, I feel constrained to oppose that amendment. It is a change of existing law, and I confess that I am not able, under the circumstances of discussing this bill upon the floor of the House, to measure the full extent to which it might change the law. This law has stood for a number of years, and no weakness of the kind suggested by my colleague has ever yet been developed, as far as I know. In a trial of a case for bribery the essential feature of that trial is, Did or did not the man receive a bribe? Is he guilty under the law? Now, in the question of an inquiry by a jury trying the question of guilt or innocence the additional inquiry by the same jury as to the amount of the bribe might, under the rules of evidence, not be competent, and in the infliction of punishment after a conviction the court has always the fullest opportunity of making an independent investigation to ascertain the amount of the bribe. Therefore, as it changes existing law, I am opposed to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BURKE].

The question being taken, the amendment of Mr. BURKE was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 42. Whoever shall take and carry away, without authority from the United States, from the place where it has been filed, lodged, or deposited, or where it may for the time being actually be kept by authority of the United States, any certificate, affidavit, deposition, written statement of facts, power of attorney, receipt, voucher, assignment, or other document, record, file, or paper prepared, fitted, or intended to be used or presented in order to procure the payment of money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, whether the same has or has not already been so used or presented, and whether such claim, account, or demand, or any part thereof, has or has not already been allowed or paid; or whoever shall present, use, or attempt to use, any such document, record, file, or paper so taken and carried away, in order to procure the payment of any money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. I wish to offer an amendment to section 42. I move to amend by inserting the word "fraudulently" in line 21, between the word "to" and the word "procure," and to insert the same word in line 5 on page 24, between "to" and the word "procure."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Section 42, page 24, line 21, between the words "to" and "procure," insert the word "fraudulently." On page 25, line 5, after the second word, insert the word "fraudulently."

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, I do not desire to take the time of the committee, except to say that under this law as now written a man might in good faith take documents belonging to the Government and yet violate this section of the statute. It seems to me that the question of fraudulent intent ought to exist before any man is convicted of crime. I ask simply to insert the word "fraudulently," so that it will read:

To fraudulently procure payment of money from or by the United States.

Otherwise it does not seem to me that a man ought to be convicted if he was acting in perfect good faith.

Mr. PARSONS. Why should he be allowed to take papers belonging to the Government? The committee ask that the amendment be voted down.

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. Some officer of the Government that has charge of papers might take them, not having the right to do it, but thinking he had the right to do it, and act in perfectly good faith, and in that case ought not to be guilty of a crime. If there was no intention to defraud in taking the papers, I insist that he ought not to be found guilty of a crime.

Mr. GARRETT. Do not the words "without the authority of the United States" cover your objection?

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. No; a man might take them without authority and still might do it in good faith. He might think he had authority to do it, and he might be mistaken.

Mr. GARRETT. Would not the gentleman's proposition make it much more difficult to punish an officer for stealing papers?

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. I think he ought not to be convicted unless he takes them with the intent of defrauding—unless he intends to do some wrong. If he takes the papers in good faith without intending to reap any benefit from them, without intending to get any money from the Government wrongfully, it seems to me he ought not to be convicted.

Mr. GARRETT. Did the gentleman ever have any experience as the custodian of court papers?

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. No; I never had any experience as the custodian of court papers. I do not see what harm it can do if the officer takes them in good faith. If he simply makes an honest mistake, he ought not to be convicted of a crime. If he does it fraudulently, then he ought to be convicted.

Mr. GARRETT. If the gentleman from Missouri will pardon me, it is always difficult to prove the doing of an act fraudulently. The man might plead that he took the papers in complete forgetfulness, and it could not be proved that it was done with a fraudulent intent.

Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri. Our State statutes are full of things of that sort. The man who forges a note or other evidence of debt without intending to defraud anybody could not be convicted in our State courts. He must intend a wrong to somebody. Now I submit that under this section of the law a man might in good faith be the custodian of a paper and take it wrongfully under the law and not intend any wrong. If he did not intend any wrong, I do not think he ought to be convicted. It will improve the section to insert the word "fraudulently."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri) there were—ayes 34, noes 53.

So the amendment was lost.

The Clerk, proceeding with the reading of the bill, read as follows:

SEC. 43. No officer or agent of any corporation, joint stock company, or association, and no member or agent of any firm or person directly or indirectly interested in the pecuniary profits or contracts of such corporation, joint stock company, association, or firm shall be employed or shall act as an officer or agent of the United States for the transaction of business with such corporation, joint stock company, association, or firm. Whoever shall violate the provision of this section shall be fined not more than $2,000 and imprisoned not more than two years.

Mr. BRODHEAD. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 18 of section 43, after the word "firm," insert "and no director or attorney or counsel of any company or corporation engaged in interstate commerce shall be eligible to the office of Representative in the Congress of the United States while acting as such attorney or counsel or director."

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, I make the point of order against that that it is not germane.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will hear the gentleman from New York on his point of order.

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, the amendment as I understood it related to the qualifications of Members of Congress. This section does not relate to the election of Members of Congress in any way whatever, but simply to the matter of who shall transact the business with the Government. The object of the amendment is to introduce into this section some legislation on a matter to which the section does not in any way relate.

Mr. PAYNE. Is not the amendment really an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, as that describes the qualifications and leaves each House the judge of the qualifications of its own Members?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, the first line of section 43 reads thus:

No officer or agent of any banking or other commercial corporation, etc.

You will note the words "or other commercial corporation." Will anybody for an instant contend that an interstate railroad is not a "commercial corporation?" Why of course it is. The amendment is entirely germane and only elaborates the law and it ought to be a law.

I remember in the history of my own time here in Congress of a distinguished lawmaker, a Member of the other body of Congress, an attorney for a noted interstate commercial corporation which was being attacked at the time, as I remember the facts, before the United States courts for some wrong done—possibly a restraint of the interstate trade—and he was the chief counsel and the counsel of record. Mr. Chairman, of course, I am not now discussing the parliamentary proposition, but while I have the floor I want to say this, that under our interstate antipass law Members of Congress are not allowed, as Members, to use free passes in interstate travel, but if they are Members of Congress and also "railroad lawyers," they can and do use free interstate passes, I am told. At all events the newspapers state that as a fact. I think the matter has come to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If a man is a member of Congress, Mr. Chairman, he ought to be a disinterested lawmaker, and how can he be a disinterested lawmaker, whether he is a Democrat or a Republican, if he is the retained counsel of any interstate commercial corporation, and particularly one that receives its franchises, its land grants, its privileges, its legal existence, under and by virtue of the Federal Government? I introduced a bill a few days ago to prohibit this. Are we not here every day, or certainly every session, dealing with franchises that the Federal Government grants to interstate concerns—telegraphs, telephones, railroads, and steamboats? And I say, Mr. Chairman, that in justice to the high office that a Member fills, in justice to the public service, he should be entirely disinterested—disconnected from his client. Why, in the old days, as I recollect it—and if I am wrong somebody will correct me—a director or stockholder in a national bank was not allowed to be a Member of Congress. Suppose, now, that was the law now. How many Members of Congress would be driven out of Congress? How many would be eligible for reelection? I do not mean to say that because a man is a banker and a Member of Congress at the same time he is dishonest—not by a long shot; but I do say that when he is a banker and has to deal with a great banking question, such as we have to-day confronting us, he himself should not be a stockholder in a national bank and a member of the Banking and Currency Committee. John Quincy Adams sold his bank stock before he would take the oath as a Member of this House. It has been stated, Mr. Chairman, in a magazine in the last few weeks, which I read myself, that a leading lawmaker in the other end of the Capitol, a member of a committee, held a million dollars of stock in the "tobacco trust"——

Mr. NORRIS. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Certainly.

Mr. NORRIS. Did I understand the gentleman to say that a man who was a director in a national bank could not be a Member of Congress?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. No; I said away back yonder, before either of us was born, way back before the civil war——

Mr. NORRIS. I understood the gentleman said that a man who was a director in a national bank was disqualified.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. No; I was simply saying that years ago my recollection is that a stockholder in a bank was not allowed to be a Member of Congress.

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Yes.

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. Does the gentleman think that the same rule ought to apply to one who is interested in a tobacco plantation or a tobacco manufacturing concern?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I know that my good friend may be hitting at me personally, but when I was a farmer I raised everything on the farm but tobacco.

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. Then it does not hit the gentleman.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. And I want to say, furthermore, that if the tobacco bill which passed the House had been referred to me as a committeeman and I had stock in the tobacco trust, as was the case with some in the other end of the Capitol, this magazine article states, I would have gotten off the committee.

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. But that is not an answer to the question.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. And I say that common decency should have prompted those at the other end of the Capitol, some of whom have died and gone to their reward, to do so; but they sat there hearing our tobacco bill with tobacco trust bonds or stock in their pockets and to their credit—— [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. That does not answer the question.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. And the inventory of the estate of one of this committee showed that when it was brought to light in the courts of the country, and that is one of the reasons why we were not able to get that bill through the Senate. I have no investments whatever in tobacco in any shape, and never had.

Mr. PAYNE. As I understand it, the question is on the point of order. I hope we will have a ruling.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chairman will rule that the amendment of the gentleman is an added limitation to the limitations stated in section 43, and is germane.

Mr. SHERLEY. Mr. Chairman, I desire to speak, then, in opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. As I heard it read from the Clerk's desk, it undertakes to disqualify as a Member of Congress any officer or attorney of a corporation engaged in interstate commerce. Any attempt to add any qualification or disqualification other than those contained in the Constitution in regard to a Member of Congress, and undertaking to take from the House itself the right to judge of its membership, in my mind, would be unconstitutional. I do not believe we ought to exclude any class of people from being Members. Of course, I am in hearty accord with the suggestions made by the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES] that no Member ought to vote upon matters in which he is personally interested, but if we exclude from membership all men who may be interested in matters that may sometimes come before Congress, we will not have any Members left in Congress.

[Cries of "Vote!"]

Mr. BRODHEAD and Mr. GAINES of Tennessee rose.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BRODHEAD].

Mr. BRODHEAD. Mr. Chairman, I regret very much that this amendment, which I have just offered, has not been sufficiently studied by me. It was a sudden impulse, perhaps an inspiration, that came to me when I listened to the eloquent remarks of the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] and those of the other gentleman who so well portrayed the evils of bribery.

It seems to me that one of the chief objections to bribery is that a man thereby is unduly influenced. A man might be bribed to do right. And it also might be that a man could be unconsciously bribed by his own interests. And when I recall the fact that no juror is permitted to sit in the jury box in Pennsylvania where a corporation is a defendant or a plaintiff wherein that juror has an interest as a stockholder or a director, and when I recall also the fact that there is no judge in all the State of Pennsylvania who will sit and listen to a case in which a corporation of which he is a stockholder is a party, it occurs to me that neither should we sit here and pass upon laws pertaining to corporations engaged in interstate commerce in which we might be personally interested as an officer or attorney. I do not say interested merely as a stockholder, but as a director or as an attorney—necessarily, therefore, a paid attorney. It seemed to me that a man placed in that position might be unconsciously influenced in his own behalf or in behalf of such corporation and not act openly, freely, and fearlessly in the interests of the whole people. This idea has suddenly occurred to me, and I am not prepared to discuss it in the manner in which I think it should be discussed. My intention and purpose must be very clear. It seemed to me to be following out the spirit of this section 43, which is to restrain an officer or an agent of a corporation from being an officer or agent of the United States at the same time and transacting business with that corporation. Carrying that same spirit a little further was the object I had in offering this amendment, so that no Member of Congress could be a Member and at the same time a director of a corporation doing interstate commerce.

Mr. SHERLEY. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. BRODHEAD. Without showing any discourtesy to the gentleman from Kentucky I must decline to yield at this time. [Laughter.] I am not prepared at present to defend the constitutionality of this amendment, but I am prepared to defend the honesty of its purpose. [Applause.]

Mr. MACON. Mr. Chairman, I am heartily in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BRODHEAD], and I think if it is adopted it will give the people a better chance when their affairs and the affairs of the great corporations of the country are pitted against each other in this House. During the short period of time that I have had the honor of being a Member of the House I am free to say that I have had suspicions that caused me to believe that Members who were attorneys for railroads were influenced more or less, either consciously or unconsciously, in the action that they took in regard to certain measures pending before Congress. The great railroad interests of the country are powerful, and they are careful to send their attorneys to Congress at every opportunity, and we know that if they were to cast a single vote against the special interests of the railroads where their special interests seemed to clash with the interests of the people that they would lose the high salaries paid them by the railroads, and hence, rather than lose their salaries, they always act with partiality toward their masters when their interests seem to be arrayed against the interests of the people. That being the case, sir, will Members insist that attorneys while in the employ of great corporations are proper persons to vote upon measures pending before this body where the people's interests are arrayed upon one side and the corporation interests upon the other?

If it is our desire to see Representatives upon this floor who represent the people, Representatives who are not biased in favor of or controlled by the great corporations of the country, we ought to be willing to let this provision go into this bill at this time. To meet the observation of the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. SHERLEY] and of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE], who insist that Congress is the sole judge of the qualifications of its Members, and hence the amendment would be unconstitutional if we were to adopt it, I want to ask, in the name of common sense, how Congress can more fittingly prescribe the qualifications of its membership than by enacting a law saying who shall be qualified and who not? Oh, you may say that the next Congress will be the judge of the qualifications of its membership under the Constitution. Then, that being the case, and the next Congress wants railroad attorneys to sit here as Members of Congress, let them repeal this provision and they can say so; but unless we want them to sit as Members we ought to incorporate this amendment into the law of the country, and not give our sanction to the practice of permitting railroad attorneys to act upon questions where the interests of the people are on one side and the interests of the railroad corporation are on the other. [Applause.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

The question was taken, and the Chairman announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. BRODHEAD. Division!

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 37, noes 67.

So the amendment was lost.

Mr. BRODHEAD. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment. I desire to change the phraseology of the amendment in one way different from that already offered, and which is much better.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by inserting the following after the word "firm," in line 18, section 43: "And no Member of Congress shall during his term of office be an officer, director, or attorney of any company or corporation engaged in interstate commerce."

Mr. PAYNE. I make the point of order against the amendment that it is not germane. Here is a section that is simply prescribing a degree of crime for the violation of a section providing that he shall not be a director and agent of the Government. Now it can not be germane to say that a Member of Congress shall not do so. It can not be germane.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is prepared to rule on the point of order made by the gentleman from New York.

Mr. DE ARMOND. If the Chair is prepared to overrule it, I would like to be heard.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is prepared to rule.

Mr. DE ARMOND. If the Chair is prepared to overrule it, I would like to be heard.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will hear the gentleman from Missouri briefly.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, we all understand very well, of course——

Mr. PAYNE. If I can, I will withdraw the point of order.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Better not.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is prepared to rule on the point of order, and will sustain the point of order on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania, because the question of the qualification of Members of Congress is not germane.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I thought I was to have a little opportunity to be heard.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair has already ruled on the point of order.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Well, now, Mr. Chairman, inasmuch as the Chairman recognized me and took me off my feet, I would like to say a few words, anyhow.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman may ask unanimous consent.

Mr. DE ARMOND. No, sir; I was on my feet.

The CHAIRMAN. Then the gentleman may take an appeal.

Mr. DE ARMOND. I was on my feet and was recognized by the Chair and recognized on the point of order. Now, I want to know why the Chair took me off my feet.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair said he would hear the gentleman very briefly, and then the gentleman who offered the point of order asked to withdraw it. The Chair was prepared to rule.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Yes; but the point I am on is this——

Mr. DALZELL. Regular order!

Mr. DE ARMOND. This is the regular order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman is out of order.

Mr. DE ARMOND. What I desire to say is this: I was upon my feet addressing the Chair upon the point of order and was recognized by the Chair for that purpose. He said he would hear the gentleman from Missouri; then he took me off my feet.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair stated he would hear the gentleman very briefly, and heard him briefly, and has been prepared to rule and has ruled; but the Chair will hear the gentleman.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Very well. This is very largely a matter of vindication of parliamentary rights. I will not address myself to the point of order with the hope of the chairman changing his mind, for we all know how tenacious we are of our own opinions and judgment after we have announced the opinion and pronounced the judgment; nevertheless I submit that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania is not a proposition to add to or change the qualifications of a Member of Congress, but goes solely to his conduct while he is a Member of Congress.

Perhaps the chairman may not appreciate the particular distinction, but it is very clear in my mind. There are certain things, of course, which Congress can prohibit with reference to Members of Congress as well as with reference to other people. The question as to the qualifications of Members of Congress goes to their admission after they have been elected. Questions that go to the conduct of a Member of Congress, while acting as such, have nothing whatever to do with the constitutional requirements to make him eligible for election to Congress.

Now, the proposition submitted by the gentleman from Pennsylvania is this, that a Member of Congress, in the judgment of Congress, if this amendment were adopted, would so far depart from his duties as a Member of Congress, if he were also to serve a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, as that his dereliction ought to be denounced and punished under this section. If that has anything to do with the question of how old a man shall be, how long he shall have resided in this country, or anything else that goes to constitutional qualification, I confess my inability to see it. I do not know whether the Chairman would care to consider the matter, but if he does I should like to direct his attention plainly to this point, that there is not a thing in the amendment that goes to the question of qualification for membership here; that it goes solely to the conduct of the qualified person after he is a Member here.

Now, if it is competent for Congress to legislate upon the subject of what a man may do or what he may not do here, then it is competent to legislate in regard to this matter. If it is competent for Congress to provide that one who is here as a Member and who also has the relationship of employment, or close identification in some other way, with a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, shall be prohibited from voting upon a proposition involving the very company with which he is connected and his own interests, it is also competent for Congress, by legislation, to provide that he shall not have that connection at all while he is here. He is not compelled to come to Congress; but under this provision, if adopted, he would be compelled to choose between the antagonistic corporation employment and the public duty of a Congressman. It may be that that goes to the qualifications of a Member, and it may be that it does not. I think it does not.

Mr. FINLEY. The gentleman is well aware, I am sure, that Congress has enacted a law making it a crime for a Member of Congress to practice before the Departments.

Mr. DE ARMOND. I think the suggestion made by my friend from South Carolina is very pertinent. There is nothing in the constitutional provision in regard to the qualification of a Member that in any way touches upon the question whether he may practice before one of the Departments, and yet we know that quite lately a Member of the body at the other end of this Capitol resigned after indictment and conviction for violating a Federal statute against such employment and service after he became and while he was a Member of Congress. Talk about that being a question of eligibility or constitutional qualification! Notwithstanding the ruling which the Chairman made, I think improvidently and without properly considering the merits of this case, I do not wonder at the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] showing a readiness to withdraw the point of order, which has absolutely nothing in it. [Cries of "Vote!" "Vote!"] I have no doubt a vote would be a very good thing, but a correct decision of this subject would be a better thing. [Applause.]

The CHAIRMAN. Section 43 does not refer to Members of Congress at all, but refers to officers and agents of corporations. The former ruling of the Chair will be adhered to.

Mr. BRODHEAD. I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania appeals from the decision of the Chair. The question is, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the committee?

The question being taken, on a division (demanded by Mr. BRODHEAD) there were—ayes 73, noes 59.

Mr. BRODHEAD. I call for tellers.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chairman appointed Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania and Mr. BRODHEAD.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported—ayes 79, noes 62.

Accordingly, the decision of the Chair was sustained.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 45. Whoever shall procure or entice any artificer or workman retained or employed in any arsenal or armory to depart from the same during the continuance of his engagement, or to avoid or break his contract with the United States, or whoever, after due notice of the engagement of such workman or artificer, during the continuance of such engagement, shall retain, hire, or in anywise employ, harbor, or conceal such artificer or workman, shall be fined not more than $50, or imprisoned not more than three months, or both.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I want to call the attention of the committee to the fact that this section provides that—

Whoever shall procure or entice any artificer or workman retained or employed in any arsenal or armory, to depart from the same during the continuance of his engagement, or to avoid or break his contract with the United States; or whoever, after due notice of the engagement of such workman or artificer, during the continuance of such engagement, shall retain, hire, or in any wise employ, harbor, or conceal such artificer or workman, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than three months, or both.

I call the attention of the House to that statute for this reason: The Attorney-General of the United States has recently, I understand, indorsed a report of a special agent which declared that a statute of the State of Mississippi precisely on all fours with this, except that it applies to men who have made a contract for a year to work a cotton crop and to those who shall persuade or entice them to depart from the same during the continuance of the contract or shall "hire or employ" them during the continuance of the contract, is in effect peonage. That statute has been denounced as a statute authorizing peonage.

Here is a statute of the United States applicable to workmen—not soldiers, not sailors, but workmen engaged in an industrial pursuit, and it prescribes punishment for precisely the same defined offense as does this Mississippi statute. I want the country to know that if the Mississippi statute of employment be peonage, the United States statute for the workingmen employed by the United States in arsenals and armories is also peonage. [Applause.]

Mr. WEBB. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Insert after "armory," in line 2, "while war exists between the United States and another power."

Mr. WEBB. Mr. Chairman, that amendment will relieve the section of an objectionable feature somewhat, and relieve it from being construed strictly as a peonage section. But as the section stands it is one of the peculiarities that we find in the Federal law. It certainly smacks of peonage, which certain parties seem anxious to destroy in the South. Lawyers will notice that an accessory is denounced by this section, while the man who breaks the contract—that is, the principal—is guilty of nothing. In other words, the principal, the person who breaks the contract, is guilty of no offense, but the man who persuades him to quit work and break his contract is guilty of a misdemeanor. There is nowhere in our statutes any law against a man who quits work in an armory as an artificer or workman, whether he quits voluntarily or upon enticement, but it is a crime under this section to induce him to leave. There ought not to be such an incongruity in our statutes. It was passed in 1800. You might as well imprison one who induces robbery and let the robber go free. You ought either to adopt this amendment to make it a crime for the artificer to quit during war, or repeal the whole section. It is a dangerous section as it stands, and therefore I have offered the amendment, which provides that if the inducement occurs while war exists, he shall then and there only be guilty of a misdemeanor, and I do not see why the amendment should not be adopted. The whole section should be stricken out, but the adoption of my amendment will pull its worst fangs.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from North Carolina.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. WEBB) there were—ayes 39, noes 62.

So the amendment was lost.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the committee rose, and Mr. DALZELL having resumed the chair as Speaker pro tempore, Mr. BANNON, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that committee had had under consideration the bill (H. R. 11701) to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States, and had come to no resolution thereon.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. BUTLER of Pennsylvania, by unanimous consent, was given leave of absence indefinitely, on account of illness in his family.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

Mr. BONYNGE, by unanimous consent, was given leave to withdraw papers filed in support of H. R. 233, Fifty-ninth Congress, no adverse report having been made thereon.

JOINT RESOLUTION PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT FOR HIS APPROVAL.

Mr. WILSON of Illinois, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that this day they had presented to the President of the United States, for his approval, the following joint resolution:

H. J. Res. 80. Joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to receive for instruction at the Military Academy at West Point Mr. Hernan Ulloa, of Costa Rica.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 88.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of House joint resolution 88.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, without knowing what the resolution is, it is now after 5 o'clock, and for that reason I object.

Mr. SCOTT. I withdraw the request.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; accordingly (at 5 o'clock and 1 minute p. m.) the House adjourned.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, the following executive communications were taken from the Speaker's table and referred as follows:

A letter from the Acting Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of Sabine River, Texas and Louisiana—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Secretary of War submitting an estimate of appropriation for clothing and camp and garrison equipage for the Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination and survey of shoal off Stuyvesant Harbor, Hudson River, New York—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed with illustrations.

A letter from the Clerk of the House of Representatives, transmitting a list of reports to be made to Congress by public officers during the Sixtieth Congress—to the Committee on Rules and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of Agriculture, transmitting a statement of promotions, appointments, and other changes made in salaries paid from lump sums in the Department of Agriculture for the calendar year 1907—to the Committee on Expenditures of the Department of Agriculture.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of War, transmitting reports relating to the claim of D. E. Gilchrist, of Portsmouth, N. H., on account of damages to the steamer Queen City—to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings filed by the court in the case of Joseph H. Bean, administrator of estate of Joseph Bean, against The United States—to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings filed by the court in the case of Mrs. Nannie Cogswell, Oscar W. Cogswell, John K. Cogswell, and Emma Cogswell, heirs of estate of O. H. Cogswell, against The United States—to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of the Ohio River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed, with illustrations.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXII, committees were discharged from the consideration of bills of the following titles, which were thereupon referred as follows:

A bill (H. R. 8760) granting an increase of pension to Emily W. Tilley—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 12976) to correct the record of discharge of Capt. Amos Dahuff—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (H. R. 12977) to correct the military record of Paris R. Winslow—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (H. R. 12978) granting an increase of pension to Shadrack Hudson—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 12865) granting an increase of pension to Mary B. Rice—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

PUBLIC BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND MEMORIALS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills, resolutions, and memorials of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. STEENERSON: A bill (H. R. 13428) to provide for increasing the limit of cost of the public building authorized to be erected at Crookston, Minn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. GREGG: A bill (H. R. 13429) to provide for remodeling and enlarging the post-office and custom-house and appraisers' stores building and the erection of a new building for the custom officials at Galveston, Tex.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. CRUMPACKER: A bill (H. R. 13430) to authorize the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the city of Hammond, Ind.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 13431) to appropriate certain money for improvement of harbor at Savannah, Ga., and the Savannah River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. CLARK of Florida: A bill (H. R. 13432) to provide for the erection of a subtreasury building and the establishment of a subtreasury at Jacksonville, in the State of Florida—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13433) for a survey of the Suwanee River, in the State of Florida—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. FULTON: A bill (H. R. 13434) for the erection of a public building at Anadarko, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13435) for the erection of a public building in Alva, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13436) for the erection of a public building at El Reno, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13437) for the erection of a public building at Oklahoma City, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13438) for the erection of a public building at Woodward, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 13439) to provide for the construction of a military road at the United States cemetery at Fort Gibson, Okla.—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ADAIR: A bill (H. R. 13440) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection thereon of a public building at Alexandria, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13441) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Winchester, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13442) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Decatur, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13443) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Elwood, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13444) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Bluffton, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13445) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Portland, in the State of Indiana—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. PORTER: A bill (H. R. 13446) for the erection of a public building at North Tonawanda, Niagara County, N. Y.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. RICHARDSON (by request): A bill (H. R. 13447) to amend section 549 of the postal laws of the United States, paragraph 3—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. ACHESON: A bill (H. R. 13448) to authorize the counties of Allegheny and Washington, in the State of Pennsylvania, to change the site of the joint county bridge which now crosses the Monongahela River at Monongahela City, Pa., and to construct a new bridge across said river in the place of said present bridge upon a new site—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. LEAKE: A bill (H. R. 13449) to bridge the Newark Bay—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13450) to establish a light and fog signal in New York Bay at the entrance to the dredged channel at Greenville, N. J.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. SABATH: A bill (H. R. 13451) to provide a tax upon all dowries, gifts, settlements, or advances of property made in consideration of or in contemplation of marriage by citizens or subjects of the United States of America to persons other than citizens or subjects of the United States of America—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. JONES of Washington: A bill (H. R. 13452) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Navy to construct and equip subsurface or submarine torpedo boats to be stationed in the waters of Puget Sound, State of Washington, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. BOWERS: A bill (H. R. 13453) to distribute the surplus in the Treasury of the United States to the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia for the sole purpose of improving the roads therein—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13454) to appropriate $500,000 for the prosecution and extension of the work of the Bureau of Soil Surveys in the Department of Agriculture—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. ROBINSON: A bill (H. R. 13455) to authorize and provide for the investigation and survey of swamp, wet, and overflowed land, and to devise plans and systems of drainage therefor—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. HAYES: A bill (H. R. 13456) to amend section 3255 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. ELLERBE: A bill (H. R. 13457) to provide for the erection of a monument to Brig. Gen. Francis Marion—to the Committee on the Library.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13458) for the erection of a public building at Darlington, S. C.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. GRAHAM: A bill (H. R. 13459) to provide for the erection of a public building at Sewickley, Pa.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. MANN: A bill (H. R. 13460) supplemental to the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. LEE: A bill (H. R. 13461) appropriating $20,000 to construct a Government road from Chickamauga National Park to the Government rifle range, in Catoosa County, Ga.—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. WEEMS: A bill (H. R. 13462) for the erection of a Federal building for the United States at Steubenville, Ohio—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. RYAN: A bill (H. R. 13463) amending section 4463 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13464) granting a service pension to all officers and enlisted men of the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, both Regular and Volunteer, who have been awarded medals of honor or who may hereafter be awarded such medals, under acts of Congress approved December 21, 1861, and so forth—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KALANIANAOLE: A bill (H. R. 13465) to amend the laws concerning transportation between ports of the Territory of Hawaii and other ports of the United States—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. MUDD: A bill (H. R. 13466) authorizing the President of the United States to purchase the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal—to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

By Mr. BENNET of New York: A bill (H. R. 13467) constituting a commission to investigate diplomatic and consular affairs—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

By Messrs. DALZELL, BURKE, BARCHFELD, and GRAHAM: A bill (H. R. 13468) providing for the erection of a post-office building at Pittsburg, Pa.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. ALLEN: A bill (H. R. 13469) for the purchase or construction of a vessel or launch for the customs service at and in the vicinity of Portland, Me.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. CRAWFORD: A bill (H. R. 13470) authorizing a public building at Hendersonville, N. C.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. LAMAR of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13471) prohibiting work in the District of Columbia on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. SMALL: A bill (H. R. 13472) to increase the limit of cost for the acquisition of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Washington, N. C.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. GLASS: A bill (H. R. 13473) to amend section 3 of the public building act of June 30, 1906, so as to increase the cost of enlarging the public building at Roanoke, Va., to $100,000—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. SMITH of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 13474) to amend the act of February 6, 1907, granting pensions to certain enlisted men, and officers, who served in the civil war or the war with Mexico—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LANGLEY: A bill (H. R. 13475) to establish a United States court at Jackson, in the eastern district of Kentucky—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13476) for the relief of the State of Pennsylvania—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ALEXANDER of New York (by request): A bill (H. R. 13477) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroads by compelling common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes, and for other purposes,' approved March 2, 1893, and amended April 1, 1896, approved March 2, 1903"—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. GREENE: Resolution (H. Res. 140) authorizing the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries to print—to the Committee on Printing.

By Mr. ANDREWS: Resolution (H. Res. 141) for the additional payment of the two messengers in the office of the disbursing clerk of the House—to the Committee on Accounts.

By Mr. HASKINS: Resolution (H. Res. 142) authorizing the appointment of a stenographer to the Committee on War Claims—to the Committee on Accounts.

By Mr. WILSON of Illinois: Resolution (H. Res. 143) for the appointment of an assistant clerk to the Committee on Enrolled Bills—to the Committee on Accounts.

Also, resolution (H. Res. 144) for the appointment of a janitor to the Committee on Enrolled Bills—to the Committee on Accounts.

By Mr. HOBSON: Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 98) to provide a consecutive naval programme—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ACHESON: A bill (H. R. 13478) granting an increase of pension to John W. Buchanan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ALEXANDER of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13479) granting an increase of pension to John Q. Hickman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANDREWS: A bill (H. R. 13480) granting a pension to Harris B. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13481) granting an increase of pension to H. A. Van Epps—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BONYNGE: A bill (H. R. 13482) granting a pension to Amos Jentry—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13483) granting a pension to H. C. Doll—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13484) granting a pension to Sebald V. Schlessinger—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. BRADLEY: A bill (H. R. 13485) granting an increase of pension to Samuel M. Henderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CALE: A bill (H. R. 13486) for the relief of Albert R. Heilig—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. CALDWELL: A bill (H. R. 13487) granting an increase of pension to Calvin M. Partlow—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13488) granting an increase of pension to James P. Hill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13489) granting an increase of pension to Valentine B. Hummel—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13490) granting an increase of pension to Michael Walsh—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13491) granting an increase of pension to Abraham Pevyhouse—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13492) removing charge of desertion against John Young—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13493) removing charge of desertion against John R. Butler—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CALDER: A bill (H. R. 13494) granting a pension to Sidney Raphael—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: A bill (H. R. 13495) for the relief of William T. Grady—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CANDLER: A bill (H. R. 13496) granting a pension to Mattie B. Romsey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CANNON: A bill (H. R. 13497) granting an increase of pension to James Cheffer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CHANEY: A bill (H. R. 13498) granting a pension to Letitia Byrum—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13499) granting an increase of pension to Isaiah L. Crouch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13500) granting an increase of pension to Josiah Moyer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13501) granting an increase of pension to Charles M. Anderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13502) granting an increase of pension to William A. Mathes—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13503) granting an increase of pension to William W. Templeton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13504) granting an increase of pension to Andrew J. White—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CRUMPACKER: A bill (H. R. 13505) granting an increase of pension to N. A. Chamberlain—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13506) granting an increase of pension to Charles C. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13507) granting an increase of pension to Asher Diltz—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13508) granting an increase of pension to James S. Wigmore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13509) granting an increase of pension to Clarence D. Hess—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13510) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Davidson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13511) granting an increase of pension to John Spies—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13512) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Connelly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13513) granting an increase of pension to John G. Heckman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13514) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of John J. McNaughton—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13515) granting a pension to Oliver M. Reid—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13516) granting a pension to Laura Newman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CUSHMAN: A bill (H. R. 13517) granting an increase of pension to William Ogan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13518) granting an increase of pension to Charles D. Spencer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13519) for the relief of David P. Robinson and Thomas H. Robinson—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13520) for the relief of George Drake and Lillie Nelson—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. DARRAGH: A bill (H. R. 13521) granting an increase of pension to Edwin D. Childs—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 13522) granting a pension to Simon McKenzie—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13523) granting an increase of pension to Charles E. Livingston—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DRAPER: A bill (H. R. 13524) granting a pension to Catharine Shoveland—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13525) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. McDowell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky: A bill (H. R. 13526) granting an increase of pension to Tarandocty Owens—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13527) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Baker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13528) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Farmer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13529) granting an increase of pension to Ira McCrary—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13530) granting an increase of pension to James K. Wesley—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13531) granting an increase of pension to Thomas J. Taylor—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13532) granting an increase of pension to Benjamin J. Bowman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13533) granting an increase of pension to Hiram Moore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13534) granting an increase of pension to Thomas M. Floyd—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13535) granting an increase of pension to W. R. Railey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13536) granting a pension to Granville W. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13537) granting a pension to Cobb T. Berry—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13538) granting a pension to Thomas McGee—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FAIRCHILD: A bill (H. R. 13539) granting an increase of pension to Charles Holmes—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FERRIS: A bill (H. R. 13540) to remove the charge of desertion and correct the military record of James Wilson—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. FOCHT: A bill (H. R. 13541) granting an increase of pension to William Martin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FORNES: A bill (H. R. 13542) for the relief of the estate of Ramsey Crooks—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13543) for the relief of the estate of Ramsey Crooks—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13544) granting an increase of pension to Bridget Murphy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER of Vermont: A bill (H. R. 13545) for the relief of B. Jackman—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13546) granting an increase of pension to Charles Von Steinberg—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13547) granting an increase of pension to Henry B. Allen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13548) granting an increase of pension to Sidney A. Ladd—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GAINES of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13549) granting an increase of pension to Nancy E. Robinson—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. GARRETT: A bill (H. R. 13550) granting a pension to Ebby M. J. Hay—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. GLASS: A bill (H. R. 13551) for the relief of heirs of James Jones, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13552) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of Margaret M. Donnelly, widow of Edward W. Donnelly, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. GRAFF: A bill (H. R. 13553) for the relief of the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis Railway Company of Illinois—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13554) for the relief of D. M. Sprague and William Tilton—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13555) granting an increase of pension to Joseph N. Dawson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GREENE: A bill (H. R. 13556) granting a pension to Sarah M. Chadwick—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13557) granting a pension to Jennie F. Bleffins—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13558) granting an increase of pension to Abby A. Brightman—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. HACKETT: A bill (H. R. 13559) for the relief of heirs of William Haynes Kilby, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HALE: A bill (H. R. 13560) granting an increase of pension to Rufus M. Liggett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HASKINS: A bill (H. R. 13561) for the allowance of certain claims reported by the Court of Claims under the provisions of the acts approved March 3, 1883, and March 3, 1887, and commonly known as the Bowman and the Tucker acts—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HAYES: A bill (H. R. 13562) granting a pension to Patrick Dolan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HIGGINS: A bill (H. R. 13563) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Hough—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HINSHAW: A bill (H. R. 13564) granting a pension to Dessa Clough—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By HITCHCOCK: A bill (H. R. 13565) granting an increase of pension to William G. Otis—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOBSON: A bill (H. R. 13566) for the relief of John Thompson—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HOLLIDAY: A bill (H. R. 13567) granting an increase of pension to Eli Cooprider—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOWELL of New Jersey: A bill (H. R. 13568) granting an increase of pension to William Durrua—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HULL of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13569) authorizing the Secretary of War to recognize Richard B. Herrin, deceased, as having been a member of Company C, First Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Mounted Infantry, civil war—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ADDISON D. JAMES: A bill (H. R. 13570) granting a pension to Samuel T. Wallace—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13571) granting a pension to J. W. Wiloby—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13572) granting a pension to Jane Lynne—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13573) granting an increase of pension to John Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13574) granting an increase of pension to James W. Cannon—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13575) granting an increase of pension to John W. B. Huntsman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KENNEDY of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 13576) granting an increase of pension to Jefferson Worster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KINKAID: A bill (H. R. 13577) providing for resurvey of certain public lands in the State of Nebraska—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. LAMAR of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13578) granting a pension to B. F. Dunivin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13579) granting an increase of pension to Hezekiah Williams—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13580) granting an increase of pension to Francis M. Kittrell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13581) granting an increase of pension to Moses H. Davis—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13582) granting an increase of pension to J. T. Hultt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13583) to correct the military record of V. B. Gatewood—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LAMB: A bill (H. R. 13584) granting an increase of pension to Gay Warren Schell—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LORIMER: A bill (H. R. 13585) for the relief of William P. Ryan—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LOUDENSLAGER: A bill (H. R. 13586) for the relief of William Radcliffe—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LOWDEN: A bill (H. R. 13587) granting an increase of pension to John A. Binninger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McKINLEY of Illinois: A bill (H. R. 13588) granting an increase of pension to J. S. Prose—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13589) granting an increase of pension to George M. Bence—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13590) granting an increase of pension to Margaret A. McPheeters—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13591) granting an increase of pension to George W. Drummond—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13592) granting an increase of pension to Aaron Stevens—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MARSHALL: A bill (H. R. 13593) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to permit entry by George W. Grinnell, jr., John Grinnell, Charley Grinnell, and Ellen Grinnell, heirs of George W. Grinnell, deceased, of 640 acres of land—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. MUDD: A bill (H. R. 13594) granting a pension to Andrea P. Caldwell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MURDOCK: A bill (H. R. 13595) granting a pension to Daniel Dye—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13596) granting an increase of pension to James A. Noble—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13597) granting an increase of pension to Israel Metzger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13598) granting an increase of pension to Eliel P. Goble—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13599) granting an increase of pension to Edward R. Hatchett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13600) granting an increase of pension to E. F. Henderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13601) granting an increase of pension to William T. Parrahm—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13602) granting an increase of pension to William L. Rose—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13603) granting an increase of pension to John Dunlavy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13604) granting an increase of pension to Lizzie Lena Pollock—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13605) granting an increase of pension to William Sproul—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. NORRIS: A bill (H. R. 13606) granting an honorable discharge to Augustus J. Fairbanks—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13607) to correct the military record of Aaron S. Winner—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. NYE: A bill (H. R. 13608) granting an increase of pension to Christian Bachman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13609) granting an increase of pension to Charles L. Deterly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13610) granting an increase of pension to William H. H. Kennedy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13611) granting an increase of pension to Mary J. Norton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13612) to correct the military record of John Moran—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. PADGETT: A bill (H. R. 13613) granting an increase of pension to Henry Mastilla—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13614) granting an increase of pension to W. D. Kelly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13615) granting a pension to D. B. Crews—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PAGE: A bill (H. R. 13616) for the relief of the heirs of Joseph Graham Howie—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. PAYNE: A bill (H. R. 13617) for the relief of Edward W. Clark—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13618) granting an increase of pension to Richard Welch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13619) granting a pension to Matilda Gams—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13620) granting a pension to Anna Conklin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13621) granting a pension to Francis Polmanteer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PUJO: A bill (H. R. 13622) granting a pension to Fannie L. McVey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. REID: A bill (H. R. 13623) granting a pension to William A. Pollard—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. RIORDAN: A bill (H. R. 13624) granting an increase of pension to Marzio Martini—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. ROBINSON: A bill (H. R. 13625) granting an increase of pension to Stephen Konicka—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. SHACKLEFORD: A bill (H. R. 13626) granting an increase of pension to Lewis G. Forbes—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13627) granting an increase of pension to George A. Osborn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13628) granting an increase of pension to James C. Simmons—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13629) for the relief of Samuel P. Dresser—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SHERWOOD: A bill (H. R. 13630) granting a pension to Samantha Flint—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13631) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Jackson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13632) granting an increase of pension to Wilson W. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13633) granting an increase of pension to Levi Ely—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13634) granting an increase of pension to Wesley Pontious—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SMITH of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 13635) granting an increase of pension to Wallace J. Hill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STERLING: A bill (H. R. 13636) granting an increase of pension to James W. McMillen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STURGISS: A bill (H. R. 13637) for the relief of the heirs of Lydia A. Hockensmith, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13638) for the relief of the heirs of James L. Geaslen, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. TOWNSEND: A bill (H. R. 13639) granting an increase of pension to Hannah A. Arnett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WATSON: A bill (H. R. 13640) granting an increase of pension to Frederick Loffler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WEEKS: A bill (H. R. 13641) granting an increase of pension to Martin Gibbons—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13642) granting an increase of pension to Samuel W. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13643) granting a pension to Margaret O'Brien—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WEEMS: A bill (H. R. 13644) for the relief of the Bridgeport National Bank, Bridgeport, Ohio—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. WILEY: A bill (H. R. 13645) for the relief of John S. May—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By Mr. ACHESON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Lindsay Roop—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ADAIR: Petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, for Congressional investigation into the affairs of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. ALEXANDER of Missouri: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John Q. Hickman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ASHBROOK: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Joseph Marshall—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Andrew J. Hogee—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BRUNDIDGE: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Charles W. Fowler (previously referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions)—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BURLEIGH: Petition of Wholesale Merchants' Association of Portland, Me., for a reclassification of second-class mail matter—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. CALDER: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Catherine Le Roy and Frank Burt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for Senate bill (S. 25) to promote the efficiency of the Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for H. R. 31, for a light and fog signal in New York Harbor, on Governors Island—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of William E. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CHANEY: Papers to accompany bills for relief of William W. Templeton and Isaac Crouch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. COOK of Pennsylvania: Petition of National Guard Association of Pennsylvania, against wearing uniform of Army or Navy by unauthorized persons—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DARRAGH: Petition of the Business Men's Association of Traverse City, Mich., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. DAVIS of Minnesota: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Rose Barton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAWSON: Petition of Henry Siebert Post, No. 250, Grand Army of the Republic, of Wilton Junction, Iowa, for Dawson bill to increase widows' pensions—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Frank Jones, of Maquoketa, Iowa, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. DRAPER: Petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for H. R. 31, for a light and fog signal on Governors Island—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for Senate bill (S. 25) for a more efficient life-saving service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. DUNWELL: Petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for H. R. 31, for a light and fog-signal station on Governors Island, New York Harbor, and Senate bill 25, for more efficient life-saving service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Catherine McHale—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Tarandocty Owens, Thomas M. Floyd, and Cobb T. Berry—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ESCH: Petition of Maritime Association of the Port of New York, for H. R. 31, for a light and fog signal in New York Bay, on Governors Island—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of New York Harbor, for Senate bill 25, for promotion of efficiency of Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, a petition of Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee, against House bill 10576, prohibiting speculative dealings in grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of National Association of State Universities, for national forest reserve in Appalachian and White mountains—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. FITZGERALD: Petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for Senate bill 25, to promote efficiency of Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. FOCHT: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Elizabeth Sheaffer and Martin L. Protzman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER: Petition of A. J. Moody and 15 others citizens of Ontario, Cal., for change in rules and regulations governing administration of Chinese-exclusion laws so far as those laws relate to excepted classes of Chinese—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. FULLER: Petition of F. A. Denney, of Rockford, Ill., for a parcels-post law and postal savings bank—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of National Association of State Universities, for a forest reserve in the Appalachian Mountains and White Mountains—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, petition of T. S. Terry Post, No. 463, Grand Army of the Republic, of Shabbona, Ill., for the McKinley pension bill (H. R. 4862)—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GAINES of Tennessee: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Mrs. Nancy E. Robinson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of heirs of James Marshall—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Sarah H. Morton—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. GARRETT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Ebby M. J. Hay—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. GOULDEN: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Ann E. Pape—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Petition of National Guard Association of Pennsylvania, against wearing United States Army and Navy uniforms by unauthorized persons—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Pharmaceutical Association of Bedford Springs, Pa., for amendment of Sherman law, so that reasonable trade agreements and associative efforts may be recognized and protected—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. GREENE: Petition of Navigation Conference, for a national harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. HACKETT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of estate of W. Haynes Kilby—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HAGGOTT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Pete Jalovac (previously referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions)—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. HASKINS: Petition of retail dealers of Springfield, Vt., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. HAWLEY: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Col. James Jackson—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of James Walker (previously referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions)—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HAYES: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Patrick Dolan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HINSHAW: Petition of Nebraska State Railway Commission, to amend interstate-commerce act so as to give broader powers to the Interstate Commerce Commission—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Dessa Clough—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOBSON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John Thompson—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HOWELL of New Jersey: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Combs Hendrickson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HULL of Iowa: Petition of Commercial Club of Des Moines, Iowa, for amendment to interstate rate law to prevent change in rates without supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John W. B. Huntsman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of John C. Johnson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of James W. Cannon—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Green River Battalion of Kentucky Capital Guards—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. KELIHER: Petition of National Guard Association, in favor of legislation providing for extra officers in the Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LAMB: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Mrs. Gay Warren Schell—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. McCALL: Petition of Society of Arts of the Institute of Technology of Boston, favoring forest-reserve bill—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. McKINNEY: Petition of 37 soldiers of La Harpe, Ill., favoring the Hamilton pension bill, granting $1 per day to all soldiers who served eighteen months or over—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania: Petition of Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, for amendment to Sherman law, so that reasonable trade agreements and associative efforts may be recognized and protected—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of National Guard Association of Pennsylvania, against the improper use of the uniform of the United States—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Joint Executive Commission on the Improvement of Harbor of Philadelphia, for appropriation for 35-foot channel from Allegheny avenue to deep water in Delaware River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of Post No. 1, Pennsylvania Division, Travelers' Protective Association of America, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Joint Executive Commission on the Improvement of Harbor of Philadelphia and Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers, for appropriation for survey to deepen Delaware River from Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, to Trenton, N. J.—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. MOORE of Texas: Paper to accompany bill for relief of P. Gilbert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MUDD: Petition of National Corps, Army and Navy Union, for increase of pay of officers and men of the Army and Navy—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. NORRIS: Petition of Grand Island Council, No. 134, United Commercial Travelers, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. PADGETT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of W. D. Kelly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Mrs. Emma Wymer—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of D. B. Crews—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PATTERSON: Papers to accompany bills for relief of heirs of Philip Kitching, G. R. Smook, heirs of W. F. Matthews, and heirs of Allen Fanning—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. PEARRE: Petition of Baltimore Chamber of Commerce, for appointment of a nonpartisan tariff commission—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. REYNOLDS: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Henry C. Weaver, Anna Veach, Ambrose Lindsay, and Henry Eash—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. RIORDAN: Petition of Maritime Association of the Port of New York, for H. R. 31, providing for a light and fog signal in New York Bay—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for Senate bill (S. 25) to promote efficiency of the Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. RYAN: Petition of National Association of Audubon Societies, for additional appropriation for Bureau of Biological Survey—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Chicago Association of Commerce, for bill improving the consular service—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Also, petition of Chamber of Commerce of State of New York, for appropriation to improve Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. SLAYDEN: Petition of William A. Rowan and 14 other volunteer officers of the civil war, for creation of a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. SPERRY: Petition of Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union, for various bills in behalf of temperance—to the Committee on Alcoholic Liquor Traffic.

By Mr. STERLING: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Ada Hammond Maxwell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STEVENS of Minnesota: Petition of C. C. Andrews and 130 other volunteer officers of the civil war, for the creation of a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. VREELAND: Petitions of citizens of Olean, N. Y.; and Merchants' Exchange of Olean, N. Y.; also V. E. French and 22 others of Cuba, N. Y., and Business Men's Association of Wellsville, N. Y., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. WASHBURN: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Delia E. Ahern (previously referred to Committee on Invalid Pensions)—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. WEEMS: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Jacob Mercer, John T. Mercer, Nixon B. Stewart, and John L. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. YOUNG: Petition of L. S. Trobridge and 238 other volunteers of the civil war, of Michigan, for the creation of a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, January 14, 1908.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. EDWARD E. HALE.

The Secretary proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on request of Mr. SCOTT and by unanimous consent, the further reading was dispensed with.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Journal stands approved.

REGENT OF SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT appointed Mr. BACON a member of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, as provided in section 5581 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. W. J. BROWNING, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 194) to authorize the county of St. Francis, in the State of Arkansas, to construct a bridge across the St. Francis River at or near the town of Madison, in said county and State, and it was thereupon signed by the Vice-President.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. CURTIS presented petitions of sundry ex-volunteer officers of the civil war of Leavenworth, Topeka, Kansas City, Wamego, Ottawa, Parsons, Abilene, Junction City, Council Grove, Marion, Yates Center, Lyndon, Neosho Falls, Blue Rapids, Clay Center, Riley County, and Manhattan, all in the State of Kansas, praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments for the surviving officers of the civil war, which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. GORE presented a petition of sundry members of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations of Indians, praying for the enactment of legislation providing for an allotment of land to the children of said nations of Indians, which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. BRIGGS presented petitions of sundry citizens of Newark, Bayonne, Red Bank, Colliers Mill, Morristown, and Jersey City, all in the State of New Jersey, praying for the adoption of certain amendments to the present copyright law relating to musical compositions, which were referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented the petition of B. Fernow, of Togus, Me., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for a retired list in the War and Navy Departments of surviving officers of the civil war, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented memorials of New Brunswick Council, No. 257, of New Brunswick; of Lafayette Council, No. 514, of Dover; of Olive Branch Council, No. 463, of Newark; of Bayley Council, No. 629, of Elizabeth; of St. Anthony's Council, No. 943, of Butler; of Elizabeth Council, No. 253, of Elizabeth; of Trinity Council, No. 747, of Hackensack; of Princeton Council, No. 636, of Princeton; of Bloomfield Council, No. 1178, of Bloomfield; of Warren Council, No. 474, of Phillipsburg; of Kearny Council, No. 402, of Star of Bethlehem Council, No. 476, of Hoboken Council, No. 159, of Belleville Council, No. 835, of Belleville; all of the Order of Knights of Columbus, in the State of New Jersey, remonstrating against the enactment of legislation providing for the reclassification of second-class mail matter and the rates of postage thereon, which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a memorial of the C. A. Woolsey Paint and Color Company, of Jersey City, N. J., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented petitions of the New Jersey State Association of Master Painters and Decorators, of Jersey City; of the Master Painters and Decorators' Association, of Trenton; of the Master Painters' Association, of Arlington, and of the West Hudson Master Painters' Association, of Arlington, of the American Federation of Labor, all in the State of New Jersey, praying for the adoption of an amendment to the present pure food and drug law relative to the labeling of all materials used in paints, which were referred to the Committee on Manufactures.

Mr. KNOX presented a petition of the Presbytery of the Westmoreland United Presbyterian Church, of New Alexandria, Pa., praying for the enactment of legislation to place the motto "In God we trust" on all coins of the United States, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of the Navigation Conference, of New York City, N. Y., praying that an appropriation be made for the improvement of the national harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented petitions of 85 citizens of Lycoming County, 20 citizens of Union County, 53 citizens of Chester County, 33 citizens of Concord Township, Delaware County, sundry citizens of Altenwald, sundry citizens of Canton Township, Bradford County, sundry citizens of Ward Township, Tioga County, sundry citizens of Potter County, sundry citizens of Dauphin County, sundry citizens of Montgomery County, sundry citizens of Northumberland County, sundry citizens of Granville Summit, West Branch Grange, Patrons of Husbandry of Germania; Oriental Grange, No. 165, Patrons of Husbandry, of Mill City; McKeansburg Grange, No. 1216, Patrons of Husbandry, of McKeansburg; Fairview Grange, No. 817, Patrons of Husbandry, of Nelson, sundry citizens of Susquehanna County, sundry citizens of York County, Chestnut Ridge Grange, No. 1133, Patrons of Husbandry, of Washington County; Coryville Grange, No. 1212, Patrons of Husbandry, of Coryville, all in the State of Pennsylvania, praying for the enactment of legislation to remove the tax of 10 cents per pound upon colored oleomargarine and placing it upon the same footing with the uncolored product, which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented memorials of Mount Carmel Council, No. 628, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Mount Carmel; Ebensburg Council, No. 522, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Ebensburg; Damien Council, No. 598, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Mauch Chunk; Honesdale Council, No. 363, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Honesdale; Great Bend Council, No. 356, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Hallstead; Bristol Council, No. 906, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Bristol; Corry Council, No. 425, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Corry; Shenandoah Council, No. 618, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Shenandoah; Chartiers Council, No. 875, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Crafton; West Philadelphia Council, No. 344, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Philadelphia; Monessen Council, No. 954, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Monessen; Butler Council, No. 866, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Butler; Erie Council, No. 278, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Erie; Franklin Council, No. 1020, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Franklin; Trinity Council, No. 313, Order of Knights of Columbus, of South Bethlehem; Beaver Valley Council, No. 604, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Beaver Falls; Meadville Council, No. 388, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Meadville; Clearfield Council, No. 409, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Clearfield; Austin Council, No. 693, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Austin; Ridgway Council, No. 1064, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Ridgway; Sharon Council, No. 684, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Sharon; Warren Council, No. 964, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Warren; Braddock Council, No. 911, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Braddock; Plymouth Council, No. 984, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Plymouth; Allentown Council, No. 528, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Allentown; Isabella Council, No. 328, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Frankford, Philadelphia; Carbondale Council, No. 329, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Carbondale; St. Lawrence Council, No. 841, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Philadelphia; Renovo Council, No. 542, Order of Knights of Columbus, of Renovo, all in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against the enactment of legislation providing for the reclassification of second-class mail matter and the rates of postage thereon; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of the joint executive committee on the improvement of the Harbor of Philadelphia and the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers, of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for a survey of the Delaware River for the purpose of determining the feasibility and cost of securing a channel of adequate width and 35 feet deep at mean low water, from Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, to deep water in the Delaware Bay, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented a petition of the joint executive committee on the improvement of the Harbor of Philadelphia and the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers, of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for a survey of the Delaware River between Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., and Trenton, N. J., in order to secure the formulation of a plan for the deepening of the said river to a depth adequate for the vessels engaged in transportation thereon; and to furnish the necessary data for determining the practicability and cost of such further improvement of this part of the Delaware River as will provide an adequate link in the general scheme for a deeper inland waterway along the Atlantic coast, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented petitions of George Smith Post, No. 79, Conshohocken; Captain John E. Walker Post, No. 287, Waynesboro; Abe Patterson Post, No. 88, Allegheny; Major Keenan Post, No. 349, Jersey Shore; E. B. Young Post, No. 87, Allentown; Stewart Post, No. 566, Rawlinsville; M. F. Richards Post, No. 595, Pottstown; Brandywine Post, No. 54, Coatesville; Post No. 237, Punxsutawney; Post No. 216, St. Marys; Post No. 306, Doylestown; General Charles Leiper Post, No. 639, Norwood; John C. Consor Post, No. 192, Reynoldsville; Sergeant Peiffer Post, No. 331, Meadville; Captain George J. Lawrence Post, No. 17, Minersville; Lieutenant David H. Wilson Post, No. 134, Mifflintown; John C. Arnold Post, No. 407, Port Trevorton, and Post No. 76, Reading, all of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the State of Pennsylvania, praying for the passage of the so-called "Lafean pension bill," which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented petitions of C. A. Rook, of Pittsburg; J. C. Rohrbacher, of Pittsburg; S. B. Cochrane, of Kittanning; A. O. Fording, of Pittsburg, all in the State of Pennsylvania, praying for the enactment of legislation to equalize and fix the pay of the officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service, which were referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Cass County, Mo., praying for the enactment of legislation to prevent express companies and other common carriers from transporting intoxicating liquors into districts favoring its exclusion, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented petitions of Chappeau, Lemley & Miller Co., of Pittsburg; Stout Mining Company, of Philadelphia; The Southwestern Development Company, of Philadelphia; Frank S. Colton, of Pittsburg; O. Evans Mikesell, of Washington, all in the State of Pennsylvania, and of Clarence T. Barr, of Kingston, N. Mex., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for the suspension of the annual assessment work upon mining claims for the year 1907, which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented petitions of W. J. Benjamin, of Apollo; Edward T. Bates Company, of Meadville; Porch Brothers (Incorporated), of Johnstown; M. L. Matz, of Lancaster; Homer Blumbaugh, of Franklin; M. Loy Hanna, of New Castle; John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia; J. C. Richmond, of Honesdale; The S. Hamilton Company, of Pittsburg; M. J. Rocholl, of Philadelphia; W. F. Beck & Son, of Lock Haven; F. A. Winter & Son, of Altoona; Fred Peffer, of Evans City; H. M. Dible, of Verona; Henry Braun, of Allegheny; W. E. McMurray, of Greenville; Albert G. Brehm, of St. Marys; W. J. Barkell, of Scottdale; J. A. O'Shea, of Pittsburg; C. A. Schock, of Williamsburg, and Ricardo B. Harris, of Braddock, praying for the adoption of certain amendments to the copyright law relating to musical compositions, which were referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented petitions of the Bricklayers' International Union, No. 2, of Pittsburg; Erie Chamber of Commerce, of Erie; Board of Trade, of Erie, and J. H. Zeigler, of Red Hill, all in the State of Pennsylvania, praying for the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill;" which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented memorials of the Lebanon County Retail Druggists' Association, of Lebanon; John Lucas & Co., of Philadelphia; T. H. Nevin Company, of Pittsburg, and C. R. Middleton, of New Hope, all in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. LONG presented a memorial of the Commercial Club of Ellinwood, Kans., and a memorial of the Business Men's Association of Great Bend, Kans., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels post bill," which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Olathe, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to regulate the interstate transportation of intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented petitions of sundry ex-volunteer officers of the civil war, of Medicine Lodge, Meade, Ness City, Hays City, Salina, Wichita, Great Bend, Hutchinson, Neosho Falls, Belleville, Lyndon, Abilene, Marion, Clay Center, Winfield, Harper, and Parsons, all in the State of Kansas, praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments for the surviving officers of the civil war, which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of Typographical Union No. 561, and American Federation of Labor, of Stockton, Cal., praying for the enactment of legislation to restrict the immigration of Asiatics, which was referred to the Committee on Legislation.

He also presented a paper to accompany the bill (S. 3159) to authorize the extension, enlargement, and alteration of the public building in the city of Kansas City, Kans., which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also presented sundry affidavits to accompany the bill (S. 620) granting an increase of pension to Nathaniel Walker, which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. FULTON presented a petition of the legislature of the State of Oregon, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, STATE OF OREGON,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

I, F. W. Benson, secretary of state of the State of Oregon, and custodian of the seal of said State, do hereby certify that the annexed pages contain a full, true, and complete copy of senate concurrent resolution No. 20, adopted by the senate of the State of Oregon February 8, 1907, and concurred in by the house of representatives of the State of Oregon February 12, 1907, original of which resolution was filed in this office February 14, 1907.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed hereto the seal of the State of Oregon.

Done at the capitol at Salem, Oreg., this 1st day of April, A. D. 1907.

F. W. BENSON,
Secretary of State.

Senate concurrent resolution 20.

Be it resolved by the senate (the house concurring), That the Representatives in Congress from this State be requested to introduce a suitable bill in that body and, if possible, procure its passage, authorizing the President of the United States to appoint Col. James Jackson, United States Army, to the position of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army, in recognition of his long-continued, able, and efficient services to the National Guard of this State.

Adopted by the Senate February 8, 1907.

E. W. HAINES, President.

Concurred in by the house February 12, 1907.

FRANK DAVEY, Speaker.

Indorsed: Senate concurrent resolution No. 20. Frank S. Grant, chief clerk. Filed February 14, 1907. F. W. Benson, secretary of state.

Mr. FULTON presented a petition of the congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church of La Grande, Oreg., praying for the enactment of legislation to regulate the interstate transportation of intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of sundry ex-Union soldiers of the civil war of Corvallis, Oreg., praying for the passage of the so-called "per diem pension bill," which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of the National Guard Association of Portland, Oreg., praying for the enactment of legislation authorizing the appointment of Col. James Jackson as brigadier-general on the retired list, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. FRYE presented a petition of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York and a petition of the New York Produce Exchange, praying for the enactment of legislation granting pensions to members of the Life-Saving Service, which were referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HALE presented a memorial of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Pittsfield, Me., remonstrating against the use of the mails for advertising intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. BURKETT presented a petition of sundry citizens of Benson, Nebr., praying for the enactment of legislation to secure depositors in the national banks of the country and prevent runs on the banks, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HEYBURN presented sundry papers to accompany the bill (S. 146) granting a pension to Sarah S. Long, which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. LATIMER presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Belton, S. C., praying for the establishment of forest reserves in the Appalachian and White Mountains, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. HEMENWAY presented a petition of the Woman's Home

Missionary Society of the Fletcher Place Methodist Episcopal Church, of Indianapolis, Ind., and a petition of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Roberts Park Church, of Indianapolis, Ind., praying for the enactment of legislation to limit the effect of the regulation of commerce between the several States and Territories, which were referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Mr. PENROSE presented a petition of the executive council of the Board of Trade of Philadelphia, Pa., praying that an appropriation be made for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which was referred to the Select Committee on Industrial Expositions.

He also presented a petition of the joint executive committee on the improvement of the harbor of Philadelphia and the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers, of Philadelphia, Pa., praying that an appropriation be made for the improvement of the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Trenton, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented a petition of the joint executive committee on the improvement of the harbor of Philadelphia and the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers, of Philadelphia, Pa., praying that an appropriation be made for a preliminary survey of the Delaware River for the purpose of determining the feasibility and cost of securing a channel of adequate width and 35 feet deep at mean low water from Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, to deep water in Delaware Bay, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented sundry papers in support of the bill (S. 3126) for the relief of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, which were referred to the Committee on Claims.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. WARREN, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1424) to increase the efficiency of the Medical Department of the United States Army, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. LODGE. I report without amendment from the Committee on Foreign Relations the joint resolution (S. R. 23) to provide for the remission of a portion of the Chinese indemnity. I give notice that I shall call up the joint resolution at the earliest possible moment and ask the Senate to act upon it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. BROWN, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2901) authorizing the Omaha tribe of Indians to submit claims to the Court of Claims, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 503) authorizing the Omaha tribe of Indians to submit claims to the Court of Claims, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2872) to amend an act to amend section 4 of an act entitled "An act relating to the Metropolitan police of the District of Columbia," approved February 28, 1901, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 560) granting to the State of North Dakota 30,000 acres of land to aid in the maintenance of a school of forestry, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. NEWLANDS, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2029) providing for the appointment of members of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia and of the Board of Children's Guardians, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

MONONGAHELA RIVER BRIDGE.

Mr. MARTIN. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9087) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize Washington and Westmoreland counties, in the State of Pennsylvania, to construct and maintain a bridge across the Monongahela River, in the State of Pennsylvania," approved February 21, 1903, to report it favorably without amendment.

Mr. KNOX. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill just reported.

The Secretary read the bill, and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a bill (S. 3804) to tax certain deposits with national banking associations, and for other purposes, which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. SCOTT. I ask that the bill may be read at length.

The bill was read the second time at length and referred to the Committee on Finance, as follows:

A bill (S. 3804) to tax certain deposits with national banking associations, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever any national banking association shall receive from the Secretary of the Treasury, under the authority vested in him by section 5153 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by section 3 of the act approved March 4, 1907, entitled "An act to amend the national banking act, and for other purposes," or by any other provision of law now existing or hereafter enacted, any deposits of public money, such banking association shall be, and is hereby, made subject to a tax of one twenty-fourth of 1 per cent per month upon the average amount of such deposits so received and held by it, as hereinafter provided, the tax hereby levied being in addition to any and all other taxes imposed by law upon national banking associations.

SEC. 2. That it shall be the duty of each national banking association with whom the Secretary of the Treasury shall make deposits of public moneys as aforesaid to render a return in duplicate, under the oath of the president or cashier of said banking association, in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, one copy of which return shall be deposited with the collector of internal revenue of the internal-revenue collection district in which such banking association is located and one copy transmitted to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Such return shall be made semiannually on the 1st day of December and the 1st day of June of each year, and shall set out the average monthly amount of the deposits aforesaid so received and held by such banking association. The copy of said return which is to be deposited with the collector of internal revenue as aforesaid shall be accompanied by the amount of the tax shown to be due by said return.

SEC. 3. That in default of the return herein provided for the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall estimate the amount of the deposits received and held by any such banking association upon the best information he can obtain, including information of such deposits secured from the Secretary of the Treasury; and the tax found due upon such estimate shall be assessed and collected as in other cases of default under the internal-revenue laws. And for refusal or neglect to make the return or payment herein provided for the banking association shall pay a penalty of $200 for every such default, to be collected by distraint.

SEC. 4. That the amount collected as tax under the provisions of this act shall constitute a special fund in the Treasury of the United States, to be denominated the depositors' surety fund, which fund shall be held to the order of the Secretary of the Treasury to be used by him under such regulations as he may promulgate, to reimburse depositors in national banks, either in full or in such pro rata part as the condition of the said fund may allow, for loss occasioned by the failure of any national banking association, and for no other purpose except such as may be specifically authorized by law.

SEC. 5. That all existing provisions of law for the assessment and collection of internal-revenue taxes, so far as applicable, are hereby made a part of this act.

Mr. CLAPP introduced a bill (S. 3805) granting an increase of pension to Esther M. Noah, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 3806) to provide for the allowance and payment to the employees of the Government Printing Office of the same leave of absence as is allowed to the clerks and employees of the Executive Departments of the Government, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. CURTIS introduced a bill (S. 3807) authorizing national banking institutions to take advantage of guarantee bank deposit laws in certain States and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. WARREN introduced a bill (S. 3808) to refund certain excess duties paid upon importations of absinthe and kirschwasser from Switzerland between June 1, 1898, and December 5, 1898, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3809) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization of the militia of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes," approved March 1, 1889, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3810) for the relief of Howard B. Carpenter;

A bill (S. 3811) for the relief of Jaji Bin Ydris; and

A bill (S. 3812) for the relief of Aaron H. Appel.

Mr. GORE introduced a bill (S. 3813) for the distribution of the funds of the Five Civilized Tribes, which was read twice by its title.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3814) for the removal of restrictions from the sale of allotments of the Five Civilized Tribes in certain cases, which was read twice by its title and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

A bill (S. 3814) for the removal of restrictions from the sale of allotments of the Five Civilized Tribes in certain cases.

Be it enacted, etc., That on and after February 29, 1908, all restrictions upon the sale and alienation of lands allotted to citizens of the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians in the State of Oklahoma except as to the homestead of full-bloods shall be removed: Provided, That the restrictions upon lands herein excepted may be removed by the Secretary of the Interior upon a showing of competency or a showing that the best interest of the allottee would be subserved by such removal: And provided further, That whenever the homestead of any full-blood Indian exceeds 80 acres in amount he may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, designate 80 acres as a homestead and sell the remainder in the same manner as his surplus allotment.

SEC. 2. That upon the death of any allottee the restrictions upon the alienation of said allottee's land are removed: Provided, however, That no conveyance of the interests of any full-blood Indian heir shall be valid unless approved by the proper court having jurisdiction in the winding up of said estate: Provided further, That for the purposes of this act the rolls on file in the Union Indian Agency at Muskogee shall be conclusive proof as to the quantum of Indian blood.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bills will be referred to the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes.

Mr. CLAPP. I suggest that both bills go to the Committee on Indian Affairs. I think the Senator who introduced them certainly so intended.

Mr. GORE. That was my intention.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is a Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes; but without objection, the bills will be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. TILLMAN. My attention was diverted for a minute, and I did not hear all the Senator from Minnesota said in regard to the bill introduced by the Senator from Oklahoma to distribute the funds of the Five Civilized Tribes. I am chairman of the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes, and I should like to have something to do. The Senator from Minnesota two or three years ago, when a bill relating to the Five Civilized Tribes was here, as I thought, got possession of it in a rather—well, extraordinary way, I will say. I do not see the use of the existence of the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes unless matters relating to those tribes are referred to that committee.

Mr. CLAPP. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from South Carolina yield to the Senator from Minnesota?

Mr. TILLMAN. Oh, with pleasure.

Mr. CLAPP. I am perfectly willing to concede that there is no use for the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes.

Mr. TILLMAN. But the Senate has seen fit to constitute the committee; it has been on the list a long while; I am chairman of it; I have a committee room; and I have nothing to do in that relation. I should like to have something to do before the Five Civilized Tribes disappear. The Chair referred the bill to my committee, and then the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs asked that it go to his committee.

Mr. CLAPP. Will the Senator yield to me for a moment?

Mr. TILLMAN. Certainly.

Mr. CLAPP. Personally I have not the slightest interest in this matter, and I would be very glad to have the bills sent somewhere else. But Oklahoma and the Indian Territory have now been admitted as a State. The new State has two Senators here, and one of those Senators was placed upon the Committee on Indian Affairs, I assume very largely for the purpose of handling matters connected with the Indian Territory. That is all I care to say on the subject.

Mr. TILLMAN. If the Senator who introduced the bill wants it to go to the Indian Affairs Committee, I am perfectly content; but if not, I want the assignment of the Chair to stand, and to let my committee have some reason for its existence.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair referred both bills to the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes, being of the opinion that that committee has jurisdiction properly of the bills. It was then suggested, and assented to by the Senator from Oklahoma, that the bills should be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. TILLMAN. I did not hear the assent of the Senator introducing the bills. If he is content to have them go to the Committee on Indian Affairs, very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair understands that the Senator from Oklahoma indicated his desire that the reference should be made to the Committee on Indian Affairs. Is the Chair correct in that understanding?

Mr. GORE. Mr. President, it would be entirely satisfactory to me to have the bills referred to either committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bills will then be referred to the Committee on the Five Civilized Tribes.

Mr. GORE. I desire to express my satisfaction with that reference, and the hope that the Senator from South Carolina will get back on the reservation.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Oklahoma has sent to the desk another bill, which will be read by its title.

Mr. GORE introduced a bill (S. 3815) to make the United States Jail at McAlester, Okla., the property of Pittsburg County, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. KITTREDGE introduced a bill (S. 3816) to correct the naval record of William Edward Hanson, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. HOPKINS introduced a bill (S. 3817) granting an increase of pension to John S. Lee, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. KNOX introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3818) granting a pension to Allyne C. Litchfield (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 3819) granting a pension to Philip Thrain;

A bill (S. 3820) granting an increase of pension to John Womersley;

A bill (S. 3821) granting an increase of pension to Mary B. Siviter;

A bill (S. 3822) granting a pension to Isaac Wise;

A bill (S. 3823) granting an increase of pension to J. L. Francis;

A bill (S. 3824) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Gibson; and

A bill (S. 3825) granting a pension to Harry R. Bentz.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 3826) to correct the military record of John Walkinshaw and grant him an honorable discharge;

A bill (S. 3827) to correct the military record of James Dundore and grant him an honorable discharge;

A bill (S. 3828) to correct the military record of Laurence T. Fetterman and grant him an honorable discharge (with an accompanying paper);

A bill (S. 3829) to correct the military record of Stephen Keegan and grant him an honorable discharge (with an accompanying paper); and

A bill (S. 3830) for the relief of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. BORAH introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3831) granting an increase of pension to Relf Bledsoe; and

A bill (S. 3832) granting an increase of pension to James R. Potter.

Mr. GUGGENHEIM introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Public Lands:

A bill (S. 3833) to provide for second and additional homestead and desert-land entries, and for other purposes; and

A bill (S. 3834) to provide for the extension of time to make final proof under the desert-land act and amendments thereto.

Mr. OVERMAN introduced a bill (S. 3835) increasing the limit of cost for a public building at Salisbury, N. C., which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. WHYTE introduced a bill (S. 3836) placing John W. Saville, passed assistant engineer, United States Navy, on the retired list with an advanced rank, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3837) for the relief of Mary A. Shufeldt, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. STEPHENSON introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3838) granting a pension to Margret Harris; and

A bill (S. 3839) granting an increase of pension to Francis M. Mullins.

Mr. DAVIS introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3840) for the relief of the legal representative of David Hamiter, deceased; and

A bill (S. 3841) for the relief of the estate of J. J. Myers, deceased.

Mr. PENROSE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3842) for the relief of John W. Heald;
A bill (S. 3843) for the relief of the legal representatives of Stewart & Co. and A. P. H. Stewart; and
A bill (S. 3844) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the Columbia National Bank, of Columbia, Pa. (with an accompanying paper).

He also introduced a bill (S. 3845) to correct the naval record of John Clark, alias Daniel Andrews, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3846) to appropriate the sum of $25,000 to aid in the payment of the expenses of the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Irrigation of Arid Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3847) to provide for a site and public building at Bristol, Pa., which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads:
A bill (S. 3848) for the relief of James A. Russell; and
A bill (S. 3849) for the better protection of packages sent through the mails.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:
A bill (S. 3850) to correct the military record of Alexander Everhart;
A bill (S. 3851) to correct the military record of Robert D. Magill;
A bill (S. 3852) to correct the military record of James Hagerty (with accompanying papers);
A bill (S. 3853) to correct the military record of Gilmore W. Shirey (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3854) to correct the military record of Daniel C. Graeber (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3855) to correct the military record of Daniel W. Heller;
A bill (S. 3856) to correct the military record of George W. Briggs;
A bill (S. 3857) to correct the military record of Jonathan Williams;
A bill (S. 3858) to correct the military record of James W. Cisney;
A bill (S. 3859) to correct the military record of William B. Wesner (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3860) to correct the military record of Thomas Miller;
A bill (S. 3861) to correct the military record of John C. Barrett;
A bill (S. 3862) to correct the military record of Aaron Luman;
A bill (S. 3863) to grant an honorable discharge from the military service to Robert C. Gregg; and
A bill (S. 3864) for the relief of Edmund F. Steckel.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3865) to equalize and fix the pay of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PENROSE. I ask that the bill be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HALE. A bill just like it was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and I ask that the bill may have that reference.

Mr. PENROSE. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. PENROSE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:
A bill (S. 3866) to authorize the President to revoke the order dismissing William T. Godwin, late first lieutenant, Tenth Infantry, United States Army, and to place the said William T. Godwin on the retired list with the rank of first lieutenant;
A bill (S. 3867) authorizing the appointment of Lieut. Col. O. W. Pollock, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army;
A bill (S. 3868) authorizing the appointment of Col. A. L. Varney, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army;
A bill (S. 3869) authorizing the appointment of Maj. Mason Carter, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army; and
A bill (S. 3870) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of War to cause to be erected monuments and markers on the battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., to commemorate the valorous deeds of certain regiments and batteries of the United States Army."

He also introduced a bill (S. 3871) to place certain maimed soldiers who suffered amputations in the military or naval service of the United States during the war of the rebellion on the retired list of the United States Army, which was read twice by is title.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair will call the attention of the Senator from Maine to the fact that the Senator introducing the bill has noted its reference to the Committee on Military Affairs. Either that committee or the Committee on Naval Affairs would seem to have jurisdiction.

Mr. HALE. I have no objection to its going to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PENROSE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:
A bill (S. 3872) extending the provisions of the pension laws of the United States to persons engaged in the operation and construction of military telegraph lines during the war of the rebellion;
A bill (S. 3873) to pension certain soldiers and nonenlisted men who served in the war of the rebellion;
A bill (S. 3874) for the better payment of pensioners;
A bill (S. 3875) granting a pension to Ernest W. Hilliard;
A bill (S. 3876) granting an increase of pension to David H. House;
A bill (S. 3877) granting an increase of pension to Matthew C. Reed;
A bill (S. 3878) granting a pension to John F. Rose;
A bill (S. 3879) granting a pension to Katherine E. Kemble;
A bill (S. 3880) granting an increase of pension to Wesley C. Pryor;
A bill (S. 3881) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Umsted;
A bill (S. 3882) granting an increase of pension to Robert M. Blankin;
A bill (S. 3883) granting a pension to Eloisa Wilkinson;
A bill (S. 3884) granting an increase of pension to Robert S. Wharton;
A bill (S. 3885) granting an increase of pension to Lewis R. Bland;
A bill (S. 3886) granting a pension to Philip S. Dale;
A bill (S. 3887) granting a pension to Sarah Haviland;
A bill (S. 3888) granting an increase of pension to John D. Harris;
A bill (S. 3889) granting an increase of pension to Cecile O. Hamill;
A bill (S. 3890) granting an increase of pension to Andrew J. Saulsburg;
A bill (S. 3891) granting an increase of pension to Charles Stackhouse;
A bill (S. 3892) granting a pension to Julia A. Roberts;
A bill (S. 3893) granting a pension to Mary E. Coster (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3894) granting a pension to Helen A. Leamon;
A bill (S. 3895) granting a pension to Thomas J. Parker;
A bill (S. 3896) granting a pension to Sarah Wood (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3897) granting an increase of pension to Ruth E. Bannatyne (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3898) granting a pension to Ursula Dickinson (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3899) granting an increase of pension to Conrad Lingerman;
A bill (S. 3900) granting an increase of pension to George Collins (with accompanying papers);
A bill (S. 3901) granting an increase of pension to David Kohr (with accompanying papers);
A bill (S. 3902) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Felton;
A bill (S. 3903) granting an increase of pension to Horace Holcomb;
A bill (S. 3904) granting an increase of pension to John Miles (with an accompanying paper);
A bill (S. 3905) granting an increase of pension to Charles W. Abbott (with accompanying papers);
A bill (S. 3906) granting a pension to George Crow;
A bill (S. 3907) granting a pension to Margaret S. Alexander;
A bill (S. 3908) granting a pension to Henry Miller (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 3909) granting an increase of pension to John H. Stover;

A bill (S. 3910) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Heimbach;

A bill (S. 3911) granting an increase of pension to Robert Morris;

A bill (S. 3912) granting an increase of pension to John T. Huff (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 3913) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Norris;

A bill (S. 3914) granting an increase of pension to James Jones;

A bill (S. 3915) granting a pension to Bernard Closkey;

A bill (S. 3916) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Keys (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 3917) granting a pension to Rebecca L. Price (with an accompanying paper); and

A bill (S. 3918) granting an increase of pension to John H. Bond.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3919) granting an honorable discharge to Philip McCormick, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3920) granting a pension to Mary Jane Hammond, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. STONE introduced a bill (S. 3921) granting an increase of pension to Alexander Beaty, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3922) for the relief of Robert J. McGowan; and

A bill (S. 3923) for the relief of the legal representatives of Ann L. Robb, deceased.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3924) to amend section 1 of an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to regulate commerce,' approved February 4, 1887, and all acts amendatory thereof, and to enlarge the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission," approved June 29, 1906, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Mr. HEYBURN introduced a bill (S. 3925) granting an increase of pension to Austin Parks, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DICK introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 3926) authorizing the appointment of Col. S. A. Day, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army;

A bill (S. 3927) authorizing the appointment of Col. T. J. Kirkman, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army; and

A bill (S. 3928) authorizing the appointment of Col. H. R. Brinkerhoff, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army.

Mr. TALIAFERRO introduced a bill (S. 3929) to provide for a survey for a ship canal across the State of Florida from the Atlantic Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico, and making appropriation therefor, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. FULTON introduced a bill (S. 3930) providing for the appointment of an assistant treasurer of the United States at the city of Portland, in the State of Oregon, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. DEPEW introduced a bill (S. 3931) granting an increase of pension to Lewis H. Soule, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CLAPP introduced a bill (S. 3932) authorizing the Secretary of Interior to convey to the State of Minnesota certain lands in the county of Carlton, Minn., and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title.

Mr. CLAPP. The bill relates solely to Indian matters, and I move that it be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CLAPP introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (by request) (S. 3933) authorizing the appointment of Lieut. Col. William Gerlach, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army;

A bill (S. 3934) authorizing the appointment of Lieut. Col. John C. Scantling, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army; and

A bill (by request) (S. 3935) authorizing the appointment of Lieut. Col. W. H. Hamner, United States Army, retired, to the rank and grade of brigadier-general on the retired list of the Army.

Mr. CLAY introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3936) for the relief of the heirs at law of Gazaway B. Lamar; and

A bill (S. 3937) to revive the right of action under the captured and abandoned property acts and to provide for the payment of judgments in said action, and for other purposes.

Mr. DANIEL introduced a bill (S. 3938) granting a pension to Mattie Ashby Birney, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3939) for the widening of Sixteenth street NW., at Piney Branch, and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. JOHNSTON introduced a bill (S. 3940) requiring certain places of business in the District of Columbia to be closed on Sunday, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CARTER introduced a bill (S. 3941) to amend section 4 of an act entitled "An act to prevent unlawful occupancy of the public lands," approved February 25, 1885, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 3942) granting an increase of pension to Henry A. Chambourne, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. TALIAFERRO introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3943) granting an increase of pension to John A. Tucker;

A bill (S. 3944) granting an increase of pension to John B. Wood;

A bill (S. 3945) granting an increase of pension to Lavinia A. E. Rogers;

A bill (S. 3946) granting an increase of pension to Mary Varn;

A bill (S. 3947) granting an increase of pension to Owen J. Revels;

A bill (S. 3948) granting a pension to Frances N. Dunham; and

A bill (S. 3949) granting an increase of pension to Charles P. Betts.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3950) for the relief of A. T. Triay, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HEMENWAY introduced a bill (S. 3951) granting an increase of pension to John T. Bethell, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a bill (S. 3952) to restore to the active list of the United States Marine Corps the name of Robert Morgan Gilson, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. DANIEL introduced a bill (S. 3953) for the relief of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. DANIEL. I introduce a bill to provide for the construction of the Patent Office of the United States, and I ask that it be referred to the Committee on Patents.

The bill (S. 3954) to provide for the construction of the Patent Office of the United States, including a Hall of Inventions, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill should be referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. DANIEL. I would prefer to have the bill sent, if it meets with the approval of the President, to the Committee on Patents, which I think is better conversant with the subject.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Under the rule that has been observed heretofore the bill should go to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. DANIEL. That is true, sir, but I hope that it may go to the Committee on Patents.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the reference of the bill to the Committee on Patents?

Mr. KEAN. What is the request?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Virginia asks that the bill just introduced by him, providing for the construction of a building for the Patent Office be referred to the Committee on Patents. Is there objection to that request?

Mr. CULBERSON. Is the chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds present?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds is not in the Chamber at the moment. The bill, according to the practice observed heretofore, would go to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. The Senator from Virginia asks that it go to the Committee on Patents. In the absence of objection——

Mr. LODGE. What is the bill? My attention was diverted for the moment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. A bill to provide for the construction of the Patent Office of the United States, etc.

Mr. LODGE. Of course it should go to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Virginia asks that it go to the Committee on Patents. Is there objection?

Mr. LODGE. It is a matter of indifference to me, except to preserve the jurisdiction of the various committees. It is a public-building bill. What the proposed building is to house has nothing to do with its reference.

Mr. DANIEL. I raise no objection to that reference.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. DOLLIVER introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 32) directing the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold payment of the sum of $10,000 appropriated by the act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WARREN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 33) adjusting the status of certain officers of the Army as to their period of service required by the act of Congress approved June 30, 1882, to entitle an Army officer to retirement on his own application, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 34) to amend the act of March 4, 1907, making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, so as to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent an increased proportion of the appropriation made by said act for rent for the Bureau of Forestry, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. WARREN submitted an amendment authorizing the Secretary of War to convey to the owners of premises which encroach upon the military reservation of Fort Marion, St. Augustine, Fla., all the right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the portions of the reservation which have been occupied by them, etc., upon the payment by said owners of such sums of money as the Secretary of War shall deem proper, intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed.

Mr. LATIMER submitted an amendment providing that after June 30, 1908, city-delivery service may be established at any post-office that produced a gross revenue of not less than $5,000 during the four quarters on which the salary of the postmaster is based, etc., intended to be proposed by him to the post-office appropriation bill, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BULKELEY. I submit an amendment intended to be proposed by me to the bill (S. 1424) to increase the efficiency of the Medical Department of the United States Army, which was reported this morning from the Committee on Military Affairs by the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN]. I move that the amendment be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and printed.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. BURKETT submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (S. 3023) to amend the national banking laws, which was referred to the Committee on Finance and ordered to be printed.

Mr. DICK submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (H. R. 3923) to fix the limitation applicable in certain cases, which was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

GAMBLING IN FUTURES.

On motion of Mr. CULBERSON, it was:

Ordered, That 500 additional copies of the bill (S. 3619) to prohibit any person or corporation, for themselves or for or in the interest of any other person or corporation, directly or indirectly, from delivering, receiving, or transmitting, and from being interested in, or aiding in any manner, the receiving, delivering, or transmitting by mail, telegraph, telephone, or other means whatever, in any State, district, country, Territory, or place over which the sovereignty of the United States of America now exists, any message, information, intelligence, letter, writing, card, device, sign, symbol, cipher, or other thing whatsoever, the subject of the senses, or any of them, whereby intelligence or information may be conveyed or understood, relating to or in any manner or form concerning any transaction or proposed or suggested transaction, scheme, or plan to speculate or gamble, or gain or lose sums of money called margins, which gains or losses, respectively, are made to depend upon the future increase or decrease of the market price of any product of the soil, provided that at the time of such transaction, proposed transaction, scheme, or plan for so speculating or gambling any such product of the soil be the subject of interstate commerce, or the subject of commerce from or by and between the people of the United States of America and the people of any foreign country, be printed.

ESTATE OF MARCUS P. NORTON.

Mr. PLATT submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Claims:

Resolved, That the bill (S. 3389) entitled "A bill referring to the Court of Claims for adjudication and determination the claims of the widow and family of Marcus P. Norton, and the heirs at law of others," a bill for the relief of George C. Lewis as one of the claimants under the patents of the said Norton and as agent for the said widow and family of the said Norton and the said heirs at law of others, now pending in the Senate, together with all the accompanying papers, be, and the same is hereby, referred to the Court of Claims, in pursuance of the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," approved March 3, 1887; and the said court shall proceed with the same in accordance with the provisions of such act and report to the Senate their findings of fact and law.

EXAMINATIONS FOR DRAINAGE OF LANDS.

Mr. CLAPP submitted the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 2,000 additional copies of Senate Document 151, present session; 1,000 for the use of the Senate and 1,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY LAW.

Mr. NEWLANDS submitted the following concurrent resolution, which was read:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 2,000 copies of the record, briefs, and opinion and dissenting opinion of the Supreme Court in the cases of Howard, administratrix, v. Illinois Central Railroad Company, and Brooks, administratrix, v. Southern Pacific Company, the same being the record, briefs, and opinions relating to the constitutionality of the employers' liability law, of which 700 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, and 1,300 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, the same to be placed in the document rooms of the respective Houses.

Mr. KEAN. I understood that the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. KNOX] yesterday introduced a resolution authorizing a thousand additional copies of the opinion. This I understand to be the entire record.

Mr. NEWLANDS. The entire record. I have consulted with the Senator from Pennsylvania and he thinks it is desirable that the entire record should be printed. It does not interfere with the order that has been heretofore passed.

Mr. KEAN. I have no objection to the resolution.

The concurrent resolution was referred to the Committee on Printing.

CIRCULATING NOTES FOR PANAMA BONDS.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, I desire to offer a Senate resolution, which I prefer to read:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate the amount of circulating notes issued by each national bank to which was awarded Panama bonds under the Treasury circular of November 18, 1907, and which said notes were issued in consequence of the award of said bonds.

Mr. President, I beg the indulgence of the Senate for a moment to present the reasons for the introduction of this resolution, because I shall ask for its immediate consideration by unanimous consent.

The act of Congress under which these bonds were issued and awarded provides distinctly and unequivocally—that the said bonds may be disposed of by the Secretary of the Treasury at not less than par, under such regulations as he may prescribe, giving—

Mr. President, I desire to emphasize this to the Senate—giving to all citizens of the United States an equal opportunity to subscribe therefor.

As I have said, that is a plain and unequivocal requirement of the law, that all citizens of the United States shall have an equal opportunity to subscribe for these bonds. Not only that, Mr. President, but the circular of the Secretary of the Treasury, dated November 18, 1907, contains this statement:

In considering bids the bidders offering the highest prices will receive the first allotments.

Now I desire to submit to the Senate, and was ready to do so yesterday except for the motion of the Senator from Maryland [Mr. WHYTE], one or two facts which indicate that the Secretary of the Treasury has violated the law in this particular in issuing and awarding the bonds he has issued and awarded; that he has also run counter to his own circular.

In order that this resolution may be adopted and the question may be fairly presented to that official, so that he may answer it in answering the resolution which, as I understand from the Senator from Rhode Island, he will do to-morrow, I have called attention, Mr. President, to the fact that the law requires that all citizens of the United States shall be afforded an equal opportunity to bid for these bonds, and not only to bid for them, but to subscribe for them, and that the Secretary of the Treasury, under the direction of the President, in his circular stated that these allotments would be made to the highest bidders. Now let us see about that. I have a letter dated December 20, 1907, from Mr. J. T. Coston, of Osceola, Ark., directed to me, in which he says:

DEAR SIR: I placed a bid with the United States Treasurer for two and one-half million of the Panama Canal bonds. I inclose herewith a copy of my bid. You have doubtless noticed that several million have been disposed of below the bids that I made. I wrote the Secretary a letter requesting an explanation, and I inclose herewith his reply. You are at liberty to use this for what it is worth.

Yours, very truly, J. T. COSTON.

The bid is dated November 28, 1907, and is directed to the Hon. George Cortelyou, Washington, D. C.:

DEAR SIR: I hereby place my bid with you for the new Panama Canal bonds as follows: One million dollars at 104.4; $1,500,000 at 103.5. I am prepared to make good my bid if accepted.

Yours, very truly, J. T. COSTON.

Under date of December 16 we have the following letter to Mr. Coston from the Treasury Department, which I will read, as it is quite brief:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, December 16, 1907.

Mr. J. T. COSTON,
Osceola, Ark.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 13th instant you are informed that the Department did not accept any individual bids where the amount of the bid exceeded $10,000.

Respectfully, yours, J. H. EDWARDS,
Acting Secretary.

In addition to this, Mr. President, I have a letter from a reputable and well-known attorney of this city, dated December 7, 1907, in which he says:

My bid was for $500,000 worth of these bonds at $104.20, and I understand that bids for the same quantity and at substantially similar figures were put in by—a number of gentlemen, whose names are given here, but which I do not read because I am not particularly and specially authorized to do so; but the letter is subject to the inspection of the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], if he desires to see it. The writer of the letter adds:

Should the Senate secure an abstract of these proposals it will doubtless find that under the guise of "right to reject any or all bids" Administration favoritism has been practiced.

Furthermore, Mr. President, a gentleman of this city, well known personally to me as a highly respected business man, has presented to me a memorandum showing individual bids for these bonds aggregating $27,900,000. It is a remarkable fact that not a bid for this $27,900,000 was below 102⅝, and yet, according to the newspaper publications as to the allotment of these bonds to national banks by the Secretary of the Treasury, bonds were awarded to national banks aggregating $7,262,500, below even the lowest bid made by any of these individuals in the aggregate bids of $27,900,000.

It is said that the reason these bonds were awarded to national banks was because they would issue circulating notes with the bonds as the basis.

Mr. President, I want to repeat that bids for bonds aggregating $27,900,000 by individuals—which I am ready to substantiate if the Committee on Finance will ask for an investigation and permit the examination of witnesses—bids for $27,900,000 were put in by individuals, the lowest of which was 102⅝; and yet the bonds were awarded to national banks to the amount of $7,262,500 below the lowest bid of any of these individuals.

As I have said, it is suggested that the banks were awarded these bonds because they would issue circulating notes with the bonds as the basis, and thus add to the volume of currency. While I do not believe that that is any sufficient answer to this suggestion of favoritism, what the Senate ought to know is whether even that is true.

So I present this resolution, Mr. President, and ask unanimous consent for its present consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Texas submits a resolution and asks unanimous consent for its present consideration. The resolution will be read by the Secretary for the information of the Senate.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate the amount of circulating notes issued by each national bank to which was awarded Panama bonds under the Treasury circular of November 18, 1907, and which said notes were issued in consequence of the award of said bonds.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. ALDRICH. I desire to call the attention of the Senator from Texas to the fact that on the 12th of December last the Senate passed a resolution, the whole of which I shall not read, but I will read the part which refers to this particular transaction. It is as follows:

Third, an abstract of the proposals received by the Secretary of the Treasury for the purchase of the Panama bonds and 3 per cent certificates of indebtedness, authorized by the Treasury circular of November 18, 1907; the amount of such bonds and certificates issued, to whom awarded, and the reasons for the issue.

I would suggest to the Senator from Texas that he do not press his resolution this morning, as the answer of the Secretary of the Treasury to the resolution to which I have referred will be forthcoming to-morrow morning, covering this precise question. After the report of the Secretary shall have been received or the information shall have been furnished to the Senate, if the Senator from Texas requires any further information I certainly shall not interpose any objection to any inquiry which he desires to have made; but it seems to me that we should wait now until after the report of the Secretary of the Treasury has been received to-morrow morning, and I hope the Senator will allow the resolution to go over until that time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, I have no discretion against the objection of the Senator from Rhode Island, under which the resolution would have to go over under the rules; but I appeal to him to allow the resolution to be now adopted, so that there will be no question that we shall have this information by to-morrow morning. It will invite the Secretary's attention specifically to this question. I am very frank to say, Mr. President, that I have endeavored to get this information directly from the Secretary of the Treasury by letter and have failed to do so. So I think we are entitled to have the resolution adopted by the Senate.

Mr. ALDRICH. Mr. President, I feel constrained to ask that the resolution go over until to-morrow morning in view of the fact I have stated.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made to the present consideration of the resolution, and it will lie over.

NATIONAL BANKING ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, I submit a resolution, which I ask to have read and then lie upon the table. My object in having it read is to direct attention to the matter involved. The reason why I do not press for immediate action is that I am waiting for some additional facts in regard to the subject-matter. Until I receive those facts I will just let the resolution lie on the table.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution proposed by the Senator from South Carolina will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby directed to send to the Senate the following information:

1. The number of national banking associations that have been placed in the hands of receivers as insolvent since January 1, 1893; the capital stock of each such association; the name of the receiver of each such association; the amount of compensation paid to the receiver of each such association, together with the names of all attorneys or special employees under such receiver, together with the compensation paid them for such service, the States from which they were appointed, and their previous occupations.

2. An itemized statement of the amount of money paid out by each receiver to creditors of each national banking association upon the claims proved to shareholders, if any, and the amount of assessment levied upon shareholders of each such association.

3. In making appointments for national bank examiners, receivers, or special employees is the Treasury Department governed by rules established by the Civil Service Commission to determine the qualifications of applicants, or are such appointments made at the discretion of the Comptroller of the Treasury?

4. Have any national bank examiners during the period named been appointed who have not been assigned to a regular district for permanent service? If so, give the names of such examiners, the States from which they were appointed, their previous occupations, and the compensation paid in each case.

5. Is there any rule to determine the compensation to be paid to receivers, attorneys, or special employees of insolvent associations, based upon the capital stock of the association or its resources, or is the fixing of such compensation wholly within the discretion of the Comptroller of the Currency?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will lie on the table and be printed.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE FOR HOMESTEAD ENTRYMEN.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, morning business is closed.

Mr. KEAN and others. Regular order, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Calendar, under Rule VIII, is in order. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 550) providing for stated leaves of absence to entrymen under the homestead laws was announced as first in order on the Calendar, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with an amendment, after the word "absence," at the end of line 10, to strike out "provided for in" and insert "permitted by," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That no homestead entry shall be canceled and no final proof shall be rejected because of any failure of the entryman named therein to hereafter actually reside upon the lands covered by his entry during the months of December, January, February, and March, or any portion of such months: Provided, That nothing in this act shall be so construed as to relieve homestead entrymen of the duty of residence during the months not herein named, and the period of absence permitted by this act shall be computed to apply upon the period of residence required under existing law.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DISPOSITION OF PUBLIC LANDS.

The bill (S. 415) regulating the settlement of the accounts between the United States and the several States relative to the disposition of the public lands, and for other purposes, was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. KEAN. That is rather a large subject, and I suggest that the bill go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

HERNAN ULLOA.

The joint resolution (S. R. 5) authorizing the Secretary of War to receive for instruction at the Military Academy at West Point Mr. Hernan Ulloa, of Costa Rica, was announced as next in order.

Mr. WARREN. Mr. President, as the subject-matter contained in that joint resolution has already passed the Senate in a House bill, I move that the consideration of this joint resolution be indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Wyoming that the joint resolution be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was agreed to.

MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE AT YANKTON, S. DAK.

The bill (S. 417) to extend the time for the completion of a bridge across the Missouri River at Yankton, S. Dak., by the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern Railway Company, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments, in line 8, before the word "approved," to strike out "act," and insert "acts;" and in the same line, after the word "approved," to insert "January 27, 1905; February 5, 1906, and," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 6 of the act approved March 9, 1904, authorizing the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern Railway Company to construct a combined railroad, wagon, and foot-passenger bridge across the Missouri River at or near the city of Yankton, S. Dak., as amended by the acts approved January 27, 1905; February 5, 1906, and March 2, 1907, be, and is hereby, amended by extending the time for commencing the construction of said bridge to March 9, 1909, and by extending the time for completing said bridge to March 9, 1911.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BUILDINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE, ETC.

The bill (S. 152) to provide a site and buildings for the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce and Labor, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The Secretary read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to acquire by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, the whole of squares numbered 226, 227, 228, 229, and 230, in the city of Washington, and the sum of $3,000,000 to pay for the land so acquired and toward the erection of one or two buildings thereon is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. That part of C street, Ohio avenue, D street, and E street lying between the squares named herein is hereby made a part of the site authorized by this act. That should the Secretary of the Treasury decide to institute condemnation proceedings in order to secure any or all of the land herein authorized to be acquired, such proceedings shall be in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 30, 1890, providing a site for the enlargement of the Government Printing Office (United States Statutes at Large, vol. 26, ch. 837).

SEC. 2. That a commission, to be composed of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Attorney-General, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and the Superintendent of the Capitol Building and Grounds, which is hereby created, shall report to Congress preliminary plans and an estimate of cost for one or two buildings to be erected on said site for the use of the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce and Labor, and for other governmental purposes, said preliminary plans and estimate of cost to be paid for out of the appropriation herein made.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GROUNDS FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 122) authorizing the purchase of grounds for the accommodation of public buildings for the use of the Government of the United States in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The Secretary read the bill.

Mr. WHYTE. Is there a report accompanying the bill?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is a report accompanying the bill.

Mr. WHYTE. I ask that the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Maryland asks that the report accompanying the bill be read. Without objection, the Secretary will read as requested.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. HEYBURN December 21, 1907, as follows:

The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 122) authorizing the purchase of grounds for the accommodation of public buildings for the use of the Government of the United States in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report back the bill without amendment with the recommendation that the bill do pass.

Your committee herewith append the following report upon this bill:

The bill contemplates the purchase by the Government of all of the ground not at present owned by it lying south of Pennsylvania avenue and north of Maryland avenue, up to Sixth street, where it intersects Maryland avenue, and all of the ground not at present owned by the Government lying between Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall up to Fifteenth street NW.; also block No. 221, lying at the junction of Maryland avenue and First street immediately in front of the Capitol grounds; also block No. 575, and reservation 12, lying immediately in front of the Capitol grounds between Pennsylvania avenue and B street NW.

The total area in this proposed purchase of ground is 1,952,164 square feet. This does not include any land at present owned by the Government, or any of the streets, alleys, or avenues within this area. The Government already owns, in blocks, between Fifteenth street and Sixth street, 441,961 square feet. The area of the streets and parks within those boundaries is 1,243,188 square feet.

The assessed valuation of all the land included within the proposed purchase is $3,753,906. The assessed valuation of all of the buildings upon said land is $2,203,800. These assessments are based on a two-thirds valuation of the actual cash value of the property. This would make the land proposed to be taken of the actual value of $5,630,856 and of the buildings thereon $3,305,700, making a total of $8,936,556 as the actual cash value of the lands and buildings proposed to be included within this purchase.

The purchase of this property involves blocks Nos. 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 256, 257, 259, 260, 285, 292, 293, 294, 295, 349, 350, 380, 381, 382, 461, reservation A, reservation B, block 575, block 576, reservation 12, reservation D, and reservation C.

These blocks contain 2,022,164 square feet. The area of land within this proposed purchase which the Government already owns consists of blocks Nos. 255, 323, 324, a portion of block 228, a portion of block 293, the Haymarket square, the Central Market square, and the streets and parks, making a total area of 1,685,149 square feet.

It is very important that in the future all Government buildings located at the national capital shall be located upon this proposed purchase, and shall be of such harmonious architecture and arrangement as will make the Government buildings a combination of all that is beautiful and adequate to the wants of the service. The buildings could be constructed along varying architectural lines and yet be entirely harmonious, thus affording great possibilities for architectural accomplishment as well as for the development of a plan that will greatly enhance the beauty and usefulness of the nation's home.

In the interval between the purchase and the actual use of the grounds for public buildings they could be used and maintained as an attractive pleasure ground in connection with the Mall.

Much of the land to be acquired can doubtless be purchased from the present owners, and that which can not be so acquired can be obtained by the ordinary process of condemnation.

The accompanying map indicates the several blocks and their relative situation which it is proposed to purchase.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I would call the attention of Senators to the fact that in the Fifty-ninth Congress a similar bill was considered and passed by the Senate. It was also adopted as an amendment to the sundry civil bill—I believe it was the sundry civil bill.

Mr. BAILEY. May I inquire how this bill now comes before the Senate?

Mr. HEYBURN. Regularly, on the consideration of the Calendar. It was reached in regular order.

Mr. President, without attempting to elaborate at any length upon the provisions of this measure, I would call the attention of Senators to the fact that the report is accompanied by a diagram which shows exactly the land which is included within this bill. The Government already owns two-thirds as much as is owned by private owners south of Pennsylvania avenue, between Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall, but the Government holdings consist of isolated tracts here and there, scattered throughout the entire length of the avenue. The purpose of the pending bill is to acquire this land in order that we may have a definite and certain holding south of the avenue, continuous in extent, for the purpose of erecting public buildings thereon.

It must be evident to everyone that that section of the city lying south of Pennsylvania avenue is degenerating every day in every way. In the character of its buildings, in the character of its business, and in general, it is no longer a creditable part of the city. This plan of completing the ownership in the Government of lands south of the avenue, from Fifteenth street to the foot of the Capitol grounds, would give an uninterrupted line of buildings, when the plan is ultimately carried out, or an uninterrupted line of property upon which buildings could be erected, and in the meantime the ground should be cleared off and made part of that park or Mall, which would bring it up to Pennsylvania avenue. In every way, even before the erection of buildings, it would enhance the beauty of the city, give it an air of respectability, and rid it of that sordid portion that now lies there, inhabited in a part at least by conditions and things that should not be in the capital city of Washington.

The fact that the Senate at the last session saw fit to pass the bill and also attached it as an amendment to the sundry civil bill, would indicate that the subject-matter is not new to the Senate, and I hope that the pending bill will be allowed to pass.

Mr. TILLMAN. I have not had an opportunity to examine this matter. I have so many other things to look after that I could not be supposed to deal with matters relating to the District of Columbia. I should like to ask some questions, however. I understand the amount involved is $10,000,000.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is the maximum amount provided, and the property would be acquired for as much less as it might be.

Mr. TILLMAN. What is to be the process of acquirement—by condemnation?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is provided in the bill that it shall be acquired by contract, if acceptable contracts can be made; and by condemnation in the event of failure to agree; in other words, as I understand, the usual process by which property now occupied by public buildings has been acquired.

Mr. TILLMAN. How far back does this strip of land go from Pennsylvania avenue?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will ask the Senator, if he has the report before him, to turn to the plat, which is a part of the report of the committee. It shows by shading exactly the ground proposed to be taken. The report of the committee is accompanied by a plat.

I would also call the attention of the Senator from South Carolina to the fact that the assessed values of the property are stated in the report, giving the property and the buildings separately; so that it affords a basis of estimate as to the ultimate cost of the property.

Mr. TILLMAN. I see here two squares right up next to the Capitol grounds that are shaded. Why are they shaded?

Mr. HEYBURN. The portions proposed to be purchased are shaded, and those four reservations to which I think the Senator is seeking to direct my attention are in private ownership.

Mr. TILLMAN. What becomes of the Pennsylvania depot—the old Sixth street station?

Mr. HEYBURN. That belongs to the Government.

Mr. TILLMAN. I know, but is the depot to be torn down and the ground put in grass?

Mr. HEYBURN. It should be, I think. It is merely an old wreck now.

Mr. TILLMAN. I thought possibly the railroad company still held it, and would hold it, under the dispensation of liberality which has been obtaining here.

Mr. HEYBURN. I can conceive of no ground upon which the railroad company could take that position. The land belongs to the Government. The railroad has no claim whatever to it. The same is true of the market square.

Mr. TILLMAN. Is there not a lease on the market square?

Mr. HEYBURN. No lease that can not be terminated by this action.

Mr. TILLMAN. By paying for the improvements?

Mr. HEYBURN. No, I think not. I think the Senator will find there is no complication with reference to the occupancy of any part of the ground belonging to the Government.

Mr. TILLMAN. I simply wanted some little information. I have never paid any particular attention to this matter. Of course I am very anxious to see the city beautified, and all that sort of thing.

While I am on my feet I will ask the Senator another question. I see some mention in the papers of the Botanic Gardens being removed, or some of the trees being cut down, and of a purpose to put up there a statue of General Grant. I myself have too much respect and admiration for General Grant to want to see a statue of him stuck in that hollow. It ought to be given a place on the east front of the Capitol, on the highest spot in Washington, instead of down there almost in a hole.

Mr. HEYBURN. The ground upon which it is proposed to erect that statue is not involved in the consideration of this measure.

Mr. TILLMAN. I understand that, but I brought it up incidentally. As this seems to involve a grand scheme of capital beautification, I thought I would mention incidentally my own individual views in regard to sticking a statue of General Grant down there.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will suggest to the Senator from South Carolina that the place selected for the erection of that statue lies entirely back of any possible line upon which buildings might be constructed.

I have, in connection with this matter, had some ground plans made, in order that I might have an intelligent comprehension of the relation which the buildings would possibly occupy to the ground, and the point selected for the Grant statue lies entirely back and in no way would interfere with or be interfered with by any improvements that might be made upon this ground in the way of erecting a line of buildings.

Mr. TILLMAN. At one time and another I have seen hanging about the walls here or in some committee room a great scheme of capital improvement and beautification, involving a big bridge leading from some avenue to Arlington. Is this a part of that programme?

Mr. HEYBURN. No; this is no part of that programme, and that programme was not taken into consideration in connection with this legislation at any time. The sole purpose of this measure is to secure that ground. The manner of its use will be determined later; that is to say, the character, number, and use of the buildings will be a subsequent consideration.

Overtures have been made since the inception of this matter to incorporate in this bill varying plans for the improvement of this land. The committee have thought best not to embarrass this measure with such considerations, but to leave them for the future. We will have ample time later on to consider the manner of the use of the land. The first thing is to get rid of an existing condition which ought to be got rid of, and in connection with that the acquiring of the title to this land. This land could have been bought five years ago for 25 per cent less than it can be secured for now. It could have been bought ten years ago for one-half of what it can be obtained for now.

Mr. TILLMAN. Will the Senator allow me to suggest right now that the scheme of purchase by the Government naturally enhances the value at once. No doubt people have gone in there and obtained options and are speculating on this proposition.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is too true, and the end of that class of proceeding is not yet. As yet no large buildings or expensive improvements have been placed upon this ground. We have an instance within sight of this Chamber of a large and expensive building that has recently been placed upon other grounds that it is contemplated Congress shall acquire for Government purposes, which would have to be purchased and paid for. The time to acquire the ground south of the avenue is before there are placed upon it expensive improvements, which we would have to take into consideration in determining the value. In another five years it would require an appropriation of perhaps $15,000,000 for ground that may be now purchased inside of ten, and it seems to me, inasmuch as we are reaching out for ground upon which to place public buildings, that we should act now when the necessity exists and the conditions exist under which we can do it to better advantage than we will ever be able to do it again. For that reason I feel inclined to urge this matter upon the attention of Congress and to secure the enactment of this law at the present session of Congress if we can.

Mr. TILLMAN. And the Senator says that the interests of the Government are safeguarded from speculators as much as possible?

Mr. HEYBURN. I think so. I would be very glad of any suggestion that would afford greater safeguard to the Government; but it was the intention of the committee that the Government should be thoroughly safeguarded, and the committee is satisfied that that end has been accomplished.

Mr. NELSON addressed the Chair.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Minnesota?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. NELSON. I thought the Senator from Idaho was through and was about to sit down.

Mr. FRYE. Mr. President, is not this debate proceeding under Rule VIII?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is under Rule VIII.

Mr. FRYE. No Senator is entitled to speak more than once, and then for not over five minutes.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is the rule, and the rule will be enforced if there is objection to any other course of proceeding.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. President, I think an important bill like this ought not to be passed unless there is a full attendance of the Senate. I can not say that I am infatuated with the idea of securing this ground and planting all of our public buildings on the south side of the Avenue. If gentlemen will examine old plats of the city of Washington they will find that a creek called Goose Creek, or the Tiber, came from the north to the foot of Capitol Hill, and flowed in a westerly direction, and that all the ground which it is proposed to acquire along the line of that creek, which has been covered up, is swampy, boggy ground. It would be a most unfortunate thing to my mind to have our public buildings put in that hollow, on that swampy ground. No one will ever know exactly how much it cost to get a foundation for the post-office building. It is quaggy, marshy ground. Another creek came out somewhere between Ninth and Tenth streets, and the whole ground clear down to the outlet of the creek, which you can find west of the Capitol, was all a marsh and a swamp.

This property is occupied by various parties. Business is gradually drifting to the northwest more and more, and this property instead of increasing in value will decrease in value. And more than that, even if we did acquire this property now, we never ought to use it for anything except to enlarge the park. It would be a most unfortunate thing to put all our public buildings in a row along a swampy hollow when we have so much high and dry ground.

The Senator from South Carolina was eminently right when he said that the statue of General Grant, of all our great public men, instead of being put in a hollow like that ought to be put on high, dry, and conspicuous ground.

Mr. President, looking at this subject as I do—and I believe it will involve not only eight or ten million dollars, but fifty million dollars to buy this property, for the real estate men will gather it up and compel the Government to resort to condemnation proceedings—I am compelled to object under Rule VIII to the further consideration of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice. The Secretary will report the next bill on the Calendar.

BLACK RIVER (ARKANSAS) DRAWBRIDGE.

The bill (S. 2694) to authorize the construction of a drawbridge over the Black River in Lawrence County, Ark., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill had been reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 6, after the word "with," to strike out "plans and specifications therefor to be approved by the Secretary of War and in accordance with the rules and regulations adopted by the Secretary of War in such cases" and insert "the provisions of the act entitled 'An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters,' approved March 23, 1906;" so as to make the section read:

That Maxwell Coffin and his assigns are hereby authorized to construct a railroad and wagon drawbridge across Black River at or near the town of Powhatan, in the county of Lawrence and State of Arkansas, in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled "An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters," approved March 23, 1906.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was to strike out all of section 2 and to insert in lieu thereof the following:

SEC. 2. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CONDITIONS IN CUBA.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read and, with accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Cuban Relations and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I inclose the report of Provisional Governor Magoon on the conditions in Cuba, together with the correspondence between Secretary Taft and myself on the subject. I can not too heartily commend the action of the provisional governor and his civil associates and of the Army in all its parts in connection with this Cuban matter. I am glad to be able to say that we can now definitely announce that one year hence, by or before February 1, 1909, we shall have turned over the island to the President and Congress to be elected next December by the people of Cuba. Prosperity, peace, and happiness have attended the exercise of our government in Cuba. Our word to turn over the island to its own people will be scrupulously regarded, and through their own President and Congress they will administer the government of the island a year hence.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 14, 1908.

HOUSE BILL REFERRED.

H. R. 300. An act providing for second homestead entries was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. CULLOM. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After fifteen minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 2 o'clock p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Wednesday, January 15, 1908, at 12 o'clock meridian.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate January 14, 1908.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE.

James S. Young, of Pennsylvania, to be United States district judge, western district of Pennsylvania, vice Nathaniel Ewing, resigned.

POSTMASTERS.

ARKANSAS.

Charles L. Jones to be postmaster at Junction, Union County, Ark., in place of Charles L. Jones. Incumbent's commission expires March 2, 1908.

CALIFORNIA.

Arthur G. Fisk to be postmaster at San Francisco, San Francisco County, Cal., in place of Arthur G. Fisk. Incumbent's commission expired December 8, 1907.

Angelo Genelly to be postmaster at Los Banos, Merced County, Cal., in place of Angelo Genelly. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Thomas E. Knox to be postmaster at Livermore, Alameda County, Cal., in place of Thomas E. Knox. Incumbent's commission expired February 16, 1907.

Adolphus M. Shenk to be postmaster at Calexico, San Diego County, Cal. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Charles A. Stilson to be postmaster at Oceanpark, Los Angeles County, Cal., in place of C. E. Lovelace, removed.

William F. Wulf to be postmaster at Crescent City, Del Norte County, Cal., in place of William F. Wulf. Incumbent's commission expired November 17, 1907.

FLORIDA.

Christian L. Dohn to be postmaster at New Smyrna, Volusia County, Fla. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

George W. Duncan to be postmaster at Jasper, Hamilton County, Fla., in place of George W. Duncan. Incumbent's commission expired January 30, 1906.

Arthur C. Reid to be postmaster at Newberry, Alachua County, Fla. Office became Presidential April 1, 1907.

John B. White to be postmaster at Mulberry, Polk County, Fla. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

GEORGIA.

Albert S. Anderson to be postmaster at Millen, Jenkins County, Ga., in place of Ransom A. Brinson. Incumbent's commission expired November 24, 1907.

William O. Tift to be postmaster at Tifton, Tift County, Ga., in place of John M. Duff, deceased.

George E. Youmans to be postmaster at Adrian, Emanuel County, Ga. Office became Presidential April 1, 1907.

HAWAII.

John H. Travis to be postmaster at Waipahu, Oahu County, Hawaii. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

IDAHO.

Waller E. Babcock to be postmaster at Parma, Canyon County, Idaho. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Mary P. Jones to be postmaster at Malad City, Oneida County, Idaho. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Charles W. Wilson to be postmaster at Sandpoint, Bonner County, Idaho, in place of Charles W. Wilson. Incumbent's commission expires January 14, 1908.

ILLINOIS.

Josiah R. Bent to be postmaster at Oglesby, La Salle County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Erich H. Buente to be postmaster at Venice, Madison County, Ill., in place of Erich H. Buente. Incumbent's commission expired November 24, 1907.

Henry J. Cheeseman to be postmaster at Princeville, Peoria County, Ill., in place of Henry J. Cheeseman. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Jesse F. Poplin to be postmaster at Somonauk, Dekalb County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Charles F. Renich to be postmaster at Woodstock, McHenry County, Ill., in place of Charles F. Renich. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Thomas D. Shipton to be postmaster at Hanover, Jo Daviess County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Charles E. Tanner to be postmaster at Minier, Tazewell County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

George P. Wilson to be postmaster at Orion, Henry County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Rollin H. Woods to be postmaster at Rock Falls, Whiteside County, Ill., in place of William Parker, deceased.

INDIANA.

Edward C. Faith to be postmaster at Washington, Daviess County, Ind., in place of Edward C. Faith. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

Frank M. Pickerl to be postmaster at Argos, Marshall County, Ind., in place of Frank M. Pickerl. Incumbent's commission expires January 21, 1908.

James Pickering to be postmaster at Oxford, Benton County, Ind., in place of James Pickering. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Thompson Turner to be postmaster at Walkerton, St. Joseph County, Ind., in place of Thompson Turner. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

IOWA.

Simon D. Breuning to be postmaster at Ackley, Hardin County, Iowa, in place of Simon D. Breuning. Incumbent's commission expired December 14, 1907.

Manuel H. Davis to be postmaster at Mitchellville, Polk County, Iowa. Office became became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Walter E. Newsome to be postmaster at Sabula, Jackson County, Iowa. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

T. J. Ochiltree to be postmaster at Morning Sun, Louisa County, Iowa, in place of T. J. Ochiltree. Incumbent's commission expires January 22, 1908.

Charlie B. Warner to be postmaster at Central City, Linn County, Iowa, in place of Charlie B. Warner. Incumbent's commission expires January 22, 1908.

Oscar E. Wood to be postmaster at Union, Hardin County, Iowa. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

KANSAS.

Edward C. Hill to be postmaster at Burr Oak, Jewell County, Kans., in place of Edward C. Hill. Incumbent's commission expires January 22, 1908.

Roy A. Hoisington to be postmaster at Leoti, Wichita County, Kans. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

LOUISIANA.

Raoul J. Bienvenu to be postmaster at St. Martinville, St. Martin Parish, La., in place of Raoul J. Bienvenu. Incumbent's commission expired February 26, 1907.

Henry C. Edwards to be postmaster at Marksville, Avoyelles Parish, La., in place of Henry C. Edwards. Incumbent's commission expired February 26, 1907.

Bernard Isaacs to be postmaster at Gueydan, Vermilion Parish, La., in place of Bernard Isaacs. Incumbent's commission expired February 26, 1907.

Thomas J. Johnson to be postmaster at Berwick, St. Mary County, La. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

Amy C. Reiley to be postmaster at Clinton, East Feliciana Parish, La., in place of Amy C. Reiley. Incumbent's commission expired February 26, 1907.

W. M. Terry to be postmaster at Welsh, Calcasieu Parish, La., in place of Charles H. Austin, resigned.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Clara S. Hill to be postmaster at Amherst, Hampshire County, Mass., in place of Clara S. Hill. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

William L. Lathrop to be postmaster at Orange, Franklin County, Mass., in place of William L. Lathrop. Incumbent's commission expired January 5, 1908.

George L. Minott to be postmaster at Gardner, Worcester County, Mass., in place of George L. Minott. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

Charles Newhall to be postmaster at Danvers, Essex County, Mass., in place of Charles Newhall. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Everett I. Nye to be postmaster at Wellfleet, Barnstable County, Mass., in place of Everett I. Nye. Incumbent's commission expired January 4, 1908.

Agnes J. Smith to be postmaster at Stockbridge, Berkshire County, Mass., in place of Agnes J. Smith. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

William H. Sprague to be postmaster at Stoneham, Middlesex County, Mass., in place of William H. Sprague. Incumbent's commission expires January 14, 1908.

Charles E. Wallace to be postmaster at Fitchburg, Worcester County, Mass., in place of Charles E. Wallace. Incumbent's commission expired January 5, 1908.

MICHIGAN.

Archibald K. Dougherty to be postmaster at Elk Rapids, Antrim County, Mich., in place of Archibald K. Dougherty. Incumbent's commission expired December 17, 1907.

Edward F. Evarts to be postmaster at Chesaning, Saginaw County, Mich., in place of Edward F. Evarts. Incumbent's commission expired January 5, 1908.

Edgar B. Gregory to be postmaster at Jonesville, Hillsdale County, Mich., in place of Edgar B. Gregory. Incumbent's commission expires January 21, 1908.

Willard E. Holt to be postmaster at Bellevue, Eaton County, Mich., in place of Willard E. Holt. Incumbent's commission expired January 4, 1908.

George Preston to be postmaster at Grass Lake, Jackson County, Mich., in place of George Preston. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

MINNESOTA.

Carl S. Dahlquist to be postmaster at Baudette, Beltrami County, Minn. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Hakon E. Glassoe to be postmaster at Lanesboro, Fillmore County, Minn., in place of Hakon E. Glassoe. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

John A. Hawkinson to be postmaster at Parkers Prairie, Otter Tail County, Minn. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

John H. Nutt to be postmaster at Sumrall, Lamar County, Miss. Office became Presidential April 1, 1907.

MISSOURI.

Dwight L. Bishop to postmaster at Garden City, Cass County, Mo. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Stephen D. Bryan to be postmaster at Bismarck, St. Francois County, Mo. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Richard Collier to be postmaster at Shelbyville, Shelby County, Mo., in place of James M. Freeman. Incumbent's commission expires February 2, 1908.

William G. Hughes to be postmaster at Bucklin, Linn County, Mo. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

John P. Rankin to be postmaster at Higbee, Randolph County, Mo., in place of John P. Rankin. Incumbent's commission expires February 3, 1908.

MONTANA.

Charles S. Stafford to be postmaster at Culbertson, Valley County, Mont. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

NEBRASKA.

George A. Allen to be postmaster at Clay Center, Clay County, Nebr., in place of John M. Jones. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Calvin Bradshaw to be postmaster at Farnham, Dawson County, Nebr. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Henry Kleven to be postmaster at Culbertson, Hitchcock County, Nebr. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Francis M. Pfrimmer to be postmaster at Stratton, Hitchcock County, Nebr. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Erick P. Reichardt to be postmaster at Oxford, Furnas County, Nebr., in place of James L. Lashbrook, resigned.

NEVADA.

Benjamin I. Barlow to be postmaster at Columbia, Esmeralda County, Nev. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Henry S. Starrett to be postmaster at Battle Mountain, Lander County, Nev. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

George A. McIntire to be postmaster at Milford, Hillsboro County, N. H., in place of George A. McIntire. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

Henry E. Merrick to be postmaster at Henniker, Merrimack County, N. H., in place of Henry E. Merrick. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Edwin B. Pike to be postmaster at Pike, Grafton County, N. H., in place of Edwin B. Pike. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Ernest R. Roberts to be postmaster at Salmon Falls, Strafford County, N. H. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

George D. Stevens to be postmaster at Durham, Strafford County, N. H., in place of George D. Stevens. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

NEW YORK.

Delano D. Cottrell to be postmaster at North Cohocton, Steuben County, N. Y., in place of Delano D. Cottrell. Incumbent's commission expires February 2, 1908.

Daniel L. Fethers to be postmaster at Sharon Springs, Schoharie County, N. Y. Office became Presidential July 1, 1900.

William E. Sutfin to be postmaster at Freeville, Tompkins County, N. Y. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Henry P. Wilcox to be postmaster at Cohocton, Steuben County, N. Y., in place of Henry P. Wilcox. Incumbent's commission expires February 2, 1908.

NORTH CAROLINA.

William E. Lindsey to be postmaster at Chapelhill, Orange County, N. C., in place of William A. Lloyd, removed.

Jesse D. Sharp to be postmaster at Elm City, Wilson County, N. C. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Elisha C. Terry to be postmaster at Hamlet, Richmond County, N. C., in place of Elisha C. Terry. Incumbent's commission expired November 24, 1907.

NORTH DAKOTA.

John S. Gee to be postmaster at Flaxton, Ward County, N. Dak. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

Reinhart Gilbertsen to be postmaster at Glenburn, Ward County, N. Dak. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

Mathew Lynch to be postmaster at Lidgerwood, Richland County, N. Dak., in place of Mathew Lynch. Incumbent's commission expired December 19, 1907.

OHIO.

Clayton H. Bishop to be postmaster at Centerburg, Knox County, Ohio, in place of Clayton H. Bishop. Incumbent's commission expired January 14, 1907.

William McC. Crozier to be postmaster at Cumberland, Guernsey County, Ohio. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

William P. Gillam to be postmaster at Nevada, Wyandot County, Ohio, in place of William P. Gillam. Incumbent's commission expired January 5, 1908.

Nellie F. Sheridan to be postmaster at Somerset, Perry County, Ohio, in place of Nellie F. Sheridan. Incumbent's commission expired December 18, 1907.

OKLAHOMA.

Dudley B. Buell to be postmaster at Krebs, Pittsburg County, Okla. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

Newton S. Figley to be postmaster at Hastings, Comanche County, Okla. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

PENNSYLVANIA.

James G. Cook to be postmaster at New Alexandria, Westmoreland County, Pa. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

George W. Mullen to be postmaster at Dillsburg, York County, Pa., in place of George W. Mullen. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

Samuel G. Wilson to be postmaster at Bridgeport, Montgomery County, Pa., in place of Samuel G. Wilson. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

J. E. Stuckey to be postmaster at Bishopville, Lee County, S. C., in place of John E. McLure, resigned.

TENNESSEE.

John L. Murray to be postmaster at Lexington, Henderson County, Tenn., in place of John L. Murray. Incumbent's commission expired January 19, 1907.

U. S. Rose to be postmaster at Crossville, Cumberland County, Tenn. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Christopher C. Stribling to be postmaster at Clifton, Wayne County, Tenn. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

W. H. Wilson to be postmaster at Martin, Weakley County, Tenn., in place of John S. Hornsby. Incumbent's commission expired January 13, 1906.

VERMONT.

Willard S. Hatch to be postmaster at Chelsea, Orange County, Vt. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

TEXAS.

Frederick Loudon to be postmaster at Fredericksburg, Gillespie County, Tex., in place of James Larson, resigned.

WASHINGTON.

William M. Isenhart to be postmaster at Chelan, Chelan County, Wash. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

WEST VIRGINIA.

H. P. Graham to be postmaster at Keystone, McDowell County, W. Va., in place of John A. Dinsmore. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

WISCONSIN.

Peter E. Nelson to be postmaster at Cashton, Monroe County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Joseph A. Oenning to be postmaster at Fountain City, Buffalo County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Lansing A. Wilcox to be postmaster at Cadott, Chippewa County, Wis., in place of Lansing A. Wilcox. Incumbent's commission expires January 21, 1908.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Executive nominations confirmed by the Senate, January 14, 1908.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

Fred Dennett, of Milton, N. Dak., to be Commissioner of the General Land Office.

GOVERNOR OF NEW MEXICO.

George Curry, of Tularosa, N. Mex., to be governor of New Mexico.

SECRETARY OF NEW MEXICO.

Nathan Jaffa, of Roswell, N. Mex., to be secretary of New Mexico.

SECRETARY OF ARIZONA.

John H. Page, of Arizona, to be secretary of Arizona.

CONSULS.

George H. Scidmore, of Wisconsin, to be consul of the United States of class 6 at Nagasaki, Japan.

John N. McCunn, of Wisconsin, to be consul of the United States of class 4 at Glasgow, Scotland.

SURVEYOR OF CUSTOMS.

Ernest I. Edgcomb, of New York, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Syracuse, in the State of New York.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS.

John A. Thornton, of Louisiana, to be collector of customs for the district of Teche, in the State of Louisiana.

MARSHAL.

Gilbert B. Deans, of Alabama, to be United States marshal for the southern district of Alabama.

UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS.

Oliver D. Street, of Alabama, to be United States attorney for the northern district of Alabama.

William H. Armbrecht, of Alabama, to be United States attorney for the southern district of Alabama.

PENSION AGENT.

Jesse B. Fuller, of California, to be pension agent at San Francisco, Cal.

PROMOTIONS IN THE REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE.

Cadet John Jenkins Hutson, of North Carolina, to be third lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States.

Cadet John Farrell McGourty, of Massachusetts, to be third lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States.

Cadet Chester Hardy Jones, of Massachusetts, to be third lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States.

PROMOTIONS IN THE NAVY.

Capt. John E. Pillsbury, United States Navy, to be Chief of the Bureau of Navigation in the Department of the Navy, with the rank of rear-admiral, for a period of four years.

Capt. Charles W. Rae, United States Navy, to be Engineer-in-Chief and Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering in the Department of the Navy, with the rank of rear-admiral, for a period of four years.

Naval Constructor Washington L. Capps, United States Navy, to be Chief Constructor and Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair in the Department of the Navy, with the rank of rear-admiral, for a period of four years.

Civil Engineer Richard C. Hollyday, United States Navy, to be Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks in the Department of the Navy, with the rank of rear-admiral, for a period of four years.

Lieut. Commander Edward H. Campbell to be Judge-Advocate-General of the Navy, with the rank of captain, for a period of four years.

Commander Charles B. T. Moore to be a captain in the Navy from the 1st day of July, 1907.

Surg. Averley C. H. Russell to be a medical inspector in the Navy from the 7th day of May, 1907.

To be passed assistant surgeons:

Frederick E. Porter from June 7, 1907;

Paul T. Dessez from June 10, 1907;

William N. McDonell from September 19, 1907; and

Eugene A. Vickery from October 11, 1907.

Second Lieut. Frederick A. Barker to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 19th day of December, 1906, vice Second Lieut. Maurice V. Campbell, who was due for promotion, but was honorably discharged before qualifying therefor.

First Lieut. Douglas C. McDougal to be a captain in the Marine Corps from the 14th day of November, 1907.

Second Lieut. William T. Hoadley to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 14th day of November, 1907.

Second Lieut. Alexander T. Watson to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 31st day of December, 1907.

Maj. Joseph H. Pendleton to be a lieutenant-colonel in the Marine Corps from the 1st day of January, 1908.

First Lieut. Presley M. Rixey, jr., to be a captain in the Marine Corps from the 1st day of January, 1908.

Second Lieut. Emile P. Moses to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 1st day of January, 1908.

Second Lieut. Harold F. Wirgman to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 2d day of January, 1908.

The following-named captains, who were transferred to the retired list of the Navy, from the 30th day of June, 1907, to be rear-admirals on the retired list of the Navy, from that date, in accordance with a provision contained in the naval appropriation act approved June 29, 1906:

George P. Colvocoresses,

William H. Reeder,

John M. Hawley, and

Perry Garst.

Lieut. Hutch I. Cone to be a lieutenant-commander in the Navy from the 1st day of January, 1908.

Lieut. Roscoe C. Bulmer to be a lieutenant-commander in the Navy from the 3d day of January, 1908.

Second Lieut. Lauren S. Willis to be a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps from the 17th day of July, 1906.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE NAVY.

To be assistant surgeons in the Navy:

Lawrence M. Schmidt, of Illinois, and Egbert G. Mackenzie, of New Jersey.

POSTMASTERS.

FLORIDA.

George A. Alba to be postmaster at St. Augustine, in the county of St. John and State of Florida.

GEORGIA.

John A. Crawford to be postmaster at Dalton, in the county of Whitfield and State of Georgia.

MISSISSIPPI.

James R. S. Pitts to be postmaster at Waynesboro, in the county of Wayne and State of Mississippi.

NEW YORK.

Manly A. Aiken to be postmaster at Kenwood, Madison County, N. Y.

John Diesend to be postmaster at Tuckahoe, Westchester County, N. Y.

Myatt E. Goring to be postmaster at Wappingers Falls, Dutchess County, N. Y.

Alexander M. Harriott to be postmaster at Rye, Westchester County, N. Y.

Warren J. Martin to be postmaster at Port Chester, Westchester County, N. Y.

Charles F. Shelland to be postmaster at Oneonta, Otsego County, N. Y.

Harvey D. Waite to be postmaster at Berlin, Rensselaer County, N. Y.

Peter H. Zimmerman to be postmaster at Wayland, Steuben County, N. Y.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Charles A. Jonas to be postmaster at Lincolnton, in the county of Lincoln and State of North Carolina.

William J. Leary, sr., to be postmaster at Edenton, in the county of Chowan and State of North Carolina.

John R. Mobley to be postmaster at Williamston, in the county of Martin and State of North Carolina.

OHIO.

Charles H. Bryson to be postmaster at Athens, Athens county, Ohio.

Otis T. Locke to be postmaster at Tiffin, Seneca county, Ohio.

REJECTIONS.

Executive nominations rejected by the Senate January 14, 1908.

POSTMASTERS.

OHIO.

David C. Mahon to be postmaster at Dennison, in the county of Tuscarawas and State of Ohio.

Emil H. Moser to be postmaster at Wapakoneta, Auglaize County, Ohio.

John F. Wetherill to be postmaster at Spencerville, in the county of Allen and State of Ohio.

George W. White to be postmaster at Uhrichsville, in the county of Tuscarawas and State of Ohio.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 14, 1908.

The House met at 12 o'clock m.

Prayer by Rev. CHARLES D. BULLA, of Alexandria, Va.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

By uanimous consent, reference of House Document No. 481, being an estimate for elimination of grade crossings, District of Columbia, was changed from the Committee on the District of Columbia to the Committee on Appropriations.

BRIDGES ACROSS GRAND CALUMET RIVER, INDIANA.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 11330) to authorize the Chicago, Indiana and Southern Railroad Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the town of Gary, Ind., which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read the bill at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I would ask the gentleman a question. Is this a unanimous report from the committee?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. This bill is in the prescribed form and reported unanimously by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CRUMPACKER, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Chairman, I also ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 11331) to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the town of Gary, Ind., with an amendment thereto, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company, a consolidated corporation of the States of Ohio and Indiana, is hereby authorized to construct, maintain, and operate a bridge across the Grand Calumet River at or near the town of Gary, Lake County, Ind., in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters," approved March 23, 1906.

SEC. 2. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

Amend the title so as to read: "A bill to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River at or near the town of Gary, Ind."

With the following committee amendment:

In line 6 strike out the words "a point in" and insert in lieu thereof the words "or near."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none, and the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question now is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill as amended.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CRUMPACKER a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a correction of an article which I find in the Washington Herald of this morning. I will read the paragraph to which I make objection. It is as follows:

A delegate from the bookbinders said a bill had been introduced in Congress by Congressman SMITH, of Missouri, which made it a penal offense for members of a labor union to strike, and provided a penalty—a fine of not more than $5,000, or imprisonment for ten years.

He said an amendment had been also introduced by Congressman HUGHES, of New Jersey, which provided that this bill should not interfere with the rights of organized labor, but had been lost.

At the time referred to, Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole of this House had under consideration section 19 of the penal code, known as the Kuklux statute, leveled against conspiracies of two or more from entering into agreements that might be classified or denominated as conspiracies. In my judgment, it embraced agreements and contracts that labor unions or locals might enter into in undertaking to declare a strike or a boycott, and in order to relieve the section of that ambiguity and of possibly that construction I offered the following amendment which I desire to read into my remarks——

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that the gentleman presents no question of personal privilege so far, and I suppose he has stated what he complains of.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, unless the Speaker is going to rule in favor of the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. SMITH], to have a statement which one makes in the House, an amendment that one offers, turned wrong end foremost in the public press and to have exactly the contrary effect from that intended, is surely a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is inclined to believe that it does not come within the rule. The gentleman might proceed, however, by unanimous consent.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman may proceed for five minutes.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman may have five minutes.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, the amendment I refer to is as follows:

Provided, That nothing in this section shall embrace any agreements made by labor or trade unions that shall result in or affect the declaring of a strike or boycott, nor any efforts in the exercise of free speech made by such labor or trade unions after such strike or boycott shall have been declared: Provided, Such efforts are made in a peaceable manner: And provided further, That they are made for the purpose of inducing nonunion persons to act with them and against the company or corporation against which the strike or boycott has been declared, even though such company or corporation be injured thereby in its property rights.

Now, I am entirely satisfied of this fact, that the person who made the statement purporting to be quoted in the Herald misunderstood the facts. I am not of the opinion that he made the statement with malice or with the purpose of injuring me, but not being, as a rule, accustomed to meeting such amendments, he got the wrong impression and conception of it. The amendment was intended for exactly the opposite to what the Herald said it was intended. It was intended to relieve labor unions, and, I might say, aid them, when preparing to declare a strike or boycott, the exact purpose as expressed in the amendment itself.

I believe its language is in as clear and precise words as could be very well found. It might possibly be limited, so far as words are concerned, but by limiting it ambiguity, in all probability, would arise. My purpose was to save labor unions undertaking a boycott or strike, in a lawful manner, from prosecution under a section which I believe is subject to that construction which has been placed upon it. In fact, the statute has been, as I understand, invoked within the last few days in Colorado for the express purpose of prosecuting laboring men—miners about to strike.

Now, Mr. Chairman, these remarks are made for the purpose of protecting my standing at home and here, because I want to be correctly reported when the newspapers are pleased to speak about me whatever. [Applause.]

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of joint resolution No. 88.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 88) to amend the act of March 4, 1907, making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, so as to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent an increased proportion of the appropriation made by said act for rent for the Bureau of Forestry.

Resolved, etc., That the act of Congress approved March 4, 1907, entitled "An act making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908," be, and the same is hereby, amended to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent not to exceed $60,000 of the moneys appropriated by said act for general expenses of the Forest Service, instead of "not to exceed $40,000" for such purpose, as provided in said act.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I desire to have some explanation.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the act approved March 4, 1907, making an appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Agriculture during the current year provides that not to exceed $40,000 of the amount appropriated for the use of the Bureau of Forestry may be expended for rent. Since that act was passed there have been added to the national forests about 25,000,000 acres of land. The administration of this additional territory has, of course, involved the employment of a large number of additional people, and that has in its turn involved the necessity of additional employment not only of men in the field, but also of additional clerks here in Washington. I may say that this resolution was introduced at the request of the Secretary of Agriculture, whose letter I hold in my hand and from which I will read a brief paragraph:

It has been necessary, for the proper administration of the national forests, to open many new headquarters for the field officers and to enlarge the quarters of the service in Washington. Unless the Secretary of Agriculture is given authority to spend for rent an increased portion of the moneys appropriated by the act of Congress referred to, the field officers of the service will be seriously inconvenienced and hampered in their work.

The committee considered the resolution very carefully, having before it an officer of the Forestry Bureau, and brings in this resolution with a unanimous report.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Is this not in effect a deficiency appropriation?

Mr. SCOTT. Well, I do not so regard it, because it merely provides for the modification of an appropriation—increasing the amount that may be used for a particular purpose. It does not involve an increase in the appropriation.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Under the law the Department has authority to expend such proportion of its appropriation as it pleases for rent outside of the city of Washington. The limitation is merely upon the expenditure to be made for rent of offices in the city of Washington or District of Columbia.

Mr. SCOTT. No; that limitation is not placed upon the original appropriation.

Mr. FITZGERALD. There is a limitation under the general law that no money shall be expended for rent in the District of Columbia unless otherwise authorized by Congress, and the Department could in the conduct of its business extend these general expenses for rent outside of Washington, while it can not expend it for additional quarters in Washington.

Mr. SCOTT. The appropriation has already been made for rent both within the city of Washington and without the city of Washington, the limitation upon the amount being placed in the aggregate of $40,000. It is now the desire simply to increase that allowance by $20,000 additional, making it $60,000.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Well, is it a fact the Department gets $20,000 more for general expenses than is granted, or will it come back asking for $20,000 additional in its appropriation for this fiscal year?

Mr. SCOTT. Oh, no; it simply means the Department will have to limit its activity in other directions on account of the necessity of providing for these needs.

Mr CRUMPACKER. As I understand, this resolution purports to amend simply a limitation that was imposed upon a lump-sum appropriation; is that right?

Mr. SCOTT. That is right.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. So that it is simply an amendment to a limitation increasing the amount of a sum that has already been appropriated.

Mr. SCOTT. That is the purpose of the resolution.

Mr. FITZGERALD. I understand the chairman of the Committee on Agriculture assures the House that the Department will not come back with a deficiency of $20,000 for this fund.

Mr. SCOTT. I think I can say I will be personally responsible for that proposition.

Mr. FITZGERALD. I feel sorry for the gentleman's confidence.

Mr. TAWNEY. As I understand, you made it possible for the Department of Agriculture to use $40,000 of the lump-sum appropriation for the Forestry Service for rent in the city of Washington?

Mr. SCOTT. That is right—I beg your pardon—in the city of Washington and outside of the city of Washington.

Mr. TAWNEY. Well, in the city of Washington and outside the city of Washington. Now is it the committee's purpose to increase that lump $20,000?

Mr. SCOTT. It increases the amount $20,000, making the total sum available for rent $60,000.

Mr. TAWNEY. In the reading of the resolution as I heard it from the Clerk's desk I did not catch whether it was an increase simply of $20,000 or not, and I thought by asking this question that I would get it in the RECORD, so that the Department would not consider that it had authority to use $60,000 additional.

Mr. SCOTT. I do not think there can be any doubt about the construction put upon the resolution. The wording is very plain. Mr. Speaker, I call for a vote.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read a third time and passed.

On motion of Mr. SCOTT, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the joint resolution was passed was laid on the table.

COMMITTEE ON THE LIBRARY.

Mr. McCALL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Library be authorized to have such printing and binding done as may be necessary in the transaction of its business.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. McCALL. Mr. Speaker, I also offer the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Library be authorized to sit during sessions of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

BRIDGE ACROSS CACHE RIVER.

Mr. MACON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 12412).

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. MACON] asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of a bill, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Arkansas, its successors and assigns, be, and they are hereby, authorized to construct, maintain, and operate a bridge and approaches thereto across the Cache River at or near a point in section 21, township 5 north, range 3 west, in Woodruff County, in the State of Arkansas, in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled "An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters," approved March 23, 1906.

SEC. 2. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

Also the following committee amendment:

In line 7 strike out "or near," after the word "at," and insert after the word "point," in the same line, "suitable to the interests of navigation."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The question is on agreeing to the committee amendment.

The question was taken, and the committee amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read a third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. MACON, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed was laid on the table.

REVISION OF CRIMINAL CODE.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I now move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 11701).

The motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the penal codification bill, with Mr. BANNON in the chair.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend by striking out section 45.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILSON] moves to strike out section 45. The gentleman is recognized for five minutes.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, is there an amendment to this section now pending?

The CHAIRMAN. There is not.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, if the committee having charge of the codification, revision, and amendment of the criminal laws had confined itself to the codification of the same, I would not at this time or at any time during the consideration of the bill have proposed any amendment, but would have confined myself solely to the classification and arrangement of the same. But the committee has considered the measure to the extent of proposing amendments, adding to and taking from the criminal code as it now exists, and present this bill in that form. I believe, therefore, that it is proper, the committee having considered the criminal code for the purpose of amendment, that the House should consider it for the same purpose, and that in passing over these various sections we should take sufficient time to see that they conform to our present standard of civilization.

The section in question, that I have moved to strike out, provides that any man who induces a workman or artificer engaged in the arsenals or armories of the Government to leave that employment may be fined or imprisoned. In my opinion, that is a false conception of our criminal policy. If you are going to punish for a violation of civil contracts to labor, then I hold that when an employer of labor violates that civil contract, whether it is the Government or a private employer of labor, that he should be subject to the same punishment that you inflict upon the employee when he violates the contract, and no provision is made anywhere in our criminal code for punishment by fine or imprisonment of any employer of labor for a violation of a civil contract to labor. If the workman seeks employment with the Government and finds it there, and is employed either at will or for a specified time, the Government at any time, or the agents of the Goverment at any time, may dismiss him for cause or for no cause, and the agent of the Government responsible for that dismissal is not punished by fine or imprisonment, and the only recourse that the dismissed employee has is in our civil courts in a suit to recover for damages. The same should be the case with regard to employees. They enter into a civil contract to perform labor. If they violate that contract, then the recourse of the employer, whether an agent of the Government or a private employer, should be a civil suit to recover damages for the injury done by the violation of the contract, and not by criminal punishment.

Yet this bill discriminates in that manner. The law to-day discriminates in that manner. You may say that the workman is poor; that he has no property from which you can recover in a suit for damages if he violates a contract to labor. That may be true, and it is so much the worse for the workman. But if he has no property, if he has no means, then he is bankrupt, and you should no more punish him for that bankruptcy and that failure to make good than you would punish the employer of labor for the same offense. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Vote!

Mr. COCKRAN. One moment. I do trust that the committee will vouchsafe some explanation of this very remarkable paragraph. We have here a section which may expose a person to prosecution, conviction, and serious punishment who, in the ordinary course of things, might never dream that there was any crime or act of turpitude involved in the transaction which it prohibits. Now, we are here to codify, revise, and make clear the law, so that every citizen knowing its provisions will, if he choose, be able to obey it. I do hope this body will not, by reenacting obscure, doubtful, or obsolete laws, occupy itself in preparing pitfalls for the footsteps of the citizen. Here is a section so extraordinary that I do not believe any member of this committee understands it; yet we are asked to vote upon it under the whip and spur of a shout from the other side. If this be a genuine revision of the penal laws, I protest against the suppression of inquiries so obviously legitimate as this.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Will the gentleman allow a question?

Mr. COCKRAN. Certainly.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Does not the acute mind of the gentleman discover an element of public policy in this section? Arsenals and armories are institutions connected with the public defense, and the gentleman will notice that it is no crime for a workman or artificer to quit employment, but it is made a crime for anyone else to induce or procure one to quit an institution that is so intimately associated with the public defense. Therefore it embodies an important element of public policy.

Mr. COCKRAN. Is that the explanation?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. That is my judgment.

Mr. COCKRAN. May I ask, are you a member of the committee?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. I am not. That is the way it strikes the ordinary mind.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from New York yield to the gentleman from Mississippi?

Mr. COCKRAN. With pleasure.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The element of public policy that exists in this matter could exist only in the case of war. The gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB] attempted to recognize the element of public policy in so far as it really existed by the amendment he offered on yesterday, which was voted down, saying that this should be law during war. During times of peace there is no element of public policy entering into it. It is not a matter of public defense, because the Government is not defending itself. It is merely an industrial pursuit in which a man is engaged, with a contract obligation existing between him and the Government, and it stands upon no higher possible base than the same contract between me and an employee if I were carrying on the business of constructing cannon, or between me and an employee if I am carrying on the business of raising a cotton crop.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I should like to submit to the gentleman that in time of peace the Government is engaged in preparing for war; and if we did not keep them going at the arsenal in time of peace, we should not have them ready in time of war.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I will answer that——

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I want to say a little more.

Mr. COCKRAN. I am perfectly ready to yield the floor for a question, but——

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I beg the gentleman's pardon.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman declines to yield further.

Mr. COCKRAN. I call attention now to the fact that here we have explanations of this extraordinary section offered, not by members of the committee which has reported it, but by gentlemen who are quite as innocent of the actual causes that led to its being reported as I am. Surely, if there be any object whatever in revision, it is not merely to compile statutes, because they have been enacted heretofore, but to eliminate those that have become obsolete.

If we may judge from the character of the report accompanying this measure, it would seem that this particular section was passed originally with reference to some peculiar condition existing in the year 1800. Whatever that condition may have been, surely the committee on revision should describe it to this body, so that we who have not made a special study of all these various statutes would be enabled to judge intelligently the reasons that have led to the report in its present form. I trust the chairman of the committee will realize that, in courtesy, at least, he is bound to place before us any reasons he may have for reporting this extraordinary section.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, the implied accusation of the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] of a lack of courtesy upon the part of the chairman of this committee is entirely unwarranted. No request has been made for any explanation before, and now that it is made, I am happy to give it. This section was pretty thoroughly discussed yesterday. The committee based its action in reporting it upon the fact that it was existing law and upon the belief, as has been stated by gentlemen upon the floor of this House, that it was necessary for the protection of the Government. As has been stated by the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HULL], this nation prepares for war in time of peace. This section does not in any sense punish a workman who leaves the employment of the United States Government. That is the error into which gentlemen have fallen in this discussion. It leaves him in the same position as a workman in any other employment. It simply punishes the intermeddler or the man who attempts to get him away from the employer, who, either individually or in conspiracy with other people, attempts to weaken this working arm of the Government. It is existing law, it is good law, and it doesn't make any distinction, except the distinction that always ought to be made in the protection of the Government. It makes no distinction between that and private individuals. That is the reason why the committee reported it, because it is existing law.

Mr. HENRY of Texas. Will the gentleman yield to me for a question?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Certainly.

Mr. HENRY of Texas. The gentleman stated that the section only punishes the person who entices the workman to leave the arsenal. Let me call his attention to a line that punishes the person who employs, harbors, or conceals such person.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. "After due notice."

Mr. HENRY of Texas. It does not exclude that idea.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. After due notice of the fact of employment. I trust the gentleman from New York will not insist or imply any discourtesy on the part of this committee or its chairman.

Mr. COCKRAN. Had the gentleman from Pennsylvania made this explanation to us, or had any person on behalf of his committe made it, the criticism which I have just ventured would have been wholly unjustifiable. But I challenge him to find in the RECORD one word explaining that section until he has vouchsafed it here under the whip and spur of remonstrance. I am sorry the occasion for it arose, but, Mr. Chairman, I have no apology to make for a course which has procured such a flood of light upon a question so obscure.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I hope the gentleman will not be sarcastic. I do not propose to prolong the discussion. I do not believe it is necessary upon the part of the chairman of this committee to make an explanation always, nor discuss upon the floor of the House a provision which is perfectly clear. The chairman of the committee has work enough to superintend this legislation without duplicating what has already been said, and so well said.

Mr. COCKRAN. Where was anything of the kind said by anyone? I ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania where it has been said, by him or on behalf of his committee before he spoke—where has one word of explanation been vouchsafed to this committee upon this section?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I have not the record.

Mr. COCKRAN. Here it is.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. This section was discussed, and my recollection is that this section was fully explained.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, said that this section does in no manner punish the man that is employed by the Government in the arsenal or armory. In that he is mistaken. It punishes him by depriving him of employment at a better wage, and it does that in a twofold way; first, by punishing any man who comes to him and offers him a better wage, and, secondly, by punishing any man who employs him while he is under contract to the Government.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HULL] has said——

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. And it punishes a man who harbors or conceals him.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I understand that. The gentleman from Iowa, repeating that old-time, worn, foolish phrase, "In times of peace prepare for war," which ought to be "In times of peace prepare for a better established peace." The gentleman says that there is an element of desertion or a lack of patriotism, or something of that sort, in the action of the man who leaves the arsenal or the armory in times of peace. He asked the question, How are we going to prepare for war when war comes if these men be not restrained to their employment? My answer is, you are to keep the armories going just as I keep up my work, just as every farmer or contractor keeps up his work, namely, by offering wages sufficient to keep the laboring man at work. [Applause.]

That is the answer to that. Now, I am willing to admit that in time of war for a man to leave the employment of the Government when he was constructing arms of defense for the Government, in strain and stress of struggle, does bear with it a certain element of desertion of the cause of the Government. I wished to see adopted the amendment of the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB], confining this enactment to time of war, because in time of war every man engaged in a Government workshop is in a certain sense "a soldier of the Republic," and should so regard himself. Moreover, in time of war you would not find men—such is the patriotism of the American workmen—leaving the Government service merely because they can get higher pay somewhere. But in time of peace workmen ought to be free to leave it whenever they can get a better wage anywhere else. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Mr. Chairman, as this law was originally passed in 1800, it seems to me the country has got along pretty well without any oppression of labor for more than a century, and it has been reserved for statesmen in 1908 to discover the danger of it.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Will the gentleman permit one interruption there?

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Yes.

Mr. WILLIAMS. At that time laws similar to that affecting apprentices and workmen were upon the statutes of England and all of the States with regard to all sorts of employment.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I understand they are in Mississippi today, and that in regard to labor in the cotton fields, if I am not misinformed, it is a crime to try to persuade a man to leave picking cotton during the season. Mr. Chairman, this is not a punishment of the man for leaving any arsenal. He can quit his work whenever he wants to without being subject under this law to any punishment. It is only a punishment of the man that organizes to stop public work by going in and interfering with legitimate contracts with the Government, and so far as the wages are concerned the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS], as leader of the minority, should know that the Government of the United States, at every arsenal and every armory under the Military Establishment, is compelled to pay the highest rate of wages prevailing in similar employment outside, and if wages is advanced for similar labor by private persons or corporations the Government at once meets the advance.

Mr. DALZELL. For eight hours' work.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. For eight hours' work, and they are not permitted to work more than eight hours, even where they work more than eight hours outside. They talk about not getting ready for war in time of peace, Mr. Chairman——

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Will the gentleman permit a question?

Mr. HULL of Iowa. One minute. We do it in all lines of military preparation. We have an army in time of peace to drill and equip and get ready for war. If it were not for the danger of war this country would not need one regular soldier. We punish desertion in time of peace as we do in time of war. Of course, this is not on the same basis as desertion. It is a civil contract in the Military Establishment, and when that contract is not satisfactory to the man himself he can quit without punishment, but if there is an organization to break up the work at an arsenal or at an armory or at any place where we are preparing munitions of war in time of peace for use in time of war, the men that organize the conspiracy ought to be punished for it, and it has been the policy of this Government, from its foundation up to the present time, to punish that. I yield now for a question.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Is it not a fact that under this clause any individual employer, without having organized a conspiracy, would be punished or could be punished for offering higher wages to workmen in the armories and arsenals, and thereby inducing the employees to leave?

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I think not, in good faith, because our regulations require that as wages are raised outside the Government must pay the highest rate of wage. No trouble or danger has come to anyone under this law in all our past history. It would be an impossible thing to ever happen in one of our armories.

Mr. HARDY. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Oh, yes.

Mr. HARDY. As I understand this law provides that any citizen after due notice who shall conceal or harbor any man who has quit employment shall be punished. Your law does not punish the laborer, you say, but it takes from the laborer the very means of finding other employment, and as completely binds his hands as if it had placed him in jail, and it speaks of him as being concealed, as though he were flying from pursuit. You say you are not after the laborer, but you are right after him.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. If there is a conspiracy to break up these works all parties engaged in such conspiracy should be punished. Men quit every day in these places. They fulfill their contracts and quit of their own accord. This provision is to protect the Government of the United States against conspiracies by men who want to destroy the ability of the Government to care for its own defense.

Mr. HARDY. But if you have a laborer in your shops——

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. MACON. Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of dealing with the Government as fairly as I deal with individuals, and I know that it is a wrong policy to even encourage the thought of having individuals violate contracts that they have honestly entered into with individuals, and it ought to be the same to encourage anyone to violate a contract honestly entered into with the Government.

This section ought to remain in the law. To strike it out would be an encouragement to persons who contract with the Government to perform a certain class of work to violate the contract whenever anyone offers them a higher wage. I was raised upon a farm, and I know that in January you can employ a person to raise a crop for a much less price per month than you can in April after the crop has been pitched and the grass has begun to grow, and yet, notwithstanding the friendship that exists between farmers, you will find neighbor farmers sometimes offering a higher wage in April to persons who are under contract than they were contracted with for in January. Now, this law as it exists simply requires others to let persons alone who have entered into a contract with the United States Government to perform the service contracted to be performed, to live up to their contract in good faith, and it requires nothing more, and I can not see how a man who believes in the integrity of a contract, who believes in doing things in good faith, can insist for a single moment that we ought by our votes advise, encourage, and induce persons who have contracted with the Government to violate their contract in any sense of the word.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman in charge of the bill if the words of this section are exactly the words of the act of 1800, or in what way they have been changed?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Except the word "artificer," which is no longer in use. There is no such employment.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Has this section been carried in our several codifications of the Federal laws?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Always.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Have we ever had anyone convicted of disobeying this law?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I have no knowledge.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I would like to know. We have been living under this language since 1800, and I understand nobody has disobeyed it or been convicted under it.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Well, I will say to the gentleman I do not think that is any argument against it. If the law is so effective that men obey it there is no reason why we should abrogate it.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I am reminded somewhat of a system, not exactly a system, but there are a number of cases where members of the Navy have left the naval service and been directly and immediately employed by private manufacturing establishments engaged in contracts with the United States. Why not stop that with a similar law? Why, here is a laborer, a sweater, a man with soot and grease on his hands, a man with his sleeves rolled up; he is hemmed in by this statute; no one can employ him knowing he is in the employ of the Government and escape punishment, thereby hampering both.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Yes; if it is short.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. If you will read the statute you will see it does not apply to a man voluntarily quitting Government employment, but to men induced by outside parties to quit and violate a contract.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I understand that; you use the words "due notice." But what is an act of inducement?

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Is it not a fact that on all Government work men quit every month and go into other employment?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I presume so. I do not charge bad faith upon anybody here at all. I am trying to have by law what really I think the Members here want to do and not arbitrarily shut off the freedom of the laborer. Now he can not get outside employment if anyone induces him to leave or anyone employs him without "due notice." In other words, there must be due notice.

Now, then, suppose I want to leave the employment, and I go across the creek, or across the river, or across the city, and seek employment. I go into the manufacturing concern of Hull & Co., and I say, "I am working for the Government of the United States, but I want to work for you." You say, "All right." Now, under this law Hull & Co. are amenable, and yet that means doing nothing more than what any free man in the United States ought to have the right to do, and what any laborer ought to have the right to do, and what Hull & Co. also ought to have the right to do, or Gaines & Co., or any other firm in the country.

Now, what is due notice? You have made it so proscriptive here that the employee's liberty is practically destroyed. The firm that he goes to will say, "We are not allowed to employ you, though I will pay you double your present wage. But we can not employ you. I want you, and you want to leave, as you are tired of working for the Government. They are not giving you enough. You want to work ten hours, and the Government lets you work eight hours," and so on. There are many reasons why an able-bodied, industrious man wants to quit working for the Government. You see how he is hobbled in seeking outside employment. I say that the wording of this statute is too severe upon the rights of a man who wants to quit the Government employ and who wants a man outside of the Government to employ him.

[Cries of "Vote!"]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILSON] to strike out section 45.

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 70, noes 8.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I ask for tellers.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chair appointed the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON], and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILSON] as tellers.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported—ayes 78, noes 104.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. WEBB. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB] offers an amendment, which the Clerk will report.

Mr. WEBB. With the permission of the Chair I will read it. It is as follows:

Add at the end of the section the following:

Provided, That this section shall only apply to said persons so employed in time of war between the United States and any other power or when the President by proclamation shall declare that the enforcement of this section is for the safety of the Republic.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB].

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. WEBB. Division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 46, noes 78.

So the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 47. Whoever shall go upon any military reservation, Army post, fort, or arsenal, for any purpose prohibited by law or military regulation; or whoever shall reenter or be found within any such reservation, post, fort, or arsenal, after having been removed therefrom or ordered not to reenter by any officer or person in command or charge thereof, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

Mr. KEIFER. I notice that this section 47 is a new one. I have no doubt the draftsman intended to cover everything of a certain class. I move that there be added in line 5, after the word "reservation," the words "national cemetery."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Section 47, line 5, after the word "reservation," insert the words "national cemetery."

Mr. KEIFER. I wish to state that it seems to me there is as much importance in keeping and preserving all the police regulations for the national cemeteries of this country as for any post or fort or arsenal or general military reservation. It has been suggested that national cemeteries are military reservations. I do not think they come within that general classification, but it certainly will do no harm to add these words here and leave the section as it is, a penal section, entitled to strict construction, and have it beyond any question.

Mr. STAFFORD. The phraseology, as amended, does not cover even the National Soldiers' Homes, but I doubt from the reading of the paragraph whether it is intended to cover those places. I would like to have some explanation from some member of the committee as to the purpose of this new section.

Mr. KEIFER. I think it is highly important that this amendment should be made.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The national cemeteries have police regulations.

Mr. KEIFER. But they do not have the potential powers that some of the others have.

Mr. WILLIAMS. They make absolute police regulations.

Mr. KEIFER. Army posts have powers, and they are in the provision.

Mr. WILLIAMS. If the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KEIFER] will permit an interruption, the object of this law is to keep out spies, and to keep out people who want to draw maps of forts and arsenals and who want to find out the sort of powder we are compounding. The object is to protect the military secrets of the Government from those in whose possession they might do harm, and those reasons do not apply to national cemeteries or Homes in the slightest degree. The only thing you have got to provide as to cemeteries is police power to keep people from destroying flowers and breaking down trees and going over the graves, and those who are in authority have ample powers for that. They say when the gates shall be closed, and under what circumstances people shall enter, and all that.

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, I suggest to the gentleman from Ohio that there is a special section of the Revised Statutes, section 4881, which specifically covers the case of national cemeteries, and that the revision of that section will cover his point. It is in the title "National cemeteries," and this section does not affect that at all, but the special section does. It will appear later.

Mr. KEIFER. Mr. Chairman, of course I shall have to take the word of the distinguished gentleman when he says that there is a section, but I do not know where it comes in here in this codification.

Mr. PAYNE. I suggest to the gentleman that he ask unanimous consent to pass this section with his amendment pending, and if he wishes to press it in the future he can do so.

Mr. KEIFER. I have no objection to that suggestion.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. One moment, Mr. Chairman. The object of this section has been clearly expressed by the gentleman from Mississippi. It was urged upon the commission by the War Department, not only for the purposes enumerated there, but to protect soldiers from people coming onto the reservation and taking them off to dives and illicit places surrounding the encampments. It was said to be a frequent occurrence that people would come with carriages and conveyances and time after time lure the soldiers away. They could be ordered away, but there was no law to punish them for reentering and constantly returning, and therefore they constantly defied authority by reappearing upon the reservation. Therefore this was recommended in obedience to the request of the War Department.

Mr. STAFFORD. Will the gentleman permit an inquiry?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Yes.

Mr. STAFFORD. If the latter aim is purposed, should not the scope be extended to apply to soldiers in National Soldiers' Homes, where they also are visited by these persons having the same designs upon the old soldiers, so as to prevent them being led into the resorts outside?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Nothing like to the extent that it happens at Army posts; at least the Department has never realized any danger in that respect.

Mr. PAYNE. Is not this statute designed to protect the property of the Government so far as relates to the national defense, without regard to Soldiers' Homes and national cemeteries?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Yes; that is true.

Mr. PAYNE. That is an entirely different subject. This only relates to the national defense.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. That is correct.

Mr. STAFFORD. The reading of it shows that the real purpose was to prevent spies and the like from getting possession of the secrets of the Government, and not for the enforcement of police regulations.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Yes.

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. OLMSTED). The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KEIFER].

The question being taken, the amendment of Mr. KEIFER was rejected.

Mr. FLOYD. I move to amend by inserting after the word "regulation," in line 6, the words "made in pursuance of law."

I do not desire to speak to any extent on this amendment, but submit that the act should only apply to regulations made pursuant to law.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, that is the purpose of the section, and therefore I will accept the amendment of the gentleman.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arkansas, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 6, after the word "regulation," insert "made in pursuance of law."

The amendment was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 59. Whoever shall willfully destroy, deface, change, or remove to another place any section corner, quarter-section corner, or meander post, on any Government line of survey, or shall willfully cut down any witness tree or any tree blazed to mark the line of the Government survey, or shall willfully deface, change, or remove any monument or bench mark of any Government survey, shall be fined not more than $250 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I notice that considerable changes are made in the old law, and that the word "willfully" is put into the law in this section, while in preceding sections words very much less expressive and less searching, for perhaps the same grade of offense, are used. I should like to hear from the committee why the word "willfully" is put in here.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. The gentleman will observe that in existing law the word "willfully" does not appear. The committee felt that an owner of property might accidentally remove or deface a section corner, or he might without any knowledge at all that it was a witness tree cut down a witness tree, and that it was not the policy of the Government to punish a man who did this innocently. Therefore we incorporated the word "willfully."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I really do not think the amendment is a good one, and I shall move to strike out the word "willfully." Under the language as it was I do not think anyone who accidentally did the thing forbidden, without criminal intent, would be held liable.

Putting such a word as "willfully" makes success all the more difficult when endeavoring to bring to justice those who actually and purposely destroy or deface a landmark or witness tree. I do not believe that the good done to the unoffending citizen, when his act is not a crime, will compensate when we undertake to bring to justice those who actually with intention to commit the act offend against the principle of the statute. I believe that the change is not a good one.

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. OLMSTED). The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 18, section 59, strike out the word "willfully;" in line 21, strike out the word "willfully," and in line 23 strike out the word "willfully."

Mr. MONDELL. Mr. Chairman, if I understand the gentleman from Missouri correctly, he proposes to strike out the word "willfully" wherever it occurs in section 59.

I want to call the gentleman's attention and the attention of the committee to the fact that it is possible to destroy these corners, particularly witness trees, without doing so willfully, and it seems to me somewhat questionable whether it is proper to strike out these words in the statute. We certainly do not desire to have anyone prosecuted under this statute for committing an act prohibited by it if it is not done willfully. We can readily understand how a witness tree might be cut down or any corner removed without intending to do so.

Mr. STAFFORD. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MONDELL. Certainly.

Mr. STAFFORD. By the insertion of the word "willfully" will not persons be less inclined to regard these marked trees and be more ruthless in the destruction of these witness trees? Does not the mere fact that the law places the burden upon the person to prove that there was no criminal intent tend to a better observance of the law?

Mr. MONDELL. As I understand, the original statute contains words equivalent to this.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. No, the gentleman is mistaken. I will state that the committee put the words in and the original statute does not contain the word "willfully." Our committee was actuated by the thought so well expressed by the gentleman from Wyoming, that these acts might be done innocently, and it was not the policy of the law to punish a man for things that might be so easily done in an innocent way.

Mr. MONDELL. It occurs to me that the words are properly inserted, even though they might not occur in the original statute. I think it will be readily understood that the destruction of one of these corners, the cutting of witness trees, might be done innocently.

Mr. HARDY. Is it not a universal principle that no crime can be committed without an intent? If the word "knowingly" was put in here, it might be acceptable and certainly would not be objectionable.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, there is no legal difference between the word "knowingly" and "willfully." If a man had a section of land and the Government owned a section next to it and witness trees, as they are called in this act, that is, trees blazed with the Government's mark are there, and he goes to clear his own section of land of a survey that was made years ago and the trees grown up and the bark grown around the mark of the Government, S, one-fourth, or whatever it might be, he might very innocently cut down a tree that he himself afterwards would have given hundreds of dollars to have retained for his own purpose, and to punish a man that has innocently done that as if he had committed a crime it seems to me to be unreasonable. There ought to be the word "willfully" or "knowingly" or some other word meaning the same thing inserted here. There can be no crime without an intent to commit a crime, or at any rate there ought not to be in any matter of this sort.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Now, Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the word "willfully" in line 18, section 59.

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out the word "willfully" in line 18, section 59, page 31.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, the suggestion was made a moment ago that one might cut down a witness tree without knowing that it was a witness tree, or he might cut down a tree that had been blazed without knowing that it had been blazed by the Government, or that in process of time the marks might disappear or be very obscure. That does not apply, I take it, to this provision in the first part of the section that whoever shall willfully destroy, deface, change, or move to another place any section corner, quarter section corner, or meander post on any Government line of survey, etc.

Now, no person need remove any of these stones that mark section corners or quarter-section corners or these meander posts without being conscious of what he is doing. I concede that one might cut down a witness tree or a tree having certain Government hieroglyphics on it and might be innocent of the fact he was cutting down such a tree, because time may have effaced or so obscured the marks that reasonable observation would not be sufficient to disclose them. But when it comes to destroying, defacing, changing, or removing to any other place the large rocks peculiarly shaped and easily distinguished from others in the neighborhood, put there by Government surveyors for the very purpose of marking corners, the person who does that knows he is doing what he ought not to do; and to require further in order to convict him of the offense of which he is guilty, you require affirmatively that the act was done willfully. Instead of protecting the innocent it is in effect shielding the guilty. Whatever might be said as to the amendment when it reaches the witness tree, it seems to me there ought to be no good ground of opposition to striking out this word "willfully" where I have moved to strike it out.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 17, noes 48.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the word "willfully" where it first occurs, and insert in place of it the word "unlawfully."

The CHAIRMAN. The clerk will report the amendment.

The clerk read as follows:

In line 18, section 59, strike out the word "willfully" and insert in lieu thereof the word "unlawfully."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the effect of the change which the Commission has made will be, especially in the public land States, that there will be additional facilities afforded those who are violators of the land laws to violate them with the promise of impunity. The case of the person who does some of the things denounced here and does it innocently or ignorantly is the rare and exceptional case, and while I would by no means do anything which would put him in trouble, or refrain from doing anything reasonable which might spare him the trouble, I do not believe there ought to be such tender care of that theoretic and imaginary case as to make it easy, or easier, for people to violate the land laws of the United States; because I think it is a notorious fact that those laws have been and that they are now violated quite frequently and upon a large scale. This is my individual opinion. It is a matter of no personal concern to me, and I do not care about detaining the committee about it, but it seems to me that the amendment ought to be adopted.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 69. Whoever, being engaged in the importation into the United States of any goods, wares, or merchandise, or being interested as principal, clerk, or agent in the entry of any goods, wares, or merchandise, shall at any time make, or offer to make, to any officer of the revenue, any gratuity or present of money or other thing of value, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisonment not more than two years, or both.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I desire to call the attention of the committee to what seems to have been an oversight. We do not find in here the word "knowingly," or "willfully," or anything of the kind. Now, according to the philosophy applied to the land section a little time ago, there would be such a thing as offering or making a gift to a revenue officer of the United States, although the person offering it did not know that man to be a revenue officer at the time. I have no amendment to offer on that subject. I merely call the attention of the committee to the fact that the same degree of vigilance that guarded and cared for the supposedly innocent man that takes up and carries away the great stones put down by the Government to mark sections and quarter-section corners does not apply when we come to this gift provided for in section 69.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair understands the gentleman to move to strike out the last word?

Mr. DE ARMOND. Yes.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I understand that there is no motion before the committee.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri makes the pro forma amendment.

Mr. DE ARMOND. I was curious to know, Mr. Chairman, what reason actuates the gentlemen in leaving this so vague. This section does not say any revenue officer, "knowing him to be such;" it does not say "knowingly, corruptly, with bad intent," or anything of the kind. Under this section, literally construed, if a man in any way interested in any importation were to present so much as a cigar, or offer so much as a cigar, to one who turned out to be a revenue officer of the United States, he would come within the provisions of the section.

Mr. HOUSTON. In reply to the gentleman from Missouri, I will say that it does not appear at all necessary to insert the words "knowingly" and "willfully" in this section, because if a man "shall at any time make or offer to make to any officer of the revenue any gratuity or present of money or other thing of value" it must be necessarily done knowingly and willfully. It could not be done in any other way, and, besides, it is the policy of the Government to take all the precautions and pains to prevent the evasion of revenue laws of this kind, and anything done in connection with this section here would necessarily be willfully and knowingly.

Mr. DE ARMOND. How about knowing who the person is? The present to Mr. A., who turns out to be an officer, is not necessarily a present to Mr. A. as an officer.

Mr. HOUSTON. My reply to that would be this: That a man would much more readily know, and there would be no difficulty in knowing, who a revenue officer was. This would be such a position, and such a person as he would be usually known to men who came in contact with him.

Mr. DE ARMOND. I submit to the gentleman this: That a revenue officer from New York might be in New Orleans and, under the provisions of this section, there might be presented or offered to be presented to him there a cigar, which act would fall within the provisions of this law. Now, I do not say a present there would be held to be a violation of this law. What I am saying is, the same degree of effort to protect the innocent man who takes up a Government landmark weighing several hundred pounds has not been presented in looking after this. Now, the gentleman is proceeding on the theory that the present is made to the officer who is at the place of his duties, where his insignia of office and personality are well known to everybody, but it does not say that. He is described as a person who is an officer, but it does not say about being in the discharge of his official duties; it is a broad, sweeping statement. Now, it seems to me, if there is to be care about guarding the possible innocent offender at the risk of allowing the certainly guilty to escape in a good many instances, that the same vigilance and care has not been exercised here.

Mr. HOUSTON. Now, Mr. Chairman, the difference between the two is very great. It is a very natural mistake a man could make in destroying a tree. He might destroy a hundred trees unknowingly and be guilty of no offense, and some of them might happen to be trees such as have been forbidden to be injured under a section heretofore passed. In the other case, I think it is much more easy to understand who the revenue officer is, and there is no likelihood of committing the offense defined unknowingly.

Mr. DE ARMOND. The section to which the gentleman refers has in it trees, but it has in it a whole lot of other things. Now, I will ask the gentleman whether he thinks it is at all probable a man is as likely to remove one of these large and peculiarly shaped stones which mark the Government corners throughout the country as anything else?

Mr. HOUSTON. I think a man would be much more likely to fail to recognize a tree or stone than he would fail to recognize a man and officer.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection the pro forma amendment will be considered as withdrawn.

There was no objection.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 73. Whoever shall dispossess or rescue, or attempt to dispossess or rescue, any property taken or detained by any officer or other person under the authority of any revenue law of the United States, or shall aid or assist therein, shall be fined not more than $300 and imprisoned not more than one year.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I would like to call attention to that section. Now the question of intention is entirely left out of that. It says:

Whoever shall dispossess or rescue, or attempt to dispossess or rescue, any property taken or detained by any officer or other person under the authority of any revenue law of the United States, or shall aid or assist therein, shall be fined not more than $300 and imprisoned for not more than one year.

The question of knowledge is left out of that, and you take in the "other person." There may be a person having possession of some property taken under the revenue laws or assumed to have been taken under the revenue laws, and a State officer executing a writ issued by a State court may take that property or attempt to take it and under the provisions of this law be amenable to the penalty that is affixed, without having any evil intention or any knowledge that he is violating this section, not knowing that the property had been seized by one authorized to seize it, or that the person who had it is a revenue officer or agent, or a substitute for a revenue officer.

Mr. HARDY. I wish to say that I think every criminal statute should have in it the element of knowledge of violation of the law. I believe that section 69 ought to have had the amendment suggested by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. DE ARMOND], and I think this section we are now considering ought to have an amendment which would require the element of knowledge before there could be a guilt upon the part of any person. I notice the intervening sections have the word "knowingly," and I offer the amendment to insert the word "knowingly" in this section, and if by unanimous consent I can return to section 69 I believe the gentleman on the other side would be willing to require that any person giving any small present to a revenue officer should at least know that he was a revenue officer. Persons engaged in the importation of goods may run across revenue officers without knowing they are such, and yet innocently give them something of value. It does seem to me that in all crimes the great element is consciousness of crime, and unconsciousness of crime is never consistent with guilt. If there is no objection, I ask to return to section 69 and insert the word "knowingly."

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I object.

Mr. HARDY. As there is objection, I ask that the word "knowingly" be inserted in section 73.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Section 73, insert the word "knowingly" before the word "dispossess" in line 23.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, it is perfectly apparent, I think, to one who reads these statutes that sections 71 and 72 require the word "knowingly." Those provisions relate to men engaged in effecting the entry of goods—foreign goods—into this country in the pursuance of their business. Now, in order to make a false entry a man must knowingly do it. In the second place, that provision relates to an agent who is constantly making invoices. That is his business. Therefore, in order to make him responsible or liable under the law he must knowingly make false entries. But it is no man's business to dispossess and rescue goods in the possession of a Government officer. And it seems to me it is not essential that the word "knowingly" should be there.

Mr. WEBB. May I ask the gentleman a question?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Certainly.

Mr. WEBB. I had this experience sometime ago: A revenue officer captured a horse and buggy and arrested the man who was driving it, because he suspected he had blockade whisky in his buggy, and he found three or four jugs which were empty. He seized the horse and buggy and carried it to a livery stable in a small town and put it in charge of a liveryman, and told him, "Keep this as my property as an officer." The owner of the property went to the county seat and took out claim delivery papers, gave bond, and the clerk of the court directed the sheriff to go down and take that property away from the liveryman. He did it. Under this section that clerk and that sheriff are guilty of an offense against the laws of the United States. Do you not think that the word "willfully" ought to be put in there to protect a case of that sort?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. In the first place, I do not think it would be if it was done under the laws of the State.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Why do you not put that in?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I do not think it is essential to put it in there. The statute, on the reading of it, shows it must be an attempt on the part of an individual to dispossess an officer of the Government of property in his possession. Now, the title to that property—the fact of whether he wrongfully took it or not—ought not to make any difference as to the infliction of a punishment on a man who undertakes illegally to dispose of it.

Mr. WEBB. I am glad to hear the gentleman's explanation of the fact about the section, but the section reads "whoever." That means anybody, under any authority, under any circumstances, by whomsoever directed. Any judicial officer of the State who orders the sheriff to dispossess a revenue officer of property, whether legally or illegally taken, would be subject to this penalty. Revenue officers sometimes do take it illegally. Under those circumstances, the clerk and sheriff would be indictable and you could put them in stripes, put them in the penitentiary, under this section. It is a vicious section, and the word "willfully" ought to be put in there to protect the judicial and executive officers of our States.

I move to amend by inserting after the word "shall," in line 22, the word "willfully."

This is not a partisan amendment. It happens to be introduced by a Democrat, but I hope you will not line up and vote against it because it was introduced by a Member on this side of the House.

The officers of the State, who do their duty under a State law, ought to be protected. I have given you a concrete case where there would be a serious abuse of this statute if it were invoked.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will state to the gentleman from North Carolina that the amendment of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY] is pending.

Mr. WEBB. I did not know that, Mr. Chairman, and I withdraw my amendment for the present.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, the case cited by the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB] not only shows what might occur under this section, but it shows what actually did occur under it in the very kind of case covered by this section.

Now, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON], attempting to answer the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB] in a matter that is unanswerable, said he did not think it applied where the person attempting to dispossess was acting under a State law. The gentleman expressed his judgment, no doubt, but the language of the statute does not differentiate, as was well said by the gentleman from North Carolina. It says "whoever." It does not say "whoever without the authority of State law" or "State warrant," or other limitation, but "whoever." It does not make any difference according to the phraseology here whether the act be done knowingly, willfully, or accidentally.

Now, if the gentleman wishes to contend that if somebody innocently or ignorantly should attempt to do the prohibited thing, he would not be punished under this section, then, for the safety and protection of a person so situated, who might be brought before a judge who entertained a different opinion, why not, for the sake of justice and propriety, put in some suitable qualifying word? The gentleman from Pennsylvania, forsooth, thinks that if a man had a warrant or writ of some kind from some State court, he would be exempt from the penalties prescribed by this section; and yet he is not willing to put in any qualification of that kind. It does seem to me singular, indeed, that in some of these sections words like "willfully" are incorporated into old laws that have worked very well, and in other cases proper and necessary qualifying words must be left out, because some gentleman thinks that maybe if a case were to arise where the application of the law would be a hardship or a wrong, somebody in dealing with it would do, without the law, what he is unwilling to do in the law and with the law.

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I rise for the purpose of accepting the amendment of the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WEBB].

I wish to say that when the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. DE ARMOND] offered a motion to strike out the word "knowingly" (although it was offered from the Democratic side), in reference to a prior offense, the word having been inserted by this committee and properly so, I voted against the motion to strike out, because I did not believe that any citizen of the United States ought, under any possibility, ever be convicted of a crime for an act committed in conscious innocence, or in ignorance of the fact that he was violating the law.

I believe that every crime ought to be accompanied by a criminal intent, and that no law ought to be so framed that an innocent man might be gathered within its meshes and legally convicted of an offense when he was innocent of all criminal intent. I think section 69 and section 73 ought each to have the word "willfully" or "knowingly" before the naked act.

The CHAIRMAN. If there be no objection, the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY] will be considered as withdrawn, and the question taken on the motion on the amendment of the gentleman from North Carolina.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, in the statement of the gentleman who has just taken his seat I thoroughly concur, that no man ought to be caught in the meshes of the law by a mistake, much less by a trap or a trick; but I think, if gentlemen will examine this law, they will find that no man needs the safeguard of the word "willfully." Now, the condition presented in this section is, first, that goods are in the hands of a revenue officer. They are in the hands of a United States official, and the section makes it a criminal offense for a man to rescue or dispossess him of those goods.

Now, there is under the law a perfectly plain way pointed out where by legal procedure a man may obtain possession of them, and a man is always protected in obtaining his right through a process of court. He could not willfully dispossess or rescue these goods without knowing it, and if he does it and asserts his legal right to the possession of the goods, he can not be liable under the section, and, therefore, it seems to me the word "willfully" is unnecessary.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from North Carolina.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. WEBB) there were—ayes 37, noes 64.

So the amendment was lost.

Mr. HARDY. Now, Mr. Chairman, I wish to renew the motion I made to insert the word "knowingly" where the word "willfully" was offered.

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 23, page 36, after the word "whoever," insert the word "knowingly."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, what objection can there be to inserting that word? Would the gentleman who stands sponsor for this sacred report, which can only be touched when "its friends" wish to touch it, would the gentleman contend that "knowingly" is involved or implied in it, or is it not? If it is, there can be no harm done in expressing it. If it is not, then a person can be guilty without knowing it, in full innocence, and without intending any criminal act in what he does. It must be one of two things, is it in there by implication or is it not? If you are unwilling to put it in and it is not there, a man may be convicted under the section for doing that which he does without any knowledge at all that the person who holds the articles is an officer or the custodian of an officer. That is all I have to say about it.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I do not believe that the insertion of the word "willfully" or the word "knowingly" at this particular point would cover the necessities of the case. Consequently I have been opposed to both amendments. I do believe that some qualification should be included at that point, and I believe there should be inserted in line 23, after the word "whoever," the words "without warrant of law." I shall at the proper time offer an amendment to that effect.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY].

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Now, Mr. Chairman, I move, in line 23, after the word "whoever," to insert the words "without warrant of law."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

On page 36, line 23, after the word "whoever," insert the words "without warrant of law."

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the amendment by inserting the word "authority" instead of the word "warrant."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Insert the word "authority" instead of the word "warrant," so that it will read "without authority of law."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered to the amendment.

The question was taken, and the amendemnt to the amendment was rejected.

The question was then taken on the amendment, and on a division (demanded by Mr. WEBB) there were—ayes 27, noes 54.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend by inserting in line 23, after the word "shall," the words "without authority of law."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 36, line 23, after the word "shall," insert the words "without authority of law."

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. The committee has just voted on exactly similar language.

The CHAIRMAN. It seems to the Chair that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arkansas to the amendment of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILSON] was the identical amendment that he now offers.

Mr. FLOYD. I would like to be heard a moment on the point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will hear the gentleman briefly.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILSON] offered an amendment consisting of the words "without warrant of law." I offered to amend his amendment by inserting the word "authority" instead of the word "warrant." The propositions were voted on separately, and they came before the committee as two distinct propositions. My proposition is to insert the words "without authority of law" after the word "shall," and I would like some gentleman to explain—some gentleman of the committee—why it is that they object to dispossessing these revenue officers of property by authority of law.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I understand, Mr. Chairman, that the point of order is under discussion.

The CHAIRMAN. Yes. The Chair now understands that the amendment of the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. FLOYD] is offered in a different place from that which he offered before. It seems, therefore, to the Chair that it is a different amendment. The Chair overrules the point of order.

Mr. FLOYD. I would like to be heard briefly upon the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will recognize the gentleman upon his amendment.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that in offering this amendment I do it to perfect the bill and to correct evils in existing law. In my own State a few years ago there was a Government agent, a timber inspector, who seized large quantities of timber, which were floated down the White River on rafts, alleging that it belonged to the Government. He seized the people's property, and finally it got into the Federal courts, and it was held to be without authority of law, but the timber had been sold by the Government and disposed of, and many of the people whose timber was lost by this means suffered a financial loss incident to the taking of that timber. I am unable to conceive what objection any reasonable man would have to saying that one of these revenue officers could not be dispossessed of property that he had seized by authority of law. That is the effect of my amendment. The effect of the amendment is simply to provide that no one shall dispossess any one of these officers of property seized without authority of law, and if he has authority of law to dispossess the party I am unable to conceive on what theory objection is offered to this amendment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, in effect the amendment offered by the gentleman is to say that whatever a man does lawfully shall not be unlawfuly done. If he does it in pursuance of law, he shall not be prosecuted for it. It is perfectly apparent to me and, I think, to every gentleman on the floor of this House that no such provision is necessary to protect any man. No criminal law of the land, no criminal law of the United States, can make it a penal offense for a man to pursue his legal rights in the courts. The object of this is to protect the forceful rescue or dispossession without legal color. I therefore oppose the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arkansas.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. FLOYD) there were—ayes 30, noes 46.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. COOPER of Wisconsin. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the chairman of this committee for the purpose of information one question: Why is it that in line 2 on page 37 the language is "shall be fined not more than $300 and imprisoned?" Why is the word "and" used instead of the word "or," as is the case in section 1 and in section 70 and in divers other sections? Why is a fine and imprisonment made the penalty in those two sections rather than in the alternative?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I will say in answer to the gentleman that in existing law—and there seems to be a policy of the Government, and it is a wise policy—that in certain offenses some imprisonment must be inflicted, while in others it is discretionary with the courts to give an alternative punishment. All the way through these sections, if the gentleman will examine them, this principle arises and he will find upon examination that it is controlled by the character of the offense. It is existing law and the committee so left it.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I will ask the chairman of the committee whether he does not believe the discretion to impose fine or imprisonment may safely be vested in the judge presiding at the trial?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. The gentleman is asking me the question? It is the policy of our lawmakers. I will say in reply to the gentleman, to decide in the formation of the law itself, that certain offenses must be punished by an imprisonment, and the gentleman will observe that the system recommended by the committee of prescribing maximum punishment only and leaving the minimum to the discretion of the judge will enable the judge in the exercise of mercy to cure all such defects. We did not change what appeared to be the established policy of the law in regard to imprisonment for some offenses. It may possibly be true if we were making the law there might be reasons which would appeal to us, but we did not alter existing law except where there was absolute reason for it.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, is there an amendment pending now?

The CHAIRMAN. There is not.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend by striking out the word "and" in the second line on page 37 and inserting in lieu thereof the word "or."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York moves to amend by striking out the word "and" in line 2, page 37, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "or."

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania told us that his committee had not attempted to change the policy of the law as it appeared in existing statutes where both fine and imprisonment were provided as penalities for offenses. It seems to me that this particular section is one under which an indictment may be found against someone who without right dispossesses an officer from property or without right rescues property from an officer, but under such circumstances of mitigation as to require in fairness, in justice, and in mercy the imposition of only a fine. We can readily conceive of many cases where imprisonment, however brief, would operate most grievously on one who in the judgment of the judge ought not to be imprisoned for even an hour, save for failing to pay a fine imposed on him. In such a case the statute should leave the judge the fullest discretion to impose either fine or imprisonment. To the judge such discretion could safely be intrusted.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman if the word is used conjunctively here? Does he use the word conjunctively, or should the word "or" be substituted; then it would be in the discretion of the court——

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Certainly; that would be the effect of my amendment. Now, I know of cases in which judges from the bench said they regretted very much that the Federal statute required imprisonment as well as fine, because, however much they thought a fine was an adequate penalty, the law left no alternative, and I have heard some judges say when called upon to impose the sentence of the court that if it had been in their power there would have been but a fine imposed for the offense of which the offenders stood convicted. Now, such cases arise frequently and when judges who are fair, who believe in the maintenance of law and order, who stand for the conservation of the public peace say from the bench that they regret that power does not reside in them to impose either fine or imprisonment, I believe that we, as a legislative body, ought to guard against such cases, and provide for the judicial exercise of a fair discretion.

I know of no judge at the present time who we may fear to exercise in a proper way such a discretion as my amendment would give. There are some cases, I will repeat, Mr. Chairman, in which no imprisonment ought to be imposed. There are some cases falling under this very statute where an employee—where one who is told to commit an act of dispossession, but who does it without willfullness or malice—ought not to be imprisoned even for a day, but where a fine of fifty or a hundred or two hundred dollars would be adequate punishment.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from New York has expired.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I ask for two minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York asks unanimous consent to proceed for two minutes. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Now, Mr. Chairman, I believe we may safely intrust to our Federal judiciary the discretion which the amendment contemplates. It seems to me that that mercy with which justice should ever be tempered can be the better extended when the judge has it in his power to extend it. And to that end I ask the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman in charge of the bill if this section does not require both fine and imprisonment?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. It does.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. It leaves nothing to the discretion of the court?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Except the amount of the fine or the time of the imprisonment. You can make it one hour or one dollar.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I notice in section 71, you use the language "shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both." You use the word "or." Now, in section 73, which we are considering, you use these words, "shall be fined not more than $300 and imprisoned not more than one year." Now, that makes it absolutely compulsory that he be both imprisoned and fined.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, does not the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES] also recognize the fact that the offense provided for in section 71, where the discretion to impose either fine or imprisonment is given, is much graver than the offense specified in section 73, where there is no discretion given?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Of course it is. I will read section 71:

Whoever, by any means whatever, shall knowingly—

Note the word "knowingly" now—effect or aid in effecting any entry of goods, wares, or merchandise at less than the true weight or measure thereof, or upon a false classification thereof as to quality or value, or by the payment of less than the amount of duty legally thereon, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

Now, here in that section, referring to the tariff, referring to the duty on imports, if he "knowingly" effects an entry undervaluing the imported article he shall be fined $5,000 or be imprisoned, or both; but in section 73, which we are considering, that comes under our revenue laws. There is no discretion, and it imposes both fine and imprisonment. It looks to me that either the Congress that made that law or the gentleman who reported this here were not treating the two classes of society right. In the one instance it is the importer, the educated man, the man of means, the man who knows his business, and if he "knowingly" does wrong it is left to the discretion of the court as to whether he shall be fined or imprisoned, whereas under the internal-revenue laws no discretion is given the court, although the accused may not be a man of education or a man who does not know the law, or makes a little wild-cat whisky to sell for necessaries of life, or the accused may be some poor woman who lives way up, I may add, in the mountains of Tennessee, whence came in 1815 some of those magnificent soldiers who fought the battle of New Orleans. Mr. Chairman, if one of those soldiers or one of their wives or daughters——

Mr. PAYNE. Are those old soldiers making moonshine whisky? [Laughter.]

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. They fought the English by the moonshine, starlight, and sunshine——

Mr. PAYNE. Are they making moonshine whisky now?

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from Tennessee has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that I may have five minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Now, seriously speaking, gentlemen, you are punishing a lot of people—and I state that as a fact—who may ignorantly disobey the revenue laws, who go and follow an officer and try to take away from him their last bed, the last rag to cover their backs, and the last little bit of a machine used in making moonshine whisky—the only thing in the world they can make to sell—sell it for something to eat and wear. You people that live away up here in the sunshine only, away from where we have moonshine and sunshine, know nothing about the privations of those people, those mountaineers. Why, my friend from Georgia knows I am telling the facts, and yet, gentlemen, you are letting off a man rich in money, rich in position, rich in information, "in the discretion of the court," who knowingly does wrong as to the tariff, while the poor and ignorant man is to be fined, and he is also bound to be imprisoned, forsooth, because he has ignorantly disobeyed the revenue laws.

Mr. PAYNE. Does the gentleman move to strike out the section?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. No. Insert the word "or," as proposed, is the proposed amendment.

My distinguished friend, the gentleman's colleague from New York [Mr. GOLDFOGLE], a man who as judge has administered the law, doubtless many a time has been glad to find a little disjunctive "or," so that he could temper the ravages, you might say, of the law with some mercy from his heart and head. Doubtless that is what has led him to object to this language of the section.

Now, gentlemen, I say to you and I say it seriously, that you have unwittingly and have unintentionally overlooked the poor, ignorant people whom you are bound to punish. This hard law says this to Judge Clark or Judge McCall, of Tennessee: "You have no discretion to temper justice with mercy with the ignorant people who live down in your districts. Fine and imprisonment, without variation, is the law."

I say, gentlemen, in the name of justice, in the name of these people who, not knowingly like the importer, but who unwittingly may disobey the law in trying to get back the last little bit of property that they have, that they think a hard Government has taken away from them, we should use the disjunctive "or" and strike out the mandatory and oppressive "and," which provides both fine and imprisonment, sure.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, let us get back from the mountains of Tennessee into this section. It is apparent to all who read it that this section contains the conjunction "and," that fine and imprisonment have been imposed, because this section punishes an assault upon a public officer. That is all the statement I desire to make, and I ask for a vote.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. But when a man assaults the tariff law, assaults the treasury that runs the Government, you let him "off in the discretion of the court."

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Vote!

The question being taken on the amendment of Mr. GOLDFOGLE, on a division (demanded by Mr. Mr. GAINES of Tennessee) there were—ayes 43, noes 54.

Accordingly, the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 75. Whoever shall falsely make, alter, forge, or counterfeit any military bounty-land warrant, or military bounty-land warrant certificate, issued or purporting to have been issued by the Commissioner of Pensions under any law of Congress, or any certificate or duplicate certificate of location of any military bounty-land warrant, or military bounty-land warrant certificate upon any of the lands of the United States, or any certificate or duplicate certificate of the purchase of any of the lands of the United States, or any receipt or duplicate receipt for the purchase money of any of the lands of the United States, issued or purporting to have been issued by the register and receiver at any land office of the United States or by either of them; or whoever shall utter, publish, or pass as true, any such false, forged, or counterfeited military bounty-land warrant, military bounty-land warrant certificate, certificate or duplicate certificate of location, certificate or duplicate certificate of purchase, receipt or duplicate receipt for the purchase money of any of the lands of the United States, knowing the same to be false, forged, or counterfeited, shall be imprisoned not more than ten years.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I ask unanimous consent of the committee that we may go back to section 74. I desire to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman asks unanimous consent that the committee return to section 74.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I must object.

The CHAIRMAN. Objection is heard.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, for the purpose of bringing up the question I desired to raise under section 74, I now move to strike out the word "ten," in line 17, page 38, and to insert the word "five."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman moves to strike out the word "ten," in line 17, page 38, and to insert the word "five."

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I offer this amendment only for the purpose of bringing up a matter I would have brought up had the gentleman from Pennsylvania not objected to giving unanimous consent to go back to section 74.

I would ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania whether it is a worse offense to forge the instruments referred to in section 75 than to forge the instruments referred to in section 74? The man who willfully forges the official documents referred to in section 74, who knowingly and fraudulently utters a forged sea letter, a forged certificate of ownership, a forged certificate of enrollment, a forged certificate of registry, is guilty of as great a crime as the man who forges the documents referred to in section 75. Yet I am surprised to find that the committee intrusted with the revision of the laws provides in the one case for an imprisonment of but three years and in the other cases for an imprisonment of ten years. While I concede that ten years is very properly made the maximum of punishment——

Mr. PAYNE. May I ask my colleague a question?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Yes.

Mr. PAYNE. Do I understand my colleague to believe that anybody can forge a paper without knowingly doing it?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Who said that?

Mr. PAYNE. As I understand it, the gentleman wants the word "willfully" inserted in the section.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Oh, no; the gentleman is in error, and could not have heard me—certainly did not understand me.

Mr. PAYNE. The gentleman wishes to reduce the penalty, then.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. The gentleman again misunderstands me. I said that the only purpose I had in offering the amendment was to bring up a matter that I would have presented had the gentleman from Pennsylvania not objected to giving unanimous consent.

Mr. PAYNE. What did the gentleman wish to bring up on section 74?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I believe the committee was right in fixing the maximum punishment provided in section 75 at ten years. Yet for as grave an offense set forth in section 75 the maximum is much less. Just such inconsistencies run through the bill, and to show some of these inconsistencies and secure some harmony in the quantity of punishment, I desired to offer an amendment to section 74. But objection was made, and it can not now be done. I withdraw the pending amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will proceed.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 76. Whoever shall falsely make, forge, or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, forged, or counterfeited, or shall knowingly aid or assist in falsely making, forging, or counterfeiting any certificate of citizenship, with intent to use the same, or with the intent that the same may be used by some other person, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I move to strike out the word "or" in line 24 and to insert in lieu thereof the word "and."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman moves to strike out the word "or" in line 24 of section 76 and to insert the word "and."

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, who has done a great deal of laborious and creditable work in revising the penal laws and who has ably and elaborately prepared the report, will, I hope, recognize the fact that if it is proper to impose both fine and imprisonment for the rescue of property from a revenue officer, it is all the more necessary to impose both fine and imprisonment for the graver offense provided for in the section now under consideration.

I know of no reason why a heavy fine and imprisonment is to be imposed upon one who, without malicious intent, rescues property from an officer or dispossesses him of property with which he has been by law intrusted, while an individual guilty of the grave and heinous crime of forgery may be either fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court. Why do you not compel the judge to both fine and imprison the forger as well as you compel him to both fine and imprison the individual who either dispossesses property from an officer or attempts its rescue? Why do you say "or" in one case and "and" in the other? Why do you not also compel the judge to impose a fine and imprisonment upon the man who commits a willful, deliberate forgery?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, the reason why this committee did not alter this section of existing law was, first, this is a law passed at the last session of Congress.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. But we are revising the laws.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. We are codifying the laws, and it is not the purpose of this committee to substitute its judgment for the judgment of Congress, as expressed in a carefully prepared bill at the last session. Now, in the second place, the policy of the lawmakers is perfectly apparent, in my judgment. In this case it says that the man who forges or the man who assists in the forgery. Therefore the alternative punishments are permitted; and the character of the offense is a different one from that in the preceding section. But because of the solemn enactment at the last session of Congress our committee, under the form of revision, did not feel justified in altering it.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Is it any less solemn now than it was at the last session? Are we legislating less solemnly, less deliberately, now than we were then? Ought we to say that because some other Congress failed to provide properly for an adequate punishment we should follow in the footsteps of that other Congress? We are here—at least we are supposed to be here—to legislate. That at least ought to be done in a careful, cautious, judicious, and deliberate manner. Why does the Committee on Revision of the Laws persist in saying that because one Congress did something we must do the same, while, when it suits their fancy or serves their purpose, they change and alter, modify and repeal existing provisions of law?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. One word in reply.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Does not the title of the bill provide for codifying and revising and amending the law? Is not amendment contemplated by that very title? Why should we not amend when we find necessity for amendment?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. It is not to correct the law. If the gentleman has the idea that at the present time Congress, under the form of revision, is reenacting all the criminal laws of the United States, his conception of it is different from mine. We conceive our duty to be to present a revision of existing law and not to change that law except for controlling reasons.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. May I ask the gentleman whether his committee did not change many provisions of existing statutes? The report of the committee states that many of the provisions have been changed and altered. Will the gentleman say that he simply reported back to this House existing law without any change and without any amendment?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Does the gentleman want an answer?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Certainly.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. We did change some laws. For instance, they have a law against breaking down a telegraph line, and we included telephone lines.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. That was as well to protect the telephone company as the general public. Why do you not also guard the Government against forgery and provide for a reasonable certainty of severe punishment?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Because it was in line of existing law. The telephone was a new device after the telegraph, and that seemed to be employed as one of the agencies of the Government.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. Chairman, discussion on this proposition has perhaps left the impression that there is no penalty of imprisonment attached to this offense. On the other hand, the statute says explicitly that they shall be fined $10,000 or imprisonment not more than ten years, or both. The penalty placing imprisonment in connection with the fine is in the statute.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York.

The question was taken, and the amendment was lost.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 77. Whoever shall engrave, or cause or procure to be engraved, or assist in engraving, any plate in the likeness of any plate designed for the printing of a certificate of citizenship; or whoever shall sell any such plate, or shall bring into the United States from any foreign place any such plate, except under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor or other proper officer; or whoever shall have in his control, custody, or possession any metallic plate engraved after the similitude of any plate from which any such certificate has been printed, with intent to use or to suffer such plate to be used in forging or counterfeiting any such certificate or any part thereof; or whoever shall print, photograph, or in any manner cause to be printed, photographed, made, or executed, any print or impression in the likeness of any such certificate, or any part thereof; or whoever shall sell any such certificate, or shall bring the same into the United States from any foreign place, except by direction of some proper officer of the United States; or whoever shall have in his possession a distinctive paper which has been adopted by the proper officer of the United States for the printing of such certificate, with intent unlawfully to use the same, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I would like to ask the distinguished chairman of the Committee on the Revision of the Laws whether there is reason now for putting this in the conjunctive. If in the case of an offender against the revenue laws the punishment must be fine and imprisonment, why not provide that the forger of bank bills, the forger of money shall not be also both fined and imprisoned?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, this does not relate to bank bills at all. If the gentleman will read the section he will find it is only certificates of citizenship.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Oh! Certificates of citizenship—well, let us keep our citizenship pure. I withdraw the pro forma amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 85. It shall be unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office. It shall also be unlawful for any corporation whatever to make a money contribution in connection with any election at which Presidential and Vice-Presidential electors or a Representative in Congress is to be voted for, or any election by any State legislature of a United States Senator. Every corporation which shall make any contribution in violation of the foregoing provisions shall be fined not more than $5,000; and every officer or director of any corporation who shall consent to any contribution by the corporation in violation of the foregoing provisions shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 44, line 4, after the words "voted for," insert the following: "Or with any election at which State legislators are to be voted for who upon election shall have the right to elect a United States Senator."

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this section, as I understand it, is to prevent contributions by corporations for the purpose of subserving corporate interests in the election of public servants who will hold positions of power in the United States. It is provided that none of these corporations shall be allowed to contribute any money in the election of a United States Senator before the legislature, but it is not provided that they shall not be enabled to elect a legislature which shall elect a Senator of the United States. There may be some question as to whether or not the amendment I offer might not invade the province of State governments and State rights, and for that reason I hesitate to offer it, but the greatest purpose of the present day and time is to procure purity of political elections, and if a corporation may by the election of its servants in the legislatures of the States furnish all the money that is necessary to elect its own servitors as legislators and thereby elect its own representatives as United States Senators, the result is the same as if they had spent money in the legislature itself. The time has been reached when the great power in this Government may be money and not conscience, and I believe that it is as absolutely necessary to prevent the contribution by big corporations of money for the purpose of electing legislators who may elect Senators as it is to prevent the contribution of money directly in the election by the State legislatures. I make the amendment with a view to purification of the ballot box.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I agree with every word that has been said by the gentleman on the other side. This committee did not, however, alter this law because, first, of some doubt about the constitutionality of that provision, and secondly, because the law in question was drawn by an eminent Democratic statesman and passed by Congress only last year, and this provision ought to be sent to a committee for careful consideration, and ought not to be adopted here on the floor of this House at this time. For these reasons, without replying to the validity of the gentleman's argument, I oppose the amendment.

Mr. COOPER of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I would like to have the amendment again reported.

Without objection the amendment was again reported.

Mr. COOPER of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I would call attention to the first part of the section. It seems to me that covers the very point that the gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY] is trying to cover by his amendment. It says "It shall be unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office." Now, the office to which the gentleman refers is certainly a political office, and the first part of the section covers the very thing that he wants to cover by his amendment. Therefore, I think the amendment is entirely unnecessary and should not be adopted.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I voted for the bill, which is incorporated in this section, when it passed the House last Congress, and I regretted that it did not go further. I do not intend to vote for this amendment, and, not intending to vote for it, I desire briefly to give my reasons why I can not vote for it. We have in Georgia, and every State in the Union can pass a law similar, a law that prohibits the use of money both in the primary and in the general elections of members of the legislature and of all officers. I am unwilling, when I have stood here during the consideration of this bill, day after day, and insisted that the rights of the States to govern and control their own affairs be left to the States, to say that Congress can now pass a law and denounce as a crime something which occurs in any election where purely State officers are to be elected.

States are clothed with full power to protect their ballot boxes at an election of its members of its legislature to elect its Senators. We elect Senators in Georgia and in most of the States of the South at primary elections, and those primary elections, at least in Georgia, are guarded and protected by laws making it a crime—and a very serious crime—for anyone to contribute money, directly or indirectly, even in a primary election where elections are held for members of the legislature who will elect Senators from the States. I am not opposed, and do not wish to be so understood, to these various penalties that can be prescribed and inflicted upon those who would corrupt the electorate which has to do with the election of members of the legislature, or Members of Congress, or any officer from the highest to the lowest, but I occupy the position I have always occupied—that Congress has no right to interfere with the local elections of a State and pass statutes regulating or affecting purely State elections. Therefore I shall not vote for this amendment.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, may I ask to have that amendment read?

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection the amendment will be reported by the Clerk.

The amendment was again reported.

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected.

Mr. KIMBALL. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky offers an amendment, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out of lines 6 and 8 the words "a money contribution" and insert in lieu thereof the words "any contribution of money or other thing of value," so that the said section shall read, etc.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky strikes out words which are not in the section and can not be received.

Mr. KIMBALL. I move to strike out the words "money contribution" wherever they occur.

The CHAIRMAN. The words "money contribution" are not in the bill.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Yes; they appear on the first line, page 44.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky has the wrong line.

Mr. SHERLEY. If the Chair will permit me, the Chair is reading from the bill. My colleague is reading from the report dealing with section 85. Now, if the Chair will look at the report he will find "money contribution" in lines 6 and 8, page 92. I understand the motion is to strike out those words and substitute the amendment offered.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair suggests to the gentleman from Kentucky we are not dealing with the report, but dealing with the bill, and the amendment must conform to the bill, which is the official document, in the hands of the Clerk. The gentleman can correct the amendment to conform to the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out of line 1, page 44, the words "a money contribution" and insert in lieu thereof the words "any contributions of money or other thing of value."

Mr. KIMBALL. Mr. Chairman, the section under consideration is reproduced from the most recent statute that we have had to consider during the discussion of the criminal code. It was adopted in January, 1907, by the Fifty-ninth Congress. It was doubtless called forth by the revelations of the investigation of the great insurance companies in the State of New York. I have no doubt that bill was passed for a sincere and worthy purpose, that it was the intention of Congress to prohibit corporations, whether they be national banks or other corporations, from contributing their assets to political contests. But under the section as it now stands it simply prohibits the contribution of money. I contend that it ought to be extended so as to include the contribution of any other thing of value. There is no difference in contributing to a political contest $10,000 in money or $10,000 in bonds that can be easily and readily converted into money. I have no argument to make upon this. It seems to me the amendment speaks for itself. The House, I assume is sincerely in favor of protecting the assets of corporations from being dissipated in this way. It is certainly our intention that they should not be allowed to spend money or any of their assets for the purpose of corrupting elections, therefore I think that the amendment ought to be adopted so that we can make clear and unmistakable the meaning of this section and make it efficient to the end for which it was originally enacted. [Applause.]

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I want to say I can see no reason in the world why these contributions, forbidden by this section here, should be limited to money contributions. There are many other things of value, and I can not understand why it should have been put in that form at first, and I think the amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. KIMBALL] is a good one. The offense and the crime would be just as great to contribute a farm, to give a manufacturing establishment, a storehouse, or anything else as it would to give it in money. Therefore I am heartily in favor of the amendment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, as an original proposition I probably would not oppose it, but it is a new law. It was carefully considered by a committee of this House. It was weighed there and every provision was given due consideration. It came upon the floor of this House for discussion only a year ago and was passed. Your committee therefore felt that they would not touch it, and therefore they reported it as they found it upon the statute books, and for that reason, in the line of principle adopted by this committee and heretofore sustained by this House, I oppose this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. KIMBALL].

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. KIMBALL. Division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 56, noes 54.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania demanded tellers.

Mr. HEFLIN. Mr. Chairman——

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my request for tellers.

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. HEFLIN] rise?

Mr. HEFLIN. I wish to have the Chair announce the vote again, please.

The CHAIRMAN. There were 56 votes in the affirmative and 54 in the negative.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Tellers, Mr. Chairman.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chair appointed the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] and the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. KIMBALL] as tellers.

The committee again divided, and the tellers announced—ayes 77, noes 91.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment, which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Substitute word "and" for word "or" on line 10, page 14; word "ten" for word "one" on line 11, same page; and word "years" for word "year," same line and page, so that the whole shall read: "and imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, it does seem to me that if this paragraph be enacted in its present form the penalty denounced against the offense is ridiculously disproportioned to its enormity. I have not attempted to amend the penalty inflicted on the offending corporation. So far as that is concerned, I think it may be left to the repressive measures as offered in nearly every State of the Union and by Congress against misappropriation of funds or embezzlement. But where an officer of a corporation, in addition to violating the law by misappropriating funds in his custody, uses the fruits of his crime to debauch or corrupt the franchise, an imprisonment of six seconds or a fine of six cents would be a ridiculous penalty. Yet imprisonment of six seconds or a fine of six cents may be all the penalty inflicted upon him.

Now, if we are to legislate for this offense at all, it does seem to me, Mr. Chairman, that prescribing a penalty of this character—the maximum penalty is but a thousand dollars, or imprisonment for one year, or both, these penalties not being cumulative but alternative—reduces this attempt to suppress that form of crime to the level of opera bouffe.

I have considered carefully, Mr. Chairman, the position which the committee have taken, and I must confess that it does little credit either to the judgment of the committee or to its regard for the judgment of this body. They introduce here a body of laws which they rather ambitiously describe as "a bill to revise, codify, and amend the penal code." Yet, when an attempt is made to amend the law as the committee proposes it, the gentleman does not consider the motion upon its merits, but he opposes it because of some shadowy policy which he seeks to enforce upon the Committee of the Whole and which his own committee disregards whenever it thinks proper. But without undertaking now to discuss the divagations of the gentleman from Pennsylvania or his committee, let me call the attention of this body to the character of the very important transaction in which we are engaged. We are here codifying and revising a vast body of laws. The necessity for such a revision is obvious and pressing—on that we are all agreed—but whence does this necessity arise? These laws have been passed at different times to meet varying conditions and under many widely divergent influences on the part of this House. The result—inevitable under a representative government—has been many inconsistencies and incongruities in the body of the law. Sometimes when public opinion was stirred by the commission of some offense a heavy penalty was denounced against it; at other times, where the punishment was fixed from a perfunctory sense of duty, a lighter penalty was often imposed for a graver crime.

Sometimes imprisonment and fine were made cumulative; sometimes the penalties were made alternative without the slightest regard to the gravity of offenses, yet by a perfectly natural feature of legislative operations, when these inconsistencies and incongruities became so numerous as to cast a cloud over our whole jurisprudence, we did what every other country similarly situated has found itself compelled to do—we appointed a committee or commission to revise and codify these incongruous statutes. Now, this Commission come in here with what? Not with a mere compilation of laws, but with a revision of the laws constituting our penal code; and the very object of revision is to harmonize inconsistencies and remove incongruities. Where it is found that a penalty denounced against one offense, by contrast with that denounced against another, seems so disproportionate as to be ridiculous, instead of defending it, as the committee have been doing, apparently because it is ridiculous, it seems to me they should find that fact a sufficient reason for accepting a suggestion or amendment that tends in the direction of harmony and consistency among our criminal statutes.

Now, I venture to say the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]—and he has shown a great deal of courage—will not venture to contend that the penalty denounced against this offense is adequate to its discouragement. Think of it! A man might buy up a legislature—the gentleman comes from a State where that charge has been repeatedly made, not by members of the party in a minority, but by members of the majority—I do not undertake to say how true or false that may be, but it is a matter of common notoriety that the charge has been made and repeated. Suppose it be true there or elsewhere. Suppose vast sums of money abstracted from some corporation by a corrupt official should be spent to elect a legislature for the purpose of choosing a Senator who would represent a private interest instead of the public welfare. Suppose the perpetrator of this heinous double crime should be accused and convicted. Under this act the most that could happen would be that he would be fined a thousand dollars and imprisoned a year; the minimum might be a fine of one cent.

Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania contend that such a system of repressive legislation is consistent with sound policy or sound morals? I do not believe it. Rather will he once more invoke that mysterious elusive policy which enables him to retain incongruities and perpetuate absurdities while still professing a desire for better conditions.

Mr. Chairman, if our task here is a revision and codification of the law, it seems to me we should be engaged in harmonizing its provisions, not in perpetuating its inconsistencies, but in removing them. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

[Here the hammer fell.]

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I shall not attempt to reply to the gentleman's covert insinuations against the ambitious title of the bill presented nor to the accusations, implied or direct, against the State of Pennsylvania. They are not involved in this discussion, and we have here entirely too much matter that is germane to this legislation to warrant me in being diverted into any discussions of that kind.

One word again in order to emphasize the attitude of this committee upon this legislation. We are, and the gentleman from New York knows it, a government that legislates by committees. All the legislation of this Congress goes to committees and is carefully considered by them and can not get before this House except upon the report of a committee. Now, because by the mere accident of revision the parliamentary situation is changed, so that amendments of this kind do become germane and are not out of order, is it wise for us to abandon the salutary and well-considered principles of legislation that have guided us for a century and to enter upon the floor of this House, under the stress and excitement of political and factional interests, upon the amendment or alteration of existing laws, particularly of new laws? I am informed, and I think I am informed correctly, that this law, as I have already stated, was introduced last year by an eminent Democratic statesman. It was referred to the committee in the Senate and to the committee in the House. Every one of its provisions was carefully weighed and considered, as it should be. It came before the House in this form and it came before the Senate in this form. The Senate and the House considered it, weighed it, acted upon it, and adopted it. Therefore I say the duty of this committee now, as it has been from the beginning, is to ask that laws of that kind, particularly those recently enacted, should not be changed here under the guise of revision or codification. For these reasons I ask that this amendment be voted down. [Applause.]

[Mr. GOLDFOGLE addressed the committee. See Appendix.]

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, in this somewhat matter-of-fact and prosaic body, where one's sensibilities are largely controlled in the course of legislation, there have been a number of reasons given why certain amendments should be made in the bill, but the one thing that appeals more powerfully than all others to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] is the consideration that some Democratic statesman at some time was in favor of this provision. Whoever chooses may lay his profane hand upon that sacred enactment, but as for the gentleman from Pennsylvania having the sanction of some Democratic statesman it is a sacred thing and shall not be touched if he can prevent it except to eliminate the minimum of punishment, so that the punishment may be merely nominal.

But it happens, however, that the gentleman from Pennsylvania is not always in this happy and poetic mood, and when the spirit of iconoclasm possesses him he does not hesitate to blue pencil that which does not meet with his approval in a statute, nor does he hesitate to incorporate in the same sacred provision, hoary with age and reverend with the good that it has done, the inspiration of his own intellect, struck out upon the spur of the moment.

It happens that upon this particular occasion, with reference to this particular matter, the object of which ought to be to prevent corruption in elections, to prevent what has become a notorious abuse in elections—the wholesale purchase of the machinery of election, the wholesale purchase of the results of an election, the wholesale nullifying of the will of the electors who are to decide an election—when it comes to a question of considering and perfecting the provisions of that statute—then arises as an impassible and never to be revered barrier the imaginary form of some Democratic statesman who had something to do with this provision!

The amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. KIMBALL] to make this section cover not merely the payment of money in this corrupt process of debauching American citizenship, polluting American manhood at the fountain head, but to make it reach to and embrace everything of value that may be employed in the corrupting purpose, then the lofty spirit of the reverential gentleman from Pennsylvania rises in protest—"Don't do it; don't do it, because somebody somewhere, for some purpose, was satisfied with this, on a cash basis!"

As has very well been said by gentlemen who have already spoken upon the subject, the real question ought to be, and the real question is, and the real question will be beyond these halls, whether this provision covers what it ought to cover, whether it is as complete as it ought to be, whether amendments offered tend to make it better and stronger, tend to purify American elections and to put out of business the corrupt jobbers in politics, or whether it is to have comparatively no effect or the contrary effect. And no reverence for any man that was, no reverence for any man that is, no actual and no assumed reverence for the sanctity of what somebody did, no reverberating outbursts about the importance of going before committees and carefully and patiently and laboriously considering things will meet the case. A man does not need to go to a committee to learn what he thinks the punishment ought to be. A man does not need to labor in a committee room or to have a bill or a thousand bills buried in a committee pigeonhole, never to emerge from the dust that so regularly falls upon bills in the committee room, in order to know whether or not he is in favor of prohibiting the contributions of anything of value for corrupt purposes or by great corporations or their officers or agents, or whether he wishes to have his limitation fixed at dollars and cents in actual coin or some moneyed equivalent.

I would like to know who it is that honestly is in favor of preventing the payment of cash to bring about corrupt elections and corrupted results, and yet is also honestly opposed to preventing the use of other things of value for the same purpose. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, the fact that this bill was introduced into the Senate by the Senator from South Carolina has been referred to by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]. I dare say if the secrets of the Senate Committee could be uncovered it would be discovered that the bill as reported was not precisely as it was introduced by the Senator from South Carolina. He merely got out of the Republican Senate committee the very nearest approximation to a Democratic idea that he could, and I dare say that what there is of fault to be found with this penalty is not a fault to be found with the Senator from South Carolina. I want to call attention to this peculiarity about this statute; the corporation here is fined $5,000 for the violation of this statute. Now, a corporation never violated a statute in all the days of the world's history. A corporation is a nonsentient, paper-existing fiction of the law, and although it is called an artificial person, it is not really a person at all. Whenever a corporation is fined, the innocent stockholders of the corporation are fined their pro rata share of the fine. The corporation here is fined $5,000, and yet when the law comes to punish the actual offenders, the men of flesh and blood, who were sentient and had consciences and consciousness, and who, as officers and directors, make use of the corporation and its authority for the purpose of violating the law, and who, hiding behind a corporate name, are the real violators of the law, are fined "not more than" $1,000. It may be less, infinitely less; much less, at any rate, but it can not be more than $1,000. The real criminal who has violated the law, and not only violated the law, but who has abused his trust to the stockholders of the corporation by using their money for his purposes, is punished to a lesser degree than the corporation composed mainly of those who did not so much as know a wrong was being perpetrated. I think that the real criminal ought to be punished at least as much as innocent stockholders—as much as the nominal, law-created, artificial, nonsentient, paper-existing thing that we call a corporation. Here, for example, was a great insurance company that contributed largely to a Republican campaign fund. Suppose the insurance company had been fined. Then I would have been fined, because, I being a policyholder and it being a mutual company, I was one of the stockholders, and a Democrat, and had never consented and did not want to consent to the abuse of the corporate authority upon the part of the scoundrels who did abuse it. Now, what excuse is there for not fining the real flesh-and-blood criminal at least as much as the innocent stockholders of a corporation? [Applause.] I am heartily in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, there is no question but what the Fifty-ninth Congress was a great Congress. It did great work, but it is beyond question that a lot of its work has been recently amended by the Supreme Court of the United States, by declaring an important law that Congress passed unconstitutional, showing that that Congress did not possess all of the wisdom as to what is and what is not law. The gentleman who has charge of this bill comes in here and with one broad sweep says that the Fifty-ninth Congress in 1907 passed this law, so just let it alone; we will allow no amendments to it. It seems to me, and certainly it must to the lawyers of this great body—and the gentleman from Pennsylvania is a good lawyer—that if he sees that something is lacking in a statute of the Fifty-ninth Congress he ought to permit, and willingly permit, a suggestion that its successor, the Sixtieth Congress, amend it. Again, Mr. Chairman, when we enacted that law on January 26, 1907, did anybody on top of God Almighty's green earth dream of the rottenness of the banks in Wall street that we all know?

No one, in his wildest imagination, dreamed, Mr. Chairman, that a lot of street gamblers of New York would or could cut the windpipe of America's prosperity with one fell swoop, as it were. Every honest bank in the United States has been cut down, forsooth, because a lot of Wall street gamblers and thieves have had it in their power to do that and did assassinate our prosperity and scourge the people. We have that much new evidence, I will say to my friend from Pennsylvania, for a new trial, so to speak. Evidence we could not have had in January, 1907. Now, the gentleman who hails also from New York, the silver-tongued statesman [Mr. COCKRAN], he, true to the society not only of New York, but to the welfare of this country, comes up with the experience he has had with these creatures, these microbes. [Laughter and applause.] These micrococci, these Wall street bacteria, which Secretary Wilson with all of his magnifying glasses has never gotten hold of, and urges an amendment to meet the enemy. Gentlemen, we have all of these outrages before our eyes, and yet the gentleman says, "Let us stand pat." Are you going to stand pat on everything? Let us stand pat while these creatures run riot over and crush all the people? Are we to stand here and expect our people to respect us when we go home or go anywhere else—unless we go to hell [laughter and applause], and shut our eyes, Mr. Chairman, and fold our hands—surrender ourselves and our people with this new evidence before our very eyes and under our nostrils?

No, Mr. Chairman, I say that this is a wiser Congress than the Fifty-ninth, and we have that wisdom that is born of experience and this beautiful condition of things in Wall street. We have the Supreme Court to say that we did not know it all. And yet the gentleman would have us sit here supinely. Pardon me just a moment if my time is out, as I wish three minutes more. [Laughter.] Why, gentlemen, the Department of Justice last year tried to convict the licorice trust, a branch of the tobacco trust. It indicted that invisible thing, a corporation and its officers—human beings, a lot of this bacteria I have been talking about. These officers came up to that splendid gentleman and lawyer, Special United States District Attorney Henry W. Taft, and said: "We will plead guilty to this indictment if you will not put us in jail." Does any man within the hearing of my voice dispute my statement? That is history and announced by President Roosevelt and by Secretary of War Taft and his brother, H. W. Taft.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I ask three minutes more, I want to tell this story which is the absolute truth.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Tennessee asks unanimous consent to proceed for three minutes more. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Ah, gentlemen, what did Taft say? It seems to be a family failing of the Taft family to be square and honest. [Applause.] Taft said: "No; here are your letters, showing you are guilty; here are letters signed by you and your officers, the defendants. I can not agree to that." But what did a New York jury do? I do not know where the jurors came from, but on that same testimony that they convicted the corporation they acquitted every one of these live defendants—the officers who were indicted with this corporation in that great suit. Now, what did the "corporation "do? It appealed its case to the Supreme Court of the United States. The men—these officers who visited the wrong upon the people—were acquitted, but then were not content. These directors who came up and wanted to plead guilty if they could go free caused their "corporation" to appeal from the judgment against it. Now, gentlemen, that is additional light for some of you—men in New York City want to plead guilty, if not imprisoned, but a New York jury acquits them and convicts their machine, the corporation. Those are the facts, and I challenge any man to dispute them.

Then we have some more light as to evil doing in New York, I will say to my friend from Pennsylvania, since we passed this statute, and the gentleman from New York now comes up and says, "Stand pat, the Fifty-ninth Congress was wiser than this, the Sixtieth." Why, gentlemen, I will say to my friend from Pennsylvania you can not go back on the people of this country in the manner you are about to do. Put in the conjunctive "and" and raise the length of sentence—make it compulsory. Then when a bank comes along and undertakes to corrupt the people's right of suffrage, they not only shall be fined but they shall hereafter be liable to board at the Government's expense in the penitentiaries of the United States. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, when this rule was brought in here we were told by the gentlemen upon the other side that it was brought in as a buffer; the bill was to be before the House to keep it from doing any mischief and to block all business. Well, we have had the bill before the House now for a week, and all the delay has come from the side of the House that made the accusation that the bill was brought in for the purpose of delay. It is simply a report of the codification of the laws, to get them together in one volume, where every lawyer can find readily without going through appropriation bills and all manner of legislation what the criminal laws and the penal laws of the United States are. That was the object and the purpose of it. But every time there is a chance to set up a bogey man about the rights of labor, why, gentlemen from close districts have jumped in here with amendments which were germane and those which were not and made stump speeches, not so much with the idea of having their ideas adopted as to have the speeches go out to their constituents.

We have now come to a section that was passed less than a year ago, and every gentleman on this floor who criticises that section to-day was a Member of the House when that section was passed. To be sure, the Presidential election and the Congressional election were more than a year further off than they are to-day. It might have been as popular then to criticise corporations and the directors thereof as it is to-day, but these gentlemen did not then seem to feel any necessity for getting in the line of the public opinion that would criticise corporations. It was too long before election for them to get in on that line. They knew just as much a year ago to-day about contributions by corporations to political parties in elections as they know to-day. Even the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES] had discovered the microbes in the bank circulation more than a year ago.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. And you Republicans have kept them there, too.

Mr. PAYNE. Knew all about it then, or thought he did. There has been no new revelation, no new fact has come to light, and there is no reason for the delay unless gentlemen wish to make their word good and try to prove to the country that this bill is put in here for a buffer and for the sake of delay.

The gentlemen on the committee have performed their duty, and the gentlemen on the commission have performed their duty as commissioned by the two Houses. They have arranged in proper order the laws upon the statute books, constituting the Penal Code of the United States. They have done their full duty. That was the object, and they are right in saying that the House ought to go on and pass this bill, the principal question being whether the bill itself represents fairly the Penal Code as it exists to-day. And the time for buncombe and the time for political speeches to get into the RECORD and out into circulation should come upon some other bill, and the House should have a chance to pass this bill and put it upon the statute book. [Applause on the Republican side.]

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Chairman, I am somewhat at a loss to determine whether my colleague has advocated or opposed the pending amendment. I had hoped that before he sat down he would indicate his position. He seems to be indulging in a protest against the utterance of buncombe in the discussion upon this bill. It would require a very careful search of the most complete dictionary to ascertain any other word that would properly designate the speech which he has just delivered. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Why is this bill now being read if not for the purpose of considering properly the amendments which may be offered to it? It has already been read under the rules of the House for the information of the committee. It is now being read under the rules of the House for amendment. If it were the purpose of the gentleman and his associates who dominate this representative body of the American people to pass this bill without any changes, without any amendment, without any legitimate discussion upon the provisions contained in it, why did not they put into operation that skillful piece of machinery provided by the rules and pass this bill under a special rule without giving opportunity to offer amendments? Why occupy valuable time and squander the money it costs to conduct these sessions in considering a bill to which they do not pretend to permit amendments to be adopted? If this bill as reported by the committee be so perfect, why go through the farce of considering it now under the rules for amendment? The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]—and I do not criticize his attitude—objects to some amendments because provisions sought to be amended are existing now, and in the next breath he announces that he will accept amendments that are offered to the bill, because the amendments will carry out more perfectly the object of the section to which the amendments are offered.

Whatever may have controlled the committee of the House which considered this bill in its action—and I believe it was justified in refusing to consider new matter—I will not agree to the position of the Republican Members of this House that this Committee of the Whole is so devoid of intelligence that it can not adopt properly and efficiently amendments that will perfect any one of the numerous provisions of this bill. If this Committee of the Whole be so devoid of intelligence, then let the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union be abolished and the House of Representatives sit here and merely register the will and the wish and concur in the action of the committees of the House when they bring in bills.

The purpose of considering this bill in the manner in which it is before the House is to prevent the Members of this House discussing real live questions that are now affecting the American people, to avoid the discussion of matters that are of vital interest to the people and which may embarrass the Republican majority by having them discussed at this time. The gentleman says that some particular amendment was adopted in the last Congress, and that we had as much information as we have now. And yet I submit to the gentleman that even within the past few days this House and the Congress have learned something. They passed the employers' liability act by an almost unanimous vote, but they have just been informed by the Supreme Court of the United States that they transcended their power in so doing. Why not put this pending bill through under a special rule and let the Congress pass a constitutional act for the benefit of the employees of corporations engaged in interstate commerce? Why not take it out of the way and let us do business for the benefit of the people? The gentleman can not plead lack of power, because he has a majority behind him of some fifty votes. Only the other day, lest perchance some proper amendment might be adopted to this bill, the Republican whip sent out a special call to the Republican Members of the House to be in their seats promptly.

I wish to call the attention of the committee to the fact that when the House considered the bill prohibiting political contributions by corporations it had not at that time learned of the peculiar relations that existed between the President of the United States and a very distinguished railroad magnate in the preceding election. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Had it had that information, had it known that the President had written to Mr. Harriman that he and Mr. Harriman were practical men, and that perhaps it would be inadvisable, immediately before a Presidential election, for Mr. Harriman to call at the White House and confer with the President, because of the effect it might have on the then coming election, the Congress might have devised some more stringent provision to prevent these contributions. And it is not improper to recall that before the last Congressional election Members of Congress on this side advocated the passage of a bill prohibiting corporate contributions to campaigns. The press of the country demanded that the President urge this House to pass such a bill, one having already been passed by the other House, to prevent the abuses in the last Congressional campaign that had existed in the previous ones. But the President very carfully withheld his very vigorous request to the Congress for such legislation until the session of Congress immediately succeeding the last Congressional election. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. Chairman, lest my colleagues might accuse me of having indulged in buncombe, and of not having discussed the amendment, I wish to have it registered here, so that all may be informed, that I am heartily in favor of the pending amendment. I hope my colleague will join me in so amending this provision as to make it effective and thus eliminate one of the abuses that has existed for some time. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. COOPER of Wisconsin. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] spoke of the pending bill as one merely to codify the penal laws—to arrange the laws in proper order, he said—so that the people of the country might know where to find them. The gentleman is entirely mistaken if he thinks that is the only purpose of this bill, and that the only duty of the Committee of the Whole now is to consider a mere proposal to codify the laws and arrange them so that people will know where they are.

Let me quote, Mr. Chairman, from the language of the report accompanying this bill and submitted by the very distinguished and able chairman of the Committee on the Revision of the Laws, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON].

> The House members of the Special Joint Committee on the Revision of the Laws—
>
> Not codification, but "revision"—
>
> appointed under public resolution 19 of the Fifty-ninth Congress, second session, have examined, considered, and submit to Congress recommendations—
>
> Not propositions we are bound absolutely to adopt, but "recommendations"—
>
> upon the revision and codification of the laws, etc., * * * deeming it both necessary and expedient to make certain changes, additions, and omissions, report in lieu thereof the accompanying bill and submit the following report.

This committee brought in this report recommending "amendments, changes, and omissions in existing law" and a bill to carry these recommendations into effect; and yet this bill embodying propositions of such a character is attempted here to be made a partisan question. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

A word as to the statement made by the distinguished chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] a few moments ago concerning the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Kentucky to make the law prohibit a corporation from contributing not only money, but anything else of value. The gentleman from Pennsylvania opposed the amendment, but said that as an original proposition he would have been in favor of it. Well, if it would have been right as an original proposition it is right now. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Mr. Chairman, we are not here to make the revision of the penal laws of the United States a mere partisan question. We are here to try to make the law what it ought to be. We are here to say whether these "changes, additions, and omissions" recommended by the committee ought to be adopted as they submit them, and on this question to exercise our best judgment under our oaths, without regard to whether we are Republicans or Democrats.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from Wisconsin has expired.

Mr. COOPER of Wisconsin. Mr. Chairman, I would like five minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Wisconsin asks that his time be extended five minutes. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. COOPER of Wisconsin. Daniel Webster once spoke regretfully of what he called "the headlong and plunging spirit of party devotion." This forceful expression often occurs to me when I see the spirit of partisanship aroused in the consideration of a subject so purely nonpartisan as is the one now pending.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to have the gentleman from Pennsylvania tell me, if as an original proposition it would have been right to prohibit a corporation from contributing money or anything else of value to a campaign fund, why it is not right now to make such prohibition when we are revising the statutes and find it omitted from the original law? Why is it not right to insert it now when it should have been inserted in the first instance? [Applause on the Democratic side.]

I desire also to ask the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE], who said that this was a proposition merely to codify, when in truth it is a proposition also to revise—I want to ask him a question suggested by the very cogent remarks of the distinguished gentleman [Mr. COCKRAN] who offered this amendment. If a corporation should contribute $25,000 to defeat the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] or the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] for a renomination or a reelection to a seat in this body, where each has brought such honor upon himself, and an officer of this corporation were by a jury convicted of that offense, and then by the judge sentenced to pay a fine of only $1, does the gentleman from New York think that justice would be done?

Yet that is exactly what they propose to permit if they allow the law to stand as it is to-day. Let me put that question again to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE], both among the most distinguished men in this body—none are more highly honored. Let me ask either of them this question: If one of the great railroad companies, if one of the great steamship companies, if one of the great insurance companies, or any other corporation should contribute $25,000 to defeat either of those gentlemen for renomination or for reelection and one of the officers of such corporation after his conviction by a verdict of a jury were by the judge to be fined only $1, would the gentleman from Pennsylvania or the gentleman from New York think such a proceeding just? This is a Government of laws, not of men, and no judge ought to have the right to inflict a mere nominal fine when an officer of a corporation is convicted of an offense of the dangerous character of the one which I have indicated. I shall vote for the amendment, not as a Republican; I shall not oppose it simply because it is proposed by a Democrat; I shall vote for it because it is right and ought to be on the statute books of the country. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I rise upon this amendment, partly in behalf of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] and partly in behalf of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]. I know they can not answer the questions that have just been asked by the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. COOPER]. I want to make a suggestion for their benefit. When the farmer in the great western prairies of Texas goes out to hunt the prairie dog, he finds the boldest-looking animals upon the whole face of nature standing upright by the side of a little hole in the ground. Now, these two gentlemen, with others, have dug for themselves in case of an emergency a hole in the ground, which is constructed out of the imaginary proposition that this is not a bill to amend, improve, alter, or revise the criminal code, but a bill simply to carry over and readopt an old code. Now, then, they have got that hole. And when we push them hard, when we get them in a close place, and begin to shoot close, they do as the little animal does on the prairie—they run into that hole. I want them to raise one banner, the banner of flight, and use one cry, "All rats, hunt your holes," and then quit.

Mr. SIMS. Mr. Chairman, I find that section 218 of this bill covers about two pages of the report. It is all new matter, being all in italics. It takes the place of the entire section 3878 of the law as it now stands, and if this section is passed it converts every mail route in the United States into a whisky-carrying route. This section covers nonmailable matter generally, and in providing for nonmailable matter it does not include liquids. It repeals the act which expressly uses the word "liquids" and then it makes it mandatory on the Postmaster-General to do what follows. After naming the nonmailable matters, which does not include liquids, in section 218 of the report it says:

> But the Postmaster-General shall permit the transmission in the mails, under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe as to preparation and packing, of any articles hereinbefore described which are not outwardly of their own force dangerous or injurious to life, health, or property.

Now, intoxicating liquor of its own force outwardly, from its appearance, is not dangerous to life and property, and section 3878 being left entirely out, leaves out of the new law the words "all liquids," contained in the present law as nonmailable matter. This leaves intoxicating liquors mailable.

That section 218 I here insert in my remarks, which is as follows:

SEC. 218. All kinds of poison, and all articles and compositions containing poison, and all poisonous animals, insects, and reptiles, and explosives of all kinds, and inflammable materials, and infernal machines, and mechanical, chemical, or other devices or compositions which may ignite or explode, and all disease germs or scabs, and all other natural or artificial articles, compositions, or materials of whatever kind which may kill, or in any wise hurt, harm, or injure another, or damage, deface, or otherwise injure the mails or other property, whether sealed as first-class matter or not, are hereby declared to be nonmailable matter, and shall not be conveyed in the mails or delivered from any post-office or station thereof, nor by any letter carrier; but the Postmaster-General shall permit the transmission in the mails, under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe as to preparation and packing, of any articles hereinbefore described which are not outwardly or of their own force dangerous or injurious to life, health, or property. Whoever shall knowingly deposit or cause to be deposited for mailing or delivery, or shall knowingly cause to be delivered by mail according to the direction thereon, or at any place at which it is directed to be delivered by the person to whom it is addressed, anything declared by this section to be nonmailable, unless in accordance with the rules and regulations hereby authorized to be prescribed by the Postmaster-General, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both; and whoever shall knowingly deposit or cause to be deposited for mailing or delivery, or shall knowingly cause to be delivered by mail according to the direction thereon, or at any place to which it is directed to be delivered by the person to whom it is addressed, anything declared by this section to be nonmailable, whether transmitted in accordance with the rules and regulations authorized to be prescribed by the Postmaster-General or not, with the design, intent, or purpose to kill, or in any wise hurt, harm, or injure another, or damage, deface, or otherwise injure the mails or other property, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or be imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Now, we have not reached this section. I am leaving you this word of warning. Study the section and get ready for the struggle. I saw in the galleries of this House to-day a gentleman whose name I have heard, but do not remember, whose business it is to be on hand when these interests are affected. When I saw him I thought there was a negro in the wood pile somewhere in this bill, and I began to look a little ahead, and here is where I find him, and I call your attention to him. This can not be pooh-poohed, ridiculed, or laughed down. You will find if this bill is passed without an amendment providing expressly that intoxicating liquors shall be nonmailable, the Postmaster-General will be required to receive them in the mails under this law.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I would again ask the attention of the committee to the spirit of "uniformity" which prevailed in the Commission with regard to punishments. The Commission adopted a general policy of no minimum limit. I called attention to that in the consideration of the first section, I believe, where the policy cropped out; at least the first in which I noticed it. If that section had been alone and the matter had been with reference to that section alone, I should have been very well satisfied to have no minimum punishment, but I thought I saw where the policy carries us.

We have in the old law a provision that the fine shall not be less than $250. We have in the new law, or in the proposed law, after this Commission has done with this section, a proposition that the fine may be the thousandth part of one mill. It is one thing to have your theory of uniformity, and it is another thing to apply your theory so that it may directly destroy all the virtue and all the real essence in a criminal statute.

The proposition of the gentleman from New York is to make the extreme limit of imprisonment ten years instead of one year. Opposition to that is strenuous, but for the sake of "unanimity" the minimum limit of $250 in fine is absolutely removed by act of this Commission, and all the argument, I suppose, that could be made for the elimination is that it produces "uniformity."

The gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE], the floor leader of his party, seems to be disturbed about the time consumed upon this side of the House in amendments. Did the gentleman suppose that those who think that amendments would better these provisions would refrain from offering them? He ought to be content when by the power of a sufficient partisan majority amendments manifestly good, amendments against which no reason can be urged, amendments beyond the reach of valid objection, are voted down. He ought to be satisfied with the drawing of the line upon the main aisle of the House, but it seems there ought to be something more—we ought to refrain from offering these amendments. Possibly it may occur to the gentleman that amendments are considered beyond the walls of this Hall, where his code of rules and his special rules passed by the majority will not be so absolutely omnipotent as here. You will have to bring in some sort of a rule, even more drastic. You will have to apply the gag a little further or those of us here who have amendments to offer will continue to offer them. For the present you will have to content yourself with exercising the privilege which your present power gives you—that of voting down the amendments without any reference to their merit. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. HALL. Mr. Chairman, a few words in regard to this proposition that is now pending. In the first place, it seems to me the remarks that have been made in the course of this debate arise largely from the fact that we have digressed far from the motion to amend that was made by the gentleman from New York.

But I wish at the outset, in the course of my few remarks, to say that I—and I think in common with a large number of other gentlemen on this side of the House—have not, as has been suggested, stood by the report of this committee from partisan reasons, but I have, and I know that others have, stood by the report of this committee because we had confidence in it and because we believed we should not depart from the legitimate sphere of codification and revision and invade the realm of original untried legislation. That, Mr. Chairman, has been the purpose of a great many men here, but measures proposed as amendments, which at first glance might have been considered meritorious, without realizing that these amendments, coming as they do spontaneously upon the spur of the moment, without having committee consideration upon them, are liable to cause still greater error, if error exists in the proposition that is seeks to amend.

Suggestion has been made that the laws which are here presented by this report of the committee are sacred, and it was alluded to in a semisarcastic manner. Mr. Chairman, while perhaps the word "sacred" is not the appropriate one, I am sure these laws, which have come down to us from over a century of legislative experience, are at least entitled to respect and confidence. I do not believe, Mr. Chairman, that as these sections are read and brought up for consideration each section should be treated as if it had a chip on its shoulder. I believe, Mr. Chairman, that we have had Congresses in the past that were perhaps as wise or nearly as wise as the present one. These laws have been tried in the crucible of time. Many of them are over a century old. They began with the time of Hamilton and Jefferson; they have been signed with the seal of approval of a Washington, a Lincoln, a McKinley, and a Roosevelt. They do not come to us here under circumstances which should arouse suspicion, but they come to us under circumstances that should inspire confidence and respect. And more especially, Mr. Chairman, is it inappropriate to treat the Penal Code, which is now being considered, as a political football or as an opportunity for ventilating economic or political ideas. It is too substantial and important a proposition. The penal laws are designed for the purpose of securing those sacred, inviolate personal rights of life, of liberty, of property, of the pursuit of happiness—for the purpose of preserving organized society; and, Mr. Chairman, I believe that when the gentlemen support the work of this committee, supporting as they are largely the legislation of previous Congresses, they are not justified in accusing them of improper motives in so doing. [Applause on the Republican side.]

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move that all debate on this section and the amendments thereto do now close. We have occupied a long time upon it.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] makes the motion that the debate on the section and amendments do now close.

Mr. COX of Indiana rose.

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman from Indiana rise?

Mr. COX of Indiana. To address myself to the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN].

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON] has made a motion that all debate on the section and amendments be now considered as closed.

Mr. GRIGGS. Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania withhold that for a moment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Yes. Mr. Chairman, I will amend my motion by saying that it shall cease after five minutes. I will ask the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. Cox] if that is sufficient time?

Mr. COX of Indiana. Yes. I thank the gentleman.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is that the debate upon this section and the amendments thereto close in five minutes.

The question was taken and the Chairman announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Division, Mr. Chairman.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 78, noes 50.

So the motion was agreed to.

Mr. COX of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I heartily support the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN]. I read the section under consideration, being section 85. The scope and tenor of it is designed for the purpose of purifying elections throughout the United States. A part of the section provides:

Every corporation which shall make any contribution in violation of the foregoing provision shall be fined not more than $5,000.

As the able gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] suggested, Mr. Chairman, this is ordinarily an imposition upon innocent parties. It is a burden upon the stockholders, who give no consent to a contribution whatever, but whose power lies within a board of directors.

This section further provides:

And every officer or director of any corporation who shall consent to any contribution by the corporation in violation of the foregoing provisions shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

Mr. Chairman, if we desire to purify the elections in the United States, when a President is to be elected, or when Members of Congress are to be elected, or when members of the various legislatures who are to elect United States Senators are to be elected, in my humble judgment we ought to drive at the party who is absolutely guilty. A corporation can only act by human agency and not upon or by its own initiative. Therefore, we should drive at the man behind the gun, whoever he is—the individual, whoever he may be, who by his nefarious act set the dangerous and unlawful machinery in motion. If this be the directors of a bank or the directors of a corporation, or by whatever power the corporation makes the unlawful contribution for this unholy purpose, in my judgment we can never stamp this nefarious practice out as quickly in any way or manner as we can by imposing a penal sentence upon the individual man thus guilty.

As suggested by the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN], the board of directors or the director who is responsible for the contribution would care but little for the insignificant fine. But when he is confronted with a sentence in the State prison, then, and not till then, will he feel the force and effect of violating a penal statute. To simply impose a fine upon an officer, agent, or director of any bank or corporation would be but a mockery and travesty upon justice. This all-pervading evil of corporations contributing funds for political campaigns has become so odious, outrageous, and shocking to the moral conscience that every decent man, irrespective of party, is compelled to raise his voice against it. If conditions continue and this evil be not suppressed, the very foundations of our Republic will soon be undermined, and thereby the superstructure of our Government will totter and fall, a matter that every patriot desires to avert.

Pure elections mean better officers to administer the law. Better officers mean better laws. Better laws mean a better country. A better country means better homes for all who live beneath the flag. We will stamp the evil out the moment you make campaign contributions by the agents of corporations a felony, punishable by imprisonment in some penitentiary.

Again, Mr. Chairman, in section 73, the object and purpose of imposing such a heavy penalty, as explained by the chairman of the committee, was to prevent assaults upon revenue officers. The penalty provided in section 73 imposes a fine and sentence in the State prisons for committing, it may be, a simple assault upon a revenue officer. Yet section 85, in my judgment, involves a much more serious question. It involves the entire electoral franchise of all the qualified voters of the United States.

Yet, the penalty involved in section 73 is much more severe than the penalty involved in section 85. Why, by mandatory provision, impose a sentence by imprisonment upon an individual who commits a simple assault upon a revenue officer and make it optional for the court to impose a fine of only one cent upon an officer, agent, or director of a corporation who contributes money for the purpose of polluting the sovereign ballots of the land?

The one great safeguard of our liberty is the honest, free, untrammeled ballot; and when this becomes tainted and corrupted by the use of money knowingly contributed by officers of corporations, that very moment, Mr. Chairman, we have weakened the fundamental principles upon which our Government is founded.

Mr. Chairman, I am heartily in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman, fixing the penalty at from one to ten years in the penitentiary, together with a fine. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN].

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, there is a verbal inaccuracy in the motion as I submitted it, and I have corrected it. With the permission of the committee I will ask to have it read in its amended form.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment in its modified form for the information of the committee.

The Clerk read as follows:

Substitute "and" for "or" in line 10, page 44; "ten" for "one" in line 11, same page; "years" for "year," same line and page, and also strike out "or both" in line 11.

So that the whole shall read—

And imprisoned not more than ten years.

The question being taken on the amendment of Mr. COCKRAN, on a division (demanded by Mr. COCKRAN) there were—ayes 64, noes 83.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, on this vote I ask for tellers.

The tellers were ordered, and the Chairman appointed Mr. COCKRAN and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported—ayes 69, noes 77.

Accordingly the amendment was rejected.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment:

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by striking out the word "more" in line 10 and the word "more" in line 11, page 44, and inserting in lieu thereof in each instance the word "less."

Mr. COCKRAN. How will the section then read?

The Clerk read as follows:

Shall be fined not less than $1,000, or imprisoned not less than one year, or both.

The question being taken on the amendment of Mr. DE ARMOND, on a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 61, noes 79.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Tellers!

Tellers were ordered, and the Chairman appointed Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania and Mr. DE ARMOND.

The committee again divided, and there were—ayes 61, noes 75.

Accordingly the amendment was rejected.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to section 85, line 24, page 43. I desire to add, after the word "Congress," the words "or engaged in interstate commerce."

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 43, line 24, after the word "Congress," insert the words "or engaged in interstate commerce."

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I want to discuss this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Debate on this section and all amendments was closed by vote of the committee some little time ago.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I understood it to be on that amendment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. No.

The CHAIRMAN. No; it was on the section and all amendments. Debate has been closed.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I ask unanimous consent for five minutes

Mr. PAYNE. Regular order, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Well, it will cost you more than five minutes.

Mr. PAYNE. It may cost us an hour, but we will have the regular order.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. It will cost you two hours.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. A point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. The point of order is this, that the motion adopted a while ago was that the debate be limited to five minutes on the section and pending amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The motion included the section and all amendments.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Pending amendments.

The CHAIRMAN. The language was understood to mean all amendments. The question is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES].

Mr. GOLDFOGLE rose.

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. For the purpose of asking that the amendment may again be read.

The CHAIRMAN. If there is no objection, the amendment will again be reported.

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I wish to appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Chairman, I make the point of order that the appeal comes too late.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair thinks that the request for appeal comes too late. The Clerk will report the amendment.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I would like to have the motion made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania under which they claim to shut off debate reported to the House. There seems to be a difference of opinion.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is undertaking to comply with the request of the gentleman from Kentucky to have the amendment again reported.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I did not make any such request.

Mr. PAYNE. Regular order, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk again read the amendment.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Now, Mr. Chairman, I renew my request.

The CHAIRMAN. What is the gentleman's request?

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. That the motion made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania, under which it was claimed that debate was shut off, be reported to the House, so that we may know what it is.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request?

Mr. PAYNE. I object.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, I now rise for the purpose of asking the Chair to have the Clerk report the section as it would read if amended.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I call for the regular order. The amendment has been reported twice.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Kentucky.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES and Mr. WILLIAMS] there were—ayes 61, noes 77.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Tellers, Mr. Chairman.

Tellers were ordered.

The Chair appointed as tellers Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported that there were—ayes 65, noes 76.

So the amendment was lost.

The Clerk, proceeding with the reading of the bill, read as follows:

SEC. 86. Whoever shall hunt, trap, capture, willfully disturb, or kill any bird of any kind whatever, or take the eggs of any such bird, on any lands of the United States which have been set apart or reserved as breeding grounds for birds by any law, proclamation, or Executive order, except under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of Agriculture may, from time to time, prescribe, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

According the committee rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. BANNON, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that committee had had under consideration the bill (H. R. 11701) to codify and revise the criminal law, and had come to no resolution thereon.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A message in writing from the President of the United States was communicated to the House of Representatives by Mr. LATTA, one of his secretaries, who also informed the House of Representatives that the President had approved and signed joint resolution of the following title:

On January 8, 1908:

Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 66) making an appropriation to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for the purchase and distribution of valuable seeds.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

Mr. WILSON of Illinois, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bill of following title, when the Speaker signed the same:

H. R. 194. An act to authorize the county of St. Francis, in the State of Arkansas, to construct a bridge across St. Francis River at or near the town of Madison, in said county and State.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

Mr. LAFEAN, by unanimous consent, was given leave to withdraw from the files of the House without leaving copies papers in the case of William Thomas (H. R. 11825, Fifty-sixth Congress), no adverse report having been made thereon.

CONDITIONS IN CUBA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States, which was read and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and, with accompanying papers, ordered to be printed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I inclose the report of Provisional Governor Magoon on the conditions in Cuba, together with the correspondence between Secretary Taft and myself on the subject. I can not too heartily commend the action of the provisional governor and his civil associates, and of the Army in all its parts in connection with this Cuban matter. I am glad to be able to say that we can now definitely announce that one year hence, by or before February 1, 1909, we shall have turned over the island to the President and Congress to be elected next December by the people of Cuba. Prosperity, peace, and happiness have attended the exercise of our government in Cuba. Our word to turn over the island to its own people will be scrupulously regarded, and through their own President and Congress they will administer the government of the island a year hence.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 14, 1908.

ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTIONS SIGNED.

The SPEAKER announced his signature to enrolled joint resolutions of the following titles:

Joint resolution (S. R. 1) amending an act relative to the public printing and binding, approved March 1, 1907.

Joint resolution (S. R. 14) extending the time allowed the organized militia of the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia to conform to the provisions of section 3 of the act approved January 21, 1903.

ENROLLED BILL PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT FOR HIS APPROVAL.

Mr. WILSON of Illinois, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that this day they had presented to the President of the United States for his approval the following bill:

H. R. 194. An act to authorize the county of St. Francis, in the State of Arkansas, to construct a bridge across St. Francis River at or near the town of Madison, in said county and State.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; accordingly (at 5 o'clock p. m.) the House adjourned.

---

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, the following executive communications were taken from the Speaker's table and referred as follows:

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Secretary of State submitting an estimate of appropriation for salaries of certain officers in the Department of State—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Assistant Secretary of the Interior submitting an estimate of appropriation for printing the Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of Bois de Sioux, Lake Traverse, and Big Stone Lake—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, submitting an estimate of appropriation for preparation of reports relating to the work of the Joint High Commission—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting, with a letter from the Commissioner of Education, a draft of a bill to provide for compulsory education of the native children of Alaska—to the Committee on the Territories and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Secretary of State submitting explanations of estimate of appropriation for foreign intercourse—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, submitting an estimate of appropriation for expenses of collecting the revenue from customs for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting with a copy of a letter from the Secretary of War, a copy of judgments of the court of first instance of Manila, P. I., against the United States—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PUBLIC BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII,

Mr. ADAMSON, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 12439) authorizing the construction of a bridge across White River, Arkansas, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 170), which said bill and report were referred to the House Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 12412) to authorize the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cache River, in Woodruff County, Ark., reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 171), which said bill and report were referred to the House Calendar.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10309) granting an increase of pension to Albert Hoffman, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 93), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 5978) granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Pennock, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 94), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. FULLER, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4666) granting a pension to John H. Monk, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 95), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4148) granting an increase of pension to George S. Neill, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 96), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4487) granting an increase of pension to Rebecca W. Swain, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 97), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10379) granting an increase of pension to George F. Laird, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 98), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4330) granting an increase of pension to Mary J. Baughman, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 99), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referrd the bill of the House (H. R. 4249) granting an increase of pension to John R. Miller, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 100), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4485) granting an increase of pension to Jennie S. Risley, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 101), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HOLLIDAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4175) granting a pension to Adam Meyer, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 102), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4752) granting an increase of pension to Theodore Campbell, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 103), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6484) granting an increase of pension to Samuel L. Bushong, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 104), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 8662) granting an increase of pension to Michael McDonald, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 105), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 9060) granting an increase of pension to Daniel S. Graves, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 106), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10306) granting an increase of pension to Tilghman Scholl, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 107), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10019) granting a pension to Henry Knauff, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 108), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 9041) granting an increase of pension to John E. Coogle, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 109), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6651) granting an increase of pension to John Miller, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 110), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HOLLIDAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 7275) granting an increase of pension to Edward N. Burns, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 111), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 7316) granting a pension to George W. Richardson, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 112), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 7884) granting an increase of pension to John Shadinger, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 113), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10858) granting an increase of pension to Barbara Popp, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 114), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 9283) granting an increase of pension to A. E. Chaffee, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 115), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. SULLOWAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6398) granting an increase of pension to Ann Toomey, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 116), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2341) granting an increase of pension to Christopher N. Snyder, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 117), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2850) granting an increase of pension to Elihu Wheeler, reported the same without amendment, accompained by a report (No. 118), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HACKETT, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3215) granting a pension to Oliver P. Johnson, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 119), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. FULLER, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4695) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Johnson, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 120), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10937) granting a pension to J. R. Harwell, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 121), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 11856) granting a pension to William Saunders, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 122), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 7088) granting an increase of pension to Benson S. Philbrick, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 123), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3454) granting an increase of pension to John C. Peters, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 124), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6827) granting a pension to Morton A. Wilcox, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 125), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2861) granting an increase of pension to Margaret Cornwell, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 126), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HACKETT, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3337) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Evans, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 127), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. SULLOWAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1487) granting an increase of pension to Herbert F. Brooks, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 128), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2899) granting an increase of pension to John Mess, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 129), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 5317) granting an increase of pension to Lewis W. Crain, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 130), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3453) granting an increase of pension to George Taylor, alias George Parks, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 131), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. SULLOWAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4371) granting an increase of pension to Palmer Loper, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 132), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4189) granting an increase of pension to David Wood, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 133), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HACKETT, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6046) granting an increase of pension to Edward T. Tucker, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 134), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3740) granting an increase of pension to James Walters, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 135), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4105) granting an increase of pension to George W. Hearing, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 136), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. LINDSAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4755) granting an increase of pension to George E. Goodrich, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 137), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3737), granting an increase of pension to Thomas E. Story, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 138), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4247), granting an increase of pension to Alexander Beaty, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 139), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HACKETT, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3338) granting a pension to Elizabeth James, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 140), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4150) granting an increase of pension to Charles Miles, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 141), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. SULLOWAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4535) granting an increase of pension to William L. Jaquett, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 142), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4766) granting an increase of pension to Charles P. Leavitt, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 143), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6521) granting an increase of pension to Caspar Deschler, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 144), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HOLLIDAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 5455), granting an increase of pension to Dallas Vernam, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 145), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4311) granting an increase of pension to David Whitten, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 146), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 6554) granting a pension to Joseph Ralley, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 147), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4767) granting an increase of pension to Milton Ross, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 148), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

He also, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 4937) granting an increase of pension to Rebecca S. Wishart, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 149), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3616) granting an increase of pension to Eli Masters, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 150), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. FULLER, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1949) granting an increase of pension to David Lemon, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 151), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. EDWARDS of Kentucky, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1180) granting an increase of pension to Jackson Sizemore, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 152), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. FULLER, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 787) granting an increase of pension to Henry McNeil, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 153), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2210) granting an increase of pension to John Horstman, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 154), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. KIPP, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3354) granting a pension to Christopher Lute, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 155), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. HACKETT, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2767) granting an increase of pension to James M. Endicott, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 156), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1565) granting an increase of pension to William W. Levering, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 157), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 8605) granting an increase of pension to William Thomas, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 158), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Celandar.

Mr. LINDSAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3335) granting an increase of pension to Henry Holliday, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 159), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BOYD, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2913) granting an increase of pension to John R. Pahlman, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 160), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2772) granting an increase of pension to Mathias D. Rodocker, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 161), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1936) granting an increase of pension to David Everitt, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 162), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. FULLER, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2664) granting an increase of pension to Joseph H. Kitzmiller, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 163), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. ANSBERRY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2087) granting an increase of pension to Joseph V. Stevenson, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 164), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2198) granting an increase of pension to Thomas S. Blake, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 165), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. SULLOWAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2993) granting an increase of pension to William Hogan, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 166), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. BRADLEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 2351) granting an increase of pension to Seth H. Phillips, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 167), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3494) granting an increase of pension to Dietrich Bellman, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 168), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHANEY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 1058) granting an increase of pension to Sidney E. Bryant, reported the same with amendments, accompanied by a report (No. 169), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. PRINCE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10368) to authorize the Secretary of War to change the name of Julius Flemming to his proper name of Jacob John Locher, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 172), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXII, committees were discharged from the consideration of bills of the following titles, which were thereupon referred as follows:

A bill (H. R. 4062) granting a pension to Hans F. Hirte—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 7869) granting an increase of pension to Alfred Johnson—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 9621) granting a pension to John Hearn—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 13142) for the relief of Thomas D. Meares, administrator of Armand D. Young, deceased—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on War Claims.

A bill (H. R. 13176) granting a pension to Henry Genrich—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 13301) granting a pension to R. J. Hiner—Committee on Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

PUBLIC BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND MEMORIALS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills, resolutions, and memorials of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ADAIR: A bill (H. R. 13646) to secure depositors in national banks against loss, and so forth—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. JENKINS: A bill (H. R. 13647) to amend first subdivision of section 629 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. BEALE of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13648) requiring the motto "In God we trust" to be inscribed on all coins of money hereafter issued by the United States as formerly—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. HUMPHREY of Washington: A bill (H. R. 13649) providing for the hearing of cases upon appeal from the district court for the district of Alaska in the circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. DIEKEMA: A bill (H. R. 13650) making an appropriation to pay to certain Chippewa Indians of Michigan moneys due them under former treaties—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. STEPHENS of Texas: A bill (H. R. 13651) providing for the purchase of a national forest reserve and park in the State of Texas, to be known as "The Palo Duro Canyon National Forest Reserve and Park"—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13652) authorizing the President of the United States to enter into commercial agreements for the purpose of securing enlarged foreign markets for the beef and pork products of the United States—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 13653) to provide for the care of orphan Indian children at the Whittaker Home, Pryor Creek, Ind. T.—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. ANTHONY: A bill (H. R. 13654) to increase the efficiency of the Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. VOLSTEAD: A bill (H. R. 13655) to grant to the State of Minnesota certain lands for a forest and game reserve—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. BOWERS: A bill (H. R. 13656) to subject intoxicating liquors transported from one State into another for delivery or sale to the laws and regulations of such latter State and to prohibit the issuance of Federal licenses to sell same in such localities where such is prohibited by the laws or regulations of such State or locality—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. CHAPMAN: A bill (H. R. 13657) to amend an act approved March 3, 1891, amending section 4787 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HEFLIN: A bill (H. R. 13658) to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors in the new Union Railroad Station in Washington, D. C.—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. DAWSON: A bill (H. R. 13659) to establish a biological and fish-cultural station in the Second Congressional district of the State of Iowa—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. BANNON: A bill (H. R. 13660) providing for a survey of the Ohio River, its tributaries, banks, and the area overflowed by floods at Portsmouth, Ohio; Manchester, Ohio; Gallipolis, Ohio, and Ironton, Ohio—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. STEENERSON: A bill (H. R. 13661) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Bemidji, Minn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13662) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Moorhead, Minn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13663) extending the provisions of the seventh section of the act approved June 10, 1880, to the port of St. Vincent, Minn.—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. PADGETT: A bill (H. R. 13664) providing for the issue and circulation of national bank notes—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. ELLIS of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13665) to amend an act entitled "An act to promote the construction of a safe deep-water harbor on the coast of Texas"—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: A bill (H. R. 13666) authorizing the removal of the arsenal at Watertown, Mass., to the shores of Dorchester Bay—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13667) to provide for furnishing artificial limbs to disabled soldiers—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. WILEY: A bill (H. R. 13668) to provide a site and erect a public building at Luverne, Ala.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. BENNET of New York: A bill (H. R. 13669) to fix the compensation of certain laborers employed in the customs service at the port of New York—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. GARDNER of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 13670) to fix fees and costs in the probate court of the District of Columbia and to provide for the collection and payment of the same, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. MUDD: A bill (H. R. 13671) authorizing the Takoma Springs Ice Company to lay a pipe under certain streets and roads in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. PARKER of South Dakota: A bill (H. R. 13672) for the restoration of annuities to the Medawakanton and Wahpakoota (Santee) Sioux Indians, declared forfeited by the act of February 16, 1863—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. JONES of Virginia (by request): A bill (H. R. 13673) providing for the sale of Craney Island, in the harbor of Norfolk, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. GARDNER of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 13674) authorizing the extension of P street to Kenilworth—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. ROBERTS: A bill (H. R. 13675) to explain the act of June 27, 1898, amending the act of March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States"—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. CALDER: A bill (H. R. 13676) fixing the compensation of the watchmen in the customs service at the port of New York—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. CONNER: A bill (H. R. 13677) to provide a public park on Georgetown Heights, in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania: Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 99) directing the printing of 50,000 copies of Bulletin No. 333, issued by the United States Geological Survey—to the Committee on Printing.

Also, joint resolution (H. J. Res. 100) appointing a commission to investigate the recent mining disasters in the various States of the United States—to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

By Mr. STEPHENS of Texas: Resolution (H. Res. 148) requesting the Interstate Commerce Commission to send to the House certain information concerning the shipment of stock and commodities on certain railroads—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. LEWIS: Resolution (H. Res. 149) directing the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to report to the House certain information concerning certain trusts—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. SMITH of Missouri: Resolution (H. Res. 150) requesting the transmission by the President to the Congress of the report upon conditions at Goldfield, Nev.—to the Committee on Labor.

PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ACHESON: A bill (H. R. 13678) for the relief of R. P. Burhans—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13679) to correct the military record of Patrick H. McGee—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13680) granting an increase of pension to Brice S. Ramsey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. AIKEN: A bill (H. R. 13681) for the relief of Mrs. R. N. Pharr and Mrs. H. B. Faut—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ALLEN: A bill (H. R. 13682) for the relief of Edmund M. Talcott—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13683) granting an increase of pension to Thomas W. Treadwell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13684) granting an increase of pension to Moses L. Grace—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANSBERRY: A bill (H. R. 13685) granting an increase of pension to Elicum Ayers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANTHONY: A bill (H. R. 13686) for the relief of Peter Ludwig—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13687) for the relief of Stephen Murphy—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13688) for the relief of Mrs. Julia Steffey—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13689) granting a pension to Anna McDonald—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13690) granting an increase of pension to Henry Thompson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOWERS (by request): A bill (H. R. 13691) to correct the military record of J. E. Mariner—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13692) to correct the military record of Elias H. Lewin, alias William Harrington—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BROWNLOW: A bill (H. R. 13693) to correct the military record of William H. Manley—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13694) to correct the military record of John Jones—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13695) granting a pension to Ernest V. Fletcher—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. BURLEIGH (by request): A bill (H. R. 13696) granting an increase of pension to Nathaniel L. Owen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BURTON of Delaware: A bill (H. R. 13697) granting a pension to Charles J. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13698) granting a pension to John Fettin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13699) granting an increase of pension to William H. Dodd—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: A bill (H. R. 13700) for the relief of A. R. Hartzell—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CANDLER: A bill (H. R. 13701) granting a pension to Mattie B. Romsey—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CHANEY: A bill (H. R. 13702) granting a pension to Barnabas Lukenbill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13703) granting a pension to Elizabeth Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13704) granting a pension to Jacob Metzger—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13705) granting a pension to Henry S. McFarren—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13706) granting an increase of pension to Barnabas Lukenbill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CHAPMAN: A bill (H. R. 13707) granting an increase of pension to Cornelius C. Mangis—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13708) granting an increase of pension to William Goulding—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. COOPER of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13709) granting an increase of pension to Rachel Fee—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13710) granting an increase of pension to Frederick Miller—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13711) granting an increase of pension to James M. Neil—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. COOPER of Texas: A bill (H. R. 13712) for the relief of the legal representatives of Sarah J. Montgomery, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. COUDREY: A bill (H. R. 13713) granting an increase of pension to Anton Geiser—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13714) granting a pension to Edward J. Glasgow—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CURRIER: A bill (H. R. 13715) for the relief of the legal representatives of George W. Soule—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. COX of Indiana: A bill (H. R. 13716) granting an increase of pension to George Seaver—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CRAWFORD: A bill (H. R. 13717) granting an increase of pension to Martha Holder—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13718) granting an increase of pension to John H. Buckner—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13719) granting a pension to M. C. Johnson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13720) granting a pension to William K. Chambers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13721) completing the military record of Wiley Henson—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13722) to complete the military record of George W. Davis—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DARRAGH: A bill (H. R. 13723) granting an increase of pension to Lewis A. Woodruff—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAWSON: A bill (H. R. 13724) granting an increase of pension to Charles E. Goodno—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DIEKEMA: A bill (H. R. 13725) granting an increase of pension to John W. Sydnam—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13726) granting an increase of pension to General M. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13727) granting an increase of pension to Oren Cline—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13728) granting an increase of pension to James N. Davis—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13729) granting an increase of pension to Susan M. Sumner—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13730) for the relief of Charles O. Allen or heirs—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. DWIGHT: A bill (H. R. 13731) granting an increase of pension to Van Buren Crain—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13732) granting an increase of pension to John Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 13733) for the relief of the heir of Francis H. McLeod—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. FOCHT: A bill (H. R. 13734) granting an increase of pension to John Cluck—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13735) to correct the military record of Micaiah R. Evans—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. FOSTER of Illinois: A bill (H. R. 13736) granting an increase of pension to James P. Emons—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13737) granting an increase of pension to Leander C. Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13738) granting an increase of pension to August Petit—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GARNER: A bill (H. R. 13739) for the relief of Robert W. Prosser, of Val Verde County, Tex.—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. HACKNEY: A bill (H. R. 13740) for the relief of Robert J. McGowan—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13741) for the relief of Joseph C. Black—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13742) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of H. N. Vaughan, executor of Benjamin Kirk, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13743) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of Abram Jones—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13744) granting a pension to James H. Reed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOBSON: A bill (H. R. 13745) granting a pension to Steven Konicka—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13746) granting a pension to Martin Bolster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOWARD: A bill (H. R. 13747) for the relief of the heirs of Larkin Clark, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13748) for the relief of the heirs of James Stewart and John Lee McMichael, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13749) for the relief of John Billups—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13750) for the relief of Matthew McDaniel—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13751) granting a pension to William E. Anderson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13752) granting an increase of pension to Amelia M. Salmon—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13753) for the relief of the estate of William R. Poole, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey: A bill (H. R. 13754) granting a pension to James E. Cole—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13755) granting a pension to Elizabeth Miller—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13756) granting a pension to William F. Bogert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13757) granting a pension to James M. Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13758) granting a pension to Abram Foster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13759) granting a pension to Fannie E. Yost—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13760) granting a pension to Neil Kelly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13761) granting a pension to Mary E. Fraser—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13762) granting a pension to Adolph Gross—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13763) granting a pension to Mary Van Blarcom—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13764) granting a pension to Ernest T. Etchells—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13765) granting a pension to Patrick Mullin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HULL of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13766) granting an increase of pension to Giles Walden—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13767) authorizing the Secretary of War to recognize John A. Elmore, deceased, as having been a member of Company I, First Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Mounted Infantry, later Fifth Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Cavalry, civil war—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. JACKSON: A bill (H. R. 13768) for the relief of Frank M. Travers—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. KAHN: A bill (H. R. 13769) granting an increase of pension to Margaret H. Middleton—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. KIPP: A bill (H. R. 13770) for the relief of Charles N. Warner—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13771) granting a pension to Henry Stulen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KNAPP: A bill (H. R. 13772) for the relief of John C. Sullivan—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LAMAR of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13773) granting an increase of pension to Elias Johnston—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13774) granting an increase of pension to John A. Pond—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13775) granting an increase of pension to Henry Sherman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13776) granting a pension to William Breeding—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LANGLEY: A bill (H. R. 13777) for the relief of the estate of Samuel Beatty, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LEAKE: A bill (H. R. 13778) for the relief of Margaret Underhill and Mary Clark—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LLOYD: A bill (H. R. 13779) for the relief of Robert Harris—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13780) for the relief of the heirs of O. P. Phillips, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LOUD: A bill (H. R. 13781) granting an increase of pension to George H. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13782) to reimburse Leroy D. Simonds for money expended by him on homestead lands entered to him by error of United States land agent—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LOUDENSLAGER: A bill (H. R. 13783) granting an increase of pension to William H. Murray—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOWDEN: A bill (H. R. 13784) for the relief of William Vincent—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. McCREARY: A bill (H. R. 13785) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth S. Taylor—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13786) for the removal of the charge of desertion against Henry C. Burrowes, late seaman, United States Navy—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. McKINLEY of Illinois: A bill (H. R. 13787) granting an increase of pension to John N. Bayles—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13788) granting an increase of pension to Noah Tohill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MADISON: A bill (H. R. 13789) granting an increase of pension to William Criswell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MALBY: A bill (H. R. 13790) granting an increase of pension to Edmund J. Pickett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MANN: A bill (H. R. 13791) granting an increase of pension to Consider H. Willett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MARSHALL: A bill (H. R. 13792) for the relief of Anna K. Carpenter, widow of the late Thomas H. Carpenter—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13793) granting an increase of pension to Foster Drake—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13794) granting an increase of pension to James Madison—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13795) for the relief of the estate of William Duncan, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. NYE: A bill (H. R. 13796) for the relief of James and William Crooks—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: A bill (H. R. 13797) granting an increase of pension to Louise A. Barnes—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13798) granting an increase of pension to Michael J. Meehan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13799) granting a pension to John H. Leslie—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. OLMSTED: A bill (H. R. 13800) authorizing the President of the United States to nominate Lieut. Samuel Lindsey Graham, now on the retired list, to be a commander on the retired list—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13801) granting an increase of pension to Daniel Fegan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PARSONS: A bill (H. R. 13802) for the relief of Gwinthlean Macrae Robinson—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. PATTERSON: A bill (H. R. 13803) granting a pension to Vance V. Pearsall—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PRAY: A bill (H. R. 13804) for the relief of Malcolm Gillis—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. SCOTT: A bill (H. R. 13805) granting an increase of pension to George Bolton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SHACKLEFORD: A bill (H. R. 13806) for the relief of George Barron—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13807) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of William E. Miller and to grant him an honorable discharge—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13808) granting an increase of pension to George Morrison—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SPARKMAN: A bill (H. R. 13809) for the relief of Charles S. Blood—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. TALBOTT: A bill (H. R. 13810) authorizing the Secretary of War to issue an honorable discharge to Norman S. Will, late of Company I, Twentieth Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13811) authorizing the Secretary of War to issue an honorable discharge to Evan R. Singleton, late of Company F, One hundred and twenty-second Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13812) granting an increase of pension to William Kelly—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13813) granting an increase of pension to Sarah R. Helsby—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. VOLSTEAD: A bill (H. R. 13814) granting an increase of pension to Simeon S. Goodrich—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13815) granting an increase of pension to Levi M. Briddell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13816) granting an increase of pension to Patrick Handran—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13817) granting an increase of pension to Philip Lutz—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. VREELAND: A bill (H. R. 13818) for the relief of Eugene L. Willis—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13819) granting a pension to Charles Gould—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WANGER: A bill (H. R. 13820) granting a pension to Anna M. Umstead—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WHEELER: A bill (H. R. 13821) granting an increase of pension to George Huddleson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13822) granting an increase of pension to Samuel A. Purviance—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13823) granting an increase of pension to Freeland H. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13824) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Ford—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13825) granting a pension to Jane Starrett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WILLIAMS: A bill (H. R. 13826) granting an increase of pension to Henry Knox Sikes—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13827) granting an increase of pension to Harriet M. Ritter—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

---

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By Mr. ACHESON: Petition of Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, for modification of Sherman trust law—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of National Guard Association of Pennsylvania, against wearing Army uniforms by unauthorized persons—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Woman's Interdenominational Missionary Union, for a Sunday-rest law in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Patrick H. McGee—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. AIKEN: Papers to accompany H. R. 7633, to provide for appointment of an additional district judge for the district of South Carolina—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, petition of State Baptist Convention of South Carolina, for the Littlefield original-package law—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Julia F. Darling—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Agricultural Society of Charleston, S. C., for Appalachian and White mountains forest reserve—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Bilton (S. C.) Chamber of Commerce, for Appalachian park reserve and White Mountains reserve—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. ANSBERRY: Petition of Farmers' Institute of Continental, Ohio, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of National Association of State Universities, for a national forest reserve in Appalachian and White mountains—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of citizens of Ohio, for the Sherwood pension bill, giving all soldiers $1 per day—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANTHONY: Petition of Kansas State Horticultural Society, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of ex-volunteer officers of war of 1861–1865, and citizens of Kansas, and Custer Post, No. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Lucas & Co. and other voters, of Robinson, Kans., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. ASHBROOK: Paper to accompany bill for relief of J. W. Lefever—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia: Petition of mayor and council of city of Brunswick, Ga., for survey of route of proposed Atlantic and Great Western Canal—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. BOOHER: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Ellis W. Joy—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Caroline Larcom—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Henry C. Edmiston—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOWERS: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John Kennedy—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BURNETT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Samuel Shaffer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Samuel D. Minor—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CALDER: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Catherine Sherry—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Robert J. Hiner—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CHANEY: Petition of Crook Love and others, for a pension law giving soldiers of civil war $1 per day—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Will A. Thompson and others, and Bullman & McBride, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. COOPER of Pennsylvania: Petition of Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, for amendment of Sherman trust law—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. CRAWFORD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John H. Buckner—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Martha Holder—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. DARRAGH: Petitions of George F. Fairman and other citizens of Big Rapids, Mich.; also A. J. Morton and 40 others, of Marion, Mich., and E. H. Wilson and 15 others, of Bannister, Mich., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. DAWSON: Petition of N. B. Howard Post, No. 92, Grand Army of the Republic, of Dewitt, Iowa, for Dawson bill increasing widows' pensions—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DE ARMOND: Petition to accompany bill for relief of C. T. Yetman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DRISCOLL: Petition of Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y., for repeal of duty on art works (H. R. 15268)—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. FITZGERALD: Petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. FOCHT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Martin L. Protzman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Henry P. Fletcher—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of William Martin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER of Illinois: Petition of citizens of Mount Carmel, Ill., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Clarence Frederick Chapman—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, papers to accompany bills for relief of Allen Byers, George R. Spore, and Francis M. Price—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, papers to accompany bills for relief of William Goldsborough and Elishama Beaty—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. FOSTER of Vermont: Petition of John C. Hay and 25 others, of Hollywood, Cal., for modification of Chinese-exclusion law—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. FULLER: Petition of Fox River Valley (Ill.) Manufacturers' Association, for currency legislation—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Melvina Anderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Joseph Woodruff Post, No. 281, Grand Army of the Republic, of Marseilles, Ill., for the McKinley pension bill, increasing widows' pensions to $12 per month—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GARDNER of Michigan: Petition of James Tanner, for fixing fees and costs in probate court of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. GOEBEL: Petition of District Council of Amalgamated Woodworkers of Cincinnati, Ohio, against prohibition in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Petition of Annual Convention of the Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of Chinese-exclusion law so that a fixed and liberal number of Chinese and Japanese be admitted annually on same sanitary conditions as are imposed on other immigrants—to the Commitee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. GREENE: Memorial of legislature of Massachusetts, for legislation to exterminate dogfish—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of Chinese-exclusion law—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. HACKNEY: Petitions of Joplin (Mo.) Council, No. 74, and Carthage (Mo.) Council, No. 281, United Commercial Travelers of America; also, merchants and business men of Carthage, Mo., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. HAYES: Petition of Fruit Growers' Convention of California, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Fruit Growers' Convention of California, for legislation adequate to protect the country from insect pests—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Harry L. Howe, asking that soldiers discharged on account of tuberculosis may be treated in some hospital other than Fort Bayard, N. Mex.—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HEPBURN: Petition of citizens of Olathe, Kans., for Hepburn and Dolliver bill, Littlefield original-package bill, and other legislation—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. HOBSON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Steven Konicka—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Martin Bolster—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. HOWELL of New Jersey: Paper to accompany bill for relief of William Durrua—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. JOHNSON of Kentucky: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Cornelius Haynes—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. KAHN: Petitions of 476 officers of the civil war residing in California, and 3,039 citizens of California, for H. R. 6288, to create a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Margaret H. Middleton—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, petition of Asiatic Exclusion League, for exclusion of all Asiatic laborers except students and travelers—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Also, petition of Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, Cal., for appropriation for submarine torpedo boats for Pacific coast service—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, petition of General George G. Meade Post, Grand Army of the Republic, favoring pension law increasing pensions to $40 per month per capita—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KIPP: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Henry Stulen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LINDSAY: Petition of Henry C. Wright, for preservation of forests—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York for Senate bill (S. 25) to promote efficiency of Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for H. R. 31, for light and fog signal on Governors Island, New York Harbor—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Also, petition of William L. Felter, for increase of salary of United States Commissioner of Education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. LLOYD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Robert Harris—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of 39 citizens of Hurdland, Mo.—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of citizens of Adair County, Mo., for establishment of a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LOUD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Leroy D. Simons—to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of George H. Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Lake View Grange, Otsego County, Mich., for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. LOUDENSLAGER: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Robert J. Hiner (previously referred to Committee on Pensions)—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MALBY: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Edmund J. Pickett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MANN: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Consider H. Willett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MILLER: Petitions of Pollock Post, No. 42 (59 members); citizens of Marion; volunteer officers of Lyndon, Osage County, Eureka, Greenwood County, and Council Grove, Marion County; citizens of Council Grove, Marion County, and Lyndon, Osage County, all in the State of Kansas, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: Papers to accompany bills for relief of James Madison and Foster Drake—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania: Petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of the Chinese-exclusion law to suit fruit growers of California—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Also, petition of Woman's Interdenominational Missionary Union, for a Sunday rest law in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. OLMSTED: Petition of Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, for amendment of the Sherman antitrust law—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. PAYNE: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Francis Polmanteer, Anna Conklin, and Matilda Gains—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. REEDER: Petition of citizens of Kansas, for a law creating volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ROBERTS: Petition of National Guard Association of Massachusetts, favoring Senate bill 2671, authorizing extra officers for the Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ROBINSON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of estate of Dr. W. D. Barnett—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of W. B. Howard—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. TIRRELL: Petition of Henry W. Clark and others, for Appalachian and White mountains forest reserve—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of National Guard Association, of Massachusetts, for H. R. 2671, authorizing extra officers for Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania: Petition of E. Peltor and 48 others, for a parcels-post law and postal savings bank law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, January 15, 1908.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. EDWARD E. HALE.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

FINDINGS OF THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a certified copy of the findings of fact filed by the court in the cause of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Charleston, Tenn., v. United States, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

DISPOSITION OF USELESS PAPERS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The communication from the Acting Postmaster-General of the 17th of December last with regard to the distribution of useless documents and papers was referred to the joint committee, and the Chair appointed as members of the committee on the part of the Senate the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. MONEY] and the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER]. The Chair will substitute the Senator from Texas [Mr. BAILEY] in place of the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. MONEY] as a member of the committee.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. W. J. BROWNING, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills and joint resolution, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

H. R. 11330. An act to authorize the Chicago, Indiana and Southern Railroad Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the town of Gary, Ind.;

H. R. 11331. An act to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River at or near the town of Gary, Ind.;

H. R. 12412. An act to authorize the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cache River in Woodruff County, Ark.; and

H. J. Res. 88. Joint resolution to amend the act of March 4, 1907, making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, so as to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent an increased proportion of the appropriation made by said act for rent for the Bureau of Forestry.

ENROLLED JOINT RESOLUTIONS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled joint resolutions, and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

S. R. 1. Joint resolution amending an act relative to the public printing and binding, approved March 1, 1907; and

S. R. 14. Joint resolution extending the time allowed the organized militia of the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia to conform to the provisions of section 3 of the act approved January 21, 1903.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. FRYE presented a petition of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of China, Me., praying for the enactment of legislation to prohibit the use of the United States mails for the purpose of advertising intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. WARREN presented a memorial of sundry citizens of Douglas, Wyo., remonstrating against the enactment of legislation changing the existing land laws of the United States, which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also presented a memorial of the Wool Growers' Association of Albany County, Wyo., remonstrating against the repeal of the duty on wool and hides, and also praying for the enactment of legislation providing for the sale of Government lands within the limits of railroad grants, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. NELSON presented a petition of the Lincoln Club, of St. Paul, Minn., praying for the establishment of postal savings banks, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. LODGE. I present the petition of Thomas Harrison, clerk of class four, in the Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C., praying that he be relieved from public service and that he be granted a moderate annuity during the remaining period of his natural life. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs; and I venture to call the attention of the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] to it when it reaches his committee.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER presented the petition of Emmett Duffee, of Manchester, N. H., praying for the passage of the so-called "Kittredge copyright bill," which was referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented a petition of sundry second-hand booksellers of Washington, D. C., praying for the enactment of legislation to repeal the license tax of $40 per annum imposed on second-hand book dealers in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. DOLLIVER presented a petition of the Commercial Club of Des Moines, Iowa, praying for the adoption of an amendment to the present interstate-commerce law relative to railroad companies changing freight classification or rules affecting the transportation of any commodity, which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Olathe, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to regulate the interstate transportation of intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on the Judicary.

Mr. CLAPP presented a petition of Local Union No. 30, International Typographical Union, of St. Paul, Minn., praying for the enactment of legislation to repeal the duty on white paper, wood pulp, and the materials used in the manufacture thereof, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. PERKINS presented a petition of the Thirty-third Annual Convention of Forest Growers of Sacramento, Cal., praying for the adoption of a certain amendment to the present Chinese-exclusion law, which was referred to the Committee on Immigration.

He also presented a petition of the Thirty-third Annual Convention of Fruit Growers of Sacramento, Cal., praying for the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of Local Grange No. 349, Patrons of Husbandry, of Soquel, Cal., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for the establishment of a postal savings bank and a parcels-post delivery, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of the Thirty-third Annual Convention of Fruit Growers of Sacramento, Cal., praying for the enactment of legislation to establish a national horticultural quarantine, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. HOPKINS presented an affidavit to accompany the bill (S. 3966) granting an increase of pension to William Kinsey, which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CARTER presented a joint memorial of the legislature of the State of Montana, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

House joint memorial 4.

Resolved by the house of representatives (the senate concurring), That the incorporation by the General Government within forest reserves of vast areas within our State, much of it devoid of timber or timbered so sparsely as not to be within the purview of the act under which the segregation is made, is a policy unjust to our people and obstructive of the settlement and development of our State.

That while we approve the policy of preserving from ruthless destruction the valuable timber on the public lands and such as affords protection against the too rapid melting of the snows in the mountains, we respectfully pray that all lands not of such character and now included in forest reserves within the State be speedily restored to the general body of the public lands.

The act of Congress gives slight, if any, justification for the imposition upon our people of the burdensome tax imposed upon them for the privilege of grazing their stock within forest reserves, annually increasing with the creation of new reserves, all now embracing within this State 17,344,883 acres.

The exaction of this tax is defended upon the ground of the necessity of restricting the number of cattle and sheep allowed to graze upon the reserves, lest by crowding the tender shoots be trampled on and destroyed, though multiplied instances may be pointed to in this State where reforestation is going on over areas that have been grazed unrestrictedly since they were denuded of timber ten or more years ago.

Most of these could be dispensed with if the General Government should undertake simply to preserve the timber on the public lands from ruthless destruction by depredators or the spread of fires, a policy that would meet the unqualified approval and support of our people.

Should the present policy, however, be continued, we earnestly pray the substitution of some system of surveillance through local officers, before whom a speedy hearing can be had, in lieu of reposing all details of the administration of the law in officers responsible only to their chief at the district capital of the county to whom those compelled to seek privileges on the reserves must be servilely subservient or risk business disaster.

Resolved, That the secretary of state be instructed to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the President of the United States and to the Members of Congress from Montana, with the request to the latter that they be laid before each House of Congress.

E. W. KING,
Speaker of the House.
EDWIN L. NORRIS,
President of the Senate.

Approved March 5, 1907

J. K. TOOLE, Governor.

Filed March 5, 1907, at 2.25 p. m.

A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Montana, ss:

I, A. N. Yoder, secretary of state of the State of Montana, do hereby certify that the above is, with the exception of corrections in orthography and punctuation and insertion of omissions or substitute words in brackets, a true and correct copy of house joint memorial No. 4, relating to incorporation of the General Government within forest reserves of vast areas within this State, etc., enacted by the tenth legislative assembly of the State of Montana and approved by J. K. Toole, governor of said State, on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1907.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of said State.

Done at the city of Helena, the capital of said State, this 7th day of March, A. D. 1907.

[SEAL.] A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

Mr. CARTER presented a joint resolution of the legislature of the State of Montana, which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Senate joint resolution 1.

A resolution requesting Congress to call a convention for the purpose of proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which amendment shall provide for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

Whereas a large number of the State legislatures have at various times adopted memorials and resolutions in favor of the election of United States Senators by popular vote; and

Whereas the National House of Representatives has on several occasions within recent years adopted resolutions in favor of this proposed change in the method of electing United States Senators, which were not adopted by the Senate; and

Whereas Article V of the Constitution of the United States provides that Congress on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States shall call a convention for proposed amendments; and

Believing there is a general desire upon the part of the citizens of the State of Montana that the United States Senators should be elected by a direct vote of the people: Therefore be it

Resolved (if the house concur), That the legislature of the State of Montana favors the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution which shall provide for the election of United States Senators by popular vote, and joins with other States of the Union in respectfully requesting that a convention be called for the purpose of proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States as provided for in Article V of the said Constitution, which amendment shall provide for a change in the present method of electing United States Senators, so that they can be chosen in each State by direct vote of the people.

Resolved, That a copy of this joint resolution and application to Congress for the calling of the convention be sent to the secretary of state of each of the United States, and that a similar copy be sent to the President of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and also to each of the United States Senators from Montana and our Representative in Congress.

EDWIN L. NORRIS,
President of the Senate.
E. W. KING,
Speaker of the House.

Approved February 21, 1907.

J. K. TOOLE, Governor.

Filed February 21, 1907, at 4.05 p. m.

A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Montana, ss:

I, A. N. Yoder, secretary of state of the State of Montana, do hereby certify that the above is, with the exception of corrections in orthography and punctuation and insertion of omissions or substitute words in brackets, a true and correct copy of Senate joint resolution No. 1, resolution requesting Congress to call a convention for the purpose of proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which amendment shall provide for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, enacted by the tenth session of the legislative assembly of the State of Montana and approved by J. K. Toole, governor of said State, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1907.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of said State.

Done at the city of Helena, the capital of said State, this 1st day of March, A. D. 1907.

[SEAL.] A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

Mr. CARTER presented a joint memorial of the legislature of the State of Montana, which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Senate joint memorial 1.

To the honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

Whereas there are now in a portion of the State of Montana known as the "Blackfoot Indian Reservation," many thousand acres of desirable agricultural land, in every way adaptable to farming and stock raising, far in excess of the needs of the Indians of said reservation; and

Whereas this land embodies some of the choicest agricultural area in northern Montana, which is now of no material benefit to said Indians nor a source of revenue to either the Federal or State governments; and

Whereas in a suit of the United States v. Winters the circuit court of appeals, affirming the circuit court of the United States for the district of Montana, granted a permanent injunction in behalf of the Indians on the Fort Belknap Reservation as to 5,000 inches of the waters of Milk River, basing the opinion upon an implied reservation of such waters in the treaty with the Indians ratified May 1, 1888; that the volume of 5,000 inches exceeds the normal low-water flow of Milk River, and such volume is not being used by the Indians on said Belknap Reservation in any considerable quantities, nor is it being diverted for any useful purpose to such an extent, and a suit is now pending enjoining a diversion of the waters from Birch Creek by white settlers. The fact is that the Indians will be in no manner benefited by the issuance of the injunction, but, on the contrary, the water will pass down the stream unchecked if the settlers are restrained from using it. That, by virtue of the water rights being impliedly reserved for the Indians by the agreement aforesaid, without limit, or as to time or place of use, every water right in the entire country from the Missouri and Marias rivers north to the Canadian boundary line and from the summit of the Rocky Mountains to the boundary of Dakota is either rendered invalid or so vague, unreliable, and indefinite as to be of no substantial value to the settlers and others dependent upon such streams for a water supply. Not only has settlement been retarded by such indefinite and unreliable condition of the right to the use of the waters in this great territory, but many of our good citizens who have established homes therein are passing over the line and making their homes in Canada, moved thereto by the fear that the clouded and precarious water rights in northern Montana will seriously and permanently stifle prosperity there: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, your memorialists, the tenth legislative assembly of the State of Montana, earnestly pray and petition the Congress of the United States to enact such legislation as will provide that the right of Indians to appropriate and divert water from any of the streams referred to be limited to the quantity of water necessary for actual use for irrigation and for domestic purposes upon the lands allotted to them, and that when the water is not being actually and necessarily so used by the Indians it shall be subject to diversion and use according to the laws of Montana: And be it further

Resolved, That we, your memorialists, the tenth legislative assembly of the State of Montana, earnestly pray and petition the Congress of the United States for the passage of Senate bill 7674, introduced in the Senate of the United States January 9, 1907, entitled "A bill to survey and allot lands embraced within the limits of the Blackfoot

Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana, and to open the surplus lands to settlement: Be it further

Resolved, That the secretary of state be, and is hereby, instructed to forthwith transmit copies of this memorial, properly authenticated, to the honorable Secretary of the Interior and to our Senators and Representative in Congress from the State of Montana.

EDWIN L. NORRIS,
President of the Senate.
E. W. KING,
Speaker of the House.

Approved February 26, 1907.

J. K. TOOLE, Governor.

Filed February 26, 1907, at 1.40 p. m.

A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Montana, ss:

I, A. N. Yoder, secretary of state of the State of Montana, do hereby certify that the above is, with the exception of correction in orthography and punctuation and insertion of omissions or substitute words in brackets, a true and correct copy of senate joint memorial No. 1, memorializing Congress to provide for the allotment of Indian lands, and to open the Blackfoot Reservation to settlement, enacted by the tenth session of the legislative assembly of the State of Montana, and approved by J. K. Toole, governor of said State, on the 26th day of February, A. D. 1907.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of said State.

Done at the city of Helena, the capital of said State, this 1st day of March, A. D. 1907.

[SEAL.] A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

Mr. CARTER presented a joint resolution of the legislature of the State of Montana, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Senate joint resolution 3.

Whereas there is now pending in Congress a bill known as the Burkett bill, by the terms of which settlers will be prohibited from grazing or permitting stock to range upon the public domain without a permit from the Federal authorities, and

Whereas the people of this State have heretofore enjoyed the privilege of letting their stock feed upon the public domain, and they are opposed to any system which will prohibit them from letting their stock range and feed upon the unfenced public domain: Therefore be it

Resolved, That we earnestly protest against the adoption by Congress of the Burkett bill, so called, or any other bill providing for any other like system for permits to graze or range stock upon the public domain at a certain price per head.

Be it further resolved, That the secretary of state of the State of Montana be, and he is hereby, instructed to furnish a copy of this memorial to the President of the United States, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and our Senators and Representative in Congress, and the chairman of the Committee on Public Lands of the United States Senate and House of Representatives.

EDWIN L. NORRIS,
President of the Senate.
E. W. KING,
Speaker of the House.

Approved March 7, 1907.

J. K. TOOLE, Governor.

Filed March 7, 1907, at 8.40 p. m.

A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Montana, ss:

I, A. N. Yoder, secretary of state of the State of Montana, do hereby certify that the above is, with the exception of corrections in orthography and punctuation, and insertion of omissions or substitute words in brackets, a true and correct copy of Senate joint resolution No. 3, petitioning Congress of the United States against the passage of the so-called Burkett bill providing for permits for ranging stock upon the public domain, enacted by the tenth session of the legislative assembly of the State of Montana, and approved by J. K. Toole, governor of said State, on the 7th day of March, A. D. 1907.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of said State.

Done at the city of Helena, the capital of said State, this 8th day of March, A. D. 1907.

[SEAL.] A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

Mr. CARTER presented a joint memorial of the legislature of the State of Montana, which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

House joint memorial 1.—Petitioning Congress to enact such legislation as will result in the opening of Fort Peck Indian Reservation.

To the honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

Whereas there are now in a portion of the State of Montana, known as the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, many thousand acres of desirable agricultural land in every way adaptable to farming and stock raising far in excess of the needs of the Indians of said reservation; and

Whereas this land embodies some of the choicest agricultural area in eastern Montana which is now of no material benefit to said Indians or a source of revenue to either Federal or State government; and

Whereas the proposed Milk River irrigation project, as located by present surveys, will connect with the west boundary of said reservation; and

Whereas the continuation of the Government canal on to this reservation will make one of the most fertile and productive valleys in the State of Montana and make homes for thousands of families: Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, your memorialists, the tenth legislative assembly of the State of Montana, earnestly pray and petition the Congress of the United States to enact such legislation as will result in the opening of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation under conditions similar to the opening of the Crow and Flathead Indian reservations in this State; and be it further

Resolved, That the secretary of the state be, and he is hereby, instructed forthwith to transmit copies of this memorial, properly authenticated, to the honorable Secretary of the Interior and to our Senators and Representative in Congress from the State of Montana.

W. R. ALLEN,
Speaker pro tempore of the House.
EDWIN NORRIS,
President of the Senate.

Approved March 4, 1907.

J. K. TOOLE, Governor.

Filed March 4, 1907, at 3.05 p. m.

A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Montana, ss:

I, A. N. Yoder, secretary of state of the State of Montana, do hereby certify that the above is, with the exception of corrections in orthography and punctuation, and insertion of omissions or substitute words in brackets, a true and correct copy of house joint memorial No. 1, petitioning Congress to enact such legislation as will result in the opening of Fort Peck Indian Reservation, enacted by the tenth session of the legislative assembly of the State of Montana, and approved by J. K. Toole, governor of said State, on the 4th day of March, A. D. 1907.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of said State.

Done at the city of Helena, the capital of said State, this 5th day of March, A. D. 1907.

[SEAL.] A. N. YODER, Secretary of State.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. BURNHAM, from the Committee on Claims, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 820) for the relief of L. K. Scott; and

A bill (S. 2580) for the relief of B. Jackman.

Mr. GAMBLE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries, reported it with an amendment as a substitute and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. ELKINS, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 10519) to authorize the Nashville and Northeastern Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cumberland River at or near Celina, Tenn.; and

A bill (H. R. 4891) to authorize the city of Burlington, Iowa, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 2981) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Colorado Springs, Colo;

A bill (S. 3336) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Wheeling, W. Va.; and

A bill (S. 721) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office at Alexandria, Minn.

He also, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom the subject was referred, submitted a report, accompanied by a bill (S. 3955) to provide for the erection of a post-office building at New York City, which was read twice by its title.

Mr. McCUMBER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred certain pension bills, submitted a report accompanied by a bill (S. 4048) granting an increase of pension to certain soldiers and sailors of the civil war and certain widows of such soldiers and sailors, which was read twice by its title, the bill being a substitute for the following Senate bills referred to that committee:

S. 11. Joseph T. Woodward;
S. 12. Orrel Brown;
S. 14. Enos H. Stevens;
S. 20. Daniel Guptill;
S. 50. Lucretia G. Webster;
S. 54. Martha J. Browne;
S. 66. Palmer Atkin;
S. 102. Isabella Roessle;
S. 119. A. Judson Annis;
S. 149. Amos Coulter;
S. 183. Thomas W. Moneypeney;
S. 184. James W. Shroyer;
S. 188. William G. Jordan;
S. 238. Annie B. Berry;
S. 394. Job D. Lewis;
S. 398. Mary E. Walker;
S. 404. Martha A. Sheldon;
S. 405. John T. Fort;
S. 407. Milton H. Barnes;
S. 526. Robert W. Jones;
S. 541. Margaret G. Gorman;
S. 578. James Fisher;
S. 610. Edward H. Williams;

S. 611. Henry Dulin;
S. 631. Albert T. Coville;
S. 635. George W. Phillips;
S. 645. William H. Hendrickson;
S. 646. Harriet Garwood;
S. 725. Albert E. Stewart;
S. 786. James H. Gray;
S. 787. Annanias Drew;
S. 788. James K. Hartin;
S. 808. Mathew W. Martin;
S. 810. Thomas J. Reed;
S. 828. Elmira E. Briggs;
S. 843. Ada Eaton;
S. 844. Edson H. Webster;
S. 857. Rose Hollihan;
S. 861. Ellen E. Traver;
S. 916. James P. Hubbell;
S. 922. Delos White Leach;
S. 1064. Levi S. Beemer;
S. 1114. Jane Newton;
S. 1142. Nancy C. Baxter;
S. 1172. Laura M. Farnham;
S. 1173. Rawson Bailey;
S. 1307. James Henry Webb;
S. 1308. Nelson S. Wellman;
S. 1311. Cornelius M. Conley;
S. 1360. Elmira Lombard;
S. 1370. George A. Clipper;
S. 1378. Ferdinand Ohmes;
S. 1379. Charles H. Randall;
S. 1433. John C. McClurkin;
S. 1568. William F. Evans;
S. 1573. Irving Campbell;
S. 1619. Julie M. Hinsdill;
S. 1630. Asa D. Clark;
S. 1645. Joseph S. Buck;
S. 1652. Edward S. Hyde;
S. 1942. Edwin N. Marsh;
S. 1948. George Page;
S. 2044. Albert E. Goodwin;
S. 2046. William H. Drake;
S. 2049. Logan McD. Scott;
S. 2051. James Foley;
S. 2053. Thomas B. Parks;
S. 2054. William M. Wixon;
S. 2177. Phillip Ford;
S. 2237. Andrew J. Mullinix;
S. 2250. Emma L. Slack;
S. 2264. Elvira E. Baxter;
S. 2276. Frederic Getchell;
S. 2302. Milton S. Hammond;
S. 2395. Albion Crane;
S. 2397. Clarence L. Walker;
S. 2464. Josiah R. Fox;
S. 2471. Edwin N. Kline;
S. 2474. Thomas Donohue;
S. 2594. Grace A. Lines;
S. 2859. Emily C. Wallace;
S. 2856. Thomas S. Cottrell;
S. 2862. Charles F. Millett;
S. 2925. Charles Hamlin;
S. 2946. William Deter; and
S. 2965. James B. Linderman.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. LODGE. I submit the following report from the Committee on Rules, which I ask may be read, and I give notice that to-morrow I shall call it up for action by the Senate.

The Secretary read the report, as follows:

The Committee on Rules, to whom were referred certain communications from the Secretary of the Interior and the Acting Secretary of War, report the following resolutions, for which they invite the consideration and favorable action of the Senate:

"Resolved, That no communications from heads of Departments, commissioners, chiefs of bureaus, or other executive officers, except when authorized or required by law, or when made in response to a resolution of the Senate, will be received by the Senate unless such communications shall be transmitted to the Senate by the President.

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be communicated by the Secretary of the Senate to the President and the House of Representatives."

The committee desire also to report back the communications referred to them from the Secretary of the Interior and the Acting Secretary of War, and recommend their reference to the appropriate committees, the Committee on Rules, through their chairman, having introduced the bills which accompanied the communications just referred to so that they may come before the Senate and be referred to the appropriate committees in the manner prescribed by the rules of the Senate for the presentation and reference of all bills and resolutions.

Mr. LODGE. I asked that the report should be read so that it might be printed in full in the RECORD. I ask that the resolutions on which action by the Senate is recommended may be printed separately from the rest of the report, in the ordinary form of Senate resolutions.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolutions were ordered to be placed on the Calendar, as follows:

Resolved, That no communications from heads of Departments, commissioners, chiefs of bureaus, or other executive officers, except when authorized or required by law, or when made in response to a resolution of the Senate, will be received by the Senate unless such communications shall be transmitted to the Senate by the President.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be communicated by the Secretary of the Senate to the President and the House of Representatives.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. WARNER introduced a bill (S. 3956) authorizing a credit in certain accounts of the Treasurer of the United States, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 3957) for the relief of John N. Neal; and

A bill (S. 3958) to change the date of commission of Col. John L. Chamberlain, Inspector-General, United States Army.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3959) granting an increase of pension to Adam Herzinger; and

A bill (S. 3960) granting an increase of pension to Kate Mikel (with an accompanying paper).

Mr. HOPKINS introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3961) granting an increase of pension to Samuel W. Wallis;

A bill (S. 3962) granting an increase of pension to William H. H. Westbrook;

A bill (S. 3963) granting an increase of pension to Maberry Riggs;

A bill (S. 3964) granting an increase of pension to Jesse Loveless;

A bill (S. 3965) granting an increase of pension to Roy E. Knight (with accompanying papers); and

A bill (S. 3966) granting an increase of pension to William Kinsey (with an accompanying paper).

Mr. NELSON introduced a bill (S. 3967) granting an increase of pension to Dolson B. Searle, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3968) to relinquish certain land to William Burfening, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. SMOOT introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Patents:

A bill (S. 3969) to amend the laws of the United States relating to the registration of trade-marks;

A bill (S. 3970) to revise and amend the statutes relating to patents;

A bill (S. 3971) to amend section 4896 of the Revised Statutes;

A bill (S. 3972) to amend section 4885 of the Revised Statutes; and

A bill (S. 3973) to amend the laws of the United States relating to registration of trade-marks.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3974) granting an increase of pension to Anna Cochran; and

A bill (S. 3975) granting an increase of pension to George W. Thomas.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3976) to authorize and require the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company to maintain and operate a track connection with the United States navy-yard in the city of Washington, D. C., which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. TAYLOR introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3977) for the relief of the heirs or personal representatives of Daniel Seay, deceased;

A bill (S. 3978) for the relief of J. M. Carney;
A bill (S. 3979) for the relief of Washington Campbell;
A bill (S. 3980) for the relief of the estate of Lemuel Long, deceased;
A bill (S. 3981) for the relief of the estate of Edwin Grant, deceased;
A bill (S. 3982) for the relief of Jonathan Amis; and
A bill (S. 3983) for the relief of the estate of Nathan Perry, deceased.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3984) to grant pensions to the East Tennessee bridge burners, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3985) to restore Second Lieut. Winslow Hart Reaves to the rank and pay of a lieutenant and retire him for physical disability, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. OWEN introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Finance:

A bill (S. 3986) limiting speculative loans by national banking associations;
A bill (S. 3987) forbidding a national banking association to receive deposits in excess of ten times its capital and surplus; and
A bill (S. 3988) providing a means for the insurance of their deposits by the national banking associations of the United States and the expansion of a bond-secured currency under an interest charge compelling the contraction of the expansion so provided.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 3989) for the relief of Manuel Madril;
A bill (S. 3990) for the relief of Mrs. Candelaria L. de Lepoint, administratrix of the estate of Don Blas Lucero, deceased;
A bill (S. 3991) for the relief of Joseph B. Tucker;
A bill (S. 3992) for the relief of William Redder; and
A bill (S. 3993) for the relief of Pablo Ciriaco Baca.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3994) for the relief of Mrs. Margaret Tucker, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Depredations.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3995) extending time of payment on town-site lots in that part of Oklahoma formerly comprising the Indian Territory, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. PENROSE introduced a bill (S. 3996) for the relief of Charles N. Warner, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3997) granting a pension to Thomas F. Walter;
A bill (S. 3998) granting an increase of pension to Laura V. Tegethoff; and
A bill (S. 3999) granting an increase of pension to Milton S. Lytle (with an accompanying paper).

Mr. BULKELEY introduced a bill (S. 4000) granting a pension to Louisa S. Wilson, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McENERY introduced a bill (S. 4001) granting an increase of pension to Matilda Ann Cheney, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GORE introduced a bill (S. 4002) to limit the effect of the regulation of commerce between the States and Territories in certain cases, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4003) granting a pension to George G. Sherlock, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4004) for the relief of Thomas L. How, heir of James J. and Isaac S. How, deceased, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. CLARKE of Arkansas introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4005) for the relief of the firm of Bertrand & Scull;
A bill (S. 4006) for the relief of the estate of J. H. Moseby, deceased;
A bill (S. 4007) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the heirs of Burns Polk, sr., deceased;
A bill (S. 4008) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the First Baptist Church of Helena, Ark.;
A bill (S. 4009) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Mount Comfort, Ark.;
A bill (S. 4010) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of William A. Bethel, administrator;
A bill (S. 4011) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the estate of Benjamin Pigman, deceased;
A bill (S. 4012) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the estate of Joseph Bean, deceased;
A bill (S. 4013) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the estate of Richard Higgins, deceased;
A bill (S. 4014) to carry into effect the findings of the Court of Claims in the matter of the claim of the estate of John Brewer, deceased;
A bill (S. 4015) for the relief of Shadrach H. Wren;
A bill (S. 4016) for the relief of heirs of Nathaniel S. Word, deceased;
A bill (S. 4017) for the relief of heirs of Q. K. Underwood, deceased;
A bill (S. 4018) for the relief of heirs of John Nutt, deceased;
A bill (S. 4019) for the relief of Ben Mahuren;
A bill (S. 4020) for the relief of W. S. Jennings;
A bill (S. 4021) for the relief of heirs of Jesse Hollingshead, deceased;
A bill (S. 4022) for the relief of heirs of James S. Ford, deceased;
A bill (S. 4023) for the relief of heirs of Nathan P. English, deceased; and
A bill (S. 4024) for the relief of John H. Hamiter.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4025) granting an increase of pension to George W. Walter, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BURKETT introduced a bill (S. 4026) to establish the true status of the First Regiment, Second Brigade, Nebraska Mounted Militia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BACON (by request) introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

A bill (S. 4027) to parole United States prisoners, and for other purposes; and
A bill (S. 4028) to regulate commutation for good conduct for United States prisoners.

Mr. WARREN introduced a bill (S. 4029) to appoint Warren C. Beach a captain in the Army and place him on the retired list, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HEYBURN introduced a bill (S. 4031) granting an increase of pension to Thomas D. Osborne, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DOLLIVER introduced a bill (S. 4032) to establish the direction and control of public education in the District of Columbia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. FULTON introduced a bill (S. 4033) to satisfy certain claims against the Government arising under the Navy Department, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. DICK introduced a bill (S. 4034) to provide for the establishment of a Bureau of Mining Technology, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

Mr. CARTER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 4035) to provide for the payment of certain claims against the District of Columbia in accordance with the act of Congress approved January 26, 1897, and as amended July 19, 1897, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4036) for the relief of George H. Potter, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. DANIEL introduced a bill (S. 4037) for the relief of the heirs of Robert M. Ely, deceased, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. FRAZIER introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4038) for the relief of the estate of David C. Hamill, deceased (with an accompanying paper);

A bill (S. 4039) for the relief of the estate of F. K. Center, deceased (with an accompanying paper);

A bill (S. 4040) for the relief of the estates of W. M. Purcell and Martha Purcell, deceased (with an accompanying paper);

A bill (S. 4041) for the relief of George T. Larkin;

A bill (S. 4042) for the relief of the estate of John W. McKissock, deceased;

A bill (S. 4043) for the relief of the estate of C. W. Crozier, deceased;

A bill (S. 4044) for the relief of the estate of Zeno T. Harris, deceased; and

A bill (S. 4045) for the relief of the estate of David H. Hays, deceased.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE introduced a bill (S. 4046) to authorize the cutting of timber, the manufacture and sale of lumber, and the preservation of the forests on certain lands reserved for Indian reservations in the State of Wisconsin, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. DICK introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 35) to provide for a mining technology branch in the Geological Survey, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

ADDITIONAL CURRENCY.

Mr. BACON introduced a bill (S. 4047) to provide additional currency, which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. BACON. I ask that the bill be read in full at the desk.

The bill was read the second time at length, as follows:

A bill (S. 4047) to provide additional currency.

Be it enacted, etc., That any national banking association which has circulating notes outstanding, secured by the deposit of United States bonds to an amount of not less than 50 per cent of its capital stock, and which has a surplus of not less than 20 per cent, and any bank, or trust company, or savings institution, chartered either by the United States or by any State, in any State or Territory or in the District of Columbia, may, for the purposes hereinafter stated, deposit with the Treasurer or any assistant treasurer of the United States such of the bonds described in section 2 of this act as shall be approved in character and amount by the Treasurer of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury. Whenever any such national banking association, bank, trust company, or savings institution shall deposit, as aforesaid, such of the said bonds as shall be approved in character and amount by the Treasurer of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury, it shall be entitled to receive, upon the order of the Comptroller of the Currency, United States currency notes, as herein provided, in amounts equal to 100 per cent of the par value in the case of United States bonds, and to 75 per cent of the market value of State, county, and municipal bonds or obligations, as determined by the Treasurer of the United States, provided the same shall not exceed 75 per cent of the par value of said bonds or obligations. Said United States currency notes shall be prepared and executed as provided by law for the preparation and execution of the outstanding United States notes and shall be received at par in all parts of the United States in payment of all taxes, excises, public lands, and all other dues to the United States; and also for all salaries and debts and demands owing by the United States to individuals, corporations, and associations within the United States; and when held by any national banking association may be counted as part of its lawful reserve. The said currency notes shall be issued only when secured by deposits of bonds or obligations, as provided in this act, and when presented to the Treasury of the United States they shall on demand be redeemed in gold coin of the United States; and when so redeemed they may be reissued as now provided by law in the case of the outstanding United States notes, except as otherwise provided in this act. Said currency notes shall express upon their face that they are payable in gold coin of the United States and that they are receivable in payment of all dues and obligations to and by the United States.

SEC. 2. That the Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may accept as security for the United States currency notes provided for in the preceding section, bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of the United States, or of any State of the United States, or any legally authorized bonds issued for municipal purposes by any city or county in the United States which has been in existence as a city or county for a period of fifteen years and which for a period of ten years previous to such deposit has not defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest of any funded debt authorized to be contracted by it, and which has at such date more than 20,000 inhabitants as established by the last national census, and whose net indebtedness does not exceed 10 per cent of the valuation of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last preceding valuation of property for the assessment of taxes, provided the market value of such bonds or obligations so accepted is not less than par value. The Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may for the purposes of this act at any time require the deposit of additional securities or require any depositor to change the securities already on deposit or to deposit in addition lawful money of the United States to provide against the depreciation of the market value of said bonds or obligations below their par value, and should the depositor fail to promptly comply with any or either of the said requirements the Treasurer of the United States is hereby directed to sell the said bonds or obligations at public sale.

SEC. 3. That all bonds deposited to secure United States currency notes issued in accordance with the terms of this act shall be transferred to the Treasurer of the United States in trust for the association, bank, trust company, or savings institution depositing them, with a memorandum to that effect attached to or written or printed on each bond and signed by the cashier or some other officer of the association or company making the deposit. A receipt shall be given by the Comptroller of the Currency, or by a clerk appointed by him for that purpose, stating that such bond is held in trust for the association, bank, trust company, or savings institution on whose behalf the transfer is made and as security for the redemption and payment of any currency notes that have been or may be delivered to either of said associations or companies. No assignment or transfer of any such bond by the Treasurer shall be deemed valid unless countersigned by the Comptroller of the Currency. The provisions of sections 5163, 5164, 5165, 5166 of the Revised Statutes, respecting United States bonds deposited to secure circulating notes, shall, except as herein modified, be applicable to all bonds deposited under the terms of this act to secure the United States currency notes hereby authorized.

SEC. 4. That each depositor of bonds under the provisions of this act shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a tax of one-half per cent for each year on the amount of said notes received by him during the time said bonds remain on deposit, and each depositor shall receive all interest on said bonds the same as though they were in his own possession. All money received by the Treasury Department from the sale of said bonds or obligations and in payment of the tax as herein provided for shall be used for the purchase of gold coin, and said gold coin shall be added to the separate fund for the redemption of United States currency notes.

SEC. 5. That any depositor of bonds under this act, or his lawful representative, successors, or assigns, may at any time demand and receive the bonds deposited, or the proceeds of their sale, as provided by this act, together with any and all deposits of lawful money which the depositor may have been required to make, upon the return to the Treasurer of the United States of an amount of United States currency notes equal to the face value of the notes received by the said depositor and the unpaid tax, as herein provided; and said currency notes when so returned to the Treasurer of the United States by such depositor or his lawful representative, successors, or assigns, shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, be canceled and destroyed. Any gold coin received by the Treasury Department under the operations of this act shall be placed in a separate fund and used only for the redemption of the United States currency notes herein provided for. So much of the redemption fund provided for by the act of March 14, 1900, as shall be necessary for the redemption of any of these notes shall be temporarily transferred to this separate fund and replaced as soon as possible.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, before moving the reference of the bill to the Finance Committee, which I shall do, I desire to say a very few words in explanation of it and in indicating the differences between the measure which I propose in this bill and the measure which has already been introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH].

The purpose of each measure is the same—to give an increased currency to the business of the country. This bill may be considered, and is in fact in a sense, an amendment to the bill introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island. It is engrafted upon that bill, and so far as the differences in the two measures will permit the structure and the provisions and even the phraseology of the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island have been preserved.

Not only the purpose of the bill, but in part the particular method, is the same in each measure, particularly so in the essential feature, that the effort is made to enlarge the basis upon which currency may be issued by adding to the present basis of national bonds, State, municipal, and county bonds—following, as I have done, the exact wording of the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island in this particular, except that as to railroad bonds I have omitted them. I do not think that railroad bonds possess a sufficient stability and constancy of value to permit them to be used as a basis for the issuance of currency, and therefore I have left them out.

It is proper to say also, Mr. President, that in drawing this bill there are some of the features embraced in it which were in a bill which was introduced by request by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. KNOX], but, as I will proceed to show and as anyone will see from reading the bill, while it has these correspondences and in fact identities in feature with each of the two measures, it differs materially from both of them in several important particulars, which I will briefly point out.

There are two fundamental differences between the measure proposed by myself and the bill which has been introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island. The first of these fundamental differences is this: The measure proposed by the Senator from Rhode Island seeks to secure the additional issue of currency by using exclusively the national banks as the agencies through which this currency can be issued, whereas in the measure which I propose in this bill it is sought to extend those agencies so as to include all the moneyed institutions of the country which can come up to the required standard as expressed in the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island. There is no discrimination against the national banks. It is simply giving to other moneyed institutions of the country an equal chance in this regard with the national banks.

If this can be safely done, Mr. President, if in addition to the national banks all moneyed institutions chartered either by the United States or by States coming up to this required standard can avail themselves of the opportunity and become the agencies for the utilization of the various classes of bonds which are enumerated, it seems to me that there can be no question as to the desirability of so doing.

It is not simply the national banks which are in need of currency—and they are not the only institutions in the country which are engaged in the business of banking, of discounting paper, of lending money, or receiving deposits, and of doing generally the money business of the country—which affects the general business of the country so vitally. They are not the only institutions which belong to clearing-house associations, and if it is possible to put within the reach of all the moneyed institutions of the country the opportunity which is now sought to be put within the reach of the national banks, it is unfair and unjust to deny that to them.

A great many reasons could be urged why this is so. In the first place, Mr. President, it is an injustice to put the moneyed institutions of the country in a position where they must depend exclusively upon one other class of moneyed institutions to furnish them in times of emergency and stringency with the needed funds. It puts within that particular class the opportunity to do what it is charged is now being done and has for months been done by the national banks in the great moneyed centers, of exacting large premiums for the accommodation of currency to other moneyed institutions as well as to individuals.

But there is a more urgent and controlling reason which, I hope, may be considered by the Finance Committee why this limitation should not be as is proposed in the bill introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island. It is this: National banks naturally have the larger part of their investment in securities in national bonds.

That is naturally so, from the peculiar character of the law with reference to the issuance of currency by them. They have in their vaults a very much less proportion of the class of bonds which it is now sought to utilize as a basis for the issuance of currency than have the other moneyed institutions of the country. So it will happen that when the opportunity is offered to utilize the various classes of bonds—State bonds, municipal bonds, and county bonds—for the purpose of effecting a larger issue of currency, the bonds are not in the vaults of the only institutions which under the law, if it should be enacted as introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island, will have the opportunity to issue currency.

Now, Mr. President, this is a most serious matter, and it is more serious in the agricultural sections of the country, both South and West, than it is in the commercial centers. In addition to the fact that the national banks will not have the State, municipal, and county bonds which other moneyed institutions have, and therefore can not use the opportunity which the bill would otherwise present to them, it is known to everyone familiar with the national banking law that the doors of national banks are practically closed to those engaged in agricultural pursuits (and when I say "practically closed" I mean so far as loaning money is concerned), because those engaged in agricultural pursuits have much the larger part of their investment in real estate. It is the only basis of credit which they have, and under the existing law that property can not be used as a basis for a loan by a national bank or as a security for a loan by a national bank.

Mr. President, the serious feature, so far as it affects the agricultural interests of the country, is in the fact that if the currency is not available at the proper time, they lose a very large amount which they would otherwise receive as the price of their products. It is generally believed that in the cotton region the loss to the cotton producers the past year has been many tens of millions of dollars in the reduced price of cotton because of the fact that when the crop was ready to be marketed there was no money with which to move it, and without even the money which belonged to the banks of the cotton region—much the larger proportion of its surplus having been deposited with the banks in the money centers—there was an absolute refusal on the part of those banks to permit the banks in the South to have their own money with which to move the crop, and I have no doubt the same thing was true as to the West. I had personal information of one bank in Atlanta which had $300,000 deposited with a bank in New York, of which the New York bank refused in November to pay one dollar to the Atlanta bank when demanded. This was not, by any means, an isolated instance.

I can not elaborate that, Mr. President, and I do not desire to do it. My only object in making the statement is the hope of calling the attention of the Finance Committee to the measure which I introduce, that they may give it the examination and consideration which the Senator from Rhode Island promised, when he introduced his bill, should be given to all measures which other Senators might introduce at any time prior to the final conclusion of consideration upon the subject.

The suggestion which I made is a most material and serious one, it seems to me, that the national banks are not ordinarily in the possession of the class of securities to any great extent which are mentioned in the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island and which are also in part mentioned in the bill which I have introduced. They are not in the possession of the class of those securities which are to be used as the basis for this increased currency, and the moneyed institutions of the country which are not embraced in the provisions of the bill introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island are the very institutions which have this class of securities which could thus be utilized if the proper machinery shall be provided for currency based thereon.

I wish to read something which I clipped from this morning's Post. It seems to have been a letter, or rather a series of letters from Chicago to the Senators from Illinois. I will read just one extract from a letter from E. A. Potter, president of the American Trust and Savings Bank. I presume it was written to either the senior Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM] or the junior Senator from Illinois [Mr. HOPKINS], and undoubtedly furnished by one or the other to the Washington Post. There are several other letters, but I read this one in illustration of the particular suggestion which I make as to the fact that under the Aldrich bill there will be a defeat of the purpose of it in a very large measure, because national banks generally have their money invested in national bonds and not in State, municipal, and county bonds. This is what Mr. Potter said:

> National banks, as a rule, and particularly in the Middle West, do not carry in large amounts the securities which the Aldrich measure requires in order to take out new circulation. In order to get additional circulation under the proposed plan it is necessary to deposit with the Government bonds of a certain class.
>
> This would impose upon national banks in this section, for instance, the burden of going into the market to get bonds. Under the circumstances I do not feel that such a scheme would give the relief the Aldrich bill purports to furnish.

Mr. President, I presume we all recognize the fact of the justice of the demands of the country that there shall be a measure enacted by this Congress which shall, so far as possible, give relief from the money stringency; and the matter which I desire particularly to ask the attention of the committee to is the great necessity that a measure shall be enacted which shall give relief not simply to the money centers, but which shall give relief to the country at large, and particularly to the wide expanse of country remote from the money centers, not forgetting the vast region in the South and West engaged in the business of agriculture.

Mr. President, it is not simply a matter of importance to those engaged in industries in this wide expanse of country, but it is a matter of the utmost importance to the business of the whole country. You take, for instance, the matter which I suggested a moment ago as to the less amount which had been received for the cotton crop because of the fact that there was not money to move it. That did not simply affect producers of cotton. Cotton more than any other one product in the whole United States—agricultural, mineral, or manufactured—affects the question of the balance of trade in this country; and in the same degree and proportion and by reason of the insufficiency of currency with which to move the crop to market that that crop brings a less price than it otherwise would do, in that degree there is injury to the country in the lessening of the balance of trade which we should have to our credit if there were a proper price paid for that important product.

Mr. President, it is the desire of the people at large not simply that there shall be a currency measure which shall give relief to the stringency in money centers, but that there shall be one which shall have a beneficent influence over the entire country and as to all branches of business. I may be in error, but I think that in the degree that the Aldrich bill will not permit all of these various classes of State, municipal, and county bonds to be availed of to the extent that may be necessary there will in that degree be a failure to effect this important end.

Mr. President, I have mentioned one important fundamental difference between the measure which I propose and the measure which has been offered by the Senator from Rhode Island, in the fact that in the one case the agencies are limited entirely to national banks and in the measure which I propose the agencies are extended to all the moneyed institutions of the country which can be shown to reach the required standard. Of course, unless that can be safely done, I do not desire that it shall be done; but I believe it can be safely done. If it can be safely done, I think the Committee on Finance should very carefully endeavor to work out the details of the measure which I propose or some other which shall be more efficacious.

There is another important fundamental difference between the measure proposed by the Senator from Rhode Island and the measure proposed by myself which is made necessary by the first difference. Of course we recognize the fact that it is utterly impracticable for the Aldrich bill in its present shape to extend its privileges and powers to other moneyed institutions than national banks, because it is utterly impossible and impracticable, and not to be considered for a moment, that the Government of the United States could authorize the issuance of circulating notes by any other institution than a national bank, which notes are to have the guaranty and the indorsement of the National Government. That is out of the question. Therefore the question of the extension of the agencies to be employed in the securing of this additional currency of the national banks so as to include these other moneyed institutions necessarily involves another proposition, and that is that a different class of currency must be introduced; and that class of currency can only be, in the nature of things, a currency which the Government itself issues. That is a necessary corollary, a necessary consequence and complement of the first proposition.

Mr. President, I know that there is in a very large degree among the moneyed men of the country, those engaged in the banking business and otherwise, a very deep-seated prejudice against the issuance of paper money by the Government. I think that is in a large measure due, however, to the fact that there has been in the past the advocacy through a long period of years by a certain school of financiers of the proposition that the Government should issue an irredeemable paper currency, and, as a consequence, the opposition which grew to such a proposition as that has been intensified and become fixed in the public mind, or in the mind of a large portion of the public, against the issuance of any paper money by the Government. I confess that I do not share in this prejudice against the issue of noninterest-bearing obligations by the Government—greenbacks as they are commonly called—to be used as currency so long as they are redeemable upon presentation at the Treasury. I would be glad to see a large part of the interest-bearing debt of the country converted into these noninterest-bearing Government notes. I am not, however, in favor of an irredeemable or a fiat paper currency issued by the Government.

But the provisions of the bill which I have introduced to-day have no such feature. There is no proposition for any irredeemable paper currency by the Government; there is no proposition for the issuance of any fiat money by the Government; there is no proposition even for the issuance of a never-ending Government note to be without termination of currency which shall be taken in by the Government and paid out by the Government without redemption on demand. It is true that, so long as the particular bonds, the basis of credit which is named in the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island and also repeated in the bill introduced by me, remain in the Treasury as the security for that note, the note can be taken in and paid out. But whenever a bank or a moneyed institution of any name, whether a savings bank, a trust company, an ordinary State bank, or an institution chartered in the District of Columbia by the National Government, or in any of the Territories, which has previously made the required deposits, brings to the Treasury of the United States the equivalent in amount of the notes which it originally received, its securities are returned to it and it is made the duty of the Treasurer to cancel and destroy the notes. And prior to that time the Treasurer will redeem any of those notes whenever presented at the Treasury. So there is no irredeemable feature about this bill whatever or about the note to be issued.

I have provided in the bill that the notes shall be paid in gold, because since 1900 that has become the established policy of the Government. Practically all the obligations of the Government, all the currency issued by the Government or under authority of the Government, if not directly payable in gold, are convertible into gold, and it amounts practically to the same thing. Therefore it is better to put that matter beyond question or dispute.

I am unable to see, Mr. President, upon what possible basis there can be rested an objection to the issuance of currency directly by the Government based upon certain securities, when it is contended and urged that there should be currency issued by a national bank upon exactly the same security and with exactly the same obligations ultimately on the part of the Government. There can be no distinction or difference between the two. Therefore, if the first proposition which I have endeavored to present in this bill be a correct one, that in order to get the full benefit of the securities named in the Aldrich bill as the basis for currency, we have to extend the agencies through which the currency is to be issued. If that is found to be correct, if it is found to be desirable, I can see no reason why, instead of the issuance of currency by the National Government upon the security of these same obligations—with that recognized as a proper thing to do—I can not see why there should be any objection to anyone to the issuance of currency on the part of the Government based upon exactly the same obligations.

Mr. President, the details of this bill, of course, it is not necessary for me to go through with. It is for the committee to examine and see whether—the bill holder of course will be properly guaranteed, because it is the obligation of the Government, which no man would ever dispute or doubt—whether the Government is safe. That is the only question—whether or not the provisions of this bill safeguard the Government. The best interests of the country will be advanced by bills which shall thus extend the agencies—and that is the great point—so the important thing is to extend these agencies for securing this increased currency, so far as it can be safely done, so that we shall not only include the national banks of the country, but also all other moneyed institutions which shall be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.

There are a great number of other things, Mr. President, I should like to say with reference to this matter, but I recognize that upon the introduction of the bill this is not the proper time, and I shall not now do so.

I will, however, say another word with the permission of the Senate—and this paper on my desk reminds me of it—in reference to the difference between the bill introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island and the bill introduced by myself.

The bill introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island imposes a very high tax for the purpose of driving that circulation in as soon as the emergency has passed which is supposed to have called it forth. I have omitted that in this bill because, judging the present and the future by the past, I do not believe that any such requirement is needed. In an examination of the history of the national bank currency I do not find, in the absence of such a drastic measure as is proposed of the 6 per cent tax, that there has been any undue inflation of the paper currency of the country. I telephoned to the Comptroller of the Currency, and I got from him these figures: At the present time there are some $200,000,000 of national bonds, which are available as a basis for the currency, which are not utilized. I find this to be the statement in brief of the information which I have. At a time when there was the largest bonded indebtedness which the Government has ever had, all of which, either directly or in a secondary way by being converted into registered bonds, was available for the basis of bank circulating notes—I find that in 1869, when the bonded indebtedness of the United States available for national bank circulation was $2,162,000,000, the amount of national bank notes issued at that time was only $299,724,000, clearly indicating to my mind, Mr. President, that the business needs of the country control the question as to what issues and what volumes of money the banks shall put out. With that large amount of $2,000,000,000 available as a basis of credit for the notes, less than $300,000,000 of bank notes at that time were issued; and at that time the capital stock—which is a most material fact—of these same banks, which did not thus avail themselves of the opportunity for the issuance of notes beyond the amount I have indicated—the capital stock of the banks was $422,659,000—something like about thirty-odd per cent more than the amount of their issues.

But I want to call the attention of the Senate to another instance of the amount of circulation and the amount of bonds available for circulation. At present the national bank circulation is the largest which it has ever been since the national bank act was originally passed. The present circulation is $694,336,586, and the amount of bonds at present available for the basis of the issuance of currency is $898,210,000—showing to-day more than $200,000,000 available for the national banks for the issuance of circulating notes of which they do not take advantage. Of course we understand the reason of that is that they do not own all the bonds, and the bonds are high in price, and it is not very remunerative for them to buy them for this purpose. But I am simply illustrating the fact that if the large percentage stated in the bill of the Senator from Rhode Island were necessary in order to prevent an undue issuance of circulating notes, it must be that the profit of issuing the circulation is so great that only by a tax of 6 per cent can the banks be forced to retire the circulation. If that were true, the present price of bonds would not prevent the national banks, in the absence of any restraining tax on circulation, from availing themselves of the opportunity to issue notes on this $200,000,000 which they do not now seek to issue.

Mr. President, I will not detain the Senate further. I have occupied much more time than I anticipated, although there are several other features to which I should like to call attention. I do hope, however, Mr. President, that our most able Finance Committee, presided over by the honorable Senator from Rhode Island, will take into consideration the fact that what may be sufficient to meet the needs of the money centers is not sufficient to meet the great demands of this vast country, much of it so remote from the money centers as not to have the direct benefits of the volume of money which is concentrated there.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Finance.

PAY OF THE ARMY.

Mr. WARREN. Mr. President, I beg leave to introduce a bill to fix the pay of the Army. It is a very short bill, and I ask unanimous consent that it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read at length.

The bill (S. 4030) to fix the pay of the Army, was read the first time by its title, and the second time at length, as follows:

A bill (S. 4030) to fix the pay of the Army.

Be it enacted, etc., That the pay of officers of the Army is hereby increased as follows: Of lieutenant-generals, 10 per cent; of major-generals and brigadier-generals, 15 per cent; of colonels, lieutenant-colonels, and majors, 20 per cent; of captains, first lieutenants, and second lieutenants, 25 per cent; and the pay of cadets at the Military Academy is hereby increased 25 per cent: Provided, That section 1267 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. That the provisions of section 1569 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which authorize the President to fix the pay of enlisted men in the Navy, are hereby extended so as to authorize the President to fix the pay of all enlisted men of the Army: Provided, That the average pay now established for enlisted men of the Army shall not be increased by more than 40 per cent.

SEC. 3. That nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to reduce the pay or allowance now authorized by law for any officer or enlisted man of the Army; and all laws or parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Mr. WARREN. Mr. President, I ask leave to say just a word. I think it has been generally conceded that there should be something done to increase the pay of our fighting force. A bill covering both the Army and Navy has been introduced and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs. A later bill has been introduced which provides for the Navy, but does not provide for the Army, making it necessary that there should be still another bill referring to the pay of the Army alone; hence this one which I have just presented. I will say, however, that if no other than the bill I have presented should pass, under its provisions and under the statutes now existing the pay of the Navy would be also increased.

The proposed increase is not so large as that proposed in the bill for the Navy alone, but I have thought it better to keep rather below than to shoot over the mark. If it should become necessary, we could easily make another increase in pay at some future time, whereas if we should now raise it too high to make a reduction at some future time would be a very difficult and discouraging proceeding. So far as the Military Committee is concerned, if I understand the feelings of that committee, it would be perfectly satisfied to accept the bill already introduced by the Senator from Ohio [Mr. DICK] and referred to the Naval Committee, which includes increase of pay for both the Army and the Navy. We will be equally well satisfied by the passage of the bill I now present, which, as I said before, would also increase the pay of the Navy.

This bill proposes to follow the plan for the Army heretofore adopted for paying the rank and file of the Navy such rates as the President may decide upon from time to time, but with a limit which prevents the average or total increase from reaching more than 40 per cent above the present statutory rates of pay of the enlisted men of the Army. Under the terms of this bill some of the enlisted men or noncommissioned officers might receive more than 40 per cent increase; others might receive less; but the average could not be more than an increase of 40 per cent. It seems to me highly important that there should be some flexibility, because, with the new inventions, application of scientific measures, use of electricity, and so forth, in the Army, we must pay enough for certain expert work to insure reenlistments and long service. This has already been found necessary in providing for the Artillery Corps, but it is equally important to all arms and lines of the service.

Under the order of the President the rank and file of the Navy now receives some 25 or 30 per cent more pay than the rank and file of the Army. Therefore the 40 per cent average which this bill proposes to add to the present pay of enlisted men of the Army would not increase their pay to the point proposed for the Navy by the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] in his bill for the Navy. We can not expect the extreme prosperity of the recent past, and the high prices that prevailed accordingly, to continue forever; in fact, a slackening of pace, a weakening of prices, slower business, and lower wages have been already in evidence in the past two months. This bill, however, while allowing but 10 per cent increase to officers of the highest rank, increases the pay as we go down the grades to 25 per cent for the captains, first lieutenants, and second lieutenants; and then the enlisted men are given a larger percentage than any of the officers.

This bill is conservative and moderate, and I believe it is vital to the well-being of our Army and country that it, or some similar measure, be enacted at this session of Congress.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, I am authorized by the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. MONEY] to ask that he be relieved from further service as chairman of the Committee on Disposition of Useless Papers in the Executive Departments.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Texas, on behalf of the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. MONEY], asks unanimous consent that he may be relieved from further service as chairman of the Committee on Disposition of Useless Papers in the Executive Departments. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. CULBERSON. I move that the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. MONEY] be assigned to the chairmanship of the Committee on Corporations Organized in the District of Columbia, made vacant by the death of our lamented friend, the late Senator from Florida, Mr. MALLORY.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CULBERSON. I move now that the Senator from Nevada [Mr. NEWLANDS] be assigned to the Committee on Commerce to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator MALLORY.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CULBERSON. I now move that the Senator from Florida [Mr. BRYAN] be assigned to the following committees, the places being made vacant by the death of Senator MALLORY, namely: Fisheries, Naval Affairs, Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, Patents, Public Health and National Quarantine, and Revision of the Laws of the United States.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CULBERSON. I move that my colleague [Mr. BAILEY] be assigned to the chairmanship of the Select Committee on the Disposition of Useless Papers in the Executive Departments.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. DICK. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be excused from further service on the Committee on the Census.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Ohio asks unanimous consent to be excused from further service on the Committee on the Census. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

LIABILITY OF COMMON CARRIERS.

Mr. CLAPP. I offer an amendment intended to be proposed to Senate bill 3080, and ask that it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment intended to be proposed by the Senator from Minnesota will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

Amendment intended to be proposed to the bill (S. 3080) relating to the liability of common carriers engaged in commerce to which the regulative power of Congress extends under the Constitution of the United States.

Amend the said bill by adding at the end of section 2 the following words:

"All questions of negligence or contributory negligence shall be for the jury."

Mr. CLAPP. I move that the amendment be printed and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE OLEOMARGARINE LAW.

Mr. PENROSE. I ask unanimous consent that 10,000 additional copies of Senate bill 3152 may be printed. I am informed it will cost only $70 or $80 for the printing. The bill proposes an amendment to the oleomargarine law, and there is a great demand for it.

The order was reduced to writing and agreed to, as follows:

Ordered, That 10,000 additional copies of the bill (S. 3152) "supplementary to and amendatory of the act of May 9, 1902," etc., be printed for the use of the Senate.

PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

On motion of Mr. GALLINGER, it was Ordered, That 1,000 additional copies of S. 29, "to provide for registration of all cases of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia, for free examination of sputum in suspected cases, and for preventing the spread of tuberculosis in said District," and of the report, No. 35, accompanying the same be printed for the Senate document room.

REPORT OF FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

Mr. PENROSE submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Post-Office Department 10,000 copies of the report of the First Assistant Postmaster-General to the Postmaster-General for the year ended June 30, 1907.

CHOCTAW AND CHICKASAW INDIAN ROLLS.

Mr. CLAPP submitted the following resolution, which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, requested to send to the Senate a list of the rolls of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians now in the possession of the Auditor for the Department of the Interior, and when, and by whom, and for what purpose said rolls were prepared, as appears therefrom.

REMISSION OF PART OF CHINESE INDEMNITY.

Mr. LODGE. I ask unanimous consent to call up the joint resolution (S. R. 23) to provide for the remission of a portion of the Chinese indemnity.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution. It proposes to authorize the President to consent to a modification of the bond for $24,440,778.81, dated December 15, 1906, received from China pursuant to the protocol of September 7, 1901, for indemnity against losses and expenses incurred by reason of the so-called Boxer disturbances in China during the year 1900, so that the total payment to be made by China under the bond shall be limited to $11,655,492.69 and interest at the stipulated rate of 4 per cent per annum, and that the remainder of the indemnity to which the United States is entitled under the protocol and bond may be remitted as an act of friendship, such payments and remission to be at such times and in such manner as the President shall deem just.

Mr. LODGE. Mr. President, I do not suppose there will be any opposition to this resolution. I feel sure that its purpose will have the unanimous approbation of the Senate, as it had that of the Committee on Foreign Relations, from which it is reported. But it is a resolution of such a character and of such importance that I am going to trespass on the time of the Senate for a very few minutes merely to explain its purport and provisions.

After the Boxer troubles in China, at which time, as Senators well remember, the legations were attacked and some lives were lost, including that of the German minister, a relief expedition was sent there by the various western nations, in which we took part. After the capture of Peking the powers agreed to make a demand upon China for an indemnity in one sum to all the powers for the injuries inflicted upon their legations and for the losses and expenses incurred by the expedition. The sum agreed upon was 450,000,000 taels. Our State Department endeavored to keep the total amount of the indemnity down as far as possible. It was our opinion that it was excessive, and although we did not succeed in reducing the indemnity to the point to which we thought it ought to be reduced, we did effect some reduction.

This lump sum of 450,000,000 taels was then divided among the various powers taking part in the expedition, and the allotment made to us on the ground of losses to our citizens and expenses incurred was $24,440,778.81. At that time it was not possible to make more than a very rough guess at the expenditures of the War Department and the Navy Department in regard to the expedition sent to Peking. It has been since found that those estimates were much too large and that $11,655,492.69 will be quite sufficient to meet all possible indemnity which we could in justice demand.

The expenses of the War Department, as now ascertained under the revised estimates, are $7,186,310.75; of the Navy Department, $2,469,181.94; and claims of citizens, corporations, societies, and others to the amount of $2,000,000 have been allowed.

Mr. FRYE. They have been paid.

Mr. LODGE. Those private claims have all been adjusted and paid by our Government out of this indemnity, under a commission which took evidence in China and also here. The exact amount paid is $1,994,616.76. It is six years since the commission closed its sittings. The total amount for private claims which have been paid and for the expenses incident to the War and Navy Departments comes to $11,655,492.69. In the revised estimates of the War and Navy Departments is included a fund for the pension of the wives and minor children of those soldiers who fell in the expedition by wounds or in battle or by disease and for those who were injured in the expedition. It is believed that the sum of $11,655,492.69 will cover every indemnity that we could properly demand, and the joint resolution proposes to remit to China the balance, amounting in round numbers to twelve million and some hundred thousand dollars.

This indemnity is held under a bond which has a life of forty years, and is to be paid over that entire period, principal and interest. We have already received from China $6,518,034.75. All the obligations have been promptly met. We have thus far received from China, as I have said, $6,000,000, which is principally interest. Out of that sum the private claims have been settled, and there is now in the Treasury a balance of $4,523,105.57 to the credit of the State Department, with which balance Congress can deal either by simply covering it into the Treasury, or by having it credited to the War and Navy Departments in due proportion, or by devoting it to some special purpose. The joint resolution remits the balance.

I think I need do no more, Mr. President, than state the facts as I have given them. It is an act of justice and of comity. Technically and legally we are entitled to every dollar of the bond, but on a broader principle of justice, rising beyond the technical right, I think it is an act which it becomes the United States to perform and in the generous way proposed by the joint resolution.

I have no more to say, Mr. President, except to ask that this memorandum, which gives in full detail all the steps connected with the negotiation, all the figures in regard to the private claims, and the use of the indemnity may be printed at the end of what I have said.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The memorandum referred to is as follows:

The various steps in the negotiations relating to the indemnity were as follows:

December 22, 1900.—The foreign representatives sent in a joint note, consisting of twelve articles, setting forth certain demands.

Article VI stated that China should pay equitable indemnities for states, companies, or societies, private individuals, and certain Chinese, etc.

December 30, 1900.—The foreign representatives received a reply to their note of the 22d, embodying an imperial decree, dated the 27th, accepting all of the twelve articles.

January 7, 1901.—Foreign representatives formulated their twelve articles into a protocol and submitted this to the Chinese plenipotentiaries for signature.

January 16, 1901.—Each foreign minister received from the Chinese plenipotentiaries a copy of the aforesaid protocol, duly signed and sealed, and also a copy of the imperial decree, accepting all of the demands.

May 7, 1901.—The foreign ministers submitted statement to China, showing their losses to be 450,000,000 taels. This joint note was not a demand for the above-named amount, but was sent to the Chinese plenipotentiaries to enable them to give formal expression as to the limits of China's ability to pay and the means she proposed taking.

May 11.—Reply of Chinese plenipotentiaries re indemnity of 450,000,000 taels, proposing monthly method of payment of above amount for thirty years, but begging that total be reduced.

May 28.—A list of the indemnities asked by the foreign powers until the 1st of July, and prepared by the committee on the payment of indemnities, was circulated by the dean of the diplomatic corps among his colleagues. The amount given as representing the total claim of the United States was $25,000,000, or 34,072,500 taels. In the opinion of the committee, as stated in the dean's note, the total indemnity would not, when adjusted, exceed 450,000,000 taels.

May 30.—A note from Chinese plenipotentiaries to dean of diplomatic corps, accepting 450,000,000 taels, with interest at 4 per cent, for the indemnity, embodying an imperial edict, dated the 29th of May, covering the above amount.

September 7, 1901.—Final protocol signed by plenipotentiaries of all the powers, in which it was agreed that the indemnity should be paid in thirty-nine annual installments, with interest at rate of 4 per cent per annum.

ARTICLE 6. (B) "The service of the debt was to take place in Shanghai, as follows:

"Each power shall be represented by a delegate on a commission of bankers, authorized to receive the amount which shall be paid it by the Chinese authorities designated for that purpose, to divide it among the interested parties and to give a receipt of the same."

ARTICLE 6. (C) "The Chinese Government shall deliver to the dean of the diplomatic corps a bond for the lump sum, which shall subsequently be converted into fractional bonds bearing the signature of the delegates of the Chinese Government designated for that purpose. This operation and all those relating to issuing of the bonds shall be performed by the above-mentioned commission in accordance with the instructions which the powers shall send their delegates."

John K. Moir, of the International Banking Corporation in Shanghai, was chosen the delegate of the United States on the Commission of Bankers at Shanghai.

October 13, 1901.—The bond for the lump sum of 450,000,000 taels was delivered by the Chinese plenipotentiaries to the dean of the diplomatic corps, in compliance with paragraph (C) of Article VI of the final protocol.

June 14, 1902.—At a meeting of the representatives of the powers held in Peking on the 14th of June, an agreement was signed declaring a definite apportionment of the indemnity and accepting on behalf of their Governments such apportionment.

The United States took 32,939,055 taels or $24,440,778.81 gold, interest at 4 per cent to be paid from January 1, 1902.

May 18, 1904.—The original fractional bond was signed by the commissioners of the Chinese Government and the commissioners of the United States Government, and was subsequently filed in the Department of State under cover of a letter from the International Banking Corporation of the above date.

July 2, 1905.—A new method of calculating payments and interest was presented in the form of a collective note by the representatives of the powers and subsequently agreed to by China.

December 15, 1906.—New bond based on collective note of July 2, 1905, signed and subsequently forwarded to the Department of State.

January 11, 1907.—Chinese Government was notified that henceforth the United States' share of the payments under the indemnity is to be paid direct to the United States Treasurer instead of through the International Banking Corporation of Shanghai.

The bond with the International Banking Corporation has since been canceled, owing to the above arrangement.

Summary of the successive steps taken in the settlement of claims of American companies, societies, and individuals, and certain Chinese, for losses and damages growing out of the disturbances of 1900; schedule of the claims paid, etc.

September 2, 1901.—Minister Conger transmitted to the Department copy of a letter addressed to him by certain American citizens having claims against the Chinese Government requesting information as to the status of their claims, and the procedure to be adopted in establishing them.

He suggested that many of the claimants should submit to a considerable reduction and that the local facts and conditions surrounding many of the claims rendered it very desirable that their examination should be made in China by some one familiar with the situation and local values. He expressed the hope also that an early adjustment of these claims would be reached.

One hundred and forty-six claims had up to this time been brought to the attention of the Department of State and the legation at Peking, most of them consisting of bare statements of facts by the claimants and estimated amounts of loss or damage, unaccompanied by evidence.

January 14, 1902.—The Department concurred with the legation that many of the claims should be reduced and that their investigation should be made in China by some one familiar with local conditions. The minister was instructed to designate one person from the legation and one from the consular service who would investigate the claims and determine what amount should be allowed in each case. The recommendations of these commissioners were to be submitted to the minister for revision, and the whole to be subject to the final revision and approval of the Department of State.

The commissioners were required to make a report on each claim, reciting the evidence of citizenship and of the fact and amount of loss or damage upon which the claim was based.

The commissioners were to be allowed from the indemnity paid by China their reasonable and necessary expenses while engaged in this work and such additional compensation as was reasonable and equitable. Due publicity through consuls and other officers was to be given all claimants of the establishment of the commission and the nature of its work.

March 14, 1902.—Minister Conger reported the designations of the persons who were to constitute the commission—Messrs. William E. Bainbridge, second secretary of legation at Peking, and James W. Ragsdale, American consul-general at Tientsin. The minister further expressed his views as to the extent and difficulty of the commissioners' task. Minister Conger, in an instruction to the commissioners on the above date, said: "Reasonable notice of the sittings of the commission in the several localities should be given to the claimants in advance."

May 3, 1902.—The legation was instructed to forward to the Department from time to time and as soon as passed on all claims in order that the sums awarded could be distributed as speedily as practicable. The Department also suggested that as much of the work as possible should be done at or near Peking. The regulations prepared by the committee on indemnities and approved by the representatives of the powers in Peking on March 13, 1901, were not accepted by all the powers and were therefore binding on none. However, it was believed by the Department they might be suggestive and instructive to the commission.

The indemnity in each case was to be fully and substantially compensatory, excluding all merely speculative or imaginary claims or elements of damage.

November 17, 1902.—The commission submitted its final report to the minister.

Its members were designated by the minister on March 14, 1902, and they began the work of the examination of claims on May 5, 1902.

The Chinese Government, having recognized its responsibility for the "Boxer" outbreak, agreed to pay, pursuant to Article VI of the collective note of the powers, dated December 22, 1900, "equitable indemnities for governments, societies, companies, and private individuals, as well as for Chinese who have suffered during the late events in person or in property in consequence of their being in the service of foreigners."

The commission was not authorized to deal with losses sustained by the Government of the United States.

Two hundred and thirty claims for indemnities were filed with the commission by citizens of the United States, aggregating $3,308,036.18. These figures include $39,254.72 which represents the total amount of claims submitted to the commission by Chinese in the employ of Americans.

In a general way these claims may be classified as follows:

1. Claims of missionary societies and individuals.
2. Commercial claims.
3. Death claims.

The total amount disallowed or withdrawn was $1,804,385.69. The amount allowed on claims was $1,383,650.49. The amount of interest allowed, $130,642.39; thus placing the total amount allowed by the Commission on private claims at $1,514,292.88. This amount, however, has been increased through additional awards by the Department of State subsequent to the completion of the Commission's work, so that the total amount, including both American private claims and certain Chinese claims, the latter being $17,669.60, now aggregates $1,994,929.18. The maximum estimate required by this Government to meet the claims of its citizens and of certain Chinese under this heading was placed by the Department at $2,000,000; $1,994,929.18 having been paid out on this account, there remains in the Treasury Department an unexpended balance of $5,070.82.

November 19, 1902.—Legation transmitted to the Department final report of the Commission.

January 27, 1903.—Department congratulated the minister and Commissioners Bainbridge and Ragsdale on the successful termination of their joint labors.

Amount of indemnity, principal, $24,440,778.81.

(Under the plan of amortization adopted this sum is payable, with interest at 4 per cent, in irregular annual installments extending over a period of thirty-nine years, the last payment falling due in 1940.)

It is estimated that the maximum amount required by this Government to meet its expenses incident to the relief of the legation in 1900 and claims of citizens and others will be as follows (revised estimates):

| | |
|---|---|
| War Department | $7,186,310.75 |
| Navy Department | 2,469,181.94 |
| Claims of citizens, corporations, societies, and others | 2,000,000.00 |
| Total | 11,655,492.69 |
| The Treasury Department has received to date, on account of principal and interest | 6,518,034.75 |
| Amount as stated above reserved by the Department to meet the claims of corporations, societies, and individuals, citizens of the United States and others, expenses of claims commission, etc | 2,000,000.00 |
| Of this sum there has been expended to date | 1,994,616.76 |
| Gross unexpended balance | 5,383.24 |
| Adjusted claims not yet paid | 312.42 |
| Net balance | 5,070.82 |

| | |
|---|---|
| The Treasury Department has received to date, on account of principal and interest | $6,518,034.75 |
| The claims of societies, individuals, etc., adjusted and paid | 1,994,929.18 |
| Net unexpended balance at present in a separate account with the Treasury Department | 4,523,105.57 |

The expenditures of the War Department and the Navy Department incident to the uprising of 1900 in China are met in the ordinary course.

Deducting from the amount at present in the Treasury Department the $5,070.82, which is the unexpended balance of the amount reserved for private claims, the remainder is $4,518,-034.75. As the expenses of the military and naval branches of the Government in China in 1900 were included in the regular military budget of that year, it would appear from the above that the last-mentioned sum may be disposed of by Congress as it may see fit.

Mr. BACON. I would ask the Senator from Massachusetts to add to what he has so admirably said the fact that the question as to any future claims being made has been considered, and the view of the Department and of those who have had consideration of the matter is that ample time has been given for the presentation of all claims, and that if any are hereafter presented there will be no complication, because the judgment is that they would be barred by lapse of time and laches on the part of anyone who might hereafter present them.

Mr. LODGE. I am very much obliged to the Senator from Georgia for calling my attention to that point, which is just as he has stated it. Six years have elapsed since the last claims were passed upon by the Commission. There was the widest possible advertisement given to the fact that the Government was prepared to settle all claims. They were all heard, awards were made, and all the awards paid. In the opinion of the Department no others ought to be paid, and if any such exist they have been forfeited by the lapse of time and their own laches.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

HOUSE BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTION REFERRED.

The following bills were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Commerce:

H. R. 11330. An act to authorize the Chicago, Indiana and Southern Railroad Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the town of Gary, Ind.;

H. R. 11331. An act to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River at or near the town of Gary, Ind.; and

H. R. 12412. An act to authorize the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cache River, in Woodruff County, Ark.

H. J. Res. 88. Joint resolution to amend the act of March 4, 1907, making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, so as to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent an increased proportion of the appropriation made by said act for rent for the Bureau of Forestry, was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

SANDY LAKE (MINNESOTA) RESERVOIR DAM.

Mr. NELSON. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the joint resolution (S. R. 17) to amend the provision in the river and harbor act of March 2, 1907, relating to the Sandy Lake reservoir dam.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution. It proposes to amend the provision referred to so as to read as follows:

For reconstruction of Sandy Lake reservoir dam, Minnesota, $75,000.

Mr. NELSON. I will say that it does not increase the appropriation one cent.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CIRCULATING NOTES FOR PANAMA BONDS.

Mr. LODGE. I ask for the regular order. There are a number of bills on the Calendar which we can pass before 2 o'clock.

Mr. CULBERSON. I ask, and I think it is the regular order, that the Chair submit to the Senate the resolution coming over from yesterday.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a former session, which will be read.

The resolution submitted by Mr. CULBERSON on the 14th instant was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate the amount of circulating notes issued by each national bank to which was awarded Panama bonds under the Treasury circular of November 18, 1907, and which said notes were issued in consequence of the award of said bonds.

Mr. HOPKINS. The chairman of the Finance Committee is not in the Chamber, and I trust that the Senator from Texas will permit the resolution to go over until he is present.

Mr. CULBERSON. I have no reason to suppose that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH] would object to the passage of a resolution of this character. He indicated no special objection yesterday, though he did say that the Secretary of the Treasury would to-day answer the general resolution presented by the Committee on Finance.

Before proceeding further, I desire to ask the Chair if the answer of the Secretary of the Treasury has been received?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It has not been received.

Mr. CULBERSON. It is particularly pertinent, I think, therefore, that this resolution be adopted now so that the specific question may be presented to the Secretary in order that he may answer it in the delayed answer which he is expected to make.

Mr. HOPKINS. That question was before the Senate yesterday, and I think that is an additional reason why no action should be taken until the chairman of the committee is present.

Mr. ALDRICH entered the Chamber.

Mr. TILLMAN. The chairman of the Committee on Finance has just come in.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask that the resolution may again be read.

The Secretary again read the resolution.

Mr. ALDRICH. I expected that the report of the Secretary of the Treasury would be laid before the Senate before this time. I do not know the occasion of the delay. I think the report will contain the information called for by the resolution, but if the Senator from Texas desires to have his resolution passed I shall not interpose an objection.

Mr. CULBERSON. I prefer, Mr. President, that the resolution be passed, for then there will be no question, I presume, about answering this specific inquiry.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution submitted by the Senator from Texas.

The resolution was agreed to.

SETTLEMENT OF PUBLIC-LANDS ACCOUNTS.

Mr. FRYE and Mr. LODGE called for the regular order.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Calendar under Rule VIII is in order, and the Secretary will state the first bill on the Calendar.

The bill (S. 415) regulating the settlement of the accounts between the United States and the several States relative to the disposition of the public lands, and for other purposes, was announced as the first bill in order.

Mr. LODGE. That is a very large and important bill. I suggest that it go under Rule IX.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go to the Calendar under Rule IX, as the request of the Senator from Massachusetts.

GROUNDS FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 122) authorizing the purchase of grounds for the accommodation of public buildings for the use of the Government of the United States in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was announced as the next business in order on the Calendar.

Mr. NELSON. I object to the present consideration of the bill, and ask that it go to the Calendar under Rule IX.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go to the Calendar under Rule IX, at the request of the Senator from Minnesota.

COLORADO RIVER BRIDGE AT PARKER, ARIZ.

The bill (S. 2662) to authorize the Arizona and California Railway Company to construct a bridge across the Colorado River at Parker, Ariz., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER DAM NEAR BEMIDJI, MINN.

The bill (S. 2725) to extend the time for completion of the building of dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PEND D'OREILLE RIVER BRIDGE, WASHINGTON.

The bill (S. 2029) to authorize the Idaho and Washington Northern Railroad to construct a bridge across the Pend d'Oreille River in the State of Washington was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

NORTHERN JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS.

The bill (S. 485) to create a new division of the northern judicial district of Texas and to provide for terms of court at Amarillo, Tex., and for a clerk for said court, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, with an amendment in section 3, line 20, after "Provided," to strike out "That no process issued or prosecutions commenced or suits instituted before the passage of this act shall be in any way affected by the provisions hereof" and insert:

That no process issued or prosecutions commenced or suits instituted before the passage of this act shall be in any way affected by the provisions hereof, and that all persons who have committed offenses against the United States in any of the counties mentioned in this bill shall be prosecuted and tried as if this act had not been passed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

TENDER FOR FIRST LIGHT-HOUSE DISTRICT.

The bill (S. 3019) to construct a tender for the use of the inspector of the first light-house district was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to have constructed and equipped a steam tender for use of the inspector of the first light-house district at a cost not to exceed $200,000.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

TENDER FOR ENGINEER OF LIGHT-HOUSE DISTRICTS.

The bill (S. 3020) to construct a tender for the use of the engineer of the first and second light-house districts was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to have constructed and equipped a steel steam light-house tender, at a cost not to exceed $200,000, for the use of the engineer of the first and second light-house districts.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LIGHT-HOUSE DISTRICTS.

The bill (S. 713) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction of additional light-house districts," approved July 26, 1886, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce with an amendment, on page 1, line 7, after the word "exceeding," to strike out "eighteen" and insert "nineteen," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 4670 of the Revised Statutes is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"SEC. 4670. The Light-House Board shall arrange the ocean, gulf, lake, and river coasts of the United States into light-house districts not exceeding 19 in number; that any law or regulation prohibiting the employment in the light-houses of the United States of persons of more than 45 years of age be, and the same is hereby, repealed."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DOLLIE A. FOUNTAIN.

The bill (S. 1774) to permit Dollie A. Fountain, of Walworth County, S. Dak., to purchase certain lands, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with amendments, on page 2, line 3, after the first word "That," to strike out the words "the said;" in line 4, after the word "purchase," to strike out "said land" and insert "the west half of the southeast quarter of section 5 and the west half of the northeast quarter of section 8 in township 128 north, of range 78 west of the fifth principal meridian," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That Dollie A. Fountain be, and she is hereby, permitted to purchase the west half of the southeast quarter of section 5 and the west half of the northeast quarter of section 8 in township 128 north, of range 78 west of the fifth principal meridian, from the Government by paying therefor the Government price of $1.25 per acre, and that upon the payment of said Government price a patent in usual form shall be issued for said land conveying the same in fee simple to the said Dollie A. Fountain, her heirs and assigns, forever, any law of the United States to the contrary notwithstanding.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was stricken out.

SECOND HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

The bill (S. 1387) for the relief of a certain class of homestead settlers on the public lands was announced as next on the Calendar.

Mr. GAMBLE. The Committee on Public Lands this morning authorized a favorable report on the bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries. It covers part of the provisions contained in Senate bill 1387. I submitted the report, and the report, with the bill, is on the Clerk's desk. The committee recommended that Senate bill 1387 be substituted for House bill 300. The Senate bill goes farther than the bill passed by the House. The House bill simply provides for the extension of the act of June 5, 1900. The Senate bill provides for the extension of the foregoing act, and also the act of April 28, 1904, with a change in phraseology, and adding thereto "where an honest mistake may have occurred as to the location of the land entered."

I ask that the House bill be considered instead of Senate bill 1387.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the House bill will be considered.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries, which had been reported from the Committee on Public Lands, with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That any person who has heretofore lost or forfeited his homestead entry through no fault or neglect of his own, or who was unable to perfect his entry because of an honest mistake as to the character or location of the land entered, shall be entitled to the benefits of the homestead laws as though such former entry had not been made: Provided, That such person has not relinquished his entry or abandoned his claim for a consideration: And provided further, That this act shall not apply to any person who has heretofore made more than one homestead entry.

Mr. CLAPP. I have not time to draw the amendment, but I should like to move to add the following additional section:

SEC. 2. This act shall not apply to any land included under pending homestead entries.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill for the relief of a certain class of homestead settlers on the public lands."

Mr. GAMBLE. I move that the bill (S. 1387) for the relief of a certain class of homestead settlers on public lands be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was agreed to.

WILLIAM JONDRON.

The bill (S. 2712) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to investigate and cancel the allotment of William Jondron, Yankton Sioux allottee, should it prove to be fictitious, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

COMMUTATION OF HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

The bill (S. 551) relating to commutation of homestead entries and to confirm such entries when commutation proofs were received by local land officers prematurely was announced as next in order.

Mr. LODGE. Let that go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over at the request of the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. The Senator from Massachusetts does not understand it.

Mr. LODGE. The Senator is perfectly right; I do not understand it; and that is the reason why I want it to go over.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. The Senator from Massachusetts certainly does not understand the terms of the bill and what is intended to be accomplished by it. If he did, he would not ask that it should go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair has no option under the rule. Objection is made.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I hope the Senator will withdraw his objection and let the bill be considered.

Mr. LODGE. We have now but five minutes before 2 o'clock, when the unfinished business comes up. The Senator will have plenty of time hereafter to call up the bill and explain it and show us that it is a proper bill. We can in the meantime pass unobjected bills.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over.

STENE ENGEBERG.

The bill (S. 1666) for the relief of Stene Engeberg was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Commissioner of the General Land Office to cause a patent to issue to Stene Engeberg for lots 1 and 2 and the south half of the northeast quarter of section 2 in township 159 north of range 87 west, in the State of North Dakota.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

The bill (S. 113) to establish a fish-hatching and fish-cultural station at Dell Rapids, S. Dak., was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishing of a fish-hatching and fish-cultural station, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at Dell Rapids, S. Dak.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN NEBRASKA.

The bill (S. 507) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Nebraska was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station in the State of Nebraska, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, said station to be located at a point to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN IDAHO.

The bill (S. 141) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Idaho was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station in the State of Idaho, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at some suitable point to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN NORTH DAKOTA.

The bill (S. 387) to establish a fish-culture station at the city of Fargo, in the State of North Dakota, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station at the city of Fargo, in the State of North Dakota, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at some suitable point to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN UTAH.

The bill (S. 535) to establish a fish-culture station in the State of Utah was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station in the State of Utah, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at some suitable point to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN KANSAS.

The bill (S. 2640) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Kansas was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station in the State of Kansas, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at some suitable site to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FISH-CULTURAL STATION IN WYOMING.

The bill (S. 648) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Wyoming was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $25,000 for the establishment of a fish-cultural station in the State of Wyoming, including purchase of site, construction of buildings and ponds, and equipment, at some suitable point to be selected by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GERTRUDE HALVERSON AABY.

The bill (S. 720) to confirm an entry made by Gertrude Halverson Aaby, widow of Sigbjorn H. Aaby, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with an amendment, in line 6, before the word "north," to strike out "eight" and insert "forty-eight," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the final homestead entry heretofore made by Gertrude Halverson Aaby, widow of Sigbjorn H. Aaby, for the east half of the northwest quarter of section 27, township 148 north, range 38 west, fifth principal meridian, in the State of Minnesota, be, and the same is hereby, confirmed and the Commissioner of the General Land Office is hereby authorized and directed to cause patent to issue thereunder.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

COMMUTATION OF HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I ask that the bill (S. 551) relating to commutation of homestead entries and to confirm such entries when commutation proofs were received by local land officers prematurely be considered.

Mr. LODGE. I withdraw my objection to the consideration of the bill.

The Secretary read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner of the General Land Office that an error has heretofore been made by the officers of any local land office in receiving premature commutation proofs under the homestead laws and that there was no fraud practiced by the entryman in making such proofs and final payment has been made and a final certificate of entry has been issued to the entryman, and that there are no adverse claimants to the land described in the certificates of entry whose rights originated prior to making such final proofs, and that no other reason why the title should not vest in the entryman exists except that the commutation was made upon a showing of less than 14 months' continuous residence upon the land, and that there was at least 8 months' actual residence in good faith by the homestead entryman on the land prior to such commutation, such certificates of entry shall be in all things confirmed to the entryman, his heirs and legal representatives, as of the date of such final certificate of entry, and a patent issue thereon, and the title so patented shall inure to the benefit of any grantee or transferee in good faith of such entryman subsequent to the date of such final certificate: Provided, That this act shall not apply to commutation and homestead entries on which final certificates have been issued and which have heretofore been canceled when the lands made vacant by such cancellation have been reentered under the homestead act.

SEC. 2. That all acts and parts of acts in conflict with any of the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The bill was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REVISION OF PENAL LAWS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which is Senate bill 2982.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2982) to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, before entering upon the consideration of the bill in detail, I think it proper to advise the Senate of the conditions under which this proposed bill comes before it, and also to some extent of the nature and character of the work of the committee that has resulted in the bill as reported.

The revision of the laws of the United States is perhaps of equal importance with any other measure that is or will be before Congress at the present session. There has been no revision of the laws of the United States for more than twenty-five years; and during that time Congress has in some manner modified, changed, or repealed practically every important statute of general application.

The law as it is now published is found in the Revised Statutes of 1878, in two supplements to the Revised Statutes, and in the Statutes at Large, running through now seven volumes. It is obvious that this condition of affairs results in great inconvenience to those who have to deal with the laws of the land. The courts primarily must know with great accuracy what Congress has done, not only in the way of original legislation, but in the way of amendments and modifications of existing law, in order that they may administer the law with any degree of certainty. Those whose duty it is to discuss and bring before the courts the law of the land must necessarily be subjected to an unnecessary amount of labor and research in order fairly and fully to present the law upon any given question.

In 1897, ten years ago, Congress, realizing the condition that then existed in regard to the insufficiency of the publication and arrangement of the laws, passed a law providing for the appointment of a Commission that should investigate and report a codification of the criminal law of the United States. The duties devolving upon that Commission under the act of June 4, 1897, were stated in the act. I will read the act; it embraces only a few lines. The provisions of the act were as follows:

That the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint three Commissioners whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States.

That they shall proceed with their work as rapidly as may be consistent with thoroughness, and shall report the result of their labors to the Attorney-General when completed, to be by him laid before Congress, and shall make such other reports during the progress of their work as they shall see fit to the Attorney-General, to be laid before Congress at his discretion.

That their report shall be so made as to indicate any proposed change in the substance of existing law, and shall be accompanied by notes which shall briefly and clearly state the reasons for any proposed change.

The Commission was appointed pursuant to the provisions of the act and entered upon the performance of their duty, but up to the 3d day of March, 1899, no report of their work had been submitted to Congress. At that time Congress enacted on the 3d day of March, 1899, a further statute conferring enlarged duties upon the Commission, wherein it was provided that—

It shall be the duty of the Commission appointed to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States, to revise and codify the laws concerning the jurisdiction and practice of the courts of the United States, including the judiciary act, the acts in amendment thereof and supplementary thereto, and all acts providing for the removal, appeal, and transfer of causes.

So the Commission was invested with the power and the duty to include within its consideration the criminal laws, or the laws belonging to that character and distinction, and the judiciary act.

Matters ran along until March 3, 1901, a period of four years from the passage of the act creating the Commission. At that time, without having any report of the progress made by the Commission before it, Congress still further enlarged the scope of their duties and their powers and authorized them "to revise and codify, in accordance with the terms and provisions of said act and the acts supplementary thereto"—referring to the acts which I have already read—"all laws of the United States of a permanent and general nature in force at the time when the same shall be reported." Then the act specified the manner in which this work should be performed and the manner of the report.

So matters ran along for a still further period, from 1901 till 1906, nine years after the first appointment of the Commission, and Congress was not then advised of either the nature of the work the Commission had performed or of the progress which they had made. Congress, probably impatient to know what the Commission was doing, passed an act requiring them to report the result of their work, to make a final report on or before the 15th of December, 1906.

Pursuant to the direction of Congress the Commission, which was composed entirely of appointees outside of either House of Congress, filed a report, not in the manner provided by the act of Congress creating them and defining their powers and the manner in which they should perform their duties. They did not codify the laws. They did not in their report set forth what the existing law was, but they reported the result of their conclusions in two volumes, which are not indexed, as was provided by the act should be done.

That report being before Congress, the first action which was taken in regard to it was the passage of joint resolution No. 240, February 28, 1907, which provided for the appointment of a joint select committee of the two Houses of Congress, eliminating the nonlegislative Members from the further consideration of the question and taking it up within the body and the powers of Congress. This joint committee were instructed "to examine, consider, and submit to Congress recommendations upon the revision and codification of laws reported by the Statutory Revision Commission heretofore authorized to revise and codify the laws of the United States, including the laws of the last session of the Fifty-ninth Congress."

Mr. President, that was a joint committee of Congress, and it entered upon the consideration and performance of the duties which devolved upon it. It took up first in order the criminal code, that being first in the order of the consideration of Congress in 1897. It spent many weeks in comparing the work of the Commission with the existing law, analyzing it and preparing it and putting it in shape to report to Congress, and in each House shortly after the beginning of the second session of the Fifty-ninth Congress a report was made to the Senate of the action of that joint committee. Because of the multiplicity of public business and matters before the body it did not receive consideration. Congress then, at the close of the Fifty-ninth Congress, passed public resolution No. 19, being joint resolution No. 240, which is the authority under which your present committee has been acting.

This public resolution was approved on March 2, 1907. As soon as it was possible to organize for the performance of its work, the committee was called together and the necessary steps taken to enter upon the work in a systematic manner. Early in the month of May the committee was in full working order. It had organized as a committee and entered upon the performance of its duty.

It was deemed essential, as a first step in the performance of that duty, that we determine and prepare for the consideration of the Congress the existing law. In other words, that we should post up the laws that had been enacted, that we should post the ledger, so that we might see at a glance all the legislation upon any given question from the beginning up to this hour. Opposite the existing law thus posted your committee has printed the proposed revision of the law, if it may be so termed. In other words, where the statute had not been changed, the existing law is opposite the proposal on the part of the committee; where changes have been made, those changes are indicated in the report.

I at this time call especial attention to the fact that the committee has presented its report in two parts: First, a report of the proceedings for the revision of the laws from the beginning, accompanied by a statement as to the action of the committee in regard to every section of the criminal law, stating in a brief and succinct form exactly where every section originated, and, where changes have been made, what changes have been made. So by reference to part 1 of the report Senators may know by reference to the section under consideration exactly where this section originated and what has been done with it, if anything, in the way of change.

In addition to that report—that is, to section 1 of the report—Senators will find a larger print called section 2 of the report, and it is in section 2 that they will find the laws posted up to date on the right-hand page, and the proposed legislation contained in this bill on the left-hand page, with marginal references, that will make convenient reference to not only the existing law, but to the decisions of the courts interpreting them.

Mr. President, it will appear, preceding the text of the bill, that an existing law is printed in roman type; amendments and new sections are printed in italics; sections which have been redrafted or from which any material matter has been omitted, or which have been formed by combining different sections or provisions of existing law, are printed in brackets. Those represent the three classes or three designations by which we may be guided in determining the character of the proposed legislation upon the part of the report.

I will say to Senators that it will not be found necessary to encumber themselves with the bill proper, because the print on the left-hand page of part 2 of the report is an exact reprint of the bill itself; so that they will be disencumbered from consideration of the print of the bill.

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. BURKETT. I ask the Senator from Idaho if it is his intention now to have this bill taken up section by section for final action?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes.

Mr. BURKETT. Then it seems to me that some effort ought to be made to get practically all Senators in the Chamber. There are some vacant seats; and while I do not raise the question of a quorum, it seems to me that if we are to have this bill now considered section by section, there ought to be a quorum present.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Nebraska suggests the absence of a quorum. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bacon | Clarke, Ark. | Gamble | Newlands |
| Bailey | Clay | Guggenheim | Perkins. |
| Borah | Crane | Heyburn | Proctor |
| Bourne | Culberson | Hopkins | Richardson |
| Brandegee | Cullom | Johnston | Scott |
| Brown | Curtis | Kittredge | Smith |
| Bryan | Daniel | Knox | Stone |
| Bulkeley | Dick | La Follette | Sutherland |
| Burkett | Dillingham | McCreary | Taylor |
| Burnham | Dixon | McCumber | Teller |
| Burrows | Dolliver | McEnery | Tillman |
| Carter | Elkins | Martin | Whyte |
| Clapp | Flint | Nelson | |

Mr. McCREARY. I wish to state that the Committee on Military Affairs is in session by permission of the Senate, and I was requested to state that as accounting for Senators who are on that committee being absent.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Fifty-one Senators have answered to their names. A quorum of the Senate is present. The Senator from Idaho.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I realize the fact that this subject is not one calculated to hold the attention of all the members of the Senate. I assume that those who are particularly interested in the law and its enactment and interpretation will remain in the Chamber as much of the time as possible, because of their interest in what is practically a reorganization of the existing law, but it was not my intention, and it will not be my intention, to insist on the attendance of a quorum of the Senate all the time. Of course, I should appreciate very much the presence of all the members of the Senate, but I want my attitude in that particular to be understood.

The Code Commission—and I shall use the word "commission" in referring to the first body appointed for the purpose of rearranging the laws as "the Commission," and I shall refer to the work of the committee appointed by the Congress as "the committee," so that I will not have to indulge in long repetition of the separate agencies that have produced the result embodied in this bill—the Commission reported 174 new sections of law under their interpretation of the power and the duty invested in them. Some of this law was drawn from the codes of European and Asiatic countries. It was a work of great learning and gave evidence of deep research, but your committee were of the opinion that it was not within the scope of the duties intended to be performed by either the Commission or the committee. The result of this conclusion was that your committee disregarded all of the 174 sections of new law proposed by the Commission except 21 sections. Those 21 sections may be divided into two classes. Only 10 of them create new offenses, leaving 11 of the 21 sections belonging to the class of legislation that becomes necessary at all times where it is undertaken to harmonize and bring or weld together legislation enacted at times long apart.

The ten sections of new law were necessitated by entirely new conditions that had arisen since the enactment of the existing laws—that is, the laws that existed at the time of the work of the Revision Committee. New inventions had come into existence; new opportunities for the commission of offenses had arisen out of entirely new conditions. The courts had been confronted with conditions of embarrassment in attempting to enforce the law by reason of the fact that these new conditions were not applicable to and could not be harmonized with the existing statutes. So that, upon the recommendation of the courts, we found it necessary to incorporate these ten sections of what might be termed new law. They deal with new contrivances recently invented.

Your committee in striking out upwards of 150 sections proposed by the Code Commission were actuated not by a spirit of hypercriticism of the work of the Commission, but because your committee did not believe that it was the intention of Congress, in referring this question either to the Commission or to the committee, to infringe upon the functions or the jurisdiction of the standing committees of Congress that would ordinarily have charge of and consider new legislation. So that except so far as it was necessary to suggest new sections for the purposes I have already explained, your committee has disregarded entirely all proposed new legislation.

It will be found running all through the report of the committee that many expressions are printed in italics. That indicates new matter in the body of existing sections of law. Those instances were called to the attention of the committee by changed conditions that have arisen and through the interpretation of the law by the courts divulging the insufficiency of legislation to cover certain conditions or combinations of conditions. The committee has, however, brought together all statutes and parts of statutes relating to the same subject. They have omitted redundant, obsolete enactments. They have made such alterations as seemed necessary to reconcile the contradictions, supply the omissions, and amend the imperfections of the original text. They have proposed to embody in the revision such changes in the substance of existing law as in their judgment were necessary and advisable in the interest of harmonizing existing law.

Mr. President, we have made some general changes applicable to the entire bill. We have substituted the word "whoever" as a preliminary expression in defining all offenses for the words now in use, which vary from "every person who" in some cases to "whoever shall" and a variety of expressions. For these varying expressions we have substituted the uniform expression of "whoever," so that that will not appear in italics or be indicated by any mark upon the face of the bill, but it is noted as a general practice.

We have in the bill omitted all minimum punishments. We deal only with maximum punishments. It has been found by the courts in administering the law that very often even the minimum punishment prescribed by law is too severe to be inflicted for an offense that is barely an offense, and juries have oftentimes refused to convict where the party was guilty of an offense, because the minimum punishment was such that conviction would work an injustice that in the mind of the jury would overbalance the necessity for punishment that would have been appropriate if less severe. So that your committee has reported in all instances only maximum punishments.

The work of your committee is reported in 342 sections. I will not attempt to enter elaborately into a consideration of the work of the committee, as it must necessarily be made apparent as we take up the bill section by section for detailed consideration. As questions arise, the committee will be prepared to give any further information that Senators may desire. I move now, Mr. President, that the bill be read by sections and that each section be considered as we read it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will proceed with the reading of the bill.

The Secretary read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the penal laws of the United States be, and they hereby are, codified, revised, and amended, with title, chapters, headnotes, and sections, entitled, numbered, and to read as follows:

SEC. 1. Whoever, owing allegiance to the United States, levies war against them or adheres to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort within the United States or elsewhere, is guilty of treason.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The section is open to amendment.

Mr. HEYBURN. I presume, Mr. President, that we shall proceed as we do in the case of appropriation bills, and if no amendments are offered, the section will be considered as having been adopted.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair understands that that is the proper course to pursue.

The Secretary read section 2, as follows:

SEC. 2. Whoever is convicted of treason shall suffer death, or, at the discretion of the court, shall be imprisoned not less than five years and fined not less than $10,000, to be levied on and collected out of any or all of his property, real and personal, of which he was the owner at the time of committing such treason, any sale or conveyance to the contrary notwithstanding; and every person so convicted of treason shall, moreover, be incapable of holding any office under the United States.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I will take occasion now to apply to that section the rule which I stated in the opening. It may be instructive. It will be observed that the word "whoever" is there substituted for the words "every person." On the opposite page the law is printed as it now stands, and the word "convicted" is substituted for the word "guilty," so that this is laying the foundation, I may say, for a universal rule that will pervade throughout this entire revision. There are no other changes here made in existing law.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President, I did not observe whether the Senator explained in his general remarks, but in the framing of the section which has just been read, and, in fact, throughout the revision, the punishment of imprisonment at hard labor has been omitted. If the Senator has not stated that, I think it might be well to have it explained now.

Mr. HEYBURN. I am much obliged to the Senator for calling my attention to that.

Another rule that applies to the entire revision is that the hard-labor provision in the existing statute is omitted altogether. The courts have held that hard labor is a matter of prison discipline. If a United States court sends a party convicted to a penal institution where hard labor is a part of the discipline, then that person is subjected to hard labor; but as it is now in all the States, I believe—at least so far as I am advised—hard labor is a part of prison discipline, so that it is no longer necessary, either in the Federal jails or places of imprisonment or where convicts are imprisoned under an arrangement with the State, to provide for a sentence to hard labor. That is a part of the sentence, in any event, wherever hard labor is a part of the prison discipline.

The Secretary read sections 3, 4, and 5, as follows:

SEC. 3. Whoever, owing allegiance to the United States and having knowledge of the commission of any treason against them, conceals and does not, as soon as may be, disclose and make known the same to the President or to some judge of the United States, or to the governor or to some judge or justice of a particular State, is guilty of misprision of treason and shall be imprisoned not more than seven years and fined not more than $1,000.

SEC. 4. Whoever incites, sets on foot, assists, or engages in any rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the United States or the laws thereof, or gives aid or comfort thereto, shall be imprisoned not more than ten years or fined not more than $10,000, or both; and shall, moreover, be incapable of holding any office under the United States.

SEC. 5. Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country, without the permission or authority of the Government, directly or indirectly, commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the Government of the United States; and every person, being a citizen of or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, counsels, advises, or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply, himself or his agent, to any foreign government or the agents thereof for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects.

Mr. WHYTE. Mr. President, this is evidently a new provision in the penal code. I refer to that part of the section which relates to "any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States," which I suppose means the Philippine Islands and some of those far-off possessions. Then it provides a penalty in case any person, being a citizen of or, in the alternative, resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, shall commence or carry on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse, etc., with the purpose of defeating the measures of the Government of the United States. It might be some financial measure which he thought might be destructive to the commercial interest of the people among whom he was resident at the time. That is evidently an amendment to the penal law as it exists. I should like the Senator from Idaho to explain the reason and ground upon which that is based.

Mr. HEYBURN. The only changes from existing law are indicated by the italics. I notice that the Senator is reading from the bill and probably has not before him part 2 of the report. Upon the opposite page of part 2 the Senator will find the existing law. The words to which he calls the attention of the Senate—"or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof"—are necessitated by the fact that the jurisdiction of the United States has been much enlarged since the passage of the original act. This is existing law, found in section 5335 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, with only the changes indicated in italics. The Senator will find it very convenient to have before him part 2 of the report.

Mr. WHYTE. I have part 1, but not part 2.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is the only change. On page 6, lines 5 and 6, of part 2 of the report the same enlarging words are used. It was necessary to do so because of the additional acquisition of territory which the United States has made since the passage of the law as it now exists. I think the Senator will find no other changes from existing law than those indicated in italics, except those that come under the general rules which I have stated, which are applicable alike to all parts of the code.

I shall be glad to answer any further questions the Senator from Maryland may desire to submit.

Mr. WHYTE. I think on this section there ought to be a vote of the Senate and, therefore, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Maryland suggests the absence of a quorum. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary called the roll and, after some little delay, the following Senators answered to their names:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ankeny | Clay | Frye | Perkins |
| Bacon | Culberson | Fulton | Proctor |
| Borah | Cullom | Gallinger | Scott |
| Bourne | Daniel | Gamble | Stephenson |
| Brandegee | Dick | Heyburn | Sutherland |
| Briggs | Dillingham | Hopkins | Taliaferro |
| Brown | Dixon | Johnston | Taylor |
| Bryan | Dolliver | Kittredge | Teller |
| Bulkeley | du Pont | La Follette | Warner |
| Burkett | Elkins | Lodge | Warren |
| Burnham | Flint | Long | Whyte |
| Burrows | Foraker | McCreary | |
| Carter | Foster | McEnery | |
| Clark, Wyo. | Frazier | Overman | |

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Fifty-three Senators have answered. A quorum of the Senate is present.

Mr. WARREN. I desire to state that the full Military Committee have been in session, pursuant to the permission of the Senate already granted, in the examination of witnesses who have come from a distance.

Mr. HEYBURN. In order to obviate the delay incident to a call of the Senate on each section to which objection may be made, I suggest that we proceed to the consideration of the bill by sections, and when a section is reached to which any Senator desires to interpose objection and to speak upon it we pass the section, but that we dispose of those sections to which no objection is made. Whether the Senator from Maryland would object to that course applying to the section under consideration I leave to him to state, but it would certainly enable us to dispose of all that part that is unobjected to, which must be the greater part of the bill. Then we can go back and take up in their order the sections that are objected to.

Mr. WHYTE. I see no objection whatever to that mode of procedure, but I do think that where there is a new provision injected into the body of the code the Senate, as a body, ought to be here and ought to understand the reason for it and how far it extends. If the section can be passed over and taken up hereafter, it will be perfectly agreeable to me.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The section under consideration will be passed over.

Mr. HEYBURN. Section 5.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Section 5. The Secretary will continue the reading of the bill.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 6. If two or more persons in any State or Territory, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, conspire to overthrow, put down, or to destroy by force the Government of the United States, or to levy war against them, or to oppose by force the authority thereof, or by force to prevent, hinder, or delay the execution of any law of the United States, or by force to seize, take, or possess any property of the United States contrary to the authority thereof, they shall each be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than six years, or both.

SEC. 7. Whoever recruits soldiers or sailors within the United States, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, to engage in armed hostility against the same, or opens within the United States a recruiting station for the enlistment of such soldiers or sailors to serve in any manner in armed hostility against the United States, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than five years.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I think section 7 ought to be amended by inserting in line 22, after the words "United States," the same language which occurs in line 2, "or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof," so that it would read:

Whoever recruits soldiers or sailors within the United States, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, to engage in armed hostility against the same, or opens within the United States, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, a recruiting station, etc.

If the amendment is necessary in the first place, certainly it is necessary in the second.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Utah propose that amendment?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I do.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Utah proposes an amendment, which will be stated by the Secretary.

The SECRETARY. On page 4, line 22, section 7, after the words "United States," insert "or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof."

The amendment was agreed to.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, and read as follows:

SEC. 8. Every person enlisted or engaged within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, with intent to serve in armed hostility against the United States, shall be fined $100 and imprisoned not more than three years.

CHAPTER TWO.

OFFENSES AGAINST NEUTRALITY.

Sec.
9. Accepting a foreign commission.
10. Enlisting in foreign service.
11. Arming vessels against people at peace with the United States.
12. Augmenting force of foreign vessel of war.
13. Military expeditions against people at peace with the United States.
14. Enforcement of foregoing provisions.
15. Compelling foreign vessels to depart.
16. Armed vessels to give bond on clearance.
17. Detention by collectors of customs.
18. Construction of this chapter.

SEC. 9. Every citizen of the United States who, within the territory or jurisdiction thereof, accepts and exercises a commission to serve a foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people, in war, by land or by sea, against any prince, state, colony, district, or people, with whom the United States are at peace, shall be fined not more than $2,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.

Mr. TELLER. I do not know that I understood what the Senator from Idaho asked the Senate to do. Do I understand that if no objection is made these sections are accepted as proper sections?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; in Committee of the Whole. That was the intention. The bill is being read for amendments and objections. That section is existing law.

Mr. TELLER. I understand, but the purpose of a revision of the statutes is simply to state in a proper form what the statutes now are and to correct verbal errors. Beyond that I do not understand that the committee have any right to go. But in looking over this revision, so called, it appears to include the enactment of new statutes. Very many of these things are simply legislation, which is certainly not to be tolerated in a revision. I do not know whether that has gone so far that we ought to reject the whole report, but I do know that the committee have gone so far that it requires every Senator to look over the bill and see if he is willing to submit to the various provisions as proper action for the Senate to take legislatively. It goes so far beyond a mere revision that I am somewhat disturbed in trying to follow the bill and in coming to a conclusion as to exactly what I ought to do.

We have been in the habit of remitting to committees such revision and practically relying upon what the committee does. We have found later in a few instances that there has been some legislation which perhaps would not have passed had it been presented as an independent proposition. I am inclined to think there are some things in here that we would not be willing to pass; but I do not know. I only wanted to say to the Senator that I was not willing to admit because no Senator had made objection to it that that is to be accepted as a final determination of the Senate. I tried to follow this yesterday. I did no succeed in doing so very satisfactorily to myself, and the way we are doing business I am afraid is not going to be very satisfactory to anybody.

Mr. CULBERSON. I desire to call the attention of the Senator from Colorado to a headnote, which would seem to explain his inquiry. I will read it:

Existing law is printed in roman; amendments and new sections are printed in italics; sections which have been redrafted or from which any material matter has been omitted or which have been formed by combining different sections or provisions of existing law are printed in brackets.

That shows that this is not a mere codification in the sense referred to by the Senator from Colorado, but it contains amendments and entirely new sections of law.

Mr. TELLER. I have had some experience with such committees; there have been some revisions since I have been in the Senate, and I think the rule of the Senate has been that there should be no amendments and no new sections added. If that has been done in this case the bill ought to be read very carefully; there ought to be a full Senate when it is read; and each Senator ought to feel that he is under obligation to sit here and follow the reading and determine whether or not he wants to support these changes. This, in my opinion, is more than a mere revision of the law.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would call the attention of the Senator from Colorado to the act under which this work was originally performed, which act is carried forward to the present day. It is found on page 2 of part 1 of the report—that is the small publication. The Commission was directed—

To revise and codify, in accordance with the terms and provisions of said act—

That refers to the original act for the codification of the criminal code—and the acts supplemental thereto, all laws of the United States of a permanent and general nature in force at the time when the same shall be reported.

And this is the part to which I particularly call the Senator's attention:

That in performing this duty the said Commission shall bring together all statutes and parts of statutes relating to the same subjects, shall omit redundant and obsolete enactments, and shall make such alterations as may be necessary to reconcile the contradictions, supply the omissions, and amend the imperfections of the original text; and may propose and embody in such revisions changes in the substance of existing law; but all such changes shall be clearly set forth in an accompanying report, which shall briefly explain the reasons for the same.

That provision of law has been strictly complied with. The section under consideration when the Senator rose to address the Senate on the subject contains no changes, as shown by the manner of the print. It is existing law, the existing law being set opposite, on page 11 of part 2 of the report.

Mr. TELLER. Part what—2?

Mr. HEYBURN. Page 11 of part 2. That is the report wherein the existing law and the bill are printed on opposite pages. The words "high misdemeanor" are omitted under the general provision. The designation of felony, misdemeanor, and high misdemeanor are omitted from this revision, and the attention of the Senate is called to it under the enumeration of changes that are common to the entire work. The felonies and misdemeanors are defined under a section applicable to the entire bill. So we have omitted enumerating them in each section.

I would suggest to the Senator from Colorado that this is entirely within the rule laid down by the Senate in providing for its performance, and we have complied strictly with the requirement that the new legislation shall be indicated so that it shall be obvious. I will say to the Senator—I think he was not present when I made the opening statement in regard to this matter—that while the Commission which was appointed originally proposed 173 new sections of law, your committee, whose report is now under consideration, struck out all of the proposed new legislation except twenty-one sections, and of the twenty-one sections ten were rendered necessary by new conditions that have arisen since legislation was had and under circumstances pointed out by the courts in their attempt to administer the law. I call the Senator's attention to part 1 of the report, on pages 5 and 6, where that matter is fully set forth. Those twenty-one sections are merely adaptations of existing law to new conditions that have arisen.

Mr. TELLER. I did not mean to make any criticism of the committee. I merely wanted to call attention to this report of the committee. It seems to me we are accepting it without any investigation whatever. While the statute under which the committee has proceeded seems to have been pretty liberal, I do not believe anyone contemplated that there was to be any such revision as seems to have come to us from the committee. I should like to know just what are the twenty-one new sections,

Mr. HEYBURN. I call the Senator's attention to page 7 of the report, which states exactly the subjects considered in those sections. Section 33, which is the first new section, I would direct the Senator's attention to particularly. It refers to false acknowledgments. That is an offense which has grown so as to attract the attention of the courts since legislation was had on the subject. Then section 47 is directed against the unlawful entering of forts. Section 107 is directed against falsely certifying records and deeds for use in the United States courts. So all of the new sections are particularly described in the report. We have not yet reached the consideration of any new section.

Mr. TELLER. It appears to me that the work of the committee puts upon the Senate some examination of this matter. It is not the correction of verbal errors and imperfections in the law as suggested, but it is new legislation; and I think we ought to treat it as such.

Mr. HEYBURN. I suggest that when we reach new legislation upon a suggestion it will be passed over. We have not yet reached any new legislation, and the committee will not object to the Senate passing over new legislation as it shall be reached. We are so far engaged in considering existing law.

The Secretary continued the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 10. Whoever, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, enlists, or enters himself, or hires or retains another person to enlist or enter himself, or to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States with intent to be enlisted or entered in the service of any foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people, as a soldier, or as a marine or seaman, on board of any vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.

SEC. 11. Whoever, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, fits out and arms, or attempts to fit out and arm, or procures to be fitted out and armed, or knowingly is concerned in the furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any vessel, with intent that such vessel shall be employed in the service of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, to cruise or commit hostilities against the subjects, citizens, or property of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people with whom the United States are at peace, or whoever issues or delivers a commission within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States for any vessel, to the intent that she may be so employed, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than three years. And every such vessel, her tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all materials, arms, ammunition, and stores which may have been procured for the building and equipment thereof shall be forfeited; one-half to the use of the informer and the other half to the use of the United States.

SEC. 12. Whoever, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, increases or augments, or procures to be increased or augmented, or knowingly is concerned in increasing or augmenting the force of any ship of war, cruiser, or other armed vessel which, at the time of her arrival within the United States, was a ship of war, or cruiser, or armed vessel in the service of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, or belonging to the subjects or citizens of any such prince or state, colony, district, or people, the same being at war with any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people with whom the United States are at peace, by adding to the number of the guns of such vessel, or by changing those on board of her for guns of a larger caliber, or by adding thereto any equipment solely applicable to war, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than one year.

SEC. 13. Whoever, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, begins, or sets on foot, or provides or prepares the means for, any military expedition or enterprise, to be carried on from thence against the territory or dominions of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, with whom the United States are at peace, shall be fined not more than $3,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.

SEC. 14. The district courts shall take cognizance of all complaints, by whomsoever instituted, in cases of captures made within the waters of the United States, or within a marine league of the coasts or shores thereof. In every case in which a vessel is fitted out and armed, or attempted to be fitted out and armed, or in which the force of any vessel of war, cruiser, or other armed vessel is increased or augmented, or in which any military expedition or enterprise is begun or set on foot, contrary to the provisions and prohibitions of this chapter; and in every case of the capture of a vessel within the jurisdiction or protection of the United States as before defined; and in every case in which any process issuing out of any court of the United States is disobeyed or resisted by any person having the custody of any vessel of war, cruiser, or other armed vessel of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, or of any subjects or citizens of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, it shall be lawful for the President, or such other person as he shall have empowered for that purpose, to employ such part of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, for the purpose of taking possession of and detaining any such vessel, with her prizes, if any, in order to enforce the execution of the prohibitions and penalties of this chapter, and the restoring of such prizes in the cases in which restoration shall be adjudged; and also for the purpose of preventing the carrying on of any such expedition or enterprise from the territory or jurisdiction of the United States against the territory or dominion of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people with whom the United States are at peace.

SEC. 15. It shall be lawful for the President, or such person as he shall empower for that purpose, to employ such part of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, as shall be necessary to compel any foreign vessel to depart the United States in all cases in which, by the laws of nations or the treaties of the United States, she ought not to remain within the United States.

SEC. 16. The owners or consignees of every armed vessel sailing out of the ports of, or under the jurisdiction of, the United States, belonging wholly or in part to citizens thereof, shall, before clearing out the same, give bond to the United States, with sufficient sureties, in double the amount of the value of the vessel and cargo on board, including her armament, conditioned that the vessel shall not be employed by such owners to cruise or commit hostilities against the subjects, citizens, or property of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, with whom the United States are at peace.

SEC. 17. The several collectors of the customs shall detain any vessel manifestly built for warlike purposes and about to depart the United States, or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, the cargo of which principally consists of arms and munitions of war, when the number of men shipped on board, or other circumstances, render it probable that such vessel is intended to be employed by the owners to cruise or commit hostilities upon the subjects, citizens, or property of any foreign prince or state, or of any colony, district, or people, with whom the United States are at peace, until the decision of the President is had thereon, or until the owner gives such bond and security as is required of the owners of armed vessels by the preceding section.

SEC. 18. The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to extend to any subject or citizen of any foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people who is transiently within the United States and enlists or enters himself on board of any vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer, which at the time of its arrival within the United States was fitted and equipped as such, or hires or retains another subject or citizen of the same foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people who is transiently within the United States to enlist or enter himself to serve such foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people on board such vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer, if the United States shall then be at peace with such foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people. Nor shall they be construed to prevent the prosecution or punishment of treason, or of any piracy defined by the laws of the United States.

CHAPTER THREE.

OFFENSES AGAINST THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE AND CIVIL RIGHTS OF CITIZENS.

Sec.
19. Conspiracy to injure, etc., persons in the exercise of civil rights.
20. Other crimes committed while violating preceding section.
21. Depriving citizens of civil rights under color of State laws.
22. Conspiring to prevent officer from performing duties.
23. Jurors not to be excluded on account of color or race.
24. Unlawful presence of troops at elections.
25. Intimidation of voters by officers, etc., of Army or Navy.
26. Officers of Army or Navy prescribing qualifications of voters.
27. Officers, etc., of Army or Navy interfering with officers of election, etc.
28. Persons disqualified from holding office; when soldiers, etc., may vote.

SEC. 19. If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same, or if two or more persons go in disguise on the highway, or on the premises of another, with intent to prevent or hinder his free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege so secured, they shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years; and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to any office, or place of honor, profit, or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States.

SEC. 20. If in the act of violating any provision of the preceding section, any other felony or misdemeanor be committed, the offender shall be punished for the same with such punishment as is attached to such felony or misdemeanor by the laws of the State in which the offense is committed.

SEC. 21. Whoever, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, subjects, or causes to be subjected, any inhabitant of any State, Territory, or District to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States, or to different punishments, pains, or penalties, on account of such inhabitant being an alien, or by reason of his color, or race, than are prescribed for the punishment of citizens, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 22. If two or more persons in any State, Territory, or District conspire to prevent, by force, intimidation, or threat, any person from accepting or holding any office, trust, or place of confidence under the United States, or from discharging any duties thereof; or to induce by like means any officer of the United States to leave any State, Territory, District, or place, where his duties as an officer are required to be performed, or to injure him in his person or property on account of his lawful discharge of the duties of his office, or while engaged in the lawful discharge thereof, or to injure his property so as to molest, interrupt, hinder, or impede him in the discharge of his official duties, each of such persons shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than six years, or both.

SEC. 23. No citizen possessing all other qualifications which are or may be prescribed by law shall be disqualified for service as grand or petit juror in any court of the United States, or of any State, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude; and any officer or other person charged with any duty in the selection or summoning of jurors who shall exclude or fail to summon any citizen for the cause aforesaid shall be fined not more than $5,000.

SEC. 24. Every officer of the Army or Navy, or other person in the civil, military, or naval service of the United States, who orders, brings, keeps, or has under his authority or control any troops or armed men at any place where a general or special election is held in any State, unless such force be necessary to repel armed enemies of the United States or to keep the peace at the polls, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than five years.

SEC. 25. Every officer or other person in the military or naval service of the United States who, by force, threat, intimidation, order, advice, or otherwise, prevents, or attempts to prevent, any qualified voter of any State from freely exercising the right of suffrage at any general or special election in such State shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than five years.

SEC. 26. Every officer of the Army or Navy who prescribes or fixes, or attempts to prescribe or fix, whether by proclamation, order, or otherwise, the qualifications of voters at any election in any State shall be punished as provided in the preceding section.

SEC. 27. Every officer or other person in the military or naval service of the United States who, by force, threat, intimidation, order, or otherwise, compels, or attempts to compel, any officer holding an election in any State to receive a vote from a person not legally qualified to vote, or who imposes, or attempts to impose, any regulations for conducting any general or special election in a State different from those prescribed by law, or who interferes in any manner with any officer of an election in the discharge of his duty, shall be punished as provided in section 25.

SEC. 28. Every person convicted of any offense defined in the four preceding sections shall, in addition to the punishment therein prescribed, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the United States; but nothing therein shall be construed to prevent any officer, soldier, sailor, or marine from exercising the right of suffrage in any election district to which he may belong, if otherwise qualified according to the laws of the State in which he offers to vote.

CHAPTER FOUR.

OFFENSES AGAINST THE OPERATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

Sec.
29. Forgery of letters patent.
30. Forging bids, public records, etc.
31. Forging deeds, powers of attorney, etc.
32. Having forged papers in possession.
33. False acknowledgments.
34. Falsely pretending to be United States officer.
35. False personation of holder of public stock.
36. False demand on fraudulent power of attorney.
37. Making or presenting false claims.
38. Embezzling arms, stores, etc.
39. Conspiracy to commit offense against the United States; all parties liable for acts of one.
40. Delaying or defrauding captor or claimant, etc., of prize property.
41. Bribery of United States officer.
42. Unlawfully taking or using papers relating to claims.
43. Persons interested not to act as agents of the Government.
44. Enticing desertions from the military or naval service.
45. Enticing away workmen.
46. Injuries to fortifications, harbor defenses, etc.
47. Unlawfully entering fort, etc.
48. Robbery or larceny of personal property of the United States.
49. Embezzling, stealing, etc., public property.
50. Receivers, etc., of stolen public property.
51. Timber depredations on public lands.
52. Timber, etc., depredations on Indian and other reservations.
53. Boxing, etc., timber on public lands for turpentine, etc.
54. Setting fire to timber on public lands.
55. Failing to extinguish fires.
56. Fines to be paid into school fund.
57. Trespassing on Bull Run National Forest, Oregon.
58. Breaking fence or gate inclosing reserved lands, or driving or permitting live stock to enter upon.
59. Injuring or removing posts or monuments.
60. Interrupting surveys.
61. Agreement to prevent bids at sale of lands.
62. Injuries to United States telegraph, etc., lines.
63. Counterfeiting weather forecast.

Sec.
64. Interfering with employees of Bureau of Animal Industry.
65. Forgery of certificate of entry.
66. Concealment or destruction of invoices, etc.
67. Resisting revenue officer; rescuing or destroying seized property, etc.
68. Falsely assuming to be a revenue officer.
69. Offering present to revenue officer.
70. Admitting merchandise to entry for less than legal duty.
71. Securing entry of merchandise by false samples, etc.
72. False certification by consular officer.
73. Taking seized property from custody of revenue officer.
74. Forging or altering ship's papers or custom-house documents.
75. Forging military bounty-land warrant, etc.
76. Forging, etc., certificate of citizenship.
77. Engraving, etc., plate for printing, or photographing, selling, or bringing into the United States, etc., certificate of citizenship.
78. False personation, etc., in procuring naturalization.
79. Using false certificate of citizenship, or denying citizenship, etc.
80. Using false certificate, etc., as evidence of right to vote, etc.
81. Falsely claiming citizenship.
82. Taking false oath in naturalization proceedings.
83. Provisions applicable to all courts of naturalization.
84. Shanghaiing and falsely inducing persons intoxicated to go on vessel prohibited.
85. Corporations, etc., not to contribute money for political elections, etc.
86. Hunting birds, or taking their eggs from breeding grounds, prohibited.

SEC. 29. Whoever shall falsely make, forge, counterfeit, or alter any letters patent granted or purporting to have been granted by the President of the United States; or whoever shall pass, utter, or publish, or attempt to pass, utter, or publish as genuine, any such forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered letters patent, knowing the same to be forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered, shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars, and imprisoned not more than ten years.

SEC. 30. [Whoever shall falsely make, alter, forge, or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, altered, forged, or counterfeited, or willingly aid or assist in the false making, altering, forging, or counterfeiting, any bond, bid, proposal, contract, guarantee, security, official bond, public record, affidavit, or other writing for the purpose of defrauding the United States; or shall utter or publish as true, or cause to be uttered or published as true, or have in his possession with the intent to utter or publish as true, any such false, forged, altered, or counterfeited bond, bid, proposal, contract, guarantee, security, official bond, public record, affidavit, or other writing, for the purpose of defrauding the United States, knowing the same to be false, forged, altered, or counterfeited; or shall transmit to, or present at, or cause or procure to be transmitted to, or presented at, the office of any officer of the United States, any such false, forged, altered, or counterfeited bond, bid, proposal, contract, guarantee, security, official bond, public record, affidavit, or other writing, knowing the same to be false, forged, altered, or counterfeited, for the purpose of defrauding the United States, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.]

Mr. BURKETT. I wish to ask the Chairman a question. I notice that this section is in brackets, and by the key to the bill it has been redrafted with some parts omitted. Can the Senator from Idaho without too much trouble call attention to what has been done? I tried to follow it through the original text but I could not find it.

Mr. HEYBURN. The section being in brackets indicates that it is a composite of other sections or that something has been omitted from it. If the Senator will turn to the references in part 1 of the report to section 30 at page 15 he will find that section 30 is made up of sections 5418 and 5479 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. It is there stated that the sections "from which this section is derived largely duplicate each other and have therefore been merged in one section." The words italicized indicate the amendments of the section. There were two statutes enacted at a considerable interval of time that were merged in that section, and the purpose and meaning of the original legislation were preserved.

Mr. BURKETT. May I ask the Senator, are these the two sections—sections 5418 and 5479?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; those are the two sections from which section 30 is derived.

Mr. BURKETT. In redrafting what has been done in regard to the penalties? Have the penalties heretofore been different, or anything of that sort?

Mr. HEYBURN. All that has been done is indicated by the italics, except under the general rule of the adoption of uniform phrases. The italics indicate the change.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 31. Whoever shall falsely make, alter, forge, or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, altered, forged, or counterfeited, or willingly aid or assist in the false making, altering, forging, or counterfeiting, any deed, power of attorney, order, certificate, receipt, contract, or other writing, for the purpose of obtaining or receiving, or of enabling any other person, either directly or indirectly, to obtain or receive from the United States, or any of their officers or agents, any sum of money; or whoever shall utter or publish as true or cause to be uttered or published as true any such false, forged, altered, or counterfeited deed, power of attorney, order, certificate, receipt, contract, or other writing, with intent to defraud the United States, knowing the same to be false, altered, forged, or counterfeited; or whoever shall transmit to, or present at, or cause or procure to be transmitted to, or presented at any office or officer of the Government of the United States any deed, power of attorney, order, certificate, receipt, contract, or other writing in support of or in relation to any account or claim, with intent to defraud the United States, knowing the same to be false, altered, forged, or counterfeited, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years.

Mr. BURKETT. I notice that the penalty in section 31 has been raised, because the last clause is in italics. It has been raised from the old statute to double, has it not? The penalty must have been changed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Under existing law there is a hard-labor clause, and it is provided that whoever offends against the provision shall be imprisoned at hard labor for a period of not less than one year nor more than ten years. There is a minimum punishment of one year. Or he shall be imprisoned not more than five years and fined not more than $1,000. The committee thought best, pursuant to the general principle that they had adopted in view of the fact that the term of imprisonment provided by existing law was modified, to increase the fine to $1,000 and to make a maximum punishment by imprisonment of ten years, leaving it discretionary with the court as to the minimum punishment.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 32. Whoever, knowingly and with intent to defraud the United States, shall have in his possession any false, altered, forged, or counterfeited deed, power of attorney, order, certificate, receipt, contract, or other writing, for the purpose of enabling another to obtain from the United States, or from any officer or agent thereof, any sum of money, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

SEC. 33. Whoever, being an officer authorized to administer oaths or to take and certify acknowledgments, shall knowingly make any false acknowledgment, certificate, or statement concerning the appearance before him or the taking of an oath or affirmation by any person with respect to any proposal, contract, bond, undertaking, or other matter submitted to, made with, or taken on behalf of, the United States, and concerning which an oath or affirmation is required by law or regulation, or with respect to the financial standing of any principal, surety, or other party to any such proposal, contract, bond, undertaking, or other instrument, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

Mr. HEYBURN. Section 33 is new legislation, and under the suggestion I have already made it may be passed over to avoid present controversy.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Section 33 will be passed over.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 34. Whoever, with intent to defraud either the United States or any person, shall falsely assume or pretend to be an officer or employee acting under the authority of the United States, or any Department, or any officer of the Government thereof, and shall take upon himself to act as such, or shall in such pretended character demand or obtain from any person or from the United States, or any Department, or any officer of the Government thereof, any money, paper, document, or other valuable thing, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

SEC. 35. Whoever shall falsely personate any true and lawful holder of any share or sum in the public stocks or debt of the United States, or any person entitled to any annuity, dividend, pension, prize money, wages, or other debt due from the United States, and, under color of such false personation, shall transfer or endeavor to transfer such public stock or any part thereof, or shall receive or endeavor to receive the money of such true and lawful holder thereof, or the money of any person really entitled to receive such annuity, dividend, pension, prize money, wages, or other debt, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years.

SEC. 36. Whoever shall knowingly or fraudulently demand or endeavor to obtain any share or sum in the public stocks of the United States, or to have any part thereof transferred, assigned, sold, or conveyed, or to have any annuity, dividend, pension, prize money, wages, or other debt due from the United States, or any part thereof, received, or paid by virtue of any false, forged, or counterfeited power of attorney, authority, or instrument, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years.

SEC. 37. Whoever shall make or cause to be made, or present or cause to be presented, for payment or approval, to or by any person or officer in the civil, military, or naval service of the United States, any claim upon or against the Government of the United States, or any department or officer thereof, knowing such claim to be false, fictitious, or fraudulent; or whoever, for the purpose of obtaining or aiding to obtain the payment or approval of such claim, shall make, or use, or cause to be made or used, any false bill, receipt, voucher, roll, account, claim, certificate, affidavit, or deposition, knowing the same to contain any fraudulent or fictitious statement or entry; or whoever shall enter into any agreement, combination, or conspiracy to defraud the Government of the United States, or any department or officer thereof, by obtaining or aiding to obtain the payment or allowance of any false or fraudulent claim; or whoever, having charge, possession, custody, or control of any money or other public property used or to be used in the military or naval service, with intent to defraud the United States or willfully to conceal such money or other property, shall deliver or cause to be delivered, to any other person having authority to receive the same, any amount of such money or other property less than that for which he received a certificate or took a receipt; or whoever, being authorized to make or deliver any certificate, voucher, receipt, or other paper certifying the receipt of arms, ammunition, provisions, clothing, or other property so used or to be used, shall make or deliver the same to any other person without a full knowledge of the truth of the facts stated therein, and with intent to defraud the United States; or whoever shall knowingly purchase or receive in pledge for any obligation or indebtedness from any soldier, officer, sailor, or other person called into or employed in the military or naval service, any arms, equipments, ammunition, clothes, military stores, or other public property, such soldier, sailor, officer, or other person not having the lawful right to pledge or sell the same, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

SEC. 38. Whoever shall steal, embezzle, or knowingly apply to his own use, or unlawfully sell, convey, or dispose of any ordnance, arms, ammunition, clothing, subsistence, stores, money, or other property of the United States, furnished or to be used for the military or naval service, shall be punished as prescribed in the preceding section.

SEC. 39. If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each of the parties to such conspiracy shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisonment not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 40. Whoever shall willfully do, or aid or advise in the doing of any act relating to the bringing in, custody, preservation, sale, or other disposition of any property captured as prize, or relating to any documents or papers connected with the property, or to any deposition or other document or paper connected with the proceedings, with intent to defraud, delay, or injure the United States or any captor or claimant of such property, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

SEC. 41. Whoever shall promise, offer, or give, or cause or procure to be promised, offered, or given, any money or other thing of value, or shall make or tender any contract, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money, or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value, to any officer of the United States, or to any person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official function, under or by authority of any department or office of the Government thereof, or to any officer or person acting for or on behalf of either House of Congress, or of any committee of either House, or both Houses thereof, with intent to influence his decision or action on any question, matter, cause, or proceeding which may at any time be pending, or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, or in his place of trust or profit, or with intent to influence him to commit or aid in committing, or to collude in, or allow, any fraud, or make opportunity for the commission of any fraud, on the United States, or to induce him to do or omit to do any act in violation of his lawful duty, shall be fined not more than three times the amount of money or value of the thing so offered, promised, given, made, or tendered, or caused or procured to be so offered, promised, given, made, or tendered, and imprisoned not more than three years.

SEC. 42. Whoever shall take and carry away, without authority from the United States, from the place where it has been filed, lodged, or deposited, or where it may for the time being actually be kept by authority of the United States, any certificates, affidavit, deposition, written statement of facts, power of attorney, receipt, voucher, assignment, or other document, record, file, or paper, prepared, fitted, or intended to be used or presented in order to procure the payment of money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, whether the same has or has not already been so used or presented, and whether such claim, account, or demand, or any part thereof, has or has not already been allowed or paid; or whoever shall present, use, or attempt to use, any such document, record, file, or paper so taken and carried away, in order to procure the payment of any money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole, or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. BURKETT. Just to find out what would happen, I move to strike out the words "or both," in line 10, page 25, at the end of section 42, which has just been read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment of the Senator from Nebraska will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 25, line 10, section 42, after the word "years," it is proposed to strike out the words "or both."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should be glad to have the Senator from Nebraska state the purpose of the amendment.

Mr. BURKETT. I will state it, Mr. President. I do not know whether an amendment in that particular is right or not, but if I know anything about the functions and duties of this commission, if I understand them properly, they were to codify the laws of the United States; a very proper thing to be done. As the Senator from Idaho [Mr. HEYBURN] has explained to us this morning at some length, and as every lawyer has had occasion to know, it is almost impossible to find out what the laws of the United States are. For a good many years and at a good deal of expense—the sum of $300,000, I think—we have been trying to codify and to get together the laws so that they would be simplified for use. I did not suppose that the object of that commission was to draft new laws. I did not understand that it would be permissible or that the committee would permit new laws to be brought in here in this form. I am speaking of this because I think a good many Senators who are now absent would be here if they realized that there is a great deal of legislation going into this bill—new law, new legislation, increasing penalties or decreasing them, as the case may be—in this case increasing them—making new crimes, and perhaps, unless the bill shall be properly framed at the end, possibly preventing the conviction of criminals, possibly turning others loose who are under indictment, and possibly going so far by carelessness or inadvertence as to turn others out after a crime has been committed.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Nebraska yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. BURKETT. In just a moment.

Mr. FULTON. I merely desired to learn what was the Senator's amendment. I did not hear it.

Mr. BURKETT. I have moved to strike out the words "or both" at the end of section 42.

The old law, as I understand it—if I am wrong, Senators will correct me—simply provided a penalty for this offense of a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than ten years. That is what Congress in its wisdom, when it originally passed this law, said should be the punishment. Now, just why, when we are considering simply the codification of the laws, we should pass upon the question of what the proper penalty is or why we should double the penalty I am at a loss to understand.

I called attention to this provision not because I am concerned as to these particular two words, for they may be all right, but I see some few lines back that a new punishment is added in another section here. If that course is to be pursued clear through the bill—and it is apparent that it is—we ought to have every member of the Senate here when we are considering this bill; and every single paragraph and each penalty, whether increased or decreased, ought to be considered carefully enough to enable us to know whether it is right or whether it is wrong. This thing of going through a bill as fast as it is possible to read it, with the small number of Senators present, passing new legislation doubling penalties and making new offenses and striking out old offenses perhaps is pursuing a course which will prevent us from knowing what we are doing.

Mr. HEYBURN. Will the Senator permit me?

Mr. BURKETT. We are acting on each section, as I understand it, and passing on it.

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator will permit me to interrupt him, I would call his attention to the condition of the revision, which, perhaps, has escaped his notice. The section as reported by the committee, so far as the penalty is concerned, is exactly the same as the section reported by the revision commission. The work which this committee was instructed to do was to consider the work of the revision commission—that is the language of the statute creating the committee whose report is under consideration. We were directed to consider the report of the Commission. The Commission was authorized in express terms by the act of 1901 to "propose and embody in such revisions changes in the substance of existing law." The Commission, taking advantage of that power vested in them, saw fit to report, in section 8649, volume 2 of the Commission's report, which I presume the Senator has on his desk—I know that report was on the desk of each Senator, and it is available—under the authority given them in the act creating the Commission for this purpose this change in existing law:

Shall be imprisoned not more than ten years or fined not more than $5,000, or both.

The committee in order to strike out those last two words which the Senator now moves to strike out would have been compelled to disregard the report of the Commission. The Commission was acting within the scope of its authority. It was not the policy of the committee to disregard the report of the Commission, except where there was some urgent reason for doing so, and that is the reason the committee reports the amendment of existing law by adding the words "or both." They do it in conformity with the recommendation of the Commission.

Mr. BURKETT. That does not get over the fact that if we adopt this section it is a changing of the law. Is not that a fact?

Mr. HEYBURN. Well, Congress authorized the Commission to report changes in the law—not to change, but to report changes.

Mr. BURKETT. As I understand it, then, this is a final hearing of this section, and when we pass it, if there is no objection to it, the section is adopted.

Mr. HEYBURN. It will be open to amendment in the Senate.

Mr. BURKETT. It will be open to amendment in the Senate, but if it is adopted here anyone who might want to get at this point at any other time would have to pick out that particular section, and if somebody was going to try to prevent the doubling of fines and penalties he would have to go clear through, pick out every section, and attack it separately upon the floor of the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I would suggest to the Senator, or, rather, I would repeat the suggestion that I have already made, that if any Senator intimates or suggests that he would like to discuss any section, we will pass that section and proceed with those to which there is no objection.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

Mr. HEYBURN. And thereby—if I may be permitted to finish—disposing of such sections as may remain unobjected to.

Mr. BURKETT. I just want to say, in reply to that, that the objection would apply to practically every section in this part of the bill. If anybody is going to object to doubling penalties or increasing penalties, he has got to object to practically every section along here.

Mr. HEYBURN. Then, I would be glad to have a suggestion from the Senator as to some manner of proceeding that would obviate the objection. It is true we might discuss or object to every section of this bill, but I question whether or not Senators, upon consideration, will think it necessary to object to sections that are existing law. The committee did not undertake to change existing law, except strictly within the powers and directions given it in regard to doing so.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. HEYBURN. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. TELLER. The objection the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT] makes is that you have changed the law; you have doubled the penalty; and there is not any reason that I know of why that should be done.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will say, Mr. President, that we have not changed the report of the Commission.

Mr. TELLER. That may be.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Commission reported a change in existing law and they gave the court the discretion of doubling the penalty. It is purely a discretion resting with the court.

Mr. TELLER. We are not bound by what the Commission has done.

Mr. HEYBURN. No; not any more than by what the committee has done.

Mr. TELLER. If the committee did not see fit to object, we can object here.

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. TELLER. And we will object.

Mr. FULTON. I think I have the floor, Mr. President, and I desire to call the attention of Senators to the fact, or at least to that which I understand to be the fact, that the committee in reporting this bill has endeavored to make a uniform rule whereby the minimum penalty is eliminated and the penalty of imprisonment and fine may be both applied. I think that is the rule that has been adopted throughout. I will ask the Senator from Idaho if that is not so.

Mr. GALLINGER. Oh, no.

Mr. HEYBURN. We have entirely abolished minimum punishments.

Mr. FULTON. Abolished minimum punishments, and wherever the existing law provides that a person may be fined so much or imprisoned the words "or both" have been inserted.

Mr. GALLINGER. That is not universal in the bill.

Mr. FULTON. No; but almost so. It is almost universal.

I have had some experience with the work this committee has been over, having been on the committee for several months, and I want to say to the Senator from Nebraska that it is an impossibility to even codify the laws in any intelligent manner without introducing various and numerous changes in the wording and amendments. In the first place, it is very important that a criminal code should, as nearly as possible, proceed on some plan of uniformity, and then it is frequently necessary to incorporate several sections in one. We found that very many times Congress had enacted two and sometimes three different sections relating to the same subject, apparently without any knowledge and understanding that the others existed. In a case of that kind you have got to eliminate some, or where they are almost parallel it is very easy to frame a section that embodies the essential principles and ideas of any one. If the committee were merely instructed to revise and codify, their authority would extend to that.

But the Senator from Nebraska says that his understanding is that this Commission was not authorized to change existing law, but merely to assemble the existing law. I call his attention to the fact that the Commission, whose work this committee has simply been going over and reporting here, was given this authorization:

> In performing this duty the said Commission shall bring together all statutes and parts of statutes relating to the same subjects, shall omit redundant and obsolete enactments, and shall make such alterations as may be necessary to reconcile the contradictions, supply the omissions, and amend the imperfections of the original text; and may propose and embody in such revisions changes in the substance of existing law.

That is, report it separately. I think this committee has been exceptionally moderate in the number of new provisions it has reported. The committee that reported at the last session, I think, reported a few more sections than has this committee, although we cut the number down very considerably. I think we had about thirty new sections, whereas this committee, I think, only reports twenty-two or twenty-three new sections. I do not remember the exact number, but I think it is twenty-two or twenty-three. It was almost impossible to escape the necessity of doing that, because there were several instances where the demand for new legislation was so great that reporting a criminal code here would not have been a proper work without inserting some new sections.

Mr. BACON. Will the Senator from Oregon permit me to ask him a question?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Oregon yield to the Senator from Georgia?

Mr. FULTON. Certainly.

Mr. BACON. Does not the Senator think this is a matter of such gravity and such importance that it is not proper to consider it except with a fuller Senate than we have now?

Mr. FULTON. I will say in reply to the Senator from Georgia that, of course, it would be very desirable and would be very advantageous, no doubt, could we have a full Senate in considering this matter.

Mr. BACON. I want to say to the Senator that I am so impressed with that view that I shall feel constrained to call for the yeas and nays on every vote.

Mr. FULTON. Let me say, though, in answer to the Senator, that wherever there is any new matter in a section reported it is italicized, attention has been called to it, and it has been stated by the committee that they purpose passing over all new sections and bringing them up hereafter. I suppose some due notice will be given, so that all Senators may assemble here at the time when the new sections are to be considered.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Oregon yield to the Senator from Colorado?

Mr. FULTON. In a second. I was going to say that the Senator surely would admit that in considering these mere verbal changes, or indeed, where the amendment is merely following out a uniform rule, or practically a uniform rule, such as inserting the words "or both," it is not necessary to call the roll of the Senate every time such a proposition comes up. It might be well to have the Senate here in a body to determine a principle or a rule—to determine whether we are going to support that or not—but surely every time such a question comes up it will not be necessary to have a yea-and-nay vote.

Mr. BACON. I would suggest to the Senator that if we did not have a full Senate we ought at least to have a committee of the Senate when so important a piece of work as this is being done, and we have not even got a committee here now.

Mr. FULTON. I take it Senators have pretty generally informed themselves by an examination of the report that the changes outside of new sections are of very slight importance or they are satisfied to go ahead and adopt the code with the understanding we have had, that when new sections come up their attention shall be called to them. I take it that that is the judgment of members of the Senate generally, and the Senator knows better than anyone else, for he has had wide experience, that we can not get legislation of this character considered by the full Senate. It is an impossibility. The legislation is very, very important. I am myself anxious that it shall go through. I believe it has been well considered by the committee, and I think it would be a great misfortune if we did not adopt it at this session.

Mr. HEYBURN obtained the floor.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Colorado?

Mr. HEYBURN. I yield.

Mr. TELLER. I want to call the attention of the Senate to one provision which we passed, which I suppose will come up at some time; but if it is to be considered as accepted by the Senate, I want to move to strike out the section. It is section 33.

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator from Colorado will permit me, the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON] made a suggestion to which I was going to reply, and the Senator from Colorado is taking up a matter that is not a part——

Mr. TELLER. I am coming back in a moment to the very thing the Senator has in mind.

Mr. HEYBURN. I thought the Senator from Georgia was about to leave the Chamber, and I wanted to explain to him.

Mr. TELLER. I want to say a word about the motion of the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT]. There is a very severe penalty of $10,000 and imprisonment provided for the offense; and in this case the words "or both" are added; so that you may double the penalty if you see fit. Mr. President, this is an instance where both penalties should not, in my opinion, be allowed. I wished to call attention to section 33, and I want to enter a motion here to strike it out.

Mr. HEYBURN. That was passed over.

Mr. TELLER. It was passed over, but I can still make a motion in reference to it, unless the Senator proposes to be captious about the matter; and if he does, he will not pass the bill this year.

Mr. President, this is a departure to the extent that it is an attempt by legislation to approve of regulations that the Departments may make. The Supreme Court has passed upon that question recently. I myself very much doubt whether we can authorize a Department to pass a regulation that will create a criminal offense. I do not believe it can be done; but under section 33 all they have to do is to make a regulation, and a violation of the regulation, no matter how trifling it may be, brings upon the violater the condemnation of the act. I want to enter upon the record a motion to strike that section out.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I reserved the right in committee to object to that section because of the fact that, in my judgment, at least, it permitted the making of regulations by a Department having the force and effect of a criminal law. I reserved the right especially to object, or rather to move to strike out all of that class of legislation. Now, I desire to say if the Senator will allow me——

Mr. TELLER. Will the Senator allow this to be stricken out?

Mr. HEYBURN. So far as I am concerned I would be willing to do so; but the committee reported it, and I reserved the right to object, not only as to this provision in this section, but as to a like provision in any section, for I am unalterably opposed to allowing any Executive Department of the Government to make any rule or regulation that shall have the force and effect of a criminal statute.

Mr. TELLER. I believe the Supreme Court has determined—I have not the case before me and I can not put my hand on it for the moment—that we can not authorize a Department to make a regulation that will create a criminal offense.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will say that my reason for calling attention to that section when it was reached and asking that it be passed over was that I anticipated it would raise a controversy of this kind.

Mr. President, the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON], the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER], and the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT], have called attention to the fact that in this case the punishment was doubled. Discretion is given to the court to double the punishment. I am not very much in sympathy with it, but following a general rule in dealing with the report of the Commission, the committee thought best to report it as the Commission had agreed upon it and reported it; so that no change was made. I am perfectly willing that the question of retaining the words "or both" be submitted, and, so far as I am personally concerned, they might be stricken out; but I am only one of a committee, which, being a joint committee, I do not feel that the chairman would be justified in exercising the same right or agreeing to matters being stricken out that he would be were it purely a committee of this House.

But the joint committee agreed upon this bill; the Senate members of it reported the bill to the Senate; and if it is the pleasure of the Senate that the words "or both" shall be stricken out, it will not meet with any opposition on my part.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Colorado desire to have his motion to strike out section 33 considered as pending?

Mr. TELLER. I want it pending, Mr. President. I desire to have a record made of it, so that it will not escape the notice of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair so understands.

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President, I merely wish to add a word in response to what the Senator from Oregon suggested, that there was a uniformity in this matter of imposing penalties. If the Senator will look at section 42, where the penalty is doubled, and then go to the previous section—41—where the penalty is reduced from five years to three years and with the limit practically taken off of the monetary penalty, he will see there that it does not provide uniformity, but it does away with uniformity.

Whether the amendment I have offered to strike out those words is right I do not know. We have not had sufficient discussion of the question here this afternoon to know whether it is right to double the penalty for that offense. I confess that reading through that section, as I have the second time, and then reading through the section just previous—and I have read that the second time, the one where the penalty is increased, doubled, and the other where it is decreased—I am not certain but that the offense for which the penalty has been decreased is a more heinous offense than the one for which the penalty has been increased.

That is the thing to which I object—going through the bill in this way; the committee reporting, as it says, and not agreeing to what the Commission has done; yet, so far as those sections are concerned, unless somebody comes in here and moves to strike them out, we will adopt what the Commission has done against the recommendation almost or against the ideas of the committee, just by this process of adopting the bill. That is why I called attention to this matter here.

The Senator says that he does not know that this is right; that he would just as soon that it be stricken out; as I understood him, that it really did not meet with his approval. Suppose we go on just as we are doing now, I will ask the Senator, and pass these sections as we read them, have not we adopted them, unless we strike them out?

Mr. HEYBURN. I would be glad to have the Senator from Nebraska suggest some other method of proceeding within the parliamentary rules of this body than that which we have adopted. We are reading this bill as we read other bills—by sections. We are giving an opportunity to every member of this body to interpose any objection that he may desire to interpose, and where he does not interpose any objection, the body has a right to take it for granted that no objection is intended to be made, and we pass the section. Any member may ask the Senate to recur, for further consideration, to a section which has been passed, or it may be called to the attention of the Senate when the bill is reported from the Committee of the Whole.

I do not understand the point of the Senator's criticism, because I have indicated that I was perfectly willing, if it was the pleasure of the Senate, to allow the amendment to pass unchallenged and without debate. I do not see that that is any reflection upon the work of the committee. The committee was instructed to consider the report of the Commission. That was the language of the authority given to the committee. It was given no original authority distinct and separate from the work of the Commission. It is a joint committee. The Commission had reported, and had reported these words to which the Senator objects. The committee, in considering the report of the Commission, did not deem that such a suggestion should be repudiated by the committee. If the Senate differs from the committee in that regard, let the matter take the ordinary course, and let it be amended on motion of some Senator. The matter will not be amended unless some Senator proposes to amend it. That is certain, under the rules of legislation.

The Senator has intimated that other sections would come within the same class. We are here for the purpose of legislating. The Senator is giving vigilant attention to it, following it as it is read; and there is no objection to his proposing to amend any section. Only let us proceed so that the work we do will amount to something, and that when we have passed a section or passed a chapter we shall have accomplished something definite and not leave it all suspended and undetermined. There is no other profitable way of considering this bill than to read it as we are now reading it for amendment, and if no amendments are proposed that we dispose of it as in Committee of the Whole, subject always to be recurred to on the motion of any Senator. I know no other way in which the bill can be considered.

If the Senator will give careful study to the work that the committee has performed since the 1st of last May, not only the work before this body now, but 1,625 sections of the Revised Statutes in print and ready for consideration to follow this, he will realize that the committee has not been idle. It has given conscientious attention to this subject. It has worked throughout many, many weeks. Personally, I have devoted practically all of my time since the 1st day of May, with careful and competent assistants, to post, revise, and consider these laws. The committee has been in continuous session since the 11th day of November upon this work, and brings in here the fruit of its labor; the best it could give. I hope the Senator will not grow impatient with the committee because he may not agree with all the committee has done, but that he will give this that careful consideration which the committee has a right to expect at the hands of this body.

The suggestion has been made by some Senators that there should be a full Senate. As I believe in every instance the point that the Senate should be present and give attention has been made by Senators who have not been constant in their attendance during the consideration of this measure and who are not contributing to the accomplishment of that very desirable condition. This is the regular order of business. It is right and proper and the committee are entitled to be heard at this time upon the consideration of this bill, and if Senators are so engaged that they can not be present, I do not know of any relief that can be afforded them. The Senate is open and the question is open. So I suggest that we will not be reproached with the fact that the Senate is not full. We are here, the committee is represented, and the measure is before the Senate. Let us proceed, and any amendments that are offered will be given all consideration and respect as far as the committee is concerned.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Nebraska yield to the Senator from Montana?

Mr. BURKETT. Certainly.

Mr. CARTER. I rose to inquire if it would inconvenience the Senator in charge of the bill or the Senator from Nebraska if I should move at this time that the Senate should proceed to the consideration of executive business?

Mr. BURKETT. I will say to the Senator from Montana that I should like to say half a dozen words in response to what the Senator from Idaho said to me in reference to this matter.

I want to say to the Senator that he does not appear to appreciate the confidence the Senate has expressed by apparently going away and letting him have full control of the time this afternoon. I have sat here appreciating, or thinking I did, the work that he has done, and have let section after section be adopted without even questioning why it was done; and I have done so on the supposition that the bill did come here with the recommendation of this committee. Now, the Senator stands up and tells us that these are simply provisions that some commission put on, and he says "they do not have our recommendation," and he says as to one section here "we will not stand for it at all."

Mr. HEYBURN. I can not allow that statement to go unchallenged. If I have been so unfortunate in expressing myself as to create that impression upon the mind of the Senator from Nebraska, I have been unfortunate indeed. I attempted to make plain that even though the committee reported the bill before the Senate we were not inclined to be captious if amendments were proposed. We adopted the work of the Commission because we believed it was wise to do so, and we reported it because we thought it was wise to do so. It does not necessarily follow that we are stubbornly to resist any amendment which any Senator may make. It would probably not be very profitable if we were to attempt to interpose captious objections to amendments that may come from various Senators.

We merely did what the Senate expected us to do when it appointed the committee. We gave respectful attention to the work of the Commission, which was the creature of this body as well.

Mr. BURKETT. I will say to the Senator that I certainly understood him to say in his other remarks that this was the work of the Commission; that it came here without the recommendation, for or against, of the committee. I supposed when this bill came in here, as I stated, that it came with the recommendation of the committee, or at least we would be informed whether or not it was recommended. I should like to ask the Senator a question. So that I may understand it specifically, do I understand the Senator and the committee to recommend the doubling of the penalty in section 42?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes. The Senator understands the committee to recommend it.

Mr. BURKETT. Do I understand the Senator and the committee to recommend reducing the penalty in section 41?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; the committee would not have reported it had they not wanted to be understood as recommending it.

Mr. BURKETT. Yes. I would be glad to have the Senator explain, if he will, if it is not improper—I do not want to impose any undue requirements upon the Senator—why the penalty is doubled in the one section and decreased in the other?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is not doubled in the section to which the Senator refers. The discretionary power vested in the judge who is to sentence the party convicted is enlarged in one respect and is curtailed in the other. Certain elements of the punishment have been omitted, and a larger discretion is given to the judge to impose a penalty under the terms of the sentence—both fine and imprisonment. In the other case the committee evidently considered, and I think I may say without any hesitation it was the opinion of the committee that the penalty should be diminished; that it was larger than was called for by the character of the offenses enumerated in the statute. That was the function of the committee. That is what it was for. It was invested with the power and practically instructed to exercise its judgment with regard to these matters, and it has made its report. It is the conscientious judgment of ten members of the committee—five members of this body and five members of the other body of Congress. They sat for weeks. They took every section of this bill, and on some of the sections they spent as much as two or three days in careful consideration, with a complete law library in the room, which was referred to upon every controverted question, until the law was as clearly sifted down as those ten lawyers on the committe could accomplish it. Probably they have not presented a perfect bill, and while it is probably as perfect as any other ten men would present, it probably is not so perfect as ninety men in this body can conceive of.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I do not understand why the Senator from Nebraska says that the penalty has been decreased in section 41. I do not understand that it has been decreased. I think it is the precise penalty that is provided for by existing law.

Mr. BURKETT. It says three years, and the other penalty is five years. I will say to the Senator if he will read the existing law he will find it says "the preceding section," and therein the penalty is five years.

Mr. HEYBURN. The words "preceding section" do not apply to the section as printed here. The "preceding section" to which it applied was omitted, dropped out; and that is the reason why it was necessary to rewrite the penalty in the section to which the Senator refers.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. If the Senator from Nebraska will permit me, I will call his attention to page 119 of this bill, where he will find section 5450 of the Revised Statutes, which is the preceding section referred to. Section 5451 is found on page 49, opposite section 41, and he will there see that the penalty which is prescribed by section 41 is the precise penalty prescribed by existing law. No change whatever has been made.

REGISTRATION OF TUBERCULOSIS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. CARTER. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. GALLINGER. Will the Senator from Montana withhold the motion for a moment?

Mr. CARTER. Certainly.

Mr. GALLINGER. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 29) to provide for registration of all cases of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia, for free examination of sputum in suspected cases, and for preventing the spread of tuberculosis in said District.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia, with an amendment, on page 3, section 5, line 9, after the word "physician," to insert "if he has such knowledge;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 5. That in case of death from pulmonary or other communicable form of tuberculosis, or the removal from any apartment or premises of a person or persons so afflicted, it shall be the duty of the attending physician, if he has such knowledge, or, if there be no such physician or if such physician be absent, of the owner, lessee, tenant, occupant, or other person in charge of said apartment or premises to notify the health officer, in writing, of such death or removal, within twenty-four hours thereafter, and such apartment or premises shall then be disinfected by the health department at public expense or, if the owner prefers, by the owner to the satisfaction of the health department, and shall not again be occupied until so disinfected.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In line 8, page 1, section 1, before the word "afflicted," I move to strike out "may be" and insert "is," so as to be read "is afflicted."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. CARTER. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 4 o'clock and 33 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Thursday, January 16, 1908, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, January 15, 1908.

The House met at 12 o'clock m.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. HENRY N. COUDEN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

DELIVERY OF MAIL TO MEMBERS.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I present the following report from the Committee on Accounts, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Postmaster of the House is hereby directed, in pursuance of Rule VI, to deliver and collect mail at the offices of Members, officers and employees of the House, and at committee rooms not less than four times per day until otherwise ordered by the House: Provided, That Members may also have mail delivered in the manner now provided so far as may be desired; and such additional number of messengers, not exceeding five, as may be necessary, in the discretion of the Postmaster, to carry out the provisions of this resolution, shall be employed by him during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, to be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, at the rate of $100 per month each, until otherwise provided for by law.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, is this a request for unanimous consent?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, this is not a privileged report, is it?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. PAYNE. It does not seem so to me. It provides that the Postmaster of the House shall deliver mail four times a day. I think that takes it out of the privilege.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I believe I have the floor.

Mr. PAYNE. But I have raised a question of whether the resolution is privileged.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether——

Mr. PAYNE. But I would like to have the question decided. I make the point that it is not a question of privilege.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I understand that the gentleman is asking unanimous consent. I asked him a moment ago if he were, and he said yes.

Mr. PAYNE. I asked the gentleman if it were a matter of privilege, and he said yes.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, this is a privileged report.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Whether it is a privileged question or not, I want to ask the gentleman in charge of it a question.

Mr. PAYNE. But I do not want it debated until it is before the House. I raise the point of order that it is not privileged.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Oh, well, of course I will have to give way until that is determined.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, upon the question of privilege, the House Office Building, I take it, and matters relating to the House Office Building are matters of privilege.

Mr. PAYNE. Not unless reported from the gentleman's committee.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman is mistaken about that. The Committee on Accounts is the committee that has charge of the contingent fund of the House. This is something that will be paid in such a way that it comes properly from the Committee on Accounts. Mail is now delivered—and that is a privileged matter—to the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] and other Members at their homes—not under the control of the House.

Mr. PAYNE. That is all provided for by law. That does not make it a privileged matter.

Mr. MANN. There is no provision of law about it. It is not under the rules of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is prepared to rule. This resolution provides that the Postmaster of the House be directed, in pursuance of Rule VI, to deliver and collect mail at the offices of Members, offices of employees of the House, and at committee rooms not less than four times per day until otherwise ordered by the House. That is one proposition. It is also provided that Members may have mail delivered in the manner now prevailing, so far as may be desired, and also that such additional number of messengers, not exceeding five, as may be necessary, in the discretion of the Postmaster, be employed to carry out the provisions of this resolution during the session of the Sixtieth Congress, those messengers to be paid out of the contingent fund, etc. Rule VI provides that the Postmaster shall superintend the post-office kept in the Capitol for the accommodation of Representatives, Delegates, and officers of the House, and be held responsible for the prompt and safe delivery of their mail.

Clearly the latter part of this resolution, standing alone, is privileged. It provides for the payment out of the contingent fund, and it is for the service provided for by Rule VI. The Chair is perfectly clear that if the first provision, which is mandatory for the distribution of mail four times per day, were left off this resolution, the resolution would be privileged, or if the resolution provided under Rule VI for the performance of the duty of the Postmaster, as provided in Rule VI, and there stopped, and then provided for messengers, it seems to the Chair would then be a privileged matter.

Here is positive direction equivalent to a new rule of the House, or at least providing that there should be so many distributions a day. The Chair is inclined to think that destroys the privilege of the resolution. The Chair reads from the Manual:

> The privilege of the Committee on Accounts is confined to resolutions making expenditures from the contingent fund of the House. * * * A resolution from the Committee on Accounts, relating to management of the House restaurant, was not received, as a matter of privilege.

The Chair is inclined to think the question of privilege is destroyed by the first provision of the resolution. By unanimous consent, if the House desires to grant it, it is in the power of the House to consider the resolution.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I will ask unanimous consent, then, to amend the resolution.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object——

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I will ask unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution. It is a matter in which every Member of the House is interested, and of course if the House does not choose to pass it for their own convenience, it is no advantage to the Committee on Accounts. It will expedite our work, and it is necessary that they have this service for the new Office Building.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I desire to ask the gentleman a question.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes, sir.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I understand that additional messengers, additional places, are provided for by the resolution for the delivery of this mail.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Five additional places.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Now, the question I want to ask is this: If these places are additional to those that were had during the last Congress, what makes this addition advisable or necessary?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. On account of having their mail delivered at this new Office Building. As it is now, there are on the mail force of the Post-Office Department twelve annual and eight session carriers. I have made some investigation of this and find it takes all the time of these men to deliver the mail to the different residences and hotels of Members. Now, on account of this new Office Building, you need your mail delivered there at least four times a day, namely, one mail comes in at 9 o'clock, 10.30, 12, and 2.30. Now, the Members while they are in this new Office Building can have their mail delivered there, which will require four carriers, and the additional carrier is for the collection of the mail from that building. The Postmaster of the House told me he did not have the men to perform this extra service and at the same time deliver the Members' mail as heretofore. But he said almost 75 per cent of the Members had asked that their mail be delivered to the new Office Building.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I had an idea that the new Office Building, on account of delivery of mail so close to the post-office here, would probably decrease the number of employees that would be needed instead of increasing them. Is this the unanimous report of this committee? Did the minority members join in that recommendation?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes, sir; this is a unanimous report, after a thorough investigation by the minority members as well as myself, and if the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. BARTLETT], who was on the subcommittee and thoroughly investigated this matter, were here to make a statement, I think he would make the same statement I do in reference to it.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I have found so often that a Member of Congress who is not a member of a committee, thinking he was perfectly right, but without the evidence members of the committee had had, was wrong, and in view of the statement that it is a unanimous report, I will not object, but it does seem to me that if the new Office Building is going to be a cause of increased expense all the time instead of decreasing the expense, as we thought it would, it was a greater folly than I thought it was at the time.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, there are mail chutes provided in the new Office Building, and after the assignment of rooms the other day it was ascertained that although no provision had been made for the collection of mail there, Members very naturally thought they could put letters in the mail chutes, and I went to the Postmaster of the House and asked him if he would collect the mail, and he said he had no one he could spare for that purpose, and I asked him to collect the mail, agreeing to stand for the expense if the House did not choose to do so, so that that matter will be provided for whether the House passes this resolution or not for the present. [Applause.] As to whether there is finally to be a reduction of force by reason of the Office Building in the delivery of mail, that is another proposition.

In the consideration of this matter by our committee, which originally suggested it to the Committee on Accounts, we did not feel prepared to say that the mail now delivered to Members at their hotels or offices or homes should be discontinued, and no one can yet tell how much the mail now delivered at homes will be discontinued. It is my own judgment that in a short time, probably before the end of this session, there will be so much mail delivered at the Office Building and so little delivered at the homes that the number of persons on the Postmaster's roll will in the end be decreased below what it now is rather than increased.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I wish to ask my friend a question. He and I have been here quite a long time. Does the gentleman recall any instance where a roll was ever decreased during our mutual term of service? After a fellow once gets on it, does he ever get off of it?

Mr. MANN. I will say to the gentleman that I do know of instances where rolls have been decreased. For instance, we provide for session employees one session which are not provided for at the next session. About half of the present force of the Postmaster are session employees, and this matter is still left under the control of the House; so that if the mail can be delivered with a fewer number of employees in the new office building, I think there is no reason why they should not be discontinued, and I think they will be discontinued.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I agree with the gentleman. There is no reason why they should not be.

Mr. PAYNE. Will the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] allow me a moment?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE]?

Mr. MANN. Certainly.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I made this point of order, not so much to object or block the resolution, as in the interest of enforcing the rules of the House and cautioning the Committee on Accounts from encroaching beyond their jurisdiction in these matters. Of course I have not the slightest objection to the Members of the House being accommodated in the new Office Building. They have my sympathy.

Mr. MANN. And I trust they will soon have the gentleman's presence.

Mr. PAYNE. I want to make it pleasant for them. Still it occurs to me there is not any necessity for this large force. If the Member who now has mail delivered at his hotel desires to have it at the office, it seems to me that it is as easy for the messenger who delivers the mail at the hotel to deliver it at the Office Building.

Mr. NORRIS. Will the gentleman permit an interruption there?

Mr. PAYNE. Wait until I make my statement. If it is said in answer to this that this resolution requires the mail to be delivered four times a day instead of twice, as now, I wonder what these messengers were doing in the meantime, when they were not making a delivery of the mail in the morning and again in the afternoon to the Members at their hotels, and whether they could not be profitably employed in the meantime in making two extra deliveries to gentlemen who have offices in the new Office Building? It occurred to me that possibly this large number of five additional employees are not necessary. But my friend from Illinois [Mr. MANN], who is an economist, as well as a statesman, seems to favor this resolution. He has looked into it, and has more knowledge upon the subject, perhaps, than any other Member of the House, and I generally defer to his good judgment in such matters, as I do now. Only I caution him——

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. And is now personally behind the extra expense.

Mr. PAYNE. I will caution him that in making new employees, while it is easy to increase the number, it is the most difficult thing in the world to separate any one of them from his job after he begins to get a salary.

Mr. TAWNEY. Will the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] yield to me now?

Mr. PAYNE. Certainly.

Mr. TAWNEY. I wanted to give the gentleman from New York a little information.

Mr. PAYNE. With the consent, of course, of the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. HUGHES].

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. TAWNEY. I just want to ask the gentleman from New York a question.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I yield for a question, certainly.

Mr. TAWNEY. The gentleman stated that these messengers who are now making the two deliveries of the mail were not necessarily employed all the time. I want to state for the information of the gentleman that these messengers commence work at 4 o'clock in the morning and they work practically all day until 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening. They must go to the city office at 4 o'clock in the morning and commence making up their mail.

Mr. WILLIAMS. That is a violation of the eight-hour law.

Mr. TAWNEY. That is a subject that the gentleman ought to look into.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield for another statement which may be of interest to the House?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will.

Mr. MANN. I may say to the House that there will undoubtedly be presented to the House from the special committee, as soon as the matter can be worked out, a proposition to remove the post-office from its present inadequate quarters in this building to the new building and to put there a working post-office, which will necessarily involve the delivery of mail, instead of having Members go to the post-office for their mail, as many of them now do. In the end it will undoubtedly result, if that plan is carried out, in a reduction of force and a reduction in the handling and the rehandling of mail and an expedition in the delivery of it.

Mr. NORRIS. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Certainly.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I demand the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Alabama demands the regular order.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. That is equivalent to an objection, is it not?

Mr. NORRIS. The gentleman has asked unanimous consent.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I demanded the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Alabama demanded the regular order. The regular order is, Is there objection to the consideration of this resolution?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. The demand for the regular order is an objection, according to the rules of the House.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be re-referred to the committee.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has not succeeded in getting unanimous consent and the resolution is as if it had not been presented.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry. This is a report from the Committee on Accounts. It provides for a payment out of the contingent fund until otherwise provided by law.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Georgia has just come into the House——

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Yes.

The SPEAKER. A point of order has been sustained, on account of the first clause in the provision, which destroys the privilege of the resolution.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement of two minutes. Will the gentleman from Alabama withhold his call for the regular order?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I will state to my friend from Georgia that I am perfectly willing to withhold the point of order, if he wants to talk.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. I do not desire to talk——

Mr. UNDERWOOD. But it seems to me the discussion that has already taken place has made evident the fact that the employment of these five additional men is not needed by the Members of the House; that it will be an additional expense, and that very shortly the post-office will be moved from this building, and all this will be obviated.

Mr. MANN. Not this session. It will be impossible to move it this session. The gentleman can make his objection if he chooses.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia for two minutes? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I have just come into the House. I was unavoidably and providentially detained. It is not often in the thirteen years of my service here that I have ever been absent from this House at any time.

Mr. Speaker, I have agreed to a favorable report on this resolution, and I think it ought to pass. As a member of the minority on that committee for nearly fourteen years, I have undertaken to scrutinize every resolution and to see that no unnecessary expense was incurred by this House, and I think the members of that committee who have served with me during that time, and the Members of the House as well, will bear me out that I have never favored any proposition which unnecessarily increased the expenses of the House from its contingent fund.

Here we have a post-office force which is engaged all the time in delivering the mail at the residences and offices of the Members under the old arrangement. Mail is not delivered at all at the new Office Building, and it can not be done with the present force.

I do not know how other gentlemen obtain their mail, but I know that I or my secretary have to come for it and carry it over to the new Office Building.

I am content to let that arrangement remain as it is if satisfactory to the Members of this House, but throughout the long service I have had here I have always found that the expenditure of money for the convenience and aid of Members in the discharge of their duties could never be regarded as extravagant expenditure of the public money. I know that my own constituency, and I believe the constituency of every Member of this House, will approve of the proper expenditure of money when it aids him in transacting the public business for which he is sent here. I have simply done this, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, to let you understand that in approving this resolution, and reporting it favorably, I did so after full investigation and inquiry as to the facts, and after having the Postmaster and officials of the House before us. I think it ought to pass, and I think it is not an unnecessary expenditure of the public money.

Mr. UNDERWOOD rose.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Alabama withdraw his point of order?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. If debate is going on, Mr. Speaker, I will say——

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I demand the regular order.

JANITORS FOR COMMITTEE ROOMS.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I present the following resolution, which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

RESOLUTION IN LIEU OF HOUSE RESOLUTION 108.

Resolved, That there shall be paid, out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of janitors to care for the rooms of the following-named committees during the Sixtieth Congress, compensation at the rate of $60 per month each, viz: Census, Enrolled Bills, Immigration and Naturalization, Patents, and Revision of the Laws.

Said janitors, under the direction of the Doorkeeper, shall also perform messenger service to said committees, and their pay shall commence from December 2, 1907, or from such other time thereafter as they entered upon the discharge of their duties, which shall be ascertained and evidenced by the chairmen of the said committees, who shall appoint said janitors.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if these are new places, or are they places provided for by law.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. These committees all had session janitors in the last Congress.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. Only one new place.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Which is the new one?

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. It is for the Committee on Improvement of the Mississippi River. That is a new place.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of gentlemen that these committees have lately been allowed annual clerks, and, according to custom, they are entitled to annual janitors; that is what this provides for. They should have been provided for in the current legislative appropriation bill if the custom had been followed, but they were omitted from that bill, and we seek to provide for them in this way.

Mr. MANN. If the gentleman from West Virginia will pardon me——

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. MANN. I only want to say a word to the gentleman, that is all. There have been some assignment of committees, and there will be some additional assignment to committee rooms. In the past some committees have had janitors for two or three rooms, and it seems to me that it would be wise to wait until the committees are all assigned before you start in to provide janitors for these committee rooms, when, in fact, some janitors ought to take care of more than one committee room.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. We have a resolution which provides for janitors taking care of more than one room. This resolution simply provides for janitors for committees that have annual clerks, taking care of them by this method because the current appropriation law failed to do it in these instances.

Mr. MANN. The committee that the gentleman mentioned does not have an annual clerk.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. What committee does the gentleman refer to?

Mr. MANN. The one that the gentleman from Georgia mentioned. The gentleman reported a resolution this week providing that it should have a session clerk.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Here are the committees mentioned in this resolution, and I will show the gentleman that he is in error. The committees are the Committee on Census, Committee on Enrolled Bills, Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, Committee on Patents, and Committee on Revision of the Laws.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman from Georgia named the Committee on Improvement of the Mississippi River.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. I will say to the gentleman that I was mistaken. I thought the committees included the Committee on Improvement of the Mississippi River.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Which is the new janitor?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. None of these are new janitors. They all had session janitors when they had session clerks, but these committees have had annual clerks, and they are entitled to annual janitors for the reason I have stated.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Have all of these committees been given annual clerks?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes, sir.

Mr. WILLIAMS. And now you want to give them annual janitors?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes; according to the custom; and later on they should be carried in the legislative bill along with other committees of the same class which are so provided for.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Is the report a unanimous one?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

JANITORS FOR COMMITTEES.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from West Virginia, chairman of the Committee on Accounts, reports from that committee the following resolution, which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That there shall be paid, out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of janitors to care for the rooms of the following-named committees compensation at the rate of $60 per month during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, viz.:

One to the Committee on Education.

One to the Committee on Levees and Improvements of the Mississippi River and the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service.

One to the Committee on Mines and Mining and the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture.

One to the Committee on the Election of President, Vice-President, and Representatives in Congress and the Committee on Expenditures in the Interior Department.

One to the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions and the Committee on Manufactures.

One to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures and the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department.

One to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

One to the Committee on the Militia and the Committee on Mileage.

One to the Committee on Expenditures on Public Buildings and the Committee on Ventilation and Acoustics.

One to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice and the Committee on Expenditures in the Post-Office Department.

One to the Committee on the Disposition of Useless Papers in the Executive Departments and the Committee on Alcoholic Liquor Traffic.

One to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Commerce and Labor and the Committee on Expenditures in the State Department.

One to the Committee on the Pacific Railroads.

One to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

The pay of said janitors shall begin from December 2, 1907, or from such other time thereafter as they entered upon the discharge of their duties, which shall be ascertained and evidenced by the certificate of the chairman of the first-named committees, who shall appoint said janitors.

All janitors herein and hereafter authorized, and those whose employment is authorized by law for committees, shall, in the case of each committee assigned to quarters in the House of Representatives Office Building, as well as in the House wing of the Capitol, be under the control of the Doorkeeper of the House, as now provided by law, and shall perform all of the duties required of messengers, subject to the approval of the Committee on Accounts.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman from West Virginia a question. I would like to ask if this is not an entire new force that is being provided for?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. No. I will say for the information of the gentleman that there is only one additional janitor in excess of the number authorized in the last Congress, and the reason is that in providing janitors for committees in the Capitol and the new Office Building, the rearrangement of rooms which has been going on, it was found necessary to make one additional place; and I would further state that many of these janitors have more than one room to take care of.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I would ask the gentleman if in providing for these janitors they are simply to take care of these particular committee rooms, or is it a force to take care of the entire building over there?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. They have nothing at all to do with the building itself. They will take care of the committee rooms here and in the Office Building and do the messenger service for those rooms.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. In other words, then, the resolution is to provide the chairman of the committee, already having a committee clerk, who gets the pay of a committee clerk, with a janitor. This is to provide the chairman of the Committee on Acoustics or the chairman of the Committee on War Claims with a janitor to run his errands for a committee that never has any meetings. Is that the proposition?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that not all of the committees mentioned in the resolution have clerks. The majority of them have not, or 15 of the 24.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. But the Member has his individual clerk.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. He has his secretary, not his clerk.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Yes, his secretary; and the meetings of those committees read in that list are very seldom. It is merely a sinecure, and the room will be cleaned up by the general janitor force of the new Office Building, will it not?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. The gentleman is entirely mistaken. Of the committees on this list, take, for instance, the Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President and Representatives in Congress. That committee has a great many meetings. The chairman of that committee is here, and he can tell the gentleman how many meetings they have. I have no way of ascertaining how often committees meet.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I recognize that is an important committee.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. And the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures has a great many meetings.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I have no objection in the world to providing messengers, because that is what the janitor is for. He does not clean the rooms. He is a messenger, and I have no objection to the gentleman providing for a messenger for a live committee that needs a messenger, but I do object to providing a messenger for dead committees that never meet and never will meet, merely for the purpose of giving patronage to some Member of the House. I do not think the resolution in its present form should be passed.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Does the gentleman think, then, that because a man has a private secretary and has a committee room, his private secretary should clean the room for him?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. No, I do not; but I understood the gentleman to say there would be a general force in the Office Building to clean all the rooms. As I understand, it merely gives the man who has a committee a janitor to do nothing, or a messenger to do nothing, except to attend to the private affairs of that Member.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Does the gentleman understand that a majority of these committees are in the Capitol building and will remain here?

Mr. UNDERWOOD. No, I do not. I said I had no objection to the resolution that would provide messengers for live committees, but a great many of the committees named in that resolution are dead committees that have not met for twenty years and that will not meet for twenty years to come.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I yield now to the gentleman from New York [Mr. FITZGERALD].

Mr. FIZGERALD. Under the law the commission that has charge of the construction of the Office Building has been allotting a certain sum of money to take charge of the building and keep it clean until the beginning of the next fiscal year. The janitor service is now being done by that commission under the appropriation. Does the gentleman mean to inform the House that these janitors will supplant the cleaners now working under the direction of the Superintendent of the Capitol in the cleaning of these office rooms in the new building?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that I understand charwomen probably will be provided for the Office Building and that they will have nothing to do with the committee rooms, but will clean the corridors and office rooms. The chairmen of the committees prefer to have their own janitors and have their own rooms cleaned that way. They know their own men and can trust them. This matter was gone over fully by the Committee on Accounts with the superintendent of the new Office Building, and after consultation with him by the members of the Committee on Accounts we decided that this was the most economical and efficient way that this service can be given, and therefore we brought in this report. This plan worked satisfactorily in the last Congress, and its general features remain as then.

Mr. PAYNE. I would like to ask the gentleman a question. The gentleman says that there is no provision for carrying on this service, so of course any gentleman occupying an office there would either have to have his secretary do it or do it himself. Now, what provision has been made for cleaning each individual office room?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. It will be done by the superintendent of the new Office Building; charwomen will take charge of the cleaning there.

Mr. FITZGERALD. That was done out of the appropriation placed at the disposal of the commission.

Mr. PAYNE. That was what I was trying to get from the gentleman—what was necessary. I would like to know if he has conferred with the Superintendent of the Capitol to find out whether there is any proportion between our janitors to chairmen of committees here in the Capitol and for the offices in the new Office Building, to see if he could not learn a lesson of economy from the Superintendent of the Capitol who has charge of the Office Building.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that the committee went over that with the Superintendent of the Capitol building, and this was the unanimous report after making a full investigation: That it would be necessary still to continue the janitors to these committees. We have provided that 14 janitors shall have the care of and perform messenger service for 24 committee rooms, and in some instances a committee has more than one room. One janitor will serve two rooms, wherever it has been found practicable to make that arrangement.

Mr. PAYNE. In my experience I should say that if one is live and the other is not there is mighty little distinction in some of them between the live and dead one; so near, it must be the "live" one is in the last gasp.

Mr. GARRETT. If, as the gentleman from New York [Mr. FITZGERALD] stated——

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. GARRETT. I want to ask a question. If, as the gentleman from New York stated, that provision has already been made and the money already appropriated and allotted to those having in charge the construction of that building to keep all these rooms clean, and this resolution passes appointing janitors to also keep the same rooms clean, are we not paying doubly for that work?

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. Will my colleague allow me this question? What reason is there for having different rules established with reference to taking care of committee rooms in the new building and taking care of committee rooms in the Capitol?

The committees that have meetings in the Capitol have janitors and have precisely the same service which is sought to be given committees in the new building. If I understand the statement of the chairman of the Committee on Accounts, there is only one new place provided for, and all of these men who have been mentioned in this resolution are simply to fill places which were filled in precisely the same way in the last session and in previous sessions of Congress. It might be economical to have the committee rooms of the House cleaned by charwomen and get rid of the janitor service, but if that plan is to be entered upon I submit to the gentleman whether it is not fair and proper that it should be done with reference to committee rooms in the Capitol as well as those in the new building. I fail to see the ground of this complaint and the distinction which is sought to be made.

Mr. GARRETT. I was directing my inquiry as to those rooms in the new Office Building. It has been stated here by the gentleman from New York [Mr. FITZGERALD], a member of the Committee on Appropriations, that provision has been made and moneys allotted whereby those having in charge the construction of that building are to keep all the rooms in it clean up until a certain time. Now, as regards those rooms, ought we not, if we provide for these janitors here, to have at least a drawback as to those particular rooms over there?

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. If my colleague will permit, I do not understand that he intended to say that any money will be expended under that appropriation for taking care of rooms which are to be cared for by janitors under this resolution. And I again submit to the gentleman and to Members of the House generally, if it is proposed that the active committees, even though they be not so important as some others, are to be denied janitor service in the new building, ought not the Committee on Accounts to bring in a resolution here denying janitor service to committees in the Capitol? What is the reason for the distinction?

Mr. GARRETT. Well, that is for the Committee on Accounts to determine.

Mr. MANN. I think the gentleman has an erroneous idea of appropriation for the care of the new building. So far there has been no money drawn out of that appropriation. It will undoubtedly be used. No one yet knows how many people it will take to care for the new building or what the cost will be. All of the arrangements that are now being carried on are purely temporary in their nature, and are carried out by Mr. Woods, Superintendent of the Capitol, in order that he may be able to inform Congress what the expense will be and what force will be required there. And whether this resolution ought to pass or not has nothing to do with this proposition. There will be no duplication of expense in any event.

Mr. GARRETT. Now, that is the thing. There will be no duplication of the expense?

Mr. MANN. There will be no duplication.

Mr. GARRETT. That is a statement which seems to me appropriate to be brought out. This is perhaps, relatively speaking, a minor matter, but I did think it quite important that the House know whether there will be any duplication of expense.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE rose.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. HUGHES] yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. GOLDFOGLE]?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes, sir.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Has the chairman of the Committee on Accounts information ready as to the number of janitors or messengers allotted to the so-called "dead" committees—committees that never meet or that meet about once a session?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. This list will give the number. There are fourteen of them in all and there are twenty-four rooms, and only one additional over last year.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. That is not what I wanted to know. I wanted to know whether the gentleman had ready the list of committees that never met or that meet about once a session, committees that really ought not to exist and that ought to be abolished.

Mr. MANN. If the gentleman had been a member of the special committee on the redistribution of rooms he would have discovered that there are no committees that never meet. There is no committee of the House that is not one of the most important committees of the House.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I appreciate the gentleman's sarcasm. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] interrupted and suggested that every committee was important, something that the Members of this House have yet to discover. Will the chairman of the Committee on Accounts, however, kindly give me the information, if he has it?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Does the gentleman desire the names of the committees that have no meetings?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. No; I know most of the committees have meetings, but I want to know whether the gentleman has a list of the committees that never meet, or that meet about once or twice a session, really doing nothing, but having messengers and janitors.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. Will my colleague permit me?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. If the gentleman will permit the question to be put to the chairman, and I would like the question put, I am sure the gentleman, out of courtesy, will answer the question.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that I have.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. You have?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. How many committees are there of the character I have mentioned who have janitors or messengers?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I want to say that there are none of them.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. Will my colleague permit me, just a moment? The rules of the House determine the duties of committees.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I am afraid the gentleman does not quite catch the inquiry that I have put to him. I do not ask whether committees are important or not. I am able to judge of that for myself; but I want to know how many of the committees that never meet or that meet once a year, whether important or unimportant, have janitors and messengers.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I do not think there are any on this list that have special janitors, and that never meet. There are some that are coupled with other committees. You see, these janitors take care of more than one room.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. For instance, the Committee on the Mississippi River. Has that a messenger or janitor?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. It has.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Does that committee ever meet?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. My information is that that committee will have a great deal of work in this Congress.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Did it ever have before?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. On that I ask for a division.

The House divided, and there were—ayes 135, noes 68.

Accordingly, the resolution was agreed to.

J. D. GRIFFITH AND P. J. GOODE.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I have another resolution from the Committee on Accounts.

The Clerk read as follows:

Whereas Joseph C. McElroy, postmaster of the House of Representatives, died on the 21st day of August, 1907, thereby creating a vacancy in said office, which vacancy remained unfilled until the 2d day of December, 1907, when the House elected a postmaster; and

Whereas J. D. Griffith, assistant postmaster of the House of Representatives, has performed the duties devolving upon the postmaster of the House, and P. J. Goode has performed the duties of assistant postmaster of the House from said 21st day of August, 1907, until the 2d day of December, 1907: Therefore be it

Resolved, That there shall be paid, out of the contingent fund of the House, to said J. D. Griffith $280.01, and to said P. J. Goode $223.89, being the difference, respectively, between the compensation of the assistant postmaster and the postmaster of the House, and the difference between the compensation of a messenger in the post-office and that of the assistant postmaster of the House; the same to be in full payment for the extra services performed as hereinbefore recited.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, is this resolution unanimously reported by the committee?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes. I will say for the information of the House that this is simply to pay the difference between the salary of the assistant postmaster and the postmaster, and also the difference between the salary of one of the clerks and that of assistant postmaster until the new postmaster was appointed, and while these gentlemen were discharging the duties of the higher positions.

The resolution was agreed to.

By unanimous consent the preamble was considered as agreed to.

DANIEL G. DAVIS.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Also the following resolution from the Committee on Accounts.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House is hereby authorized and directed to pay, out of the contingent fund of the House, to Daniel G. Davis the sum of $125, being the amount due him as clerk hire allowance for services rendered the late Hon. George W. Smith, a Representative from Illinois, from November 1 to November 30, 1907, both dates inclusive.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to have a little explanation of that.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. It is the usual resolution.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Is this a Member's clerk?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. WILLIAMS. How did it happen that his salary was not carried right along?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Smith died on the last day of the month. Therefore he was unable to make the certificate for that month, but Mr. Davis performed the full service for the month, and did not get his pay for it.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I have no objection to the resolution.

Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia. It is the usual resolution which is passed in every case where a Member has died.

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I present the following privileged resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House is hereby authorized to pay, out of the contingent fund, to Marie R. English, widow of James F. English, late chief page and pair clerk of the House, a sum equal to six months of his salary as such employee and an additional amount not exceeding $250 for the funeral expenses of said James F. English.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

REVISION OF THE CRIMINAL LAWS.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 11701) to revise and codify the penal laws of the United States.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, with Mr. BANNON in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The House is now in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill for the codification of the criminal law, and the Clerk will read.

Mr. LEAKE. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to turn back to section 81 of the proposed bill.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New Jersey asks unanimous consent to recur to section 81.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I dislike to object, but I think we ought to go through with the bill, and then if there is any request for unanimous consent we can go back.

The CHAIRMAN. Objection is heard. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 87. Every officer, clerk, agent, or employee of the United States, and every person representing himself to be or assuming to act as such officer, clerk, agent, or employee, who, under color of his office, clerkship, agency, or employment, or under color of his pretended or assumed office, clerkship, agency, or employment, is guilty of extortion, and every person who shall attempt any act which if performed would make him guilty of extortion, shall be fined nor more than $500 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

Mr. LEAKE. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word of the section. I understood from the remarks made by the gentleman who is chairman of the committee in charge of this bill that this was a codification of the criminal laws of the United States; that the purpose of it was a systematic codification of the penal statutes, so that those people who are bound by its provisions might have a convenient reference thereto. I think most of the gentlemen on my side of the House have been led to believe that this codification includes the greater part of the penal statutes of this country, and that at least under these general subdivisions in the bill all penal sections relating to these subdivisions are included.

I read over some of the sections last night, and I have been surprised to find a number of important omissions from the code of penal statutes now on the statute books of the United States. I desire to call the attention of the committee to several of them. I do not know whether I was misled by the optimistic remarks of the chairman in charge of the bill or whether the codification itself falls far short of what is now regarded among lawyers as a scientific codification of the laws.

I find, for example, under sections 233 and 241, inclusive, a number of sections which are included under the title "Offenses against foreign and interstate commerce." I would like the committee to state why, under that title, these sections which are included in our statute laws providing for penalties for the violation of interstate-commerce laws, unjust discrimination, and rebating are not included within that title.

I also notice that under the general subdivision of "Offenses against the Government" there are a number of sections, from section 78 to section 83, inclusive, relating to crimes against the naturalization law, but I find that the act of 1895 providing that a man who aided or abetted an anarchist to become a naturalized citizen of the United States should be punished by a fine of a certain amount and imprisonment for one year or less than ten years has been omitted. I would like to afford this opportunity to the committee to state why these important statutes are not included under the broad general subdivisions in the bill. I fear that if the country understands that we are passing a criminal code it will be disappointed to discover when they look under the title "Offenses against interstate and foreign commerce" the omission of penalties for rebating, and the gentleman from Syracuse University will take great delight in finding so soon after the distribution of his book on The Raid on Prosperity that Congress had not included in its penal code the provisions of the law under which the Standard Oil Company had been fined $29,000,000. [Applause.]

Mr. SHERLEY. Mr. Chairman, in answer to the very proper inquiry made by the gentleman from New Jersey, I will say that in the opening statement I made when the bill was first brought up in the Committee of the Whole House I called attention to the fact that there were many penal sections not included in this bill and that the reason of that was that these sections were so intimately related to administration-law features or were so linked with provisions not penal as to make their separation exceedingly difficult. The gentleman from New Jersey will appreciate that in a revision of this kind there will be cases where there is some doubt of the wisdom of taking them out of their place in the general law which they occupy and putting them into the penal laws or leaving them there.

We have tried to bring together those laws of a general penal nature that we thought could be grouped together without any injury to their meaning or without any liability of changing the law, and we publish, and I hold in my hand here, a statement which I had intended to put in the RECORD the other day, but did not then have, stating the general laws of the United States having criminal provisions not severable from the context that are not included in the penal code. The laws that the gentleman speaks of in regard to interstate commerce, a great many laws in regard to internal revenue, quite a number in regard to customs, are not included, but the gentleman will also understand that in the adoption of this code, if it should be adopted, there will in no sense be a repeal of any of these laws. The repealing clause of this bill relates only to those laws that we have carried into this codification, and I believe that if the gentleman will examine these laws in detail he will see the difficulty of taking them out of their present context and putting them in this penal code. That is a matter of exceeding difficulty, and the committee in some cases no doubt has made a mistake; in some cases there are probably some laws that could properly have come into this penal revision. In other cases, however, the committee was clearly right in not doing it. We have undertaken in all cases to act along what seemed to be the most practicable, feasible line, and I shall ask permission of the committee to print with my remarks a detailed statement showing every section of the law which has a penal provision to it, but which is not carried into this provision.

Mr. LEAKE. Will the gentleman state to me what method the committee adopted in determining whether a penal statute should be included within this penal code or whether it should be left to the further revisions which I understand are coming later? For I find, if the gentleman will permit me, that under the section named as offenses against interstate commerce the committee has taken there a statute relating to lottery, a provision against the carrying of lottery tickets, while the committee has not taken from the general interstate commerce act the penal offense, which is just as important as the importation or carrying of lottery tickets, namely, that of carrying birds by carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

Mr. SHERLEY. In answer to the gentleman, the very importance of the statute was one of the reasons we did not bring it into this bill. The statute the gentleman speaks of in regard to the provision of carrying in the mails lottery tickets and also in interstate commerce was a penal statute existing as such and freed from any law of a general nature. But what is known as the law in regard to conspiracies in restraint of trade in interstate commerce contains not only penal provisions, but quite a number of others. It would have been a very difficult matter and one involving a great danger to have undertaken to separate the penal provisions, and we might in doing that have unconsciously weakened one of the most important laws upon the statute books. So that the committee felt it was exercising a wise discretion in a law of such superlative importance as that to leave it as it exists with the criminal and general provisions together rather than to undertake in the furtherance of what might seem a scientific arrangement to separate it when by separating it we might mutilate it.

Mr. LEAKE. Will the gentleman state whether or not it is a fact that in the codification of laws of various States of the Union, in which the State of New York has been the pioneer, it is not the recognized and scientific method of codification to include in the criminal code all the penal statutes of the State?

Mr. SHERLEY. In answer to that, I can only say that I am not specially familiar with the penal laws of the State of New York, but I can say to the gentleman this, that if he will himself take the trouble to simply look over some of the penal laws that are not included in this revision, he will see at a glance the impracticability of bringing them in this penal code unless we duplicate existing laws, or unless we so separate law as to involve very largely its efficiency and the purpose for which it was enacted. The gentleman will understand, for instance, in regard to internal revenue, that there are a lot of provisions that punish a distiller for operating his distillery except in accordance with certain laws provided. Now, if you undertake to take the penal part of that law away, you would have to then refer to other internal-revenue laws in order to know what it related to, or you would have to reenact all of the several provisions of the internal-revenue law; and it seemed to us, confronted with that dilemma, that it was wiser and more sensible to do as we have done, to take those laws that were purely penal and bring them together and to leave those laws that were partially penal, partially administrative and civil as they are.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I ask unanimous consent that the time of the gentleman may be extended for five minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. LEAKE. We have had this criminal code up for only a short time, and of course we are not as familiar with the general subject included in it as members of the committee who have been studying it for several months. I recollect that there is a statute which provides that a man who violates a safe passport given by this country to a foreigner traveling within the borders of the land, or any person who assaults the holder of such a passport, is subject to a higher punishment than a man who commits the same crime against an ordinary citizen. Now, why was that statute not included under these sections included under the subject of "offenses against the Government?"

Mr. SHERLEY. Of course the gentleman will not expect me on the moment to be able to tell him the exact provisions of every statute. And I can only answer the gentleman in this way: I presume, and I am inclined to think, a reference will show that that penal provision was coupled with a lot of other provisions relating to the issuing of passports, and relates to a matter which a person looking for the law would naturally look for not under the criminal title, but under the civil title relating to State Department matters.

Mr. LEAKE. My criticism is directed against the practice of bringing in here a lot of penal statutes and creating the impression that this is a penal code, and leaving out a lot of other penal statutes which might properly be classified under the same heading. We have no means of knowing at the present time whether the committee is going to mark "obsolete" the provisions which are omitted from this codification which are part of the statutes to-day. We have had a good deal of discussion here, for example, over the subject of conspiracy against laborers. Now, I understand, there is a statute on the books of the United States providing that a man who induces another to accept employment with him and makes it a condition of that employment that he shall join some organization, the purpose of which is to release the employer from liability, or where an employer discriminates against an employee because the employee is a member of a labor union, that the employer shall be guilty of a conspiracy. Now, we have a lot of other conspiracies classified under one heading here, and you do not include the conspiracies I have just mentioned.

Mr. SHERLEY. Again I must say to the gentleman in perfect good faith that if he will examine these sections he will find the task he sets the committee is an impossible task. Theoretically it would be ideal to have in one codification what might be called all the penal laws; practically when he would undertake to do what he is criticising the committee for not doing he would find it an impossible task. Now, if the gentleman will permit me——

Mr. LEAKE. Just a moment, and let me finish my statement. I do not think we can come to any agreement, but I would like to register, just as a matter of judgment, that by comparing the criminal code submitted by this committee with the criminal codes of the States of New York and New Jersey it will be found that this code under consideration is not what would be considered a scientific codification, and I would be sorry to see this Congress, with so many lawyers in it, submit a code which, in my judgment, is so inferior to the codes which have been adopted by the legislatures of the States of New York and New Jersey.

Mr. SHERLEY. Mr. Chairman, it is perhaps needless to reply to the criticisms of the committee. The committee has exercised the very best judgment. We did not hope that that judgment would be concurred in by every Member of this House, but we did believe, and still believe, that those gentlemen who desire not simply to criticise the committee, but to deal fairly with it, when they examine the concrete conditions which confronted the committee and not the imaginary conditions which did not confront the committee, will come to the conclusion the committee have acted wisely in not undertaking to separate penal provisions from general statutes where the penal provision was simply an incident, though a very important one, to the general statute, because, naturally, people looking into that subject will look under the title to which it appertains. There they will find all the law and find it very much more simply than if we undertook to do this. We have prepared a statement, so that the House will not be, in any sense, misled. Should the Congress further empower the committee to proceed with this revision and adopt its work, there will be had a complete revision, that, in my judgment, will be scientific, and enable the people of America to know the existing statute law.

It is very easy to suggest criticisms of the committee; very much easier than to solve the problems the committee had to deal with, and we believe a proper consideration of these matters will vindicate the judgment exercised in this regard.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to print as a part of my remarks a statement showing the sections containing penal provisions and not included in this penal code.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

The statement is as follows:

General laws of the United States having criminal provisions not severable from the context, not included in the penal code.

TITLE II.

THE CONGRESS.

| | Sec. |
|---|---|
| Chapter Six.—The Library of Congress. | |
| Stealing or injuring books of Library of Congress | 157 |
| Chapter Seven.—Congressional investigations. | |
| Witness refusing to testify in Congressional inquiry | 165 |
| Chapter Eight.—Contested elections. | |
| Witness refusing to testify in contested-election case | 184 |
| Failure to deliver up papers in contested-election case | 191 |

TITLE VI.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter One.—The Department. | |
| Officers in Treasury Department engaging in trade, etc | 312 |
| Clerks in Treasury Department trading in debts or funds of any State or United States | 313 |

TITLE XII.

THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter Six.—The Bureau of Statistics. | |
| Person transporting commodities to foreign countries failing to deliver manifest to collector of customs | 795 |

TITLE XIV.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter One.—Appointments, qualifications, duties, and payments of clerks and employees. | |
| Officers and employees violating duties concerning examination of applicants | 916 |

TITLE XV.

ESTIMATES AND APPROPRIATIONS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter Two.—Appropriations. | |
| Expenditures not to exceed appropriations; voluntary service, etc., or employment of unauthorized personal service prohibited | 1008 |

TITLE XVI.

THE JUDICIARY.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter Three.—District courts; Removal of causes. | |
| Clerk of State court refusing to give copy of record | 1087 |
| Chapter Four.—District court; Miscellaneous provisions. | |
| Receiver failing to properly manage property | 1112 |
| Chapter Eleven.—District attorneys, marshals, clerks, commissioners, and stenographers. | |
| Clerk of court refusing to make certificate | 1396 |
| Chapter Twelve.—Pay and allowances of court officers, jurors, and witnesses. | |
| Marshal, attorney, or other officer accepting illegal fee | 1445 |
| Chapter Twenty.—Extradition. | |
| Opposing, etc., agent of United States appointed to receive person accused of crime from another State or Territory | 1766 |
| Resisting agent of State or Territory appointed to receive person accused of crime from another State or Territory | 1769 |

TITLE XVII.

THE ARMY.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter Eleven.—Articles of War. | |
| Witness failing to obey subpœna of court-martial | 2250 |

TITLE XXI.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR OFFICERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter Two.—Consular officers. | |
| Consular officer accepting appointment from foreign country as administrator and failing to give bond or account for moneys | 2771 |
| Consular officer exacting excessive fees | 2778 |
| Consular officer making false oath in accounting for fees | 2789 |

Chapter Two.—Consular officers—Continued. Sec.
Consular officer neglecting duty toward seamen; corrupt conduct of 2796
Consular officer making false certificate of property 2797
Chapter Three.—Provisions common to diplomatic and consular officers.
Perjury before consular officer, or forging seal or signature of such officer 2814
Embezzlement by consular officer 2817
Consular officer obtaining money by fraud 2818
Consular officer making unlawful use of official seal 2819

TITLE XXII.

THE PUBLIC LANDS.

Chapter Three.—Registers and receivers.
Witness refusing to appear or testify before register or receiver of land office 2901
Witness refusing to appear or testify before officer taking deposition 2902
Chapter Five.—Homesteads.
Making false affidavit before commanding officer by person in military or naval service 2932
Making false affidavit before U. S. Commissioner 2934
Officer demanding excessive fees for entries and for final proof 2934
Chapter Six.—Mineral lands.
Citizens of certain States and Territories cutting timber for other than specified purposes 3044
Chapter Eight.—Timber and stone lands.
Swearing falsely to application for timber or stone land 3075
Unlawfully cutting timber on public land 3077
Chapter Thirteen.—Forest reservations.
Rules concerning the use and occupancy of forest reservations and penalties for violation 3177
Chapter Fifteen.—Unlawful inclosures.
Enclosing public lands without title; obstructing settlement of or transit over 3236
Chapter Nineteen.—Public lands in Oklahoma.
Fraudulently settling on public lands 3320
Chapter Twenty.—Public lands in Alaska.
Collecting toll unlawfully in Alaska 3353

TITLE XXIII.

DUTIES UPON IMPORTS.

Importing neat cattle 3409

TITLE XXIV.

COLLECTION OF DUTIES.

Chapter One.—Collection districts, ports, and officers.
Merchant refusing to serve as appraiser 3520
Chapter Two.—Qualifications, pay, and duties of officers.
Officer failing to keep table of fees posted up 3549
Officer demanding or receiving greater fee, etc., than allowed by law 3550
Inspector, weigher, gauger, or measurer receiving fee, etc., other than allowed by law 3551
False certification of shipment by inspector or other officer 3551
Customs officers owning vessels or engaging in importation 3552
Customs officers failing to render accounts of expenditures 3553
Customs officers failing to keep and render accounts and records of transactions 3554
Chapter Four.—Revenue-Cutter Service.
Carrying or hoisting pennant or ensign of revenue service by vessel not in service; master liable 3705
Chapter Four.—Entry of merchandise.
Vessel bound for port of delivery failing to pay duties, etc., at port of entry; master liable 3724
Vessel departing from port of arrival before making report of entry; master liable 3725
Master failing to make report of arrival of vessel at port 3726
Master of vessel failing to make special report of spirits and wines 3728
Master neglecting to obtain copy of report from collector 3737
Vessel having more sea stores than in entry; master liable 3751
Concealing dutiable articles in baggage 3756
Master failing to have correct manifest 3763
Master failing to produce manifest upon demand of proper officer 3768
Customs officer failing to certify on back of manifest the production thereof 3768
Master of vessel failing to mail copy of manifest to Auditor for Treasury Department 3770
Master failing to deliver duplicate manifests of merchandise for Mississippi River, etc., ports 3774
Master failing to deliver manifests for merchandise for Mississippi River, etc., ports on arrival at port of entry 3774
Master failing to deliver duplicate manifests of merchandise for ports in district of New Orleans 3775
Master failing to deliver manifests of merchandise for ports in district of New Orleans on arrival at port of entry 3775
Master failing to deliver duplicate manifests on departure from port of entry 3779
Master failing to deliver manifests to surveyor of port on arrival 3780
Vessel bound for Natchez and Vicksburg violating revenue laws 3783
Master failing to deposit manifest 3785
Master refusing to receive inspector 3785
Making false statement in declaration 3794
Making false entry of imported merchandise 3797
Making false invoice 3810
Smuggling merchandise 3811
Uttering forged invoice 3811
Chapter Five.—Unlading.
Unlading without permit 3817
Transferring unlawfully from one vessel to another 3818
Unloading of merchandise at unlawful hours 3823
Inspector neglecting duties 3827
Landing of wines or spirits without endorsement or permit 3833
Obliterating, etc., inspection marks, etc 3836
Sealing, etc., empty casks, etc., before obliteration of inspection marks 3836
Merchandise missing or omitted from manifest 3837
Chapter Six.—Appraisal. Sec.
Swearing falsely before appraiser 3884
Chapter Seven.—The bond and warehouse system.
Failing to remove or destroy, etc., stamps on packages or casks that had contained imported liquors 3921
Selling or having in possession empty cask or package with undestroyed stamp affixed 3922
Altering, defacing, or obliterating mark of revenue officer on package of warehoused merchandise 3946
Unlawfully opening warehouse 3947
Fraudulently removing or concealing warehoused merchandise 3948
Relanding merchandise exported to Mexico or to British North America provinces 3961
Chapter Eight.—Immediate transportation in bond to inland ports.
Opening, breaking, etc., any car, vessel, etc., containing merchandise delivered for transportation 3972
Knowingly receiving merchandise unlawfully removed from car, vessel, etc 3972
Chapter Ten.—Drawback.
Relanding goods entered for drawback 4034
Making false entry for benefit of drawback 4035
Chapter Eleven.—Enforcement of customs laws.
Person in charge of beast or vehicle refusing to allow search 4050
Master obstructing or hindering officer from boarding vessel 4057
Articles separate from cargo missing, or seals broken on arrival at port of entry; master liable 4058
Unlawfully breaking locks and fastenings 4059
Refusing to assist officer in making search 4060
Importing merchandise contrary to law 4070
Knowingly buying, selling, receiving, etc., merchandise imported contrary to law 4071
Officer receiving part of informer's fee, except in smuggling cases 4084
Officer offering to compromise claims for fines, etc 4087
Chapter Twelve.—Commerce with contiguous countries.
Master or other person failing to deliver manifests of goods from contiguous territory 4096
Owner, master, etc., of vessel failing to proceed to places of destination named in manifest 4101
Unauthorized person breaking, etc., sealed packages, etc 4102
Receiving or depositing unlawfully imported merchandise in building on boundary line 4105
Shipping sea stores in excess of amount necessary 4109
Owner failing to report saloon stores 4110
Unlading merchandise taken from one port in United States to another in other than specified hours 4117
Masters of vessels engaged in foreign and domestic trade on northern, etc., frontiers, etc., failing to observe rules in sections 4113 to 4121, inclusive 4122
Registered vessels touching at foreign ports failing to observe laws concerning manifests and report and entry of vessels 4123
Master of vessel failing to observe certain rules of Secretary of Treasury concerning entry of vessels laden with products of British North America provinces 4126

TITLE XXV.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

Chapter One.—Officers.
Internal-revenue officers making false statement or failing to render statement of fees 4159
Internal-revenue officers disclosing operations of manufacturers, etc 4165
Internal-revenue officers or agents becoming interested in certain manufactures 4167
Certain offenses of internal-revenue officers:
Being guilty of extortion, etc., under color of law 4168
Demanding or receiving other or greater fees than those allowed by law 4168
Neglecting to perform duties enjoined by law 4168
Conspiring or colluding to defraud the United States 4168
Making opportunity for person to defraud the United States 4168
Enabling other person to defraud the United States 4168
Permitting violation of law 4168
Making false entry or signing false certificate 4168
Failing to report knowledge of violation of revenue laws 4168
Collectors issuing stamps before collection of tax 4170
District attorney demanding or accepting anything for compromise of violation of internal-revenue laws 4171
Chapter Two.—Assessments and collections.
Owner of premises refusing to admit revenue officers or interfering with same 4183
Making false return to collector 4184
Chapter Three.—Special taxes.
Failing to display special-tax stamp in place of business 4248
Carrying on business as rectifier, liquor dealer, etc., without payment of special tax 4251
Manufacturing oleomargarine without payment of special tax 4252
Manufacturing filled cheese without payment of special tax 4253
Manufacturing adulterated or renovated butter without payment of special tax 4254
Officer collecting special tax for rectifying, etc., on premises less than six hundred feet from distillery 4255
Chapter Four.—Distilled spirits.
Adding substances to distilled spirits to create fictitious proof 4268
Evading tax on distilled spirits 4273
Distiller defrauding or attempting to defraud United States of tax 4274
Failing to register stills 4275
Failing to give notice of intention to carry on business of rectifier or distiller 4276
Distiller failing to give bond 4278
Collector approving bond before regulations are complied with 4279
Setting up still without permit 4284
Distilling on certain prohibited premises 4285
Breaking, etc., locks to cistern room, etc 4287
Failing to keep pipes at distilleries painted as directed 4288

Chapter Four.—Distilled spirits—Continued. Sec.
Building fence exceeding five feet in height around distillery; refusing to furnish key to officer 4295
Obstructing revenue officer from entering distillery 4296
Refusing to facilitate examination by internal-revenue officer 4297
Signs to be put up by distillers, rules concerning and penalties for violation 4299
Carrying grain, etc., to distillery where there is no sign 4299
Failing to give bond for carrying on distillery 4301
Making and selling mash, wort, etc., at unauthorized distillery 4302
Manufacture of vinegar, regulations concerning and penalties for violation 4302
Using still in forbidden hours 4303
Using material, etc., and removing spirits in absence of storekeeper 4304
Distiller refusing to draw off water and clean worm tubs 4306
Gauger employing distiller, etc., to use brands or perform his duties 4313
Gauger making false inspection, etc 4315
Removing or concealing spirits contrary to law 4316
Transfer of spirits, etc., from one warehouse to another; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4323
Removal of fruit brandy to special warehouse; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4327
Removal of distilled spirits from distillery warehouse to general bonded warehouse; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4338
Officers of scientific institutions using alcohol withdrawn for scientific purposes for other purposes 4339
Removal of distilled spirits from distillery warehouse to sorghum factories; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4341
Reusing stamps or bottles and other violations of law concerning same 4347
Forging or counterfeiting stamps 4348
Storekeeper removing, etc., packages or contents before being stamped or without permission of collector 4351
Making false entries in books of storekeeper or distiller 4356
Issuing false weights 4357
Using unregistered materials 4357
Carrying on business of distiller after time fixed in notice of suspension 4362
Breaking, etc., any lock, seal, etc., to furnace, still, etc 4363
Revenue officer using, etc., stamps, contrary to law 4368
Carrying on business of rectifier, with intent, etc., to defraud the United States 4369
Rules concerning the keeping of books by rectifiers and distillers, and penalties for violation 4370
Purchasing more than twenty gallons of distilled spirits from person other than authorized rectifier 4371
Rectifier or dealer refusing to make return of distilled spirits received and sent out 4374
Failing to efface and destroy stamps, etc 4375
Transportation company carrying empty casks with unefaced stamps 4375
Buying or selling empty casks having inspection marks 4376
Changing stamps; shifting spirits 4377
Affixing imitation stamps on packages of distilled spirits 4378
Removing distilled spirits during unlawful hours 4379
Counterfeiting, altering, or reusing stamps on imitation wines 4380
Unlawfully using wine spirits, etc 4383
Using wine spirits which have not been tax paid 4387
Fraudulently claiming drawback on distilled spirits 4390
Relanding of distilled spirits 4390
Chapter Five.—Fermented liquors.
Owner, etc., of brewery evading tax, etc 4406
Books of brewer; regulations concerning and penalties for violation 4406
Brewer failing to affix and cancel stamps on packages containing fermented liquor 4408
Affixing fraudulent stamp 4408
Selling, removing, etc., fermented liquors in packages without stamp, or with false stamp, or with twice-used stamp 4409
Withdrawing fermented liquor from package without destroying or defacing stamp 4410
Removing lager beer from depot or warehouse without affixing stamp 4411
Making, using, etc., false stamp, die, or permit 4413
Using stamp fraudulently 4413
Removing name of manufacturer on package 4416
Person other than owner removing stamp on package of fermented liquor 4420
Withdrawing fermented liquor from unstamped package for bottling, or unlawfully bottling on brewery premises 4421
Chapter Six.—Tobacco, snuff, and opium.
Tobacco manufacturer failing to procure or post certificate 4428
Tobacco or snuff manufacturer failing to give bond 4428
Manufacturer failing to put up sign 4429
Manufacturer failing to give annual inventory 4431
Books of dealers in leaf tobacco; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4433
Selling or offering for sale tobacco not put up in packages and stamped 4435
Purchasing tobacco or snuff not branded or stamped 4437
Manufacturing tobacco on shares, or by one person for another; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4440
Tobacco and snuff; rules governing the removal and sale of, and penalties for violation 4441
Removing tobacco from manufactory or offering for sale, etc., without stamp 4443
Affixing false stamp, etc 4444
Failing to destroy stamps on empty packages 4445
Selling packages of tobacco or snuff having fraudulent stamp affixed 4445
Importers of cigars and tobacco failing to pay same tax as required of domestic manufacturers 4446
Officer of customs permitting packages of tobacco or snuff to pass from his hands before the provisions of law have been complied with 4446
Dealer in leaf tobacco failing to register 4447

Chapter Six.—Tobacco, snuff, and opium—Continued. Sec.
Peddlers of tobacco failing to obtain and exhibit certificate 4450
Peddling tobacco unlawfully 4451
Relanding tobacco, snuff, etc., shipped for exportation 4452
Rules concerning tax on opium manufactured in United States, and who may engage in manufacture (penalties for violation in sec. 4460) 4456
Rules governing the manufacture of opium (penalties for violation in sec. 4460) 4457
Rules concerning stamps to be affixed to opium imported into United States (penalties for violation in sec. 4460) 4458
Chapter Seven.—Cigars.
Manufacturing cigars without giving bond 4465
Cigar manufacturer failing to display sign 4466
Annual inventory; rules governing, and penalties for violation 4468
Cigars; rules relating to packing, and penalties for violation 4470
Manufacturer of cigars neglecting to affix label to box 4474
Removing cigars from manufactory without properly packing 4475
Using counterfeit stamp, or making fraudulent use of stamp 4475
Cigars manufactured on shares, etc.; rules governing, and penalties for violation 4476
Officer permitting imported cigars to pass out of his hands without compliance with law by the owner 4479
Selling imported cigars not packed according to law 4480
Purchasing, etc., cigars not branded or stamped according to law 4481
Neglecting to destroy stamps on empty boxes or disposing of boxes with undestroyed stamps 4482
Chapter Eight.—Oleomargarine, adulterated butter, and filled cheese.
Rules governing the packing and selling of oleomargarine, and penalties for violation 4489
Manufacturer neglecting to affix label on package containing oleomargarine 4490
Officer of customs permitting packages of oleomargarine to pass out of his hands before owner's compliance with stamp regulations, etc 4492
Removing, defacing, etc., stamps, etc., on packages of oleomargarine 4494
Manufacturer of oleomargarine attempting to defraud United States of tax 4496
Purchasing, etc., oleomargarine not branded, etc., according to law 4497
Purchasing, etc., oleomargarine from manufacturer who has not paid special tax 4498
Failing to destroy stamps on empty oleomargarine packages 4499
Selling empty packages on which stamps are not destroyed 4499
Manufacturer of oleomargarine failing to comply with laws 4500
Selling adulterated butter in other than original packages 4501
Manufacturer neglecting to affix specified label on adulterated butter 4503
Failing to label "renovated" or "process" butter as such 4506
Wholesale dealers in oleomargarine failing to keep books 4507
Filled cheese; rules for packing and retailing, and penalties for violation 4510
Dealers in filled cheese neglecting to display sign 4511
Manufacturer of filled cheese neglecting to affix label 4512
Purchasing filled cheese not branded or stamped 4517
Purchasing filled cheese from manufacturer who has not paid special tax 4518
Failing to destroy stamps on empty packages of filled cheese 4519
Notices, inventories, books, to be kept by manufacturers of filled cheese; rules concerning, and penalties for violation 4520
Chapter Nine.—Mixed flour.
Neglecting to brand, etc., packages of mixed flour 4528
Mixed flour; rules governing the putting up and retailing of, and penalties for violation 4529
Manufacturer of mixed flour neglecting to affix label and notice 4530
Mixed flour; rules for packing in barrels, etc., and penalties for violation 4530
Purchasing, etc., mixed flour that has not been branded, etc 4533
Purchasing mixed flour from maker, etc., who has not paid special tax 4534
Exporter of mixed flour subject to same provisions as maker, etc 4535
Penalty for second offense of violation of laws concerning mixed flour 4538
Chapter Ten.—Banks and bankers.
Banker neglecting to make monthly return 4548
Chapter Eleven.—Playing cards.
Tax stamps on playing cards; rules governing and penalties for violation 4558
Manufacturer of playing cards failing to register 4559
Selling, etc., playing cards without affixing stamp 4561
Removing stamp from playing cards, or fraudulently using stamp 4562
Selling, etc., or concealing, etc., playing cards without stamps 4563
Manufacturer of playing cards failing to pay tax 4564
Chapter Twelve.—Provisions common to several objects of taxation.
Distillers, etc., and manufacturers of tobacco, etc., failing to do things required, and doing things forbidden by law 4588
Inclosing lottery tickets, etc., in packages of tobacco, etc 4589
Fraudulently claiming drawback 4591
Removing liquor or wines under other than trade names 4592
Removing, concealing, etc., articles with intent to evade United States tax 4593
Fraudulently executing documents required by internal-revenue law 4594
Having property in possession with intent to sell in fraud of law, or to evade taxes 4595
Selling, purchasing, etc., empty stamped packages 4596
Manufacturing boxes, barrels, etc., unlawfully stamped 4596
Forging or counterfeiting stamps, dies, or plates; using forged or counterfeited stamps, dies, or plates; cutting, tearing, etc., impression of stamp, die, or plate, or fraudulently using same; having stamps, dies, or plates in possession unlawfully 4597

TITLE XXVIII.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Chapter Two.—Circulating notes. Sec.
Issuing circulating notes to unauthorized association 4791
Chapter Three.—Regulation of the banking business.
Holding United States notes as collateral 4818
Falsely certifying checks 4820
Embezzlement, etc 4821
Failing to make report of dividends 4825
Failing to make half-yearly return of circulation 4829
Chapter Four.—Dissolution and receivership.
Using word "national" as part of corporate name without authority 4873

TITLE XXIX.

THE PUBLIC MONEYS.

Chapter One.—Custody.
Assistant treasurers accepting commissions or other perquisites 4889
Clerk acting as assistant treasurer subject to same penalties 4905
Withholding moneys due the United States 4913

TITLE XXX.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

Counterfeiting, etc., certificates of indebtedness 4978

TITLE XXXI.

DEBTS AND CLAIMS.

Chapter One.—Collection and payment.
Making false claim against Government 5004

TITLE XXXII.

PUBLIC CONTRACTS.

Officer making contract failing to make return thereof 5065
Employees of United States having interest in Indian contracts, etc 5068

TITLE XXXIV.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND MARINE-HOSPITAL SERVICE.

Chapter Two.—Sanitation and quarantine.
Officer, owner, etc., of vessel disregarding quarantine rules, etc 5135
Trespassing upon grounds of quarantine reservation, etc 5139
Rules for the prevention of the spread of disease between States, and penalties for violation 5140
Officer, agent, etc., of United States violating quarantine laws 5141
Common carrier, etc., violating quarantine laws 5142

TITLE XXXVII.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Violating safe conduct or assaulting public minister 5213
Suing out writ or process, etc., against public minister 5215
Issuing false passport, etc 5230
Murder, and insurrection against certain countries 5254

TITLE XXXVIII.

INDIANS.

Chapter One.—Officers and agencies.
Indian agent making false entry in books, etc 5303
Employees in Indian affairs trading with Indians 5324
Chapter Two.—Performance of treaty obligations.
Receiving money from Indians under prohibited contracts 5376
Chapter Three.—Government and protection.
Sending seditious message to Indians 5386
Carrying seditious message to Indians 5387
Corresponding with foreign nations to incite Indians to war 5388
Attempting to negotiate treaty with Indians without authority 5391
Driving stock to feed on Indian lands 5392
Settling on or surveying Indian lands 5393
Chapter Four.—Government of Indian countries.
Purchasing cattle of Indians without consent of agent 5412
Residing in Indian country as trader without a license 5417
Foreigner going into Indian country without passport 5418
Purchasing certain prohibited articles from Indians 5419
Hunting on Indian lands 5421
Removing cattle, etc., from Indian country 5422
Selling intoxicating liquors to Indians 5423
Operating a distillery in Indian country 5426
Assaulting an Indian 5427
Arson in Indian country 5428
Forgery and mail depredations in Indian country 5429
Returning to Indian country after removal 5433

TITLE XXXIX.

PATENTS.

Falsely marking, etc., articles as patented 5522

TITLE XLI.

COPYRIGHTS.

Giving false notice of copyright 5610
Violating copyright of maps, charts, dramatic or musical compositions 5612
Using dramatic or musical compositions without authority 5613

TITLE XLII.

PENSIONS.

Chapter One.—Wars prior to eighteen hundred and sixty-one.
Making false oath concerning Indian war pensions 5630
Chapter Five.—Applications and attorneys.
Making false oath concerning Indian war pensions 5630
Attorney or agent charging unlawful fee or withholding pension from pensioner 5712
Agent or attorney charging unlawful fee for securing increase of pension 5713
Charging excessive fees in pension or bounty land cases 5715
Receiving compensation for securing legislation 5716
Claiming fee, etc., for securing pension for Army nurse 5718
Chapter Eight.—General provisions.
Guardian, etc., embezzling pension of ward 5779

TITLE LXIV.

TERRITORIES AND INSULAR POSSESSIONS.

Chapter One.—Provisions common to all the Territories. Sec.
Owners of coal mines failing to comply with regulations concerning machinery, ventilation, etc 5802
Employing children in mines 5805
Chapter Two.—New Mexico, Arizona, and Oklahoma.
Railroads failing to have stations at town sites 5904
Chapter Three.—Alaska.
Clerk of court failing to account for fees received 5947
Person appointed road overseer refusing to serve 5958
Road overseer failing to deliver records, etc., to successor 5959
Persons failing to work on roads, etc 5961
Persons refusing to do reasonable day's work, etc 5962
Road overseer failing to perform duties 5965
Chapter Six.—The Philippine Islands.
Employing slave labor 6232

TITLE XLV.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Chapter One.—Improvements.
Failing to furnish shipping statistics to persons in charge of harbor works 6286
Chapter Two.—Obstructions to navigation.
Regulations concerning the construction of bridges, wharves, etc., and penalties for violation 6300
Violating rules of Secretary of War concerning dumping of refuse in navigable waters 6302
Depositing refuse in navigable waters; obstructing channels, etc 6305
Rules concerning the use of drawbridges, and penalties for violation 6307
Rules concerning the use of canals, and penalties for violation 6308
Rules concerning floating timber and logs, and penalties for violation 6312
Chapter Three.—Provisions applicable to particular rivers, harbors and canals.
Regulations of Secretary of Commerce and Labor concerning certain anchorage grounds, and penalties for violation 6333
Rules for anchorage of vessels in St. Marys River, and penalties for violation 6335
Failing to obey instructions of harbor master at Washington 6337
Depositing refuse, etc., in Potomac River 6340
Chapter Four.—New York Harbor.
Depositing refuse in New York Harbor 6346
Master, etc., of vessel, towing scow, etc., loaded with refuse 6347
Moving scow, etc., loaded with refuse without permit 6348
Dumping refuse, etc., in other place than specified in permit 6349
Bribing inspector 6352
Failing to indorse and return permit 6353
Rules concerning disposition of dredged matter, and penalties for violation 6354
Fishing for shellfish, or interfering with navigation in New York Harbor 6356
Chapter Six.—California Débris Commission.
Injuring, etc., any dam or work erected under the provisions of this title and chapter 6394
Mining by hydraulic process so as to injure navigable waters 6394

TITLE XLVI.

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

Chapter Two.—City, rural, and immediate delivery.
Making false return of special-delivery matter 6486
Chapter Five.—Stamps, cards, and envelopes.
Selling stamps for more than face value 6577

TITLE XLVII.

COMMERCE AND NAVIGATION.

Chapter One.—Registry and recording.
Master making false oath to secure registration of vessel 6771
Failing to deliver up certificate when required 6772
Failing to have tonnage number marked on vessel, etc 6779
Failing to provide space for crew in vessel 6783
Failing to surrender certificate granted purchaser 6790
Failing to surrender certificate granted agent 6792
Failing to surrender certificate obtained upon loss of original 6798
Failing to register anew when required 6799
Failing to report change of master 6801
Failing to have number carved, etc., on beam 6807
Rules governing painting of name on stern of vessel, and penalty for violations 6808
Making false register, certificate of registry, or giving false information as to description of vessel, etc 6819
Officers neglecting duties 6820
Making or using forged sea letters, passports, certificates of registry, etc 6823
Vessel departing from foreign port without delivering manifest and obtaining clearance 6832
Chapter Two.—Clearance and entry.
Master of foreign vessel failing to deposit papers with consul, etc., on arrival 6844
Foreign consul delivering papers to master before clearance 6846
Master failing to furnish statement to collector of services rendered by consul 6847
Pleasure yachts, etc., engaging in trade, and otherwise violating laws 6848
Chapter Four.—Emigrant vessels.
Rules concerning compartments for emigrants, and penalties for violation 6875
Rules and regulations concerning berths for emigrants, and penalties for violation 6876
Rules concerning ventilation, hygiene, etc., of passenger decks, and penalties for violation 6877
Rules governing food, meals, etc., and penalties for violation 6878
Rules concerning hospital compartment, surgeon, medicines, etc., and penalties for violation 6879
Rules concerning discipline and cleanliness, and penalties for violation 6880

Chapter Four.—Emigrant vessels—Continued. Sec.
Officers, seamen, etc., visiting passengers' apartments 6881
Rules for carrying explosives, horses and cattle, etc., and penalties for violation 6882
Master permitting the boarding of vessel by other than specified persons 6883
Rules of Secretary of Commerce and Labor concerning boarding of vessels, and penalties for violation 6883
Master refusing to pay ten dollars in each case of death at sea 6884
Vessel leaving port before being duly cleared by collector 6886
Shipping inflammable material in vessel 6893
Inserting in bill of lading, etc., clause relieving from liability (penalty in sec. 6907) 6903
Inserting covenants in bill of lading, etc., avoiding exercise of due diligence (penalty in sec. 6907) 6904
Rules concerning bills of lading, and penalties for violation (penalty in sec. 6907) 6906
Refusing to issue bill of lading on demand 6907
Chapter Six.—Log books.
Neglecting to keep up log book in manner required or making entry more than twenty-four hours after arrival, etc 6914
Chapter Nine.—Vessels engaged in foreign commerce.
Vessel departing without passport 6941
Master failing to deposit ship's papers with consul 6944
Rules for exchange of enrollment and register when vessel in another district, and penalty for violation 6961
Master failing to deliver license at expiration 6963
Owner failing to have name of vessel painted on stern 6972
New master failing to report change of master 6973
Master not exhibiting enrollment or license when required 6974
Foreign vessels transporting passengers between United States ports 6986
Foreign vessels carrying passengers between United States and Philippines 6989
Vessel departing without having left duplicate manifest of lading; master liable 6997
Master of vessel containing certain goods failing to deliver up manifest before unlading, etc 6998
Vessel proceeding without manifest and permit; master liable 7000
Master of vessel under twenty tons failing to deliver up manifest 7002
Master of vessel failing to exhibit manifest on arrival; additional penalty if distilled spirits on board; refusing to answer interrogatories truly 7007
Refusing to deliver up permit for merchandise to be transported inland, etc 7010
Fishing vessels permitted to land at foreign ports, failing to deliver manifests and entries 7011
Master neglecting to report when vessel puts into port other than destination 7013
Master of foreign vessel bound coastwise failing to deliver duplicate manifests, etc.; refusing to swear to verity of manifest, etc. (penalty in sec. 7016) 7014
Master of foreign vessel bound coastwise failing to deliver manifest to collector on arrival; failing to swear to verity of manifest; failing to deliver permit (penalty in sec. 7016) 7015
Vessel entitled to be documented trading without a license 7019
Making illegal enrollment or license; giving false information as to vessel to be enrolled or licensed 7021
Failing or refusing to perform duties prescribed by this chapter 7022
Forging or altering enrollment, license, etc 7023
Obstructing officers 7024
Chapter Eleven.—Vessels engaged in fisheries.
Fisherman deserting or absconding himself from vessel 7043
Chapter Twelve.—Inspection of steam vessels.
Inspector serving without specified qualifications 7067
Carrying passengers and gunpowder contrary to law 7075
Inspector certifying falsely touching steam vessels 7076
Improperly constructing boilers 7080
Affixing fraudulent, etc., stamp to boiler plate 7081
Counterfeiting stamps prescribed for boiler iron or steel plates; falsely marking iron or steel plates 7083
Obstructing safety valve, etc 7087
Employing certain persons who are not licensed by inspectors 7088
Making false oath; changing certificate 7096
Neglecting to place license where it can be seen 7097
Navigating vessel after notice to make repairs 7105
Chapter Thirteen.—Transportation of passengers and merchandise.
Failing to keep passenger list 7126
Unlawfully carrying cotton or hemp 7131
Rules concerning use of petroleum as fuel and penalties for violation 7132
Shipping or attempting to ship dangerous articles not duly marked or packed 7134
Failing to provide proper stairways (penalty in sec. 7144) 7142
Overcrowding or occupying passenger space with freight, etc. (penalty in sec. 7144) 7143
Manufacturing or selling, etc., life-preservers unlawfully constructed; manufacturing or selling, etc., inefficient life-preservers, etc 7146
Owner neglecting or refusing to carry lifeboats, rafts, life-preservers, etc 7147
Barges carrying passengers failing to have fire-buckets, axes, etc 7150
Failing to keep on board and to deliver to passengers requesting same, copies of chapters twelve and thirteen of this title 7152
Failing to keep name of steam vessel painted in designated places 7153
Persons, etc., owning, etc., steam vessels failing to comply with terms of chapter thirteen of this title 7157
Penalty for violating any of the provisions of chapters twelve and thirteen of this title, not otherwise specifically provided for 7158
Chapter Fourteen.—Rules of navigation.
Rules for the prevention of collisions on inland waters, and penalty for violation (penalty in sec. 7172) 7169
Chapter Fourteen.—Rules of navigation—Continued. Sec.
Rules to be established by supervising inspectors and penalty for violation (penalty in sec. 7172) 7171
Rules for the prevention of collisions on inland waters, and penalty against vessel for violation 7173
Rules to prevent collisions on the Great Lakes and penalties for violation (penalties in sec. 7175) 7174
Owners, agents, etc., failing to report accidents to collectors of customs 7178
Owner, etc., failing to report probable loss of vessel, etc 7179
Navigating vessel without proper signal lights 7182
Failing to render assistance to vessel in distress 7184
Chapter Fifteen.—Reciprocal privileges.
Opposing an officer of the United States in enforcing certain rules concerning foreign vessels that have violated proclamations 7198
Persons of British North America violating rules and proclamations of President concerning fishing rights in American waters 7199

TITLE XLVIII.

MERCHANT SEAMEN.

Chapter One.—Shipping commissioners.
Unauthorized person acting as shipping commissioner 7210
Rules concerning indenture of apprentices, and penalties for violation 7216
Vessel carrying person to sea as one of crew without agreement 7220
Master engaging seaman contrary to law 7222
Master engaging seaman in foreign port without complying with provisions of law 7225
Master failing to post copy of shipping agreement 7227
Master shipping seaman without articles 7229
Shipping commissioner, etc., taking unlawful fees 7234
Chapter Two.—Wages and effects.
Paying seamen advance wages 7246
Demanding, etc., remuneration for providing seaman with employment 7246
Falsely claiming to be relative of seaman 7246
Master failing to take charge and account for deceased seaman's effects 7252
Shipping commissioner failing to deliver deceased seaman's effects to district court 7255
Chapter Three.—Discharge.
Master discharging seaman in manner other than that provided by law 7265
Master failing to deliver account of wages to discharged seaman or shipping commissioner 7266
Master failing to give discharged seaman certificate of discharge 7267
Chapter Four.—Protection and relief.
Owner, master, etc., failing to appear or to produce books, etc., before shipping commissioner 7275
Master failing to apply for surveyors upon complaint that ship is unseaworthy 7277
Sending, etc., an American ship to sea in an unseaworthy condition 7282
Master refusing to pay charges of inspection, and wages 7284
Master or owner failing to provide sufficient quantity of stores 7285
Master failing to provide suitable provisions and water, after complaint 7286
Master refusing seaman permission to go ashore to make complaint 7288
Owner failing to provide vessel with slop chest 7291
Owner or master failing to provide vessel with medicines, etc 7292
Master neglecting to serve out lime juice, etc 7292
Master failing to keep on board and use proper weights and measures 7293
Owner or master failing to provide warm clothing and room for use of seamen in cold weather 7294
Rules concerning list of ship's crew, and penalties for violation 7297
Master of foreign-bound vessel failing to produce person on ship's list of crew 7298
Master of United States vessel refusing to receive or transport indigent seaman from foreign country to United States 7300
Rules concerning extra payment to seaman on discharge in foreign port in case of sale of vessel, and penalties for violation 7304
Chapter Five.—Offenses and punishments.
Offenses of seamen or apprentices:
Deserting ship 7311
Refusing to join vessel or proceed to sea, etc 7311
Willfully disobeying any lawful command, etc 7311
Continuing to disobey any lawful command 7311
Assaulting master or mate 7311
Damaging vessel or embezzling stores 7311
Smuggling, etc 7311
Refusing to do or doing certain acts in willful breach of duty or by reason of drunkenness 7314
Boarding vessel before arrival 7318
Soliciting seaman as lodger 7319
Master, etc., inflicting corporal punishment that is forbidden by law 7322
Detaining clothing of seaman unlawfully 7324

TITLE L.

THE CENSUS.

Receiving fee, etc., for securing appointment, etc., of another 7384
Supervisor or other employee refusing or neglecting to perform duties enjoined or making false returns, etc 7386
Refusing information to enumerator 7386

TITLE LI.

IMMIGRATION.

Chapter One.—Regulation of immigration.
Importing woman or girl for purposes of prostitution, etc 7400
Assisting importation of alien under contract of labor 7401
Advertising to encourage immigration of alien labor 7405
Master of vessel knowingly bringing in alien under contract 7406
Aiding or assisting anarchist to enter United States 7407

Chapter One.—Regulation of immigration—Continued. Sec.
Owners of vessels soliciting immigration 7412
Landing aliens illegally 7413
Rules concerning landing of immigrants, and penalty for violation 7420
Refusing to receive on board or return aliens brought into United States in violation of law 7421
Rules concerning return of aliens illegally landed within three years, and penalty for violation 7422
Owners of vessels failing to post copies of immigration laws 7424
Giving false testimony or swearing to false statement provided for in this chapter 7427
Chapter Two.—Exclusion of Chinese persons.
Master of vessel refusing or neglecting to deliver list of Chinese persons on board 7450
Chinese person swearing falsely before immigration officer as to certain facts 7454
Master of vessel bringing in Chinese person in violation of law 7457
Bringing in Chinese person unlawfully, or aiding or abetting in same 7459
Forging certificate, etc., or falsely personating named therein 7471
Violations of other provisions of this chapter 7472
Chapter Three.—The cooly trade.
Building, equipping, etc., vessel for the cooly trade 7480
Receiving or transporting coolies 7481
Transporting, etc., subject of China, Japan, etc., without consent 7484
Contracting or attempting to contract to supply cooly labor 7485

TITLE LII.

COMMON CARRIERS OF INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE.

Chapter One.—Regulations of transportation.
Making unreasonable or unjust charge for transportation of passengers or property (penalties in ss. 7509, 7510) 7493
Making special rates, rebates, etc. (penalties in ss. 7509, 7510) 7509
Giving undue preference, etc. (penalties in ss. 7509, 7510) 7494
Making greater charge for short haul than for long haul (penalties in ss. 7509, 7510) 7496
Pooling of freights or earnings with others (penalties in ss. 7509, 7510) 7497
Rules concerning printing, etc., schedules of rates, charges, etc., for transportation of passengers and property (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7498
Rules concerning printing and keeping open for inspection, rates for freight to be carried through foreign country to points in United States (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7499
Rules concerning ten days' notice of changes in rates, fares, or charges (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7500
Rules concerning filing of copies of schedules of rates, and contracts with connecting roads, etc. (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7501
Rules concerning copies of schedules of joint rates, their publicity, etc. (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7502
Rules concerning advances and reductions in joint rates, (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7503
Common carrier deviating from schedule of joint rates (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7504
Contractor contracting, etc., to prevent the carriage of freight from being continuous from place of shipment to place of destination (penalties for violation in ss. 7509, 7510) 7506
Violating or aiding or abetting the violation of any provision of this title 7509
Corporations and persons alike guilty in the violation of provisions of this title 7510
Offering, granting, soliciting, or accepting rebates, discriminations, etc 7510
Common carrier, etc., knowingly permitting persons to obtain transportation for property at less than regular rate by false billing, weighing, etc 7511
Obtaining transportation for property at less than the regular rate by false billing, weighing, etc 7512
Bribing common carrier or agent to secure discrimination, etc 7513
Chapter Two.—Interstate Commerce Commission.
Refusing to testify or produce papers before Interstate Commerce Commission 7525
Demanding, etc., greater or less compensation for interchangeable mileage than joint rate 7545
Chapter Three.—Safety appliances on railroad cars.
Common carrier using locomotive engine not equipped with a power driving-wheel brake, etc. (penalty in sec. 7558) 7553
Common carrier hauling, etc., cars used in moving interstate traffic not equipped with automatic couplers (penalty in sec. 7558) 7554
Common carrier using car in interstate commerce not equipped with proper grab irons (penalty in sec. 7558) 7556
Common carrier using cars in interstate traffic not equipped with drawbars of standard height (penalty in sec. 7558) 7557
Common carrier failing to make monthly report to Interstate Commerce Commission of all accidents 7563
Chapter Five.—Arbitration between carriers and employees.
Employer demanding agreement of employee not to join union, threatening him with loss of employment, etc 7595

TITLE LIII.

COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE.

Making contract or engaging in combination, etc., in restraint of trade 7601
Monopolizing, etc., trade among the several States, etc 7602
Making contract in restraint of trade, etc., in Territories or District of Columbia 7603
Persons entering into combination, trust, etc., with another for purpose of importing goods, intended to operate in restraint of trade, increase prices, etc 7604

TITLE LV.

REGULATIONS OF EXPORTATION, IMPORTATION, AND TRANSPORTATION OF ANIMALS, FOODS, AND INSECT PESTS.

Chapter One.—Inspection of animals, meats, and dairy products for exportation. Sec.
Rules concerning inspection, etc., of animals intended for exportation, and penalties for violation 7646
Chapter Two.—Protection against importation and transportation of infected animals, meats, and adulterated foods.
Rules to prevent introduction of contagion among animals, and penalties for violation 7660
Transporting or delivering for transportation animals known to be affected with contagious disease 7662
Rules concerning transportation of cattle or other live stock, and penalties for violation 7669
Transporting cattle in manner other than prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture 7671
Chapter Three.—Regulation of transportation of insect pests.
Transporting certain insect pests 7679
Sending insect pests by mail 7680
Chapter Four.—Regulation of preparation, sale, and interstate traffic in viruses, serums, etc.
Rules concerning production, inspection, and sale of viruses, serums, etc. (penalties for violation in sec. 7685) 7682
Interfering with officer or employee of Treasury Department 7685

TITLE LVI.

IMPORTATION OF ADULTERATED TEAS AND IMPORTATION OF OPIUM BY CHINESE PROHIBITED.

Chapter Two.—Importation of opium by Chinese, and exportation to China by citizens of the United States, prohibited.
Importing of opium by Chinese 7700
Citizens of United States importing opium into open ports of China 7702

TITLE LIX.

PROTECTION OF FUR SEALS.

Killing fur seals within the limits of Alaska, including Bering Sea 7757
Rules concerning the killing of fur seals on St. Paul and St. George islands, and penalties for violation (penalties in sec. 7761) 7760
Killing female seals, seals less than one year old, or killing seals in waters adjacent to islands St. Paul and St. George 7761
Killing seals on St. Paul and St. George islands, etc., without authority of lessors (penalty in sec. 7761) 7766
Citizen of United States killing, etc., fur seals in certain parts of Pacific Ocean 7778
Equipping vessel, etc., for the purpose of killing seals in forbidden parts of Pacific Ocean 7778

TITLE LXI.

LABOR.

Chapter Two.—Hours of labor.
Requiring employees on Government work to labor more than eight hours per day, etc 7812

TITLE LXII.

NATURALIZATION.

Anarchists, etc., procuring naturalization 7834
Aiding anarchists, etc., to procure naturalization 7835

TITLE LXIV.

CIVIL RIGHTS.

Marshal or deputy refusing to execute process issued under provisions of this title 7867

TITLE LXVI.

THE SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.

Chapter One.—Public buildings, parks, and wharves.
Tapping, without authority, pipes laid by United States 7900
Willfully breaking, etc., water pipes in District of Columbia 7901
Maliciously making water supply of District of Columbia impure 7905
Chapter Two.—Capitol building and grounds.
Regulations concerning use of Capitol grounds, and penalties for violation 7945

TITLE LXVII.

RAILWAYS AND TELEGRAPH COMPANIES.

Chapter Two.—Submarine cables.
Breaking, injuring, or aiding or abetting the injuring of submarine cable 7987
Breaking submarine cable by culpable negligence 7988
Rules to be observed by master of vessel laying cable, and other vessels in proximity, and penalties for violation 7990
Master of fishing vessel failing to keep nets, etc., more than a nautical mile from vessel laying cable 7991
Refusing to produce certain papers necessary for the preparation of certain statements 7993
Master liable in case of certain violations 7995

TITLE LXVIII.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chapter Four.—Courts and procedure therein.
Offenses against bankruptcy laws, and penalties for violation 8032

TITLE LXIX.

INSURRECTION.

Trading in insurrectionary States, or certain other places, without a license, etc 8090
Trading in captured or abandoned property 8097

TITLE LXXII.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

Chapter One.—Public Printer, duties, etc.
Public Printer colluding, etc., to defraud United States 8162
Public Printer or other employee having interest in contracts for paper or other material for public printing 8163

TITLE LXXIV.

PENAL AND REFORMATORY INSTITUTIONS.

| | Sec. |
|---|---|
| Chapter One.—Custody and transportation of prisoners. | |
| Hiring out United States convicts | 8345 |
| Chapter Three.—Reform School for Boys. | |
| Enticing away or harboring escaped inmates of Reform School for Boys | 8386 |

TITLE LXXV.

HOSPITALS, ASYLUMS, AND CEMETERIES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Chapter One.—The Government Hospital for the Insane. | |
| Making false affidavit as to insanity of person, or physician making false certificate | 8441 |
| Chapter Three.—National cemeteries. | |
| Defacing national cemetery by destroying, mutilating, etc., any monument, gravestone, etc., or breaking or injuring any tree, shrub, etc | 8478 |

TITLE LXXVI.

NATIONAL MILITARY PARKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Defacing national military park by destroying, mutilating, etc., monument, statue, etc., or by destroying or breaking any tree, plant, etc., or fence or inclosure, etc | 8509 |
| Hunting or trapping on national military park | 8510 |
| Unlawfully refusing to give up possession of land leased for park purposes | 8512 |

TITLE LXXVII.

NATIONAL PARKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Rules concerning hunting and fishing, and preservation of natural objects in Yellowstone Park, and penalties for violation | 8520 |
| Laws of Wyoming made applicable to Yellowstone Park in certain cases not provided for in United States laws | 8521 |
| Establishing settlement or residence, etc., in Crater Lake Park | 8534 |
| Trespassing on any national park or appropriating any object therein | 8538 |

TITLE LXXVIII.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| Officer or employee of Smithsonian Institute embezzling funds, etc | 8567 |
| Presenting false claim against or stealing property of institution | 8568 |

Mr. COX of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I wish to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Indiana [Mr. Cox] offers an amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by inserting after the word "employment," in line 8 on page 45, "extorts anything of value from any person."

Mr. COX of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I am unable to understand the language set forth in section 87, with due deference to the able committee that framed and reported this section to the House. It strikes me it is rather indefinite and ambiguous. There is something lacking in the statute to make its provisions plain and to free it from ambiguity and doubt. The section of the statute provides:

Every officer, clerk, agent, or employee of the United States, and every person representing himself to be or assuming to act as such officer, clerk, agent, or employee, who, under color of his office, clerkship, agency, or employment, or under color of his pretended or assumed office, clerkship, agency, or employment, is guilty of extortion, etc.

This section of the statute, Mr. Chairman, sets out, or attempts to set out, several different offenses against several different individuals. It strikes me that it is susceptible of making an officer of the United States guilty of extortion by simply holding an office under and by means of the statutes of the United States. Reading the part of the statute to which the amendment applies, it would read as follows:

Every officer of the United States who, under color of his office, is guilty of extortion.

It strikes me that it certainly was not the object or the purpose of the committee to frame a section of law that would make it extortion to simply hold an office by virtue of the laws of the United States. The section under consideration must go further. It ought to go to the extent of saying that every officer of the United States who by virtue of his office, or who by color of his office, extorts anything of value from any person is guilty of extortion.

It is not necessary that the section under consideration define the word "extortion," because we look to the common law for the definition of the word. Before one can be found guilty of the crime of extortion he must extort something of value from some one else—take from another by virtue of his office, or under color of his office, that which he is not entitled to take by law. While perfection is not absolutely essential in a statute, yet it is necessary for lawmakers to free a statute of doubt, ambiguity, or uncertainty if possible. I believe my amendment will free the statute from all doubt and ambiguity and make that plain and certain which now rests in doubt and uncertainty. With the adoption of the proposed amendment, the statute will read:

Every officer of the United States who, under color of his office, "extorts anything of value from any person" is guilty of extortion.

I believe when the chairman of the committee carefully reads the phraseology set forth in section 87 he will, or the committee, rather, will, conclude that the amendment is well taken. I firmly believe that amendment ought to prevail.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, on yesterday I offered an amendment to section 85 which undertook to enlarge that section relative to contributions by corporations to campaign funds. We were told when this bill was originally brought in here that it must not be amended—that it must not be revised—because if you undertook to do that you would spoil the symmetry and glory of the great production. [Laughter.] Now, this section which is under discussion, Mr. Chairman, has been remodeled, has been revised, and has been amended. I notice that section 86, as we are told by the black brackets that surround it, has been revised, that it has been remodeled, and that it has been amended. That section deals with the stealing of birds' eggs. When it comes to dealing with bird eggs you remodel and re-form it, but when it comes to dealing with the men who buy elections we find that those particular sections are sacred, and they must not be touched lest we should spoil the symmetry of the production of the committee. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

I am frank to admit, Mr. Chairman, that those sections of our penal law which relate to men who contribute great sums of money to debauch the public will are in real symmetry with the desires of those great criminals themselves, because they give no opportunity, in fact, to place upon these offenders the stripes of infamy. We saw a demonstration of this fact upon this floor yesterday. Under section 85 of this bill it is made unlawful for any national bank or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office. An amendment was offered by my colleague from Kentucky [Mr. KIMBALL] adding to this provision the words "or anything else of value," and upon the first vote which was taken the amendment was adopted. A distress and hurry-up call was sent to those Members in the cloak rooms and corridors who knew nothing of the meaning of the amendment, had not heard the discussion upon it, and they readily responded, and the whole Republican side was arrayed in opposition to it, and it was voted down. And now the country beholds the disgraceful situation of it being made unlawful to contribute money to a campaign fund, but not unlawful to contribute Government bonds, railroad bonds, or anything else of value which could be readily converted into money, and in this way the elections in our country can be bought up and no statute can be invoked against the offenders. The man who goes forward and by force or threats robs the ballot box is a bad man and ought to be punished, but I submit that he is no less dangerous to the perpetuity of the Republic than the man who by the use of money buys up the voters or prevents them from expressing their wishes at the polls.

The truth of it is that the greatest evil that threatens our Republic to-day is the money evil—the evil of bribery. Corporations contribute money to buy up the elections and place their representatives in power, but they are always amply repaid many times over by unjust and unfair legislation whereby these monopolies are allowed to steal back from the people a thousand fold more than it cost them to buy up the election. [Applause.] Why did not your committee amend this section and provide not only a fine, but add thereto "and imprisonment?" What do these corporations, with their stolen and swollen fortunes, care for a fine? They would readily pay it and then levy it back upon the people and make them supply to themselves this fine. Under this section, Mr. Chairman, against contributions to corrupt elections the fine is as follows: "Shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

What a ridiculously absurd penalty this is! The man who debauches the will of 80,000,000 people may be fined 30 cents or even less. Not more than $1,000 is the fine.

The penalty of imprisonment in the penitentiary ought to be mandatory as a part of this penalty. Why was the disjunctive conjunction "or" placed in this provision. I notice, Mr. Chairman, on page 32 of this bill, section 60, it is proposed that—

Whoever in any manner, by threats or force, shall interrupt, hinder, or prevent the surveying of public lands, or of any private land claim which has been or may be confirmed by the United States by the persons authorized to survey the same, in conformity with the instructions of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, shall be fined not more than $3,000, and imprisoned not more than three years.

The disjunctive conjunction "or" does not protect the sturdy old farmer who has been nestling on his soil for many years and honestly and sincerely believes that it belongs to him, and when others come to encroach upon his rights, declares to them, "You shall not do this. This is my land. I own it by right of possession."

But when some technicality of ownership, which has been deduced by some artful and skilled attorney, is presented in denial of his rights to the ownership of the land, this farmer is fined $3,000 and imprisoned not more than three years. The connective conjunction "and" is in his penalty, and in no way could he escape from service inside the penitentiary walls the penalty provided in this statute. But when Harriman or Rockefeller or some of the great corporations that have been feeding upon the public by reason of your unjust laws contribute millions of dollars to buy up an election you promptly step in and proclaim that the disjunctive conjunction "or" must be put in the penalty, and you hurried to their rescue and say you must only fine them. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The time of Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES having expired, by unanimous consent, at the request of Mr. GAINES of Tennessee, was extended.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Under the amendment which I offered yesterday, which provided the additional words "or engaged in interstate commerce," would have made the section read as follows:

It shall be unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of Congress or engaged in interstate commerce, to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office.

No one, Mr. Chairman, arose in his place on this floor to oppose that amendment; no gentleman suggested that it was not a good amendment; but time was so precious to the distinguished gentleman from New York that when I arose to explain it he immediately made objection. Now, we want to know if the Republican party is sincere in its protest to the country that you do not believe in buying up elections. I know that you have messages that come to this House, when election time is coming, protesting that you are opposed to any contribution to corrupt the ballot; but whenever the chance comes for effective legislation, then you do not practice upon this floor what you proclaim upon the stump. [Applause on the Democratic side.] But let us see, Mr. Chairman. According to this provision here it shall be unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will excuse me for interrupting him a moment——

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Certainly.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman will remember that no opportunity was given to you yesterday to explain what your amendment was.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Yes.

Mr. WILLIAMS. And I merely wish, as a contribution to the literary history of the occasion, to say that I asked four gentlemen on this side [pointing to the Republican side]—made a proposition to four of them—that I would give them a nickel apiece if they would tell me what they had voted against, and all four of them told me that they did not know. This shows how lined up they are on a question which they make a partisan one.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Of course. And as we were informed yesterday, notices were sent out to all the members of the majority to come here and vote down all amendments. Why? Not because they were not good amendments, but because they were proposed by the Democrats, and perhaps they would stop, as this amendment would stop, the contributions of these corporations to the election of Republican candidates. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Under this provision as it now reads a corporation organized under the laws of the United States can not contribute. It is a violation of law for it to contribute, but the steel trust, organized under the laws of New Jersey, or the Standard Oil Company, organized under the laws of the same State, may contribute their millions to prostitute the public will, and there is no provision in this bill for a penalty or a punishment against it. [Applause on the Democratic side.] And yet you gentlemen on the other side of this House, when this amendment was offered, all of you followed the leadership of the robust gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] and voted down the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, if the Republican party is entitled to respect it should practice upon the floor what the President preaches in his message to this House and upon the stump to the country. But if you mean by your legislation against contributions to corrupt elections to shut off corporations that are organized under the laws of the United States and to allow corporations organized in the States that favor the organization of monopolies, like the State of New Jersey, to contribute money to corrupt the ballot, why, then, your law is ineffectual and amounts to nothing. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. COX].

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I ask that the amendment be again reported.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the Clerk will again read the amendment.

The Clerk again reported the amendment.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania), there were—ayes 67, noes 57.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania demanded tellers.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chair appointed as tellers Mr. COX of Indiana and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported that there were—ayes 71, noes 117.

So the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 90. If the Treasurer of the United States or any assistant treasurer, or any public depositary, fails safely to keep all moneys deposited by any disbursing officer or disbursing agent, as well as all moneys deposited by any receiver, collector, or other person having money of the United States, he shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement of the moneys not so safely kept, and shall be fined in a sum equal to the amount of money so embezzled and imprisoned not more than ten years.

Mr. PERKINS. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. As I understand, this law can in nowise be amended, and so I can not ask to do that, but it is obscure in many places and I think we ought to be allowed to ask what it means.

I would like to ask the gentleman in charge of the bill a question. There is a provision by which the Treasurer of the United States, like anyone else who converts money belonging to the Government to his own use, is guilty of embezzlement. There must be a provision apart from this that covers such a case. Here it is provided that if the Treasurer of the United States or any assistant treasurer fails to safely keep moneys deposited by a disbursing officer or agent he shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement. Now, I want to ask the gentleman, is that supposed to mean that where he receives money from certain officials, and the money is lost, he does not keep it safely, or it is stolen, he is guilty of embezzlement? What does it mean? I would like to know if anybody on the committee can tell us.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. My voice is in such a condition I shall have to allow the gentleman from New York, Mr. PARSONS, to answer the gentleman.

Mr. PARSONS. There are cases where clerks and other officials are required by law to make deposits of money in public depositaries, national banks and the like, and this is intended to cover a case of that kind.

Mr. PERKINS. But there is no reference to national banks. It says the Treasurer or assistant treasurer——

Mr. PARSONS. "Or any public depositary." I can not tell the gentleman all the different cases that would be covered by this section, but I instance one, that of a national bank, which is a public depositary and which might have Government funds deposited in pursuance of law.

Mr. PERKINS. National banks could not be imprisoned. You could not imprison a national bank if it failed to pay over a Government deposit. The bank might fail.

Mr. PAYNE. If my colleague will allow me, I do not think it would make any difference whether the banks failed or not.

Mr. PERKINS. No, the Government would recover under the bond. But under this section, can the gentleman tell me whether it is the opinion of the committee that if money is left in the hands of the assistant treasurer and is stolen from him, and therefore he fails safely to keep it, which is the wording of the statute, he is guilty of embezzlement? If so, that is pretty rough.

Mr. MANN. Let me cite a concrete case, if I may. The assistant treasurer at Chicago about a year ago, had $173,000 stolen from his office. With the aid of the secret service and all the machinery that the Government possessed it has not yet been established who took the money, although the money is still absent. Is the assistant treasurer guilty of embezzlement?

Mr. PERKINS. There is a fair case, and I would like to have the committee say what the law is under the provisions of this bill that we are asked to enact?

Mr. MANN. The assistant treasurer is worried enough now.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I am sorry I can not talk on account of a cold. We find it as a provision of existing law.

Mr. PERKINS. Yes, but there are many instances of existing law that are not right, and if it is a bad law, I do not think we ought to be asked to continue it or reenact it.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. This section has been fre quently adjudicated, and it has been found to be a wise and necessary one by long use. My voice is in such a condition that I shall have to allow some other member of the committee to answer the gentleman.

Mr. PERKINS. What I asked the committee was, how it had been adjudicated, whether it had been adjudicated, that where money was stolen from the Treasurer without any moral blame on his part he had to go to state prison. If so, I do not believe that is a good provision.

Mr. PARSONS. I find no adjudication on that point.

Mr. PERKINS. What is the idea of the committee on reporting this clause? What do they want to effect? They must have had some idea when they reported it. They are an intelligent committee.

Mr. PARSONS. This is a matter that if we were going to make any change we would not feel warranted in doing so unless the Treasury Department recommended the desirability of some change. It is a matter that was undoubtedly originally passed on recommendation of that Department.

Mr. PERKINS. Oh, I hope my friend will not take the position that we need only pass laws here at the request of bureau chiefs. If so, he is very far from being right. I do not think that they know as much as we do about the law.

Mr. PARSONS. The gentleman was speaking about the committee.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from New York has expired. Without objection, the pro forma amendment will be withdrawn.

Mr. PERKINS. I ask unanimous consent to have three minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, this matter was discussed, and it was the sense of the committee after discussion that no court would hold a man guilty of a crime for the mere loss of money, its destruction, for instance, by fire or by any other means other than through a criminal offense.

Mr. PERKINS. But that is the condition of a bond—to safely keep the money. If you do not keep it you are holden under the bond, and under this statute you will be punished. The money may be stolen or burned, but you have to pay under a bond.

Mr. MILLER. I want to suggest to the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] that certainly if the money was stolen the assistant treasurer would not be guilty of embezzlement.

Mr. PERKINS. But the law says that if he does not pay it he is guilty of embezzlement.

Mr. MILLER. I want to suggest further to the gentleman that so far as I know there has never been any adjudication by any of the courts of this country where it has been held that where, without any fault upon the part of a treasurer or an assistant treasurer, money has been stolen or lost that said officer has been guilty of embezzlement.

Mr. PERKINS. In other words, the law is so bad a law that no court would enforce it, and yet we are asked to reenact it.

Mr. MILLER. Without any fault on the part of the assistant treasurer, no court ever would hold that such was the case.

Mr. PERKINS. Then I do not think there ought to be in the statute book a provision that the gentleman says no court would enforce. It certainly should not be on the books.

Mr. MILLER. I agree with the gentleman from New York as to the general principle he suggests, but this is not the place nor time to consider this proposition.

Mr. PERKINS. Where is the place, if not the halls of Congress?

Mr. MILLER. Congress is the place to do it in the proper way. Let a bill be introduced by the gentleman from New York, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary or the proper committee to consider a matter of that kind, and then let it be carefully considered and let the committee report what action should be taken in reference to that matter, and let us not insist that a committee on revision of the laws of the United States shall take up a matter of this kind, when they have reported not upon that particular matter, after a careful consideration, but upon the laws in the general way, and then we will have time for the consideration of the matter.

Mr. PERKINS. It seems to me that this committee, with a Commission organized before, which has been in existence for many years and which cost a lot of money, should give us something more than could be done by any clerk who simply, with his scissors, could cut out provisions of the statute book and paste them together. It seems to me that the halls of Congress is the place to consider the wisdom of laws.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Chairman, I rise to resist the amendment proposed by the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS]. I think this statute has an intelligent purpose. It was enacted in 1857. It has been law for more than fifty years, and I have no doubt its construction is that all the depositaries or custodians of public money shall use all of the safeguards that are usual in the care of public moneys and public deposits.

If a person is careless or negligent in his trust as custodian of public funds, and they should be lost, he is liable to prosecution. The statute says that if he fails "safely to keep." What does that mean? That means if he fails to take all of the safeguards that may be reasonably adopted to preserve and protect the public funds, and if he omits to employ those safeguards and the public money is lost, then he is guilty of offense, and he ought to be.

Mr. PERKINS. Will the gentleman answer a question?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. I will.

Mr. PERKINS. The gentleman is a very excellent lawyer, we all know. Take any bond which says "The condition in this bond is that there shall be a penalty if the person fails to safely keep the money deposited;" the gentleman knows it is not a question of negligence; but if the money is not on hand, in the hands of the depositary, the bondsman is liable, because the condition is to "keep safely."

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Because in the execution of bonds for public funds the bondsmen guarantee absolutely the return of the money, but this involves altogether a different matter or different aspect of public policy. It is a matter of universal knowledge that if a postmaster safely keeps public funds—that is to say, if he puts them in a safe, a proper depository—and they are stolen, the Government reimburses or indemnifies him.

Mr. PERKINS. They have to have a special bill for that?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Not a special bill if the sum is below a certain amount. And likewise all other custodians of public moneys are required now to employ the usual safeguards for the protection of those moneys; and if they fail to do that, if they are negligent in the caring for trust funds of this character and the funds are lost, the statute under consideration imposes a penalty upon them for their carelessness, for their unsafe methods. If they fail to safely keep money—that is, if they unsafely keep public money—and it is lost, they are criminally liable, and I have no doubt that is the interpretation that has been given to this statute, a statute that has been in force for more than fifty years.

Mr. PERKINS. They say it has never been enforced.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. It has been on the statute books and been operative for more than fifty years, and I have no doubt it has served a useful purpose in safeguarding the public funds and in requiring custodians of the funds to employ the highest degree of safety for their protection. I do not believe the statute ought to be repealed. I therefore oppose the motion to strike out the last word.

Mr. COCKRAN. I want to ask if there is an amendment pending, there is so much confusion.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] moved to amend the section by striking out the last word.

Mr. BONYNGE. Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER]. It seems to me there is a different rule of construction to be placed upon a criminal statute and upon a case of a bond referred to by the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS]. In construing this statute we are compelled to construe it strictly, and considering this statute strictly I do not think the language "safely to keep" can be interpreted to mean to insure the money. It means, in my judgment, exactly what the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER] said, that he should use all the safeguards that under the circumstances a prudent man would use to safely keep the money, and if he does that he would not be guilty of embezzlement under the terms of this section. Therefore it seems to me this language ought to remain.

Mr. PERKINS. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. BONYNGE. Certainly.

Mr. PERKINS. The question I ask is, Would it not be perfectly easy, with a slight change of phraseology, to avoid the difficulty of interpretation which the gentleman himself admits the section is now subject to?

Mr. BONYNGE. Mr. Chairman, as this statute has existed for fifty years, and so far as we know has never been construed as the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] contends it should be, and, further, as a proper interpretation of the statute, according to my judgment, would not authorize such construction, I do not see the necessity for making the change.

Mr. NORRIS. I want to suggest, Mr. Chairman, in addition to what the gentleman has said, that in case of a trial of any person whom it is claimed has violated this section, it would become the duty of the presiding judge to instruct the jury and give the proper definition under the circumstances of that particular trial as to the proper meaning of this particular phrase, "safely keep."

Mr. BENNET of New York. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BONYNGE. Certainly.

Mr. BENNET of New York. I would like to call his attention to similar language in the immigration law, in relation to masters of vessels who are bound to keep aliens on board their vessels, and recall to his mind, because I know that he knows it, that that language came up for construction, and that the court in the southern district of New York adopted just the construction that the gentleman is now maintaining.

Mr. BONYNGE. That escaped my attention. I do not recall the case at the moment, but I am obliged to the gentleman for calling attention to it.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, in order to bring the suggestion of my colleague from New York practically before the House—and I believe it of sufficient merit to justify a vote—I move that the words "corruptly or negligently" be inserted before the word "fail" in line 2, page 47.

Mr. NORRIS. What line?

Mr. COCKRAN. Line 2, page 47.

Mr. NORRIS. After what word?

Mr. COCKRAN. After the word "depositary" and before the word "fail."

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. In section 90?

Mr. COCKRAN. Section 90.

The CHAIRMAN. If there be no objection, the pro forma amendment of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] will be considered as withdrawn, and the amendment of the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] will be reported.

Mr. COCKRAN. I will ask my colleague [Mr. PERKINS] if this would meet his approval?

Mr. PERKINS. Will the gentleman state it again?

Mr. COCKRAN. I ask to insert the words "corruptly or negligently" before the word "fail."

Mr. PERKINS. I think that will meet the evil. That is satisfactory to me.

Mr. PAYNE. Let us have it reported.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 47, line 24, after the word "depositary," insert the words "corruptly or negligently."

Mr. COCKRAN. I should like to know if the chairman of the committee will accept that amendment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. No.

Mr. COCKRAN. Then I must give my reason for offering it. The gentleman from Kansas [Mr. MILLER] I understand takes the ground—I suppose he speaks for the committee, though I should like to be assured of it—that this committee has not made a very deliberate or careful examination of the laws, not an examination so careful or deliberate as to justify this House in considering its report to be the result of careful study; and he suggests as an alternative to amending this section that a separate bill be brought in to cure the vagueness or ambiguity of this language; that it be referred to the Judiciary Committee for full consideration and then reported to the House.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I merely want to say that the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. MILLER] does not speak for the committee. He is not a member of the committee and has no authority to speak for it.

Mr. MILLER. If the gentleman will allow me, I did not intend to convey any such meaning as the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] imputes to me. I did say that this was not the time, when we were having a report from the Committee on the Revision of the Laws, to go into the general question of repealing laws, but that the proper method to adopt was the method that has always been had in the way of legislation, to have a bill for that specific purpose introduced, referred to an appropriate committee, and have that committee carefully consider it and report it back to the House.

Mr. COCKRAN. That will do. I understand the gentleman.

Mr. MILLER. I did not for a moment criticise this committee for their action.

Mr. COCKRAN. That is exactly the statement which I understood the gentleman to have made. It is the statement that has been made again and again by this committee, and I beg that this body will now consider its full significance. It seems to me that the case put by my colleague, the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS], illustrates in the most striking manner the absurdity of the position which they assume. The gentleman from Kansas [Mr. MILLER] states it fairly, although not authorized to speak for the committee. We are not, they tell us, to consider the amendment or repeal of these sections now, at the very moment when we are debating their enactment. They say this is not the proper time. In heaven's name, what time can be more proper? They say this is not the place. Is there any other place known to our Constitution or system under which this power can be exercised? We are asked now to maintain this statute because it has been upon the books for fifty years. Last night we were told that we must not disturb another statute, because it had only been on the book for twelve months. At one time the age of the statute is invoked and we are asked to regard it as sacred because of its antiquity, and in the next breath the fact that another law has been in existence only a few months is urged as a reason against the enormity of amending it.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I ask attention of the committee to this fact, which is true of every legislative body and every legislative proceeding: Try as we may, we can not frame these laws so that they will not at some time or other be subject to the charge of ambiguity. There is no form of human expression so precisely accurate that men will not divide about the interpretation of it. Holy Writ itself has been the source of vehement disputes over its interpretation.

Now, here is a product of a committee of the American Congress—the finest committee, I am willing to concede, that ever was formed; the wisest, the most patient, the most learned, but yet human, and in that falling short of the authority which we attribute to Holy Writ. [Laughter.] When the language of this section is found to be ambiguous here upon the floor, so that men of eminent merit have already divided in interpreting it—the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER] coming forward and telling us how he believed the court would interpret it, the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. BONYNGE] supplementing that contribution with another interpretation, and the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] suggesting a totally different interpretation—is it not clearly our duty to remove this ambiguity, already apparent, when it can be remedied by the insertion of two words?

Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman from Pennsylvania can show that for any reason these two words might impair the definiteness, clearness, and conciseness of language which should mark a statute of the United States, I will withdraw them. But when they reconcile the views of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PERKINS] and those of other gentlemen upon this floor, can any reason be offered against incorporating them in the section which sensible men could consider worthy of weight?

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, it distresses me beyond measure to differ with my two distinguished colleagues from the State of New York. They are learned in the law, they are distinguished, they are eminent gentlemen, they are, I am willing to admit, the greatest lawyers in the United States, and so it is with extreme reluctance and modesty that I dare to differ with them upon their construction of this statute; and still it seems to me that they leave entirely out of their consideration that word "safely" when they seek to interpret this section: "If the Treasurer of the United States, etc., fails safely to keep all money deposited."

Now, to have that statute comply with the narrow—I use the word apologetically—the narrow construction put upon it by these two distinguished lawyers——

Mr. COCKRAN. I did not construe the statute. I offered no construction of it. I merely offered an amendment that would reconcile the varying constructions.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I am amazed that my colleague took the floor for five minutes without putting his construction upon it.

Mr. COCKRAN. I tried to give instruction to everyone but the gentleman from New York. [Laughter.]

Mr. PAYNE. In order to give it the construction given by my one distinguished colleague from New York—the other does not say whether he dissents from it or not—you must read out of the statute the word "safely," and have it read "fails to keep all money." Now, if it read that way, there could be no other construction except that placed upon it by my colleague, but for some reason the Congress has put into the statute the word "safely"—"fails safely to keep." What does it mean? My friend from Indiana suggests that it meant negligence, without proper safeguard, failed to keep, and I confess, with my limited understanding of the law, that that strikes me as a reasonable construction.

I have never aspired to any judicial position, but if I can imagine myself in such a place and a man appeared before me charged with the violation of a statute, I should interpret it that way.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Does the word "safely" add very much to it?

Mr. PAYNE. I think it does add a good deal to it.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. If he fails to keep it, doesn't that settle the whole proposition?

Mr. PAYNE. I think not.

Mr. COCKRAN. How could he keep it without keeping it safely?

Mr. PAYNE. By not using reasonable safeguards. Now, my colleague, who does not claim to have any interpretation of his own, would interpolate two words, "corruptly and negligently," so that it would read, "corruptly and negligently fails safely to keep." I am there getting beyond my depth. What interpretation is to be put on the statute if it reads that way I am unable to say—that a treasurer corruptly or negligently fails safely to keep. Why, the multiplicity of language—and my colleague is an adept at multiplicity of language—he would insert into this statute puts it entirely beyond my feeble understanding. I do not know what a court would say if they had such a conglomeration of terms presented to them in the shape of a statute. The more he amends it the more he muddles it. I think we are safe to take the law as we find it, as it has been interpreted by the courts, and that everybody is safe if he uses the proper safeguards—the reasonable safeguards—in keeping the public money.

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, this statute at first appears to be rather a severe and a rigid one. But the requirements in this that makes it appear so, according to the construction given it by gentlemen who oppose it, is that if this public officer designated here shall fail safely to keep moneys, etc., that are intrusted to his safe-keeping. Now, that may be a little severe, but the severity is justified upon the ground that here is a public officer clothed with authority, responsibility is placed upon him, and he is required to a strict and rigid performance of his duty. It is the same principle that upon an old rule of martial law would require an officer to be shot if he showed cowardice. A greater responsibility is placed upon the custodian of the public funds than upon an ordinary individual, and if the statute is severe, I think that is justification of its severity. When you add to it the amendment of "corruptly and negligently," you weaken the statute. You create an opportunity for an officer to escape for his dereliction of duty. If he fails to keep it safely, if he fails to do all that he is in duty bound to do under the law, then by this amendment of corruptly and negligently you open a wide field of escape for him, and I believe it is well to hold the custodian of public funds to a rigid and strict accountability.

Mr. COCKRAN. Does the gentleman mean that if a custodian of public moneys had funds stolen from him against his will he ought to be held criminally responsible under this section?

Mr. HOUSTON. I think if the custodian of public moneys failed to keep them safely, if he does not do what the law requires him to do, he ought to be punished for it, in order to secure the public funds.

Mr. COCKRAN. Suppose his safe was blown open by dynamite and the public funds abstracted, would the gentleman think that under this section he could be punished?

Mr. HOUSTON. I will say this, that he ought not to keep it in such a place as that. The law provides safe depositaries for this money, and he ought to do as the law requires him to do, and when any officer shall comply with the law fully and use all the means and precautions within his power to safely keep the public funds no court in the world will ever punish him for the loss of it.

Mr. COCKRAN. That is all this amendment provides.

Mr. HOUSTON. But this amendment weakens the statute.

Mr. COCKRAN. Only to that extent.

Mr. HOUSTON. It weakens it in that it opens the door to the defendant to make various defenses that he is not entitled to as it now stands.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. I would like to inquire whether this statute does not make it possible to convict a man of crime without guilty knowledge.

Mr. COCKRAN. Certainly it does.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Does not this statute make it possible to do that thing? Does it not make it possible—does not the language of this statute make it possible to convict a public officer of a crime without the element of guilty knowledge?

Mr. HOUSTON. His crime is lack of proper care and a failure to perform a specific duty the law requires him to perform.

Mr. FOSTER of Vermont. Why, do not we do that every day, in counterfeiting?

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. I am only expressing my opinion. This is not a matter of counterfeiting.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from New York.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. COCKRAN) there were—ayes 40, noes 70.

So the amendment was rejected.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The committee informally rose; and Mr. CAPRON having taken the chair as Speaker pro tempore, a message from the Senate, by Mr. PARKINSON, one of its secretaries, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment bill of the following title:

An act (H. R. 9087) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize Washington and Westmoreland counties, in the State of Pennsylvania, to construct and maintain a bridge across the Monongahela River, in the State of Pennsylvania," approved February 21, 1903.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed bills of the following titles, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested:

An act (S. 2694) to authorize the construction of a drawbridge over the Black River in Lawrence County, Ark.;

An act (S. 550) providing for stated leaves of absence to entrymen under the homestead laws;

An act (S. 417) to extend the time for the completion of a bridge across the Missouri River at Yankton, S. Dak., by the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern Railway Company; and

An act (S. 152) to provide a site and buildings for the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce and Labor.

CODIFICATION OF THE CRIMINAL LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The committee resumed its session.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 92. Every officer or agent of the United States who, having received public money which he is not authorized to retain as salary, pay, or emolument, fails to render his accounts for the same as provided by law shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and shall be fined in a sum equal to the amount of the money embezzled, and imprisoned not more than ten years.

Mr. MACON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. Mr. Chairman, I do so for the purpose of respectfully submitting that in my judgment the chairman of the Committee on Revision of the Laws and the chairman of the House part of the joint committee is proceeding arbitrarily and unwisely in opposing every amendment offered to this bill simply because it is an amendment. It is insisted that this committee ought to stand by the committee that reported the bill under consideration. I think, sir, that this Committee of the Whole House that is in charge of this bill at this time is the paramount committee and that the other committees are simply agents of this committee for the purpose of bringing in legislative propositions and submitting them to it to be disposed of by it as it sees fit, and it was never intended that members of this committee should blindly follow a subordinate committee in everything that it sees fit to submit to it for its consideration.

Why, sir, you might as well tell me that in the administration and adjudication of the laws that the Supreme Court should be called upon to stand by the lower courts in their decisions simply because the lower courts had made certain findings, as to tell me that in the enactment of law that the Committee of the Whole House should be required to stand by a subordinate committee just because it had made certain findings and presented them to it to be considered, digested, and passed upon by it. I respect the judgment of the members of the committee that presented this bill as much as I do the judgment of the members of any other committee of the House, but I claim, sir, that the Committee of the Whole House has something to do with the passage of a measure when it is presented here by that committee or any other, and those Members who are not upon the committee ought not to be called upon to blindly follow in the wake of the committee that happens to present a measure to the House. I have voted against the committee at times, but it was because I thought that the proposition submitted by some one upon the floor was better than the one submitted by the committee, and hence I have not followed them when my judgment led me to believe that the proposition presented by a member of the Committee of the Whole House was better than that presented by the Committee on the Revision of the Laws. Seeing the matter that way, sir, I insist that if it is our purpose to conscientiously discharge our duties we ought to be willing to change our position when conviction presses the belief that we were wrong in our former positions.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Will the gentleman permit me to make an inquiry?

Mr. MACON. Certainly, sir.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Is the gentleman a member of the joint committee or a member of the Committee on Revision of the Laws?

Mr. MACON. Of the Committee on Revision of the Laws.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. I understand it is the joint committee that has charge of the bill——

Mr. MACON. Oh, yes, sir.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. That does not at all militate against the force of the gentleman's remarks. You are a member of the general committee?

Mr. MACON. Yes; I am a member of the general Committee on Revision of the Laws. I want to insist it does not impress me as being just the proper thing for a Member to say that if a certain matter was before the House as an original proposition he would gladly support it, but that inasmuch as the committee had passed upon it he was going to vote to sustain the committee regardless of the fact as to whether it was right or wrong in his judgment. That does not appeal to me as being the proper spirit to control Representatives upon the floor of this House when they are trying to represent an honest judgment or trying to come to an honest conclusion as to what is best to be done concerning any question submitted to us, a law-making body.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the pro forma amendment will be considered as withdrawn.

There was no objection.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 98. Every banker, broker, or other person not an authorized depositary of public moneys, who shall knowingly receive from any disbursing officer, or collector of internal revenue, or other agent of the United States, any public money on deposit, or by way of loan or accommodation, with or without interest, or otherwise than in payment of a debt against the United States, or shall use, transfer, convert, appropriate, or apply any portion of the public money for any purpose not prescribed by law; and every president, cashier, teller, director, or other officer of any bank or banking association who shall violate any provision of this section is guilty of embezzlement of the public money so deposited, loaned, transferred, used, converted, appropriated, or applied, and shall be fined not more than the amount embezzled, or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. GARRETT. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I beg to ask the chairman of the committee if he does not think an amendment ought to be put into that section somewhere, so that if an agent of the Government should deposit in a bank for safe-keeping overnight, or something of that sort, sums that he had collected, that the banker who receives such funds ought not to be subject to the heavy penalty provided in this act? I am not offering that amendment myself, but I am merely asking the chairman if he does not think it would be very proper if some such amendment were put in there?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. We considered that very carefully. The laws are now upon the statute books, and he knows that it is a violation of the statute and there is no danger of his ever doing it accidentally.

Mr. GARRETT. The only thing I was thinking about is that it might frequently happen with a revenue collector. Especially in a State court I have had experience with collecting money late in the evening, and a man might possibly do that in the service of the Federal Government and not have any place to put it for safe-keeping overnight. I do not know that there is anything in the suggestion.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. You might always find individual cases of hardship, but it would open the door to fraud.

Mr. GARRETT. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw the pro forma amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 105. Whoever, being an officer of the United States concerned in the collection or the disbursement of the revenues thereof, shall carry on any trade or business in the funds or debts of the United States, or of any State, or in any public property of either, shall be fined $3,000, and be removed from office, and thereafter be incapable of holding any office under the United States.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. DE ARMOND] offers an amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 105 by inserting after the words "three thousand dollars" the words "or be imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, I wish to offer a committee amendment, as follows:

In line 22, after the word "fined," insert the words "not more than."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

On page 52, line 22, after the word "fined," insert "not more than."

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, I do not rise for the purpose of discussing the merits of the amendment offered by my colleague from New York [Mr. PARSONS], but I would ask him whether the situation has been changed since yesterday. Yesterday it was stated by the chairman of the Committee on the Revision of Laws that it was the policy of the committee to allow no amendment—that the purpose was to codify only—and with regard to the matters contained in the existing laws there were to be no changes, notwithstanding the report that had been made by the committee recommending changes and alterations.

Now, my colleague from New York [Mr. PARSONS] has introduced an amendment—which he says is a committee amendment, and the merits of which I do not propose to question—which alters existing law. I would now ask my colleague whether he agrees with the argument made by my colleague from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] yesterday, as well as by myself, that this House ought to consider amendments to the pending bill.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I wish to say——

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I would like to have my colleague from New York [Mr. PARSONS] reply.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I want to correct the statement made by the gentleman from New York [Mr. GOLDFOGLE] respecting statements alleged to have been made by me.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I speak by the RECORD.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. As chairman of this committee I did not make statements as broad as that, or that were intended to be construed in that way. Unfortunately, I am unable to take care of myself to-day on account of hoarseness.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. The gentleman is always able to take care of himself.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I seem to be under disqualification to talk, but I disclaim any such utterance as that attributed to me.

Mr. PARSONS. I desire to say in reply to my colleague from New York [Mr. GOLDFOGLE] that the amendment I offer now is to cure a misprint in the bill. The committee said at the outset of the debate that it had adopted a uniform policy of stating uniform penalties for maximum punishment. The amendment I have offered is to cure a misprint which stated a fixed penalty instead of a maximum penalty.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. If it was found that there were matters in that bill that require correction and ought to be cured, does not my colleague from New York [Mr. PARSONS], able and distinguished at the bar in my city, realize the fact that we ought to cure those evils now?

Mr. PARSONS. There are a great many things in this code that I would like to see cured, but the Joint Committee on Revision realized at once that it would have an unending task if it sought to cure all the mistakes the individual Members thought existed in the code.

Now take, for instance, the amendments yesterday in regard to bribery at elections and corporate contributions. The bill as it was passed last year was not satisfactory to me. It seemed to be very ineffective. The amendments offered yesterday did not seem to me to be as complete as they should. They showed that it was impossible, in dealing with a bill of this size, a general bill of codification and revision, to go into specific things on which a great deal of debate should be had and a great deal of consideration; and, therefore, the committee have felt, and so far have been sustained by the House in feeling, that if we are to revise and codify the laws, then we should present only such minor changes as are plainly needed. That is my position.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. But if important matters ought to be changed, is not now the time and is not this House the place where those important matters should be changed, in order that the country at large should have a perfect criminal code?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Is not this the place where they must be changed, if they are to be changed?

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. How will we get them changed? It is so hard to get up a bill; it is so hard to get consideration in a committee and a favorable report on a bill which will correct one, two, three, or more sections that when this general bill is up for amendment, and the reading is taking place for the purpose of perfecting the bill, does not my colleague believe that this is the very moment when errors should be corrected and the bill be made perfect, in order that the country may have a good penal code and lawyers and jurors throughout the land may approve our action?

Mr. PARSONS. I can not agree with the gentleman there. This is a practical matter. The practical thing is to get a codification bill passed.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. As quickly as possible.

Mr. PARSONS. No; not as quickly as possible; but if the committee had done what my colleague suggests, it would have usurped the functions of practically every other committee of the House, and it could not have gotten probably ten sections of the bill read at any time.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. If we do not cure errors now; if we do not perfect the penal code now, does my colleague believe we can ever reach that stage when we can cure the errors and perfect the criminal code?

Mr. PARSONS. I have a great deal of confidence in the committees of this House, and believe if bills are introduced and referred to them that they will receive fair and proper consideration.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Is there a lack of confidence, then, at the present time in this Committee of the Whole, or is there sufficient confidence to believe that we have the ability and that there is sufficient wisdom in the House to perfect a code now?

Mr. PARSONS. I do not believe that on the spur of the moment this Committee of the Whole can make the sort of amendments that are necessary permanently to improve the law.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. This is not the spur of the moment. We are acting deliberately, I trust.

Mr. PARSONS. I think I have sufficiently answered the gentleman.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I want to ask the gentleman a question or two for information before he leaves the floor. You say you want to amend the national bank corruption act which we had up yesterday. Did the gentleman offer any amendment yesterday; and if so, what was it? And if he did not, then tell the committee why it was, if he voted against the amendment offered from this side, and if an amendment is needed at all, why is it needed?

Mr. PARSONS. I did not offer an amendment yesterday.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Why not?

Mr. PARSONS. Because I did not think the Committee of the Whole would see fit to amend the various sections of the penal code in substantial matters.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. But this was not "the various sections." This was a statute that was hardly a year old.

Mr. PARSONS. If you vote for a substantial amendment in one case, then you open the door to vote for them in other cases. Some one offered an amendment yesterday on that section of corporate contributions. The question involved was a contribution of money or any other thing of value. I put this question privately to some of the Members around me: Take the case of a newspaper that is owned by a corporation.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. We will confine it to the national banks. I am not after the newspapers. They are after me all the time. [Laughter.]

I want to get hold of the national banks that have been corrupting the elections and corrupting your people. The gentleman lives up there in New York——

Mr. PARSONS. They have succeeded in corrupting the other side.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. The gentleman from New York occupies a high office; he is not only a Member of Congress, but he is a member of this committee. He ought to embrace the opportunity to strengthen this national bank act, though about a year old, after the rottenness that smells to heaven has come to light in his own great State, distressing to his own people and to the people throughout the United States.

Mr. PARSONS. The rottenness, let me say to the gentleman from Tennessee, is covered by the language of the bill as it is. The language of the bill covers the case of the contribution of money. I do not know what other contribution a national bank could make.

Mr. COCKRAN. A contribution of Government bonds.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I am trying to have the gentleman get down to the point. Why should the gentleman object yesterday, and why should he object to-day, to not making it compulsory, in a case of conviction, that there should be both fine and imprisonment?

Mr. PARSONS. The very case that the gentleman used yesterday seemed to me to be an argument against the amendment offered by my colleague, Mr. COCKRAN. In that case he wished to impose the imprisonment as cumulative to a fine. Now the gentleman referred to a prosecution of the directors of the licorice company in New York, and he said that the jury there had declined to convict them.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Yes; after the directors or officers had admitted that they were guilty and wanted to pay a fine.

Mr. PARSONS. One of the difficulties in imposing large and severe penalties and punishments in the penal code is that it is very hard if the counsel for the defendant pictures to the jury what it might mean to the defendants if they were convicted. You are much surer of a conviction when the penalty is small than if it is large.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Now, Mr. Chairman, I have been told, and the gentleman from New York has conceded, that it is very hard to get a conviction where there is any penalty. I was shocked, Mr. Chairman, to have been told about a year ago by one of the leading citizens of this country who well knew the situation, "that a man in high society in the State of New York with plenty of money could not be convicted by a New York jury." And yet, Mr. Chairman, here is some proof of the fact, here, as I stated yesterday and as the gentleman has admitted, the directors or officers of the licorice trust company came into court and wanted to plead guilty and wanted to pay a fine, but they did not want to be imprisoned. They were guilty of destroying the tobacco manufacturers that used licorice in my State and others throughout the United States.

Now, this is a serious matter. We tried yesterday to strike out in the statute the disjunctive "or" and put in the conjunctive "and." Now, then, here is a case where the directors that have used the corporation to wrong the people came up and said, "Mr. Attorney-General, we are guilty and we will pay any fine that you want to impose on us, if you won't send us to jail." We say that when a national bank uses money to corrupt an election in New York, or Pennsylvania, or Tennessee, it is a very important matter, and especially in a pivotal State like New York, which seems to be a doubtful State for revenue only. [Laughter.] It is a serious thing to let the great national banks of this country take the money to corrupt the ballot box regardless of whom they elect. I think that these directors when they come up, Mr. Chairman, and admit their guilt and want to pay a fine should not only be fined, but that they should be imprisoned. It is a sad condition of society in any country when a jury will not convict a man because of the excessive penalty when he comes up and says he is guilty of such a crime. I see from the morning paper that that case against the licorice company has been advanced on the Supreme Court docket to be tried next October, to say whether the corporation which Lord Denman said has "no soul" is to be convicted while the directors go scot-free.

Now, I say that, with all of this wrongdoing, with the actual history of the case I have narrated, it behooves us all, and it behooves the majority of this House, which is the House, and my distinguished friend to whom I have been talking, to strengthen that law instead of saying—well, I don't know exactly what excuse the gentleman did give.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES] that the argument of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS] was that you ought not to impose a penitentiary punishment, because, if you did, it would be impossible to get a conviction, and thereby, if that argument is carried to finality, the crime for murder ought to be punished with a fine and not with death or imprisonment for life.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. In other words, the people can be robbed in New York and elsewhere, and if the robbers will pay a fine some of the people of this country want to let them off. I say they ought to be put in the penitentiary.

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, there are two points I wish to make in reply to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES]. The kind of bill in regard to corporate contributions and in regard to expenses in campaigns that I would like to see applicable to every election is the kind of bill that we passed in the State of New York, which prohibits contributions by corporations of anything, and which goes into details, so that by going into details you have some chance of catching the guilty person. The other point I wish to make is this: The gentleman says that he has been told that a wealthy man in high society in New York could never be convicted by any jury in New York.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. By a New York jury. That is the expression.

Mr. PARSONS. Since then a very wealthy man in what the gentleman would consider high society in New York has been convicted by a New York jury. I refer to Mr. Gillette, one of the directors of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Mr. COCKRAN. But he was a subordinate officer.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Why were those who admitted their guilt acquitted by the jury?

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. Mr. Chairman, the great drawback at the present time seems to be that we have too many lawyers on the floor. [Laughter and applause.] If the Representatives in the majority here were business men and farmers and manufacturers and such, why we would be most happy to have had such a committee as we had on this work, and we would gladly stand by their decisions. Now, I would suggest that if we can not do this work in a reasonable time, let the lawyers leave, and leave the matter to the manufacturers, the merchants, and so on. [Laughter and applause.]

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I think that the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS] ought not to be adopted. This provision first went into the law away back in 1789, practically at the organization of our Government. In that primitive time of small fortunes and small business operations, the lawmakers thought that $3,000 and removal from office would be a proper measure of punishment for those guilty of the offenses denounced by this section. The proposition of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS] is to make the fine not more than $3,000, which, of course, means that it may be merely nominal. The amendment which I hope to offer, after his is disposed of, is to add punishment by imprisonment. Now, if it were a serious offense, and measured by the punishment and the judgment of the fathers it was, for an officer who collected or disbursed the moneys of the United States to carry on any trade or business in the funds or debts of the United States—if that was a serious offense more than one hundred years ago, how much more serious is it to-day? If $3,000 fine was a proper measure of punishment then, $30,000 or $50,000 fine now would not be excessive. Yet the proposition is to prevent the infliction of more punishment than a fine of $3,000, and to make it so that the fine may be merely nominal—$1, 1 cent, 1 mill—anything, nothing. I do not think that this is "reform" in the right direction. It is "reform" in the wrong direction.

I suppose the argument for this amendment is that old argument which we have had here so often and so long since this bill has been up, that of "uniformity." Because these gentlemen have decided to say not more than so much, it must be not more than so much, with reference to everything. They seem to have lost sight of the effect, in their grave attention to the form. It reads well enough, and in some places it is well enough to say "not more than" so much, but there are other places and other times and other matters when the policy certainly, while it secures uniformity, secures it at the expense of good legislation and of substantial justice. I think the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York, although it will promote that uniformity, ought not to be adopted. If the main thing is to have uniformity in the wording of the statutes, if that is the main object, then we might spare ourselves all care and the expenditure of time in considering everything else or anything else, because that boon of uniformity is already secured, in the print. If, however, the object of this meeting be to consider and to continue to consider the substance, and to legislate with reference to the subject-matter, rather than upon this greatly vaunted theory of uniformity, such amendments as this, I think, ought not to be adopted.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS].

The question was taken, and the Chairman announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Upon a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 46, noes 50.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Tellers!

Tellers were ordered.

The committee again divided, and the tellers (Mr. PARSONS and Mr. DE ARMOND) reported that there were—ayes 72, noes 59.

So the amendment was adopted.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri offers the amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 105 by inserting after the words "three thousand dollars" the words "or be imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, the purpose of that amendment is evidenced by the reading of it. As the bill now stands it provides a punishment not to exceed $3,000 fine for this offense, certainly a serious offense. If the amendment be adopted there will be provision made also for an optional punishment, for punishment by imprisonment not to exceed ten years, or by both fine and imprisonment. Now, it does seem to me, from every point from which I can view this matter, that after having reduced the punishment by fine which stood in the statute at $3,000, to $3,000 or anything less down to an infinitesimal sum, it could be nothing more than right and proper to provide also for punishment by imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment. That is what the amendment purports to do, and I need not take the time of the House in saying anything further upon the subject.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment.

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes seemed to have it.

On a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 46, noes 62.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Tellers!

Tellers were ordered.

The committee again divided, and the tellers (Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania and Mr. DE ARMOND) reported that there were—ayes 52, noes 62.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I make the same amendment, changing the word "ten" to the word "one," and I will write it out.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri offers the amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 105 by inserting, after the words "three thousand dollars," the words "or be imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. The committee will accept that amendment. [Applause.]

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 108. Whoever, being a public officer or other person authorized by any law of the United States to make or give a certificate or other writing, shall knowingly make and deliver as true such a certificate or writing, containing any statement which he knows to be false, in a case where the punishment thereof is not elsewhere expressly provided by law, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I desire to suggest to the chairman of the committee that this section, being a new one, is of course subject to consideration and open to amendment under the policy that the Committee of the Whole House adopted, under the leadership of the gentleman. Now, it seems to me that this section ought to be modified so that it will make it a crime to falsify any certificate or writing in any material particular. I have no doubt that there are numerous certificates on file with the Civil Service Commission in the way of vouchers for applicants who desire to take the civil-service examination, requiring the age of the one making the voucher to be stated, and if he is 44 years old and he should state he is 34, the statement would be false and would be a felony under this statute, and yet it would not be material.

Mr. BONYNGE. This only relates to a public officer and would not relate to an applicant for a civil-service position.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Let me remind the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. BONYNGE] that whenever one makes an application to take the civil-service examination for the Federal service, he is required to file one or two certificates of citizens, to submit one or two vouchers made out by other persons. These persons, I think, come within the purview of this section. They make certificates required by law——

Mr. PARSONS. Does the statute require them to make it, or is it a regulation requiring them to do it?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. I suppose it is a statute.

Mr. PARSONS. The gentleman is mistaken, I think it is a regulation.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Well, it is a statute or regulation made presumably in pursuance of law. The statute doubtless authorizes the Civil Service Commission to make proper regulations for the purpose of carrying the law into effect, and if the court should construe the regulation to be a valid one made in pursuance of law, one who made a statement of that kind, knowingly misstating his age when that misstatement could not be at all material, he still would be guilty of felony. I think the certificate, or misstatement, to be criminal, ought to be one false in some material respect, and I will suggest that there be added after the word "false" on line 8 of this big print of the bill, the words "in any material respect," so it would read, "containing any statement that he knows to be false in any material respect."

Mr. PARSONS. May I ask the gentleman, using the case he has cited, how would he hold that? Suppose a man was 44 years of age and the voucher certified that he was only 34, would that be material?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. No; because the question is whether he is competent to testify, whether he is a competent witness.

Mr. MANN. It would be material if the regulation fixed and prescribed a certain limit of age between 30 and 40. If the man stated his age as less than 30, it would be material, but if he stated his age so it would not affect his employment, it would not be material.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. I will change my proposition, or modification, by adding the word "material," after the word "any," on line 8, so as to make it read, "any material statement." Now, Mr. Chairman, I move this amendment, that there be inserted after the word "any" on line 22, page 53, the word "material," so that it would read, "any material statement he knows to be false."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Line 22, page 53, after "any," insert "material."

Mr. PARSONS. Why should he be allowed to make any statement that he knows to be false?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Well, there are statements that are immaterial, that harm neither society nor the individual; that people feel, where they relate to themselves only, induce no action on the part of anybody else in relation to them, that it is no wrong to make a statement of that kind. I do not believe there is a statute in any State of the Union where an immaterial act or immaterial statement is made a felony. Nowhere. I make the assertion without fear of contradiction that there is no such penal statute in all this country. There must be some material offense. In case of perjury, the false testimony must be in relation to some material matter, and it is an essential element in all crimes. What is the use of enacting a statute that makes the technical and immaterial misstatements that can not offend against society or any individual the basis of a prosecution for felony.

Mr. BATES. Would not that be a matter of construction of court rather than the wording of the statute?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. I think not.

Mr. BATES. That is to say, if the word "material" is inserted, would it not be another loophole for the court to say to the jury, "It is a question for you in the first instance whether this is material?" That would have to be decided before any other question.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. The question of whether it would be material or not is a question of law for the court, and in the jurisdictions where juries are judges of the law as well as of fact that might be true, but that is not the case in a Federal court.

Mr. BATES. It would be a question of fact.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. No; it is a question of law which the court would construe; but, if the statute is being made for the purpose of convicting men without regard to whether they have committed any particular offense against society or government or the individual, then the gentleman is right; but if the statute is intended to convict men only who are criminals, who have offended against society, government, or a fellow-citizen, then the statute is wrong.

Mr. BATES. Does not the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER] think that he only further complicates the statute in its interpretation by adding this word?

Mr. CRUMPACKER. If it further complicates it, it is in the interest of good legislation and the protection of the citizen against an act that is incapable of anything more than a technical offense.

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, for the benefit of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER] I should like to say that this section was copied verbatim from the New York penal code, and that the section as it appears in the New York penal code does not contain the amendment he suggests; that is, the insertion of the word "material."

Mr. MANN. Mr. Chairman, it might easily be supposed that this case would arise: Under the civil-service regulations prescribed in pursuance to law, the civil-service applicant receives a blank certificate, which doubtless many gentlemen in this Hall have signed. One of the things in the certificate is the length of years you have known the applicant. Now, that might be material in one aspect of the case, but wholly immaterial in other aspects of the case. If it were material, and the gentleman's amendment were to prevail, the person would be guilty if material, and would not be guilty if immaterial. I have signed more than one of these certificates and stated the length of time I have known the applicant. That has been largely a matter of guesswork, because time does not fix itself readily in my mind, and I do not take the trouble to investigate to find out to the exact year, whether I have known a man nine years and three months or ten years. But under the provision of the bill as it stands if enacted into law, while it is not likely that anyone would be convicted, yet if the Department had a grudge against a man, as sometimes happens, as is now constantly happening in reference to the land cases, they would forget the material offense and come after the man upon the immaterial, technical violation of the law. I do not doubt that often it has happened that a public prosecutor, failing to convict on any material offense, has seized an opportunity to convict on a technical offense; and with a provision as sweeping as this, even with the amendment offered by the gentleman, it seems to me that the committee might well afford to throw some protection around a man accused of crime.

Mr. WALDO. Mr. Chairman, the serious objection to allowing this amendment is that the section is mainly meant to compel public officers to give true certificates. If this amendment is allowed, then a public officer may make a false certificate, and in those jurisdictions where the judge is easy a defendant will be let off on something that might be very material to the case and not be convicted. I think it is a dangerous thing, where this is tied up with a public officer for the purpose of making him liable to prosecution if he does not give a true certificate, to put in this amendment. I think it ought not to be put in.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER].

The question being taken on the amendment of Mr. CRUMPACKER, the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. MACON. Division!

Mr. WILLIAMS. I ask unanimous consent that the amendment may be read.

The CHAIRMAN. If there be no objection, the Clerk will again report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Line 22, page 253, after the word "any," insert the word "material."

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 14, noes 34.

Accordingly the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 112. [Whoever, being elected a Member of or Delegate to Congress, or a Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, shall, after his election and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, directly or indirectly, ask, accept, receive, or agree to receive, any money, property, or other valuable consideration, or any promise, contract, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value to him or to any person designated by him, for his attention to, or services, or with the intent to have his action, vote, or decision influenced, on any question, matter, cause, or proceeding, which may at any time be pending in either House of Congress or before any committee thereof, or which by law or under the Constitution may be brought before him in his official capacity, or in his place as such Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, shall be fined not more than three times the amount asked, accepted, or received, and imprisoned not more than three years; and shall, moreover, forfeit his office or place, and thereafter be forever disqualified from holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the Government of the United States.]

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer a committee amendment, in lines 2 and 3, to strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York offers a committee amendment, which will be reported by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Lines 2 and 3, page 55, strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, the object of that amendment is so that the words "Resident Commissioner" shall apply to the representatives of Porto Rico and the Philippines. They are not organized Territories, but their representatives are Resident Commissioners.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS].

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment, which I send to the desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 112a. That it shall be unlawful for any railroad company, or sleeping car, dining car, steamboat, express, telegraph or telephone company, or any company incorporated by act of the Congress of the United States, or any corporation or firm engaged in interstate commerce to give to any Senator or Representative of the Congress of the United States, or to any judge or justice of any court of the United States, any free transportation of person or property, or frank, franking privilege, or money, or other thing of value; and any company or person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by fine of not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 for each such offense; and any officer or agent of such company or companies who shall violate any provisions of this section shall be punished by fine not to exceed $5,000, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than six months, nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

That if any Senator or Representative in the Congress of the United States, or any judge or justice of any court of the United States shall receive from any railroad, steamboat, sleeping car, dining car, or express company, telegraph or telephone company, or any company chartered by an act of Congress, or any corporation or firm engaged in interstate commerce, or officer or agent of any such firm, company, or companies any free transportation of person or property, or any frank or franking privilege, or gift of money or other thing of value, he shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not to exceed $1,000, or by imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall forever be barred from holding office under the Government of the United States.

Mr. SHERLEY. Mr. Chairman, I think the amendment the gentleman has offered would more properly come under the following section, which is a section relating to bribing a Member of Congress, whereas this section relates to the Members themselves. If the gentleman will look at section 113, he will see that it more naturally pertains to his amendment.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. The first section of my amendment, or additional section, relates to the same matters as are provided for in section 112, and the second part of my section relates to the same that is considered in section 113. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent of the committee, in view not only of the condition of my health and voice, but in order that the committee may have an opportunity to see and study the amendments and decide what they want to do with them, that the consideration of these amendments go over until to-morrow and be considered at the end of this chapter, without losing parliamentary status.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas asks unanimous consent that the amendment offered by him may go over until to-morrow and be considered when the end of this chapter is read.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Without parliamentary detriment.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Yes; and there is also a kindred amendment which I will offer later.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Now I will offer the other amendment for the information of the House.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 112b. That it shall be unlawful for any Senator or Representative in the Congress of the United States during his term of service, or for any such Senator or Representative elect to directly or indirectly hold or take any office, employment, or service, or to receive any salary, fee, or pay as officer, agent, representative, or attorney from any national bank, railroad company, or ship, express, telegraph, telephone, or sleeping-car company, or any public-service corporation, or any corporation chartered by an act of Congress of the United States, or any firm, company, or corporation organized or conducted in violation of the antitrust laws of the United States, or that is charged with or has been convicted of a violation of any of the antitrust laws of the United States, or any corporation engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, traffic, or business, or commerce or business between any Territories, or any State or Territory, or between the District of Columbia and any State or Territory of the United States or any foreign power, or any person, firm, or corporation interested in legislation or other business of Congress, existing or anticipated.

That any Senator or Representative in Congress violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 and by imprisonment of not less than one month nor more than one year and shall forever be barred from holding any office of honor or trust under the Government of the United States.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Texas make the same request with reference to this amendment?

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Yes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 112 by inserting the word "other" between the words "any" and "person," in line 10, and by striking out the words "designated by him," in the same line, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "with his consent, connivance, or concurrence."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I think that is an improvement on the provision which the Commission has incorporated. The provision is "any person designated by him." The word "designate" is rather a formal word. If my amendment was adopted, it would read "any other person with his consent, concurrence, or connivance." I should be glad to have the Clerk read the clause as it would read if the amendment was incorporated.

The Clerk read as follows:

Or to any other person with his consent, connivance, or concurrence.

Mr. DE ARMOND. I submit, Mr. Chairman, that it makes it less difficult to establish the case, and covers, I think, better than the words incorporated by the Commission, what I understand the Commission to mean.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I ask leave to make a slight modification in the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendment as modified by the gentleman from Missouri.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 112, in line 10, by striking out the words "designated by him" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "with his consent, connivance, or concurrence."

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, the committee has no objection to that change. The object indicated by them is to cover just such a ground as that.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Now, Mr. Chairman, I offer a further amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by adding at the end of section 112 the following: "Whoever shall directly or indirectly give, receive, or accept anything of value for or on account of any vote, decision, or act of any such Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner shall be subject to fine and imprisonment as hereinbefore in this section provided."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, the object of that amendment is to reach the person who trades and bargains in the votes or acts of Members, Delegates, or Resident Commissioners, although he may do it without at all approaching the Member, Delegate, or Commissioner—the outside fellow, who assumes to be able to influence the vote of this man or that man or the action of this man or that man having a seat on this floor, although in fact he may never approach him or speak to him, although he may not know him or have any relations whatever with him. It seems to me, as the law now stands, he may bargain in safety and market his assumption. In other words, it is the sale by lobbyists of a supposed influence which they do not exert that I believe this amendment would reach. For instance, Mr. A is engaged in the business of lobbying, and he says to somebody who desires to have some legislation promoted or defeated, "I think I can get the vote of B; I think I can get B to vote for or against this bill." He therefore makes an arrangement that he shall receive, or he does actually receive, some valuable consideration upon the supposition that he will exert his influence upon B. Then, when the time comes around for the bill to be voted on in the House, Mr. B, if he be present, votes for it or against it. If the lobbyist is endeavoring to promote the legislation, and B happens to vote for it, he can very easily claim his wage by saying, "Well, I got B;" and if B does not vote for it, he can say, "Well, I had it fixed all right, but he went back on me." In other words, the effort is, so far as this amendment is concerned, to reach a class of people who bargain and barter in votes and acts of Members on this floor and in the Senate without ever having any relations whatever with the person who is bought and sold as so much merchandise. I do not think the law covers that kind of a case. I think this amendment would cover it, although it is hastily drawn. So far as I am concerned, it would be perfectly satisfactory to me to have the section passed over until to-morrow and let the amendment be printed, because if it does not accomplish the purpose stated I do not wish its adoption, and if it does I presume the members of the committee and everybody else does, or should, wish its adoption. If it does not accomplish the purpose, seeing it in print, somebody else may suggest some change which will accomplish the purpose. It would be perfectly satisfactory to me to let the section pass and let the amendment be printed in the RECORD to-morrow, to be taken up whenever we go into the Committee of the Whole again upon this bill. I have no disposition to press it now, but it is a subject that I think ought to be considered. I am willing to let it go over if that be the wish of the committee or of any Member.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri. Do I understand that the gentleman asks that his amendment go over until to-morrow?

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I am indifferent as to that.

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I hope that the suggestion made by the gentleman from Missouri will be adopted and that the amendment may go over. I am of the opinion that the very amendment he proposes is embraced in succeeding sections. If it is not, it is a good amendment that ought to be adopted.

Mr. DE ARMOND. If it is already embraced in succeeding sections, there is no need of it.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. HOUSTON] asks unanimous consent that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. DE ARMOND], just reported, go over until the close of this chapter. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 113. [Whoever shall promise, offer, or give, or cause to be promised, offered, or given, any money or other thing of value, or shall make or tender any contract, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value, to any Member of either House of Congress, or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, after his election and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, with intent to influence his action, vote, or decision, on any question, matter, cause, or proceeding which may at any time be pending in either House of Congress, or before any committee thereof, or which by law or under the Constitution may be brought before him in his official capacity or in his place as such Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, shall be fined not more than three times the amount of money or value of the thing so promised, offered, given, made, or tendered, and imprisoned not more than three years.]

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 56, lines 4 and 5, strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

On page 56, line 7, after the words "intent to," insert the words "or which tends to," so that it will read:
"with intent to or which tends to influence his action, vote, or decision."

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, we have it very plainly stated that an offense is committed where the act is done with the "intent" to "influence." It is very hard to prove intent. That is a mental act. Now, if a man does something that he knows will naturally "influence" the lawmaker, and it is corrupt or otherwise in derogation of public morals, or the provisions of this law, it seems to me that he ought to be punished for it. In other words, if he knows the natural effect of an act tends to "influence" a Member of Congress, that act should be prohibited, as well as if the person intends that it shall. If he knows it will influence, why does he do it? If he knows the natural effect of the act is to bring about a wrongdoing, then he is just as immoral in his purposes as if he intends to bring it about; hence I offer the amendment.

Mr. GARRETT. Does not my colleague think it is altogether a question for the jury?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Suppose the man comes up and says: "I did not intend to do it."

Mr. GARRETT. The jury is judge of the facts.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I know it, but it is very hard to prove what is inside a man's head or heart. A man is presumed to know the effect of the thing which naturally flows from his act. A man intends to do that which is the natural consequence of his act. Now, then, that is true; but when he does something he knows is going to have the desired effect, and then, as it were, walks off and lets somebody else be accused of it who happens to be walking along at the same time, he is just as evil-minded as the other man. I do not know that I make myself understood there. A man may intend to do a thing and do it, and if he does something which tends to do what he wants done, he should be held liable for the consequences, I think.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Tennessee.

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected.

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I wish to offer an amendment to that section.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas offers an amendment, which the Clerk will report.

Mr. HARDY. I have not written it out, but I will state it. The amendment is to put into that section the same words that already exist in the other section and make the section apply to gifts either to a Member or anyone designated by him.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman from Texas please send his amendment to the Clerk to be reported?

Mr. HARDY. I will prepare it so that it will be reported, and in the meantime I will state the purpose of the amendment. It is to apply this section to gifts to any Member or any person designated by a Member with intent to influence the action, etc.

Mr. WILLIAMS. A moment ago that language, and I think very properly, was changed to "any person with his consent, connivance, etc." It seems to me the language should be made to conform if you are going to offer that amendment.

Mr. HARDY. It is my purpose, I will say to the gentleman, to so word the amendment as to include the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri and to make this section stand on all fours with the section before it. I will ask that the amendment lay over until to-morrow, or I will write it out now and send it up.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to extend my remarks in the RECORD.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Kentucky asks unanimous consent to extend his remarks in the RECORD. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I suggest that we proceed with the next section and return to this one afterwards if the gentleman wishes to fix up an amendment.

Mr. HARDY. It is about ready.

Mr. PAYNE. It is rather unusual to keep the committee waiting. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that we go on with the next section.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. A parliamentary inquiry——

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York asks unanimous consent that this section be passed without prejudice. Is there objection?

Mr. HARRISON. I object.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I call for the regular order.

Mr. HARDY. The amendment is ready, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 115 by inserting, on page 56, line 6, after the word "office," the words "or to any person with his connivance or consent."

Mr. STAFFORD. Will the gentleman permit a question?

I believe the phraseology adopted in the previous amendment was "with his consent, connivance, or concurrence," and as I understand the gentleman, he desires to have the same language in this section.

Mr. HARDY. I accept the gentleman's amendment.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. The committee offers no objection to this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment.

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I understand the amendment as it stands is amended by the gentleman from Wisconsin.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment, so that Members may understand it.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 115 by inserting on page 56, line 6, after the word "office," the words "or to any person with his connivance or consent."

Mr. STAFFORD. Mr. Chairman, I believe the phraseology we adopted in the previous section was "with his consent, connivance, or concurrence," and, as I understand the gentleman desires to have the same phraseology, I move that it be amended to contain that language.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY] accept the amendment?

Mr. HARDY. I accept the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Modify the amendment so the words to be inserted shall be "or to any person with his consent, connivance, or concurrence."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 114. [Whoever, being elected a Member of or Delegate to Congress, or a Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, shall, after his election and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, or being an officer or agent of the United States, shall directly or indirectly take, receive, or agree to receive, from any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for procuring, or aiding to procure, any contract, office, or place from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof, for any person whatever, or for giving any such contract, office, or place to any person whomsoever; or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall offer, or agree to give, or shall give, or bestow any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such contract, office, or place, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than two years; and shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States. Any such contract or agreement may, at the option of the President, be declared void.]

Mr. PARSONS. Mr. Chairman, on behalf of the committee, I move to strike out the words in lines 17 and 18, page 56, "from any Territory of the United States," the same amendment we adopted in two preceding sections.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the gentleman from New York [Mr. PARSONS].

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer the amendment which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by striking out all that follows the word "whoever" in the first line of the section, down to and including the word "States" on page 56, line 21.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, I want to explain this amendment to the gentlemen, and I hope to get the consent of the committee to it. I believe if they understood its purpose and what its effect would be if it was adopted, that every gentleman on both sides of the House, including all the members of the committee, would support it.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the committee in its report says that in two instances they have changed existing law, first, where it was necessary in order to broaden the definition of a crime so as to prevent it being gotten around by people who had invented devices to avoid it; and second, where certain crimes were committed that were not provided for at all in the statute and which ought to be provided for.

Mr. Chairman, under the law as it stands, the bribe giver is punished under any and all circumstances. The classification of the bribe giver is not confined to officeholders in this very statute, but the bribe taker, the man who takes a bribe—must be an officer, a Member, or Delegate or resident commissioner, before there is any crime. Now, there are a large number of people who are paid money in the sections where I live, at least, for indorsement to office, who would not be embraced by this section as it is written, but who would be taken in if this amendment is adopted. For instance, the President appoints Federal officers in a great many States in the South on advice of gentlemen who are known as referees, and they act on advice of members of State and county committees; and I charge it now as a fact, as the truth, that no man will deny, that in many States in the South—not the referees; I won't say that—but numbers of these committeemen, State and county, have driven a thriving business in the sale of indorsements for Federal offices. And in my own district, about five years ago, at about the time my services as a Member of this body began, there was a public scandal on this very question, and the President sent inspectors down to investigate it, and he found that numbers of Republican committeemen in the State of Georgia and in the Tenth Georgia district were engaged in the regular business of selling for money their indorsement for Federal offices. And the President acted honestly and fairly in the matter and turned those people down.

Mr. NORRIS. Will the gentleman yield?

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] yield to the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS]?

Mr. HARDWICK. Certainly.

Mr. NORRIS. I think I would be very much in favor of perfecting this particular section in the way the gentleman suggests if it did not narrow it, but if I understand his amendment it strikes out all of section 114 down to and including the words "United States," in line 21. Am I right?

Mr. HARDWICK. Line 21 of the other bill. The gentleman has the wrong bill.

Mr. NORRIS. I think I have the right bill and the gentleman has the wrong one. I have the regular bill.

Mr. HARDWICK. In the fifth line of the section.

Mr. NORRIS. If I understand the gentleman's amendment, then, rather than adding to it takes out.

Mr. HARDWICK. Exactly. Now I will explain why, if the gentleman will permit me.

Mr. NORRIS. Just a moment, please. After you have taken that out the balance of it would not make any sense, as I read it.

Mr. HARDWICK. The gentleman reads it wrong.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. May I ask the gentleman one question?

Mr. HARDWICK. Just a minute.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. The gentleman leaves in the word "whoever?"

Mr. HARDWICK. Yes; I say, "Whoever shall, directly or indirectly, take, receive, or agree to receive," etc.

In other words, I want to strike from the definition of a bribe taker the official character, so that anybody who takes or agrees to take a bribe in order to secure Federal indorsement or indorsement for a Federal office shall be punished. Not only Members of Congress, not only Delegates from the Territories, not only resident commissioners, but anybody who prostitutes the influence that he may acquire, party or otherwise, ought to be punished.

[The time of Mr. HARDWICK having expired, by unanimous consent it was extended five minutes.]

Mr. PARSONS. I should like to ask the gentleman a question.

Mr. HARDWICK. Certainly.

Mr. PARSONS. What I think the gentleman wishes is desirable, but it seems to me that his amendment makes the provision too broad.

Mr. HARDWICK. I will agree to any modification that will accomplish the purpose I have in mind.

Mr. PARSONS. I think it will require a great deal of doing to get it into the form you want.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Why do you not draw this as an independent section?

Mr. HARDWICK. I have it here in that form, but I am afraid it can not be adopted in that form, as a proper consideration of the terms I have employed will require too much of the time of the Committee of the Whole. Is it not desirable and right for us to provide that when anybody, officeholder or not, party official or private citizen, undertakes to buy or to sell indorsement for Federal office or Federal contracts it shall be in law, as it is in morals, a crime against the United States Government and its people? How can it be too broad?

Mr. STAFFORD. Does the gentleman intend to have his amendment forbid an attorney going before the Departments and prosecuting cases on behalf of clients?

Mr. HARDWICK. Not at all.

Mr. STAFFORD. If the gentleman's amendment should carry, certainly the remaining phraseology would bar attorneys from prosecuting legitimate claims before the Departments. They would be forbidden to receive their fees under this broad phraseology.

Mr. HARDWICK. The gentleman is correct. My amendment would need modification because of that. I concede that the point the gentleman makes is well taken. I am glad he called my attention to it. The word "contract" would have to be striken out of this section or my amendment would have to be put into different phraseology or at some other place in the bill.

Mr. STAFFORD. Does not the gentleman's concession show that it is necessary to leave the phraseology as it is, because the purpose of the section was to have it apply solely to Members of Congress or those occupying official positions, so as to prevent them from using ulterior influences on Department officials for the obtaining of contracts?

Mr. HARDWICK. It may be that the amendment will have to be worded differently. It may be that the word "contract" will have to be stricken out, or I may have to ask time, if the gentlemen on the committee approve of the theory of the amendment, to put it into shape, so as to avoid the objection made by the gentleman.

But surely the gentlemen of the committee do not want to contend that this section ought to be left so that people who hold high party positions shall be allowed to auction off the Federal offices in any State or district in this entire Republic.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. The gentleman does not want to impair the efficiency of these sections.

Mr. HARDWICK. Not at all.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. Why not make this an independent proposition? It ought to be drawn pretty carefully.

Mr. HARDWICK. I will do that, then.

Mr. PARSONS. May I suggest to the gentleman that he choose the proper title? This chapter is entitled "Offenses relating to official duties." Therefore it relates to official duties. I suggest to the gentleman that he find a section under some other title.

Mr. HARDWICK. If the gentleman will pardon me, I think it applies here, because we are undertaking to deal with the people who are corruptly influenced in their indorsement of applicants for public offices, and there is no other section applicable to that.

Now, if gentlemen say this is not the proper place for this amendment, and will show me any other place where it will be more appropriate, I will defer to their judgment with the utmost pleasure, because I have no personal or selfish motive in this matter. Under this very section application was made to the prosecuting officers to take some action, to apply some remedy, and they said they could not do anything with these people, whom the reports of the Post-Office Department will show were engaged in this iniquitous and vicious practice, because this section was not broad enough.

Mr. LITTLEFIELD. They are very clearly right.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I desire that the time of the gentleman from Georgia may be extended two minutes in order that I may make a suggestion. This chapter relates to offenses against official duties. The last part of this section provides for disqualification from holding office, and this section especially relates to matters of this kind, and the subject of the gentleman's amendment would not be germane.

Mr. HARDWICK. I regret that I have been unable to make it clear to the gentleman. I have tried to make it clear to him that the subject I am aiming at is the purchase and sale of indorsement for office, and that subject is dealt with in this very section, and so far existing law has confined the punishment for taking bribes to Members of Congress and Delegates, and you propose to add resident commissioners. My purpose is to broaden it so that it shall apply to everyone, because no matter who is guilty, it constitutes an offense of a very grave character against the United States, its Government, and its people.

Mr. HOUSTON. It is an offense that you designate as applicable to all parties, and the objection that I offer is that it would be more pertinent and more appropriate in a section that did not relate to offenses against official duties.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, I will offer the following as section 114a.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Georgia withdraws his amendment and offers another.

The Clerk read as follows:

Add the following as section 114a:

"Every person holding or filling any office under any branch of the Government of the United States of America, or under the national, State, or local organization of any political party in the United States of America, who shall, directly or indirectly, sell, or propose to sell, or agree to sell, his indorsement or support of any candidate, applicant, or other person for election or appointment to any office, appointment, or position under the legislative, executive, or judicial branch of the Government of the United States of America, or who shall demand, or receive, or agree to take any sum of money or other bribe, or present, or reward, or any promise, contract, obligation, or security for the payment of any money, present, reward, or other thing of value for obtaining, or procuring or assisting to obtain or procure, or attempting to obtain or procure, or agreeing to obtain or procure, or agreeing to attempt to obtain or procure, the election or appointment of any person to any office, position, or appointment under the legislative, executive, or judicial branch of the Government of the United States of America, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be imprisoned not less than six months nor more than five years.

"That in like manner every person who shall directly or indirectly purchase, or propose to purchase, the indorsement or support of any of the persons mentioned in the preceding section hereof, of any candidate, applicant, or other person for election or appointment to the offices, appointments, or positions mentioned in the preceding section, or who shall offer or give any sum of money or other bribe, or present, or reward, or shall make, or offer to make, any contract, promise, or agreement for the payment of any money, present, reward, or thing of value, either directly or indirectly, to any of the persons mentioned in the preceding section hereof, in order to obtain or procure the assistance, or aid, or support, or indorsement, of any of the aforementioned persons in procuring, or attempting to procure, the election or appointment of any person to any office or offices mentioned in the preceding section hereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be imprisoned not less than six months nor longer than five years."

Mr. HARDWICK. Now, Mr. Chairman, I want to say one word, and I think I will be able to dispose of the matter in a manner satisfactory to the chairman of the committee, who has so ably managed this bill. This matter was submitted to the President of the United States, and in the first message that he sent to the Fifty-eighth Congress he said that there ought to be legislation on this subject. I have introduced a bill in every Congress since then—in the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and now in the Sixtieth—and yet in the ordinary course of events, as they occur in this body, I will not be able to get consideration for it unless I put it somewhere in this bill.

Now, I am quite aware, as the chairman of the committee suggests, that this independent proposition involves so much consideration as to details of language employed by myself in the section just submitted that it will be useless for me to expect the committee to adopt so important a proposition as an independent section. I think, and I understand the gentleman from Pennsylvania agrees with me, there ought to be some sort of an independent section so as to include and cover every class of these cases, which I regard as a national shame and disgrace, not only to the South, but to the North, East, and West; not only to the Republican party, but to all the people in the United States.

Therefore, Mr. Chairman, with the consent and concurrence of the gentleman from Pennsylvania who leads the fight for this bill, I desire to ask unanimous consent that section 114 be passed until to-morrow, so that I may, if possible, frame an amendment that will meet with the gentleman's concurrence and which will accomplish this desirable end.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I think this course should be proceeded with under another section, but I would not object to it here. But I want to correct one or two remarks made by the gentleman from Georgia, and one is that the gentleman from Pennsylvania has not said that this section ought to be broadened.

Mr. HARDWICK. With the gentleman's permission, if I stated that, I want to say that I did not intend to be so understood. I thought, however, from what the gentleman said to me, that he did not think so. [Laughter.]

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Of course I am not responsible for that.

Mr. OLMSTED. Mr. Chairman, I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Georgia that section 114 covers what he wants to get at. I read from page 57, in line 2:

Whoever directly or indirectly shall offer or agree to give, or shall give, or bestow, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such contract, office, or place shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than two years.

Mr. HARDWICK. I will say to the gentleman that that would be broad enough to cover the man who gives the bribe, but it would not cover the man who takes the bribe.

Mr. OLMSTED. If he is an officer of the Government, section 114 covers all that.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair will suggest to the gentlemen that if this section goes over until to-morrow it can then be discussed. The gentleman asks unanimous consent that section 114 go over until to-morrow.

Mr. YOUNG. I object.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I shall now offer as a substitute for the motion pending the following, which I send to the desk and ask to have read. It is a substitute for section 114a, proposed by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK].

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 114. [Whoever shall directly or indirectly give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, from any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for procuring, or aiding to procure, any office or place from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof, for any person whatever, or for giving any such office or place to any person whomsoever; or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such office or place, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than two years, and shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] has put in the exact form that the committee has offered it exactly the proposition I desired, and I thank him very much for his assistance in that matter. Now, unless the committee is prepared to take issue with me on the principle of this thing, there is no technical reason why they can not accept their own work, their own phraseology, and give us a statute that the courts will say is broad enough to punish committeemen, State and county, and referees, if any of them were guilty of it, who sell their influence when it comes to filling Federal offices in the South or anywhere else. We ask you, if you want to give us a fair deal in this matter, if you want cleanliness and purity down there in the administration of your Government, to vote for this proposition which the gentleman from Mississippi has so kindly put in shape, and which leaves no technical reason for opposing it.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the Chair understand that the gentleman from Georgia withdraws his amendment?

Mr. HARDWICK. Yes; I do.

Mr. OLMSTED. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] whether he thinks that the penalties of this section should be as severe as those applied to a Member of Congress for receiving a bribe?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Yes; I do; and I will tell the gentleman why.

Mr. OLMSTED. One moment. It seems to me that a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment for the offense described in this section would perhaps defeat the object of the provision by preventing convictions.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I do not think it would. I think, upon the contrary, that it would be more apt to be inflicted in those cases than upon a Senator or a Member of Congress. I am of the opinion that the bribe giver is exactly on the same footing as the bribe taker, and I am of opinion that a man who is holding office, say that of United States marshal or clerk or postmaster, or something of that sort in a State, particularly in a State where there is no party of the dominant party, and becomes a referee in patronage matters and offers to sell or does sell his influence or his recommendation as a referee, is peculiarly responsible to this disqualification clause. I will, moreover, say this to the gentleman, that that is only the maximum punishment; the court can impose less.

Mr. OLMSTED. But the law, as proposed, imposes both fine and imprisonment.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Yes; and I think both ought to be imposed.

Mr. OLMSTED. There might be technical offenses that might not be very serious.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I don't think there could be any offense under this statute that is not serious.

Mr. OLMSTED. It would have to be one of very grave character, else you could not secure conviction with such penalties as the result. I had in mind the case mentioned by the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES], where certain persons who were willing to plead guilty, provided they could be assured that only a fine would be imposed, were entirely acquitted, because the jury was unwilling that they should be imprisoned for the offense, and found them not guilty. That might follow in this case. The severity of the penalty might defeat the worthy object of the law.

Mr. NORRIS. Mr. Chairman, I would like to have the attention of the gentleman from Mississippi and the gentleman from Georgia along the same line suggested by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. We all know the severity of a penalty sometimes defeats conviction. The jury would be inclined, if it thought a penalty was going to be too severe, if the offense was not very grave, to find the defendant not guilty. Now, while the fine and imprisonment are both stated in the act in the maximum—and that could be well left to the discretion of the court—there is another part of the penalty about which the court would have no discretion, and that is this part: "And shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States." In my judgment, that is the severest part of this penalty. Now, if you were prosecuting a man under this statute, and the offense was not grave, there is not any doubt that it would be a very difficult matter to secure a conviction, because that particular part of the punishment must always be imposed, The court has no discretion as to that part, and it seems to me, inasmuch as it does not apply to officers at all, but to individuals generally, that that part of the penalty, if we are going to adopt this amendment, ought to be omitted.

Mr. WILLIAMS. If the gentleman will pardon me. If there be any offense committed under this statute as I propose it at all, it can not be any trivial offense.

Mr. NORRIS. Suppose this case I happen to think of: Suppose a man offered to pay $5 to a man for indorsing him for postmaster. If that man were prosecuted for that and a jury would understand that in case of his conviction he would be deprived during his entire life from holding any office under the United States, they would render a verdict of "not guilty" without any question.

Mr. WILLIAMS. In the State of Mississippi a man accepting or giving a bribe is disqualified now, and I can not conceive of any juster punishment in the word——

Mr. NORRIS. That is vastly different from a man——

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman supposed the case of a man taking $5 as a bribe to indorse a man——

Mr. NORRIS. It strikes me that if this particular amendment were adopted the prosecution of anyone could not be successfully done unless the offense was a very grave one, from the very fact that it makes the penalty too severe.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I am very anxious—am I speaking in my own time or the gentleman's?

Mr. NORRIS. You are speaking in my time.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I beg the gentleman's pardon.

Mr. NORRIS. I am inclined to think, Mr. Chairman, we ought to adopt some amendment of this kind in order that we may cover some conditions that exist in some sections of the country, but we ought to do it in a practical way. We ought not to try to be so severe that we will hinder the enforcement of justice rather than to help it along, and it seems to me that it makes this penalty too severe, the most severe really of any penalty that can be inflicted. Some gentleman said that it could not be more than $10,000 fine, that it is within the discretion of the court to make this $50 or $1; but this disqualifying clause is a part of the penalty, the most severe, and one over which the court has no control, and I think it has been the experience of every prosecuting attorney here that where the penalty is so severe the offense will have to be of a grievous kind to secure conviction.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Would it satisfy the gentleman if I were to strike out the conjunctive "and" and substitute the disjunctive "or?" In that event it would be left to the discretion of the court whether the last penalty should be imposed.

Mr. NORRIS. That would help greatly.

Mr. OLMSTED. I was just about to suggest that.

Mr. NORRIS. I think it would be much better to take that part of it clear out, because it does not apply to an officer——

Mr. WILLIAMS. I beg the gentleman's pardon; it generally does. These referees are generally United States marshals or United States clerks——

Mr. NORRIS. It covers everybody. We are legislating here particularly in regard to officers, and where they do things wrong and commit this offense we can properly prohibit them from holding office; but this covers everybody, and it strikes me that to be consistent with the balance of the legislation we ought to leave out that part in regard to disqualification.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I would much rather leave out the fine and imprisonment than the disqualification, and I ask unanimous consent, Mr. Chairman——

Mr. NORRIS. I want to make a motion before I give up the floor. In order to get the matter before the House, I move to amend the amendment by striking out of it the language commencing with the second "and" in line 7—that is, striking out the last sentence.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The disqualification penalty is what the gentleman means?

Mr. NORRIS. Yes; that is my motion.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman's amendment is to strike out so much of the penalty as reads as follows:

> And shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

That penalty, as I understand him, he thinks ought not to be visited on a man who is not an officeholder. I think a man who is not an officeholder, but a private citizen, and commits a crime of this sort ought to be disqualified just as much from the ability to hold office in the future as the man holding an office now, guilty of the same offense, ought to be presently disqualified. But before the gentleman's amendment to my amendment is put to the committee I want to ask unanimous consent to modify my amendment thus far, so that his amendment to my amendment may be to my amendment as modified—to wit: Strike out the word "and" which follows the semicolon immediately after the word "years" and to substitute for it the disjunctive "or." So the court within its discretion may inflict the last penalty or not. If the court thinks it is a grave case, it can inflict it. If it takes the view that it is not one, then it can leave that part of the penalty out. I ask unanimous consent to modify my amendment by striking out "and" and substituting "or."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] asks unanimous consent to modify the amendment offered by him. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Now, I ask unanimous consent again, after the word "imprisonment" to add the words "or both."

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] asks unanimous consent to modify his amendment by adding, after the word "imprisonment," the words "or both." The Chair will ask the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] if the modification suggested by him should not come after the word "years?"

Mr. WILLIAMS. Yes; it could.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, it will be so ordered.

There was no objection.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Now, I yield to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. CRUMPACKER].

Mr. CRUMPACKER. Mr. Chairman, I desire to call the attention of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] to the fact that the section as amended by him, in my judgment, would prevent any citizen in the country from contributing any money or any time or anything of value to procure the election of any candidate for office. It does not refer to appointive offices. This is a very important question that we are engaged upon now, and, in my judgment, if the section should be amended as the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] has asked it to be, and then should be adopted, it would be a felony for any citizen to contribute any money, any time, anything of value, to assist a candidate to being elected to any office under the Federal Government. I do not believe the gentleman desires to enact a statute of that kind.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Now, Mr. Chairman, for tactical reasons, and in order to obviate all objections, I ask that the word "appointive" be inserted prior to the word "office" and prior to the word "place" wherever those words occur in the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] asks unanimous consent to modify his amendment by inserting the word "appointive" prior to the word "office" and prior to the word "place" wherever they occur. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. CRUMPACKER. That amendment ought to be made to the text, at any rate.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I make it to this now.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] has expired.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I ask two minutes more in order to answer a question of the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. GAINES].

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, it will be so ordered.

There was no objection.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. I propose, Mr. Chairman, to offer, when the time comes, an amendment to section 114, to strike out the word "contract" in line 5, page 57. I want to ask the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] whether the language of his proposed amendment includes the word "contract" in the same connection in which it appears in that statute?

Mr. WILLIAMS. No; it does not. My amendment applies only to those who are not officeholders, Members of Congress, Delegates, and resident commissioners, and for that reason the word "contract" was stricken out, because a private citizen might be an attorney legitimately employed to go before a Department to represent a would-be contractor.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. I appreciate the reasons. I did not know of the fact.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I would not be in favor of striking out the word "contract" from the original section 114, but my amendment does not concern that at all.

Mr. DRISCOLL. I think we ought to have that read again.

Mr. PARSONS. Let the amendment be again reported in its present form.

The CHAIRMAN. If there be no objection, the Clerk will again report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 114a. [Whoever shall directly or indirectly give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, from any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for procuring, or aiding to procure, any appointive office, or appointive place from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof, for any person whatever, or for giving any such appointive office, or appointive place to any person whomsoever; or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such appointive office, or appointive place, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years or both; or shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

Mr. DRISCOLL. I wish to ask the gentleman from Mississippi a question on the construction of this. Suppose, for instance, there is a man down in your section of the country who has influence, and his influence is sought by another man who wants to be collector of the port there, and he says, "Yes; I will indorse your application, and I should like to have you appoint John Smith, my friend, to be deputy collector."

Mr. WILLIAMS. He ought to be punished, if he did that.

Mr. DRISCOLL. Does that come within the purview of this statute, and make it a crime?

Mr. WILLIAMS. I think so, and it ought to.

Mr. OLMSTED. Mr. Chairman, I offer, if it has not already been offered, as an amendment to the amendment, the striking out of the words:

or shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

I ask the Clerk to report that amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out the words "or shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is informed that that amendment was offered by the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS].

Mr. OLMSTED. Then I want to say a word in behalf of that amendment. I wish, in the first instance, to correct the gentleman from Mississippi. He stated that in his State there was a disqualification from office for bribery. I find on looking at the Mississippi code, adopted in 1906, that that was omitted. There is no such provision.

Mr. WILLIAMS. It is in the constitution itself.

Mr. OLMSTED. Can you convict a man and sentence him on the constitution without an act of the assembly?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Oh, no; but the constitution says that any person convicted of any crime involving moral turpitude, naming several of them, and this is one of them, shall be so disqualified.

Mr. OLMSTED. It is not in the statute nor in the Federal Constitution.

This is a very serious provision, and this very amendment, offered by the gentleman from Mississippi, to my mind, shows the danger of our attempting general legislation on this subject in a bill to revise the criminal code. If I correctly understand the gentleman's amendment, it makes it a misdemeanor for anybody to give or bestow, or agree to bestow, any money, property, or other valuable consideration. Now, a man's time is a valuable consideration. We are told that time is money; and technically and strictly, under this amendment, if a man, working for a friend, should take a petition and spend three days in circulating it for signatures for his appointment as postmaster, he would be subject to fine and imprisonment and disqualification from holding office. If a newspaper should give its editorial columns to the support of any gentleman for any appointive office under the Federal Government, the editor and proprietor of the paper would be subject to fine or imprisonment, and would be disqualified from holding any office of trust or profit.

Mr. WILLIAMS. If one man gave his time and another gave his newspaper service freely and voluntarily without any promise given for a Federal office as an inducement or consideration, it would not be a violation of the proposed law, and if he gives it for that reason it ought to be.

Mr. OLMSTED. If he gives it without any consideration, if he gave it to procure an office, or if he gave a man $2 to pay for circulating the petition, it would under this amendment be an offense subjecting both to fine and imprisonment and disqualification from holding office. I think that part ought to be stricken out certainly.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Nebraska to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the committee rose, and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. BANNON, chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that committee had had under consideration the bill (H. R. 11701) for the codification of the penal laws and had come to no resolution thereon.

CASTLE ISLAND, BOSTON HARBOR.

Mr. O'CONNELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire unanimous consent to introduce a petition of the citizens of South Boston to the United States Congress and the Secretary of War in opposition to taking Castle Island for immigration. It would be a manifest injustice, and I would like unanimous consent to have the preamble extended in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER. Under the rules the petition would go through the box, but the gentleman from Massachusetts desires unanimous consent to present the petition to which he refers and to print the preamble in the RECORD.

Mr. PAYNE. I object.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. WOODYARD, by unanimous consent, was given leave of absence of one week, on account of important business.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

Under clause 2, Rule XXIV, Senate bills of the following titles were taken from the Speaker's table and referred to their appropriate committees as indicated below:

S. 2694. An act to authorize the construction of a drawbridge over the Black River in Lawrence County, Ark.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 550. An act providing for stated leaves of absence to entrymen under the homestead laws—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

S. 417. An act to extend the time for the completion of a bridge across the Missouri River at Yankton, S. Dak., by the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern Railway Company—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 152. An act to provide a site and buildings for the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce and Labor—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

Mr. WILSON of Illinois, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bill of the following title, when the Speaker signed the same:

H. R. 9087. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize Washington and Westmoreland counties, in the State of Pennsylvania, to construct and maintain a bridge across the Monongahela River, in the State of Pennsylvania," approved February 21, 1903.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I now move that the House adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 50 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

---

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, the following executive communications were taken from the Speaker's table and referred as follows:

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of channel between Threemile Harbor and Gardiners Bay, New York—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Civil Service Commission, submitting an estimate of appropriation for salaries of expert examiners—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of survey for wagon road to connect Mammoth Hot Springs, in Yellowstone National Park, with road heretofore constructed by Gallatin County, Mont.—to the Committee on the Public Lands and ordered to be printed, with illustrations.

A letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting a draft of a bill to authorize cancellation of Indian allotments under any law or treaty, for purpose of permitting the divorced wife, or the wife or other members of the family, to take lands so relinquished—to the Committee on Indian Affairs and ordered to be printed.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXII, the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads was discharged from the consideration of the bill (H. R. 13804) for the relief of Malcolm Gillis, and the same was referred to the Committee on Claims.

PUBLIC BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND MEMORIALS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills, resolutions, and memorials of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. GORDON: A bill (H. R. 13828) for the suppression of gambling on horse races through national and interstate commerce and the postal service, subject to the jurisdiction and the laws of the United States—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. RANDELL of Texas: A bill (H. R. 13829) to prohibit Senators and Representatives in Congress and Senators and Representatives elect from serving or receiving pay from public-service corporations, trusts, and other persons as officer, agent, representative, or attorney, and providing penalties therefor—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13830) prohibiting the giving and receiving of money or other thing of value by any railroad, steamboat, express, telegraph, or telephone company or companies chartered by the Congress or engaged in interstate commerce to or by a Senator or Representative in Congress, or any judge or justice of any United States court, and providing penalties therefor, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. GORDON: A bill (H. R. 13831) for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building in the city of Covington, Tipton County, Tenn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. CANNON (by request): A bill (H. R. 13832) to amend an act entitled "An act in amendment of sections 2 and 3 of an act entitled 'An act granting pensions to soldiers and sailors who are incapacitated for the performance of manual labor, and providing for pensions to widows, minor children, and dependent parents, approved June 27, 1890,' approved May 9, 1900"—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. NYE: A bill (H. R. 13833) to provide for the erection of a public building at Minneapolis, Minn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 13834) to provide for approval and ratification of sales of certain lands in partition suits in the Quapaw Indian Agency, Ottawa County, Okla., and deeds made therein—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. MANN: A bill (H. R. 13835) to regulate commerce in adulterated and misbranded seed and to prevent the sale or transportation thereof, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. WILEY: A bill (H. R. 13836) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the appropriate marking of the graves of the soldiers and sailors of the Confederate army and navy who died in Northern prisons and were buried near the prisons where they died, and for other purposes"—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. JENKINS: A bill (H. R. 13837) to amend section 5481 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13838) to amend section 5392 of the Revised Statutes of the United States—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. SMITH of Arizona: A bill (H. R. 13839) for the erection of a public building at Nogales, Ariz.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. HALE: A bill (H. R. 13840) to authorize Campbell County, Tenn., to build a bridge over Powells River—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. SMITH of Texas: A bill (H. R. 13841) to require railroad companies engaged in interstate commerce to promptly furnish cars and other transportation facilities and to empower the Interstate Commerce Commission to make rules and regulations with respect thereto, and to further regulate commerce among the several States—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. SMITH of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 13842) for the widening of Sixteenth street NW. at Piney Branch, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. HILL of Mississippi: A bill (H. R. 13843) to authorize a survey of the Yalobusha River, Mississippi, with the view to making same navigable—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. SMITH of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 13844) to authorize and require the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company to maintain and operate a track connection with the United States navy-yard in the city of Washington, D. C.—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. FORNES: A bill (H. R. 13845) providing for the establishment of the United States National Bank of America in the city of Washington, D. C.—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. McHENRY: A bill (H. R. 13846) to amend an act granting pensions to certain enlisted men, soldiers, and officers who served in the civil war and the war with Mexico, approved February 6, 1907—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. JOHNSON of Kentucky: A bill (H. R. 13847) to provide for the further improvement of Green River, in the State of Kentucky—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. PADGETT: A bill (H. R. 13848) providing for the issue and circulation of national-bank notes—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. REID: A bill (H. R. 13849) to amend an act of June 30, 1906, authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to contract for the erection of a United States post-office at Little Rock, Ark.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. BOWERS: A bill (H. R. 13850) to extend the application of the several acts to regulate interstate commerce to certain public-service corporations and persons engaged in interstate commerce—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: A bill (H. R. 13851) providing for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new immigration station thereon at the city of Boston, Mass.—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. HULL of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13852) to repeal section 5518 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relative to conspiracy, to prevent accepting or holding office under United States, and so forth—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13853) to repeal section 5509 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relative to crimes committed while violating the elective franchise and civil-rights law—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13854) to repeal sections 5508 and 5509 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relative to offenses against the elective franchise and civil rights—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13855) to amend section 4, chapter 114, 18 Statutes at Large, page 336, relative to nonexclusion of jurors on account of race or color—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13856) to repeal section 5528 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relative to the presence of troops at elections in any State—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. POU: A bill (H. R. 13857) providing for the erection of a public building at Henderson, N. C.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. HOBSON: A bill (H. R. 13858) to provide a navy adequate for national defense—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. HILL of Connecticut (by request): A bill (H. R. 13859) to prohibit the issuing of a tax receipt for the sale of liquor to any person, firm, or corporation selling or proposing to sell liquor in violation of State, county, or municipal law, whether in license, dispensary, local-option, or prohibition territory—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. NEEDHAM: Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 101) authorizing the Secretary of War to secure a suitable design for a statue of the late Commodore John D. Sloat at Monterey, Cal.—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. MURPHY: Memorial of the legislature of Wisconsin, relating to uniform standard of classification of grains—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, memorial of the legislature of Wisconsin, relating to the improvement of the upper Mississippi River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, memorial of the legislature of Wisconsin, relating to a ship canal to connect the Great Lakes with the Mississippi River—to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

Also, memorial of the legislature of Wisconsin, relating to the election of Senators of the United States by a direct vote of the people—to the Committee on Election of President, etc.

PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ADAIR: A bill (H. R. 13860) granting a pension to Benjamin F. Harter—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ALEXANDER of New York: A bill (H. R. 13861) granting a pension to James Lee—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13862) granting a pension to De Witt C. Welch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ASHBROOK: A bill (H. R. 13863) granting a pension to Herbert O. Kohr—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13864) granting an increase of pension to Eliza Sells—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BEALE of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 13865) granting a pension to Catherine McWilliams—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13866) granting a pension to James E. Craig—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13867) granting a pension to Nancy J. Martin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13868) for the relief of Jacob Schrecengost, Company B, Sixty-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BENNETT of Kentucky: A bill (H. R. 13869) for the relief of Margaret Morarity—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. BINGHAM: A bill (H. R. 13870) granting a pension to Margaret S. Alexander—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13871) granting a pension to Mary McIlhenny—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOOHER: A bill (H. R. 13872) granting an increase of pension to Harriet E. C. L. Bonham—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BURNETT: A bill (H. R. 13873) granting a pension to William M. Kearley—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13874) granting an increase of pension to Martha E. McKnight—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CALDER: A bill (H. R. 13875) for the relief of John V. Johnson—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13876) for the relief of John V. Johnson—to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. CALDERHEAD: A bill (H. R. 13877) granting an increase of pension to Seneca R. Randall—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: A bill (H. R. 13878) for the relief of Benjamin Day—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CANNON: A bill (H. R. 13879) granting an increase of pension to John Thompson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13880) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Webster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13881) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Kingson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13882) granting an increase of pension to Hiram F. Hollister—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13883) granting a pension to Daniel W. Linder—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13884) granting a pension to Matthias Reed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13885) granting a pension to Ulysses G. Powell—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CHAPMAN: A bill (H. R. 13886) granting an increase of pension to Francis M. Crocker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13887) granting a pension to John Lichtenberger—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. CLARK of Florida: A bill (H. R. 13888) granting an increase of pension to Texas Niblack—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. COCKRAN: A bill (H. R. 13889) granting an increase of pension to Martha Foster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CRAWFORD: A bill (H. R. 13890) for the relief of F. M. Shipman—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. DE ARMOND: A bill (H. R. 13891) granting an increase of pension to David Z. Younger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DIXON: A bill (H. R. 13892) granting an increase of pension to John S. Davidson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13893) granting an increase of pension to George W. Louden—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13894) granting an increase of pension to Philip Kissel—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13895) granting an increase of pension to Valeria Shook—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13896) granting an increase of pension to George Slagle—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13897) granting an increase of pension to Samuel McIlroy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13898) granting an increase of pension to Francis R. Phelps—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13899) granting an increase of pension to Simeon Kysar—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13900) granting a pension to Elhanan C. Goings—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13901) granting a pension to Emily M. Stewart—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13902) granting a pension to Alexander Ward—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DUREY: A bill (H. R. 13903) granting an increase of pension to Theodore Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FASSETT: A bill (H. R. 13904) to remove the charge of desertion against Isaac Hurlburt—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13905) granting an honorable discharge to James Bowday—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13906) granting an increase of pension to Michael Baker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13907) granting an increase of pension to Emma Soper—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13908) granting an increase of pension to Nelvina Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13909) granting an increase of pension to Heman R. Lybolt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13910) granting an increase of pension to Henry Moore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13911) granting a pension to Elenora Deshler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FITZGERALD: A bill (H. R. 13912) granting an increase of pension to George H. Frost—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FLOYD: A bill (H. R. 13913) granting an increase of pension to Amos W. Littlejohn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13914) granting an increase of pension to Lowery C. Carlton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13915) for the relief of Samuel Choate—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. FOSS: A bill (H. R. 13916) granting an increase of pension to Charles R. Bockins—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13917) granting an increase of pension to Otto Kuhlman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GAINES of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13918) granting an increase of pension to Charles B. Griffin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GILLESPIE: A bill (H. R. 13919) granting an increase of pension to Eunice A. Summers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GRONNA: A bill (H. R. 13920) granting an increase of pension to Fernando D. Stone—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13921) granting an increase of pension to Oswald Ihme—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HASKINS: A bill (H. R. 13922) for the allowance of certain claims reported by the Court of Claims under the provisions of the acts approved March 3, 1883, and March 3, 1887, and commonly known as the Bowman and the Tucker acts—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HILL of Connecticut: A bill (H. R. 13923) granting an increase of pension to William Andrews—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOWARD: A bill (H. R. 13924) for the relief of Mrs. Elizabeth A. C. Galloway—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HUBBARD of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 13925) granting an increase of pension to Francis M. McLeery—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HULL of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13926) granting a pension to Andrew J. Arendell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 13927) for the relief of the estates of Asa Faulkner, deceased; Lewis L. Faulkner, deceased, and S. B. Spurlock, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. JOHNSON of Kentucky: A bill (H. R. 13928) for the relief of P. H. McDonough, of Bardstown, Ky.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. KENNEDY of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 13929) granting an increase of pension to James A. Walters—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KIPP: A bill (H. R. 13930) granting a pension to Rocelia Morse—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13931) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Hugh Ralston—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LANING: A bill (H. R. 13932) granting a pension to David C. McMillen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13933) granting a pension to Amos D. Norris—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13934) granting an increase of pension to William H. Russell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13935) granting an honorable discharge to Harrison McWilliams, alias Charles Watters—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13936) to correct the military record of and grant an honorable discharge to Henry P. Cassel—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13937) to remove charge of desertion against Lewis Sears—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13938) granting an increase of pension to Samuel J. Frey—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LAW: A bill (H. R. 13939) granting an increase of pension to Harry Landan—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LAWRENCE: A bill (H. R. 13940) for the relief of Patrick Tobin, jr.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LITTLEFIELD: A bill (H. R. 13941) to correct the military record of Frederick W. Buck—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LONGWORTH: A bill (H. R. 13942) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Waters—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13943) granting an increase of pension to Daniel H. Converse—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13944) granting a pension to Christopher Kneup—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13945) granting a pension to Abbie E. Barr—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13946) granting a pension to Catherine Sasse—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13947) for the relief of Pardon M. Bowen—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LOVERING: A bill (H. R. 13948) granting a pension to Nellie E. Rundlet—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McGUIRE (by request): A bill (H. R. 13949) for the relief of Clarence W. Turner—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13950) for the relief of Charles A. Going—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. McKINLAY of California: A bill (H. R. 13951) granting an increase of pension to William Herbert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McKINLEY of Illinois: A bill (H. R. 13952) granting a pension to Elenor Foster—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13953) granting a pension to G. W. Dewald—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McKINNEY: A bill (H. R. 13954) granting an increase of pension to George J. Morgan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MANN: A bill (H. R. 13955) to compensate E. C. Sturges for property lost during the Spanish-American war—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MORSE: A bill (H. R. 13956) granting an increase of pension to Jasper Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13957) granting an increase of pension to Matthew J. McRaith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MURDOCK: A bill (H. R. 13958) granting a pension to Elizabeth S. Caldwell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MURPHY: A bill (H. R. 13959) granting an increase of pension to Charles C. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13960) granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Gosling—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. NYE: A bill (H. R. 13961) granting a pension to Annie A. Robins—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. PARKER of New Jersey: A bill (H. R. 13962) granting an increase of pension to John D. Wells—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PEARRE: A bill (H. R. 13963) granting a pension to Louis Spindler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13964) granting a pension to Mrs. Joseph Lashorn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13965) granting an increase of pension to John Fesler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13966) for the relief of the heirs of Adam S. Showman, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13967) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of George W. Keeney—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13968) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of John H. Sweitzer—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13969) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Henry Hull—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. PETERS: A bill (H. R. 13970) granting an increase of pension to Allen Hutchinson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13971) to correct the naval record of Robert Downing—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. REYNOLDS: A bill (H. R. 13972) granting an increase of pension to John B. Tobias—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13973) for the relief of John A. Long—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. RHINOCK: A bill (H. R. 13974) granting a pension to Elizabeth Moore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13975) granting a pension to William H. Liter—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13976) granting a pension to Elizabeth Bingham—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13977) granting a pension to W. H. Mullins—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13978) granting a pension to Margaret Sylvester—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. RICHARDSON: A bill (H. R. 13979) granting a pension to Lem G. Meade—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. ROTHERMEL: A bill (H. R. 13980) granting an increase of pension to Augustus Shiery—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13981) granting an increase of pension to Richard R. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13982) granting an increase of pension to George S. Engler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13983) granting an increase of pension to Hiram Focht—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13984) granting an increase of pension to George W. Wertz—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. RUCKER: A bill (H. R. 13985) granting an increase of pension to Joseph G. Banning—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13986) granting an increase of pension to Josiah Stoneburner—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13987) granting an increase of pension to William H. Cummings—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. RUSSELL of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 13988) granting a pension to George C. Thilenius—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13989) granting a pension to Jefferson Johnson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13990) granting an honorable discharge to Henry A. Smith—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13991) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Fulkerson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SHACKLEFORD: A bill (H. R. 13992) granting an increase of pension to G. A. Miller—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13993) granting an increase of pension to Simon Dearduff—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13994) granting an increase of pension to C. E. Hayse—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SLAYDEN: A bill (H. R. 13995) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Crowley—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 13996) to appoint Thomas Little a second lieutenant in the Army and to place him on the retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. SMITH of California: A bill (H. R. 13997) to reimburse the Southern Pacific Company the amounts expended by it from December 1, 1906, to November 30, 1907, in closing and controlling the break in the Colorado River—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. SMITH of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 13998) granting an increase of pension to Robert Hawthorn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SPARKMAN: A bill (H. R. 13999) granting an increase of pension to Sarah I. Hirst—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STEPHENS of Texas: A bill (H. R. 14000) for the relief of H. C. Linn and Samuel Powell—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. TOWNSEND: A bill (H. R. 14001) granting an increase of pension to Laura Tenant—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. WALLACE: A bill (H. R. 14002) for the relief of the heirs of Peter Pope, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. WATSON: A bill (H. R. 14003) granting a pension to William Condo—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By the SPEAKER: Petition of R. H. Carnahan and 70 other officers, of a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ADAIR: Paper to accompany bill for relief of James B. Mulford—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BATES: Petition of Hartstown (Pa.) Grange, No. 1233, to strike the word "knowingly" from the antioleomargarine law—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, for amendment to the Sherman antitrust law permitting reasonable associative effort—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of National Guard Association of Pennsylvania, against wearing the uniform of United States Army by unauthorized persons—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of storekeepers and gaugers of Internal-Revenue Service, for increase of pay to $3 per day—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. CALDER: Petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of the Chinese exclusion law so as to benefit the fruit growers of California—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. CALDWELL: Petition of Local Union, No. 368, International Typographical Union, of Litchfield, Ill., for removal of duty on white paper—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. CHAPMAN: Petition of James B. Smith and 10 other officers, for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DALZELL: Petition of United Presbyterian Presbytery of Monongahela, for restoration to the coins of the motto "In God we trust"—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. DAWES: Petition of R. G. Richards and 205 other volunteer officers of the civil war, for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DAWSON: Petition of Commercial Club of Des Moines, Iowa, for amendment of the interstate-commerce law, to prevent change of rates without advice of the Interstate Commerce Commission—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Kirkwood Post, No. 8, Grand Army of the Republic, of Iowa City, favoring amendment to McCumber service-pension law, granting $20 per month to soldiers 65 years old—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DUNWELL: Petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of the Chinese exclusion act to suit the farmers of California—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Also, petition of General Assembly of Commercial Travelers in America, for Congressional investigation of the affairs of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. ESCH: Petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, for investigation of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. FITZGERALD: Petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of Chinese exclusion law in way to benefit farmers of California—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Also, petition of General Assembly Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. FLOYD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of John Bingman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER of Illinois: Petition of American Society of Equity, of Fayette, Ill., for H. R. 67 and H. R. 10576, prohibiting dealings in futures—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. FULLER: Petition of E. N. Kirk Post, No. 656, Grand Army of the Republic, of Pennsylvania, for the Sherwood pension bill, granting $1 per day for soldiers who served eighteen months—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of James Oates, of Phoenix, Ariz., for civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. FULTON: Papers to accompany bills for relief of E. H. Dell, John Sonia, Alem Snyder, and Barlo N. Daily—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Petition of Retail Merchants' Association of Allegheny, Pa., to amend oleomargarine law so as to relieve sellers of oleomargarine—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. HOUSTON: Papers to accompany bills for relief of William B. Caffee and Elbert M. Watts—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HUBBARD of Iowa: Petition of Matlock Grange, No. 2023, and other citizens of northwestern Iowa, for a postal savings bank and parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. JONES of Washington: Petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Chamber of Commerce of Seattle, for purchase of additional submarine torpedo boats for defense of Puget Sound—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. LANGLEY: Paper to accompany bill for relief of estate of Samuel Beatley—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of McKinley Sewell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LINDSAY: Petition of General Assembly of Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for Congressional investigation into the affairs of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. LITTLEFIELD: Petitions of citizens of Auburn, Pittsfield, Lewiston, Belfast, and Waldo County, Me., for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MANN: Petition of John H. Stibbs and 155 others, volunteer officers of the civil war, for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of board of trustees of the Sanitary District of Chicago, for appropriation for an adequate improvement of rivers and harbors and to further the interests of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of National Association of Audubon Societies, for the preservation of wild birds and game—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Chicago Grocers and Butchers' Association, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Chicago Association of Commerce, for legislation to improve the consular service—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Also, petition of Illinois Manufacturers' Association, for appropriation for enlarged post-office building facilities for Chicago—to the Committee on the Post-Office and. Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Military Order of the Loyal Legion, against removal of Grant Memorial from public gardens—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. MURDOCK: Petitions of 100 citizens of Wichita, 7 ex-volunteer officers of Hutchinson, citizens of Hutchinson, 8 citizens of Newton, citizens of Newton, 259 members of Garfield Post, Wichita, 22 ex-officers of Wichita, 4 ex-officers (united ages 283 years) of East Bend, 27 ex-enlisted men (average age, 66 years) of East Bend, 144 business men and citizens of Great Bend, 6 officers (average age, 67 years) of Sterling, all in the State of Kansas, for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MURPHY: Petitions of G. W. Bell Post, No. 53, of Wonewoc, Wis., and Joe Hooker Post, No. 9, Grand Army of the Republic, of Baraboo, Wis., for the Lafean pension bill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Charles C. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Henry C. Gosling—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, memorial of legislature of Wisconsin, for a uniform game law—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petitions of George C. Asby, of Union Center, Wis.; Grimshaw Brothers, of Elroy, Wis.; F. H. Schuppener, of Stitzer, Wis.; J. Kornely, president Retail Hardware Association of Milwaukee, and August Siefert Hardware Company, of Reedsburg, Wis., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Commandery of State of Wisconsin, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, for civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. NEEDHAM: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Martin Jefferies—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: Petition of residents of South Boston, in opposition to the taking of Castle Island for an immigration station—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. OVERSTREET: Petition of Mrs. Booth Tarkington, for amendment of clause E of the Kittredge copyright bill (S. 2900) in the interest of musical composers—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of storekeepers and gaugers of Pittsburg, for increase of salary of gaugers to $3 per day—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. PARKER: Petition of J. S. Pratt and 49 other officers, for a civil war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. PETERS: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Robert Downing—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. RANSDELL of Louisiana: Petition of Navigation Conference, for a harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. REEDER: Petition of Fruit Growers' Association of California, for modification of Chinese exclusion law in a way beneficial to the farmers of California—to the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

By Mr. RIORDAN: Petition of General Assembly of Telegraphers' Union, for Congressional investigation into affairs of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. SHERMAN: Paper to accompany bill for relief of J. E. Berry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Joseph Chisom—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SMITH of Arizona: Petition of Arizona Wool Growers' Association, against leasing and fencing the public domain—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, petition of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, for legislation to improve the currency—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. SABATH: Petition of General Assembly of Commercial Telegraphers, for investigation of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. STEVENS of Minnesota: Petition of Lincoln Club, of St. Paul, Minn., for postal savings bank—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. TAYLOR of Alabama: Memorial of J. M. Whiting, president of the People's Bank; Edward M. Robinson, Pat. J. Lyons, A. C. Dauner, N. R. Clarke, Pollock & Bernheimer, Frederick G. Bromberg, E. L. Russell, James K. Glennon, E. V. O'Connor, with upward of 100 other citizens representing the general business interests of the city of Mobile, giving hearty indorsement to the proposed national negro fair to be held in the autumn of 1908, and bespeaking for the same such aid from the National Government as the Congress may deem it proper to give—to the Select Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions.

Also, memorial of many colored citizens of the United States, representing the National Negro Fair Association, for Congress to authorize and appropriate $250,000 for the purpose of aiding in the development of the proposed national negro fair to be held in the city of Mobile, Ala., in the autumn of 1908—to the Select Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions.

Also, memorial of colored citizens of Mobile, Ala., representing the general business interests of said city, heartily indorsing the proposed national negro fair to be held in Mobile in the autumn of 1908, and the proposition bespeaking Government aid of the same—to the Select Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions.

By Mr. YOUNG: Petition of Woman's Interdenominational Union, for a day-of-rest law in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, petition of voters of Twelfth Congressional District of Michigan, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, January 16, 1908.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. EDWARD E. HALE.

The Secretary proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when, on request of Mr. DOLLIVER, and by unanimous consent, the further reading was dispensed with.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Journal stands approved.

FINDINGS OF THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate communications from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting certified copies of the findings of fact filed by the court in the following causes:

In the cause of Hiwassee Masonic Lodge, No. 188, of Calhoun, Tenn., v. United States;

In the cause of Artemas P. Hannum, administrator c. t. a. de bonis non of Josiah A. Hannum, deceased, v. United States;

In the cause of Robert Steel v. United States;

In the cause of Margaretta D. Abbey, Henry Lelar, jr., William D. Lelar, Mary D. Pierce, and Ellen D. Lelar, children and sole heirs at law of Henry Lelar, deceased, v. United States;

In the cause of Catherine Delap, widow of George Delap, deceased, v. United States;

In the cause of Francis A. Cook v. United States;

In the cause of Ada T. Coggeshall, daughter of Charles B. Russell, deceased, v. United States;

In the cause of John T. Newton v. United States;

In the cause of Charles B. Gilmore, brother of Fernando P. Gilmore, deceased, v. United States; and

In the cause of Mary Elizabeth Babbitt, daughter of Charles W. Babbitt, deceased, v. United States.

The foregoing findings were, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

RETURN OF CASES TO COURT OF CLAIMS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the chief justice of the Court of Claims, transmitting a letter from the Assistant Attorney-General requesting the return to the Court of Claims of certain cases which were dismissed for lack of prosecution through error in making up the list of cases in the Department of Justice, etc., which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. C. R. MCKENNEY, its enrolling clerk, announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bill, and it was thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

H. R. 9087. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize Washington and Westmoreland counties, in the State of Pennsylvania, to construct and maintain a bridge across the Monongahela River, in the State of Pennsylvania," approved February 21, 1903.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. CULLOM presented petitions of sundry citizens of Beardstown, White Hall, Mason City, Jacksonville, Carlinville, Chester, Rockwood, Sparta, Campbell Hill, Cairo, Galesburg, Brooklyn, Quincy, Decatur, Charleston, Sullivan, Pontiac, Eureka, Minonk, Woodford County, Livingston County, and Cook County, all in the State of Illinois, praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments for the surviving officers of the civil war, which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PLATT presented a petition of Local Council No. 68, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, of Cottekill, N. Y., praying for the enactment of legislation to place the motto "In God we trust" on all coins of the United States, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Watertown, N. Y., praying that an appropriation be made for the purchase of certain lands in Jefferson County, in that State, for military purposes, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of sundry members of the session of the Presbyterian Church of Johnstown, N. Y., praying for the enactment of legislation to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a paper to accompany the bill (S. 590) to extend the limits of the act of June 27, 1890 (as amended by the act of May 9, 1900), granting pensions to soldiers and sailors who served in the military or naval forces of the United States, their widows, minor children, and dependent parents, and the act of February 6, 1907, granting pensions to certain enlisted men, soldiers, and officers who served in the civil war and the war with Mexico, which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WARNER presented the petition of A. M. Haswell, of Joplin, Mo., praying for the enactment of legislation making the Union and Confederate cemeteries at Springfield, in that State, one cemetery, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented the petition of Daniel M. Spencer, of Greentop, Mo., praying for the enactment of legislation to set aside the judgment of court-martial standing against him and that he be granted pay and bounty due him for military service, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. OWEN presented a memorial of the legislature of the State of Oklahoma, which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Memorial to the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled.

The following memorial of the legislature of Oklahoma is respectfully submitted:

House concurrent resolution 2, memorializing Congress for the relief of settlers on the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache reservations.

Whereas under an act of Congress of June 5, 1906, the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache and the Fort Sill Military Wood Reservation in Oklahoma was disposed of by competitive bidding under the homestead law, to be paid for in five equal installments, one-fifth cash at the end of each consecutive year; and

Whereas said lands were purchased at an average price of more than $16 per acre; and

Whereas there is no provision of law by which said lands can be relinquished by the entrymen and again disposed of to a purchaser or applicant therefor; and

Whereas the purchasers and settlers thereon, by reason of the newness of the land and unfavorable natural conditions have been unable to make a crop for the first year and therefore are unable to meet the second payment, and on account of the stringency of the money market are unable to procure funds to meet said payment, and unless relief is afforded by Congress a great number of these settlers will lose their homes and said lands will thereby be forfeited and their homestead entries canceled for nonpayment of the second installment of the purchase price: Therefore be it

Resolved, That the legislature of the State of Oklahoma in session assembled do hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States to extend and postpone the time of each payment for said lands two years from the date that the second payment becomes due, and that a law be enacted permitting the purchaser to dispose of his interests to any person qualified to make a homestead entry, the purchaser and entryman assuming the obligation due the Government.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Hon. T. P. GORE and to the Hon. ROBERT L. OWEN and to the Members of Congress from Oklahoma, and that they be requested to present the same to Congress.

Passed the house December 3, 1907.

WM. H. MURRAY,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Passed the Senate December 12, 1907.

GEO. W. BELLAMY,
President of the Senate.

Approved this 14th day of December, 1907.

C. N. HASKELL, Governor.

I, Charles H. Pittman, chief clerk of the house of representatives of the first legislature, State of Oklahoma, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of house concurrent resolution No. 2 now on file.

C. H. PITTMAN,
Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Mr. OWEN presented a petition of the Board of County Commissioners of Carter County, Okla., praying for the enactment of legislation to convert the Federal jail at Ardmore into a county jail for Carter County in that State, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. HOPKINS presented petitions of sundry citizens of Chicago, Oak Park, Lagrange, Toulon, Neponset, Tiskilwa, Peoria, Princeton, Walnut, Joliet, Ohio, Washington, Sheffield, Mineral, Wyanet, Buda, Hennepin, Harvard, Aurora, St. Charles, Wilmington, Elgin, Lockport, Plainfield, Elburn, Enfield, Stanford, Clay City, Grayville, Wayne City, Harrisburg, Golconda, Lanark, Galena, Erie, Morrison, Prophetstown, Forreston, Ashton, Dixon, Franklin Grove, Oregon, Polo, Hanover, Monmouth, Alexis, Bushnell, Macomb, Aledo, Newton, Centralia, Patoka, Olney, Kinmundy, Salem, Oblong, Vandalia, Mount Carmel, Kankakee, Momence, Watseka, and Casey, all in the State of Illinois, praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments for the surviving officers of the civil war, which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of Local Union No. 368, International Typographical Union of Litchfield, Ill., and a petition of Local Union No. 213, Typographical Union of Rockport, Ill., praying for the repeal of the duty on white paper, wood pulp, and the materials used in the manufacture thereof, which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. FRYE presented a petition of Captain Charles V. Gridley Camp, No. 94, Army and Navy Union of the United States, of Erie, Pa., praying for the enactment of legislation to increase and equalize the pay of officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. HANSBROUGH presented a petition of sundry citizens of Bottineau County, N. Dak., praying for the passage of the so-called parcels-post bill, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. CURTIS presented a memorial of the Business Men's Association of Great Bend, Kans., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called parcels-post bill, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented the petition of Rev. N. Redpath, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, and sundry other citizens of Olathe, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to regulate the interstate transportation of intoxicating liquors, and also to prevent internal-revenue collectors from issuing Federal licenses in prohibition territory, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of the Farmers' Institute Association of Reno County, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to provide for the restoration, by treaty or otherwise, of our foreign markets for the benefit of the live stock and grain producers of the country, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. OVERMAN presented sundry papers to accompany the bill (S. 2021) for the relief of John F. Foard, which were referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also presented sundry papers to accompany the bill (S. 1765) granting a pension to Timothy Edwards, which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented an affidavit to accompany the bill (S. 2348) granting an increase of pension to Wiley S. Roberts, which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HALE presented a memorial of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of China, Me., remonstrating against the use of the mails for the purpose of advertising intoxicating liquors, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS AND STATIONS.

Mr. OWEN. I present a resolution of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, adopted at its eighteenth annual session, at Muskogee, Okla., November 19–22, 1907, favoring the establishment of experimental farms and stations in the Western States contributory to the Mississippi River. I move that the resolution be printed as a document and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. MARTIN, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 11330) to authorize the Chicago, Indiana and Southern Railroad Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Grand Calumet River in the town of Gary, Ind.; and

A bill (H. R. 11331) to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Grand Calumet River at or near the town of Gary, Ind.

Mr. MARTIN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1046) to provide for the construction of a memorial bridge across the Potomac River from Washington to the Arlington estate property, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. NELSON, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 24) to increase the efficiency of the personnel of the Revenue-Cutter Service, reported it with amendments and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PERKINS, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 3660) to establish a light and fog signal on the outer end of the breakwater, San Pedro, Cal.;

A bill (S. 3661) to establish a light and fog signal at or near Punta Gorda, in the State of California; and

A bill (S. 3153) to make Monterey and Port Harford, in the State of California, subports of entry, and for other purposes.

Mr. STONE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 514) to amend an act entitled "An act to prevent the importation of impure and unwholesome tea," approved March 2, 1897, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9121) to authorize a bridge across the Missouri River at or near Council Bluffs, Iowa, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 819) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to examine and adjust the accounts of William R. Little, or his heirs, with the Sac and Fox Indians, reported it without amendment.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3640) to amend sections 9 and 14, chapter 1495, Statutes of the United States of America, entitled "An act for the survey and allotment of lands now embraced within the limits of the Flathead Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana, and the sale and disposal of all surplus lands after allotment," reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

EXAMINATIONS FOR DRAINAGE OF LANDS.

Mr. PLATT. I am directed by the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the resolution submitted on the 14th instant by the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. CLAPP], to report it favorably without amendment, and I ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 2,000 additional copies of Senate Document 151, present session; 1,000 for the use of the Senate and 1,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

Mr. CULBERSON. I inquire of the Senator from Minnesota what the document is that is to be printed?

Mr. CLAPP. It is the report of the Reclamation Service on drainage.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the concurrent resolution?

The concurrent resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to.

HARBOR OF ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.

Mr. CLARKE of Arkansas, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3343) for the survey of the harbor at St. Augustine, Fla., reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, reported the following concurrent resolution as a substitute for Senate bill 3343:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey of the entrance and harbor at St. Augustine, Fla., with a view to determining the necessity for and cost of construction of necessary breakwaters, etc., to protect the Government works at St. Augustine, Fla., from damage from erosions and encroachments of the sea.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

RENT FOR THE BUREAU OF FORESTRY.

Mr. PROCTOR. I am directed by the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. J. Res. 88) to amend the act of March 4, 1907, making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, so as to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to use for rent an increased proportion of the appropriation made by said act for rent for the Bureau of Forestry, to report it favorably without amendment, and I submit a report thereon. I ask for the present consideration of the joint resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be read for the information of the Senate.

The joint resolution was read and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should like to have some explanation of the purpose of the provision. It proposes to divert a rather large sum of money.

Mr. PROCTOR. The appropriation last year for the general expenses of the Bureau of Forestry, which was something like one and three-quarter million dollars, provided that not more than $40,000 of the amount should be used for rent. Owing to the large increase of the Bureau from legislation that we have adopted, the Secretary has found it absolutely necessary to use more than that amount for rent. The joint resolution does not at all increase the appropriation, but enlarges the limit that may be used for rent from $40,000 to $60,000, and it is a very necessary enlargement.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would inquire of the chairman of the committee whether it is for rent of buildings in Washington?

Mr. PROCTOR. It is not limited.

Mr. HEYBURN. Where is it to be used?

Mr. PROCTOR. It is not limited at all. There is no limit in the act; it is for rent in any locality, and the total amount that is to be paid for rent anywhere in the country is limited to $40,000.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would ask whether or not the committee has made a report showing where the rents were expended and the amount expended in each place? If so, I should like to have the benefit of an inspection of that report.

Mr. PROCTOR. The committee has no such report, but we know money has been expended for rent in different sections of the country. We have the letter of the Secretary of Agriculture saying that it is absolutely necessary to use more of the appropriation for general expenses in order to properly house the officers and employees of the Bureau.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should like to have some information before the passage of the joint resolution that would enable us to know where this money is being expended and what proportion of it is being expended in the different localities of the country. It is a very large sum to pay for rent. It is 10 per cent on half a million dollars or more, and it is quite an item. It is being diverted from a general fund that was appropriated, I understand, for the general expenses in addition to the moneys realized by the Forestry Service from its use of the forests.

Before the joint resolution is put upon its final passage, I should like to have some information as to the items of expenditure. A letter from the Secretary of Agriculture is not a sufficient basis upon which to make an appropriation. This is an appropriation by a joint resolution, and, notwithstanding the fact that it is included within the gross sum appropriated, if this appropriation were not made, the presumption is that a portion of the original appropriation would be converted back into the Treasury at the end of the fiscal year. So it is in effect an original appropriation under our system of enacting laws, and I do not think we should make an appropriation of this size without some more detailed and general information than is contained in the letter of the Secretary of Agriculture.

I ask that the joint resolution may go over, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the joint resolution goes to the Calendar.

Mr. HALE. Before this matter passes from the consideration of the Senate I want to suggest to the Senator from Vermont, who has charge of the joint resolution, that in furnishing the information suggested by the Senator from Idaho he look into the question of rent as applied for shelter outside of Washington. The Senator from Vermont just now made the remark that the money is needed to house the employees of the Government outside of Washington.

Mr. PROCTOR. Both outside the city and within it.

Mr. HALE. Yes; but the point I am making is as to employees outside the city. I wish the Senator would look into it and see whether we have heretofore appropriated, in the many cases where the different Departments have agents at work outside of Washington, for housing them. If we embark in that, Mr. President, not only must the employees of this Bureau in the Forestry Service be housed—furnished with houses and buildings—outside of Washington, but the large army of special employees in the Land Office, who are engaged in similar service, must be housed, must be covered. The Post-Office Department has a myriad of employees engaged in different parts of the country. If the employees of the Forestry Service are to be housed, why not the employees of the Post-Office Department and of the Treasury Department?

Mr. PROCTOR. If the Senator will allow me——

Mr. HALE. I only wish to suggest to the Senator, in making his inquiries and bringing in the facts to answer the pertinent questions of the Senator from Idaho, that at the same time he consider whether there is any precedent heretofore established for the Government housing employees outside of Washington.

Mr. PROCTOR. Mr. President, the misunderstanding has come from my careless use of a very general term, the word "housing." It is only intended to mean office rooms, working rooms, not at all houses. There is no housing in my knowledge except the building of shacks for the foresters in the woods, which they build themselves.

Mr. HEYBURN. I desire to make a further suggestion regarding the matter. I think the joint resolution should go to the Calendar until we have in detail the information that has been suggested. I have not had an opportunity to put my request for information in the form of a resolution, and it perhaps will not be necessary to do it, but I would suggest that the chairman of the committee in charge of the joint resolution might have the information collated and at hand when the measure comes up for final consideration. It involves $60,000 and for a purpose that it seems to me we should inquire about. I ask that the joint resolution go to the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution has already gone to the Calendar.

Mr. HEYBURN. I have already asked that it go over, and I suggest to the Senator that I shall feel impelled to ask that it shall not be brought up until the information is before the Senate.

SURVEY AT DEPERE, WIS.

Mr. ELKINS, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2314) providing for a turning basin at Depere, Wis., and a 20-foot channel from Green Bay to Depere, Wis., reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, reported the following concurrent resolution as a substitute for Senate bill 2314:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause an examination and survey to be made at Depere, Wis., for a turning basin; also for the purpose of deepening the present channel between Green Bay and Depere and making it a 20-foot channel clear through from Green Bay to Depere, and to submit estimates for the same.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

STENOGRAPHER FOR COMMITTEE ON INDIAN DEPREDATIONS.

Mr. KEAN. I am directed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by the Senator from Kansas [Mr. CURTIS] on the 13th instant, to report it with amendments, and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution, which was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Depredations be, and the same is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, at the rate of $1,020 per annum, said employment to continue during the Sixtieth Congress.

The amendments of the committee were in line 4, before the word "dollars," to strike out "and twenty," and in line 5 to strike out the words "Sixtieth Congress" and insert "first session of the Sixtieth Congress;" so as to make the resolution read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Depredations be, and the same is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, at the rate of $1,000 per annum, said employment to continue during the first session of the Sixtieth Congress.

The amendments were agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

STENOGRAPHER FOR COMMITTEE ON THE UNIVERSITY OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. KEAN. I am directed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. HEMENWAY] on the 13th instant, to report it with amendments, and I ask for its consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the University of the United States be, and the same is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, at the rate of $1,020 per annum, said employment to continue during the Sixtieth Congress.

The amendments of the committee were, in line 4, after the word "thousand," to strike out "and twenty;" and in line 5, to strike out "Sixtieth Congress" and insert "first session of the Sixtieth Congress," so as to make the resolution read:

Resolved, That the Committee on the University of the United States be, and the same is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, at the rate of $1,000 per annum, said employment to continue during the first session of the Sixtieth Congress.

The amendments were agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

HEARINGS BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE AND FORESTRY.

Mr. KEAN, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. PROCTOR on the 13th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry be, and is hereby, authorized to employ a stenographer from time to time, as may be necessary, to report such testimony as may be taken by the committee or its subcommittees in connection with matters before them, and to have the same printed for its use, and that such stenographer be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

ELLEN F. BARTLETT.

Mr. KEAN, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. LODGE on the 13th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay to Ellen F. Bartlett, widow of Joseph W. Bartlett, late a clerk in the office of the Secretary of the United States Senate, a sum equal to six months' salary at the rate he was receiving by law at the time of his demise, said sum to be considered as including funeral expenses and all other allowances.

SURVEY OF OCONTO HARBOR, WISCONSIN.

Mr. DEPEW, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2316) providing for a survey of Oconto Harbor, Oconto, Wis., reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, reported the following concurrent resolution as a substitute for Senate bill 2316:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause an examination and survey to be made of Oconto Harbor, Oconto, Wis., with a view to providing a 20-foot channel and turning basin in said harbor, and to submit estimates for the same.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I submit a privileged resolution and ask for its adoption.

The resolution was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the following appointments be made to fill vacancies in committees of the Senate: Mr. du PONT on Military Affairs, Mr. MCCUMBER on the Census, Mr. SUTHERLAND on the Revision of the Laws of the United States, and Mr. LONG on Privileges and Elections.

ADJOURNMENT TO MONDAY.

Mr. HALE. I move that when the Senate adjourns to-day it be to meet on Monday next.

Mr. HEYBURN. Will the Senator allow me to make a statement?

Mr. HALE. I yield to the Senator for a moment.

Mr. HEYBURN. We are now engaged in the consideration of the bill for the revision of the criminal code. It is a work of infinite detail and not one that interests all of the Senate directly—that is, it is not one in which all Senators take an interest. It would be very profitable to have that work continue. If we could continue it under an understanding or an agreement that nothing else would be done——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair will call attention to the fact that under the rule a motion to adjourn to a day specified is not debatable.

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask unanimous consent to make a statement in connection with the motion.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from Idaho that he be permitted to make a statement? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. I desire to make this suggestion, which I was proceeding to make, that we enter into an agreement that nothing but the revision of the criminal code will be considered, and allow the Senate to remain in session. Otherwise the work of many years is apt to fail, as it has heretofore failed, of consideration during the Congress, and it will all have to be done over again. It is a matter of very serious importance. On yesterday when the bill was under consideration there was a very small attendance of Senators, but sufficient to watch the progress of its consideration and see that there was nothing objectionable in it.

If it would meet with the approval of the Senate, I should like to have the motion of the Senator from Maine modified so as to enable us to proceed with the consideration of that measure.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I do not want to interfere with the Senator from Idaho, nor with the actual transaction of business. Several Senators have said to me that they desire an adjournment in order to work in committees, and it was said that yesterday in considering the Senator's bill—I was not here—not more than half a dozen Senators were in the Chamber, and that the Senate resorted to a call of the body in order to bring members here. On the proposition that I do not seek to interfere with the Senator, I am willing to withhold the motion for the present and see whether——

Mr. BACON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Maine yield to the Senator from Georgia?

Mr. HALE. Certainly.

Mr. BACON. If the Senator will pardon an interruption, in order that he may not withhold his motion upon any misapprehension as to the attitude of some of us in regard to the matter, I desire to say that I shall object to any proposition to take up this important bill with the idea that nothing else is to be done, with a view that all who may not be interested in the measure may absent themselves from the Chamber. The result of such an arrangement will be that, as there was yesterday, there will be but a handful of Senators present when it is announced that nothing else is to be done.

I do not consider that there is anything more important demanding the presence of a full Senate than the consideration of the bill which the Senator from Idaho has in charge, and I shall object to any proposition that that bill shall be taken up and an agreement shall be had that nothing else shall be done, because that agreement at once empties the Chamber of every Senator who may not feel that he is going to take any particular part in it.

Mr. HALE. Then, I will submit my motion and let the Senate settle it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Maine moves that when the Senate adjourns to-day it be to meet on Monday next.

The motion was agreed to.

BOOKS FOR LIFE-SAVING STATIONS.

Mr. FRYE. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3495) to authorize the transfer of books from the Treasury Department library to the life-saving stations of the United States, to report it favorably without amendment, and I submit a report thereon. I ask for the present consideration of the bill.

The Secretary read the bill, and there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time and passed.

SURVEY OF FLATHEAD RIVER, MONTANA.

Mr. SMITH, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the following concurrent resolution submitted by Mr. DIXON December 21, 1907, reported it without amendment:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the Flathead River, Montana, from the mouth of the same to the city of Kalispell, with a view of dredging and cleaning out a channel carrying 4 feet of water from the city of Kalispell to the mouth of said river and to submit a plan and estimate for such improvements.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

SURVEY OF YELLOWSTONE RIVER, MONTANA.

Mr. SMITH, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the concurrent resolution submitted by Mr. DIXON December 21, 1907, reported it without amendment, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the portion of the Yellowstone River from the city of Glendive, Mont., to the mouth of said river with a view of cleaning out the channel thereof so as to maintain a 4-foot stage of water therein, including a lock at the United States Government dam, and to submit a plan and estimate for such improvement.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. LODGE introduced a bill (S. 4049) for the relief of Edwin U. Curtis, assistant treasurer of the United States at Boston, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. TALIAFERRO introduced a bill (S. 4050) to authorize the sale of certain parts of Fort Marion Reservation, in the city of St. Augustine, Fla., which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. OWEN introduced a bill (S. 4051) relative to interest on the Eastern Cherokee Fund, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4052) for the relief of the estate of Edmond Manes, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

A bill (S. 4053) to authorize the President to appoint Brig. Gen. Frank D. Baldwin to the grade of major-general in the United States Army and place him on the retired list; and

A bill (S. 4054) canceling the balance of deferred payments due from settlers in the purchase of lands in the so-called "Wood Reserve," attached to the Fort Sill Military Reservation, Okla.

Mr. CULLOM introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4055) granting an increase of pension to Charles M. Asbury;

A bill (S. 4056) granting an increase of pension to Aaron F. Youngblood; and

A bill (S. 4057) granting an increase of pension to Pascal J. Ellsworth.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4058) granting an increase of pension to De Forest Safford (with the accompanying papers); and

A bill (S. 4059) granting an increase of pension to James H. Conley.

Mr. GUGGENHEIM introduced a bill (S. 4060) providing for prospecting, mining, and canal ditch and reservoir building on forest reserves and other public lands of the United States, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Forest Reservations and the Protection of Game.

Mr. BROWN introduced a bill (S. 4061) granting an increase of pension to John F. Young, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

A bill (S. 4062) to amend section 5481 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (with an accompanying paper);

A bill (S. 4063) relating to jurisdiction on appeals in the court of appeals of the District of Columbia in cases relating to public and Indian lands, and for other purposes; and

A bill (S. 4064) to provide for a term of the United States circuit and district courts at Lander, Wyo.

Mr. KNOX introduced a bill (S. 4065) for the relief of the legal representatives of John Boyle, deceased, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HOPKINS introduced a bill (S. 4066) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the compensation of inspectors of customs, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4067) providing for pensions to the children of deceased soldiers and sailors of the United States in cases where said children have become insane, idiotic, blind, deaf and dumb, or otherwise physically or mentally helpless before the age of 22 years;

A bill (S. 4068) granting an increase of pension to Peter M. Kiron (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 4069) granting an increase of pension to Charles Rivet (with accompanying papers); and

A bill (S. 4070) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Boyd (with accompanying papers).

Mr. CLAY introduced a bill (S. 4071) to amend acts embodied in section 3258 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, second edition (1878), relating to the Registry of stills, etc., so as to exempt turpentine stills, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4072) to provide for site and public building at Statesboro, Ga., which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. WHYTE introduced a bill (S. 4073) granting an increase of pension to Thomas S. Ball, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. OVERMAN introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4074) for the relief of John H. Gray, administrator of J. W. Gray, deceased;

A bill (S. 4075) for the relief of W. T. Hawkins (with accompanying papers); and

A bill (S. 4076) for the relief of the heirs at law of E. L. Shuford, deceased.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4077) granting an increase of pension to H. J. Edge, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4078) granting an increase of pension to Elijah P. Hensley;

A bill (S. 4079) granting an increase of pension to William Cody;

A bill (S. 4080) granting an increase of pension to Irvin Allen; and

A bill (S. 4081) granting an increase of pension to James B. Sprinkle.

Mr. DIXON introduced a bill (S. 4082) for the relief of George O. Herbert, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BURKETT introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs:

A bill (S. 4083) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to issue patent in fee simple for certain lands of the Santee Reservation, in Nebraska, to the directors of school district No. 36, in Knox County, Nebr.;

A bill (S. 4084) to authorize the capitalization and payment of funds due the Winnebago tribe of Indians, and to enable them to sell and convey their allotted lands in Nebraska; and

A bill (S. 4085) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to issue patents to Indians of the Santee tribe for lands assigned under the treaty of April 29, 1868.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4086) for the relief of Leander Gerrard and Edward A. Gerrard, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 4087) to limit the effect of the regulation of commerce between the several States and Territories in certain cases, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. FRAZIER introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4088) for the relief of the city of Nashville, Tenn. (with an accompanying paper); and

A bill (S. 4089) for the relief of the legal representatives of Anthony S. Abbay, deceased (with an accompanying paper).

Mr. BORAH introduced a bill (S. 4090) to provide for the acquiring of additional ground and for the enlarging of the Government building at Boise, Idaho, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4091) granting an increase of pension to Joseph N. Foster, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HEYBURN introduced a bill (S. 4092) to amend the military record of Jonas O. Johnson, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CURTIS introduced a bill (S. 4093) for the relief of Gustav A. Hesselberger, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a bill (S. 4094) to amend paragraph 43 of an act entitled "An act making appropriations to provide for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, and for other purposes," approved July 1, 1902, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4095) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Steubenville, in the State of Ohio, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4096) granting an increase of pension to George M. D. Wells, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 4097) granting an increase of pension to William H. Stiles, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. FULTON introduced a bill (S. 4098) for the construction of a steam vessel for the Revenue-Cutter Service for duty on the Pacific coast, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. DOLLIVER introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4099) granting a pension to George R. Barden;

A bill (S. 4100) granting an increase of pension to Michael Fitzpatrick;

A bill (S. 4101) granting an increase of pension to Stephen A. Toops; and

A bill (S. 4102) granting an increase of pension to Asa Wren.

Mr. CLAPP introduced a bill (S. 4103) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to ascertain the amount due O bah baum, and pay the same out of the fund known as "for the relief and civilization of the Chippewa Indians," which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. McCREARY introduced a bill (S. 4104) granting an increase of pension to H. Rowan Saufley, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 4105) granting a pension to John Stokes, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. BURROWS introduced a bill (S. 4106) granting an increase of pension to Eldridge S. Lyons, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WHYTE introduced a bill (S. 4107) to authorize the town of Chevy Chase, Md., to connect its water system with the water system of the District of Columbia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 36) authorizing a commission to examine the battlefields around Petersburg, Va., and report whether it is advisable to establish a battlefield park, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

EMERGENCY CIRCULATION BY NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. BULKELEY. On the 9th instant I introduced a bill, Senate bill 3472, providing for emergency circulation by national banking associations on the basis of bonds, other than Government bonds, named in the bill. The circulation was restricted in that bill to the aggregate amount of capital of the bank. I find on inquiry that nearly three thousand banks have a circulation at the present time equal to their capital, and therefore would be restricted in issuing further circulation. These banks have a circulation at the present time of $324,501,000. If the proposed amendment should be adopted, it would provide for a further addition to the circulation of about $162,250,000.

I have therefore prepared an amendment to the bill which I should like to send to the Finance Committee for their consideration if the original bill should happen to meet with favorable consideration by the committee.

The amendment was ordered to be printed and referred to the Committee on Finance, as follows:

Amendment intended to be proposed by Mr. Bulkeley to the bill (S. 3472) to provide for emergency circulation of national banking associations, viz: After the word "law," at the end of line 15, page 3, insert the following:

"SEC. 2. That notwithstanding any provisions of section 1 of this act, any national banking association having a circulation secured by deposits of United States or Panama Canal bonds under existing law to an amount equal to its capital, on deposit of bonds provided for under section 1 of this act may receive from the Comptroller of the Currency additional circulating notes, as provided in section 1 of this act, to an amount equal to 50 per cent in excess of the amount of the capital stock paid in of any such banking association."

INSPECTION AND GRADING OF GRAIN.

On motion of Mr. McCUMBER, it was

Ordered, That there be printed for the use of the Senate and delivered to the Senate document room 2,000 additional copies of the bill (S. 382) to provide for the inspection and grading of grain entering into interstate commerce, and to secure uniformity in standards and classification of grain, and for other purposes.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. M. C. LATTA, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 15th instant approved and signed the joint resolution (S. R. 1) amending an act relative to the public printing and binding, approved March 1, 1907.

FRANCHISE OF PORTO RICO.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In accordance with the provisions of section 32 of the act of April 12, 1900, entitled "An act temporarily to provide revenues and a civil government for Porto Rico, and for other purposes" (31 Stat., 77), I transmit herewith copy of a franchise granted by the executive council of Porto Rico to the municipality of Utuado, entitled "An ordinance granting to the municipality of Utuado the right to take 390 gallons of water per minute from Creek Grand, in the municipality of Utuado, for the purpose of supplying the inhabitants of the municipality with water," approved January 3, 1908.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 16, 1908.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER BRIDGE AT ST. LOUIS.

Mr. WARNER. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of House bill 251, being a bill to authorize the city of St. Louis to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 251) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the city of St. Louis, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River," approved February 6, 1907.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. LODGE. Mr. President, I desire to call up at this time the resolution which I reported yesterday from the Committee on Rules in relation to communications from heads of Departments, etc.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Massachusetts asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the resolution referred to by him. The resolution will be read for the information of the Senate.

The Secretary read the resolution reported by Mr. LODGE from the Committee on Rules January 15, 1908, as follows:

Resolved, That no communications from heads of Departments, commissioners, chiefs of bureaus, or other executive officers, except when authorized or required by law, or when made in response to a resolution of the Senate, will be received by the Senate unless such communications shall be transmitted to the Senate by the President.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be communicated by the Secretary of the Senate to the President and the House of Representatives.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution? The Chair hears none. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. LODGE. Mr. President, in this connection I desire to call attention to the fact that the relation of the Executive to the Senate as to means of communication was defined very scrupulously by President Madison when he refused to discuss a question with a committee of the Senate on the ground that, as a coordinate branch of the Government, he could deal only with the Senate itself.

I do not mean to detain the Senate more than a moment, the resolution having passed, but I ask leave to have the message to which I refer, dated July 6, 1813, printed for the information of the Senate.

Mr. GALLINGER. As a document?

Mr. LODGE. No; I wish to have it printed in the RECORD.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request? The Chair hears none, and the message referred to will be printed in the RECORD.

The message referred to is as follows:

WASHINGTON, July 6, 1813.

To the Senate of the United States:

I have received from the committee appointed by the resolution of the Senate of the 14th day of June a copy of that resolution, which authorizes the committee to confer with the President on the subject of the nomination made by him of a minister plenipotentiary to Sweden.

Conceiving it to be my duty to decline the proposed conference with the committee, and it being uncertain when it may be convenient to explain to the committee, and through them to the Senate, the grounds of my so doing, I think it proper to address the explanation directly to the Senate. Without entering into a general review of the relations in which the Constitution has placed the several Departments of the Government to each other, it will suffice to remark that the Executive and Senate, in the cases of appointments to office and of treaties, are to be considered as independent of and coordinate with each other. If they agree, the appointments or treaties are made; if the Senate disagree, they fail. If the Senate wish information previous to their final decision, the practice, keeping in view the constitutional relations of the Senate and the Executive, has been either to request the Executive to furnish it or to refer the subject to a committee of their body to communicate, either formally or informally, with the head of the proper Department. The appointment of a committee of the Senate to confer immediately with the Executive himself appears to lose sight of the coordinate relation between the Executive and the Senate which the Constitution has established, and which ought, therefore, to be maintained.

The relation between the Senate and House of Representatives, in whom legislative power is concurrently vested, is sufficiently analogous to illustrate that between the Executive and Senate in making appointments and treaties. The two Houses are in like manner independent of and coordinate with each other, and the invariable practice of each in appointing committees of conference and consultation is to commission them to confer not with the coordinate body itself, but with a committee of that body; and although both branches of the legislature may be too numerous to hold conveniently a conference with committees, were they to be appointed by either to confer with the entire body of the other, it may be fairly presumed that if the whole number of either branch were not too large for the purpose the objection to such a conference, being against the principle as derogating from the coordinate relations of the two Houses, would retain all its force.

I add only that I am entirely persuaded of the purity of the intentions of the Senate in the course they have pursued on this occasion, and with which my view of the subject makes it my duty not to accord, and that they will be cheerfully furnished with all the suitable information in possession of the Executive in any mode deemed consistent with the principles of the Constitution and the settled practice under it.

JAMES MADISON.

LITTLE CONTENTNEA RIVER, NORTH CAROLINA.

Mr. GALLINGER. Regular order, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The morning business has closed, and the regular order is the consideration of the Calendar under Rule VIII. The first business on the Calendar will be stated.

The concurrent resolution submitted by Mr. OVERMAN December 16, 1907, and reported from the Committee on Commerce by Mr. SIMMONS January 9, 1908, was announced as first in order, and was read as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the Little Contentnea River, North Carolina, from the mouth of same to the town of Ridge Springs, in Greene County, N. C., with a view of dredging, cleaning out, and widening the channel, and to submit a plan and estimate for such improvements.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the concurrent resolution.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

RAILWAY EXTENSIONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 902) authorizing certain extensions to be made in the lines of the City and Suburban Railway of Washington, the Washington Railway and Electric Company, the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, and the Capital Traction Company, in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was announced as next in order.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, with reference to that bill, I desire to say that the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. HANSBROUGH] is not in the Chamber at the present time. There are also certain amendments that may be offered to the bill, and so I ask that it may go over. I give notice, however, that on Monday next I shall ask to have it considered.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT AND FILTRATION PLANT.

The bill (S. 37) to transfer jurisdiction of the Washington Aqueduct, the filtration plant and appurtenances to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WASHINGTON AND WESTERN MARYLAND RAILROAD COMPANY.

The bill (S. 2295) to extend the time within which the Washington and Western Maryland Railroad Company shall be required to complete the road of said company, under the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, as amended by an act of Congress approved June 28, 1906, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to extend the time within which the Washington and Western Maryland Railroad Company is required to complete and put in operation its railroad in the District of Columbia under the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, as amended by an act of Congress approved June 28, 1906, for the term of one year from the 28th of December, 1907, and provides that all of the franchises, rights, and powers conferred by said acts, or either of them, may be enjoyed and exercised as fully and completely as if the railroad had been completed and put in operation prior to the 28th of December, 1907.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CORPORATIONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 2028) to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, relating to corporations, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, I ask the Senator in charge of the bill to state what is the provision proposed to be stricken out of the existing law.

Mr. GAMBLE. I will say, in reply to the Senator from Texas, that the law as it exists, as I understand it, prohibits corporations in this District from buying and selling or dealing in real property. This proposed enactment takes them out of this exception. I will say that a similar bill passed in the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses. The bill was drafted by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and there seems to be no good reason why such a proposition should not be enacted.

Mr. GALLINGER. In addition to what the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. GAMBLE] has said, I will say to the Senator from Texas that the law prohibits citizens of the District from engaging in this class of business, but permits corporations from outside of the District to do so, which seems unjust to the people of the District. The committee have considered the subject several times.

Mr. CULBERSON. As there seems to be a report accompanying this bill, I will ask to have it read.

Mr. GALLINGER. There is a report. Let the report be read. It is not very long.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. Gamble January 13, 1908, as follows:

The Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2028) to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, relating to corporations, having considered the same, report thereon with a recommendation that it pass.

A similar bill was introduced in the Senate during the Fifty-eighth Congress and favorably reported by your committee.

A bill identical in form was also introduced in the Senate during the Fifty-ninth Congress, favorably reported by your committee, and passed by the Senate.

The bill was prepared by and introduced at the request of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, whose reasons for recommending its enactment are set forth in the following letter:

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, December 9, 1907.

DEAR SIR: The Commissioners of the District of Columbia have the honor to transmit herewith a draft of "A bill to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia," the object of which is to authorize the incorporation of companies to deal in real estate in the District of Columbia, and to recommend its early enactment.

The section now reads as follows:

"Any three or more persons who desire to form a company for the purpose of carrying on any enterprise or business which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, excepting banks of circulation or discount, corporations to buy, sell, or deal with real property, railroads, and such other enterprise or business as may be otherwise specially provided for in this code, may make, sign, and acknowledge, before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and file in the office of the recorder of deeds a certificate in writing."

The modification contemplated by this proposed amendment consists in the omission of the words "corporations to buy, sell, or deal with real property."

The present law prohibits corporations chartered within the District of Columbia from doing things which are not excepted as to those incorporated outside of the District, thus constituting a discrimination against citizens of the District. There is no reason apparent to the Commissioners why residents of the District should not to be authorized to organize for the purposes of purchasing, improving, and selling land within the District limits on the community or park plan, much less why they should be precluded from advantages enjoyed by a combination of persons incorporated outside of the District.

Very respectfully,

HENRY B. F. MACFARLAND,
President Board of Commissioners District of Columbia.

Hon. J. H. GALLINGER,
Chairman Senate Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I dislike to suggest anything that would interfere with the progress of business as desired by the Committee on the District of Columbia, but the question of the conferring of corporate powers by the Federal Government is a very important one, and I should be very glad of an opportunity to examine the bill.

Mr. GALLINGER. Let the bill go over.

Mr. BACON. I only make the suggestion with that view. I will state further, if the Senator from New Hampshire will pardon me, that, unless he has in connection with the committee of which he is chairman what might be called a judiciary committee, I think that a bill of this kind ought to be examined by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. But I know there are able lawyers upon the Senator's committee, and if the bill has passed their scrutiny, of course I would not make that suggestion.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, if the Senator will permit me, I will say to him that the Committee on the District of Columbia is very desirous to unload part of its work, and if there is any other committee of this body who wants that work, it will be cheerfully sent to that committee. This particular matter has been looked into by some of the lawyers on the Committee on the District of Columbia. They may be mistaken in their conclusions. I think, however, the bill ought to go over until the Senator from Georgia shall have an opportunity to examine it. So I ask that it may be passed over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

BRANCH LIBRARY AT TAKOMA, D. C.

The bill (S. 1476) to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to accept donations of money and land for the establishment of a branch library in the District of Columbia, to establish a commission to supervise the erection of a branch library building in said District, and to provide for the suitable maintenance of said branch was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. CULBERSON. I ask that the report accompanying that bill may be read, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. JOHNSTON January 13, 1908, as follows:

The Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1476) to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to accept donations of money and land for the establishment of a branch library in the District of Columbia, to establish a commission to supervise the erection of a branch library building in said District, and to provide for the suitable maintenance of said branch, having considered the same, report thereon with a recommendation that it pass.

A similar bill (S. 6406) was introduced in the Senate during the Fifty-ninth Congress, reported favorably, and passed by the Senate.

The bill was prepared by and introduced at the request of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, as will appear by the following letter:

OFFICE COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, December 6, 1907.

SIR: The Commissioners of the District of Columbia have the honor to transmit herewith a draft of "A bill to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to accept donations of money and land for the establishment of a branch library in the District of Columbia, to establish a commission to supervise the erection of a branch library building in said District, and to provide for the suitable maintenance of said branch," and to recommend its early enactment.

Very respectfully,

HENRY B. F. MACFARLAND,
President Board of Commissioners District of Columbia.

Hon. J. H. GALLINGER,
Chairman Committee on the District of Columbia,
United States Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I shall have to object to the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the bill will lie over without prejudice.

LOTS 13 AND 14, SQUARE 959, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 903) to amend section 2, chapter 433, Thirtieth Statutes at Large, entitled "An act to confirm title to lots 13 and 14, in square 959, in Washington, D. C.," was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments, in section 2, page 3, line 9, after the words "Secretary of," to strike out "the Interior" and insert "War;" in line 10, after the word "such," to strike out "lost" and insert "lots;" and in line 11, after the words "Secretary of," to strike out "the Interior" and insert "War;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 2. That said act be further amended by adding thereto a section to be designated as section 3, as follows:

"SEC. 3. That whenever it shall appear that the United States has any interest in any lot in the city of Washington, D. C., not actually occupied by any claimant and in respect of which there has not been such payment of taxes as is by the preceding section made the equivalent of possession, the jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the Secretary of War to receive and act upon applications to purchase such lots, and, upon such terms as the said Secretary of War for the time being may see fit to impose and which in his judgment shall be for the interest of the United States, whether by requiring payment for all unpaid taxes or an additional sum, to make sale of the interest of the United States in any such lot or lots as are referred to in this section, and upon the compliance with the terms so imposed to make conveyance in fee simple on behalf of the United States to the purchaser."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY.

The bill (S. 1424) to increase the efficiency of the Medical Department of the United States Army was announced as next in order.

Mr. GALLINGER. Let that bill go over, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over at the request of the Senator from New Hampshire.

CLAIMS OF OMAHA TRIBE OF INDIANS.

The bill (S. 2901) authorizing the Omaha tribe of Indians to submit claims to the Court of Claims was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. KEAN. Let the report accompanying that bill be read, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. BROWN, January 14, 1908, as follows:

The Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred Senate bill 2901, authorizing the Omaha tribe of Indians to submit claims to the Court of Claims, report the same back with the recommendation that it do pass.

A bill similar to this passed the Senate at the last session of Congress, the report on that bill (S. 6190) being as follows:

"That the said bill has been submitted to the Interior Department and has received a favorable report of the Secretary of the Interior under date of June 4, 1906, and of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of June 2, 1906, with suggestions as to slight modifications therein.

"The Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs reports:

" 'This Office has had the matter before it for a number of years and has recommended approval of the contract between the tribe and the attorneys in order that the claim of the Indians might be passed on in a manner satisfactory to the tribe, the last report submitted to the Department on this subject being dated May 1, 1901.

" 'The matters relating to the Omaha tribe have been carefully considered by the Indian Office when the transactions were taking place, and each affair settled in the way that was believed to be for the best interest of all concerned, but the Indians have not been satisfied, and have for a long time insisted that they have never received their just dues from the United States. They have also insisted on their right to have some one of their own choosing make an investigation for them and prosecute their claim before the proper tribunal.

" 'The Office is in favor of referring intricate claims and questions involving the rights of Indians to moneys or lands due from or taken by the United States to the Court of Claims for adjudication, and if Congress sees fit to refer this matter to the Court of Claims, doubtless the findings will be satisfactory to all concerned.'

"The facts appear to be that by a treaty ratified and affirmed on the 16th day of March, 1854, the Omaha Indians ceded to the United States all of their lands west of the Missouri River and south of a line drawn due west from a point in the center of the main channel of the Missouri River due east of where the Ayoway River empties out of the bluffs to the western boundary of the Omaha country. They reserved for their own use as a future home the land north of said line, provided that if upon exploration this land should prove unsatisfactory as a location the President might, with the consent of the Indians, set apart and assign to them within the ceded country south of this line a residence suited for and acceptable to them, said location on the south of the river not to be more than 300,000 acres, if they elected to take it.

"They were to be paid for the land north of the dividing line, providing they accepted a home south, at the same rate per acre as was paid for that south of the river, deducting the acreage taken for the new home. The price paid for the land so ceded was 14 cents an acre. They accepted a home containing 300,000 acres south of the line, and the area of the land north of said line was about 800,000 acres. For the difference of 500,000 acres which they claim should have been paid for at 14 cents per acre the Interior Department does not contend that settlement has been made, and from the examination and information which your committee has been able to obtain there seems to be just cause for complaint upon their part.

"These Indians were allotted in 1882 and 1883, and the period at which the trust patents will expire by limitation runs within the next two years. They will hold their lands in fee, and they have been citizens of the United States since their allotment, a period of about twenty-three years, and are reported as being competent in all ways to transact their own business. They very strongly express their desire to prosecute a suit for a general settlement with the United States, and to be represented by competent counsel of their own choice before the Court of Claims in said suit. They further insist upon a right to secure a settlement of some small unpaid balances which they believe to be due them under other treaty provisions."

The bill as now reported is in the exact form as the bill that passed the Senate at the last session of Congress, with the exception of the omission of a clause recognizing attorneys.

Mr. BURKETT. The Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. LA FOLLETTE] reported the bill and manifested some interest in it last year. He is not present. He asked me yesterday if it came up within a week to request that it should go over. If he were present, I know he would ask to have it go over and not lose its place on the Calendar. Therefore, in justice to the Senator from Wisconsin, I ask that the bill may go over for a week without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go over without prejudice.

Mr. KEAN. While the Senator from Nebraska is on his feet I should like to ask him something about the bill. I know he is very familiar with the subject; he once looked it up very carefully, I remember, upon the Committee on Claims. How much is involved in the bill?

Mr. BURKETT. As near as we could estimate and get at it, $75,000; perhaps less rather than more. The Senator from Wisconsin, Mr. Spooner, looked it up also, and, as near as he could get at it, that is about what it is.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go over without prejudice.

METROPOLITAN POLICE OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The bill (S. 2872) to amend an act to amend section 4 of an act entitled "An act relating to the Metropolitan police of the District of Columbia," approved February 28, 1901, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to amend the act referred to by extending its provisions in behalf of the chief engineer of the fire department and all other officers of that department of and above the rank of captain to any chief engineer of the fire department and all other officers of the department of and above the rank of foreman who were retired and pensioned in pursuance of law prior to the approval of the act referred to.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY IN NORTH DAKOTA.

The bill (S. 560) granting to the State of North Dakota 30,000 acres of land to aid in the maintenance of a school of forestry was announced as the next business in order on the Calendar.

Mr. KEAN. I do not see the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. HANSBROUGH] present. I think the bill had better go over.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I hope the Senator from New Jersey will not insist upon that.

Mr. KEAN. I beg pardon.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. A similar bill passed the Senate during the last Congress. There can not be any objection to it.

Mr. KEAN. Are there any forests in North Dakota?

Mr. HANSBROUGH. We hope to have forests if the bill is passed.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from North Dakota yield to the Senator from Montana?

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Certainly.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. President, on a former occasion I interposed an objection to a bill granting to the State of Wyoming certain lands for the purposes in that bill specified. I did that with a view to terminating, in so far as I could, the granting of public lands in aid of State or private projects. The proceeds of public lands have been dedicated to the reclamation service fund, and it seems to me that every donation of land made necessarily depletes the source of revenue for that very important fund. I shall object to the consideration of this bill and its passage, and to all like bills presented, upon exactly the same basis and for the same reason that I objected during the last session of Congress to the donation of public lands to the State of Wyoming.

I have been importuned, and I think every Senator from a public-land State has been importuned, to secure donations of public land for all conceivable purposes; and the purpose is generally legitimate and of a public nature. If one of these bills is permitted to pass, the Senate thus becomes committed to a continuance of the policy, and every Senator will be compelled, whatsoever his general views may be, to look well to it that his State receives its share in the general process of the distribution of the public domain by grants. I should claim for Montana its due share if we are to parcel the public domain in general grants rather than to have the land taken up under the public-land laws.

Mr. President, I have no objection to a school of forestry being established in the State of North Dakota. I know of no section of the country where the people are more in need of trees than in that particular State, and they should receive instruction in the matter of tree culture. But if we are to establish a school in that State at the expense of the Federal Government, let the school be established by a direct appropriation from the Treasury for that purpose.

The school of forestry which can be most efficient, I think, will consist of some movement by the national forestry service which will induce the farmers and property owners of the country generally to engage in the work of tree culture and tree-life preservation. The effort of the Federal Government or of a State government to plant trees at public expense must necessarily result in extraordinary expenditures of money by the Treasury and comparatively trifling results in the way of developing forests. Instructions issued by the National Forestry Bureau to the people of the various localities in the country with reference to the trees that can be planted and successfully grown in each locality will finally develop a desire amongst the people to plant trees suitable to the location in which they live, and when all the people become interested, put their shoulders to the wheel, the existing forests will be somewhat safeguarded and the country denuded of forests will be reforested. As long as we depend for success in forestry upon Government agents planting seed we will find a very trifling return for a very large expenditure of money.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Mr. President, I simply desire to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that the State of North Dakota has established a school of forestry and the institution is now in operation. It has professors and students; it has a very fine building, and the proposed donation of 30,000 acres is simply for the encouragement of the institution. Under the bill there would be no Government agents planting trees in North Dakota. They would be planted under the instruction of the State school.

But I understand the Senator from Montana to object to the passage of the bill, and I ask that it may go over without prejudice.

Mr. CARTER. I will join the Senator from North Dakota in extending aid to schools of forestry in the respective States precisely as we now extend aid to the agricultural and experimental stations. I think the schools of forestry should be attached to the experimental stations rather than be established upon a separate basis. Let this aid not be spasmodic, but regular, so that a policy can be inaugurated with the assurance that it will be continuously sustained. The sum of $5,000 per year to the State of North Dakota and a like sum to other States having need of instruction would be better than to take a lump area of land, to be rented out and handled by the State authorities indefinitely, for the purpose of getting what may be gotten out of the land from time to time for the aid of schools.

I am in hearty sympathy with the movement to add to every experimental station a school of forestry, increasing the appropriation to agricultural colleges and experimental stations, so as to make it reasonably certain that the States will be encouraged by some supplemental aid from the Federal Government. But I think the donation of public land in large lots is inherently wrong at this stage of the country's development.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I ask that the bill may go over without prejudice, holding its place on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go over without prejudice.

BOARD OF CHARITIES—BOARD OF CHILDREN'S GUARDIANS.

The bill (S. 2029) providing for the appointment of members of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia and of the Board of Children's Guardians was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to amend the laws relating to the boards named by providing that appointments and removals of the members of the boards shall hereafter be made by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Mr. KEAN. Let the report in the case be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will read the report, in the absence of objection.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. NEWLANDS on the 14th instant, as follows:

The Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2029) providing for the appointment of members of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia and of the Board of Children's Guardians, having considered the same, report thereon with a recommendation that it pass.

The bill was prepared by and introduced at the request of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, as will appear by the following letter:

OFFICE COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, December 6, 1907.

SIR: The Commissioners have the honor to transmit herewith a draft of "A bill providing for the appointment of members of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia and of the Board of Children's Guardians," and recommend its enactment during the present session of Congress. The members of the Board of Charities are now appointed by "the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate," and the members of the Board of Children's Guardians by "the judges of the police court and the judge holding the criminal court of the District of Columbia," under the acts mentioned in the proposed bill.

Very respectfully,

HENRY B. F. MACFARLAND,
President Board of Commissioners District of Columbia.

Hon. J. H. GALLINGER,
Chairman Committee on District of Columbia,
United States Senate.

Mr. KEAN. I think the bill clearly interferes with the appointing power of the President, and I suggest that it go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Under objection from the Senator from New Jersey the bill will go over.

Mr. GALLINGER. I will ask the Senator from New Jersey kindly to repeat the statement he made.

Mr. KEAN. I merely stated that from the letter of the Commissioners the bill seemed to take away the appointing power from the President and to transfer it to the Commissioners.

Mr. GALLINGER. I thought that was what the Senator said, and for the RECORD I simply want to say that the Executive was consulted in regard to the matter and would be very glad to have the change made.

Mr. KEAN. If the President is willing to give up the appointments I am glad to know it, and I withdraw my objection.

Mr. GALLINGER. That is right.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The objection is withdrawn.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

L. K. SCOTT—B. JACKMAN.

The bill (S. 820) for the relief of L. K. Scott was announced as the next business in order on the Calendar.

Mr. LODGE. Of this bill and the following one, the bill (S. 2580) for the relief of B. Jackman, we have no copies on our file, at least I have none; nor are there copies of the reports. As they are both claim bills, I think they had better go over. I shall make no objection to the bridge bills that follow.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection, the bills indicated by the Senator from Massachusetts will be passed over.

CUMBERLAND RIVER BRIDGE NEAR CELINA, TENN.

The bill (H. R. 10519) to authorize the Nashville and Northeastern Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cumberland River at or near Celina, Tenn., was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER BRIDGE AT BURLINGTON, IOWA.

The bill (H. R. 4891) to authorize the city of Burlington, Iowa, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT WHEELING, W. VA.

The bill (S. 3336) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Wheeling, W. Va., was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to increase the limit from $400,000 to $440,000, the increase to be employed for decorations and other purposes.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT ALEXANDRIA, MINN.

The bill (S. 721) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office at Alexandria, Minn., was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to increase the limit from $30,000 to $45,000.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

The bill (S. 2981) to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Colorado Springs, Colo., was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to increase the limit of cost from $275,000 to $290,000, the increase to be employed in substituting granite for sandstone.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

POST-OFFICE BUILDING IN NEW YORK CITY.

The bill (S. 3955) to provide for the erection of a post-office building at New York City was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be erected on the site heretofore acquired by the United States for the purpose, a suitable and commodious building, with fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, and approaches, complete, for use as a post-office in the city of New York, at a total limit of cost, exclusive of site and special foundations heretofore authorized, of not to exceed $3,500,000.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

INCREASE OF PRIVATE PENSIONS.

The bill (S. 4048) granting an increase of pension to certain soldiers and sailors of the civil war and certain widows of such soldiers and sailors was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pension the persons named at the rate per month stated in lieu of the pension they are now receiving, as follows:

William H. Drake, late of Company A, Sixth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, $30.

Daniel R. Palmer, late of Company C, Twenty-third Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Milton S. Hammond, late of Company E, One hundred and forty-ninth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Edwin N. Kline, late of Battery C, Fifth Regiment United States Artillery, $30.

Logan McD. Scott, late of Companies H and G, Fifteenth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, $30.

William M. Wixon, late of Company C, Fourth Regiment Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Albert E. Goodwin, late of Company H, Third Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Albion Crane, late of Company H, Sixty-third Regiment, and Company B, One hundred and twenty-eighth Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Frederic Getchell, late of Company D, Eighth Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Irving Campbell, late of Company A, Seventh Regiment California Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Thomas W. Moneypenny, late of Company B, Fifteenth Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Infantry, $30.

George W. Phillips, late of United States ships Sabine, Niagara, and Savannah, United States Navy, $30.

William G. Jordan, late of Company E, Thirteenth Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Infantry, $30.

William Deter, late of Company E, Forty-fifth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Palmer Atkins, late of Company A, Thirteenth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Edward S. Hyde, late of Company E, Third Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Cavalry, $30.

Job D. Lewis, late of Company F, Twenty-sixth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Orrel Brown, late of Company C, Sixteenth Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $30.

James J. Hartin, late of Company H, Seventeenth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Rawson Bailey, late of Company H, Fifty-ninth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Ferdinand Ohmes, late of Company G, Forty-sixth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Asa D. Clark, late of Company K, Seventh Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Thomas Donohue, late of Company I, Forty-eighth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Thomas J. Reed, late of Company H, Twelfth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and Company H, Fifth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, $24.

Charles F. Millett, late of Company F, Maine Volunteer Coast Guards, $24.

Clarence L. Walker, late of Battery L, Second Regiment Illinois Volunteer Light Artillery, $24.

Thomas B. Parks, late of Company C, First Regiment Arkansas Volunteer Cavalry, $24.

Milton H. Barnes, late of Company K, First Regiment New York Volunteer Heavy Artillery, $24.

Thomas S. Cottrell, late of Company A, Maine Volunteer Coast Guards, $24.

Nelson S. Wellman, late of U. S. S. Juliet, United States Navy, $24.

Daniel Guptill, late of Company F, Twenty-seventh Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $24.

James Henry Webb, late of Company H, Twenty-third Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $24.

George A. Clipper, late of Company I, Ninety-fifth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Phillip Ford, late of Company E, Second Regiment Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Albert T. Covill, late of Company G, Twenty-fifth Regiment Connecticut Volunteer Infantry, $24.

William H. Hendrickson, late of Company I, One hundred and fifty-first Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Amos Coulter, late of Company F, One hundred and seventy-fourth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Charles H. Randall, late of Company F, Thirty-seventh Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Delos White Leach, late of Company A, One hundred and ninety-third Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Joseph T. Woodward, late first lieutenant and adjutant, Twenty-first Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Enos H. Stevens, late of Company F, Twenty-ninth Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, $30.

A. Judson Annis, late of Company G, Eighth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, $30.

James W. Shroyer, late first lieutenant Company G and captain Company H, Fourteenth Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Infantry, $30.

John T. Fort, late of Company A, Seventh Regiment Vermont Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Robert W. Jones, late of Fifth Independent Battery, Ohio Volunteer Light Artillery, $24.

James Fisher, late of Company D, One hundred and first Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Edward H. Williams, late of Company I, One hundred and Seventh Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Henry Dulin, late of Company C, Tenth Regiment, and Company G, One hundred and fifty-fourth Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Albert E. Stewart, late of Company B, One hundred and forty-fifth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $24.

James H. Gray, late of Company K, Sixty-fifth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Annanias Drew, late of Company G, One hundred and thirty-sixth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Mathew W. Martin, late of Company H, Ninety-fifth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $30.

Edson H. Webster, late of the United States Marine Corps, $24.

James P. Hubbell, late of Company C, Sixth Regiment Michigan Volunteer Cavalry, $24.

Levi S. Beemer, late of Company A, Seventh Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry, $50.

Cornelius M. Conley, late second lieutenant Company B, Ninth Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Infantry, $30.

John C. McClurkin, late of Company F, Thirty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, $24.

William F. Evans, late of Company B, Fourth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Cavalry, $24.

Joseph S. Buck, late of Company F, Forty-fifth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Edward N. Marsh, late of Company E, First Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, $30.

George Page, late of Company C, Fifteenth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, $24.

James Foley, late of Company K, Second Regiment California Volunteer Cavalry, $36.

Andrew J. Mullinix, late of Company B, Second Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Josiah R. Fox, late of Company E, Seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, $30.

Charles Hamlin, late major and assistant adjutant-general and brevet brigadier-general, United States Volunteers, $50.

James B. Linderman, late of Company K, One hundred and thirty-second Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, $24.

Lucretia G. Webster, widow of William E. Webster, late acting third assistant engineer, United States Navy, $16.

Marth J. Browne, widow of Albert W. Browne, late of Company G, Fifth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, and Company A, Twentieth Regiment Veteran Reserve Corps, $16.

Isabella Roessle, widow of Henry G. Roessle, late lieutenant-colonel Fifteenth Regiment New York Volunteer Cavalry, $20.

Annie B. Berry, widow of Richard Berry, late acting master's mate, United States Navy, $16.

Mary E. Walker, widow of Samuel H. Walker, late of Company F, Sixth Battalion District of Columbia Volunteer Infantry, and captain Company D, Third Regiment Maryland Volunteer Infantry, $16.

Martha A. Sheldon, widow of Charles H. Sheldon, late captain Company I, Seventh Regiment Vermont Volunteer Infantry, $20.

Margaret G. Gorman, widow of John M. J. Gorman, late of Company I, First Regiment Delaware Volunteer Infantry, $16.

Harriet Garwood, widow of Richard Garwood, late of Company A, Second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, war with Mexico, and Company I, Sixth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, $16.

Almire E. Briggs, widow of George L. Briggs, late of Company H, Eighteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteer Infantry and One hundred and fifty-ninth Company, Second Battalion Veteran Reserve Corps, $12.

Ada Eaton, widow of John Eaton, late of Company H, Fourth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, $12.

Rose Hollihan, widow of Peter Hollihan, late of Company F, Second Regiment Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, $16.

Ellen E. Traver, widow of Lorenzo Traver, late acting assistant surgeon, United States Navy, $16.

Jane Newton, widow of Francis E. Newton, late captain Company H, Twenty-ninth Regiment United States Colored Volunteer Infantry, $20.

Nancy Baxter, widow of William W. Baxter, late of Company K, Twenty-eighth Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry, $20.

Laura M. Farnham, widow of John Farnham, late of Company D, Twelfth Regiment Vermont Volunteer Infantry, $12.

Elmira Lombard, widow of Norman W. Lombard, late of Company C, Fourth Regiment Vermont Volunteer Infantry, $12.

Julie M. Hinsdill, widow of Chester B. Hinsdill, late lieutenant-colonel and commissary of subsistence, United States Volunteers, $20.

Emma L. Slack, widow of John W. Slack, late of Company C, Brackett's Battalion Minnesota Volunteer Cavalry, $12.

Elvira E. Baxter, widow of Henry Baxter, late lieutenant-colonel Seventh Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry and brigadier-general United States Volunteers, $50.

Grace A. Lines, widow of Edward C. D. Lines, late captain Company C, Second Regiment Kansas Volunteer Cavalry, $30.

Emily C. Wallace, widow of William Wallace, alias Wallis, late of Company D, First Regiment Maine Volunteer Heavy Artillery, $16.

Mr. KITTREDGE. I move to amend, on page 11, line 13, by striking out the word "twenty-four" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from South Dakota proposes an amendment, which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 11, line 13, it is proposed to strike out "twenty-four" and insert "thirty," so as to read:

The name of Joseph S. Buck, late of Company F, Forty-fifth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

Mr. LODGE. Is it proposed to raise all these pensions to $30 per month?

Mr. KITTREDGE. I consulted the chairman of the Pensions Committee, and he advised me that the amendment is within the rules which have been adopted by the Pensions Committee.

Mr. LODGE. And it has the approval of the committee?

Mr. KITTREDGE. It has the approval of the committee.

Mr. LODGE. I have no objection.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. This completes the Calendar.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. NELSON. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After twenty-five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

REVISION OF PENAL LAWS.

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask that the unfinished business be now proceeded with.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2982) to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, we have taken two days off after to-day, until Monday next, and I think under the circumstances we ought to have a quorum of the Senate present to-day. I make the point of no quorum.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from New Hampshire suggests the absence of a quorum. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bacon | Crane | Gallinger | Perkins |
| Bankhead | Culberson | Gamble | Richardson |
| Borah | Cullom | Guggenheim | Simmons |
| Brown | Curtis | Heyburn | Smith |
| Bulkeley | Depew | Johnston | Stone |
| Burkett | Dolliver | Kean | Sutherland |
| Burnham | Elkins | Kittredge | Taliaferro |
| Burrows | Flint | La Follette | Warner |
| Carter | Frazier | Long | Whyte |
| Clark, Wyo. | Frye | Martin | |
| Clay | Fulton | Newlands | |

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Forty-two Senators have answered to their names. A quorum of the Senate is not present.

Mr. HOPKINS entered the Chamber and answered to his name.

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask that the absentees be called.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection the Secretary will call the names of absent Senators.

The Secretary called the names of absent Senators.

Mr. HEYBURN. I think in a minute or two there will be no occasion for further proceedings under the call.

Mr. WARREN, Mr. DILLINGHAM, and Mr. BRYAN entered the Chamber and answered to their names.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Forty-six Senators have answered to their names. A quorum is present.

The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT], which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 25, line 10, after the word "years," it is proposed to strike out the words "or both," so as to make the section read:

SEC. 42. Whoever shall take and carry away, without authority from the United States, from the place where it has been filed, lodged, or deposited, or where it may for the time being actually be kept by authority of the United States, any certificate, affidavit, deposition, written statement of facts, power of attorney, receipt, voucher, assignment, or other document, record, file, or paper, prepared, fitted, or intended to be used or presented in order to procure the payment of money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, whether the same has or has not already been so used or presented, and whether such claim, account, or demand, or any part thereof, has or has not already been allowed or paid; or whoever shall present, use, or attempt to use, any such document, record, file, or paper so taken and carried away, in order to procure the payment of any money from or by the United States, or any officer or agent thereof, or the allowance or payment of the whole, or any part of any claim, account, or demand against the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than ten years.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next section was read, as follows:

SEC. 43. No officer or agent of any corporation, joint stock company, or association, and no member or agent of any firm, or person directly or indirectly interested in the pecuniary profits or contracts of such corporation, joint stock company, association, or firm, shall be employed or shall act as an officer or agent of the United States for the transaction of business with such corporation, joint stock company, association, or firm. Whoever shall violate the provision of this section shall be fined not more than $2,000 and imprisoned not more than two years.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I do not know the order in which we are proceeding. Is it understood that every section as read will be considered as agreed to?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I understand that according to the rule under which we are proceeding, it is in order at any time to recur to a section that has been passed.

Mr. BACON. I understand that; but I was not present when the bill was first taken up, and I want to know whether its consideration is proceeding upon the assumption that a failure to indicate opposition to a section will be considered as an agreement to it as in Committee of the Whole. As I understand, the bill is now being considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. HEYBURN. It will not be considered as an agreement, except that it will be considered as being passed without objection, subject always to the right to recur to it.

Mr. BACON. Then I should like to inquire of the Senator whether this provision as read from the desk is the provision as it now appears in existing law.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would direct the attention of the Senator from Georgia to part 1 of the report, page 15.

Mr. BACON. I have not a copy of the report before me.

Mr. HEYBURN. We have taken up each section in part 1 of the report; we have indicated the changes which have been made and the purpose of reporting it in the shape it appears. I refer to page 15. The sections are enumerated in their order. Section 43 is the one now under consideration. The report shows that section 43 is section 1783 of the Revised Statutes. It applies only to the officers of banking companies—that is in the existing law—or other commercial corporations. Those words have been omitted, so that the section may reach officers of any corporation. The language is also broadened so that this provision will cover the officers and agents of any joint stock company or association.

Mr. BACON. As there is a change, evidently, I will ask that the section as it now stands in the statute book may be read, so that we may see what is the pertinency of the change which is proposed.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would inquire of the Senator from Georgia whether he has part 2 of the report before him?

Mr. BACON. I have not.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would suggest to the Senator that part 2 of the report, which will give him the existing law, is printed opposite the section as read.

Mr. BACON. Very well. It is manifestly necessary that that comparison be made and that each time the law as it exists shall be read.

Mr. HEYBURN. I direct the attention of the Senator to pages 52 and 53 of part 2. The sections are in their proper order, and the Senator will find printed on the page immediately or directly opposite section 43 the existing law with a reference to the date of its enactment and the place where it is reported.

Mr. BACON. I should like to ask the Senator from Idaho to explain the reasons for these changes.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will do so, Mr. President. Section 43, which in existing law is section 1738 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which was enacted in 1863, was intended to apply only to banking companies and other commercial corporations. Conditions in this country have changed very much since 1863. The business of the country has passed very largely into the hands of corporations other than those covered by the Revised Statutes. It is also true that other business organizations, which would be classified as joint stock companies and associations, have come into existence and are doing a great deal of business.

Now, there is no reason why the restrictions that were imposed against banking companies should not apply to all existing business organizations that are liable to be placed in the same relation to Government contracts as were banking corporations. So that the committee has merely enlarged the provisions of the statutes to cover existing conditions that have arisen largely since the enactment of the original statute. That covers the amendment, which is the incorporation of the words "joint stock company or association." In lines 9 and 10 on page 52 of the report the penalties are transposed merely in order to conform to the general manner of statement, which runs throughout the bill in the interest of uniformity.

Mr. BACON. As I understand, Mr. President, the penalty is changed.

Mr. HEYBURN. No; the penalty is not changed, except that it is transposed.

Mr. BACON. I see.

Mr. HEYBURN. As it reads now it says:

> Who so acts, shall be imprisoned not more than two years and fined not more than $2,000 nor less than $500.

Under the general rule adopted we have abolished minimum punishments throughout the entire code, leaving that to the court. So that, with the exception of striking out the minimum punishment, the punishment remains the same as under existing law; but we have not indicated where the minimum punishment was stricken out by any mark, italics, or brackets, or such designation, because we have mentioned it in the general provision designating the changes that have been made, which are common to all of the sections.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I think the explanation of the Senator is very satisfactory. It seems so to me personally, at any rate, though I do not know how it may appear to other Senators.

Mr. CLAY. Let me ask the Senator from Idaho a question.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the junior Senator from Georgia?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. CLAY. I regard it as a very important matter and as a very dangerous thing to undertake to amend the statutes of the country without such changes having thorough consideration by the Senate. If I understand the Senator, the old law is simply printed in Roman text and the new law in italics—that is, the amendments made by the committee. All the amendments which have been made by the committee to existing laws are printed in italics in every section, as I understand. Is that correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is correct. Has the Senator the report of the committee before him or the bill?

Mr. CLAY. I have the bill before me.

Mr. HEYBURN. Then I will suggest that Senators will find it much more convenient to discard the use of the bill and have part 2 of the report before them, because the bill is printed on the left-hand page of that report and the existing law is printed verbatim directly opposite on the right-hand page. It will save much trouble if Senators will use that report.

Mr. CLAY. I will ask the Senator if the committee was authorized to codify, amend, and change existing laws?

Mr. HEYBURN. The committee was authorized, I will say, by the language of the act to "propose and embody in such revisions changes in the substance of existing law"—that is, among other things, they were authorized to revise and codify and to propose changes. The Senator will find that on page 2 of part 1 of the report. The report is presented in parts 1 and 2.

Mr. FULTON. Does the Senator from Idaho refer to the report of the Commission or the report of the committee?

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator understands that the joint committee was appointed to consider the work of the Revision Commission.

Mr. CLAY. A committee of Senators?

Mr. HEYBURN. The Revision Commission was not a committee of Senators; it was a Commission appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. A joint committee of the Senate and the House was appointed for the purpose of considering the work and the report of the Commission. That being the object of their consideration, they have at all times brought forward in their report the work of the Commission, either with their approval or with such suggestions in the nature of amendments as seemed to them wise. That is the form in which we have presented it.

I am prepared to refer any Senator to the section of the Commission's report, should he desire to examine it. I have the Commission's report here in two volumes. I think the Senator has it, or at least it was placed on the desks of Senators at the beginning of the session.

By a reference to the Commission's work, which is in these two volumes [indicating], reported pursuant to an act of Congress directing them to report by a given day, it may be readily ascertained what changes have been made, both by the Commission and by the committee appointed to revise the work of the Commission. Primarily this joint committee that now reports to both Houses of the Congress, and whose work is under consideration, was appointed to supervise and revise the work of the Commission. In process of doing so, as I stated yesterday in the absence of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. CLAY], I believe, the committee thought it wise to eliminate entirely about 170 sections of new legislation that had been proposed by the Commission.

Mr. CULLOM. Are they contained in these two volumes?

Mr. HEYBURN. They are contained in these two volumes to which the Senator refers, which comprise the report of the Commission to the Congress, but they are not in the report of the committee. They have been eliminated.

Mr. CULLOM. Are the laws to which the Senator refers now in force?

Mr. HEYBURN. They are not laws now; they are merely suggestions coming from the Commission. I have had them bound in these volumes.

Mr. BURKETT. I wish to ask the Senator a question in the line of my suggestion yesterday. How are we to know what the Commission have recommended and what the committee have recommended? How are we to know what appears in the bill is what the Commission recommended or what the committee recommended, or what by authority of the Commission or by the authority of the committee is left out? How are we to know what the Commission did and what it did not do by a reading of this bill?

Mr. HEYBURN. By comparison. If the Senator desires to compare the work of the committee with that of the Commission, he will find references in the report of the committee, and he will find at the end of volume 2 of the report of the Commission a reference index by sections of the Revised Statutes, and then cross references by sections of the report of the Commission. The references to sections of the Revised Statutes are also found on the right-hand page of part 2 of the Commission's report. Then, again, at the end of the committee's report the Senator will find a table of references, in the nature of an index, to sections of the bill; which makes the comparison very convenient.

Mr. BURKETT. Then, as I understand——

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator does not desire to take the trouble to make the comparison himself, and will call my attention to it, I have before me a comparative reference to every section of the Commission's work—for instance, section 43 is section 8650 of the Commission's report—and I will take pleasure in furnishing any Senator with that reference without putting him to the trouble of hunting it up for himself.

Mr. BURKETT. Then, in other words, if we do follow this properly and desire to know what the Commission did and what the committee did, we have got to go through this volume here, which is part 2 of the report, the index which the Senator has made up, and the two volumes of the original Commission's report—at least four volumes. Is that the idea?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, that will, of course, depend on how the Senate is going to take up this work. It is usual for the Senate to give some consideration to the work of its committees. This work has been done by a committee of the Senate and of the other House. Should the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, find it necessary to reperform the work that the committee of the Senate has performed, it will be necessary to consider, first, the Revised Statutes of the United States; second, the first and second Supplements to the Revised Statutes of the United States, and, third, all the statutes at large since the second supplement. It will be necessary for the Senate to consider those, and post them up as it would a ledger, until it had determined exactly what statutes had been repealed, what statutes had been amended, and the effect of the repeal or the amendment under the decisions of the courts in interpreting the laws throughout the entire history of this country.

Now the committee have performed that work, and I do not suppose for a moment that the Senate as in Committee of the Whole, or otherwise, intends to go over all the work that this committee has performed. If the committee was wisely selected—and that is a matter for the Senate—it is presumed to have taken up its work conscientiously and to have performed it in a capable manner.

The inquiry of the Senator, though, compels me to say that if the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, intends to follow every subject over which this committee has traveled, it will have to devote more time than it can possibly give to any subject, however important; and, as suggested by the Senator from Georgia [Mr. CLAY], there is no subject more important than the revision of the laws of the United States.

We spend hours and days and weeks and sometimes months in Congress in discussing, considering, and settling questions of minor importance, the whole pith and meaning of which is contained probably in one section of this revision, in not to exceed five lines, and we do not consider the time misspent at all.

We come here, not only to consider a single provision that may affect a portion of the people in their personal or property rights, but we come here to consider provisions of a criminal code that affect the salvation and preservation of the country itself, because it is a criminal code enacted by Congress that stands between the Government and those who would attack it through any source, by any means. It is the criminal code that provides for the punishment of the enemies of law, of justice, of order, and of good government, and there could be no more important subject. I fully realize it.

I can not answer the inquiry of the Senator more completely I think than I have done. If the Senator means that we are to go over in this body, as in Committee of the Whole, all the work that this committee has done, then it will have to occupy the months and months that this committee has been engaged in preparing and presenting this report.

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President, I think the Senator does not grasp just exactly my meaning. I do not want this bill delayed. I want to take it up and pass it, if we can get through with it, and I appreciate the labor that the committee has given to this matter. The Senator has read the law under which the Commission was appointed. That Commission was authorized not only to codify, but to suggest amendments, as he has read. What I was trying to get before him and to understand thoroughly was this: The Commission practically made the bill; that is, they drew it up with their suggested amendments. Now, the committee have gone out and, after a good deal of work, they have set aside some of those amendments, perhaps, or they have reported amendments of a different character. Speaking for myself, if, acting under that authorization of law, I knew that one of these amendments had been favorably considered by the Commission and then had been favorably considered by this committee, it would go a long way in persuading me that that particular amendment was exactly right. If, however, when I come to one of these amendments and I do not know whether the Commission favored it or not and do not know whether it has been considered favorably by both the Commission and the committee, or do not know but that one took one view of the matter and the other another view, I can not tell from these amendments, as they appear here, just how much weight I ought to attach to the report of this committee, because there may be a division between the Commission and the committee on the particular provision.

I simply wanted to find this out for this reason: I understood the Senator to say yesterday—and he has denied that statement, and therefore I am not saying I understand it that way now—but I understood him to say that the committee did not recommend and indorse all the amendments they suggest in bringing in the work of the Commission. Afterwards, however, the Senator stated that that was not exactly correct, because the committee did stand for what is in these amendments, and yet I recall that on yesterday the Senator pointed to section 33 and said he himself would not stand for that amendment and expected later on to raise a point of order or some objection against it and try to keep it out of the bill. So the Senator can see that, as I understand it now, just using it as an illustration, section 33 is no part or is it a part of the Commission's report?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, section 33 is an amendment proposed by the committee, which was passed, and has not been considered. When it was reached I stated that it would be passed because it was new legislation. There are only, I think, eleven such sections in the entire bill as presented, and it was the purpose of the committee to pass them over until we had disposed of the sections not objected to.

Mr. BURKETT. I understand that; but is that section 33——

Mr. HEYBURN. The statement which the Senator understood me to make yesterday, and about which I corrected his understanding, should stand in this way: There were certain sections to which certain members of the committee reserved the right, as is usual, to object when the bill came before the respective Houses for consideration. That is not at all unusual. If a Senator does not give such notice to a committee and the committee makes a report that is otherwise unanimous, it would perhaps be considered unusual, if not a matter affecting his good faith, for him to object here without having made his objection in the committee and giving notice that he would insist upon his objection on the floor. When we reached that section I did not deem it necessary to state the fact that I had reserved the right to object, because the whole section was passed over, and it was not before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole for consideration at all. That was the position I occupied. I did not say or intend to say that the members of the committee were not unanimous in making this report. They were unanimous, subject to the ordinary rules under which unanimous reports are made—that is to say, that any objection that a Senator reserves the right to make may be made without affecting the integrity of the unanimous report.

Mr. BURKETT. Is section 33, then, the Commission's work or the committee's work?

Mr. HEYBURN. The committee's work. I do not care to enter upon a discussion of a section that has been passed over, if the Senator will pardon me——

Mr. BURKETT. I only wanted to use the illustration——

Mr. HEYBURN. Because it will confuse the consideration of this bill under the rule by which we are proceeding, and I would very much rather not refer to a section that has been passed over. When that section is taken up we will stand ready to make any explanation or suggestion that may seem pertinent to the consideration of it, but I would respectfully and earnestly ask the Senator not to bring in the consideration of sections that have been passed over, because if he does it will provoke more discussion, and the senior Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER], who is not present, especially requested, and I promised him, that section 33 would not come up for consideration in his absence. He is detained in the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BURKETT. I am not trying to bring up section 33. I am trying to find out and referring to that section only as an illustration, because it is the only one of this nature, so far as I know, that we have passed over. But when we reach another section, and it proposes a change as indicated by the italics, I am trying to find out how we are to know whether that has the indorsement of the Commission and the committee or whether it has the indorsement of the committee without that of the Commission. That is what I am trying to find out.

Mr. HEYBURN. If there is no objection to section 43, I ask that the reading be continued.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I want to call the attention of the Senator from Idaho to what I consider to be a very grave defect in this report. Nothing, Mr. President, can be more important than the enactment of law, and every change in law is an enactment of law. As I understand this report, the words printed in ordinary roman text show what was the recommendation of the Commission. Am I correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; that is the bill.

Mr. BACON. Yes; and that the changes which have been made by the committee in the recommendations of the Commission are shown by the italics. I am correct in that also, am I not?

Mr. HEYBURN. So far as the statement goes.

Mr. BACON. I hope the Senator will wait to understand me, because I have not finished.

Mr. HEYBURN. I am answering the Senator. I say he is correct as far as his statement goes, but it is not complete.

Mr. BACON. I have not finished it. I want the Senator to tell me if I am correct in that particular statement, that the italics indicate amendments or changes proposed by the committee in what was proposed by the Commission.

Mr. HEYBURN. No—that is, not as I understand the Senator's question.

Mr. BACON. What do the italics indicate, then?

Mr. HEYBURN. I would be glad to state the fact——

Mr. BACON. I hope the Senator will permit me to go on with my statement.

Mr. HEYBURN. I would be very pleased to do so, but I supposed the Senator desired a reply to his question.

Mr. BACON. I simply want to know if I am correct in the statement as to the italics; and if not, what the italics indicate.

Mr. HEYBURN. I was proceeding to reply to the Senator when he insisted that he finish his question. Now, I will say to the Senator that what is in roman text is existing law. The Senator says that it is the report of the committee. It is a part of the report of the committee, but it is existing law. It is not all the report of the committee.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I think the Senator is in error in that, and I will give my reasons for stating that he is in error. As I understand the statement of the Senator, it is that the part of the reported bill which is in the ordinary roman text is existing law. Am I correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. Subject to the statement contained on page 1 of the report—I must answer the Senator in my own language; I must choose the language in which I reply—subject to the modification contained on the first page of the report, which excepts from the rule as to italics certain general provisions applicable alike to every section in the law.

Mr. BACON. Very well, Mr. President. I will then proceed to state it as I understand it, and I do not think I can be mistaken about it. It is certainly of the utmost importance that, as we go along, we should know from an inspection of the reported bill what are the changes proposed by that bill in the existing law. My suggestion—I think I might safely say "assertion"—is that there is nothing in the text of the bill which points out to us the changes which have been made between the bill and existing law.

Mr. HEYBURN rose.

Mr. BACON. Pardon me a moment, if you please——

Mr. HEYBURN. I am not going to interrupt the Senator.

Mr. BACON. I simply wish to be able to make myself understood with some degree of connectedness before the Senator interrupts me. I do not object to interruptions.

Mr. HEYBURN. I am not going to interrupt the Senator at all.

Mr. BACON. We have now before us, Mr. President, section 43. I have taken the section immediately succeeding that, which is section 44 of the bill, and which seeks to amend section 1553 of the existing law. Now, in the examination of that section I find but one word in it in italics, and that is the word "seaman," which, upon a casual glance, would naturally suggest to anyone considering the question of agreeing to that section of the bill that that was the only change proposed in existing law. That is certainly the only thing there to indicate that there is any change—the one word "seaman" in italics—and yet I have gone through that section and I have found seven distinct changes in existing law other than the word "seaman."

Now, here is the suggestion which I propose to make to the Senator, and if the Senator desires I will point out the changes before I make the suggestion. They may be unimportant changes, but how can we tell whether they are important or unimportant unless we have something to point out to us the proposed changes? In order to enable us to legislate intelligently and proceed in order, we should be able to know, without having to refer to other books, whether or not there are proposed changes, and we should be able to know it without doing as I have done with this particular section—reading it word by word and comparing each word, first with the bill and then with the existing section. Otherwise it would take a long time to pass upon each section.

Now, I want to make a suggestion to the Senator, and I do so in the utmost good faith, because I have no desire whatever to impede the progress of the Senate in the consideration of this bill; but I do most seriously object to enacting law upon the faith that any committee has done its duty.

Mr. President, we have bills continually, every day, referred to committees, but we do not legislate upon the idea that committees have done their duty. Matters are referred to committees in order that they may make examinations which it is not practicable for the Senate as a body to make; in order not that when their report is brought to the Senate the Senate shall accept and act upon it without investigation, but that with the labor thus done the Senate may decide whether or not the conclusion reached is a proper conclusion. Now, it is an impossibility for us to determine whether or not there is a proper conclusion unless we have in convenient form on the one side the proposed change and on the other side the existing law, with something which will indicate to us at a glance the proposed change. That is not a difficult thing to do, if this report were properly put in shape.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President——

Mr. BACON. The Senator will pardon me for a moment until I make the suggestion, and then I will with pleasure yield. The only thing in the bill as reported to indicate a change, as I state, is the italics. If they had gone further and had printed in each instance the difference between the bill and the existing law in capitals and then had included in the bill italics to indicate the difference between the report of the Commission and the recommendations of the committee, we would be able to act intelligently. But here, as I point out, there are in one section seven different changes of language, and not a thing to indicate in the bill that is proposed to us that there is any change proposed in that section. If those seven different changes had been put in roman capitals, the ordinary text agreeing with existing law in the common roman letter, and the difference between the Commission and the committee in italics, then we could have proceeded intelligently.

Now, I with pleasure yield to the Senator from Utah.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. If the Senator will turn to the first page of the report, marked part 2, he will find the first paragraph reading as follows:

Existing law is printed in roman; amendments and new sections are printed in italics; sections—

I direct particular attention to this clause—sections which have been redrafted or from which any material matter has been omitted, or which have been formed by combining different sections or provisions of existing law are printed in brackets.

If the Senator will look at section 44, the section to which he has referred, he will find that in addition to the italicized word the section is printed in brackets.

Mr. BACON. Yes; but——

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Just a moment—indicating that other changes have been made.

Mr. BACON. But, Mr. President——

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Those changes it was found it would be utterly impossible to put in italics, because they consist of omissions, perhaps. If you omit a word, you can not, of course, put it in roman or italics. The original law which is now contained in section 44 as it appears in the Revised Statutes of the United States is to be found in section 1553 and section 5455, two different sections. If the Senator will examine the latter part of section 5455, he will find it is almost an exact duplication of section 1553. So the committee thought and the Commission before the committee acted upon it thought the proper thing to do with those two sections was to combine them in one section, making the language much more brief and much more comprehensive. But there is no substantial change made in the existing law at all. There is simply a change in the phraseology—in the arrangement of the language. But every substantive provision of those sections will be found in section 44.

Now, as I understand, that is the object of having a revision—to make these changes in phraseology, to make these changes in rearrangement. Senators here have referred to the fact that this was a codification. It is not a codification. It is a revision. There is a very well-settled distinction between a codification and a revision. A codification would mean that we would simply bring together in an orderly arrangement the exact provisions of existing law, and a revision means just what the word itself implies—that there is a revision of the phraseology of the law, a change perhaps in the arrangement of the words—and that is what this Commission and this committee have been doing. But there is absolutely no change in any substantial particular, except as indicated.

The Senator will realize that this was a pretty extensive piece of work that the Commission and the committee have been called upon to perform—to go over all these laws—and in many instances it would be found impossible to indicate changes in roman letters or in italics, and we had to adopt some other plan. We have set on the right-hand page the existing law, so that if the Senator will with his eye follow the language of the existing law as it appears upon the right-hand page as the Clerk is reading he will see precisely whatever changes have been made, and they are in every instance clearly indicated either by italics or by the brackets, so that the attention of the Senator is at once challenged to them.

Mr. BACON. I quite disagree with the Senator from Utah as to the impracticability of presenting a bill in such text that we may see two things. First and most important, each and every change which is proposed in existing law, by Roman capitals or otherwise, indicating what the changes are, and where omissions are proposed, by a proper statement to that effect. We have very much more complicated matters constantly before the Senate in the differences between the two Houses as to amendments which are proposed upon bills which have been referred to committees and which come back, showing what was the original bill as it passed the House, for instance, what were the amendments proposed by the committee to which it was referred after it came to the Senate; and frequently where a bill is pending for a number of days in the Senate, there is a reprint day after day showing what amendments are proposed by the Senate as in Committee of the Whole. There is no difficulty whatever about it.

The only reply the Senator makes to the suggestion which I have made, that we are not put upon notice as to the changes which are proposed, is that wherever a section is changed in any particular in the bill, that section is put in brackets. But the particular changes which are proposed are not put in brackets. They put the entire section in brackets, simply to call our attention to the fact that a change is proposed, and then while the bill is being read from the desk and while we are called upon to determine whether or not we will agree to it, one has, on the one hand, to read the bill on the left and compare it, as he goes, with the words of the existing law on the right, in order to determine what the changes are.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President——

Mr. BACON. The Senator will pardon me for a moment. In the particular section to which I have called attention—it is a short section of eight or ten lines, probably eleven—there are seven verbal changes besides the change indicated by the italics in the bill. The Senator says they are unimportant. What may be unimportant in the view of the Senator may be very important in the view of somebody else; and it is because of this difference of opinion that legislative bodies are made up of large numbers of men in order that the view of one man or of any small body of men may not control, but that in the multitude of counsel there may possibly be found wisdom.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Will the Senator permit me to ask him a question right here?

Mr. BACON. I yield.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The Senator says there are seven different changes made in this section——

Mr. BACON. Yes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Which are not indicated by italics?

Mr. BACON. Not one of them.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Will the Senator point out one that he refers to?

Mr. BACON. I will point out the seven.

The Senator explains that these changes have been made by incorporating in this section the provisions of succeeding sections; but none the less they are changes. If the Senator will follow me, I will point them out.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Very well.

Mr. BACON. In the very first words of the section the words "Any person who" are changed to the word "Whoever." That is one.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Let me call the Senator's attention to a point right here. That is why I asked him to point out one change. In lieu of the words "Any person who" we have, in accordance with the general principle stated at the beginning of the bill, in order to insure uniformity, used the word "Whoever."

Mr. BACON. Very well.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Just a moment.

If the Senator will turn to the first part of the report, he will see that the committee has put him in possession of this information.

Mr. BACON. Is it possible for Senators, in order to pass upon the question of each amendment, to refer to three or four documents and large volumes of books in order to find out what the committee intended?

Mr. SUTHERLAND rose.

Mr. BACON. The Senator will pardon me. He asked me to point out the changes, and I want him to let me do it.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Will the Senator allow me to answer him in reference to that one change?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Georgia yield further to the Senator from Utah?

Mr. BACON. Oh, yes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The Senator did not permit me to finish my answer in regard to that change.

Mr. BACON. I am not criticising the change. I am simply stating the fact that there are changes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I was undertaking to point out to the Senator that the committee had not neglected to report with reference to that change; and if the Senator will turn to the very first page of the report—not some other report—he will find that the general statement is made—

> The change "whoever," wherever made, for "every person who," is made to bring about uniformity in style, and is not indicated by italics.

There is the general statement at the beginning of this report. What necessity is there of calling attention nearly three hundred different times to that particular change, when it is indicated by the general statement at the beginning of the report? That is the first change. It is not a substantial change. It is simply a change in phraseology.

Mr. BACON. The Senator asked me to point out the seven different changes. I am not pointing them out with a view to criticism. I am pointing them out for the purpose of substantiating the assertion that there are changes made, and innumerable changes made, when there is nothing in the reported bill to indicate to us in the text of the bill itself what the changes are.

Now I will go on, if the Senator will permit me and will bear in mind that I am not criticising the changes, but I am simply pointing out the fact that there are changes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND rose.

Mr. BACON. Will the Senator permit me to proceed?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Certainly; but if the Senator will permit me——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Georgia yield further to the Senator from Utah?

Mr. BACON. Oh, yes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Before we pass from that particular matter, I want to ask the Senator if he does not see that that change is indicated in the report? I mean the change he has now called attention to—the change of language from "any person who" to the word "whoever."

Mr. BACON. I have no doubt I could find somewhere else the fact that there are such changes, but I do say that in the text of the bill itself there is nothing to indicate that there was such a change. Now I have answered that, and I want to go on and show the changes.

In the first line of the existing law, after the word "procure," the words are interpolated "any soldier in the military service or." I am not criticising the fact that they have made that change, but I am asserting the fact that they have made it, and there is nothing in the text of the bill to call our attention to the fact that there has been that change. They have that section in brackets, to call our attention to the fact that there has been some change made, but what the particular change is is not indicated.

Now, in the beginning of the fourth line of the same section the words "in any wise" are omitted. That is three.

Mr. HEYBURN. Now let us see. I want to mark these.

Mr. BACON. In the same line, after the word "such," the word "soldier" is interpolated.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. What line?

Mr. BACON. I am talking about the fourth line on page 53, where there is a copy of the existing law.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. What is the Senator reading from, may I inquire?

Mr. BACON. I am reading from the section which purports to give the existing law, on the right-hand page, and I am pointing out the number of changes which have been made in that section without a single thing in the text of the bill to indicate that there have been such changes made; and I say that unless we do have a bill reported here with some device, by type or otherwise, to indicate that there have been changes made it is impracticable and impossible for Senators to pass upon the question whether or not the changes are desirable. Now, I have pointed out four. Then, in the second line thereafter, after the word "or," the words "in any wise" are again omitted. That is five. Then, in the seventh line, the word "person" is taken out. That is six. In the line above that I should have said the word "who" is taken out, which makes seven; and in the next line, between the word "person" and "or," the word "seaman" is interpolated, which makes eight, instead of seven. Eight changes in the one section. It may be that every one of them is a proper change. I am not criticising them; but I am calling attention to the fact that in the one section there are eight changes besides the one indicated by italics, and not a single thing in the bill as reported to indicate either one of those changes, further than the fact that the section is put in brackets to indicate that here has been some change, leaving us in this slow and tedious and almost impossible—certainly impracticable way—to find out what those changes are as we proceed to legislate.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. As I followed the statement of the Senator from Georgia, I think he is in error in saying that the language to which he referred is not contained in the section as reported by the committee. If he will compare the sections of existing law as contained on the right-hand page with section 44 as reported by the committee, he will see that while there has been a rearrangement of the language, substantially every particle of it is contained.

Mr. BACON. That, if the Senator will pardon me, would make it all the more difficult. If they have not only made a change of language, but have transposed the language, it makes it all the more difficult to follow the differences between the bill reported and the existing law. That certainly emphasizes the importance of what I have said, that there should be something in the text of the bill itself to indicate each change which is proposed.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The Senator has undertaken to put into my mouth some words I did not use.

Mr. BACON. I beg the Senator's pardon.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I say there has been no change made in the language, but only in the arrangement of the language. The Senator said I admitted that there had been not only a change in the language, but a change in the arrangement; something that I do not think I said.

Mr. BACON. The Senator will pardon me. I do not think I can be mistaken in the fact that he said that the two sections, 1553 and 5455, had been so rearranged as to put the matter contained in section 5455 into section 1553. I should think that is certainly a very material change. There are certainly a great many words in the bill which are not in section 1553. It is true the Senator gets them out of section 5455, a section 4,000 pages away, as it is found in existing law, from the section which he is seeking to amend.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The two sections deal with precisely the same subject-matter and substantially cover the same ground. If the Committee on Revision had any duty at all to perform, it does seem to me that that was one of the duties—to bring together these various provisions of law—and wherever it could be done, where sections were duplicated, to put them under one section instead of having them in two or three places, as they may be in existing law. Referring to one of the phrases that the Senator spoke of, in section 1553, it reads, beginning in line 3:

> Who shall in any wise aid or assist any such seaman or other person in deserting, or in attempting to desert from such service.

The Senator said that the word "attempting" had been left out.

Mr. BACON. No, I beg pardon, I did not. The Senator misunderstood me, because I have each change which I specified marked in ink; underlined. The Senator misunderstood me. "In anywise" immediately above the word "attempting" are left out.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes, the words "in anywise." That is true. Those words were left out because they absolutely mean nothing.

Mr. BACON. The Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT] calls my attention to the fact, as an illustration of what great changes have been made, that in the existing law the words are over 400—and he has counted them—and in the revised provision they are something less than 200—143—showing a most radical change. It may be absolutely correct, but we have no opportunity to judge of it. It is certainly a very great change. From over 400 words it has been so rewritten that it is now 143 words.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I think, the Senator will pardon me, that might be done in a great many instances.

Mr. BACON. Yes.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Some men have a faculty of expressing in a single sentence——

Mr. BACON. I quite agree.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. What it would require other men an hour and a half to state.

Mr. BACON. It may be that the rewritten section is entirely superior to the other, but what I mean is that there has been a very great change and we have no opportunity to judge for ourselves whether the change is desirable or not. It may be, and I presume it is, a very great improvement, as the Senator says.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should like to call the attention of the Senator from Georgia to the fact that both the Commission and the committee had before them, in the consideration of section 44, the proposition of molding together the provisions of three different acts of Congress passed during a period extending from 1863 to 1877, passed at different times to meet new conditions that had arisen. They had not been welded together in the nature of an amendment of the first enactment, but they had been passed seemingly without notice or without giving heed to the fact that there was already some legislation upon the subject. That condition was found to exist in a great many cases. Out of that condition perhaps more than out of any other arose the necessity for the revision and codification and rearrangement of these laws; where sections overlapped; where a section would be enacted to-day without taking into account the fact that there was already upon the statute books some law on that subject.

I am quite interested to know in what form the Senator from Georgia would suggest that section 44 should have appeared in print in this report. This committee now has under consideration the revision of all the laws of the United States. It is working every day upon the other titles, the general legislation of the country, and if we can receive any suggestions during the consideration of this criminal code as to a better method of presenting it we will heartily welcome it.

Mr. BACON. Will the Senator pardon me? With the assurance that I make the suggestion in the utmost good faith, with the sole desire that we may proceed intelligently——

Mr. HEYBURN. I am assuming that, of course.

Mr. BACON. Very well. If the Senator will apply to the clerical force of the Senate, which is in the habit of handling the question of the preparation of bills for printing, he will encounter no difficulty whatever in having a system suggested to him and a method prescribed by which the bill as it is proposed to be enacted can be shown to the Senate, while each change in the existing law which is proposed may also be shown in the text. That has frequently been done. It is done every session. It has been done in a number of cases where bills passed through various stages—first being considered in the House, then by a committee of the Senate, then by the Senate itself in Committee of the Whole—and in such cases day after day there has been a reprint showing the text of the measure as it appeared at each successive stage.

I do not think it is important for us to know, at least it is not to me, what were the differences between the committee and the Commission. I do not care to know that. But what I do desire to know with the utmost specific particularity is what are the changes in the existing law that are proposed by the committee.

We will take the particular section to which I have called attention, by way of illustration. It is perfectly practicable, for instance, in printing the first change to have some particular class of type and possibly by brackets to indicate that the words "Any person who" have been stricken out in the beginning of that line, and that the word "Whoever," put, for instance, in roman capitals, has been substituted therefor. That is plain, and we can see it at a glance. In the same way, in the second line of that section, where the words "any soldier in the military service or" are interpolated, it is perfectly practicable to have those words put in roman capitals, by which we will understand that they have been inserted by the committee, and so on throughout.

Mr. HEYBURN. Will the Senator pardon me?

Mr. BACON. Certainly.

Mr. HEYBURN. The identical words to which the Senator called attention in the original act are in section 44.

Mr. BACON. Of course they are. They are in the section——

Mr. HEYBURN. Line 2.

Mr. BACON. Section 44.

Mr. HEYBURN. The identical words are there.

Mr. BACON. But not, if the Senator will pardon me——

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes.

Mr. BACON. They are in section 44, it is true, but they are not in section 1553 of the existing law.

Mr. HEYBURN. They are in section 5455, from which section 44 is taken. Section 5455 is opposite.

Mr. BACON. I understand, but I do state the fact—and I presume the Senator will recognize the correctness of it—that in the proposed section, section 44, there is nothing to indicate that in section 1553 there have been these interpolations and these omissions without referring to another section to find it out.

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator now will permit me—and I bespeak his patience, because I may not state it as concisely as he is in the habit of doing—section 1553 is really no part of section 44. That is to say, Congress, thirteen years after the enactment of section 1553—without taking notice of it at all—enacted a statute that included what was in section 1553 and more; in other words, enlarged it. So when the committee came to consider the existing law, while it prints opposite section 44 section 1553, it does it for the purpose of enabling the Senate to know that section 1553 was taken into consideration in making section 44.

But if the Senator will turn to the most essential document in the consideration of this bill, and that is part 1 of the report, on page 15, he will find that the committee has directed the attention of the Senate to the changes and the reason of them, and to the fact that section 44 is really taken from section 5455 rather than from section 1553. We say, on page 15, in referring to section 44:

Section 1553, Revised Statutes, is a duplication of the latter part of section 5455. The sections have therefore been combined in one section. The word "seaman," where italicized, has been added.

We found it necessary only to insert the word "seaman," because that is a term which has come into general use since the enactment of the original statute. The Department has changed the designation of a certain class of men.

Mr. BACON. The members of the committee——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Georgia?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. BACON. The members of the committee continually recur to the question whether or not the changes made are proper changes. I am not discussing whether the changes are proper changes. I will concede that, if the Senator desires it.

Mr. HEYBURN. Will the Senator pardon me? I know we can understand each other if we are patient. I do not raise that question at all. I only call attention to the fact that the Senator, in making a comparison between section 44 and the existing law, is making a comparison between section 44 and a section of the Revised Statutes that is not existing law, and that is not the section from which section 44 was molded.

Mr. BACON. If I understood the Senator from Utah correctly—and I do not think there is any doubt about the fact—a new section known as section 44 in the bill is made up of a combination of sections 1553 of the statutes, the existing law, and section 5455. Am I correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. May I interrupt the Senator there? It is not made up of section 1553 and section 5455, except so far as section 1553 is incorporated into section 5455. So the existing law is not in section 1553. It is in a section that so to speak embraced section 1553 and enlarged its provisions. Section 44 is taken from section 5455, and it is not fair to section 44 to compare it with a section from which it was not taken.

Mr. BACON. I have no disposition to be unfair either to the section or to the Senator.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator will not misunderstand me. In the use of that term I was not speaking in a personal sense, but in a comparative sense as between the sections.

Mr. BACON. The Senator said that if there was any method by which the difficulties of which we complain could be eliminated, he would like to have the suggestion made. I will repeat the suggestion to the Senators and I hope that they will endeavor to act upon it. It is to have not the entire report, but simply the part of it which is comprised in the reported bill, so reprinted that by roman capitals, brackets, or in some other way we may, when we reach a section of the bill, be able to ascertain what words are inserted as to the existing law and what words are omitted as to the existing law. That is certainly a reasonable request on the part of those who desire to know what is being done. It is an absolute, utter impossibility for any Senator, unless he had a long time for the examination of each section, to go through the various devices which have been provided by the committee and ascertain what the changes are.

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator will make himself familiar with the print designated as part 2, he will find that it will be impossible to carry out the plan suggested. There are instances in the report where there are from three to a greater number of statutes that have been molded into a short section by the committee. Now, how are you to print two or three pages of existing law, passed perhaps over a lapse of twenty or thirty years or more, and then incorporate in the midst of that, in a different type, probably six lines of a section? I think the Senator would find it impracticable.

We took into consideration the methods in vogue in both Houses of Congress. We had working for us as one of our principal secretaries a man whose experience has extended over probably fifteen years of this particular technical work. We gave the matter many, many days of thoughtful consideration and endeavored to adopt a plan which would most perfectly present this measure. It might be that the section under consideration, although that would be very difficult, could be printed in connection with section 44, but to adopt it as a rule would be utterly impracticable. There are a number of instances in this report where the existing law, enacted in a fragmentary way, has been brought down and, as it were, telescoped into a few lines to express all that was in several statutes. In that case it would not aid us in considering this question that we printed those several entire enactments and in the midst of them indicate the legislation in a few lines of a different type.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Texas?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. CULBERSON. I thought the Senator had concluded.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will yield the floor to the Senator from Texas.

Mr. CULBERSON. I do not rise for the purpose of discussing the particular section under consideration, but in order to have it printed I offer now an amendment to be proposed at page 62 of the bill by adding two sections. I ask that the amendment be printed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The proposed amendment will be printed and lie on the table.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should like to know what are the sections. We can not make a note of it here unless we know the sections.

Mr. CULBERSON. The purpose is to add after line 3, on page 62 of the bill, two additional sections. I took the liberty of offering the amendment now in order that it might be printed by the next session of the Senate. It follows section 124.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will proceed with the reading of the bill.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 44. [Whoever shall entice or procure, or attempt or endeavor to entice or procure, any soldier in the military service, or any seaman or other person in the naval service of the United States, or who has been recruited for such service, to desert therefrom, or shall aid any such soldier, seaman, or other person in deserting or in attempting to desert from such service; or whoever shall harbor, conceal, protect, or assist any such soldier, seaman, or other person who may have deserted from such service, knowing him to have deserted therefrom, or shall refuse to give up and deliver such soldier, seaman, or other person on the demand of any officer authorized to receive him, shall be imprisoned not more than three years, and fined not more than $2,000.]

Mr. BACON. I should like to ask the Senators who are in charge of this measure whether we are to understand that section 44 of the bill, which has just been read, is a codification, so to speak, of sections 1553 and 5455 and contains all of the essential provisions in both those sections?

Mr. HEYBURN. It was so considered both by the Commission and the committee.

Mr. BACON. Very well.

Mr. HEYBURN. The report of the Commission differs not materially from that of the committee.

The Secretary read the next section, as follows:

SEC. 45. Whoever shall procure or entice any artificer or workman retained or employed in any arsenal or armory, to depart from the same during the continuance of his engagement, or to avoid or break his contract with the United States; or whoever, after due notice of the engagement of such workman or artificer, during the continuance of such engagement, shall retain, hire, or in any wise employ, harbor, or conceal such artificer or workman, shall be fined not more than $50, or imprisoned not more than three months, or both.

Mr. BACON. I understand from the reading of this section and from the text as printed that there is no change in the section except the insertion of three words which are in italics, which I presume indicate the differences between the Commission and the committee, not including, of course, the word "Whoever," which has been explained. The word "artificer" in the sixth line, I understand, was interpolated. Am I correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. The word "artificer" is substituted in that case for the word "armorer," because the Department has itself substituted the use of that term.

Mr. BACON. Yes. I am not asking for the reason; I am just asking as to the fact. Then the words "or both" have been added at the conclusion. Are those the only changes made in the text?

Mr. HEYBURN. Those are the only changes made in the text.

Mr. BACON. I have no objection to those changes. I simply wished to know if there were any others.

Mr. HEYBURN. There are no others.

Mr. BACON. Am I correct in that?

Mr. HEYBURN. So far as the committee determined there are no others. I would not want to stand here and make the assertion, in reply to a question of that kind, that there were no others and then have my attention called to some that nobody had found. This has been passed upon——

Mr. BACON. Nobody will accuse the Senator of insincerity.

Mr. HEYBURN. I understand. I want it understood that when I say there are no other changes I do it subject to that qualification.

Mr. BACON. If the Senator will pardon me, I am endeavoring to apply the rule which I understood the Senator from Utah [Mr. SUTHERLAND] to indicate as the one by which we should be guided. The Senator from Utah, as I understood him, indicated that wherever there was a change in the text the section was put in brackets.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is because the word "workman" is dropped out. Section 45 is not in brackets.

Mr. BACON. I know it is not, and I wish to know if from that we are to draw the conclusion that there has been no change made in the text except the one indicated by the italics.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is, the word "artificer" is substituted for "armorer."

Mr. BACON. Yes; and the words "or both" added. I simply wish to know if from the fact that there are no brackets we are to understand that there has been no change in existing law except where it is indicated by italics.

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; that is the rule of the report.

Mr. BACON. I may be in error about it, but I think the words "or both" make the penalty not only one but both, in the discretion of the court.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is discretionary with the court. Attention is called to that in the report.

Mr. BACON. Yes; by the italics.

Mr. HEYBURN. And also in the report.

Mr. BACON. We can not follow the report at the same time we are following the text of the bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. The report was made in order that Senators might refer to it to know just what was done with each section, and it is printed in this simple form for the convenience of handling.

Mr. BURKETT. Let me ask the Senator a question. What is the object of the law? What is the occasion for it? Why have the committee recommended it?

Mr. HEYBURN. The section?

Mr. BURKETT. Yes; the section.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is the existing law.

Mr. BURKETT. I understand that they have not recommended all existing laws.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, if the committee were called upon in the consideration of this bill to either defend or recommend all the existing legislation they would have quite an undertaking, because it would involve the discussion of perhaps two hundred different acts of Congress. I do not believe that it is wise to enter upon that. The motives which may have actuated Congress in the year 1800 to enact that section, for it was enacted the 7th of May, 1800, one hundred and seven years ago, would be pretty difficult to ascertain at this time. It would be difficult to say what motives actuated Congress at that time to enact this statute. The question now is whether it is wise in this day.

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. BURKETT. I am just trying to see if the committee can give their own motives. I am not asking them to give the motives of men in 1800. I ask them for their own motives. In a codification or in a revision, rather, as the Senator from Utah [Mr. SUTHERLAND] calls it, I am a little curious in this year of our Lord 1908 to know why we should come in here and solemnly enact that kind of a statute into law. I want to know what the reason is for it. Then, if we are going to reenact it, when for one hundred and seven years that penalty has been sufficient to do business and prevent this sort of interference with the work of the Government, I should like to know why the penalty should be doubled.

I should like to know why the committee has recommended the doubling of the penalty. Here is a law which provides that if anybody undertakes to entice a workman "employed in any arsenal or armory, to depart from the same during the continuance of his engagement, or to void or break his contract with the United States," he shall be fined for it. That was enacted in 1800. I should like to know if any such offense as that has ever been committed, if there has ever been any trouble in one hundred and seven years on account of anything of that sort, or if there is liable to be trouble on account of it. If there has not been any trouble under the penalty as it was, why is the committee recommending the doubling of the penalty now, after one hundred and seven years of successful operation of the statute?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not concede that the addition of the words "or both" is to be correctly denominated doubling the penalty at all. It is leaving a discretion in the court, to be exercised in those cases where the court in its judgment thinks that a small fine and a small term of imprisonment might probably be more beneficial than an entire fine or an entire term of imprisonment. This leaves it discretionary in the court.

The Senator certainly will not expect us to take up these laws that are now in existence and defend the wisdom of them. Further, it was not intended that either the Commission or the committee should be invested with the power to repeal laws or to enact laws that under the ordinary rules of Congress would be considered by the standing committees of the House or the Senate, and we tried in every instance to avoid the incorporation of anything into the bill which has been reported that we thought should properly go to one of the standing committees.

Mr. CLAY. Now, with the Senator's permission—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Georgia?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. CLAY. I think the Senator will find that the Commission has violated that rule. I want to call his attention to an instance. Take mailable matter. Turn to section 218. That is a section which describes what shall be mailable matter. In section 3878 of the Revised Statutes you will find that "all liquids, poisons, glass, explosive materials, and obscene books shall be excluded from the mails." I find that this committee has drawn a new section, embracing about forty or fifty lines, and specially providing that liquids shall not be excluded from the mails, but shall be transmitted by the mails. It is a new section entirely, and certainly it ought to have gone to a standing committee and should have been considered by the proper committee.

Mr. HEYBURN. It was because of that fact and that condition that in opening the consideration of this bill I suggested that all sections in italics would be passed over for consideration under a different rule. That is one of the sections that is included within the eleven new sections that have been suggested, and it is not the intention at this reading of the bill to take up or pause for the consideration of any new section.

Mr. CLAY. I would ask the Senator if he does not think that a statute which changes what shall be mailable matter ought to have gone to a standing committee and been considered by the committee before we are called upon to act on it? It changes a statute, I will say to the Senator, that has been in force for nearly fifty years.

Mr. HEYBURN. When that section is reached, if the Senator from Georgia thinks it should go to a standing committee, it will be entirely appropriate to move to refer it to a committee. That will take it out of the body of this bill. That was the purpose the committee had in mind in so designating these separate sections, both in print and in their report, that they might be readily distinguished. That is true of any other section here which contains new matter. If the Senator or any Senator thinks it should go to a committee for consideration it can be referred. But I do not think it would be profitable at this time to go out of the regular order. We must necessarily reach that section, at least I sincerely hope we will, in the orderly consideration of the bill, and then we can take it up. I ask that the reading may be proceeded with.

Mr. BURKETT. If the Senator has not given any very good reason for increasing this penalty, which it would seem has operated successfully for one hundred and seven years, I move to strike out the last two words—the words, "or both."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Nebraska offers an amendment, which will be stated by the Secretary.

The SECRETARY. On page 26, line 19, strike out the words "or both," at the end of section 45.

Mr. KEAN. As I understand the amendment, the words proposed to be stricken out change existing law; and if the amendment is agreed to, it will leave the law as it is at the present time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT].

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading will proceed.

The Secretary read the next section, as follows:

SEC. 46. [Whoever shall willfully trespass upon, injure, or destroy any of the works or property or material of any submarine mine or torpedo, or fortification or harbor-defense system owned or constructed or in process of construction by the United States, or shall willfully interfere with the operation or use of any such submarine mine, torpedo, fortification, or harbor-defense system, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.]

Mr. BACON. I would be very glad if a system could be devised by which we might know what the changes are, but as that can not be done and as the section as printed in the bill is an amendment to an amended section, as is indicated by the fact that it is in brackets, I shall have to ask the Senator to state in what particular it changes the law, or in what particulars, if there are more changes than one.

Mr. HEYBURN. It does not change existing law at all in any material manner. The word "fined" is substituted for a more elaborate expression in the existing law, and the word "imprisoned" takes the place of three other words to express the same thing. There are three paragraphs of the existing law. They are welded together into section 46, without leaving out any principle of law embodied in the original statute. The words "wantonly or maliciously" that appear in the original law are omitted from section 46 before the word "trespass" as unnecessary, as the word "willfully" will include any wanton or malicious act.

Mr. BACON. Those are the changes, the Senator says.

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; the courts disregard those words in construing those statutes. So there is no occasion for encumbering the statute with them.

Mr. BACON. I quite recognize the propriety of the changes, but I had to have the explanation of the Senator before I could know what they were.

Mr. HEYBURN. I hope I have done so satisfactorily. I am very pleased to give the explanation.

The Secretary read the next section, as follows:

SEC 47. Whoever shall go upon any military reservation, Army post, fort, or arsenal, for any purpose prohibited by law or military regulation; or whoever shall reenter or be found within any such reservation, post, fort, or arsenal, after having been removed therefrom or ordered not to reenter by any officer or person in command or charge thereof, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

Mr. HEYBURN. Section 47 will be passed over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Section 47 will be passed over.

The Secretary read the next section, as follows:

SEC. 48. Whoever shall rob another of any kind or description of personal property belonging to the United States, or shall feloniously take and carry away the same, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Mr. BACON. I simply want to call the attention of the Senator from Idaho to the fact that while none of the changes which are made in that section are, I think, material—it is a short section and I could read both sections as the reading went along—I think the changes are very proper. I want to call attention to the fact that there is an instance where the section as reported in the bill is not put in brackets, but where there are two or three changes made in the language.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, that section 48 comes strictly within class 1, stated at the beginning of the report. There is no change in it that is not within the first class, the changes which have already been fully set forth.

Mr. BACON. Still the section is not in brackets to call our attention to the fact that it is a change.

Mr. HEYBURN. The attention of the Senator from Georgia is called to it by the language of the report itself. The word "Whoever" is substituted for "Every person who" in the interest of harmony of expression.

Mr. BACON. Is that the only change?

Mr. HEYBURN. There is no other change that is not within rule 1, the first section.

Mr. BACON. Well, I see, for instance, that the word "shall" is interpolated in two places; and it is a very correct interpolation.

Mr. HEYBURN. That was merely in the interest of harmony.

Mr. BACON. I understand that.

Mr. HEYBURN. That comes within the general rule.

Mr. BACON. That ought to have been put in brackets, so as to have called our attention to it, that we might judge whether it was a proper change. We might differ from the Senator as to what was a proper change; and therefore that section ought to have been put in brackets.

Mr. HEYBURN. Would it be inappropriate to request the Senator to ask for any information that he may desire? We are prepared to make the answer.

Mr. BACON. I will try to do that.

Mr. HEYBURN. We have full notes on all these sections.

Mr. BACON. I will try to ask the Senator's attention, and I hope wherever brackets have been omitted, and therefore the rule as laid down by the Senator from Utah [Mr. SUTHERLAND] can not be relied upon to guide us, that we may have the fact stated to us that brackets have not been put around that section.

Mr. HEYBURN. That was, of course, under rule 1.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I notice in that section another change, or rather an omission, of some language which is found in the original act. The original act provided for fine and imprisonment and was followed by the words "at hard labor." The section as found in the bill has omitted those words.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, yesterday during the absence of the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. FRAZIER] it was explained that in every instance the provision relating to hard labor had been omitted throughout the entire revision, because the courts have held that hard labor is a part of the prison discipline of the country; that where a party is sentenced to imprisonment and hard labor is a part of prison discipline he must be subjected to it, whether it is embodied in the sentence or not; and that if he were sentenced to hard labor and sent to an institution where there was no provision for hard labor, under the law of prison discipline he would not be subject to hard labor, notwithstanding the fact that it was in his sentence. Therefore in every instance we have, because of the decisions of the courts, which have been practically uniform in that respect, omitted all reference to hard labor. So that comes under the general rule 1.

The next section was read, as follows:

SEC. 49. [Whoever shall embezzle, steal, or purloin any money, property, record, voucher, or valuable thing whatever, of the moneys, goods, chattels, records, or property of the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.]

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I desire that the Senator in this case, as I think it proper, shall explain what are the changes in that section. It is in brackets, indicating to us the fact that it has been changed. We wish to know what the changes are.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President, the only substantial change which is made is the omission of the language——

Mr. BACON. I hope the Senator will give us all the changes, because we want to judge whether or not they are substantial.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. We have, in pursuance of the uniform principle laid down at the beginning, substituted "whoever" for the language "every person who."

Mr. BACON. I will state to the Senator that I will consider that it is not necessary to repeat that.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Then, we have left out the words "shall be deemed guilty of felony," pursuant also to another uniform principle which has been adopted. The only change, outside of a change of that character, is the omission from the revised section of the language contained in the original section, "or into which he shall carry or have in possession of said property so embezzled, stolen, or purloined."

The original law provided for the prosecution of such an offense either in the district or the circuit court of the district where the offense was committed or in any district into which the property had been carried. The committee believed that to be a violation of the provision of the Constitution which requires that trial shall be had in the district where the offense has been committed. For that reason those words were omitted.

Mr. BACON. Now, Mr. President, if the Senator will pardon me, that illustrates the very great importance of knowing what we are doing. I am inclined to differ from the committee in that particular. I do not think it would be a violation of the Constitution if we applied to such a case the well-recognized rule of criminal law. I think it is a well-recognized rule of criminal law that a man who steals property is guilty of the offense not only in the county or district in which the offense is originally committed, but that he commits the offense actually in every county into which he carries the stolen property.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. If the Senator will permit me a moment, I will state that this section applies also to the crime of embezzlement, which, of course, is complete where the goods are embezzled.

Mr. BACON. I know that, but it is not limited to embezzlement. Of course, if there were a constitutional difficulty about the application of the law in a case where one who had embezzled property had carried it into another jurisdiction, the courts would eliminate that, and say that so much of that law as it was the intention to apply to embezzlement would not be constitutional; but I do not think that there can be any question about the fact as a proposition of law that one who carries property which he has stolen into another jurisdiction can be prosecuted in that jurisdiction. If that is a well-recognized principle of criminal law it is not an invasion of the constitutonal provision, which requires that a man shall be tried in the district in which he committed the offense. I think that a very wise provision of the law which requires that a man may be tried either in the county or the district where he originally committed the offense of larceny, or within the county or the district to which he carried the property. That has been the law of this country for a long time, and I presume it is the law of every State in the United States. Why should we make that change? Why should we, to that extent, remove the criminal from subjection to the machinery which the law has heretofore provided to give the largest scope to the Government in the prosecution of a man who shall steal its property? That is one of the changes which the committee thinks an unimportant change. I think it is a very important one.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The committee think it is an important change. I stated to the Senator that it was a substantial change.

Mr. BACON. I beg the Senator's pardon. I misunderstood him, then.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I called attention to that as distinguishing it from the provisions which I thought unimportant.

Mr. BACON. I should like to know from both of the Senators who have actual charge of this bill, and who are eminent lawyers, if they do not think I am correct in the proposition that a man who commits larceny of property and carries the stolen property into another jurisdiction is, in the eyes of the law, one who commits larceny in the district into which he carries the purloined property. If so, how can that possibly be an invasion of the Constitution?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I am not expressing disagreement with the Senator about that proposition. I know that some of the courts have held that in case of larceny, where the goods are carried into another county, or even into another State, the fact of carrying the goods into another county is itself a fresh asportation; but this section also includes the offense of embezzlement, to which the language certainly could not apply and be within the Constitution. The difficulty is, that if that language is left in the law, it would apply to an offense that it ought not to apply to, and would also apply to an offense perhaps that it could properly apply to, it being of that class of statutes where the bad matter can not be separated from the good. The difficulty is that, in all probability, the courts would hold the whole thing to be bad.

Mr. BACON. I will make the suggestion to the Senator that that section be included amongst those that are to be passed over. That is a vital question, I think.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. If the Senator will pardon me for just a moment, the point is that the committee think that the language which is void as applied to one part of the section is not separable in the sense that it can be eliminated, but that it will stand as applying to the good and the bad.

Mr. BACON. I think if a court was called upon to pass upon that question, if a man were before the court for embezzlement upon an indictment found in another district, where he carried property embezzled, it would simply hold that the statute to that extent did not apply to embezzlement; but it would uphold the part of the statute applying to larceny.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The Senator will recall that in a very recent decision of the Supreme Court with reference to the employers' liability act, the principle which I have just stated was applied by the Supreme Court.

Mr. BACON. No; I do not think so at all.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The Supreme Court said it would not undertake to separate——

Mr. BACON. I do not think the same rule would apply at all. One was in a civil matter and the other would be in a criminal matter.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I am speaking of the employers' liability act.

Mr. BACON. That is a civil matter, and the same rule of construction would not apply.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The rule of construction I understand to be the same as applied to a criminal statute and to a civil statute, with this difference: That in a criminal statute it is more rigorously applied, because a criminal statute is to be strictly construed.

Mr. BACON. But it is a different principle altogether.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. So that if the principle applies in a civil statute it will apply all the more to a criminal statute.

Mr. BACON. I understand that by some rule, the history of which I do not know, the sections which are contested are put in italics. I do not know why that rule should obtain.

Mr. HEYBURN. I suggest that that section be marked as being passed over.

Mr. BACON. Very well.

The next section was read, as follows:

SEC. 50. [Whoever shall receive, conceal, or aid in concealing, or shall have or retain in his possession with intent to convert to his own use or gain, any money, property, record, voucher, or valuable thing whatever, of the moneys, goods, chattels, records, or property of the United States, which has theretofore been embezzled, stolen, or purloined by any other person, knowing the same to have been so embezzled, stolen, or purloined, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both; and such person may be tried either before or after the conviction of the principal offender.]

Mr. BACON. I hope the Senator from Idaho will not require me to ask him each time we reach a section which is in brackets to explain what the changes are. I do not like to have to ask the Senator each time, and I should be very glad if he would follow the course I suggest.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, that section 50 is partially under the same rule we have just been discussing in regard to section 49. The report on that section is as follows:

SEC. 50. The change made in this section consists in the omission of a similar provision to that omitted from the preceding section.

That is the provision that the party may be tried in either jurisdiction. Then, in addition to that, section 50 also omits—the provision that the judgment of conviction of the principal "shall be conclusive evidence in the prosecution against such receiver," that the property which he is charged with receiving has been embezzled, stolen, or purloined.

The committee are of the opinion that such a provision would not be enforced by the courts; in other words, a man would not be convicted on the testimony given on the trial against somebody else; for, in that case, he would not have had his day in court. It was evidently a piece of inadvertent legislation. If the Senator desires to question the propriety of the omission of that provision, why, of course——

Mr. BACON. I would suggest the fact that possibly as there is the same question involved in that section as there is in the other, it go over for the present.

In addition to that, on first blush, I would think that the proper change to be made in regard to the latter point would not be the entire repeal of the clause, but a modification of it. If the word "conclusive" be changed to "prima facie," it seems to me it would put the proposed law in better shape.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I should like to ask the Senator, for his consideration, whether he does not think the provision that conviction of the principal offender shall be either conclusive or prima facie evidence against the party prosecuted would not be a violation of that clause of the Constitution which requires that every defendant shall be confronted with the witnesses against him?

Mr. BACON. Well, I am not prepared just now to say. As I said when I made my suggestion, it was only at first blush. I have not had time to properly consider the matter. If the committee have come to that conclusion, I should certainly hesitate very much to take issue with them on it.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I will say to the Senator that, at any rate, it was for that reason that I voted in committee to strike out the clause. I also direct the Senator's attention to the fact that the same condition exists with reference to other parts of this section, namely, that it deals with a variety of offenses.

Mr. BACON. I understand.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The offense of receiving, as well as the other offenses. Then, in addition to the changes which I have spoken of, we have stricken out, in line 5, the words "from the United States," that being an improper limitation of the law. The language, as the committee has reported it, is:

which has theretofore been embezzled, stolen, or purloined by any other person.

Under existing law it was "or purloined from the United States." The intent of the law evidently was to punish a man for receiving goods which had been stolen, they being the property of the United States. The old law made a further limitation, that it must have been taken from the United States. There was some doubt whether this would apply to some other persons who held property of the United States.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, the first question which the Senator suggested is certainly a very important one. I can understand how, in the absence of a presumption, there might be very great difficulty in dealing with a prosecution of that kind. At the same time, there may be a very grave doubt as to the constitutionality of it, and possibly that question ought to be pretermitted, as well as the one involved in this and which is also involved in the preceding one. So that may be put down among the contested sections.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. There is no objection.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Georgia yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. BACON. I do, with pleasure.

Mr. FULTON. I want to call the attention of the Senator from Georgia and the Senator from Utah to the old section. I do not think that a proper construction of that section carries the idea that one party having been convicted, that fact will conclusively presume the property to have been the property of the United States against the other party. That presumption only obtains as against the party who has been convicted.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I think the Senator is in error.

Mr. FULTON. The old law reads:

And such receiver may be tried either before or after the conviction of the principal felon, but if the party has been convicted, then the judgment against him shall be conclusive evidence in the prosecution against such receiver that the property of the United States therein described has been embezzled, stolen, or purloined.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. That means the original party—the party who commits the original offense.

Mr. FULTON. When I look at it again, I think the Senator is correct.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes; that is conclusive evidence against the receiver, without confronting him——

Mr. FULTON. Conclusive evidence as to the fact that the property was purloined or stolen.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes, of course. It is an essential fact in the prosecution.

Mr. HEYBURN. It fixes the status of the property.

Mr. BACON. As suggested to me by the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. FRAZIER], it does not presume that any particular person stole it; but it does presume the fact that it is stolen property.

Mr. HEYBURN. It establishes the fact that it is stolen property; but the fact established does not attach to the person.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. It dispenses with the necessity of proof on the part of the Government with reference to a material fact in the case.

Mr. BACON. I understand that section goes over.

Mr. HEYBURN. This section will go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The section will be passed over. The Secretary will continue with the reading.

The next section was read, as follows:

SEC. 51. [Whoever shall cut, or cause or procure to be cut, or shall wantonly destroy, or cause to be wantonly destroyed, any timber growing on the public lands of the United States; or whoever shall remove, or cause to be removed, any timber from said public lands, with intent to export or to dispose of the same; or whoever, being the owner, master, or consignee of any vessel, or the owner, director, or agent of any railroad, shall knowingly transport any timber so cut or removed from said lands, or lumber manufactured therefrom, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. Nothing in this section shall prevent any miner or agriculturist from clearing his land in the ordinary working of his mining claim, or in the preparation of his farm for tillage, or from taking the timber necessary to support his improvements, or the taking of timber for the use of the United States.]

Mr. BACON. Mr. President——

Mr. HEYBURN. I will anticipate the suggestion of the Senator from Georgia. The committee reports in regard to section 51 as follows:

Section 51: The act of August 4, 1892, extended the provisions of the act of June 3, 1878, to all the "public-land States." Aside from a slight change in phraseology for purposes of revision, the only change in the section is that making imprisonment a part of the punishment, the committee believing that a fine alone is not adequate punishment for the acts denounced in the section.

That is the committee's note of it.

Mr. BACON. I am not disposed to take any issue with the report of the committee in that regard, because I know nothing about the matter of public lands, except in a very general way, having none of them in my State. Therefore, so far as the proposed change in the law is concerned, I certainly shall not interpose any judgment of my own on the subject. I do not know how that may be. I should like very much, however, to have the Senator point out the changes which he considers to be immaterial, because we might not agree with him about that.

Mr. HEYBURN. Well, Mr. President——

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator if this——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes.

Mr. BURKETT. Then the Senator can answer my question at the same time he answers the question of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON]. Is this section the same as the Commission reported it?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will refer the Senator to the Commission's report on this section. It is found in section 8657 of the Commission's report. The Commission's report contains some expressions that are rather more wordy than those contained in this section.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Colorado?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask the Senator from Idaho whether he understands that section 51 repeals the statute of June, 1878.

Mr. HEYBURN. Section 51 contains the statutes of June 3, 1878, April 30, 1878, and March 3, 1891.

Mr. TELLER. The act of 1878 provides that miners, or anybody else for that matter, may cut timber in the mineral districts. It would seem to me that this section repeals that act.

Mr. HEYBURN. I call the Senator's attention to the language commencing on line 11 of the section:

Nothing in this section shall prevent any miner or agriculturist from clearing his land in the ordinary working of his mining claim, or in the preparation of his farm for tillage, or from taking the timber necessary to support his improvements, or the taking of timber for the use of the United States.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, the provision is certainly very much more narrow than the act of June 3, 1878. This section will confine the miner to the timber on his location. The act of 1878 authorized him to cut timber anywhere in the mineral district. It is utterly impossible for a miner, with his narrow strip of 1,500 feet by 600 in some cases, and but 300 feet in others, to get the timber he needs. If that is what the section means—and I am inclined to think it does—then it is very reprehensible.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the statute which the Senator has in mind is an administrative statute and not a penal statute.

Mr. TELLER. No; I am talking about the act of 1878.

Mr. HEYBURN. I have it before me, and I will be pleased to read the provisions of it to the Senator. It is as follows:

Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent any miner or agriculturist from clearing his land in the ordinary working of his mining claim, or preparing his farm for tillage, or from taking the timber necessary to support his improvements, or the taking of timber for the use of the United States.

Those provisions contained in the act of April 30, 1878, are all incorporated in section 51. At that time the provision was limited to certain States, but afterwards extended to all the public-land States.

Mr. TELLER. I have not had time to look this matter up, but I know there is a statute of the United States, which is in force now, unless it has been repealed within the last few months—and certainly it has not been repealed by the Administration, although they have tried to repeal it, I know—a statute that does not limit a miner's right to cut timber to any place. He can cut anywhere in the district.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is true. There is such a statute in existence. It is on the side of what we are accustomed to term "administrative law," and it gives him that right. There is no occasion for any penalty, because it gives him the right to do it. That law is not affected in any way by this penal statute, which is intended to prevent him from doing something, and not to confer a right.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, I am not satisfied with that explanation, and, so far as I am concerned, I want a little time to investigate this matter. I want to say to the Senator that I shall make a very determined fight on this bill if that statute is not taken care of.

Mr. HEYBURN. And I should join with the Senator.

Mr. TELLER. We have had already trouble enough with the Departments, Mr. President, and they have, without any authority whatever, sought to restrict the right to cut timber to the location of the miner, not allowing him to take any timber outside of his cabin. Such is not the statute, and such was not the purpose of the statute when it was passed in 1878. It was enacted after considerable discussion on the subject, and after it had received a construction by the court. I am very much afraid that this section will be treated—I know it would be in the Department—as a repeal of the act of June 3, 1878.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President, the statute to which the Senator refers is a statute with which, I suppose, both he and I are very familiar, because there have been many prosecutions under it.

Mr. TELLER. I drafted the statute myself originally, and I think I do know something about it.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The statute provides, as I remember, that any person in the States mentioned may cut timber from the public mineral lands of the United States for certain purposes enumerated, including domestic uses. The statute is quite broad, and it has been interpreted by the courts to mean any use in the State, the word "domestic" being used in that section as opposed to the idea of exportation to some other State.

As I remember, the courts have uniformly held that where a prosecution is had under the provisions of section 51, the statute to which the Senator has referred may be pleaded as a defense, and it is in that way that it is always pleaded. The statute is not a criminal statute, but is a statute conferring a right upon the inhabitants of the States that are enumerated; and whenever any person is prosecuted under the statute now under consideration for having unlawfully taken timber from the public domain the statute conferring this right may be pleaded in answer.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Utah yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I do.

Mr. FULTON. I ask the Senator what he thinks about this proposition: Passing this section as proposed, as a subsequent statute to the one the Senator has just been explaining, would it be considered, or might it not be considered, as a repeal of the administrative statute? Of course, it is contemplated, I take it, by this committee to report the administrative section in due time, and it will doubtless include the administrative act which the Senator has just been explaining; but it is proposed now to pass this criminal title, which contains this composite section 51, which makes it criminal to cut or remove timber from any lands except in certain excepted cases. That being later law than the administrative act, if you do not reenact the administrative act, would not this be construed as a repeal of it?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. My judgment, Mr. President, is that it would not. If it should be a repeal at all, it would be a repeal by implication, which is not favored as a matter of law. I do not think that the ordinary rules with reference to the repeal of statutes apply to a revision. We are simply revising existing law; we are not making any law.

Mr. TELLER. It seems to me that we are making a good deal of new law here.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Not in this section.

Mr. TELLER. No; not in this section; but I think, as the Senator from Oregon [Mr. FULTON] suggests, you will find, with the feeling that exists in some of the Departments here, that the miner would be prohibited from cutting any timber except what is on his claim. It is very easy to correct this, so that there shall be no question, and I am going to insist that it shall be corrected before the bill becomes a law.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Nothing can be further from any desire of mine——

Mr. TELLER. We can not dispose of this now.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Let it be passed over.

Mr. TELLER. What I want to do is to frame this section so that it shall not, by implication or by the construction which some $1,200 clerk in the Department may put on it, repeal the existing law.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I think there certainly could be no objection to that course. I am as anxious as is the Senator to make it clear that that law has not been interfered with.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The section will be passed over.

REPORT OF FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

Mr. WHYTE, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following resolution, submitted by Mr. Penrose on the 15th instant, reported it without amendment:

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Post-Office Department 10,000 copies of the report of the First Assistant Postmaster-General to the Postmaster-General for the year ended June 30, 1907.

Mr. WHYTE. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In the absence of objection, it is so ordered. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution reported by the Senator from Maryland?

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to.

NATIONAL BANKING LAWS.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask that there may be printed 3,000 additional copies of Senate bill 3023, for the use of the Committee on Finance. We have a demand for it with which we are not able to comply.

The order was reduced to writing and agreed to, as follows:

Ordered, That 3,000 additional copies of the bill (S. 3023) to amend the national banking laws be printed for the use of the Committee on Finance.

Mr. KEAN. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 4 o'clock and 13 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until Monday, January 20, 1908, at 12 o'clock meridian.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate January 16, 1908.

PROMOTIONS IN THE NAVY.

Commander John R. Edwards to be a captain in the Navy from the 3d day of January, 1908, vice Capt. William Swift, promoted.

Mates Frank Holler and Robert Robinson, on the retired list of the Navy, to be mates on the retired list with the rank and retired pay of the next higher grade, namely, the lowest grade of warrant officers, from the 29th day of June, 1906, in accordance with the provisions of an act of Congress approved on that date.

REGISTER OF THE LAND OFFICE.

J. Ernest Breda, of Louisiana, whose term expired March 18, 1907, to be register of the land office at Natchitoches, La. (Reappointment.)

POSTMASTERS.

CALIFORNIA.

Motley H. Flint to be postmaster at Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, Cal., in place of Motley H. Flint. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Samuel W. Metcalf to be postmaster at Sisson, Siskiyou County, Cal., in place of Samuel W. Metcalf. Incumbent's commission expired November 17, 1907.

COLORADO.

George W. Miller to be postmaster at Hotchkiss, Delta County, Colo., in place of George W. Miller. Incumbent's commission expired November 19, 1907.

John C. Shull to be postmaster at Berthoud, Larimer County, Colo., in place of Arthur F. Brown. Incumbent's commission expired November 19, 1907.

Paul J. Sours to be postmaster at Denver, Denver County, Colo., in place of Paul J. Sours. Incumbent's commission expires February 3, 1908.

CONNECTICUT.

James E. Ballard to be postmaster at Darien, Fairfield County, Conn., in place of James E. Ballard. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

Sanford E. Chaffee to be postmaster at Derby, New Haven County, Conn., in place of Sanford E. Chaffee. Incumbent's commission expires January 26, 1908.

George H. Ford to be postmaster at Waterville, New Haven County, Conn., in place of George H. Ford. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Charles Harris to be postmaster at Westport, Fairfield County, Conn., in place of Charles Harris. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

GEORGIA.

George P. Whigham to be postmaster at Bartow, Jefferson County, Ga. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

ILLINOIS.

August J. Beger to be postmaster at Nauvoo, Hancock County, Ill., in place of August J. Beger. Incumbent's commission expires January 20, 1908.

Benjamin W. Belsley to be postmaster at Roanoke, Woodford County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Albert Bothfuhr to be postmaster at Grant Park, Kankakee County, Ill., in place of Albert Bothfuhr. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Tracy W. Buckingham to be postmaster at Potomac, Vermilion County, Ill., in place of Tracy W. Buckingham. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Milton S. Fulton to be postmaster at Washburn, Woodford County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

David Herriott to be postmaster at Morgan Park, Cook County, Ill., in place of David Herriott. Incumbent's commission expired December 17, 1907.

Joseph Lawton to be postmaster at Milledgeville, Carroll County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

Eugene L'Hote to be postmaster at Milford, Iroquois County, Ill., in place of Eugene L'Hote. Incumbent's commission expires January 25, 1908.

John F. Newlin to be postmaster at Chrisman, Edgar County, Ill., in place of John F. Newlin. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

Wallace Revell to be postmaster at Stillman Valley, Ogle County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

William T. Robinson to be postmaster at Kenilworth, Cook County, Ill. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Howard E. White to be postmaster at Fairmount, Vermilion County, Ill., in place of Howard E. White. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

William Wilson to be postmaster at Palatine, Cook County, Ill., in place of Henry C. Matthei, resigned.

INDIANA.

Charles C. Fester to be postmaster at Clay City, Clay County, Ind., in place of Charles C. Fester. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Charles Smith to be postmaster at Westfield, Hamilton County, Ind. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

IOWA.

Caleb H. Wickersham to be postmaster at West Branch, Cedar County, Iowa, in place of Caleb H. Wickersham. Incumbent's commission expired January 11, 1908.

KANSAS.

William C. Edwards to be postmaster at Wichita, Sedgwick County, Kans., in place of Marshall M. Murdock, deceased.

George H. Leisenring to be postmaster at Ellis, Ellis County, Kans., in place of George H. Leisenring. Incumbent's commission expired January 4, 1908.

Anna Wood to be postmaster at Selden, Sheridan County, Kans. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

LOUISIANA.

C. C. Johnson to be postmaster at Melville, St. Landry Parish, La. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

MAINE.

Rufus C. Reed to be postmaster at Damariscotta, Lincoln County, Me., in place of Rufus C. Reed. Incumbent's commission expires January 29, 1908.

MICHIGAN.

Elmer Pryce to be postmaster at Tustin, Osceola County, Mich. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Samuel L. Willits to be postmaster at Remus, Mecosta County, Mich. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

MINNESOTA.

John H. Carlaw to be postmaster at Balaton, Lyon County, Minn. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

MISSOURI.

Edward W. Flentge to be postmaster at Cape Girardeau, Cape Girardeau County, Mo., in place of Edward W. Flentge. Incumbent's commission expired December 19, 1907.

Frank A. Hardin to be postmaster at Cabool, Texas County, Mo., in place of Frank A. Hardin. Incumbent's commission expires January 22, 1908.

Albert F. Huggins to be postmaster at Shelbina, Shelby County, Mo., in place of John L. Fields. Incumbent's commission expired February 12, 1907.

Clarence M. Zeigle to be postmaster at Bunceton, Cooper County, Mo., in place of Clarence M. Zeigle. Incumbent's commission expires February 2, 1908.

NEBRASKA.

Leander H. Jewett to be postmaster at Broken Bow, Custer County, Nebr., in place of Leander H. Jewett. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

NEVADA.

Ernest B. Loring to be postmaster at Fairview, Churchill County, Nev. Office became Presidential October 1, 1907.

NEW JERSEY.

James E. Jones to be postmaster at Florence, Burlington County, N. J. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

NEW YORK.

Henry R. Bryan to be postmaster at Hudson, Columbia County, N. Y., in place of Henry R. Bryan. Incumbent's commission expired December 17, 1907.

Allerton C. Farr to be postmaster at De Kalb Junction, St. Lawrence County, N. Y. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Charles C. Johnson to be postmaster at Antwerp, Jefferson County, N. Y., in place of Charles C. Johnson. Incumbent's commission expired December 17, 1907.

Charles T. Knight to be postmaster at Monroe, Orange County, N. Y., in place of Charles T. Knight. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Hiram B. Odell to be postmaster at Newburgh, Orange County, N. Y., in place of Hiram B. Odell. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Theodore C. Wethey to be postmaster at Savannah, Wayne County, N. Y. Office became Presidential January 1, 1907.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Cecil H. Taylor to be postmaster at Garrison, McLean County, N. Dak. Office became Presidential April 1, 1907.

OKLAHOMA.

George Stowell to be postmaster at McLoud, Pottawatomie County, Okla., in place of Marshall A. Younkman, resigned.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Roger A. McCall to be postmaster at Trafford City, Westmoreland County, Pa. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Harvey W. Marburger to be postmaster at Denver, Lancaster County, Pa. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

TENNESSEE.

John J. Duff to be postmaster at Lenoir City, Loudon County, Tenn., in place of William C. Cassady. Incumbent's commission expired January 14, 1908.

UTAH.

Lars O. Lawrence to be postmaster at Spanish Fork, Utah County, Utah, in place of Lars O. Lawrence. Incumbent's commission expires January 29, 1908.

John Peters to be postmaster at American Fork, Utah County, Utah, in place of John Peters. Incumbent's commission expires January 29, 1908.

VERMONT.

Mary W. Chase to be postmaster at Derbyline, Orleans County, Vt., in place of Mary W. Chase. Incumbent's commission expires January 25, 1908.

WISCONSIN.

John R. Davies to be postmaster at Cambria, Columbia County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

George G. Gaskill to be postmaster at Argyle, Lafayette County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

J. E. Huff to be postmaster at Florence, Florence County, Wis., in place of Joseph E. Parry. Incumbent's commission expires January 21, 1908.

Mary A. McAskill to be postmaster at Glidden, Ashland County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Duncan McLennan to be postmaster at Rib Lake, Taylor County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

John C. Mitchell to be postmaster at Kaukauna, Outagamie County, Wis., in place of John A. Watson. Incumbent's commission expired January 14, 1908.

Joseph E. Parmelee to be postmaster at West Salem, La Crosse County, Wis., in place of Joseph E. Parmelee. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Frank H. Smith to be postmaster at Pardeeville, Columbia County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

Frank Tucker to be postmaster at Princeton, Green Lake County, Wis., in place of Frank Tucker. Incumbent's commission expires January 18, 1908.

Albert C. Wagner to be postmaster at Edgar, Marathon County, Wis. Office became Presidential January 1, 1908.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Executive nominations confirmed by the Senate January 16, 1908.

GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO.

Regis H. Post, of New York, to be the governor of Porto Rico.

SECRETARY OF PORTO RICO.

William F. Willoughby, of the District of Columbia, to be secretary of Porto Rico.

TREASURER OF PORTO RICO.

Samuel D. Gromer, of Missouri, to be treasurer of the island of Porto Rico.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF PORTO RICO.

Edwin Grant Dexter, of Illinois, to be commissioner of education of Porto Rico.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS.

George F. Roth, of New York, to be collector of customs for the district of Genesee, in the State of New York.

PROMOTIONS IN THE REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE.

Second Lieut. Eugene Blake, jr., to be first lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from August 23, 1907.

Second Lieut. James Freeman Hottel to be first lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from September 4, 1907.

Second Lieut. Philip Henshaw Scott to be first lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from September 2, 1907.

Second Lieut. William Joseph Wheeler to be first lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from June 23, 1907.

Third Lieut. James Louis Ahern to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from March 17, 1907.

Third Lieut. Lloyd Toulmin Chalker to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from March 20, 1907.

Third Lieut. Edward Darlington Jones to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from June 23, 1907.

Third Lieut. Stanley Vincent Parker to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from August 23, 1907.

Third Lieut. Archibald Howard Scally to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from March 2, 1907.

Third Lieut. Russell Randolph Waesche to be second lieutenant in the Revenue-Cutter Service of the United States, to rank as such from September 2, 1907.

POSTMASTERS.

FLORIDA.

W. A. Allen to be postmaster at De Land, in the county of Volusia and State of Florida.

John C. Beekman to be postmaster at Tarpon Springs, in the county of Hillsboro and State of Florida.

Charles F. Haskins to be postmaster at Sanford, in the county of Orange and State of Florida.

David P. Morgan to be postmaster at Perry, in the county of Taylor and State of Florida.

GEORGIA.

George F. Flanders to be postmaster at Swainsboro, Emanuel County, Ga.

IDAHO.

Waller E. Babcock to be postmaster at Parma, Canyon County, Idaho.

Mary P. Jones to be postmaster at Malad City, Oneida County, Idaho.

Charles W. Wilson to be postmaster at Sandpoint, Bonner County, Idaho.

KANSAS.

Edward C. Hill to be postmaster at Burr Oak, Jewell County, Kans.

Roy A. Hoisington to be postmaster at Leoti, Wichita County, Kans.

MONTANA.

Charles S. Stafford to be postmaster at Culbertson, Valley County, Mont.

NEBRASKA.

George A. Allen to be postmaster at Clay Center, Clay County, Nebr.

Calvin Bradshaw to be postmaster at Farnham, Dawson County, Nebr.

Henry Kleven to be postmaster at Culbertson, Hitchcock County, Nebr.

Francis M. Pfrimmer to be postmaster at Stratton, Hitchcock County, Nebr.

Erick P. Reichardt to be postmaster at Oxford, Furnas County, Nebr.

NEW YORK.

James H. Callanan to be postmaster at Schenectady, Schenectady County, N. Y.

NORTH DAKOTA.

John S. Gee to be postmaster at Flaxton, Ward County, N. Dak.

Reinhart Gilbertsen to be postmaster at Glenburn, Ward County, N. Dak.

Mathew Lynch to be postmaster at Lidgerwood, Richland County, N. Dak.

OHIO.

George H. Lewis to be postmaster at Bluffton, in the county of Allen and State of Ohio.

Charles B. Marble to be postmaster at Bedford, in the county of Cuyahoga and State of Ohio.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Frank R. Hammond to be postmaster at Bolivar, Westmoreland County, Pa.

James A. Pearce to be postmaster at Avonmore, Westmoreland County, Pa.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

John D. Fargo to be postmaster at Redfield, in the county of Spink and State of South Dakota.

EXTRADITION WITH SPAIN.

The injunction of secrecy was removed January 16, 1908, from the message from the President of the United States, transmitting a treaty and protocol between the United States and Spain for the mutual extradition of criminals.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, January 16, 1908.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. HENRY N. COUDEN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. WANGER, by unanimous consent, was granted leave of absence for the remainder of this week on account of important business.

ADDITIONAL MESSENGERS FOR POST-OFFICE.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following privileged report from the Committee on Accounts.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That there shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House compensation at the rate of $100 per month, each, during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, to additional messengers, not to exceed five in number, to be employed under the direction of the Postmaster of the House in delivering and collecting mail at the office of Members, officers, and employees of the House, and at committee rooms.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I would like to hear some explanation of this resolution.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that this resolution provides for five additional employees to the House post-office, four of them to deliver mail to the new Office Building, one for each floor, and the fifth one will collect the mail from the mail chutes in the new building. The committee made a thorough investigation of this matter with the Postmaster of the House, and he said the force he had at present was not sufficient to deliver the mail for the new building and that nearly all the Members have asked that this service be given them.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman from West Virginia yield five minutes to me.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will yield five minutes to the gentleman from Alabama.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I am never opposed to the increase of the employees of this House where they are needed, and I believe in being liberal in our treatment of the employees of the House of Representatives. But it seems to me as clear as any proposition can be that this is practically a waste of money and an employment of men for whom we have no use whatever. The mail is delivered to-day to every Member of this House at his home twice a day. Now, it is folly to say that a Member wants his mail delivered at his home and wants four deliveries in the Office Building. As a matter of fact, we all know that a Member of this Congress who is paying attention to his business does not need his mail delivered at his home twice a day. If he is attending to his duty as a Congressman, he gets that mail in the morning and goes to the House and sits there until adjournment, and he has no use for mail in his office at any other time of day except in the morning; and even if he wants it in his office, he does not want it at his home; and if he wants it at his home, he does not want it at his office. Here is a force of men already employed at the Capitol sufficient to deliver this mail to the homes of Members of Congress twice a day, going blocks apart and finding Members' homes.

Yet the gentleman says that the Postmaster of the House post-office contends that it will take more men to deliver mail from office to office in these new public buildings than it will to deliver mail from house to house in the District of Columbia. I know of cases of large office buildings in my own city, office buildings that have as many tenants as there are and will be in the new Office Building over here, where one single letter carrier in the city makes two or three deliveries a day to everybody in those buildings, and to contend that it is necessary for us to employ additional men when the present force that is delivering mail throughout the city will necessarily have to be reduced when their work will fall off when the Members order their mail delivered at the Office Building, it seems to me, is folly. Those men can be used to make these deliveries in the Office Buildings. It shows one of two things beyond a doubt, and that is that the Postmaster in charge of the House post-office is absolutely inefficient and unable to attend to his duties or that you are employing a number of men merely for the purpose of providing jobs for somebody or somebody's representative.

Mr. NORRIS. Will the gentleman from West Virginia permit me to ask him a question?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. NORRIS. I notice from what the gentleman said yesterday morning that it was contemplated that the first delivery of mail at the Office Building would be at 9 o'clock in the morning. Is that right?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. NORRIS. Now, can it not be arranged so that we can have an earlier delivery in the morning?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes. If the gentleman will allow me, as the mail is delivered now from the post-office the carriers in the city go to the post-office at 4.20 in the morning. They sort their mail at the city post-office building. Then they deliver this mail, which takes them until about 9 o'clock. Then that force of carriers go home, get their breakfast, and go back to the post-office in the Capitol. They then sort their mail for the evening delivery, and start out on their evening trip at 3.30. Their time is taken up with that until about 7 o'clock. These same carriers that go out in the early morning, if the Members so elect, will deliver mail at the offices of Members on that trip, or any place Members want it delivered in the city. Then the mail that comes in at 9, at 10.30, at 12.30, and 2.30 will be delivered in the new Office Building if the Members so desire. The Postmaster of the House can be depended on to make proper and satisfactory regulations.

Mr. NORRIS. Now, if the gentleman will permit me right there, I had a talk this morning with the gentleman in charge of the post-office. He said that they were unable to make a delivery in the Office Building as early as they could make deliveries in different parts of the city to the Members at their hotels or their homes. There are many of us that would like our mail delivered at the Office Building instead of at our homes, but we would like it delivered earlier than 9 o'clock in the morning. This post-office is not open until 9 o'clock in the morning, and the result is that we can not get our mail delivered until after 9 o'clock.

Mr. MANN. Oh, the gentleman will get it all right.

Mr. NORRIS. To avoid that, as I understand it, to get earlier mail, as I instructed the Postmaster this morning, I will have to have it delivered at my residence early in the morning at the regular delivery, and then I will have to carry it to the Office Building myself. It seems to me that Members ought to be allowed to have their mail delivered, if they prefer it, at the Office Building. It would be less expense, and it should be delivered at an early hour—at least as early as 8 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. I will say for the information of the gentleman that I think the Postmaster is mistaken, or else I misunderstand the situation. It will be just as easy for the Postmaster on that early delivery, and perhaps easier, to deliver a great deal of this mail in the new Office Building than to residences on account of the offices being in one place, instead of being scattered. I think that will be done. I am sure that if Members prefer to have their mail delivered at the Office Building on that early trip it will be done.

In reply to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. UNDERWOOD] I have this to say. He stated that Members who attend to their duties here should not receive their mail more than twice a day, and that before they came here and after they got through with the business of the House. The gentleman well knows that perhaps 75 per cent of the mail that comes in is taken care of by the different secretaries of Members, and this mail can be delivered in the Office Building and be disposed of, and then such mail as requires personal attention of the Member can be given it after the secretary has sorted it. In this way the work of Members is facilitated a great deal. I know that if I had personally to go through and look after every piece of mail that I receive I would not have a minute's time to put in in this House.

Mr. GOULDEN. Will the gentleman yield me a moment?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

Mr. GOULDEN. In reply to the gentleman from Alabama, I would say that the committee has given this most careful consideration, and that it was intended for the benefit and convenience of the Members. It is intended to expedite the work of the Representatives, so that they may be able to keep up with the great mass of correspondence that comes to each Member from his constituents.

If the Members feel it will not be a convenience and a benefit to have their mail during the day, then vote it down. The members of the committee have no axes to grind in this matter and no desire to increase the force in the employ of this House, but we believe, after a careful inquiry among Members, that this will be a convenience as well as a benefit to the Members. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that nothing can be done that will give more opportunity for Members to attend to their mails in season than to grant what is provided for in this resolution, and therefore I hope the resolution will pass. [Applause.]

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to add this: This resolution was introduced by Mr. MANN, who is chairman of the Commission on this Office Building, and he said that this service is absolutely necessary.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A message, in writing, from the President of the United States was communicated to the House of Representatives by Mr. LATTA, one of his secretaries.

MUNICIPALITY OF UTUADO, PORTO RICO.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States, which was read, referred to the Committee on Insular Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In accordance with the provisions of section 32 of the act of April 12, 1900, entitled "An act temporarily to provide revenues and a civil government for Porto Rico, and for other purposes" (31 Stat., 77), I transmit herewith copy of a franchise granted by the executive council of Porto Rico to the municipality of Utuado, entitled "An ordinance granting to the municipality of Utuado the right to take 390 gallons of water per minute from Creek Grand, in the municipality of Utuado, for the purpose of supplying the inhabitants of the municipality with water," approved January 3, 1908.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 16, 1908.

BRIDGE ACROSS WHITE RIVER, ARKANSAS.

Mr. BRUNDIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 12439) authorizing the construction of a bridge across White River, Arkansas, with an amendment thereto in the nature of a substitute, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read the substitute at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection. [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The substitute amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be read the third time, was read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. BRUNDIDGE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

DAM ACROSS THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

Mr. STEENERSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 7606) to amend an act entitled "An act permitting the building of a dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, in Beltrami County, Minn.," approved March 3, 1905, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the time limited in which to complete the dam authorized by the act entitled "An act permitting the building of a dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn.," approved March 3, 1905, be, and the same is hereby, extended for a period of one year.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

Mr. PAYNE. Was the original authorization for this dam under the general act? As I understand, this is to extend the limit of time, and now I want to know whether the original authorization was under the general act.

Mr. STEENERSON. I think it was under a special law passed two years ago. I do not think the general act had been passed at that time. The cause of asking the extension is that they were unable to put in the concrete in cold weather.

Mr. PAYNE. They are actually building the dam?

Mr. STEENERSON. They are actually building the dam and specifications and plans have been accepted by the War Department.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. STEENERSON, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

OLD CUSTOM-HOUSE, NEW YORK.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I move to discharge the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds from the further consideration of the following resolution and put it upon its passage.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolution 124.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the House of Representatives:

(A) Whether the final payment on account of the purchase price of the premises in the city of New York, N. Y., known as the old custom-house, has been made, and the date of such payment.

(B) Whether a deed to said premises has been delivered to the purchaser thereof, and if such deed has been delivered to said purchaser the date of such delivery; on what day the new custom-house in New York City, N. Y., was formally opened, and the day the old custom-house in said city was finally discontinued for use of the United States.

(C) Whether the said old custom-house in New York City, N. Y., has been turned over to the purchaser thereof, and the date of such transfer.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from New York moves to discharge the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds from the further consideration of this resolution.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MANN. There is nothing here to indicate whether it is privileged at this time or not. Is this a privileged resolution now?

The SPEAKER. The resolution seems to have been referred on the 8th day of January, and this is the 16th. Six days have elapsed.

The question is on the motion to discharge the committee.

The question was taken, and the motion was agreed to.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I ask for the adoption of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. FITZGERALD, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was agreed to was laid on the table.

REVISION OF CRIMINAL CODE.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 11701) to revise and codify the penal laws of the United States.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, with Mr. BANNON in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment pending before the committee is the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS], the amendment being to section No. 114.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, I offer a substitute to the gentleman's amendment, and on that I desire to be heard.

Mr. NORRIS. Mr. Chairman, a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. NORRIS. The Chair, I think, has forgotten that there was a motion made to amend the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS], and that motion ought to be voted on first.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment offered by the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS] to strike out the last clause of the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] is pending.

Mr. NORRIS. Yes, sir.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, I offer a substitute to the gentleman's amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK].

The Clerk read as follows:

Whoever shall directly or indirectly take, receive, or agree to receive from any person, or shall directly or indirectly offer, or agree to give, or give, to any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration to procure or aid in procuring or attempt to procure the appointment of any person to any office or place under the Government of the United States, or any officer or Department thereof, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both, and shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

Mr. HARDWICK. The amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] will, I think, do, and I am perfectly willing to support it; but I have offered this substitute, however, for that amendment.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, there is so much confusion I would like to have that amendment again reported.

The CHAIRMAN. Request has been made by the gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] that the Clerk report the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK]. The Clerk will again report the substitute.

The amendment was again reported.

Mr. NORRIS. Mr. Chairman, I want to make a point of order against the substitute at this time.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. NORRIS. When we adjourned yesterday there was pending before the House, and the Chair was about to put the motion, a motion made by me to strike out a part of the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS]. Now, it strikes me that before a substitute can be offered for the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] we must first be allowed to perfect, and my motion was to that effect, and I think it would not be in order until my motion has been disposed of.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair thinks what the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS] states is true, as to the voting—that is, the vote will have to be taken first on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS] to the amendment made by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS]. But the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] can be pending.

Mr. HARDWICK. Mr. Chairman, as I started to say to the members of this committee, I quite agree that the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] has correctly stated the proposition. However, his amendment was hastily drawn, and I do not believe that its phraseology is quite as accurate or quite as brief——

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman will excuse me. If that is true, it was a hasty resolution on the part of the Committee on Revision, for I copied their language.

Mr. HARDWICK. The gentleman, however, has interpolated some words, and, in my opinion, the interpolation did not improve either the grammar or the meaning of the section. Still, I am not inclined to be technical about that. I think the gentleman's amendment to the section would serve the purpose I am endeavoring to accomplish, and I will be glad to support it, and will support it with pleasure, unless my substitute should find favor in the eyes of the committee.

The substitute that I offer makes it further illegal to attempt, without success, to bribe anybody who has the appointing power, and as the gentleman's amendment, and as the committee's language, even, did not include that, I therefore offer the substitute.

Mr. OLMSTED. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. OLMSTED. I desire to take the floor when the gentleman concludes.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman yield?

Mr. HARDWICK. I do not yield the floor.

Mr. OLMSTED. I thought the gentleman had concluded.

Mr. HARDWICK. I am trying to conclude.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I realize the difficulties under which this committee labors. I realize that it is a difficult matter to ask the Committee of the Whole House to go into making new law. But I respectfully and earnestly submit to the consideration of every Member on both sides of this Chamber that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Mississippi and myself, both amendments, do not violate the rule laid down by the committee itself. In their report I find that they say that they have themselves offered new legislation under three different sets of circumstances. I want to quote from the second, on page 7 of their report, in which they say:

Second. To provide for the punishment of certain offenses which in the experience of the departments have been found to be of frequent occurrence, but for the punishment of which there is at present no statute.

Now, for the information of those who are present this morning but who were not present yesterday, I desire to say that the amendment now pending simply undertakes to remedy an omission of the existing law by broadening the language of the statute. Under existing law no one except a Member of Congress or a Delegate can be punished, if he is bribed in an effort to obtain an appointive office.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HARDWICK. I would like to have five minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARDWICK. Now, this is all that is proposed by this statute—not to change the phraseology employed by the committee, not to make any new crime, not to enact new law, but simply to extend the classes of persons who will be embraced under the law if this amendment is adopted. In the South, in every State of it, appointive offices are filled upon the recommendations of unofficial persons known as referees. These referees act, in turn, on the advice of committeemen, national, State, and county. Under existing law, if any of these committeemen or any of these referees accept any amount of money for an indorsement they are not guilty of any crime against the laws of the United States, and yet we have had many such offenses committed by Republican committeemen, at least.

Now, the effect of this amendment is to say that when anybody, officeholder or anybody else, takes a bribe in order to secure an appointment to a Federal office he shall be guilty in law, as he is in fact, of a crime against the United States. What honest man can object to that? What honest man on either side of this Chamber can oppose it? Do you want to throw a cloak about bribery? Do you want to condone the sale by auction of Federal offices in any part of this country? Do you want to leave your statutes so that those who have thriven on this detestable trade can continue this nefarious and indefensible practice? If you do not, vote for the amendment—for either of these amendments. If you do, do not attempt to shelter yourselves behind the excuse that this is no place to do it. Gentlemen of the committee, I have been trying to get a law of this kind enacted for the past five years. For five years a bill has been before the Committee on the Judiciary seeking to accomplish that purpose, and yet it has been unacted on and undisposed of. Unless we do this thing now, these criminals will be allowed to go on unwhipped of justice in the future as in the past, and the public service will continue to suffer, to the shame and disgrace of the nation.

Five years ago there was a tremendous scandal about this thing in the very district that I now represent. The President of the United States was shocked and horrified at the condition of affairs that the report of post-office inspectors sent by him to that district disclosed, and yet when we came to examine into it we found that this very statute was so incomplete, so narrow and so inadequate, that there could be no prosecutions of either the bribe givers or the bribe takers.

We ask you here, now, laying aside all partisan feeling, laying aside all technical objections, laying aside everything of that kind, to rise to a higher plane, to the plane of honest men, and to fix this statute so that if this practice continues in the South, and people continue to give and receive bribes for dishing out these offices, they can at least be punished in the courts of the United States.

Mr. BONYNGE. I desire to ask the gentleman from Georgia whether he thinks the crime, if it be a crime, that he is attempting to reach by this section, or by the amendment that he has offered, is a greater crime than fraud in the election of Members of Congress?

Mr. HARDWICK. I will have to refer the gentleman from Colorado to other States than mine for an answer to that question. That is not a practical question with us. The other is.

Mr. BONYNGE. I will ask the gentleman another question, then.

Mr. HARDWICK. Yes.

Mr. BONYNGE. Whether he thinks there should be a Federal regulation of the election of Members of Congress, and that crimes committed in the election of Members of Congress should be punished in the Federal courts?

Mr. HARDWICK. The gentleman knows that in five minutes I can not undertake a discussion of this question. I do think so to some extent, and the gentleman knows fully my views on that subject. But how he, or anybody else, can say that the Federal Government ought not to punish attempts to peddle out appointive Federal offices and auction them off on the block is a thing I can not understand.

[Here the hammer fell.]

Mr. GARDNER of Massachusetts. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] has challenged any Member on this side of the House who is honest in his beliefs to oppose this amendment on its merits. I accept the challenge, and I propose to oppose it not only on its merits, but with respect to the wisdom of its consideration at this particular time.

Let me tell the committee about a situation that occurred some time ago in my district. The nomination of a certain Federal officer was sent to the Senate of the United States. His qualifications under the Federal statutes were denied by a man who was a legitimate opponent for appointment to the same position. That contestant employed persons to come to Washington to protest against confirmation. The nominee likewise employed counsel to defend his case. Such a statute as is proposed by the gentleman from Georgia and the gentleman from Mississippi would have made criminals of both of these men and of their supporters.

Then, again, let us suppose, for the sake of argument, that the Commissioner of Labor, Mr. Neill, were to be promoted, as I hope that sometime he will. I do not want to see him leave his present place, because I think he is one of the best men in the Government service; but suppose he were to be promoted, and suppose the labor unions throughout the country found a man that they were satisfied was just the man to succeed him at the head of the Bureau of Labor. Again, suppose, as would be perfectly proper, that they employed men to go through the labor locals of this country with a paper seeking signatures asking the President for this appointment. Men so employed must be paid. Would you make them criminal, Mr. Gentleman from Georgia?

I have another case in mind that was brought to my notice yesterday. A former constituent of mine was removed from one of the Departments for an infraction of discipline. He sought to take a new examination. He was permitted by the Civil Service Commission to do so. Subsequently the Commission refused to mark his papers. Very likely it had a legal right to refuse; but at all events the candidate had also a right to investigate the question. He has hired counsel to present his claim of the right to have his papers marked. Are he and his counsel to be adjudged criminal?

Mr. HARDWICK. Would the gentleman think a man who came to Washington, who agreed to allow his expenses to be paid, has for that reason been bought, and would the thing which this amendment covers relate to a case like that?

Mr. GARDNER of Massachusetts. Absolutely.

Mr. OLMSTED. It certainly would.

Mr. GARDNER of Massachusetts. Mr. Chairman, to go on, I object for two reasons, as I said before, and I confess to the House that I do not even care a bit for the law as it stands now. I am tired of humbug legislation on this kind of question.

We have tied ourselves up and made ourselves criminals if we go before Departments and present a case as counsel for pay, but we appear every day and present the same case in order to get votes to help us hold our $7,500 job. This amendment makes it criminal for our constituents to pay anyone to circulate a petition for appointment; and yet every one of us goes home and engages in holy and unholy deals, which amount to exactly the same thing in the long run. Do you think we can square ourselves with our constituents by humbug legislation of this sort, pretending to unusual virtue which we do not possess, when there is not a man within the sound of my voice who does not know that he can evade either of these statutes if he so chooses?

You may catch an unfortunate Member of the House, or an unfortunate member of the Senate, some time or other who has unintentionally violated this section or has not covered his tracks carefully, while far greater misdemeanors go unwhipped of justice. Why, gentlemen, you can not restore the confidence of the American people in the House of Representatives by humbug legislation, and don't flatter yourselves that you can. What we must do to restore public confidence in ourselves is not to pass measures which everybody knows can be evaded, but rather either to pass legislation that the people demand, or, if we think that the people's demands are wrong, to stand up and give our reasons for our belief.

I shall not move to strike out the whole section, because it is now on the statute book. When we are engaged merely in indexing the public statutes it is absurd to attempt to change the organic law without any hearings before committees, and without any consideration other than such as is possible in the middle of all this noise and confusion. Organic law should be changed only after full hearing, and, therefore, not only because of the want of merit in the gentleman's proposition, but also because of the inadvisability of haphazard changes in Committee of the Whole House, I hope both amendments will be defeated.

Mr. PAYNE and Mr. WILLIAMS rose.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Is the gentleman from New York on that side of the question?

Mr. PAYNE. I am on that side of the question, and we have not taken one-half as much time on this side as the gentleman's side has used, and I propose to speak now if I can get an opportunity.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair had already recognized the gentleman from New York and did not see the gentleman from Mississippi rise.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I suggest to the Chairman that it would be fairer to recognize a Member first on one side and then on the other.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chairman will remind the gentleman from Mississippi that ten minutes was allowed to the gentleman's side of the House in opening the debate, and on this side only five minutes have been consumed at the present time.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, as to the fairness of the recognition, if there were twenty speakers of five minutes each on this side, it would not equalize the time consumed by the other side on this proposition.

Now, I rise to speak in the same line as the first part of the speech of the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. GARDNER]. I approve of the statutes so far as they tie up Members of Congress. I do not believe a Member of Congress ought to practice before a Department or to procure offices. I am willing that they should be punished by severe penalties if they break over the rule; but this proposed section goes a good deal further. If a man was employed by the postmaster, or by a man who desired to be a postmaster, at $2 a day, to circulate a petition appointing him, he would be liable under this amendment to a fine and imprisonment and a forfeiture of his citizenship—all three. I do not think there is a man on this floor who would assert that it was not a proper thing for a man who desired to be postmaster to hire a man to circulate a petition asking that he be appointed to the office. It covers not only every case cited by the gentleman from Massachusetts, but it covers this case.

Let us look at the language. It says:

Whoever shall directly or indirectly give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, from any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for procuring, or aiding to procure, any office or place from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof, for any person whatever, or for giving any such office or place to any person whomsoever; or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such office or place, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than two years, and shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.

This committee is asked to indorse such a section as that to be incorporated into this statute. This illustrates the evil of trying to frame criminal statutes in Committee of the Whole in the House of Representatives. Why, since this proposed amendment was introduced by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK], it has been so amended that its dearest friend would not recognize it. First, he tried to make a law that would prevent any person from practicing before any Department in behalf of any other person in reference to any contract to be entered into between that party and the United States Government. Then it was amended, and we went on with a chapter of discoveries and a chapter of amendments, even the authors of the amendments not standing for the proposition which they had gravely presented to the House. It shows the utter impossibility of framing in this way a criminal statute which seeks to take away a man's liberty and to confine him in prison and to take away his privilege of forever after at any time holding an office of trust or emolument in the United States. It is a monstrous thing to attempt to do this in Committee of the Whole without careful consideration. If there is a growing evil in the South or anywhere else of procurers of office being bribed or exacting bribes, let the proper statute be drawn and sent to the Committee on the Judiciary, which is a hard-working committee and which gets its time before this House for the consideration of its measures——

Mr. HARDWICK. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PAYNE. Not in the midst of a sentence—so that they may weigh the language used. How very important is the language used in the statute!

Mr. HARDWICK. Will the gentleman yield?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman has declined to yield.

Mr. PAYNE. I did decline to yield, Mr. Chairman, in the midst of a sentence. This is the first moment I have taken on this proposition, and I am interrupted constantly in the midst of a sentence. There can be but one purpose.

Mr. HARDWICK. Will the gentleman yield now while he is not in the middle of a sentence?

Mr. PAYNE. The gentleman will not yield and hopes that the gentleman will understand that I do not yield.

Mr. HARDWICK. I do understand at last.

Mr. PAYNE. Why, even the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i" or the putting in of a comma at the wrong place sometimes so utterly changes the effect of a statute that we can not be too careful in enacting new laws of a penal character in having them thoroughly examined by a committee of the House appointed from the lawyers of the House for the purpose of effecting such legislation. If they want this remedy, if they want proper penal laws on the complaints which they have made, let them take that course. But let us go on and put these statutes in proper position with reference to each other, so that they may be published in a volume that every man may see at a glance what are the penal statutes of the United States, and vote down these amendments that are offered, no matter how good the object may be, in order that we may catch some poor insignificant devil in this country, a citizen of the United States entitled to his liberty, who may be accused under an unjust law and made infamous by indictment and prosecution. The danger of legislating in this way in Committee of the Whole must be apparent to every man in this House. [Applause on the Republican side.]

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I had hoped that this amendment would receive a calm, dispassionate, and certainly a nonpartisan consideration from the House. I understand, of course, what it means when the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] springs to his feet to oppose it. That means an attempt at any rate to make a partisan and party opposition to it. I have heard—I don't know whether it be true or not, and I state it with that qualification—that the party whip upon that side of the Chamber has once or twice since this bill has been under consideration sent out notices that Republican Members be here, as if this were a party matter. Mr. Chairman, I do hope that the gentlemen will do themselves the justice to remember that this is an amendment to the laws, dealing with a question of corruption, and certainly a question of corruption can not be a party question upon the floor of the American House of Representatives. I am absolutely astonished at some of the positions that have been taken here this morning—that of the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. GARDNER], for example. Mr. Chairman, there is not one word in this amendment which by the very utmost torturing could lead to the conviction of a man who came on to Washington to help a friend get a confirmation at the hands of the Senate or an appointment at the hands of the President upon the ground that the man did not pay his own expenses in coming. There is nothing struck at in the amendment except where a man receives something as "a consideration" for aiding somebody to get an office or procuring an office, the something received being a thing of value. Then the gentleman went on away out upon another limb, and he wants the House to believe if a man secured an attorney to represent him in connection with a mooted point before the Civil Service Commission or somewhere else, that that would be covered and punished by this amendment. Next the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] tells us that the language is crude and the amendment hastily drawn.

Is the gentleman aware of the fact that this precise language, with the exception of three words—"give, promise, or pay"—is the carefully selected language of the committee itself as applicable under the preceding section to exactly the same offense when it pertains to Members of Congress, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners? In so far as the language is concerned, it is merely adopting and copying that which has been carefully prepared by the committee. The only difference between the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia and the motion I offered is that it inserts the language "or attempts to procure," after the word "procure."

Now, gentlemen, allow me to appeal to you. I am the Democratic leader upon this floor, but I am not talking in that rôle now. I am aiming at a real crime. Once, in my own State, there was a man who was subsequently sent to the penitentiary for a different offense. He was a Republican referee and postmaster at my own town. It was openly bruited that whenever a man wanted a recommendation of that man for an office he had, as a rule, to pay for it. The man in the course of time grew bolder and bolder; having made money out of indorsements for office he finally concluded that he would take something from Uncle Sam's till in the post-office itself. He did it and was sent to the penitentiary for the last offense. But for that last offense he would never have been guilty of a Federal offense and might be, for all I know, a highly honored Republican "referee" yet. If this amendment does not satisfy you, in God's name draw one for yourself. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Are you going to permit eight or ten States of this Union whose Federal offices have been in the past, to a large extent, controlled by the indorsement of referees, to run the risk of just such a system as I have a moment ago given you an illustration of?

Mr. Chairman, can any man who will take the trouble to read this amendment—and I will read it again—for one moment imagine that it hits an attorney representing a claim for a man before a Department? If a man comes to Washington to put in a word for a friend, as any gentleman would do and under the circumstances pays his own way, or if he comes along and the other man pays his way, I see nothing in this statute proclaiming that he can not do that unless it appeared in the evidence before the jury that the office seeker paid his way as a "consideration" for procuring the indorsement, and that he so received it. If that were the case, both ought to be punished.

There may be those who have not heard this amendment read. Let me read this to those Members who have been sent for and brought in here without having heard a word to cast a seeming party vote in connection with this purely legal matter punishing corruption. Two or three times an amendment has been carried—twice, I think I remember, once I know—by those who heard the argument, and then men sent for from committee rooms, when the question of tellers arose, defeated the amendment, carried by those gentlemen who, being in the House, had heard the amendment read and discussed. And, as I said yesterday, I asked gentlemen on the Republican side passing by me after going between the tellers, speaking in a jocular way, "I will give you a nickel if you can tell me the amendment against which you have just voted," and they told me they could not earn the nickel. [Applause on the Democratic side.] This is a serious matter——

Mr. GARDNER of Massachusetts rose.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Mississippi yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. WILLIAMS. I do.

Mr. GARDNER of Massachusetts. Does the gentleman think most of those who voted for these amendments were aware of what they were voting upon?

Mr. WILLIAMS. I think most of them were, as was demonstrated by the fact that those who were in their seats and heard the arguments voted the amendments up, and those who came in and had not heard it voted the amendments down. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Now, Mr. Chairman, here is the amendment, and the language, I repeat, is taken and copied from the language of the committee, except the words "give or promise."

SEC. 114a. [Whoever shall directly or indirectly give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive, from any person, any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for procuring, or aiding to procure, any appointive office, or appointive place from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof, for any person whatever, or for giving any such appointive office, or appointive place to any person whomsoever; or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall give, pay, promise, receive, or agree to receive any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring, or aiding to procure, any such appointive office, or appointive place, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years or both; or shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the Government of the United States.]

And the only difference between this and the amendment to my amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] is that before the word "procure" here he inserts "or attempt to," so that it will read, "procure or attempt to procure." But in both the thing of value must be paid as a "consideration for" the indorsement, and if it be paid as a "consideration for," and that is the reason of the indorsement given and received, nothing can be more corrupt nor corrupting and nothing can more greatly deserve reprobation at the hands of this House and punishment in the courts. [Applause on Democratic side.]

Mr. OLMSTED. Mr. Chairman, we have under the rules of this House two committees to which particular reference may be made. The rules require that all acts relating to the criminal or civil laws of the United States shall be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and that all revision of the laws shall be referred to the Committee on Revision of the Laws.

Mr. HARDWICK. Will the gentleman let me ask him a question?

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED] yield to the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK]?

Mr. OLMSTED. Certainly.

Mr. HARDWICK. Why does not that same objection apply to each one of the twenty-one new sections brought in here by this committee in this bill?

Mr. OLMSTED. I have not seen the twenty-one new sections, and I have not yet stated my objection. Now, my distinguished colleague from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON], chairman of the committee having this revision in charge, has been attacked repeatedly by gentlemen upon the other side for failure to perform his duty in that he has not considered upon their merits all the provisions of the whole penal code and all penal laws of the United States, amended some sections, added new provisions, and repealed old ones. Had he attempted to do the things which it is charged he ought to have done he would have been guilty of exceeding the powers conferred by the rules of the House upon his committee. The gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] said that he ought to have done those things. He took him to task for not rising upon his feet, when his voice was already worn out with explanations, and explaining a provision simply brought forward in this bill, but which has been the law for over a hundred years. He was taken to task for not explaining why that is here now and why it should not be repealed. The gentleman from New York [Mr. COCKRAN] said that even the Scriptures had had to be revised. That is ture, but I never heard that those charged with their revision felt authorized to add to the Ten Commandments or subtract from them.

Mr. COCKRAN. I hope the gentleman will not attribute to me the statement that I thought the Scriptures should be revised. I believe those are unchangeable and infallible—the product of Divine revelation. Neither here nor anywhere could I have stated that the Word of God might be revised by any merely human agency.

Mr. OLMSTED. The RECORD will show that the gentleman did state that even the Scriptures had to be revised and had been revised frequently. As I have said, the revisers were never authorized to take from or add to the Ten Commandments or any principle laid down or to the offenses laid down and described for punishment.

Now, it is very evident, as the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] says, that there is no partisanship entering into the discussion of this bill. That was manifest the other day when the gentleman himself, the Democratic leader, rose in his place and charged us upon this side of the House with endeavoring in some way to coerce labor, because, forsooth, there had been repeated and brought forward in this bill a provision which had been on the statute books for more than half a century, providing that if any man attempted to induce away the artificers and skilled laborers in the arsenals of the United States he should be punished. That was held to be a blow in some way to labor. It was enacted by a Democratic Congress originally and has been upon the statute books for more than half a century. Now, the laborers in the employ of the United States are the best paid in the United States. No laborer ever leaves the service of the United States for bigger pay, because he can not get bigger pay anywhere else, and nobody will offer bigger pay than the Government unless it is offered for some ulterior purpose—for the purpose of weakening the Government defenses by drawing away those employed upon or about its arsenals.

Now, let me read from the statutes of the State of Mississippi, adopted in 1906, a provision found in section 1146 of the code adopted in that year:

If any person shall willfully interfere with, entice away, knowingly employ, or induce a laborer or renter who has contracted with another person for a specified time to leave his employ or the leased premises before the expiration of his contract without the consent of his employer or landlord, he shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100.

[Laughter.]

There are other equally attractive labor features in this Mississippi code and similar provisions in the laws of Louisiana and Kentucky I call to the attention of gentlemen on that side.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Will the gentleman allow me to ask him a question?

Mr. OLMSTED. Certainly.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Do you believe that statute to be correct in principle? [Laughter on the Democratic side.]

Mr. OLMSTED. I am not here to defend the laws of the State of Mississippi; we have no such laws in Pennsylvania, as my colleague knows.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. I am glad of it.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OLMSTED. I would like to have five minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Will the gentleman permit another question?

Mr. OLMSTED. Certainly.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. If it is wrong in Mississippi, how can it be right in a Federal statute? [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. OLMSTED. But that is not in a Federal statute. I would not vote for such a provision in a Federal statute. The act to which reference has been made only applies to persons who work in the arsenals of the United States, preparing our defenses against the enemy. Nobody will entice them away unless he desires to weaken the United States. It does not apply to the laborer, but only applies to the fellow who tries to get him away from the Government service in its arsenals.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. If the gentleman will permit another question?

Mr. OLMSTED. Certainly.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania. Does it not also apply to those who employ the laborer?

Mr. OLMSTED. Only if they knowingly and willfully take him away from the Government arsenal. It does not apply in any place except the arsenal. Nobody would make the effort to take them away from the Government arsenal except for the purpose of weakening the Government, for nobody else could give him as big pay; and the purpose of anybody who induces them to leave the arsenal would be to retard the work of the Government arsenal and impair national defense. In any event the law was enacted by a Democratic Congress and approved by a Democratic President.

My distinguished and genial friend from Kentucky [Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES] was very anxious that there should be a clause inserted in the section to punish corporations for making campaign contributions. The section now provides that any corporation making contributions shall be punished. He held up this side of the House to objurgation and reproach because we would not agree to his amendment, inserting the words "engaged in interstate commerce." That would have lessened and weakened the operation of the present statute, which provides that "any corporation making contributions" shall be punished. It includes national banks and every kind of corporation whatever, whether engaged in interstate commerce or not.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Suppose the corporation had been organized in a State and was a State organization, do you claim that that provision would be effective?

Mr. OLMSTED. Certainly it would, and it has been and is effective. Does the gentleman from Kentucky know of any corporation of any kind that has dared to violate the provisions of this statute since its enactment last year?

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Will you let us examine the Republican campaign books? [Laughter on the Democratic side.]

Mr. OLMSTED. Yes; and the Democratic campaign books, too. [Laughter on the Republican side.] The gentleman from Kentucky said that we were not willing to impose imprisonment on a corporation officer who had violated the law. Why, the act provides that the corporation may be fined $5,000, and as for the officer, he shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both. Now I will read you the law of Kentucky on that subject:

1349. Enticing laborer to abandon contract.—If any person shall willfully entice, persuade, or otherwise influence any person or persons who have contracted to labor for a fixed period of time to abandon such contract before such period of service shall have expired without the consent of the employer he shall be fined not exceeding $50 and be liable to the party injured for such damages as he or they may have sustained.

What I wanted to call to the gentleman's attention, however, was the bribery clause:

Whoever shall bribe another shall, on conviction, be fined from $50 to $100, or imprisoned from ten to ninety days.

[Laughter].

Mr. GARRETT. Getting back to this statute——

Mr. OLMSTED. I will get back to that in a minute.

Mr. MANN. No wonder the gentleman wants to get away from the other.

Mr. OLMSTED. The other gentleman from Tennessee, my very good friend who was afraid corporations were not going to be punished enough, because we fined them $5,000 and fined the officer $1,000 and then sent him to prison, will be interested, I am sure, to have me read what they do to the corporations down in Tennessee.

Any corporation, or agent of a corporation guilty of any offense herein—

And this relates to elections—

guilty of any offense herein made a misdemeanor, shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not exceeding $1,000.

No imprisonment at all, and that is for bribery at elections, while we provide both fine and imprisonment simply for contributing money to be used for what would otherwise be a lawful purpose. Where does the argument of the gentleman land?

Mr. COCKRAN. The gentleman surely does not mean to misstate the facts. He does not mean to say "fine and imprisonment."

Mr. OLMSTED. Fine or imprisonment, or both.

Mr. COCKRAN. And on a motion to amend, you voted against us.

Mr. OLMSTED. The Tennessee statute imposes only a fine, and permits no imprisonment.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from Pennsylvania has expired.

Mr. OLMSTED. I should like to have five minutes more in which to talk about the amendment.

Mr. COCKRAN. I hope the gentleman may have five minutes more.

By unanimous consent the time of Mr. OLMSTED was extended five minutes.

Mr. OLMSTED. Now, coming down to this amendment. As has been frequently said here, new legislation of this character ought to go to a committee where it may be thoroughly discussed. We may then be supplied with the printed copy of the report of the majority of the committee; and if there are different views, then also with the views of the minority, so that we may read the bill and read the views of the committee upon it and the reasons why it should or should not pass.

Mr. GARRETT. You are expressing your individual views.

Mr. OLMSTED. I am trying to.

Mr. GARRETT. Does it take a hearing before a committee and expert testimony to convince the gentleman from Pennsylvania that it is wrong to sell political influence?

Mr. OLMSTED. No, not at all; but it would take considerable hearing to make me believe that we have not already provided for that in this bill. Then it would take more argument to make me believe that this proposed amendment was the best remedy for that evil. And I will show you why. The gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] offered the amendment yesterday. He first read it from his desk. Finally the Clerk reported it. We could hardly hear what it was. Now I find that it was read twice, and it is printed in two ways. He first read it, and then upon the request of somebody it was reported again. In the printed RECORD it does not read the same in the two places. In one place it says "he shall be fined and imprisoned and disqualified from office." In the last reading it says, "or, moreover, disqualified from office." We do not know which is which.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I do not know that the gentleman understands the reason for that diversion. After offering it at first unanimous consent was given to amend it so as to make that change, so that the first form of it was amended by the unanimous consent of the committee.

Mr. OLMSTED. Then, may I ask the gentleman whether, as it now stands, it reads "and disqualified from office" or does it say "or disqualified from office?"

Mr. WILLIAMS. It says "or."

Mr. OLMSTED. Then the effect of that is that the court may fine an offender, may imprison him, or it may leave out both those punishments and simply disqualify him from office. Now, under this amendment as offered by the gentleman from Mississippi, see what the effect would be. A committee of very reputable gentlemen were sent down here a short time ago by a candidate for a post-office to see me, and with me to see the President in his behalf. This candidate paid their expenses. Under this amendment every one of them would be subject to fine, not to exceed $10,000, to imprisonment, and to disqualification from office for life.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Now, Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman from New York will excuse me, does the gentleman from Pennsylvania really think that this statute would cover that case unless this man had received or demanded it as consideration for giving his indorsement? Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania direct his attention to the word "consideration?"

Mr. OLMSTED. It says "any person who shall, directly or indirectly, give, pay, or receive any money or other valuable consideration for procuring or aiding to procure" any office, etc.

Mr. WILLIAMS. "Consideration" for aiding and procuring.

Mr. OLMSTED. These men came here to procure, and I may say that they did procure. They got the money for their expenses. If this proposed amendment were law, they would each one of them be a criminal.

Mr. WILLIAMS. But they did not aid or secure the appointment of the man because he paid it.

Mr. OLMSTED. But your amendment does not say "because."

Mr. WILLIAMS. It says "receive any money or other valuable consideration."

Mr. OLMSTED. Now, along comes the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK], and says that the amendment of the gentleman from Mississippi does not cover the case, does not do the right thing. He offers a substitute which we tried to hear read, but I believe there are not three men in the House who know what there is in it. All this shows the wisdom pursued by the committee and its distinguished chairman in rejecting new enactments of law. They all ought to go before the proper committee and be thoroughly considered, and not considered in Committee of the Whole House, where, after hearing or trying to hear the amendment once read we are called upon to pass upon dangerous provisions making new statutory crimes and misdemeanors—provisions which make innocent men guilty of crime for offenses that are not really offenses and subjecting them to these terrible punishments. [Applause.]

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, with much that the gentleman from Pennsylvania has said I am in hearty sympathy. I desire at this point to congratulate the committee having this measure in charge on the very fair spirit which characterized their management of it in the closing hours of yesterday's session. We began the consideration of this bill under what I considered most favorable conditions. The gentleman from New York, my colleague, the leader of the House, who undertook night before last to charge this side with willful obstruction of this measure, must surely have forgotten that when the rule providing for its consideration was first submitted this side almost unanimously opposed everything like obstructive tactics and manifested every disposition to facilitate its progress in an entirely nonpartisan spirit.

Now, I do not rise to apportion or fix blame for the fact that during the last week we have been dividing upon party lines; I am so thoroughly satisfied with the prospect held out by last night's proceedings that for the future we are likely to consider this measure as Members of Congress, as representatives of the people interested above all in establishing a body of law based on the soundest notions of policy, that I do not care to inquire now who may be responsible for the alignment of this body according to party divisions on so essentially nonpartisan a measure, and which I hope will prove to be a thing of the past.

And, Mr. Chairman, I want to say in all frankness that what the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. GARDNER] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED] have both said on the subject of extending at this time and in this manner the scope of the penal laws has a great deal of weight.

It illustrates most clearly one of the difficulties which confronts this body in the discharge of this most important task. At the same time it serves to make manifest the distinction between the proper field of revision and that of enactment. I undertook to point out day before yesterday—I fear I succeeded but feebly—just what was properly involved in revision; and I think if we bear that definition in mind we will find little difficulty in distinguishing between the proposals which should be relegated to the domain of enactment and those which may fairly be considered as falling within the scope of revision. We all know that in every representative government kindred questions legislated upon at different times, with legislators under the influence of widely different emotions, are apt to result in wholly disproportionate and almost inconsistent enactments.

Especially is this true in the case of penalties intended to discourage the commission of crimes. For this reason every civilized community that existed for any length of time has found itself compelled to deal with these resultant inaccuracies and incongruities, to correct and reconcile them by revision. The function of revision, then, is essentially to eliminate inconsistencies between enactments on kindred subjects when possible, and when that is impracticable to harmonize them. Now, it did seem to me that many times when inconsistencies and incongruities between penalties were pointed out to the committee in charge of this bill, and attempts made to harmonize them, the answer was an invitation to vote, without explanation, or else upon grounds so vague, inconclusive, and often contradictory that it seemed as if attempts to remove inconsistencies were opposed because inconsistencies existed. Sometimes we found a section defended because it was old, and at another time because it was new. The very inconsistencies which it should have been the object of revision to eliminate were sedulously preserved. Mr. Chairman, it may be that this attitude of the committee was caused to some extent by the tone of criticism on the floor. It may have been that the committee resented criticism which I believe was intended to be friendly, but which its members thought was hypercritical. However that may be, the feeling it engendered belongs, I hope, to the past. I am so pleased with the prospect of nonpartisan consideration of this measure hereafter that I do not want to recall the atmosphere of the past, which I think we all deplore. Henceforth I firmly believe suggestions made in good faith to improve the measure will be considered fairly in a spirit of cooperation rather than of distrust or hostility. There is another direction in which revision may properly be applied. And here let me remind the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED] that what I declared yesterday in the remarks to which he referred was not that all laws needed revision, but that with the best intention in the world human enactments can not be framed in language so precisely accurate that interpretation of them will not become subjects of dispute at some time or other.

In other words, it is impossible to eliminate ambiguity wholly from any form of human expression. Sooner or later conditions will arise which must render doubtful the application of any enactment to them. It is, above all, the business of a legislative body to anticipate so far as possible these doubts about construction. It is not given to man to obviate them altogether, but the closer we come to excluding doubt as to the significance of a statute by employing the most precise terms the better we will have discharged our task. When, therefore, a dispute arose here while a section was still before us as to its scope and effect, it seemed to me it was preeminently a case for removing as far as we could all ambiguity by adding a few words to the text. This, too, was within the proper field of revision which should aim not merely at reconciling discrepancies and harmonizing incongruities, but also at removing ambiguities. And, let me add, I did not say that the Holy Scriptures were or could be proper subjects of revision by any merely human agency. I did say the interpretation of Holy Writ had often been subject of dispute. I said that without at all intending to admit that its terms were ever open to dispute, so far as I am concerned, because I belong to a spiritual body which claims the right to interpret the Scripture, a right which all its members gladly acknowledge.

Now, Mr. Chairman, when we come to consider these specific amendments which are under consideration, I concede that we have approached the domain of enactment.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. COCKRAN. I ask unanimous consent to proceed for five minutes more.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

Mr. COCKRAN. We are now considering a new subject, and a vast one. The enactments that have been passed on this particular branch are numerous, though recent. Many of them have been hastily devised to meet conditions but recently exposed. It is very difficult to deal effectively with all the complex branches of this great subject during a revision of existing laws. On the other hand, we can not afford, because of this difficulty, to turn our backs altogether upon a task so pressing. If there be no other opportunity of dealing with it we must deal with it now. If, then, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED], representing the Committee on the Judiciary, will assure this House that the body of which he is a distinguished member will take up this entire subject, this whole question of campaign contributions, of attempts to debauch the franchise, attempts to corrupt the official life of the United States, the proper adjustment of penalties to each offense, whether fine or imprisonment, should be denounced against some offenses, fine and imprisonment against others, disqualifications from office to punish the most heinous, I am sure every Member on this side will be entirely satisfied to relegate the entire subject to that committee for action. If, however, we are left no alternative but to deal with the matter now, or else dismiss it altogether, I must insist that the duty of this body is to deal with it at once. I submit, therefore, as a basis of general agreement, a suggestion that the Judiciary Committee agree to take this question up, give full hearings upon it, and report a comprehensive measure to the House. If this be accepted, I am sure the spirit of nonpartisanship we all desire will animate this entire body, and disposal of the remainder of this measure will be greatly facilitated. [Applause on Democratic side.]

Mr. HALL. Mr. Chairman, I understand that the purpose of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] in proposing this amendment was to reach what we all commonly term bribery, and which involves the idea of moral turpitude; and that that was the sole purpose of his proposed amendment; that in so far as the proposed amendment of any measure would reach that purpose, and that purpose only, I am sure it might receive and probably would receive the support of a majority of the Members of this House. But I think that this amendment, proposed as it has been here for consideration of a Committee of the Whole, illustrates the inadvisability of proposing original legislation in this manner without having had the opportunity of consideration in committee to see what the full effect of the proposed measure might be. It is true that to a great extent the amendment contains the language proposed by the committee when applied to Members of Congress, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners, but by striking out those qualifications and substituting in lieu thereof the word "whoever" it seems to me that while it might reach those who have been guilty of moral turpitude in the acceptance of bribes, by its language it also includes acts which are entirely innocent in their nature, and it seems that a statute of this character ought to be so carefully framed that it does not punish the innocent with the guilty, because we all know that it is better that a hundred guilty men should escape punishment than that one innocent man should suffer.

Now, Mr. Chairman—and I will ask the gentleman from Mississippi if it is not the case—is it not a fact that there are schools, preparatory schools, designed to enable young men to secure appointments at Annapolis and West Point, and are not the instructors of these schools penalized under the broad, sweeping, and comprehensive language of this statute for aiding and assisting these young gentlemen in securing such appointments to Government places?

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman seriously asks me that question?

Mr. HALL. I do.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Well, I seriously answer, then, that it will take the very utmost stretch of imagination to conceive that they could be affected by this language.

Mr. HALL. If the gentleman will read the language of the amendment, he will see that it will not require a stretch of this language, and it will be included in the very letter of this proposed amendment.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Well, I have answered it. There is nothing, in other words, in this proposed amendment that does not punish the man simply for this—for giving influence or inducement to procure or attempt to procure an office in consideration of the receipt of something of value.

Mr. HALL. Yes, sir. And these preparatory schools charge a consideration for that very purpose. [Applause on the Republican side.]

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman might just as well say that the man who taught me political economy years ago out of a certain book was responsible for the fact of my being a Democrat to-day.

Mr. HALL. Well, he would have a good deal to be responsible for. [Laughter.] Mr. Chairman, I reiterate the statement I made a few days ago upon this floor. It seems to me that the idea is fraught with great danger if we undertake in this manner, hastily, upon the spur of the moment, without an opportunity of considering the possible results that may flow from this hastily enacted legislation, to go further in this proposition than a mere codification and revision of existing law, and that when new and untried measures of this character are being brought before this body for consideration, we ought at least to have the assurance of the proper committee that the measure has been canvassed and examined before it is brought before this House, to see that it meets the exact requirements for which it is designed, and that it shall not be so broad, sweeping, and comprehensive in its terms that it shall penalize persons who are guilty of no moral wrong or turpitude whatever. [Applause on the Republican side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I would not now take up the time of the committee but for the fact that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED] has alluded to the State of Tennessee and has unwittingly failed to state the law covering corporations contributing funds in elections. The portion of the law that the gentleman read refers to individual acts, acts of persons corrupting the suffrage, as I hurriedly read the statute he read, in part. The question that we have had up for several days covers "corporations" furnishing boodle to corrupt the suffrage of the country. Mr. Chairman, the Tennessee law touching upon contributions made by "corporations" in elections the gentleman overlooked. It reads thus:

SECTION 1. Unlawful use of corporate funds in elections. It shall be unlawful for the executive officers or other representatives of any corporation doing business within this State to use any of the funds, moneys, or credits of the corporation for the purpose of aiding either in the election or defeat of any candidate for office, national, State, county, or municipal, or for the purpose of aiding in the success or defeat of any proposition submitted to a vote of the people, or in any way contributing to the campaign fund of any political body, for any purpose whatever.

SEC. 2. Violation is a misdemeanor; fine and imprisonment. Every executive officer, agent, or other representative of any corporation—

Now, we have been talking about "corporations," talking about national banks, and trying to strengthen the law of the land covering them, since so much rottenness has occurred, and so recently, in New York City.

SEC. 2. Every executive officer, agent, or other representative of any corporation doing business within this State who shall knowingly consent to, approve, or aid in the use of the funds of a corporation for any of the purposes mentioned in section 1 of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction be fined not less than $500 nor more than $2,000 and shall be imprisoned in the county jail or workhouse not less than two nor more than six months.

Both "fine and imprisonment," Mr. Chairman, is provided for in this law, as to corporations of any kind contributing funds to elections. Not only that, Mr. Chairman, but section 3 provides:

SEC. 3. The grand juries of this State are given inquisitorial powers over all violations of this act, and the circuit and criminal court judges of this State are required to give this matter specially in charge to the grand jury at each term of their said courts.

So the Tennessee law as to corporations imposes fine and imprisonment, Mr. Chairman. Not fine only, or imprisonment only, but both, and criminal judges and circuit judges in the State are required to see the law faithfully executed.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the people of this country are not complaining about the national banks of Tennessee corrupting the suffrage. The law of that State is sufficient, and was brought about because railroads undertook to corrupt the suffrage in 1896, and coerce voters to vote against Mr. Bryan for President and Mr. GAINES for Congress, and other Democratic candidates in the State of Tennessee.

Mr. Chairman, the law in Tennessee is sufficient and the corporations obey it, so far as I know, but the law in New York State is insufficient. That is shown, Mr. Chairman, by the passage of the Federal act of 1907, and since then the pregnant fact remains that many of them not only corrupt the public suffrage, but are themselves corruptionists and men who have reached their long, hungry hands into the banks and robbed them, and in robbing them closed up the innocent and unoffending banks throughout this great Republic, and punished and outraged a defenseless people who were depositors in those innocent banks. [Applause on Democratic side.]

Mr. HARDY. Mr. Chairman, I wish to say that what I shall offer is offered certainly in no partisan spirit whatever, and I listened to the criticism of the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. GARDNER] and also the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED], which is the only criticism against the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK]. That criticism was to the effect that as the law would read under that amendment an attorney legitimately employed to represent the interests or claims of an applicant for office might be found guilty of a violation of that law, or a friend who came to Washington, if he accepted the payment of his actual expenses, might also be found guilty. Now, the objection is so far persuasive with me that my purpose is to offer an amendment to the amendment; that is, a proviso which will take away all uncertainty and knock out the last prop of objection to this amendment. This proposition of the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] has come before the House at a time when the mind of the House is upon the question involved, when the identical question of stopping the sale of public offices or of procuring public offices by payment of a fee to a referee is in the mind of every Member of this House, and there never will come a time when the membership of this House will understand that subject any better than it does this morning. Now, with this proviso added to that language I submit that there should be no question. I believe the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] is right, perhaps, that the section as it is offered would not apply to an attorney or to one paying the expenses of another, but to prevent any possible misapprehension, and so that there can apparently to me be no reason for objecting to the amendment, I offer this proviso.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. HARDY] offers an amendment, which the Clerk will report.

I will ask the gentleman from Texas if this is an amendment to the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK].

Mr. HARDY. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment to the substitute.

The Clerk read as follows:

Provided, That this section shall not apply to the employment of legal counsel to present legitimate claims to Departments or to defend applicants against adverse charges when such employment is by contract in writing on file with the Department before which the application is pending, or by payment to an applicant of legitimate expenses incurred by anyone in legally aiding in securing any office, provided that an itemized account of such expenses shall be filed with the Department before which the application is pending.

Mr. HARDY. Now, I want to state to any Member on this side or the other who may feel inclined to oppose this amendment because it might involve in the meshes of crime any innocent person, that the proviso offered by myself will render it absolutely impossible for any legitimate expenditure to be subject to a prosecution. At the same time, the history of this country has reached the point when it is necessary for us to be more than particular in order to guard the purity of our official life. In the days of the simple Roman Republic no such measures were ever necessary, but in the later days of the Empire, when official life degenerated, the public revenues were farmed out. We have to-day that situation existing, which is not denied, that the public offices of the United States are farmed out and put into the hands of corrupt bargainers to distribute them for so much per office, and it is this situation the amendment of the gentleman from Georgia, as amended by myself, is intended to cure.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED], in a speech made here just a few minutes ago, undertook to quote the law in Kentucky relative to bribery.

Ordinarily the gentleman from Pennsylvania is very accurate, but not so in this instance. In undertaking to create some merriment upon the floor he undertook to tell the House of the provisions of the Kentucky statutes relative to bribery. He, through an oversight, no doubt, or by reason of the fact that he did not have the law in front of him, neglected to inform the House of the most material part of the statute, namely, the disfranchisement from right to hold office or thereafter to exercise the right of franchise.

The gentleman on yesterday argued from his place upon this floor in opposition to an amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS] that disqualification from holding office and the denial of the right to vote was such an unusual and extraordinary penalty, so oppressive in its nature, that it ought not to be invoked against the offender who had sold his influence, in securing appointments to office, for money; that it was only in the most malignant cases should this disqualification follow conviction. In his reference to the Kentucky law against bribery he read as follows:

Whoever shall bribe another shall, on conviction, be fined from $50 to $100 or imprisonment from ten to ninety days, or both, or fine and imprisonment.

That was as far as my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. OLMSTED], went. He neglected to read the further provision of that section, which provides as follows:

and be excluded from office and suffrage.

The Kentucky law does not give to the court nor to the jury any discretion in this matter, but places upon any man who is a bribe taker or a bribe giver absolute exclusion—from the right of suffrage or the right thereafter to hold office.

Now, if the penalty of denying the right of suffrage and the right to hold office to offenders was such an unusual and extraordinary punishment that the gentleman wanted to strike it out of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS], certainly it was worthy of mention as a part of the Kentucky statutes when the gentleman was undertaking to create laughter at the smallness of the Kentucky penalty.

The penalty in Kentucky is not as much as I would have it. It may have been enacted by the Republican legislature, yet I know the Democrats had something to do with it, because they put in the connective conjunction "and" providing absolute disqualification from suffrage and the right to hold office. [Laughter.] This provision makes every offender a marked man and denies to him, after conviction of bribery, the great privilege that Kentuckians, in common with other Americans, so much cherish—the right to vote and hold office.

I merely make this correction, Mr. Chairman, in order that my State may be set right before the Members of this House. [Applause.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. NORRIS] to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS].

Mr. WILLIAMS. I ask that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Nebraska may be reported.

The amendment of Mr. NORRIS to the amendment of Mr. WILLIAMS was again reported.

The question was taken, and the amendment to the amendment was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas to the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. WILLIAMS. A parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Was the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas offered as an amendment to the substitute of the gentleman from Georgia?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Georgia offered a substitute for the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi, as the Chair understands it, as a new section, to be known as section 114a.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman from Georgia offered a resolution as a new section 114a.

Mr. HARDWICK. I withdrew that motion without objection.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, I am informed by the gentleman from Georgia that his resolution was withdrawn by unanimous consent. That changes the status.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas to the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. COCKRAN. Can we have both reported?

The CHAIRMAN. If there be no objection, the substitute and amendment to it will be reported.

The substitute and amendment were again reported.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is upon the proviso offered by the gentleman from Texas.

The question was taken, and the proviso was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now before the committee is on the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr WILLIAMS].

The question being taken, on a division (demanded by Mr. HARDWICK) there were—ayes 45, noes 61.

Mr. HARDWICK. Tellers!

Tellers were ordered, and the Chairman appointed Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania and Mr. HARDWICK.

The committee again divided and the tellers reported—ayes 61, noes 92.

Accordingly the substitute was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi, to insert a new section, to be known as section 114a.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. This vote is now on the main question.

The CHAIRMAN. On the separate section offered by the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Is it a new section?

The CHAIRMAN. It is.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. WILLIAMS) there were—ayes 50, noes 77.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Tellers!

Tellers were ordered, and the Chairman appointed Mr. WILLIAMS and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I ask that the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. ANSBERRY] may act in my place.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. ANSBERRY] will act in the place of the gentleman from Mississippi.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported—ayes 62, noes 87.

Accordingly the amendment was rejected.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to section 114.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 57, line 4, after the word "whatever," insert the words "To any Member or Delegate in Congress or Resident Commissioner, or to any officer or agent of the United States."

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. I think it will appear at once to the members of the committee that that amendment makes clearer the application of the law. As it now reads it says:

Whoever directly or indirectly shall offer or agree to give, or shall give or bestow any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring or aiding to procure any such contract, office, or place,

And so forth. The word "contract" in there, as limited by the word "whoever," it seems to me would make it unlawful for any person interested in a contract with the Government of the United States to employ a lawyer. It seems to me it is proper and necessary, in order to preserve the uniformity of the section, to put in words of limitation, showing that the last clause of the section as well as the first is intended to be limited to Members of Congress, Delegates and Resident Commissioners.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from West Virginia.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. GAINES of West Virginia) there were—ayes 15, noes 33.

Accordingly the amendment was rejected.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment:

The Clerk read as follows:

Insert the word "appointive" before the word "office," in line 24, and before the word "office" wherever it occurs thereafter in section 114.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the provision as reported by the committee would positively preclude not only every Member of this House, but every citizen of the United States from contributing his time or spending sufficient money to buy even a postage stamp to assist in any manner in the legitimate selection of any man to any office under the United States Government. If that be true, it certainly would be absurd for the House of Representatives to pass any such legislation, and thus debar the American people of a right which should never be denied them.

The section as it now stands provides that "whoever directly or indirectly"—and this includes not only Members of Congress, but all the people of the United States—

Whoever, directly or indirectly, shall offer or agree to give or bestow any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever for the aiding to procure any office from the United States or from any officer or department thereof—is liable to the fine and imprisonment provided at the conclusion of the section.

Now, let us assume that I, Mr. Chairman, as a friend of yours, in your Congressional district, legitimately interested in your welfare, proceed to hire a clerk for the purpose of writing letters and disseminating legitimate information with reference to your official services as a Member of this House, and pay the clerk for that service just what his labor would entitle him to. The specific purpose and the legitimate purpose of his labor is to aid the proper man to receive an office or place from the United States.

The same rule would apply as to all other offices of the Government of the United States, even the Presidency of the United States itself, and every American editor of every American daily who contributed an editorial, and every citizen who purchased and distributed newspapers containing facts relating to the careers of candidates would be subject to fine and imprisonment under this law. It may be suggested that this does not refer, for instance, to any other than appointive officers. If it refers only to appointive officers then there can not be the slightest objection to inserting the word "appointive" before the word "offices" where it occurs in the section. If it refers to other officers it deprives every citizen of the United States from exercising a legitimate influence for the purpose of bringing about an election of fit men to public office.

It may be argued that this refers only to officers receiving their appointment from heads of Departments, but in lines 24 and 25 is this language—"any office or any place from the United States or from any officer of a Department thereof."

Now, Mr. Chairman, it could not be more inclusive, it could not be more comprehensive; it refers to and includes both classes of offices and officers. It refers to the man who receives his office from the Department of the United States; it refers to the man who receives his appointment from an officer of the United States Government, and it refers to the man who receives his office or place from the United States direct, which means the people at large, who constitute the Government.

Now, what are the United States? If it be said in the case of the President of the United States that he does not receive his office from the Government—that the President of the United States receives his office from the people—where does he get his power and his official character? Can you distinguish between the people of the United States and the Government of the United States? Can the President be said to be an officer of the people and not of the Government? The people of the United States have no authority to confer upon the Chief Executive of this nation any right to do anything unless they confer that authority or direct that duty through the medium of the Government which they have created for that very purpose. He receives his office through the instrumentalities provided in the Constitution and laws of the United States Government and as such, he becomes an officer of the United States, constituted as Lincoln said "Of the people and by the people," and being an officer of the United States, he would be included in this section in which everyone, private citizen and public official alike, is made guilty of a crime if he even contributes his time to aiding in the selection of fit men to public office.

I say again, Mr. Chairman, without taking further time of this committee, that this legislation unless amended gives every demagogue in the United States an opportunity to proceed to make an information against every other citizen who attempts in a legitimate and proper manner to advance the interests of any candidate for public office. I hope therefore that my amendment will prevail.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, the amendment proposed is clearly within the scope that the committee has set down as one that ought to be acted upon by this body. It is purely in the line of making clearer what may be an obscurity of the present law. Therefore the committee takes no position in regard to it.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. MACON) there were—ayes 63, noes 5.

So the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by inserting on page 57 in line 6, after the word "place," a semicolon followed by these words, "or whoever being a member of, or assuming to act as a member of, any county, district, State, or national committee or referee of any political party, shall directly or indirectly receive or agree to receive any money, property, or any other thing of value for procuring or aiding to procure for any person, in consideration of his indorsement therefor, any appointive office, place, or position from the United States or from any officer or Department thereof."

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, would it be in order to ask to have the whole section read as it would read with this amendment incorporated?

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. OLMSTED). Without objection, the Clerk can report the amendment.

Mr. COCKRAN. It is difficult to understand it without having it incorporated into the section.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I make the point of order on the amendment that it embodies exactly the provision voted on by the House a few minutes ago in the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. FLOYD. I desire to be heard upon the point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania claim that the amendment now offered by the gentleman from Arkansas is in the same language as the amendment already voted upon?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. The Chair will understand that I can not follow the language. I have raised that question in order that that might be determined. To my ear as it was read it embodied exactly the same provision, but I may be mistaken.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair can not attempt to go into the consistency or inconsistencies of amendments, or the substance of them, or attempt to define them, but finding that the language of this amendment is quite different from any that has heretofore been voted upon, the Chair overrules the point of order.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this amendment is to meet an evil suggested by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK]. I desire to explain the amendment. It simply provides that any person, being a member of any county, district, State, or national committee, or referee of any political party, or assuming to act as such, who shall sell his indorsement to any person for appointment to any office of the United States, shall be guilty under this act, following the language of the statute as it now exists, except my amendment provides that whoever shall receive or agree to receive money or other thing of value for that purpose shall be guilty. Now, it seems to me, in view of what has already been said upon the subject, that this committee ought to adopt some legislation of this character, and that the amendment I offer is entirely free from all of the objections urged by gentlemen in this House to amendments heretofore offered. It is restricted to those who have or claim to have political influence by reason of being committeemen, and makes it a violation of law if in consideration of money or other thing of value they give their indorsement to anyone who is applying for any appointive office of the United States, and provides that they shall be punished as in this section provided. I desire to make no further explanation.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. FLOYD. Yes.

Mr. MANN. Of course the gentleman understands that that is a very important proposition?

Mr. FLOYD. I think so.

Mr. MANN. Does the gentleman think that the House ought to put in a penal provision upon the suggestion of any one or two Members of the House without a chance to fairly give it consideration? Will not the gentleman, if his amendment be not agreed to, present it in the form of a bill and go before the Committee on the Judiciary and see if he can not get that reported to the House? I will say to the gentleman that I think he would not have any difficulty about that at all.

Mr. FLOYD. In response to the statement made by the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN], I will say that legislation is always a serious question, but some propositions are so simple that it seems to me the Committee of the Whole House is competent to act upon them upon the moment, and it seems to me that this is one of them. I think that every Member of this Congress may be affected by that kind of influence indirectly, without his knowing it. I think that without their knowledge the heads of the Departments may be subjected to criticism by the conduct of persons who claim to have political influence. I think that the President of the United States might be adversely affected in that same way and the heads of administration Departments and Congressmen be brought into disrepute, without fault on their part, by persons who claim to have influence with that Congressman or this Congressman, or with this Department or that Department, or with the President of the United States, who, in consideration of money would sell that political influence to any man, and I have restricted my amendment to that one provision, that whoever, being a member of any political committee, either county, district, State, or national, or referee, or assuming to act as such, in consideration of money or the consideration of property or anything of value should give his indorsement to anyone for an appointive office of the United States, shall come within the purview of this statute. That is all there is to it, and it does not seem to me that it would be necessary for that to go to the Judiciary Committee or any other committee of the House in order that we might act upon it intelligently. I want to say in further explanation that the latter part of this section 114 reads as follows:

Or whoever, directly or indirectly, shall offer, or agree to give, or shall give, or bestow any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, for the procuring or aiding to procure, any such contract, office, or place—

Shall suffer the penalty prescribed in the section.

That is all in existing law. My amendment proposes to insert a semicolon after the word place, and then provides that whoever, being a member of any political committee, county, State, district, or national, or referee of any political party, or assuming to be such, who shall in consideration of his indorsement receive or agree to receive money for his influence shall be brought within the meaning of this section of law and suffer the punishment herein prescribed.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Chairman, I never yet have heard read a half dozen lines which would create a penal offense, especially if it involved the location of a semicolon, for which I would be willing to vote without a chance to read it. I think that a legislative body that upon the mere reading of any proposition would create an offense which might deprive a man of his liberty, without a chance to see the language in cold type, will have lost the proper sense of dignified legislation.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, the language that is found in the amendment is very simple and very short and is well founded, it seems to me. Contracts of that kind can not be enforced and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] I know will agree to that. They are highly immoral and contrary to public policy.

Mr. MANN. I think that a man who enters into that contract on either side ought to be sent to the penitentiary.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Exactly. The gentleman does not deny now that such contracts are being entered into?

Mr. MANN. I will say this to the gentleman from Tennessee, that if such contracts are being entered into and within the knowledge of so many Members as have expressed that opinion here this morning, and the matter has not before been called to the attention of Congress, then I think the gentlemen themselves have been derelict in the duty that they owe to the country and to the House.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Well, I will say in reply to that, if I myself knew of such a practice I think the gentleman well knows that I would have introduced a bill here and sent it in to the graveyard very quickly, because he well knows——

Mr. MANN. It is very well to say that the bill would go to the graveyard when the gentleman has not introduced the bill; but if the gentleman will introduce a bill of that kind, I think we can soon——

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Will the gentleman guarantee that the bill will come out of the Committee on the Judiciary?

Mr. MANN. I will guarantee nothing; but I will guarantee to go with the gentleman before the Committee on the Judiciary and present the case, and I have faith, if the case is presented and considered, it will be reported upon properly.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Well, Mr. Chairman, I have not the slightest doubt but what the gentleman would do what he says he would do, and I have not the slightest doubt, Mr. Chairman, that both of us would fail.

Now, I have been here for eleven years in Congress, and so has the gentleman from Illinois. The Republicans during that time have controlled the House. I have worked in this House for eleven years with a Republican President, Senate, and House, and no committee has ever reported such a bill. Now, why have you not done so? We have had Republican Members from the South—Republican Members from North Carolina, Texas, and Tennessee—during the past eleven years. We have now the Hon. WALTER P. BROWNLOW, and the Hon. NATHAN W. HALE, who succeeded Ex-Chancellor Henry R. Gibson, one of the best chancellors Tennessee ever had, who wrote one of the best books on chancellory practice ever written. None of these Republicans have stood for such a bill to my knowledge; and here are the gentlemen from Arkansas and Georgia and other States who state this corrupt practice exists. Now, no one will for a moment agree that such contracts can be recovered on in any court, either of law or equity; and on that point, if the committee will indulge me, I will read from the Supreme Court of the United States, to which I referred on January 13, where I cited the language of the Supreme Court in the Tristchilds case. I hope the committee will carefully listen. Here are contracts that are condemned by law, as stated in an opinion by Mr. Justice Swayne:

An agreement to pay for supporting for election a candidate for sheriff—

Now that is almost identical in point—

To pay for resigning a public position to make room for another.

That is a kindred proposition—

To pay for not bidding at a sheriff's sale of real property—

Which is not unusual—

To pay for not bidding for articles to be sold by the Government at auction—

We hear of those—

To pay for not bidding to carry the mail on a specified route—

Which is not an uncommon thing—

To pay a person for his aid and influence in procuring an office, and for not being a candidate himself.

The court cites a number of contracts that are void because against good morals and public policy.

There are a lot of other contracts that are condemned, and you can not recover on them.

Now, Mr. Chairman, all the gentleman from Arkansas asks is that this kind of transaction be made criminal. That is the purpose of the gentleman's amendment, as I understand it. Now, if the gentleman from Illinois wants to make it criminal, here are a dozen words which the gentleman offers; here are a hundred members of this Committee of the Whole; here are a majority of the committee that have reported this bill; here is the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]; here is my colleague from Tennessee [Mr. HOUSTON]; and here are the other members of that committee. Now, we know this is a current practice, and we can now stop this evil or try, at least. I want to tell you, Mr. Chairman, why it is this practice exists. There are what are called referees in the Republican districts down South, and, I think, throughout the country. The Department here will select A, B, and C, three men, say, in my district, the Nashville district, and they have control of the patronage. You have got to get their recommendation before a candidate stands any chance, or much chance, to succeed. Now, they pick out a man for an office, a little post-office, and the little chips and whetstones that fall from Uncle Sam's Republican table, and send the name to the Department, and, as a rule, the Department approves the recommendation. If this evil practice obtains in my district I have never heard of it, not a word. If I had heard of it, Mr. Chairman, I would have done exactly as the gentleman from Arkansas has done. Mr. Chairman, we have the facts, the practice is carried on in other States or districts.

Now, gentlemen, it seems to me that a hundred Members have just as much sense on this very short amendment as the Judiciary Committee can ever have, and we should right now make it criminal to carry on this practice, and that is why I am going to vote for the amendment.

Mr. DRISCOLL. Mr. Chairman, when this proposed amendment was read it sounded to me in substance very much like the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. HARDWICK] and improved by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WILLIAMS], and voted down; but on account of the ruling of the Chairman overruling the point of order, I think it ought to be reported again in order that we may see if it differs in substance from the amendment that was voted down.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment will be again reported.

The amendment was again read.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. FLOYD].

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee and Mr. FLOYD demanded tellers.

The committee divided, and there were—ayes 40, noes 48.

Mr. FLOYD. Mr. Chairman, I call for tellers.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chair appointed Mr. FLOYD and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania to act as tellers.

The committee again divided, and the tellers reported—ayes 49, noes 76.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to section 115.

The CHAIRMAN. That paragraph has not yet been read.

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. The Clerk started to read that section before the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. FLOYD] offered his amendment. I ask that it be held by the Clerk until he starts to read the section.

Mr. BURKE. If the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HUGHES] will yield to me just a moment, I would like to ask unanimous consent to correct a clerical error in reference to the amendment just adopted, and ask that the words "except in line 8, page 57," be added to the amendment. As it stands now, the word "appointive" appears before the word "office" in the qualifying clause.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BURKE] asks unanimous consent that the amendment which he offered a short time ago, and which was agreed to by the committee inserting the word "appointive" may be so amended as to accept this insertion before the word "office" in line 8, page 57, so as to read, "be disqualified from holding any office of honor," whereas it now reads, "any appointive office of honor." Is there objection?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. I desire to offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment can not be reported until the paragraph is read.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to section 114. I have been waiting for some time to do so.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HUGHES] will be recognized when paragraph 115 has been read. The gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. GAINES] is now recognized, and offers an amendment which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person not a Member, Delegate, or Commissioner of the Congress, for and in consideration of any fee or reward, or the hope or a promise thereof, to address to the Congress, or any committee thereof, or to any Member, Delegate, or Commissioner thereof, any word, speech, letter, or other communication, oral, written, or printed, in opposition to or in favor of any bill, resolution, proposition, or policy pending before the Congress or any of its committees.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That any person guilty of any of the acts mentioned in section 1 shall be held guilty of an attempt to unduly influence the Congress in the enactment of laws, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $100 and not more than $10,000 and imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year or more than ten years, in the discretion of the court, and shall be disfranchised and not admitted to testify before any Federal court or Department of the United States.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That the purpose of this act is to prohibit all persons from all attempts to lobby or unduly influence the judgment and action of the Congress in matters concerning the general welfare, proposed measures, and those pending before the Congress or any of its committees by parties acting for pay, or the hope or promise thereof, and not from patriotism; and this law shall be construed as remedial, so as to suppress the mischief and protect the public morals; but shall not be construed to conflict with but to better preserve and protect the right of petition, or include any word, printing, or written address by a person who acts without fee or reward, or the promise or hope thereof, unless such person is in the employment and pay of the person or corporation in whose interest such word, address, printing, or writing is uttered or published; but this law shall not then apply if before his services begin with the person elected to Congress he shall file with each of such persons a written or printed statement, verified by affidavit, stating his name, address, and regular business or businesses, the name of his client or claimant or employer, and his or their address and business or businesses, the amount of his compensation paid and to be paid, with a copy of the contract or contracts under which his or their entire services are to be rendered, and particularly whether his or their services are to be compensated for upon a fixed or contingent compensation, with the name and address of the person or persons, corporation or corporations, who have paid or agreed to pay such compensation; and

SEC. 4. Provided further, That the said person, client, claimant, or employer, or his attorney or agent, shall send to each chairman of the respective committees of Congress a duplicate copy of such affidavit.

SEC. 5. Be it further enacted, That the chairman of each committee of Congress shall, at all reasonable hours, keep open, in his committee room, for inspection of the public, a copy of such affidavit or affidavits.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman—wait a minute, now, gentlemen. Hold on. This is not a matter to be treated facetiously, by a long shot.

Mr. DALZELL. The gentleman is not in earnest, is he?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I always am in earnest when I attack the ramparts of the Republican party. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Mr. Chairman, this amendment is intended to squarely hit corrupt lobbying, so to speak, or, in other words, "lobbying."

It preserves, Mr. Chairman, the sacred right of petition, which right does not and never did include the right, so called, to "lobby," which business or practice every English and American court have denounced when called on to enforce contracts wherein the lobbyist sought to collect their compensation for lobbying. The business of lobbying is contrary to public policy, and defies and degrades public and private morals, jeopardizes the public service, and should not be allowed.

Bouvier defines the word "lobbyist" in these words:

Lobbyist.—One who makes it a business to procure the passage of bills pending before a legislative body.

One "who makes it a business to 'see' members and procure by persuasion, importunity, or the use of inducements the passing of bills, public as well as private, which involve gain to the promoters." 1 Bryce, Am. Com., 156.

Bear in mind, now, that the courts denounce the contracts of "lobbyist," yet Congress permits the "lobbyist" to continue his business in Washington.

The supreme court of Wisconsin, in a recent case, says:

A person who frequents the lobby of a house of legislation, for the purpose of influencing measures therein pending, is a lobby member. (75 Wis., 250; the Chippeway case.)

To lobby—

says this court—

is for a person not belonging to the legislature to address or solicit members of a legislative body in the lobby, or elsewhere, away from the house, with the view to influence their vote.

The supreme court of California, in denouncing a "lobby" contract, said:

The term "lobbying" has a well-defined meaning in this country, and signifies to address or solicit members of a legislative body in the lobby or elsewhere with the purpose of influencing their vote. (122 California, 431. Citing Webster's Dictionary and Black's Law Dictionary.)

Thus we clearly see that the lobbyist whom I am striking at is the person whose "business" it is to "see" Members and, by "persuasion," "importunity," or the use of "inducements," procures legislation, and the chamber where he legislates is commonly known as the "Third House of Congress."

Some one employs him, of course. His fee is fixed or depends on success. The contingent fee is, as a rule, more dangerous and more condemned by the courts, which have passed on the fixed and unfixed fee and condemned each, because lobbying and lobby contracts are immoral and fatal to a healthy public policy. The State and Federal courts have held, with singular unanimity, that—

A contract for the employment of personal influence or solicitation to procure the passage of a public or private law is void (21 Barb., 361; 16 How., 314; 34 Vt., 274; 15 Oreg., 330); as contrary to sound morals and tending to inefficiency in the public service (93 Wis., 393); if by its terms or by necessary implication it stipulates for or tends to corrupt action or personal solicitations; (69 U. S., 45; 98 Ind., 238; 36 N. Y., 235; 40 id., 543; 127 id., 370; 18 Ohio St., 469; 149 Pa., 375). And if the contract is broad enough to cover services of any kind, either secret or open, honest or dishonest, the law pronounces a ban upon the contract itself (2 McArth., 268).

It is not required that it tends to corruption. If its effect is to mislead, it is decisive against the claimant. It may not corrupt all, but if it corrupt or tend to corrupt some, or if it deceive or tend to deceive some, that is sufficient to stamp its character with the seal of reprobation before a judicial tribunal (5 W. & S., 315; 7 id., 152; 59 Pa., 19; 100 id., 561). Where the agreement is for compensation contingent upon success, it suggests the use of sinister and corrupt means for the accomplishment of the desired end. The law meets the suggestion of evil and strikes down the contract from its inception (69 U. S., 45; 98 Ind., 238; and see 60 Minn., 26).

If the contracts of the lobbyists are contrary to public policy, why does not Congress prohibit the "business" of making them, which could be done by prohibiting the business of the "lobbyist?" The lobbyist "sees" Members, and moves in a mysterious way—part of his time. He may file a petition before Congress, but he is also otherwise and elsewhere in the business of "seeing" Members to "influence" them, and hence his adversaries can not reply to his arguments or the public meet or counteract his influence.

A petition, in brief, is a written instrument signed by the petitioner, or his counsel, or agent, and filed before some officer and by him marked "filed," which is always, in reasonable hours, open for public inspection. When this is done, individuals and the people are given a chance to meet friend or foe in clean-cut effort in presenting their side of the issue, and the committee hears both sides in the open.

Bouvier, citing the Supreme Court of the United States, 21 Wallace, 441, draws a distinction between lobby and legal services, lobby and legal contracts, in the following languauge:

Services which are intended to reach only the reason of those sought to be influenced rest on the same principles of ethics as professional services and are no more exceptionable. They include drafting the petition which sets forth the claim, attending to the taking of testimony, collecting facts, preparing arguments and submitting them orally or in writing to a committee, and other services of a like character; but such services are separated by a broad line of demarcation from personal solicitation, and though compensation can be recovered for them when they stand alone, yet when they are blended and confused with those which are forbidden, the whole is a unit and indivisible, and that which is bad destroys the good.

Many States have passed antilobby laws. Why should not Congress? The "lobbyist" invades the right of the people away back in the country to be heard by petition and by letter. He invades the rights of the Members, whom he secretly tries to "influence." He thus undermines society, and, later, the very fabric of the Government will fall into decay if this nefarious business is not stopped.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I ask for five minutes more.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I move that all debate upon this section close in five minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Pennsylvania moves that debate upon the section close in five minutes.

The question was taken, and the motion was agreed to.

Mr. PAYNE. Will it interrupt the gentleman if I ask him a question now?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Oh, of course I always have pleasure in talking with the gentleman, either at a short or a long distance.

Mr. PAYNE. Is it the gentleman's understanding that if this amendment were adopted it would apply to those good people who came here from Tennessee at the expense of, or hired by, the tobacco growers down there to appear before the committee and advocate some legislation that the gentleman had introduced in the House?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. No; it would not apply to those, and should not.

Mr. PAYNE. I think it does. It distinctly does.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I think the gentleman does not understand the amendment.

Mr. PAYNE. I think I do.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. If it does not allow those kind of people to come here, we will amend it so it will. What I want is to start the ball rolling. The gentleman knows that I started the antifree-pass ball rolling; you know we put an antipass section in the railroad bill, and after a hard struggle you Republicans had to aid us to put it on the statute book.

Mr. PAYNE. The gentleman ought not to send to jail these people who advocate it. [Laughter.]

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. No. These tobacco growers were men who went into their own pockets for their expenses when they came here and when they testified before the House committee. Most of them in the Fifty-eighth Congress were tobacco growers and one or two dealers, I think. But they did not "lobby," that is my point. They went before the committee and testified, and their evidence was printed by the House, and everybody can read it. Nothing secret about it.

Mr. PAYNE. But the gentleman does not pretend that those lawyers came here for nothing?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. There was but one lawyer, and he was also a tobacco grower, a member of the Tobacco Association, and was counsel for it and came here before the Senate committee as a grower and member and also as a delegate to represent the association, and did so with other growers, members, and delegates. He would have come if he had not been attorney. But none of them "lobbied," and I presume the association paid their expenses in the Fifty-ninth Congress. They came here for something—to explain our tobacco bill, and had the right to do so, and will have under my amendment. But they got nothing they wanted for coming, and mighty little of that [laughter], because of the tobacco trust and its hired lobbyists.

I will tell the gentlemen why they got nothing: Because a noted Republican Senator twice killed the bill at the behest of the tobacco trust. He owned a few years back, since 1898, $1,000,000 stock in this tobacco trust, while two others had the same kind of stock, all of which is stated by a writer in a recent copy of Everybody's Magazine. Our bill has been before Congress since 1902 and has twice unanimously passed the House and has been twice killed in the Senate committee. But let me get back to my amendment.

The gentleman can not find a single theory in this amendment that cuts off honorable, upright tobacco growers or other good citizens from being heard in person, by lawyers or agents, or by writing, but this amendment strikes down the "lobbyists" who should be halted here and now.

This amendment is to protect and intended to protect the people, all the people, from the corrupt influences of lobbyists and, if it does not, amend it and make it do so.

One man came here and remained "lobbying" against this bill. He said to the committee he and his firm were not connected with the trust, but recently one of the officers of this trust stated to the master in New York City hearing evidence in the case against this trust, that this man and his firm were controlled by the trust.

Another lobbyist was thanked for his efficient work in opposition to this bill, and was given an increased amount of money to meet his future "extraordinary expense" in this fight. These are the kind of "lobbyists" my measure strikes at, or any kindred kind. [Applause.]

Let any man write, or in person, or by his lawyer or agent, appeal to the committee of Congress, but let his hands be clean and his objects clean, but stop "lobbying."

Mr. PAYNE. Has the gentleman, in his amendment, anything about the trusts?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Oh, no.

Mr. PAYNE. Has he anything in his bill about people who come in to oppose legislation?

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Those who lobby; yes. This will but keep down the thing that makes trusts. They came here in 1893 and got a tax put on leaf tobacco and it has been kept there since by the trust and the "lobbyists," and I want to say here that in behalf of my people in the dark tobacco district of Tennessee and of Kentucky, who are down there to-day struggling with this—

Monster of such frightful mien,
As, to be hated, needs but to be seen—that I thank the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. DALZELL] for twice reporting and passing this tobacco bill in the House; but unfortunately the tobacco trust and its hired "lobbyists" dug its grave in the Finance Committee of the Senate and buried it there amidst much rejoicing.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. I am very sorry. I should like to have a little more time.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. I ask that the gentleman have five minutes more. He was interrupted by the gentleman from New York.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request that the gentleman's time be extended five minutes?

There was no objection.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Chairman, I am very much obliged for the leave to continue. Let us get down to this amendment. There may be very little in this bill, but there is a great deal more in the proposition "lobbying."

Mr. BONYNGE. Read it over again.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Oh, no; I will not take up my time that way. But now let us get down to the milk in the cocoanut. Gentlemen are a little bit disposed to treat this matter as they did my "free-pass abuse" bill; but "it is a short Jersey that does not want a tail in fly time." [Laughter.] You had to come back home—you who voted against the free-pass proposition at first, but you had to come home and ask me to let you roost on my roost, and I was good enough to let you do it. And, I say, and I say it kindly, that gentlemen on that side who fought me in that matter were the very gentlemen who had afterwards to report a railroad bill here with an antipass provision in it, and it became law.

Now, I do not want to be diverted any more. I want to talk about the tobacco trust hereafter, for it is a menace to this country. President Roosevelt said to me that it was the worst one of all of them, and I believe so. It has a big Democrat on one side, a big Republican on the other, and the devil in the middle. [Laughter.] James B. Duke, Republican, a member of this trust, was a delegate who helped nominate President Roosevelt. Thomas Fortune Ryan, a member of this trust, is a Democrat who helped to nominate my friend Parker, and I, too, helped to nominate him. Thus, Duke and Ryan work "both sides of the street" and have built up this trust. I am glad that Uncle Sam has got hold of them, and I hope he will keep hold of them, legitimately and squarely hit them above the belt and crush this trust.

Now, section 3 reads:

Be it further enacted, That the purpose of this act is to prohibit all persons from all attempts to lobby or unduly influence the judgment and action of the Congress in matters concerning the general welfare, proposed measures, and those pending before the Congress or any of its committees, by parties acting for pay or the hope or promise thereof, and not from patriotism; and this law shall be construed as remedial so as to suppress the mischief and protect the public morals.

You see, we are acting as a court here and are construing in plain language our own bill:

But shall not be construed in conflict with (but to better preserve and protect) the right of petition, or include any word, printing, or written address by a person who acts without fee or reward, or the promise or hope thereof, unless such person is in the employment and pay of the person or corporation in whose interests such word, address, printing, or writing is uttered or published.

There is nothing more mortifying than to see a great lawyer of the country come here and "lobby" for anything. His license does not permit him to "lobby," nor does it protect him from censure.

This section further provides:

But this law shall then not apply, if before his services begin with the persons elected to Congress, he shall file with each of such persons a written or printed statement, verified by affidavit, stating his name, address, and regular business, or businesses, the name of his client, or claimant, or employer, and his or their address and business, or businesses, the amount of his compensation paid, and to be paid, with a copy of the contract or contracts under which his or their entire services are to be rendered, and particularly whether his or their services are to be compensated for upon a fixed or contingent compensation, with the name and address of the person or persons, corporation or corporations, who have paid or agreed to pay such compensation.

SEC. 4. And provided further, That the said person, client, claimant, or employer, or his attorney or agent, shall send to each chairman of the respective committees of Congress a duplicate copy of such affidavit.

SEC. 5. Be it further enacted, That the chairman of each committee of Congress shall, at all reasonable hours, keep open in his committee room for inspection of the public a copy of such affidavit or affidavits.

Now, gentlemen, I say that permits any man in the United States under the right of petition or through his counsel or any person to come here and do his whole duty within proper limits, and it does not permit him to do anything more. It also lays before Members the full history of the lawyer or agent and his entire connection with the matter before Congress. Nothing is covered up; nothing secret. The "lobbyist" is known by this procedure, and so is the lawyer, agent, and client.

Now, I say that this great Congress of the United States, where our greatest lawmakers are supposed to be, where the President lives, where the Senate is, where the House of Representatives is, and all its Departments, where the heart of the nation throbs, ought to have the protection against the "lobbyists" that this bill strikes at. [Applause.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Tennessee.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. GAINES of Tennessee), there were—ayes 47, noes 76.

So the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk, proceeding with the reading of the bill, read as follows:

SEC. 115. [Whoever, being elected a Senator, Member of or Delegate to Congress, or a Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, shall, after his election and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, or being the head of a Department, or other officer or clerk in the employ of the United States, shall, directly or indirectly, receive, or agree to receive, any compensation whatever for any services rendered or to be rendered to any person, either by himself or another, in relation to any proceeding, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest, or other matter or thing in which the United States is a party or directly or indirectly interested, before any Department, court-martial, bureau, officer, or any civil, military, or naval commission whatever, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than two years; and shall, moreover, thereafter be incapable of holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the Government of the United States.] (R. S., s. 1782.)

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment:

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 12, after the word "elected," add the words "or appointed;" and in line 15, after the word "election," add the words "or appointment."

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, the object of this amendment is to cure what it seems to me is an omission. It often happens that Senators are appointed. In some States the legislatures do not meet only once in four years, and a man may be appointed and take the office of United States Senator and serve a long time, acting as a Senator by appointment, and the provisions of this section, as I read them, would not apply.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I think that is a good amendment, and I will accept it.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HUGHES of New Jersey. Now, Mr. Chairman, I desire to say to the House that that amendment should have been made to the preceding section, inasmuch as the preceding section deals with Members of Congress, and a United States Senator is a Member of Congress in a broader sense of the term. I will ask unanimous consent to return to section 114.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I shall object to that now with the understanding that later on the committee itself will move the amendment if they feel it necessary to perfect that section.

Mr. ANSBERRY. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment:

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend section 115, line 25, page 57, by inserting after the word "whatever" the following: "or being a Senator or Representative in Congress shall be or serve as an officer, director, attorney, counselor, or agent of any company or corporation engaged in interstate transportation."

Mr. ANSBERRY. Mr. Chairman, at the risk of being accused of indulging in buncombe and of framing humbug legislation, as other gentlemen on this side of the House have been accused, because of amendments suggested during the pendency of this measure, I rise to address myself to the amendment I have introduced. My reasons for advocating this amendment to existing law are twofold: First, to the end that I might add my mite toward the molding and forming of the criminal statutes of my country so that prison doors may be opened for those undesirable citizens, if I may be permitted the expression, who, disregarding their plain duty toward their constituents, their country, and in evident contempt for and in total disregard of the scriptural injunction that "no man can serve two masters, God and mammon," seek to represent the American people on the floor of this House and at the same time are the high-priced agents, employees, or attorneys of the corporations that come here either seeking legislation favorable to themselves or desire "jokers" or "sleepers" put in innocent bills that are always more or less inimical to the best interests of the plain people. When I say plain people, I mean that great body of righteous, God-fearing, law-respecting men and women who make up the great bulk of our country's population. It may be said that this amendment, which seeks among other things to prevent members of Congress or United States Senators from accepting employment as the paid attorneys or counselors of the great corporations engaged in interstate transportation, while members of this body or of the Senate, is radical, drastic, and unusual legislation. My reply is that it only seeks to remedy conditions that the people, in some parts of the country at least, think are not only not unusual, but which, in addition, demand drastic and radical legislation to remedy.

Some gentlemen here, in the course of debate, recently said that the House could get along much more rapidly but for the fact that there were too many lawyers here, who persisted in talking, arguing, and debating, thus wasting time. I agree with the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. KÜSTERMANN] in part, but a careful reading of my amendment will disclose that I point out a method of preventing a certain class of lawyers from doing the American people infinitely more harm than wasting their time. I am strongly of the opinion, however, that the fact that so large a proportion of the percentage of Members of this House are lawyers is but a tribute to the high regard that our profession has in the minds of our people, added to the fact that by common consent lawyers—men trained in the putting into effect and testing legislation—are best equipped by that training and by education to make laws. But the lawyers who seek to serve in the double capacity I mention in my amendment are responsible for the sentiment that exists in periods of unrest, that there are too many lawyers in both branches of Congress. I am not going to make an assault upon corporation lawyers generally. That would be equally silly and futile, and defeat the honest ends I seek to attain; for corporation lawyers who legitimately and skillfully practice their profession are entitled to that credit which is always accorded to merit coupled with skill and honesty. It is the lawyer employed by the corporations engaged in interstate commerce, not for his skill in the legitimate practice of his special branch of his profession, but for his corrupt influence as a Member of the House or Senate, that this amendment strikes, and who discredits his profession. The second influence that impelled me to this action—and perhaps it should have been stated first, because I think it was the controlling one—was a letter I received shortly after I was elected a member of this body. I received a communication from the Commissioner of Pensions, Mr. Warner, and I now desire to publicly thank him for that warning letter, for it advised that inasmuch as I represented an old soldier of the civil war in a claim the soldier had for a pension or an increase of pension then pending before his Department, I would subject myself to the pains and penalties provided for in section 115 if I continued to represent this or any other soldier before the Pension Bureau after I had been elected to Congress. And the punishment that would have been meted out to me, had I sought to use my influence on behalf of my soldier clients, was and is entirely out of proportion to the benefit that I could possibly render him in the double capacity of Congressman and attorney.

I mention this incident as an illustration and to call your attention forcibly to the fact that this statute as it now stands discriminates against the old soldiers of this land by putting them in the position of not permitting them to have an attorney, if such attorney be afterwards elected to Congress, or at any rate, of not permitting this attorney to use his influence, and the influence that naturally comes to him because of his selection, before the Pension Department of his Government for the purpose of obtaining a pension or an increase of pension for his client, even though the attorney's compensation is merely nominal. This in the face of the fact that the privilege of having a paid agent or attorney a Member of this body or the Senate is afforded to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pullman Palace Car Company, the United States Express Company, and all other corporations engaged in interstate transportation. I submit the unfairness of this situation. I submit that if the soldiers of this country—those brave men who, between the years 1861 and 1865, turned their backs upon their families, their opportunities, in fact, their all, and went forth to do battle for their country, and if needs be to lay down their lives in sacrifice upon the altar of patriotism—are denied the rights and privileges of having upon this floor paid attorneys, not to use their influence in the House or Senate, but before Departments of the Government, for a much stronger reason these giant corporations which I have heretofore named and many others should be denied representation in the House and Senate, even though that employment be under the thinly veiled guise of attorney, counselor, director, or agent. [Applause.] It may be said that it is a different proposition to represent a corporation here in the halls of Congress than representing a soldier client before a Department or Bureau of this Government; to that I answer that is a distinction without a difference. And further there can be infinitely more harm worked in legislation by paid attorneys or agents of interested corporations when those agents are Members of the Congress of the United States than there possibly could be done by Members of Congress as attorneys for the old veterans of this country if they, acting in such capacities, succeeded in inducing the head of the Pension Bureau to turn over to their clients a sum equal to the entire surplus now in the Treasury of this great country.

I say that perhaps it is wrong to cut the old soldiers out of their undoubted right of having the influence of a Member of Congress who happens to be their attorney before these Departments. But this House and the Senate in their wisdom have placed legislation upon the statute books of a character that prohibits that relationship, and in view of this fact I say that this amendment, which is right in principle, if perhaps not clear in phraseology, should be passed by this Congress.

Certainly no one can be heard to deny the proposition that it is absolutely wrong in principle to permit corporations seeking valuable privileges here, and always vigorously contending against legislation that seeks to restrain their cupidity and lawlessness, to retain an attorney at law or a counselor at law by the year for the purpose of representing them on the floor of this House. No one, I believe, could urge a strong or reasonable objection to this amendment. Now, Mr. Chairman, many things have been said about buncombe in reference to amendments of this character. I say to the gentlemen who advance that proposition, the mild-mannered leaders of the majority, that there has been considerable buncombe emanating from the other side in the past two or three days. I cite in support of that this one thing that I am sure the record will support. You gentlemen have long claimed to be the custodians and guardians of the rights of the colored brother. On this side of the House several amendments were offered the other day seeking to strike from the statute books of the United States laws that were passed in reconstruction days and that now are useless and ineffectual and only lumber up the books. Thereupon gentlemen on the other side rose in their seats and with great eloquence sought to protect the shadowy rights contained therein on behalf of the colored brother, and for one session in the last Congress, and so far in this session of this Congress, not a Member has raised his voice in protest against the President of the United States, who, disregarding his plain duty, and in violation of his own precept—"the square deal"—assailed the substantial and property rights of at least three companies of colored troops, some half dozen of whom were charged—not proven guilty, but charged—with having been engaged in an affray at Brownsville, Tex. [Applause.] These men were denied their constitutional right of having their day in court before having sentence pronounced upon them—and a serious sentence it was to many of these colored soldiers, some of whom were petty officers—of being dishonorably discharged from the United States Army, and no one yet has been found who can say with that certainty which is always required in a court, whether civil or military, just who were engaged in that lamentable affair.

I say to you, you gentlemen on the other side who are always quick to rush out and champion the cause of the colored brother when you suspect his right to vote may be interfered with, that the action of the President in this affair presents a splendid opportunity for you to pour out eloquence, to pronounce invective, and to assail some one, even though that person be a Republican and a Republican President, for he has taken away very substantial property right from these people. Inasmuch as you have failed to defend the negro when he was attacked from high places, I think that we can fairly consider your defense of him in the past few days is buncombe.

Now, returning to this amendment, I invite the support of gentlemen here who see in this amendment a right principle. I invite, irrespective of party, the unanimous support of every gentleman who is favorable to having legislation acted upon by only those who are not directly interested financially in the legislation that may be pending. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the adoption of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. ANSBERRY) there were—ayes 43, noes 73.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend section 115 by striking out of line 14, page 57, the words, "from any Territory of the United States," a committee amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman desire to be heard upon the amendment.

Mr. DENBY. No.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 116. [Whoever, being elected a Member of or Delegate to Congress, or a Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, shall, after his election and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, directly or indirectly, himself, or by any other person in trust for him, or for his use or benefit, or on his account, undertake, execute, hold, or enjoy, in whole or in part any contract or agreement, made or entered into in behalf of the United States by any officer or person authorized to make contracts on its behalf, shall be fined not more than $3,000. All contracts or agreements made in violation of this section shall be void; and whenever any sum of money is advanced by the United States, in consideration of any such contract or agreement, it shall forthwith be repaid; and in case of failure or refusal to repay the same when demanded by the proper officer of the Department under whose authority such contract or agreement shall have been made or entered into, suit shall at once be brought against the person so failing or refusing and his sureties, for the recovery of the money so advanced.]

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Chairman, in line 5, page 58, I move to insert the words "or appointed" after the word "elected."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 58, line 5, after the word "elected," insert the words "or appointed."

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Chairman, now in lines 6 and 7, page 58, I move to strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 58, lines 6 and 7, strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DENBY. I have one other amendment, on line 7, after the word "election" add the words "or appointment."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

there were—ayes 54, noes 63.

Page 58, line 7, after the word "election" insert the words "or appointment."

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Arkansas desire to be heard?

Mr. MACON. No, sir; I was going to offer the same amendment which the gentleman from Michigan did.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 117. [Whoever, being an officer of the United States, shall on behalf of the United States, directly or indirectly, make or enter into any contract, bargain, or agreement, in writing or otherwise, with any Member of or Delegate to Congress, or any Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, after his election as such Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, and either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, shall be fined not more than $3,000.]

Mr. DENBY. On page 59, lines 5 and 6, I move to strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 59, lines 5 and 6, strike out the words "from any Territory of the United States."

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 118. Nothing contained in the two preceding sections shall extend, or be construed to extend, to any contract or agreement made or entered into, or accepted, by any incorporated company, where such contract or agreement is made for the general benefit of such incorporation or company; nor to the purchase or sale of bills of exchange or other property by any Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, where the same are ready for delivery, and payment therefor is made, at the time of making or entering into the contract or agreement.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri offers the amendment, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by striking out section 118 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"The two preceding sections shall extend to and embrace all contracts and agreements made, entered into, or accepted by any incorporated company wherein a Member of or Delegate to Congress or Resident Commissioner is interested, directly or indirectly, and to the purchase and sale of bills of exchange and other property by any Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner."

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I do not know what the original purpose of this enactment was, but, certainly, to leave this section stand as it is nullifies the two preceding sections. They forbid a Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner from doing jobbing in contracts, and, according to the provisions of section 118, as printed, that industry is entirely open, provided the corporation in which the Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner is interested is the party instead of the individual. It seems to me, if there is any virtue in the legislation and it is expected to accomplish anything, it ought to extend to dealings with any corporation in which a Member, Delegate, or Commissioner is interested, just as completely as to dealings with individuals.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

On a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 48, noes 73.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Tellers, Mr. Chairman.

Tellers were ordered.

The committee again divided, and the tellers (Mr. DE ARMOND of Missouri and Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania) reported that there were—ayes 46, noes 68.

So the amendment was rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 119. Whoever, being an officer of the United States, or a person acting for or on behalf of the United States, in any official capacity, under or by virtue of the authority of any Department or office of the Government thereof; or whoever, being an officer or person acting for or on behalf of either House of Congress, or of any committee of either House, or of both Houses thereof, shall ask, accept, or receive any money or any contract, promise, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money, or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value, with intent to have his decision or action on any question, matter, cause, or proceeding which may at any time be pending, or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, or in his place of trust or profit, influenced thereby, shall be fined not more than three times the amount of money or value of the thing so asked, accepted, or received, and imprisoned not more than three years; and shall, moreover, forfeit his office or place and thereafter be forever disqualified from holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the Government of the United States.

Mr. BURLESON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I desire to give assurance to the members of the committee that the amendment which I will offer and what I will say about it is in no sense partisan. I assure you also that it is not my purpose to trench in the least upon the field of proper revision so clearly and forcibly outlined the other day by the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]. I recognize that it is necessary that the scope of our action upon this bill should be quite limited. Especially do I recognize the danger of even the committee attempting to embody in it new subjects of legislation, because, as was so well said by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON], to do so in a general way would be to usurp in a measure the functions of all the other committees of this House. I recognize also the danger and the folly of attempting in the Committee of the Whole to amend this bill by defining and adding new offenses, because of the great danger of the wreck to be brought about through the maelstrom of such ill-considered attempts at legislation. Mr. Chairman, I believe the amendment that I shall offer is not subject to either of these objections. It penalizes certain acts which the President of the United States, through a message to this body, has urged upon the Congress to penalize. The amendment I will offer was embodied in a memorandum prepared by me and submitted to the Solicitor-General of the United States, and having been carefully considered by him, and altered to conform to his views of what was necessary to meet the evil, was then submitted to the able lawyer who was then Attorney-General of the United States and who now graces our Supreme Court, and was carefully gone over by him. It was then introduced by me in the shape of a bill and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

It was there carefully considered by that committee, composed of some of the ablest lawyers of this body, and reported unanimously and passed the House. It was sent to the Senate, referred to the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, was carefully considered by that committee, and reported back to the Senate, and passed that body with only slight verbal amendments. It would have become law without doubt but for the fact that an attempt was made in conference to penalize certain acts if committed by Members of Congress. When the report of the conference committee was brought before the House it was objected to. It resulted in a contest upon the floor, and the conference report was rejected. Subsequently, eliminating the new features which were sought to be embodied in the bill by the conference committee, stripping the bill down to just what it contained as it originally passed the House and Senate, I reintroduced it, and it was again considered by the Judiciary Committee and a unanimous report was made favoring its passage.

Now, gentlemen of the committee, in the light of these facts, I submit this amendment can not be considered as new legislation, and if accepted it can not be considered a usurpation of the functions of another committee, because, as I have shown you, it has been twice favorably considered by the Judiciary Committee of the House and once by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, once passed by this body, and also once passed by the Senate. And now, Mr. Chairman, is the amendment properly subject to the objection that its phraseology has not been given proper consideration? I think not. Considering the scrutiny given it by the Solicitor-General and also by the Attorney-General and the further fact that the bill was given most careful consideration by a subcommittee of the Committee on the Judiciary, of which the distinguished gentleman from Maine [Mr. LITTLEFIELD] was a member, Mr. Chairman, I feel that I am justified in contending that this amendment is not subject to the objections heretofore urged by the able chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON]. Now, I shall send the amendment to the Clerk's desk, and ask that it be read, and then I want to be heard one minute further upon its merits.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. BURLESON] offers an amendment, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by adding after section 119 the following:

"SEC. 119a. Every officer and employee of the United States and every person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity under or by virtue of the authority of any Department or office of the Government who shall, by virtue of the office or position held by him, become possessed of any information which might exert an influence upon or affect the market value of any product of the soil grown within the United States, which information is required by law or under the rules and practices of any Department of the Government to be withheld from publication until a fixed time, who shall willfully impart, either directly or indirectly, said information, or any part thereof, to any person not entitled under the law or rules and practices of the Department of the Government to receive same, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than ten years and may be fined in any sum not to exceed $10,000.

"SEC. 119b. Every officer of the United States and every person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity under or by virtue of any Department or office of the Government who shall, by virtue of the office or position held by him, become possessed of any information which might exert an influence upon or affect the market value of any product of the soil grown within the United States, who shall, before said information is made public through regular official channels, either directly or indirectly, speculate in said product, by selling or buying same in any quantity, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 and may be imprisoned for not more than ten years."

Mr. BURLESON. Now, Mr. Chairman, a few words more about the conference report, as there seems to be a misapprehension about some parts of it. When this bill after passage was again brought before the House in the conference report, an attempt had been made to embody new features in it which provoked the opposition of the distinguished gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MCCALL], and during the discussion of the report of the conference committee the gentleman said that if the terms of the bill were made to apply exclusively to the products of the soil, and some minor modification, I believe, of the minimum punishment prescribed, that he would have no further objection to it. The bill as reintroduced by me—this amendment—applies exclusively to products of the soil, and the objection which was made by the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MCCALL], or some one else, to the minimum punishment has also been met by conforming to the general rule which has been adopted by the Committee on Revision, which, by failing to fix a minimum punishment, lodges that discretion with the judicial officer who may try the case.

I want to say this further, Mr. Chairman, as to the merits of this amendment: There can now be, as I see it, no substantial objection urged to its passage. Its phraseology is the same, with the exceptions indicated, as when it passed this House without objection, and when it passed the Senate without objection.

This amendment is intended to cover an evil to which the Secretary of Agriculture directed the attention of the President; and the President in a message urged the Congress to penalize the commission of those acts. The adoption of this amendment will be a protection to the wheat growers of this country against the premature disclosure by an unfaithful employee as to what the wheat crop may be, and using same as the means of hurtful and dishonest speculation in this product. We all know that one offense affecting the cotton crop has already been committed, and a judge in New York, having the matter brought before him for determination, held that there was no statute of the United States covering such an offense.

It is for these reasons that I earnestly urge the committee to permit the adoption of this amendment. It is not a matter of new legislation that has not received committee consideration, because, as I have stated, the Committee on the Judiciary had twice favorably reported on it in the House and once in the Senate. It is not haphazard legislation, an attempt at ill-considered legislation upon the spur of the moment, because every word in the amendment has been carefully weighed, and, furthermore, it has been considered by Congress itself. There is absolutely no danger of making a mistake in the phraseology of this amendment, because it has been given most careful consideration, as I have shown you.

Now I ask, gentlemen, unless some substantial reason can be given why it should not be, that the amendment be accepted.

I understand that the substance of this amendment was originally embodied in the bill we are now considering, but was stricken out by the committee because it was believed to have been defeated in the House. The gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCALL] is here and will be a witness to the fact that it was defeated because we attempted to inject new matter in the bill through the instrumentality of a conference report. All new matter sought to be injected by the conference report has been eliminated from this amendment and it is now just as it was originally reported by the Committee on the Judiciary and originally passed by the House and Senate.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. BURLESON. Certainly.

Mr. MANN. How is it possibly in precisely the same condition in which it passed the House and Senate if it is not law now?

Mr. BURLESON. For the simple reason that in the conference report——

Mr. MANN. There can be no conference report putting it before us in precisely the same condition if it passed both bodies.

Mr. BURLESON. It was this way: There were certain slight verbal amendments which sent it to conference, and in conference the attempt was made to embody in the bill new matter. I will say I approved the new matter or legislation, because it attempted to penalize the acts of Members of Congress who become possessed of information by reason of their office if they should then take advantage of this information to speculate upon the stock exchanges of our country. That is what the conference report attempted, and that attempt defeated my bill.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman says a "slight verbal amendment," but still a sufficient amendment to bring the two Houses into disagreement instead of agreement.

Mr. BURLESON. Yes, sir; a formal disagreement only.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman knows that when a bill passes the House and is returned with a slight verbal Senate amendment to the House, the usual custom is for the House to concur in the Senate amendment and not send a bill to conference on a mere verbal amendment.

Mr. BURLESON. As I now recollect it, there was an attempt at a change of verbiage, and also a change in the punishment, which threw it into conference. I assert now positively that there is no material change in the text of this bill as it originally passed the House and Senate and as it was originally prepared by the subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee and reported to the House by that committee.

Mr. McCALL. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. McCALL. Has the gentleman finished his remarks?

Mr. BURLESON. Yes; I yield the floor.

Mr. McCALL. Mr. Chairman, I did not get the form of the amendment exactly that is offered by the gentleman from Texas, but I do not think that he remembers correctly what happened in the debate nearly two years ago. It is true that the bill passed the House without debate. It subsequently passed the Senate. Certain amendments were put in and a change was made in conference, so that technically the House still had a chance to express an opinion upon the bill. My attention was called to the bill; and while I had not any particular objection to this amendment in conference, yet the bill was very important. Those of the Members present who were here at that time will remember I attacked the whole bill, which had not been debated in the House at all. The bill was fully debated. This conference report was defeated by three or four to one; and then I moved to kill the whole bill, by laying it upon the table, because I believed it to be absolutely vicious legislation; and the House by two to one killed the bill. Now, I think this a very peculiar provision to offer in a bill revising the statute law. Let it go to the Committee on the Judiciary; and if it is reported in the shape that it was when it was before the House, I believe the House will have the good sense to defeat it.

Mr. BURLESON. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. McCALL. Certainly.

Mr. BURLESON. Do I understand the gentleman to say that during the course of that debate upon this floor the gentleman did not say that, if the bill was made to apply to the products of the soil alone, he would have no objection to it?

Mr. McCALL. I could hardly undertake to state everything I said in that debate, because I think I had the floor nearly an hour, and I do not know that I saw in what form the gentleman offered his amendment; but I do say that if the amendment which the gentleman now offers is the same as the bill that was reported by the Judiciary Committee and that the House then killed, I said nothing that by the most excruciating torture could be construed as favoring that proposition.

Mr. BURLESON. Undoubtedly the bill is the same as was originally reported by the Judiciary Committee and passed the House. I state candidly to the House that it is the same bill that passed the House without opposition and passed the Senate without opposition, with only slight verbal amendments. In conference the attempt was made to apply the penal clauses of that act to certain acts if committed by Members of Congress, and the fight upon the bill was provoked because it applied in its new provisions to Members of Congress.

Mr. McCALL. Not at all. I will say to the gentleman, absolutely, that the report of the debate will show that the whole bill was attacked. We simply had an opportunity, because there was a committee amendment undisposed of, to get at the bill. The gentleman said it had passed the House. It had passed the House without any debate whatever. After it was debated, the House refused to pass the bill. Now, I will say that the gentleman afterwards spoke to me of a certain way of treating the bill, in which it would meet the evil he had in view. I had no objection to that; but I do emphatically object to the bill as it was reported by the Judiciary Committee at that time, and which the House repudiated.

After the conference report had been rejected, then the House voted by two to one to lay the whole thing on the table.

Mr. BURLESON. Acting upon that suggestion, I eliminated the very features to which the gentleman alluded, and reintroduced the bill, and the Judiciary Committee promptly reported it favorably.

Mr. Chairman, in order that there may be no misunderstanding about this, I ask unanimous consent that this go over; and if I can not show the gentleman in the RECORD where he in express terms stated that if it was made to apply to products of the soil he would not offer objection, I will not reoffer it. I ask unanimous consent that this section and the amendment be passed until I have opportunity to submit the RECORD to the gentleman.

Mr. McCALL. Pardon me a moment. I understood the gentleman to say that the amendment that he was now offering was in the same form as that in which the Judiciary Committee originally reported the bill, and in which it passed the House.

Mr. BURLESON. With the exceptions stated.

Mr. McCALL. If you have amended that, I would want to study the text of your amendment.

Mr. BURLESON. With reference to the penal clause only.

Mr. McCALL. Do I understand that the gentleman has not amended it in any other respect?

Mr. BURLESON. None whatever.

Mr. McCALL. Then it is a bad bill. I never favored it, and I never would favor it, and I believe the House would never favor it.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. If it goes over until to-morrow, let it be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. BURLESON. I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the RECORD, and that it may go over until to-morrow without prejudice.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I should like to limit that unanimous consent, so that the one thing that would go over for discussion to-morrow should be this amendment.

Mr. BURLESON. Certainly; that is agreeable to me.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. BURLE-

SON] asks unanimous consent that this paragraph of this section and the pending amendment may be passed until tomorrow.

Mr. SHERLEY. As I understand the agreement of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON], it is that upon tomorrow the gentleman from Texas may move to recur to this section for the purpose of offering this amendment, and that only.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair can not put any suggestion made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. He puts the request made by the gentleman from Texas. If he desires to modify that request, he can do so.

Mr. BURLESON. I desire to modify it to meet the wishes of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOON].

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair now understands—he may not understand correctly—that the gentleman from Texas asks unanimous consent that this section may be passed until tomorrow, and then taken up for the consideration of this amendment, perfected in such way as he shall perfect it overnight.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. And that only.

Mr. BURLESON. That is also satisfactory to me.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The committee informally rose; and Mr. MANN having taken the chair as Speaker pro tempore, a message from the Senate, by Mr. PARKINSON, one of its secretaries, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment bills of the following titles:

H. R. 10519. An act to authorize the Nashville and Northeastern Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cumberland River at or near Celina, Tenn.;

H. R. 4891. An act to authorize the city of Burlington, Iowa, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River; and

H. R. 251. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the city of St. Louis, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River," approved February 6, 1907.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed joint resolutions and bills of the following titles, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested:

S. J. Res. 23. Joint resolution to provide for the remission of a portion of the Chinese indemnity;

S. J. Res. 17. Joint resolution to amend the provision in the river and harbor act of March 2, 1907, relating to the Sandy Lake reservoir;

S. 3020. An act to construct a tender for the use of the engineer of the first and second light-house districts;

S. 3019. An act to construct a tender for the use of the inspector of the first light-house district;

S. 2929. An act to authorize the Idaho and Washington Northern Railroad to construct a bridge across the Pend d'Oreille River in the State of Washington;

S. 2725. An act to extend the time for completion of the building of dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn.;

S. 2712. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to investigate and cancel the allotment of William Jondron, Yankton Sioux allottee, should it prove to be fictitious.

S. 2662. An act to authorize the Arizona and California Railway Company to construct a bridge across the Colorado River at Parker, Ariz.

S. 2640. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Kansas.

An act (S. 1774) to permit Dollie A. Fountain, of Walworth County, S. Dak., to purchase certain lands.

S. 1666. An act for the relief of Stene Engeberg.

S. 720. An act to confirm an entry made by Gertrude Halverson Aaby, widow of Sigbjorn H. Aaby.

S. 713. An act to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction of additional light-house districts," approved July 26, 1886.

S. 648. An act to establish a fish-culture station in the State of Wyoming.

S. 551. An act relating to commutation of homestead entries and to confirm such entries when commutation proofs were received by local officers prematurely.

S. 535. An act to establish a fish-culture station in the State of Utah.

S. 507. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Nebraska.

S. 485. An act to create a new division of the northern judicial district of Texas, and to provide for terms of court at Amarillo, Tex., and for a clerk for said court, and for other purposes.

S. 387. An act to establish a fish-culture station at the city of Fargo, in the State of North Dakota.

S. 141. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Idaho.

S. 113. An act to establish a fish-hatching and fish-culture station at Dell Rapids, S. Dak.

S. 29. An act to provide for registration of all cases of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia, for free examination of sputum in suspected cases, and for preventing the spread of tuberculosis in said District.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed with amendment bill of the following title, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested:

H. R. 300. An act providing for second homestead entries.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed the following concurrent resolutions, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested:

Senate concurrent resolution 14.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 2,000 additional copies of Senate Document No. 151, present session; 1,000 for the use of the Senate and 1,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

Senate concurrent resolution 3.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the Little Contentnea River, North Carolina, from the mouth of same to the town of Ridge Springs, in Greene County, N. C., with a view of dredging, cleaning out, and widening the channel, and to submit a plan and estimate for such improvements.

Also:

Resolved, That no communications from heads of Departments, Commissioners, chiefs of bureaus, or other executive officers, except when authorized or required by law, or when made in response to a resolution of the Senate, will be received by the Senate unless such communications shall be transmitted to the Senate by the President.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be communicated by the Secretary of the Senate to the President and the House of Representatives.

CODIFICATION OF THE PENAL LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The committee resumed its session.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 123. No officer, clerk, or other person in the service of the United States shall, directly or indirectly, give or hand over to any other officer, clerk, or person in the service of the United States, or to any Senator or Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner from any Territory of the United States, any money or other valuable thing on account of or to be applied to the promotion of any political object whatever.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend section 123, page 61, by striking out from lines 22 and 23 the words "from any Territory in the United States."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Chairman, I move to recur to section 112.

The CHAIRMAN. The committee, by unanimous consent, passed section 112, subject to an amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr DE ARMOND], which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend by adding at the end of section 112 the following:

"Whoever shall, directly or indirectly, give, receive, or accept anything of value for or on account of any vote, decision, or act of any such Member or Delegate or Resident Commissioner, shall be subject to fine and imprisonment as heretofore in this section provided."

The CHAIRMAN. The question now is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri.

The question was taken, and on a division (demanded by Mr. DE ARMOND) there were—ayes 41, noes 51.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Tellers, Mr. Chairman.

Tellers were ordered, and the Chair appointed as tellers Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania and Mr. DE ARMOND.

The committee again divided and the tellers reported that there were—ayes 54, noes 63.

So the amendment was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. There is also pending an amendment, as an additional section, offered by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. RANDELL], which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 112a. That it shall be unlawful for any railroad company, or sleeping car, dining car, steamboat, express, telegraph or telephone company, or any company incorporated by act of the Congress of the United States, or any corporation or firm engaged in interstate commerce to give to any Senator or Representative of the Congress of the United States, or to any judge or justice of any court of the United States, any free transportation of person or property, or frank, franking privilege, or money, or other thing of value; and any company or person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by fine of not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 for each such offense; and any officer or agent of such company or companies who shall violate any provisions of this section shall be punished by fine not to exceed $5,000, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than six months nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

That if any Senator or Representative in the Congress of the United States, or any judge or justice of any court of the United States, shall receive from any railroad, steamboat, sleeping car, dining car, or express company, telegraph or telephone company, or any company chartered by an act of Congress, or any corporation or firm engaged in interstate commerce, or officer or agent of any such firm, company, or companies, any free transportation of person or property, or any frank or franking privilege, or gift of money or other thing of value, he shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not to exceed $1,000, or by imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall forever be barred from holding office under the Government of the United States.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Mr. Chairman, after talking with some members of the committee about the matter, I desire to ask the committee to let these matters go over until morning. It is much earlier than we expected to have them taken up. I can hardly speak myself to-day. It will not interfere with the business of the committee, and we can take it up the first thing in the morning. I ask unanimous consent that that be done.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas asks unanimous consent that this amendment go over until to-morrow.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. And also another amendment. There are two amendments pending.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. I have no objection if the request is limited to those two amendments, or new sections, as I understand.

Mr. RANDELL of Texas. Let it go over under the same limitations that were made yesterday.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the committee rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. OLMSTED, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that committee had had under consideration the bill (H. R. 11701) to codify and revise the penal code, and had come to no resolution thereon.

SENATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS REFERRED.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, Senate bills and resolutions were taken from the Speaker's table and referred to their appropriate committees, as indicated below:

S. 2929. An act to authorize the Idaho and Washington Northern Railroad to construct a bridge across the Pend d'Oreille River in the State of Washington—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 3019. An act to construct a tender for the use of the inspector of the first light-house district—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 2725. An act to extend the time for completion of the building of dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 2712. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to investigate and cancel the allotment of William Jondron, Yankton Sioux allottee, should it prove to be fictitious—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

S. 2662. An act to authorize the Arizona and California Railway Company to construct a bridge across the Colorado River at Parker, Ariz.—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 2640. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Kansas—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 1774. An act to permit Dollie A. Fountain, of Walworth County, S. Dak., to purchase certain lands—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

S. 1666. An act for the relief of Stene Engeberg—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

S. 720. An act to confirm an entry made by Gertrude Halverson Aaby, widow of Sigbjorn H. Aaby—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

S. 713. An act to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction of additional light-house districts," approved July 26, 1886—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. 648. An act to establish a fish-culture station in the State of Wyoming—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 551. An act relating to commutation of homestead entries and to confirm such entries when commutation proofs were received by local land officers prematurely—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

S. 535. An act to establish a fish-culture station in the State of Utah—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 507. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Nebraska—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 485. An act to create a new division of the northern judicial district of Texas and to provide for terms of court at Amarillo, Tex., and for a clerk for said court, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

S. 387. An act to establish a fish-culture station at the city of Fargo, in the State of North Dakota—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 141. An act to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Idaho—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 113. An act to establish a fish-hatching and fish-culture station at Dell Rapids, S. Dak.—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

S. 29. An act to provide for registration of all cases of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia, for free examination of sputum in suspected cases, and for preventing the spread of tuberculosis in said District—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

S. 3020. An act to construct a tender for the use of the engineer of the first and second light-house districts—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

S. R. 23. Joint resolution to provide for the remission of a portion of the Chinese indemnity—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

S. R. 17. Joint resolution to amend the provision in the river and harbor act of March 2, 1907, relating to the Sandy Lake reservoir dam—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Senate concurrent resolution 14.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 2,000 additional copies of Senate Document No. 151, present session; 1,000 for the use of the Senate, and 1,000 for the use of the House of Representatives—to the Committee on Printing.

Senate concurrent resolution 3.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the Little Contentnea River, North Carolina, from the mouth of same to the town of Ridge Springs, in Greene County, N. C., with a view of dredging, cleaning out, and widening the channel and to submit a plan and estimate for such improvements—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also:

Resolved, That no communications from heads of Departments, commissioners, chiefs of bureaus, or other executive officers, except when authorized or required by law, or when made in response to a resolution of the Senate, will be received by the Senate unless such communications shall be transmitted to the Senate by the President.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be communicated by the Secretary of the Senate to the President and the House of Representatives—to the Committee on Rules.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. MOON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 5 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

---

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, the following executive communications were taken from the Speaker's table and referred as follows:

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, submitting an estimate of appropriation for salary for a chief of division of equipment in the office of the Supervising Architect—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Auditor of the Navy Department submitting a draft of proposed legislation for settlement of amounts due officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps—to the Committee on Naval Affairs and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Secretary of War submitting an estimate of deficiency appropriation for pay of Military Academy—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Suregon-General of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service submitting an estimate of deficiency appropriation for pay of employees, maintenance of hospitals, etc.—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a copy of a letter from the Surgeon-General of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service submitting an estimate of appropriation for preventing the introduction and spread of epidemic diesases—to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings filed by the court in the case of J. H. Duke, administrator of estate of Edmund F. Duke, against The United States—to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PUBLIC BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII,

Mr. McGUIRE, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 10577) to extend the time of payments on certain homestead entries in Oklahoma, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 181), which said bill and report were referred to the House Calendar.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House as follows:

Mr. HOLLIDAY, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 3200) granting an increase of pension to Elston Armstrong, reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 179), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 13303) granting a pension to Sidney N. Utley, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 180), which said bill and report were referred to the Private Calendar.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXII, committees were discharged from the consideration of bills of the following titles, which were thereupon referred as follows:

A bill (H. R. 6865) granting a pension to Jacob Kuntz—Committee on Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 10696) for the relief of the legal representatives of Stewart & Co. and A. P. H. Stewart—Committee on Claims discharged, and referred to the Committee on War Claims.

A bill (H. R. 12610) granting a pension to Elbert W. McLaughlin—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 12611) granting a pension to Margaret Dunn Aston—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (H. R. 13496) granting a pension to Mattie B. Romsey—Committee on Invalid Pensions discharged, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

PUBLIC BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND MEMORIALS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills, resolutions, and memorials of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. HARDWICK: A bill (H. R. 14004) to provide for the extension, improvement, and enlargement of the post-office and court-house building at Augusta, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. JENKINS: A bill (H. R. 14005) to authorize continuance of the railroad siding into square No. 737, in the city of Washington—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14006) regulating practice, pleadings, form, and mode of proceeding in all civil causes other than admiralty—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. BROWNLOW: A bill (H. R. 14007) for the appointment of a United States district judge for the eastern district of Tennessee, to detach certain counties from the eastern district of Tennessee and to attach the same to the middle district of Tennessee, to provide for divisions in said middle district of Tennessee and the time for holding the courts, and to provide for officers of the courts, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. SULZER: A bill (H. R. 14008) granting a service pension to all officers and enlisted men of the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, both regular and volunteer, who have been awarded medals of honor or who may hereafter be awarded such medals under acts of Congress approved December 21, 1861, July 12 and 16, 1862, and March 3, 1863, and any other act or acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 14009) to provide for the erection of a public building at Bartlesville, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. BOOHER: A bill (H. R. 14010) to amend an act entitled "An act to prohibit corporations from making money contributions in connection with political elections," approved January 26, 1907—to the Committee on Election of President, etc.

By Mr. SPARKMAN: A bill (H. R. 14011) amending an act approved June 10, 1880, entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes"—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. BIRDSALL: A bill (H. R. 14012) conferring jurisdiction on United States circuit courts in certain cases—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. HAGGOTT: A bill (H. R. 14013) to apply a portion of the proceeds of the sales of public lands to the endowment of schools or departments of mines and mining, and to regulate the expenditure thereof—to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

By Mr. MONDELL: A bill (H. R. 14014) to provide for the disposal of abandoned and useless naval reservations—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14015) to provide for the punishment of officers who attach false jurats or certificates to affidavits or other papers, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14016) to amend section 461 of the Revised Statutes of the United States as amended by the act of April 2, 1888—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14017) to amend section 3 of the act entitled "An act providing for the location and purchase of public lands for reservoir sites," approved January 13, 1897—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14018) to provide for the repayment of certain commissions and purchase moneys paid under the public-land laws—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14019) to authorize trustees appointed under the town-site laws to administer oaths, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14020) to amend an act entitled "An act providing for the compulsory attendance of witnesses before registers and receivers of the land offices"—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14021) to provide a manner for restoring lands to the public domain—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14022) to provide for the cancellation and revocation of certain rights of way over public lands—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14023) to provide for the withdrawal and leasing of islands in Alaska—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14024) to provide for the manner of surveying public lands—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14025) to authorize officers and employees of the General Land Office to perform the duties of Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner of that Office—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14026) to provide for the designation of an officer or employee of the General Land Office to act as recorder—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14027) to provide for repayments of certain moneys paid under the public-land laws—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. BOWERS: A bill (H. R. 14028) for the relief of patentees and locators of military bounty land warrants, agricultural college land scrip, and surveyor-general's certificates—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. AIKEN: A bill (H. R. 14029) declaring a portion of Savannah River, Georgia and South Carolina, nonnavigable—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. HOWELL of Utah: A bill (H. R. 14030) to extend the provisions of the act of June 27, 1902, entitled "An act to extend the provisions, limitations, and benefits of an act entitled 'An act granting pensions to the survivors of the Indian wars of 1832 to 1842, inclusive, known as the Black Hawk war, Cherokee disturbances, and the Seminole war,' approved July 27, 1892"—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. MONDELL: A bill (H. R. 14031) to amend section 5 of an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, and for other purposes." approved July 4, 1884—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. AMES: A bill (H. R. 14032) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Merrimac River at Tyngs Island, Massachusetts—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. ANDREWS: A bill (H. R. 14033) to validate a certain act of the legislative assembly of New Mexico with reference to issuance of certain bonds—to the Committee on the Territories.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14034) to amend section 2139 of the Revised Statutes of the United States of 1878—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. HEFLIN: A bill (H. R. 14035) for the disposition of the proceeds of the illegal cotton taxes collected in 1862, 1864, and 1866—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. CURRIER: A bill (H. R. 14036) to provide for the erection of a public building at Keene, N. H.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. HUMPHREY of Washington: A bill (H. R. 14037) for the protection of game animals, birds, and fishes in the Olympic Forest Reserve of the United States in the State of Washington—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. BOWERS: A bill (H. R. 14038) to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887, and all acts amendatory thereof, and to enlarge the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 14039) to provide for the extension of Kenyon street from Fourteenth street to School street, in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. WALLACE: A bill (H. R. 14040) to authorize the county of Ashley, State of Arkansas, and her citizens, to wit: S. R. Bulloch, Z. T. Hedges, and others, to construct a bridge across Bayou Bartholomew at a point above Morrell, in said county and State, the dividing line between Drew and Ashley counties—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. GARDNER of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 14041) for the erection of a post-office building at Hillsdale, Mich.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14042) authorizing the procuring of additional land for the enlargement of the site for the public building at Battle Creek, Mich.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. PRAY: A bill (H. R. 14043) to provide for the extension of time within which homestead entrymen may establish their residence upon certain lands within the limits of the Huntley irrigation project, in the county of Yellowstone, in the State of Montana—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. McGUIRE: A bill (H. R. 14044) regulating salaries of district attorneys and United States marshals in Oklahoma—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14045) for the erection of a Federal building at Enid, Okla.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14046) authorizing the enlargement of the United States post-office and court-house building at Guthrie, Okla., and the acquiring of additional ground for a site for said building—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. OVERSTREET: A bill (H. R. 14047) to establish a United States court of patent appeals, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Patents.

By Mr. HACKNEY: A bill (H. R. 14048) to extend the provisions of the pension act of June 27, 1890, and the pension act of February 6, 1907, to the Enrolled Missouri Militia and other military organizations of the State of Missouri that cooperated with the military and naval forces of the United States during the late civil war—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GOULDEN: A bill (H. R. 14049) authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to purchase three new steam colliers of American registry—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. COX of Indiana: A bill (H. R. 14050) applying the provisions of the act of June 27, 1890, to all soldiers of the war with Spain and to their widows and minor children—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. HOBSON: A bill (H. R. 14051) to provide for the publication of an official journal—to the Committee on Printing.

By Mr. LEWIS: A bill (H. R. 14052) to construct and build a road from Andersonville station, on the Central Railroad of Georgia, to the prison park and national cemetery, and so forth—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14053) to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Fort Valley, in the State of Georgia, and appropriating money therefor—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14054) for the erection of a public building at the city of Hawkinsville, Ga., and appropriating money therefor—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14055) to provide for the payment of interest on all money now deposited or hereafter deposited in national banks of the United States—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14056) to provide for increasing the limit of cost of the public building authorized to be erected at Americus, Sumter County, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14057) to provide for the location of a Branch Home for aged and disabled volunteer soldiers of the United States at Fitzgerald, Ben Hill County, Ga.—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BELL of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 14058) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Jefferson, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14059) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Commerce, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14060) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Buford, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14061) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Winder, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14062) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Lawrenceville, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14063) authorizing the erection of a post-office building at Toccoa, Ga.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14064) prohibiting the issuing of special-tax stamps to retail dealers in liquors in prohibition districts—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. KNOWLAND: A bill (H. R. 14065) providing for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Alameda, in the State of California—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14066) providing for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon at Berkeley, in the State of California—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. BELL of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 14067) to pension the widows of Mexican soldiers—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia: Resolution (H. Res. 153) providing for the hours for the sessions of the House—to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. HAYES: Resolution (H. Res. 155) providing for the printing and binding of certain revised tables and indexes of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORDS for the use of the House—to the Committee on Printing.

By Mr. WILSON of Illinois: Resolution (H. Res. 156) for the appointment of an assistant clerk to the Committee on Enrolled Bills—to the Committee on Accounts.

By Mr. DENBY: Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 102) authorizing the Secretary of War to furnish three condemned cannon to the mayor of the city of Detroit, Mich., to be placed on the base of the statue of the late Maj. Gen. Alexander Macomb, United States Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BARTHOLDT: Joint resolution (H. J. Res. 103) in reference to the employment of enlisted men in competition with local civilians—to the Committee on Labor.

PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ADAIR: A bill (H. R. 14068) granting a pension to William Crouch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14069) granting a pension to Mathew Jellison—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. AIKEN: A bill (H. R. 14070) for the relief of Mira Crumley—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. AMES: A bill (H. R. 14071) granting an increase of pension to Alexander McMillen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14072) granting an increase of pension to Byron C. Bickford—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14073) granting a pension to William Fairbrother—to the Committee to Pensions.

By Mr. ANDREWS: A bill (H. R. 14074) granting an increase of pension to John A. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14075) granting a pension to Julian Lujan—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14076) granting an increase of pension to Belle Forsha—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14077) for the relief of W. J. Goodwin—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14078) for the relief of certain persons residing at Monticello, Sierra County, Territory of New Mexico—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14079) for the relief of Alfred Miller—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14080) for the relief of Manuel Madril—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14081) for the relief of Pablo Ciriaco Baca—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. ANTHONY: A bill (H. R. 14082) granting an increase of pension to Adam Ross—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14083) granting an increase of pension to Rodham Miller—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14084) granting an increase of pension to Charles W. Heisler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14085) granting a pension to Joseph R. Campbell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14086) for the relief of Frank E. Green—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. BARTLETT of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 14087) granting a pension to Josephine C. Sullivan—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. BELL of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 14088) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Baird—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14089) granting an increase of pension to Lucretia A. Keith—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14090) granting an increase of pension to Ruth E. Anderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14091) granting an increase of pension to Mary M. Evans—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14092) granting an increase of pension to Francis A. Shipman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14093) granting an increase of pension to Michael Evert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14094) granting an increase of pension to William O. Phillips—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14095) granting an increase of pension to Elisha Anderson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14096) granting an increase of pension to William M. Brown—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14097) granting an increase of pension to Martha Barrett—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14098) granting an increase of pension to Caroline Corn—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14099) granting an increase of pension to Malinda C. Clonts—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14100) granting an increase of pension to Milton H. Wayne—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14101) granting a pension to Charles C. Howington—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14102) granting a pension to Mary A. M. Pettyjohn—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14103) granting a pension to Elizabeth Gibbs—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14104) granting a pension to Arelia C. Pool—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14105) granting a pension to Elizabeth Smith—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14106) granting a pension to Julia A. Patton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14107) granting a pension to Mary Rogers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14108) granting a pension to Elizabeth Mullins—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14109) granting a pension to Mary J. Prator—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14110) granting a pension to John S. Dillard—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14111) granting a pension to Louisa E. Satterfield—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14112) for the relief of the heirs of John C. Addison, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14113) for the relief of heirs of Jasper N. Martin—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14114) for the relief of the heirs of Hardy Pace, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14115) for the relief of the heirs of John B. Graham—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14116) for the relief of Mary A. Elliott—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14117) for the relief of Sanford A Pinyon—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14118) for the relief of George W. Hansard—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14119) for the relief of Jeptha B. Harrington—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14120) for the relief of G. A. Anderson—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14121) for the relief of William T. Edwards—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14122) for the relief of Thomas J. Benton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14123) for the relief of Jasper N. Martin—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14124) for the relief of Hiram A. Darnell—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14125) for the relief of N. C. Tankersley—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14126) for the relief of James B. Fowler—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14127) for the relief of Samuel Garner—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14128) for the relief of John D. Lowry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14129) for the relief of Milton Holt—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14130) for the relief of Cicero H. Taylor—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14131) for the relief of Soloman Taylor—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14132) for the relief of Abram Patton—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14133) for the relief of Andrew J. Sanders—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14134) for the relief of the First Georgia State Troops—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14135) for the relief of New Hope Baptist Church, of Bartow County, Ga.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14136) to correct the relative rank of Lieut. Frederick S. L. Price, Fourteenth Regiment of Infantry, United States Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BIRDSALL: A bill (H. R. 14137) granting an increase of pension to Jonathan Dickinson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BONYNGE: A bill (H. R. 14138) granting a pension to James W. Kuykendall—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOUTELL: A bill (H. R. 14139) granting an increase of pension to Henry Schmitt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BROWNLOW: A bill (H. R. 14140) for the relief of John W. Young—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BURNETT: A bill (H. R. 14141) granting an increase of pension to Henry T. Steffey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BURTON of Delaware: A bill (H. R. 14142) granting an increase of pension to Henry Hammond—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14143) granting an increase of pension to John Holzer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14144) granting a pension to Clarine J. Brinton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BUTLER: A bill (H. R. 14145) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Rupert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14146) granting an increase of pension to James T. Gill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14147) granting a pension to Sallie E. Pennypacker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14148) granting an honorable discharge to Alfred L. Dutton—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CANNON: A bill (H. R. 14149) granting an increase of pension to David Mitchell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAULFIELD: A bill (H. R. 14150) granting a pension to Jacob Goetz—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. COOPER of Pennsylvania: A bill (H. R. 14151) granting an increase of pension to William B. Perry—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. COX of Indiana: A bill (H. R. 14152) for the relief of Henry C. Emmerke—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. CRAWFORD: A bill (H. R. 14153) for the relief of Samuel C. Liner—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14154) for the relief of Enoch Voyles—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14155) granting a pension to J. B. Hoyle—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 14156) granting a pension to Isaac R. Zane—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DENVER: A bill (H. R. 14157) granting an increase of pension to George Talbert—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14158) granting an increase of pension to David Ledbetter—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14159) granting an increase of pension to James W. McDaniel—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14160) granting an increase of pension to Azubath Srofe—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14161) granting an increase of pension to William H. Few—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14162) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Bunn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14163) granting an increase of pension to William Frye—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14164) granting an increase of pension to David Gough—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14165) granting an increase of pension to Joshua Shaffer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14166) granting an increase of pension to Frank L. Dunlap—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14167) granting an increase of pension to Thomas L. Davis—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14168) granting a pension to William A. Vice—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14169) granting a pension to Walter Morgan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14170) granting a pension to Lovina Hesler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14171) granting a pension to James M. Nicely—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14172) granting an increase of pension to William P. Jackson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14173) granting a pension to Louisa C. Morgan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14174) granting a pension to John L. Cochmower—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14175) to remove the charge of desertion from the service record of Leander Day—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DRISCOLL: A bill (H. R. 14176) granting a pension to Sarah A. Huckman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOCHT: A bill (H. R. 14177) granting an increase of pension to John Rourke—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER of Indiana: A bill (H. R. 14178) granting an increase of pension to John R. Carrol—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14179) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth F. Reed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14180) to remove the charge of desertion against the military record of Andrew J. Spradley—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. FOULKROD: A bill (H. R. 14181) granting a pension to Elizabeth Clampitt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14182) granting a pension to Mary L. Snyder—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14183) granting an increase of pension to John H. Duncan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14184) granting an increase of pension to George Pyott—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14185) granting an increase of pension to William Mays—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14186) granting an increase of pension to Josiah Hays—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14187) for the relief of James E. Byram—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. GRAFF: A bill (H. R. 14188) granting an increase of pension to Rudolph Frey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14189) granting an increase of pension to Thaddeus S. Simpson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HACKNEY: A bill (H. R. 14190) to correct the date of muster of Company C, Lawrence County, Missouri, Home Guards—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14191) to correct the muster roll of Company C, Lawrence County, Missouri, Home Guards, by adding the name of Richard H. Landrum as second lieutenant—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14192) to correct the muster roll of Company C, Lawrence County, Missouri, Home Guards, by adding the name of William McNelis—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14193) to correct the date of muster of Captain Adams's company (L), Greene County Regiment Missouri Home Guards—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HALE: A bill (H. R. 14194) granting a pension to Sabra Shootman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14195) granting a pension to Alonzo Shootman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HAMILTON of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 14196) granting an increase of pension to John Moore—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14197) granting an increase of pension to William H. Penquite—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOWELL of New Jersey: A bill (H. R. 14198) granting an increase of pension to Almeda Clark—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14199) granting an increase of pension to George Walton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HUBBARD of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 14200) granting an increase of pension to John F. Cheney—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14201) granting an increase of pension to John Pehelder—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14202) granting an increase of pension to George F. Roberts—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14203) granting an increase of pension to George W. Argo—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HUBBARD of West Virginia: A bill (H. R. 14204) granting an increase of pension to James L. F. Sharp—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. JONES of Washington: A bill (H. R. 14205) retiring Thomas Harrison, a clerk at the Naval Observatory, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. KIPP: A bill (H. R. 14206) granting a pension to John Scott—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14207) granting a pension to William Maxfield—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14208) granting a pension to Freeman N. Dixon—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14209) granting a pension to J. H. Fox—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14210) granting a pension to H. L. Butler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14211) to remove the charge of desertion against Michael Dougherty—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14212) to remove the charge of desertion against William R. Capwell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KNOWLAND: A bill (H. R. 14213) for the relief of George F. Schild—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14214) to correct the military record of Conrad Heene—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LASSITER: A bill (H. R. 14215) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of the trustees of Smiths Grove Methodist Episcopal Church, Dinwiddie County, Va.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14216) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of the wardens of Merchants Hope Protestant Episcopal Church, Prince George County, Va.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14217) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Garys, Va.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14218) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of the trustees of Oak Grove Methodist Episcopal Church, Reams Station, Va.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LAWRENCE: A bill (H. R. 14219) granting an increase of pension to Jeremiah Book—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LEWIS: A bill (H. R. 14220) granting an increase of pension to Robert S. Rose—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14221) granting an increase of pension to Mary M. McGarrah—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14222) granting a pension to Udariah English—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14223) for the relief of the legal representatives of C. M. Bozeman, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14224) for the relief of the heirs of S. D. Fuller—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LILLEY: A bill (H. R. 14225) granting a pension to John G. Homan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14226) granting an increase of pension to George W. Child—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14227) granting a pension to Charles S. Jones—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LLOYD: A bill (H. R. 14228) granting a pension to Thomas Moody—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LONGWORTH: A bill (H. R. 14229) granting a pension to Lina V. Dietz—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14230) granting a pension to Bridget Sheridan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14231) granting an increase of pension to Pauline Joseph—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOUDENSLAGER: A bill (H. R. 14232) granting an increase of pension to Reuben R. Pitman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOVERING: A bill (H. R. 14233) granting an increase of pension to Levi L. Crane—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14234) granting an increase of pension to William Wilder—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14235) granting an increase of pension to George E. Donham—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McMILLAN: A bill (H. R. 14236) for the relief of the Merchants' National Bank of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. MANN: A bill (H. R. 14237) granting a pension to Anna S. Patrick—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: A bill (H. R. 14238) granting a pension to Patrick Collins—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. PARKER of South Dakota: A bill (H. R. 14239) to appoint Brig. Gen. Edward M. McCook, United States Volunteers, a brigadier-general on the retired list of the United States Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14240) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to investigate and cancel the allotment of William Jondron, Yankton Sioux allottee, should it prove to be fictitious—to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

By Mr. ROBINSON: A bill (H. R. 14241) for the relief of the heirs of Thomas O. Burkhead—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14242) for the relief of E. C. Young—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14243) granting to Manataka Tribe, No. 6, Independent Order of Red Men, of Hot Springs, Ark., certain rights and privileges—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. SMITH of Arizona: A bill (H. R. 14244) to remove the defect in naturalization in the case of John G. Campbell, plaintiff in suit on Indian depredation claims—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. SPARKMAN: A bill (H. R. 14245) granting an increase of pension to William H. McCormick—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14246) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Nobels—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14247) granting an increase of pension to Richard R. Russell—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. SPERRY: A bill (H. R. 14248) granting an increase of pension to Robert Stewart Duff, alias Robert Stewart—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STERLING: A bill (H. R. 14249) granting an increase of pension to Esther Reed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. THOMAS of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 14250) to amend the muster roll of Company B, Ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and place thereon the name of William C. Armstrong—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. TAYLOR of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 14251) for the relief of Robert W. Caldwell, First Regiment Ohio Heavy Artillery Volunteers—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. WILSON of Illinois: A bill (H. R. 14252) granting an increase of pension to Henry W. Evory—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14253) granting an increase of pension to Carl B. Traver—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14254) granting an increase of pension to Robert B. Craig—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14255) granting an increase of pension to Patrick Breen—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14256) granting an increase of pension to Charles Zimmerman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14257) granting an increase of pension to George Richard—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14258) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Schmitt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14259) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Morgan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By the SPEAKER: Petitions of John W. Hancock, postmaster, and 19 others, of Casey; Upton Schaub and 178 others, of Watseka; B. F. Gray, attorney, and 26 others of Momence; M. H. Bassett and 20 others, of Kankakee; Fred Mann, mayor, and 87 others, of Kankakee, all in the State of Illinois, for a volunteer retired-list law—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Joseph C. Bavard and 2 others, of Kansas City, Mo., for legislation to establish a service pension of $1 per day—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of E. E. Woods, of Toledo, Ill., against pending copyright bill—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of Charles E. Turner, of Togus, Me., in favor of the canteen in National Soldiers' Homes—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of George Seibert, sr., and 2 others, of Danville, Ill., against competition of enlisted musicians in Army and Navy—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petitions of W. H. Newlin, of Springfield; Bayard W. Wright, of Lacon; H. A. Converse, of Springfield; E. G. Schafer and F. W. Obornmiller, of Mount Pulaski; John S. Telmley, of Griggsville; Ray N. Anderson, of Pittsfield, and B. F. Baker, of Glenavon, all in the State of Illinois, for legislation granting pensions to ex-prisoners of civil war—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, memorial of J. F. Van Voorhees and 7 others, of Christian, Ill.; Edward Bigelow, of Champaign, Ill., and J. H. Knight, of Morgantown, Ind., for civil-war volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of C. C. McEarty, of Durant, Okla., relating to status of Indians in that State—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Also, petition of Latin-American Scientific Congress, for legislative provision for adequate representation at the forthcoming Pan-American Scientific Congress—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

By Mr. AIKEN: Petition of Spartanburg (S. C.) Chamber of Commerce, for Appalachian and White mountains forest-reserve bill—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of Greenville (S. C.) Board of Trade, for Appalachian and White mountains reservation bill—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. ANTHONY: Petition of R. H. Waterman and 14 other volunteer officers of civil war, for a volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Hopkins & Son, of Rossville, Kans., against parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. ANSBERRY: Petition of Highland Grange, No. 879, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. BARTHOLDT: Petition of St. Louis Hotel Men's Association, against prohibition in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, petitions of De Soto, De Andrews, William Faerber, and Rosati councils of Knights of Columbus, of St. Louis, Mo., against reclassification of second-class mail matter—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. BIRDSALL: Petition of John H. Peters and others, of Manchester, Iowa, for H. R. 6288, providing for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BONYNGE: Petition of Local Union No. 49, of the International Typographical Union, for removal of duty on white paper—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of Edwin Morgan and 81 other volunteer officers, for volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BURNETT: Paper to accompany bill for relief of William M. Kearley—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Mrs. Martha E. McKnight—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. BURTON of Ohio: One hundred and ninety-two petitions, each signed by a beneficiary of the service-pension act of February 6, 1907, all residents of Cleveland, Ohio, praying that section 3 of said act be repealed and provision made in lieu thereof for allowance and payment of a reasonable attorney's fee in manner and form as prescribed by the pensions appropriation act of July 4, 1884—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BUTLER: Petition of citizens of Chester County, Pa., against Senate bill (S. 5221) to regulate practice of osteopathy in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, petition of Methodist Episcopal Church of Coatesville, Pa., against H. R. 4003 (by Mr. PARKER of New Jersey) and H. R. 7615, for reestablishment of the Army canteen—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CALDER: Petition of Telegraphers' Union of America, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of R. J. Anderson and others, for increasing pay of storekeepers and gaugers of Internal-Revenue Service to $3 per day—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. CALDWELL: Petition of John J. Rinaker and 30 other volunteer officers and citizens of Springfield and Carlinville, for a civil-war volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. COOK of Pennsylvania: Petition of R. J. Anderson and others, for increased pay to $3 per day for storekeepers and gaugers of Internal-Revenue Service—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. DARRAGH: Petition of Johnson Drug Company and 18 other business men, of Traverse City, Mich., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. DAWSON: Petition of Clinton County Medical Society, of Iowa, for bills proposing pensions to widows of Drs. James W. Lascar and James Carroll—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, for investigation of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of George W. Hewitt Post, No. 398, of Franklin Grove, Ill., for the McKinley pension bill (H. R. 4862) providing for the equalization of widows' pensions—to the Committee on Invalid pensions.

By Mr. DE ARMOND: Paper to accompany bill for relief of David Z. Younger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DRAPER: Petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. DUNWELL: Petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of San Diego Chamber of Commerce, for appropriation to protect and improve Pearl Harbor, of Hawaiian Islands—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of Harry H. Williams, against pending copyright bill—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of N. Johannsen, for currency reform—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. ELLIS of Oregon: Petitions of Methodist Episcopal Church of Ontario, First Presbyterian Church of La Grande, and Methodist Episcopal Church of La Grande, all in the State of Oregon, for the Littlefield original-package bill—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, petition of Socialist Local Branch No. 1, La Grange, Oreg., for legislation defining conditions when Federal troops can be called for by a State—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, petition of National Guard Association of Oregon, for the retirement of Col. James Jackson, United States Army, as a brigadier-general—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of George Wright Post, No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, of Oregon, for bill for pension of Elizabeth W. Walters—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of board of governors of Portland Commercial Club, for increase of pay for Army and Navy officers—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. FITZGERALD: Petition of San Diego (Cal.) Chamber of Commerce, for additional fortifications on Pacific coast towns and places in Hawaiian Islands—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of National Association of Retail Druggists, against parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Words and Music Club of America, for legislation to protect song writers—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. FLOYD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Lowery C. Carlton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOCHT: Petition of M. M. Gilland and others, against removal of 10 per cent tax on colored oleomargarine—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. FOSTER of Illinois: Petition of C. D. Kendall and 76 other volunteer officers and citizens of the Twenty-third Illinois District, for a civil-war volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. GOLDFOGLE: Petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Petition of The Words and Music Club of America, for amendment of the copyright law in the interest of musical composers—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of San Diego Chamber of Commerce, for appropriation to improve and defend Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. HAMILTON of Iowa: Papers to accompany bills for relief of John Ferrell and Amaziah Chamberlain—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HARDY: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Penelope L. Newman—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. HUBBARD of West Virginia: Papers to accompany bills for relief of John F. Starcher and William R. Coe—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HULL of Iowa: Petition of Joseph W. Muffly and 249 other volunteer officers, for a civil-war volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. JONES of Washington: Petition of citizens of Spokane, for enactment of the Sherwood bill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Thomas Harrington, a clerk in class 4, Naval Observatory, in support of bill to retire him from active service—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. LANGLEY: Paper to accompany bill for relief of W. T. Eager—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LEVER: Petition of South Carolina Baptist Convention, against Federal laws as militating against State laws relative to the liquor traffic—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. LLOYD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Sibba Miller—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Philander J. Payne—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Thomas Moody—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOWDEN: Petition of business men and patrons of Rock Falls, Pa., for free mail delivery in towns having post-office revenue of $5,000 and over—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. KNOWLAND: Petition of San Diego (Cal.) Chamber of Commerce, for appropriation to purchase submarine torpedo boats for the Pacific coast harbors—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. McKINLEY of Illinois: Petitions of E. S. McDonald, attorney and mayor, and 158 others of Decatur, Ill.; 50 citizens of Sullivan and Moulton counties, Ill.; 26 citizens of Marva, Ill., and John L. Kirk and 52 others, for a civil-war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. McKINNEY: Petitions of volunteer officers of Aledo, Alexis, Macomb, Bushnell, Adair, Tennessee, Monmouth, Kirkwood, Moline, Colchester, Carthage, Plymouth, and Galesburg, all in the State of Illinois, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MANN: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Mrs. Anna S. Patrick—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: Petition of citizens of Boston, Mass., asking to have work of Navy sent to the Charlestown Navy-Yard—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. OVERSTREET: Petition of D. W. Edwards, of Indianapolis, for the Hepburn-Dolliver bill, embodying the original-package law, leaving States to enforce their own laws relative to the liquor traffic—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. PRINCE: Petition of board of supervisors of Henry County, Ill., favoring H. R. 4334 (Graff swamp-land bill)—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. RIORDAN: Petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. RYAN: Petition of Maritime Association of New York, for H. R. 31, to place light-house and fog signal on Governors Island—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of New York, for Senate bill (S. 25) for increased efficiency of Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. SLEMP: Petitions of Thomas J. Roberts and 37 other volunteers and 37 other volunteer officers, all of National Soldiers' Home of Virginia, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. SMALL: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Caroline Walters—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SMITH of Michigan: Petition of Sons of Veterans' Camp, No. 94, of Erie, Pa., and Army and Navy Union, for increase of pay of officers and men of Army and Navy—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. SNAPP: Petition of A. C. Little and 64 others, for a civil-war officers' volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. SPARKMAN: Petition of Navigation Conference, for a harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. STAFFORD: Petition of Cornelius Wheeler and 117 other volunteer officers of the civil war, residents of Wisconsin, for a volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. STERLING: Petition of George T. Dick and 67 other volunteer officers, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of G. W. Patton and 248 others of Pontiac, Ill., and P. E. Law and 103 others of Eureka, Ill., for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, papers to accompany bills for relief of James W. McMillen, G. R. Smith, A. W. Meyer, and William T. Gibbs—to the Commitee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. STEVENS of Minnesota: Petition of Typographical Union No. 30, of St. Paul, Minn., for removal of duty on pulp—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. TAYLOR of Alabama: Petition of Navigation Conference, for harbor of refuge at Point Judith, Rhode Island—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. TOU VELLE: Petition of Farmers' Institute of Jackson Township, Allen County, Ohio, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. WILLETT: Petition of R. J. Anderson and others, for increase of pay of storekeepers and gaugers of the Internal-Revenue Service—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, for a light and fog signal on Governors Island—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Maritime Association of Port of New York, to promote efficiency of Life-Saving Service—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of Telegraphers' Union, for investigation of telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of James Yearsley, concerning the proper division and cooperation of State and national powers and obligations—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. YOUNG: Petitions of T. W. Palmer and 250 other citizens, Dan M. Dickenson and 205 other citizens, A. B. Ledyard and 315 other citizens, Stephen F. Van Dusen and 830 other citizens, all of the State of Michigan, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, January 17, 1908.

The House met at 12 o'clock m.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. HENRY N. COUDEN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

ADJOURNMENT OVER.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I move that when the House adjourns to-day it adjourn to meet on Monday next.

The motion was agreed to.

REPRINT OF BILLS.

Mr. LENAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for a reprint of 2,000 copies of the bills (H. R. 12682), a bill to restore public confidence and safeguard the people's savings against loss through bank failures; and

H. R. 12683. A bill to provide currency to meet conditions of financial panic and commercial or crop-moving emergencies.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Pennsylvania asks unanimous consent for a reprint of the two House bills of which the Clerk will report the titles.

The Clerk reported the titles.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

BRIDGE ACROSS CHOCTAWHATCHEE RIVER, ALABAMA.

Mr. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. H. 9210) to authorize the court of county commissioners of Geneva County, Ala., to construct a bridge across the Choctawhatchee River at or near the Jones Old Ferry, in Geneva County, Ala., which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read the bill at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CLAYTON, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

BILLS ON THE PRIVATE CALENDAR.

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House for the consideration of bills on the Private Calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House for the consideration of bills on the Private Calendar, with Mr. CAPRON in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the first bill having precedence under the rules.

MATHILDE SANDGREN.

The Clerk read as follows:

House joint resolution 25.

Resolved, etc., That the Secretary of Commerce and Labor be, and he hereby is, authorized to waive the provisions of "An act to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States," approved February 20, 1907, in the case of Mathilde Sandgren if, after investigation, he deems such waiver proper.

With the following amendments:

Line 4, after the word "provisions," insert the words "of sections 2 and 10."

Line 8, after the word "proper," erase the period and insert a comma and the words "and require an undertaking against her becoming a public charge if he deem it necessary."

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the committee amendment.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I would like to have some explanation. I would like to have the report read if I can not get information in any other way.

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Chairman, I would state briefly the facts in regard to this case. This alien was rejected as being weak-minded. The facts as produced before the committee demonstrated to our satisfaction that the alien was not weak-minded. She is afflicted with a cleft palate and unable to make herself understood to those who are not familiar with her peculiar method of talking. We were satisfied from letters and other proofs that her mind was all right, that she was not of unsound mind. Besides all that, the facts show that all of her family are now in this country. Her brothers and her father are naturalized American citizens, living in Tennessee, and have been living there for twenty years. When they all came to this country she was left in Denmark with her husband. Her husband and child have since died, and she is a widow 48 years of age. She now desires to come here and join the balance of her family. They are amply able to provide for her, and are ready and willing to give a bond to secure the Government against her becoming a public charge. Under these circumstances we deem it proper that she should be admitted.

Mr. BONYNGE. May I ask the gentleman a question?

Mr. HAYES. Certainly.

Mr. BONYNGE. If this alien is not weak-minded, what is there in the statute that prevents her admission now?

Mr. HAYES. Nothing, except that the certificate of the medical officer who examined her is to the effect that she is weak-minded.

Mr. BONYNGE. Did she take an appeal to the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor

Mr. HAYES. No appeal is allowed under the law. She can not take an appeal.

Mr. BONYNGE. I simply wanted to suggest this to the gentleman from California. I served upon that committee last session. I well remember once when we passed a bill of this character we were flooded with several within a few days after, indicating that if we commenced to waive the provisions of the statute we would have in a short time a number of similar bills, requiring, perhaps, the constant attention of the House.

Mr. HAYES. I desire to state, in reply to the suggestion of the gentleman from Colorado, that the committee are in harmony with his views upon this subject, but this being a case where the immigration officials are clearly in error, and a mistake has been made, the only possible way to correct that mistake is in the manner we are proceeding to correct it.

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I desire to make a statement in regard to this bill. I am the author of this resolution, and the party for whose benefit sections 2 and 10 are sought to be waived is the daughter of a constituent of mine who lives in the adjoining county to me. The father, mother, three brothers, and the sister of this alien came to this country about nineteen years ago from Denmark, leaving this daughter, the oldest child, in Denmark. She was married at that time. She, as a noble and devoted wife should, preferred to remain with her husband in Denmark. She chose then that his home should be her home and his people should be her people. Her father and brothers upon coming here became naturalized citizens of America. They are citizens now, among the very best citizens in the State of Tennessee and the United States of America. Since that time the daughter who remained in Denmark had the misfortune to lose her husband, also her only child, by death. Now she seeks to come to America to her father, mother, and brothers and sister, who are citizens of this Government now. Upon her arrival at New York she was examined and refused admission upon the ground that she might become a public charge. She was unable, in her enfeebled condition, through the interpreter that was afforded her, to make herself understood, and she was deported forthwith back to Denmark. After that her brother left Tennessee, went to Denmark, and brought her back to New York, where again she was held up. Proof had been introduced before showing clearly there was no likelihood or possibility of her becoming a public charge. Upon that, then, the doctor to whom she was referred made the report that she was feeble-minded. Now, there was an amount of proof taken, which I had taken myself and forwarded as soon as I could get it to the officials there, after I learned that she was held up, but before this proof got there she was deported, and sent back without a hearing of this proof as to the facts. Now, I am satisfied, and the record in the case bears out this statement, that this woman is not weak-minded. She had the misfortune to have a cleft palate. Her father sent her to school when a child seven years and had her fairly well educated under the educational institutions of Denmark. He had this cleft palate operated upon, and it was improved to some extent, but it still remained difficult for her to make herself understood to strangers. Therefore she was not able to make herself understood to the interpreter and state her case fairly before the physician who was to pass upon the question of her feeble-mindedness. She is without fortune, and her parents are paying her board now, in Denmark, and they want her to come to this country so they can have her in the bosom of her own family while she may yet be spared to live.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. I will ask the gentleman from Tennessee whether it is not within the power of the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who is most painstaking at all times in the consideration of these cases——

Mr. HOUSTON. I will say to the gentleman——

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Let me finish my question.

Mr. HOUSTON. You have asked me a question, and now I am going to answer it.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Only I have not finished the question. I was about to ask whether the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who is very painstaking in the consideration of all these matters and very liberal indeed in his views, has the power to order a reexamination or not and the power to direct the admission of an alien, if he is satisfied that no harm can come to the country and no violation of law be committed by such alien's admission?

Mr. HOUSTON. I want to state to the gentleman that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, as I understand it, has no power to waive the provision of the law regulating the admission of aliens into this country. Not even an appeal could be taken from the board of examiners who examined this alien, and not even, I think, can the certificate of the doctor be questioned under the immigration laws of the United States; and, furthermore, I want to say this: That the difficulty of speech that this woman has, with her enfeebled condition, makes it a proper case where the section should be waived as to her, because upon the real merits of it she is not subject to this objection. I have the proof on file in the records showing that this woman is sound-minded. I have the letters that were written by her after she was sent back to Denmark, to her sister here. I have heard those letters read—I could not read them myself—but they were translated and read by this sister. They evince beyond question to any fair-minded person that she is not feeble-minded. The mother of this alien went to Denmark about two years ago to visit this daughter. There was nothing wrong with her mind then. This is proven by the sworn affidavit of the mother. The father and brothers also bear testimony to this. All the evidence within reach has been brought out, and I think it is ample to sustain the position that she is not weak-minded in the sense that this law contemplates. I will say this: That she may have been so distressed, so perturbed in mind, in her weakened physical condition, that she so impressed the physician at the time. But she is not feeble-minded in the sense of that term in the immigration law.

Furthermore, I want to say that, in common justice and in the name of humanity to this afflicted daughter of an American citizen, that she ought not to be subjected to this trial and ordeal now. Her people are able to take care of her. She is at an age when no evil results can come. There can be no evil results from any offspring in this case, even if she was weak-minded. It is a case that appeals to the humanity of the House and the American people to let this sister come to this country, regardless of her enfeebled condition. But the proof shows this feebleness was only bodily infirmity. I want to say, furthermore, that the statements I have made are borne out by the record in this case. I have a certified copy of the transcript of the record that was furnished me by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor as to the real facts in this case. The proof is ample to sustain every statement that I have made. It was submitted to the committee, and after consideration by that committee they unanimously recommended the passage of this bill. It is the unanimous recommendation. I desire to emphasize the report of the committee, who had the facts and sworn testimony in this case before them. [Applause.]

Mr. BENNET of New York. Mr. Chairman, as a member of the Immigration Committee, who assisted in reporting this bill, I want to urge the passage of it. I want to call the attention of the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. BONYNGE] to the fact, since my unfortunate experience in relation to the resolution to which he refers, although many resolutions have come, as he says, to the Committee on Immigration, we have reported none of them. But this was a case where every member of the committee present was satisfied that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor ought at least to have the right to look into it. If he sees fit after he has looked into it, because that is all the bill does, then he ought to have the power to let the woman in. She is 48 years of age. She is a widow, and she is able to write intelligent letters, and how a woman like that can be called feeble-minded is a question that we would like to have the Secretary of Commerce and Labor given an opportunity to pass upon. The gentleman from Colorado [Mr. BONYNGE] of course recalls that under section 10 it is impossible to appeal. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor has been consulted and he is willing to have this responsibility placed upon him.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Certainly.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Does not this case indicate the necessity of amending the immigration acts so as to permit an appeal from the decision of the surgeon?

Mr. BENNET of New York. It may do that, and if that question were up I would be glad to discuss it. But this House is against letting down the safeguards in general. We are not urging that now.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Not urging letting down the safeguards? I understand that under the law the certificate of the examining physician is conclusive.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Yes.

Mr. FITZGERALD. And that it is impossible to have the action of the examining physician reviewed by any power?

Mr. BENNET of New York. In cases such as this.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Certainly.

Mr. MANN. The Committee on Immigration now has a small room over here in this building. Does the gentleman think that if we should assign to that committee a large room in the Office Building they would then be able to accommodate the flood of applications to have this law modified as the gentleman proposes in this case?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Respectfully referred to the committee.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman does not answer. Does not the gentleman know that in this he would be creating a precedent for a large number of cases that could be sent to their committee by every Member of this House?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Our committee is perfectly willing to take the responsibility. As I pointed out to the gentleman from Colorado, we have not reported out one of these resolutions to which he has referred.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman's committee are willing to take the responsibility——

Mr. BENNET of New York. Yes.

Mr. MANN. Of taking up a particular bill whenever a Member has a bill which, like this one, seeks to set aside the provisions of the law.

Mr. BENNET of New York. In this particular instance. There are always hard cases that require special bills, or else there would be no special bills.

Mr. MANN. I can certainly certify that there are hard cases. I have had my attention called to several dozens myself since this bill became law, equally meritorious with this that is now presented.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Why not introduce a general bill and let it be referred to the committee, and our committee will consider it?

Mr. MANN. The gentleman now addressing the House opposed the proposition of the gentleman from New York when the bill was pending for passage. But the gentleman was sustained by the House. Now I am for sustaining the law which the gentleman put through the House, and not modify it merely because somebody goes before the committee with an appealing case. I will guarantee that I could present to the committee twenty-five cases, just as strongly appealing cases as this case, and a good many Members of the House could do better.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Just to correct the gentleman, the particular provision to which he refers did not come before the Fifty-ninth Congress last year. That is not a new proposition at all. It has been in the law since 1903. The gentleman may have opposed it then.

Mr. MANN. I opposed it then just the same.

Mr. BENNET of New York. There was no specific allusion last year to this particular part of the act. This particular case of this poor unfortunate woman is one of such merit that regardless of the cases which the gentleman from Illinois may have had and which he has not brought to the attention of the committee at all—

Mr. MANN. And which he will not.

Mr. BENNET of New York. For which we thank him—this particular bill ought to pass.

Mr. HOUSTON. Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that this is a case that upon its merits is worthy of consideration and passage. It is worth while to take the time of this House; it is worth while to trouble the Members of the House with the consideration of a case that has the merit in it that this case has; and if the gentleman from Illinois has a dozen cases equally as meritorious, he ought to bring them before this House to be considered by it. [Applause.] I feel that my constituents are entitled to this consideration here and to have their family reunited, and I would feel that I was remiss in my duty to my constituents if I did not take the time to prepare this resolution and to insist upon its passage here. They have just as much right as any other American citizen to a hearing and a consideration by this Congress. All that is desired here is to have this law modified so that she can come to them. [Applause.] I say this House can do no better business and engage in no worthier work than give consideration to a bill of this kind, which is to give relief to American citizens and America's own people.

Now, I want to add one other word. We provide against this party becoming a public charge. There is a provision for a bond to be given in the discretion of the Secretary that this person will not become a public charge. The bill provides that the parties shall give a bond, which they are amply able to give, and they are willing to give it if it is required, but it will not be. They have prospered and thrived in this country, and, while not rich, they are self-sustaining, industrious people. They have built themselves up a substantial business. They are the owners of American soil, and they are able to take care of their sister. In the name of humanity, I ask this House to give this aged father and mother, these brothers and this sister, who is the wife of a good, native-born American citizen and the mother of native American children and a woman that is an ornament to any land or country, the right to open their doors and arms to their sister and daughter who is now being kept away from them. [Applause.]

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. Mr. Chairman, I want to say to the gentleman from Illinois that if we should stand by the rules and regulations and strictly enforce them we would not be able to bring in a single pension case. This is an exceptional case. It has been referred to our committee, we have examined the bill, and we unanimously recommend that it be passed.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Chairman, it is never pleasant to oppose a proposition in behalf of an old lady. My friend at my left says that he considers it his duty to come before Congress and ask that the law be waived in behalf of his constituent. I never yet have, and I hope I never will, consider it my duty to any constituent or other person to appear before the House and ask that the law be waived in behalf of such constituent. Let them stand upon the same footing. If the law ought to be changed, let the gentleman's committee or the proper committee bring in the necessary change of the law. Of course these harsh cases arise under this stringent immigration law which we have. It constantly occurs that some friend or relative of a family already in this country is met at the gateway and ordered deported. Do we propose in Congress to consider each of these cases, or do we propose to leave it as the law provides? If the law ought to provide an appeal, let the appeal be provided. It is idle to say that Congress can consider each of these cases upon its merits. Why should we select out for consideration the case which the gentlemen presents to this body in preference to other cases? If the law is wrong, change the law. If the law is right, enforce the law. There are many committees of this House which have pending before them propositions to modify laws in behalf of particular individuals who wish special favors in their behalf. I say that we can afford to enforce a general law, if the law ought to be enforced; and if it ought not to be enforced, then it ought to be amended or appealed.

Mr. GOLDFOGLE. Mr. Chairman, the case as stated by the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. HOUSTON] is one that I am sure enlists our sympathy. It is a case in which I wish, and I am sure that the Members of the House wish, this woman could be admitted under some direction of the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, if, indeed, the facts are as stated on the floor. But I do believe that we ought not, in individual cases, to pass resolutions so that one alien may be admitted while a great many others whose cases are equally meritorious are excluded. I have found that the Department of Commerce and Labor, under the direction of its able and distinguished Secretary, has been very fair in passing upon appeals that came to the Department. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor has demonstrated time and time again, when rulings were made at different ports of entry that were not in consonance with justice and fairness, that he was ready and anxious to correct any wrong, and many an alien who had been ordered deported by boards of special inquiry was promptly admitted by direction of the able Secretary of that Department.

Now, this is a very early stage of the session. It is possible for one or two or three or four Members of the House to get consideration of the committee to whom this resolution was referred and obtain a favorable report; but how about later, when Members of this House will be appealed to to pass special bills in similar exceptional cases—when those who come from districts where many foreign-born people dwell shall ask Members to pass special bills and point to this case as a precedent? How then will the Members of this House justify themselves to their constituencies and say to them, "We can not get your special bills passed?" This case will be pointed to as the one in which Congress is ready to waive, in particular and special instances, the provisions of the immigration bill.

This case, as stated by my friend from Tennessee [Mr. HOUSTON], appeals very strongly to me. I do not like to oppose the resolution. I very reluctantly rise in my place here to insist that there ought to be no special exceptions made in the Congress of the United States unless for very grave and emergent reasons—unless there be fair opportunity afforded equally to all other Members to secure such special legislation. We can conceive of a hundred and one cases arising later on, when we shall be busy with the great appropriation bills, when our attention will be given to important matters of State, when we shall be called upon early and late to discuss and pass upon matters that gravely affect the conditions of the whole country, and I know, and every gentleman on this floor knows, that it will be next to impossible for any Member of this House to get privileges similar to those that are now asked by the gentleman from Tennessee. I apprehend we are setting a bad precedent now, and that we are placing in our own way stumbling blocks for the future that will embarrass many of the Members of this House. I do think that our general laws should be so amended that if there be want of power in the Department such as is claimed, that then the authority in the Department of Commerce and Labor should be broadened and enlarged.

Mr. GOULDEN. Mr. Chairman, I regret exceedingly that I am unable to agree with my learned and distinguished colleague from New York [Mr. GOLDFOGLE]. [Applause.] I have carefully observed, on visits to Ellis Island in the last seven or eight years, the workings of the immigration law, both old and new. I further had the honor of introducing a bill that was largely ingrafted into the present immigration law, and I believe that this is a case that upon its merits should be made an exception.

I do not believe that any law is so hidebound that there should not be an exception made in favor of it when justice demands it. [Applause.] We must not be too technical in matters of this character. Mr. Chairman, I believe this is a case in which we may err, but if we do so, it will be on the side of humanity, on the side of justice, on the side of mercy, and I therefore trust that the resolution offered by the gentleman from Tennessee will prevail. [Applause.]

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the committee amendments.

The question was taken, and the committee amendments were agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside to be reported to the House with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM S. O'BRIEN.

The first pension business was the bill (H. R. 2949) granting an increase of pension to William Smith O'Brien.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Smith O'Brien, late of Company B, Eighty-sixth Ohio Infantry, Company I, Tenth Ohio Infantry, and second lieutenant Company G, Tenth Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Smith" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "S."

In the same line strike out the words "late of Company B, Eighty-sixth," and all of line 7.

In line 8, before the word "lieutenant," insert the word "late first."

In the same line strike out the letter "G" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "C."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to William S. O'Brien."

CHARLES M'COY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2363) granting an increase of pension to Charles McCoy.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Charles McCoy, late of Company A, One hundred and ninety-second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

SQUIRE J. CARLIN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 586) granting an increase of pension to Squire J. Carlin.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Squire J. Carlin, late of Company A, Twenty-first Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $60 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "sixty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN H. NUTTER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2755) granting an increase of pension to John H. Nutter.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John H. Nutter, late of Company B, First Regiment New Hampshire Heavy Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 7, before the word "Heavy," insert the word "Volunteer."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

AMOS W. POLLEY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6872) granting an increase of pension to Amos W. Polley.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Amos W. Polley, late of Company A, One hundred and first Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and Company I, One hundred and sixty-ninth Regiment Ohio National Guard, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8, after the word "Guard," insert the word "Infantry."

In line 9 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MATHEW B. REID.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10168) granting an increase of pension to Matthew B. Reid.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Matthew B. Reid, late of Company E, Seventy-sixth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Matthew" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Mathew."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Mathew B. Reid."

ALBERT BUTLER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10411) granting an increase of pension to Albert Butler.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Albert Butler, late of Company H and Company E, One hundred and ninety-seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "and Company E."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MARY E. YOUNG.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8013) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Young.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Mary E. Young, widow of William F. Young, late of Excelsior Brigade, Seventy-fourth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In lines 6 and 7 strike out the words "of Excelsior Brigade" and insert in lieu thereof the words "sergeant-major."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "sixteen."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM H. MIZE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2101) granting an increase of pension to William H. Mize.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William H. Mize, late of Company D, Fourteenth Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HENRY C. PALMER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1035) granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Palmer.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry C. Palmer, late of Company A, Seventh Regiment Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, and Company A, Twentieth Veteran Reserve Corps, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Twentieth," insert the word "Regiment."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

RODOLPHUS BARD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2407) granting an increase of pension to Rudolphus Bard.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Rudolphus Bard, late of Company I, One hundred and fourth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Rudolphus" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Rodolphus."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Rodolphus Bard."

JOHN H. OAKLEY, ALIAS JOHN HOYT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4333) granting an increase of pension to John H. Oakley, alias John Hoyt.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John H. Oakley, alias John Hoyt, late of Company H, First Regiment New York Volunteer Light Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALONZO HARTER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4332) granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Harter.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Alonzo Harter, late of Company E, One hundred and thirtieth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JAMES R. BATTEN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8774) granting an increase of pension to James R. Batten.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of James R. Batten, late of Company A, One hundred and twelfth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CHARLES I. KRICKBAUM.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3180) granting an increase of pension to Charles I. Krickbaum.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Charles I. Krickbaum, late of Company A, One hundred and ninety-ninth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JAMES R. GRIDER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3341) granting an increase of pension to James R. Grider.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of James R. Grider, late of Company G, Second Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $72 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-two" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

EDWIN H. BUCK.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3325) granting a pension to Edwin H. Buck.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Edwin H. Buck, late of Company F, Fifty-second Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and Company C, Eighth Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Eighth," insert the word "Regiment."

In line 9 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

In the same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Edwin H. Buck."

HENRY SMITH.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8462) granting an increase of pension to Henry Smith.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry Smith, late of Company G, Twelfth Regiment Connecticut Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Company" and insert in lieu thereof the words "Companies."

In the same line, after the letter "G," insert the words "and D."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

THOMAS JOHNSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8088) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Johnson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Thomas Johnson, late of Company L, Fourteenth Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "late," strike out the word "of" and insert in lieu thereof the words "first lieutenant."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

FRANK N. BEMENT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2408) granting an increase of pension to Frank N. Bement.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Frank N. Bement, late of Company I, One hundred and fiftieth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $72 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-two" and insert in lieu thereof the word "forty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DELOSS HOPKINS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7333) granting an increase of pension to De Loss Hopkins.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of De Loss Hopkins, late of Company A, Seventy-fifth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $72 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "De Loss" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Deloss."

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-two" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Deloss Hopkins."

EDWIN T. FARMER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7865) granting an increase of pension to Edwin T. Farmer.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Edwin T. Farmer, late of Company E, Ninety-fifth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8, after the word "of," where it first occurs, strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN H. BOND.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3767) granting an increase of pension to John H. Bond.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John H. Bond, late of Company D, Ninety-fifth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MILES C. CHRISTY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4405) granting an increase of pension to Miles C. Christy.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Miles C. Christy, late of Company D, Eighth Regiment Iowa Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM BAIN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4516) granting an increase of pension to William Bain.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Bain, late of Company G, Eighty-second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infaptry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM WINTER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3842) granting an increase of pension to William Winter.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Winter, late of Company A, Twelfth Illinois Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "Twelfth," insert the word "Regiment."

In the same line, after the word "Illinois," insert the word "Volunteer."

In line 7 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HENRY A. RICE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8237) granting an increase of pension to Henry A. Rice.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry A. Rice, late of Company G, Thirtieth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HENRY C. HOOVER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1884) granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Hoover.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry C. Hoover, late of Company G, Two hundred and ninth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM B. P. TURNER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2803) granting an increase of pension to William B. P. Turner.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William B. P. Turner, late of Company G, Ninety-second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, before the word "and," insert the words "and Sixty-sixth Company, Second Battalion Veteran Reserve Corps."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CHARLES W. WHEAT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3628) granting an increase of pension to Charles W. Wheat.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Charles W. Wheat, late of Companies C and H, Ninth Regiment Kansas Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "C and H" and insert in lieu thereof the words "H and C."

In line 7 strike out the word "Artillery" and insert in lieu thereof the words "Volunteer Cavalry."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MARTHA ANDREWS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1990) granting an increase of pension to Martha Andrews.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Martha Andrews, widow of Samuel Andrews, late of Company I, One hundred and forty-eighth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 9 strike out the word "twenty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "sixteen."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HARRISON BURKETT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1501) granting an increase of pension to Harrison Burkett.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Harrison Burkett, late of Company M, Sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Heavy Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALEXANDER W. SKINNER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1036) granting an increase of pension to Alexander W. Skinner.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Alexander W. Skinner, dependent father of Charles H. Skinner, late of Company F, Second Battalion, Fourteenth Regiment United States Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 9 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM LITTLE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2974) granting an increase of pension to William Little.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Little, late of Company D, Seventh Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE F. NICHOLS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3334) granting an increase of pension to George Frederick Nichols.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George Frederick Nichols, late colonel of the One hundred and eighteenth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry and brevet brigadier-general, and pay him a pension at the rate of $100 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Frederick" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "F.;" in same line strike out the words "of the."

In line 7 strike out the word "and."

In line 8 strike out the words "brevet brigadier-general."

In line 9 strike out the words "one hundred" and insert in lieu thereof the word "fifty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to George F. Nichols."

FERDINAND STRITSMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2864) granting an increase of pension to Ferdinand Stritsman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Ferdinand Stritsman, late of Company H, One hundred and sixty-ninth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN N. HUBBARD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10630) granting an increase of pension to John N. Hubbard.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John N. Hubbard, late of Company A, Seventh Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALFRED G. ANDERSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 11407) granting an increase of pension to Alfred G. Anderson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Alfred G. Anderson, late of Company C, Sixty-fourth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "of Company C" and insert in lieu thereof the words "hospital steward."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN M. ESSINGTON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2425) granting an increase of pension to J. M. Essington.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of J. M. Essington, late captain Company B, Seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the letter "J." and insert in lieu thereof the word "John."

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to John M. Essington."

JACOB WILER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8249) granting an increase of pension to Jacob Wiler.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Jacob Wiler, late of Company F, Sixty-fourth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty," and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MARY CROSS AND ANNA L. CROSS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 5977) granting a pension to Mary Cross and Anna L. Cross.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the names of Mary Cross and Anna L. Cross, dependent children of Garrett Cross, late of Company B, Fourteenth Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and pay them a pension at the rate of $24 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, before the word "dependent," insert the words "helpless and."

In line 8, after the word "them," insert the word "each."

In line 9 strike out the word "twenty-four" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twelve."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CECILIA QUINLAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 9328) granting an increase of pension to Cecilia Quinlan.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Cecilia Quinlan, widow of James Quinlan, late lieutenant-colonel Eighty-eighth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twelve."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

LUCY FERGUSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2934) granting an increase of pension to Lucy Ferguson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Lucy Ferguson, widow of Robert Ferguson, late of Company I, Ninth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving: Provided, That in the event of the death of Leona May Ferguson, helpless and dependent child of said Robert Ferguson, one-half the pension herein granted shall cease and determine: And provided further, That in the event of the death of the said Lucy Ferguson the name of the said Leona May Ferguson shall be placed on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, at the rate of $12 per month from and after the date of the death of said Lucy Ferguson.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "twenty-four" and insert the word "twenty."

In line 8 strike out the word "four."

In line 11 strike out the words "one-half the" and insert in lieu thereof the word "additional."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELIZABETH B. THOMASON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10437) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth B. Thomason.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Elizabeth B. Thomason, widow of Samuel E. Thomason, late of Fourteenth and One hundred and seventy-sixth Regiments New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the words "of Fourteenth and" and insert in lieu thereof the words "captain Company H."

In same line and in line 8 strike out the word "Regiments" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Regiment."

In line 9 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "sixteen."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

FRANK D. NEWBERRY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2940) granting a pension to Frank D. Newberry.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Frank D. Newberry, late of Company A, Thirty-second Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "Company," insert the words "K, Fifth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and captain Company."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

In same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Frank D. Newberry."

MARY A. DEFENDALL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4315) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Defendall.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Mary A. Defendall, widow of Abram Defendall, late of Company I, One hundred and forty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving: Provided, That in the event of the death of Elbert M. Defendall, helpless and dependent child of said Abram Defendall, the additional pension herein granted shall cease and determine: And provided further, That in the event of the death of Mary A. Defendall the name of said Elbert M. Defendall shall be placed on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, at the rate of $12 per month from and after the date of death of said Mary A Defendall.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ANNIE M. OWEN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4126) granting an increase of pension to Annie M. Owen.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Annie M. Owen, widow of William H. Owen, late of Troop C, Fifth Regiment United States Cavalry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving: Provided further, That in the event of the death of William De Witt Owen, helpless and dependent child of said William H. Owen, the additional pension herein granted shall cease and determine: And provided further, That in the event of the death of Annie M. Owen the name of said William De Witt Owen shall be placed on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, at the rate of $12 per month from and after the date of death of said Annie M. Owen.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CYNTHIA BRIDGES.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 9573) granting an increase of pension to Cynthia Bridges.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Cynthia Bridges, widow of John H. Bridges, late of Company K, Sixtieth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "twelve" and insert in lieu thereof the word "sixteen."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

RHODA LLOYD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1060) granting an increase of pension to Rhoda Lloyd.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Rhoda Lloyd, widow of Anthony Lloyd, late of Company C, One hundred and forty-sixth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "twelve" and insert in lieu thereof the word "eight."

In line 9 strike out the words "in lieu of that she is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting a pension to Rhoda Lloyd."

ANNA M. BOHN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2364) granting an increase of pension to Anna M. Bohn.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Anna M. Bohn, widow of George F. Bohn, late of Company B, Sixty-eighth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving: Provided, however, That in the event of the death of the helpless child, Frank A. Bohn, on whose account the pension of Anna M. Bohn is increased, the pension of said Anna M. Bohn shall continue at the rate of $12 per month from and after the date of death of said helpless child.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 10 strike out the words "of the helpless child" and all of lines 11, 12, 13, and 14, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "of Frank A. Bohn, helpless and dependent child of said George F. Bohn, the additional pension herein granted shall cease and determine: And provided further, That in the event of the death of Anna M. Bohn the name of said Frank A. Bohn shall be placed on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, at the rate of $12 per month from and after the date of death of said Anna M. Bohn."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE W. FUCHS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2935) granting an increase of pension to George W. Fuchs.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George W. Fuchs, late first lieutenant of Company I, Twenty-fourth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALBERT HOFFMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10309) granting an increase of pension to Albert Hoffman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Albert Hoffman, late of Company B, Fifty-third Regiment, and Company C, Fourth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the words "and Company C, Fourth Regiment."

In line 9 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALONZO PENNOCK.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 5978) granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Pennock.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Alonzo Pennock, late of Company G, Fourth Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $72 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-two" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

Mr. SULLOWAY. I move that the bill be laid on the table. The beneficiary has since died.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, it will be so ordered. The Chair hears no objection.

JOHN H. MONK.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4666) granting a pension to John H. Monk.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John H. Monk, late of Company F, One hundred and seventy-seventh Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

In line 9, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to John H. Monk."

GEORGE S. NEILL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4148) granting an increase of pension to George S. Neill.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George S. Neill, late of Company A, One hundred and eighty-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $35 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

REBECCA W. SWAIN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4487) granting an increase of pension to Rebecca W. Swain.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Rebecca W. Swain, widow of Robert D. Swain, late second lieutenant Company K, Ninth Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE F. LAIRD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10379) granting an increase of pension to George F. Laird.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George F. Laird, late of Company D, Sixth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MARY J. BAUGHMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4330) granting an increase of pension to Mary J. Baughman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Mary J. Baughman, widow of ———, late of Company I, Sixth Regiment Tennessee Volunteer Cavalry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, before the word "late," insert the words "John R. Baughman."

In line 8 strike out the word "twenty-four" and insert the word "twenty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN R. MILLER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4249) granting an increase of pension to John R. Miller.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John R. Miller, late of Company G, Thirty-eighth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JENNIE S. RISLEY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4485) granting an increase of pension to Jennie S. Risley.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Jennie S. Risley, widow of D. Somers Risley, late first lieutenant Company B, Twenty-fifth Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ADAM MEYER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4175) granting a pension to Adam Meyer.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Adam Meyer, late of Company A, Fourth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

In the same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Adam Meyer."

THEODORE CAMPBELL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4752) granting an increase of pension to Theodore Campbeli.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Theodore Campbeli, late of Company E, Second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

SAMUEL L. BUSHONG.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6484) granting an increase of pension to Samuel L. Bushong.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the names of Samuel L. Bushong, late of Company I, Forty-ninth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MICHAEL M'DONALD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8662) granting an increase of pension to Michael McDonald.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Michael McDonald, late of Company E, Fourteenth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DANIEL S. GRAVES.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 9060) granting an increase of pension to Daniel S. Graves.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Daniel S. Graves, late of Company K, Seventy-fourth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the letter "K" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "C."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

TILGHMAN SCHOLL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10306) granting an increase of pension to Tilghman Scholl.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pensions laws, the name of Tilghman Scholl, late of Company E, One hundred and seventy-sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HENRY KNAUFF.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10019) granting a pension to Henry Knauff.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry Knauff, formerly a sergeant in Company K, Second Regiment Missouri Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

SEC. 2. That this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "formerly a sergeant in" and insert in lieu thereof the words "late of."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

In same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

Strike out all of lines 9 and 10.

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry Knauff."

JOHN E. COOGLE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 9041) granting an increase of pension to John E. Coogle.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John E. Coogle, late of Company , One hundred and forty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $25 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "Company," insert the letter "B."

In line 8 strike out the word "twenty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN MILLER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6651) granting an increase of pension to John Miller.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John Miller, late of Company D, Thirty-ninth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

EDWARD N. BURNS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7275) granting an increase of pension to Edward N. Burns.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Edward N. Burns, late of Company D, One hundred and twenty-first Regiment Indiana Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In lines 6 and 7 strike out the words "One hundred and twenty-first" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Ninth."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE W. RICHARDSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7316) granting a pension to George W. Richardson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George W. Richardson, helpless son of Caleb C. Richardson, late of Company E, Eighty-seventh Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $20 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "helpless," insert the words "and dependent."

In line 9 strike out the word "twenty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twelve."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN SHADINGER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7884) granting an increase of pension to John Shadinger.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John Shadinger, late of Company E, Thirty-eighth Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

BARBARA POPP.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10858) granting an increase of pension to Barbara Popp.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Barbara Popp, widow of Martin Popp, late of Company H, Forty-sixth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ASAHEL E. CHAFFEE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 9283) granting an increase of pension to A. E. Chaffee.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pensions laws, the name of A. E. Chaffee, late of Company K, One hundred and ninety-third Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the letter "A" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Asahel."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Asahel E. Chaffee."

ANN TOOMEY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6398) granting an increase of pension to Ann Toomey.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Ann Toomey, widow of Robert L. Toomey, alias Robert Lannon, late surgeon-steward, United States ship Petomska, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the word "ship" and insert in lieu thereof the word "ships."

In lines 7 and 8 strike out the word "Petomska" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Potomska."

In line 8, before the word "and," insert the words "and Vermont, United States Navy."

In same line strike out the word "twenty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twelve."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The committee informally rose; and Mr. SHERMAN having taken the chair as Speaker pro tempore, a message from the Senate, by Mr. PARKINSON, one of its secretaries, announced that the Senate had passed bills of the following titles, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested:

S. 3955. An act to provide for the erection of a post-office building at New York City, N. Y.;

S. 3495. An act to authorize the transfer of books from the Treasury Department library to life-saving stations of the United States;

S. 2981. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Colorado Springs, Colo.;

S. 3336. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Wheeling, W. Va.;

S. 2872. An act to amend an act to amend section 4 of an act entitled "An act relating to the Metropolitan police of the District of Columbia," approved February 28, 1901;

S. 2295. An act to extend the time within which the Washington and Western Maryland Railroad Company shall be required to complete the road of said company, under the provisions of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1889, as amended by an act of Congress approved June 28, 1906;

S. 2029. An act providing for the appointment of members of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia and of the Board of Children's Guardians;

S. 903. An act to amend section 2, chapter 433, Thirtieth Statutes at Large, entitled "An act to confirm title to lots 13 and 14 in square 959, in Washington, D. C.;"

S. 721. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office at Alexandria, Minn.;

S. 37. An act to transfer jurisdiction of the Washington Aqueduct, the filtration plant, and appurtenances to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia; and

S. 4048. An act granting an increase of pension to certain soldiers and sailors of the civil war and certain widows of such soldiers and sailors.

The committee resumed its session.

CHRISTOPHER N. SNYDER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2341) granting an increase of pension to Christopher N. Snyder.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Christopher N. Snyder, late of Company K, Eighty-ninth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Infantry," insert the words "and Companies D and G, First Regiment Mississippi Marine Brigade Volunteer Cavalry."

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELIHU WHEELER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2850) granting an increase of pension to Elihu Wheeler.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Elihu Wheeler, late of Company K, Thirtieth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

OLIVER P. JOHNSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3215) granting a pension to Oliver P. Johnson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Oliver P. Johnson, late of Company D, First Regiment Missouri State Militia Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Oliver P. Johnson."

MARY E. JOHNSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4695) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Johnson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Mary E. Johnson, widow of Samuel F. Johnson, late lieutenant-colonel Fifty-second Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Infantry and colonel Seventeenth Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the word "lieutenant-colonel" and insert in lieu thereof the word "colonel."

In same line strike out the word "Fifty-second" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Seventeenth."

In lines 8 and 9 strike out the words "Infantry and colonel Seventeenth Regiment Kentucky Volunteer."

In line 9 strike out the words "Volunteer Cavalry."

In line 10 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-five."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

J. R. HARWELL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 10937) granting a pension to J. R. Harwell.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Dr. J. R. Harwell, age 72 years, acting assistant surgeon, United States Army, 1864, Nashville, Tenn., and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Doctor."

In same line strike out the words "age 72 years, acting" and insert in lieu thereof the words "late contract."

In line 7 strike out the word "assistant."

In same line strike out the words "eighteen hundred."

In line 8 strike out the words "and sixty-four, Nashville, Tenn."

In line 9 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "fifteen."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM SAUNDERS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 11856) granting a pension to William Saunders.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Saunders, late of Company B, One hundred and forty-seventh Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "late," strike out the word "of" and insert in lieu thereof the words "first lieutenant."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

In the same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to William Saunders."

BENSON S. PHILBRICK.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 7088) granting an increase of pension to Benson S. Philbrick.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Benson S. Philbrick, late of Company B, Twenty-seventh Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN C. PETERS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3454) granting an increase of pension to John C. Peters.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John C. Peters, late of Twenty-sixth Battery, New York Volunteer Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Volunteer," insert the word "Light."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MORTON A. WILCOX.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6827) granting a pension to Morton A. Wilcox.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Morton A. Wilcox, helpless and dependent son of Truman Wilcox, late a private in Company H, Seventeenth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $12 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the words "a private in" and insert in lieu thereof the word "of."

In line 8 strike out the words "New York" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Vermont."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MARGARET CORNWELL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2861) granting an increase of pension to Margaret Cornwell.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Margaret Cornwell, widow of John F. Cornwell, late of Company E, One hundred and seventy-seventh Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELIZABETH EVANS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3337) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Evans.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitatiosn of the pension laws, the name of Elizabeth Evans, widow of Harvey Evans, late of Company D, Ninth Regiment Kansas Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Harvey" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Harry."

In line 7 strike out the word "Infantry" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Cavalry."

In line 8 strike out the word "twenty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "sixteen."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HERBERT F. BROOKS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1487) granting an increase of pension to Herbert F. Brooks.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Herbert F. Brooks, late of Company G, Tenth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN MESS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2899) granting an increase of pension to John Mess.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John Mess, late of Company C, Forty-sixth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $35 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

LEWIS W. CRAIN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 5317) granting an increase of pension to Lewis W. Crain.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Lewis W. Crain, late of Company H, Fifth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE TAYLOR, ALIAS GEORGE PARKS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3453) granting an increase of pension to George Taylor, alias George Parks.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George Taylor, alias George Parks, late of Company C, Second Provisional Regiment Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the words "Second Provisional" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Sixth."

In same line, after the word "Regiment," insert the words "New York."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

PALMER LOPER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4371) granting an increase of pension to Palmer Loper.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Palmer Loper, late of Company E, Eighteenth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DAVID WOOD.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4189) granting an increase of pension to David Wood.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of David Wood, late of Company I, First Regiment West Virginia Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, before the word "Cavalry," insert the word "Volunteer."

In same line strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

EDWARD T. TUCKER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6046) granting an increase of pension to Edward T. Tucker.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Edward T. Tucker, late of Company B, Eighth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JAMES WALTERS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3740) granting an increase of pension to James Walters.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of James Walters, late of Company H, Third Regiment New York Volunteer Light Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE W. HEARING.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4105) granting an increase of pension to George W. Hearing.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George W. Hearing, late of Company H, Sixteenth Regiment Kansas Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

GEORGE E. GOODRICH.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4755) granting an increase of pension to George E. Goodrich.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of George E. Goodrich, late of Company D, Twenty-first Regiment, and Company ——, Thirty-fourth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $60 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7 strike out the word "Company" and insert in lieu thereof the words "captain Companies C and A."

In line 9 strike out the word "sixty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

THOMAS E. STORY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3737) granting an increase of pension to Thomas E. Story.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Thomas E. Story, late of Company H, United States Veteran Volunteer Engineers, and pay him a pension at the rate of $72 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, before the word "United," insert the words "First Regiment."

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-two" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ALEXANDER BEATY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4247) granting an increase of pension to Alexander Beaty.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Alexander Beaty, late of Company C, First Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELIZABETH JAMES.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3338) granting a pension to Elizabeth James.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Elizabeth James, widow of Enoch James, late of Companies D and I, Third Regiment Wisconsin Cavalry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving: Provided, That in the event of the death of Jennie James, helpless and dependent daughter of said Enoch James, the additional pension herein granted shall cease and determine: And provided further, That in the event of the death of Elizabeth James the name of said Jennie James shall be placed on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, at the rate of $12 per month from and after the death of said Elizabeth James.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CHARLES MILES.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4150) granting an increase of pension to Charles Miles.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Charles Miles, late of Company K, Ninety-seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $35 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM L. JAQUETT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4535) granting an increase of pension to William L. Jaquett.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Jaquett, late commissary-sergeant Ninth Regiment New York Volunteer Heavy Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CHARLES P. LEAVITT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4766) granting an increase of pension to Charles P. Leavitt.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Charles P. Leavitt, late of Company H, Third Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CASPER DESCHLER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6521) granting an increase of pension to Caspar Deschler.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Caspar Deschler, late of Company D, Thirty-ninth Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $75 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Caspar" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Casper."

In line 8 strike out the word "seventy-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Casper Deschler."

DALLAS VERNAM.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 5455) granting an increase of pension to Dallas Vernam.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Dallas Vernam, late of Company H, Ninety-third Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "H, Ninety-third" and insert in lieu thereof the words "E, One hundred and forty-second."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DAVID WHITTEN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4311) granting an increase of pension to David Whitten.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of David Whitten, late of Company D, Sixty-fifth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Infantry," insert the words "and Company M, Tenth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Cavalry."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOSEPH RALLEY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 6554) granting a pension to Joseph Ralley.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Joseph Ralley, late of Company E, Thirty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the words "E, Thirty-third" and insert in lieu thereof the words "K, Twenty-seventh."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

In the same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Joseph Ralley."

MILTON ROSS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4767) granting an increase of pension to Milton Ross.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Milton Ross, late of Company I, One hundred and twenty-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

REBECCA S. WISHART.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 4937) granting an increase of pension to Rebecca S. Wishart.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Rebecca S. Wishart, widow of Alexander Wishart, late captain Company K, Eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Reserve Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $36 per month in lieu of that she is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 9 strike out the word "thirty-six" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twelve."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELI MASTERS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3616) granting an increase of pension to Eli Masters.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Eli Masters, late of Company K, Twentieth Kentucky Infantry, also Company A, Sixth Kentucky Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "Twentieth," insert the word "Regiment."

In same line, after the word "Kentucky," insert the word "Volunteer."

In line 7 strike out the word "also" and insert in lieu thereof the word "and."

In same line, before the word "Kentucky," insert the word "Regiment."

In same line, before the word "Cavalry," insert the word "Volunteer."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DAVID LEMON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1949) granting an increase of pension to David Lemon.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of David Lemon, late of Twenty-second Battery, Ohio Volunteer Light Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JACKSON SIZEMOURE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1180) granting an increase of pension to Jackson Sizemore.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Jackson Sizemore, late of Company E, Seventh Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $35 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Sizemore" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Sizemoure."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Jackson Sizemoure."

HENRY M'NEIL.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 787) granting an increase of pension to Henry McNeil.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry McNeil, late of Fifteenth Battery, Massachusetts Volunteer Light Artillery, and pay him a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, before the word "Battery," insert the word "Independent."

In line 8 strike out the word "twenty-four" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN HORSTMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2210) granting an increase of pension to John Horstman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John Horstman, late of Company K, Fifth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the letter "K" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "C."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

CHRISTOPHER H. LUTE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3354) granting a pension to Christopher Lute.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Christopher Lute, late of Company D, Seventy-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "Christopher," insert the letter "H."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

In same line, after the word "month," insert the words "in lieu of that he is now receiving."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Christopher H. Lute."

JAMES M. ENDICOTT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2767) granting an increase of pension to James M. Endicott.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of James M. Endicott, late of Company F, Seventh Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM W. LEVERING.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1565) granting an increase of pension to William W. Levering.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William W. Levering, late of Company K, First Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "forty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM THOMAS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 8695) granting an increase of pension to William Thomas.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Thomas, late of United States ships Princeton, Wabash, and Vermont, United States Navy, and pay him a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving, said pension to commence March 2, 1907.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

HENRY HOLLIDAY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3335) granting an increase of pension to Henry Holliday.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Henry Holliday, late of Company F, Sixteenth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and Company F, One hundred and ninety-third Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 8, before the word "Volunteer," insert the words "Regiment New York."

In line 9 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "forty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOHN R. PAHLMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2913) granting an increase of pension to John R. Pahlman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of John R. Pahlman, late of Company M, Fifth Regiment Missouri State Militia Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

MATHIAS D. RODOCKER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2772) granting an increase of pension to Mathias D. Rodocker.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Mathias D. Rodocker, late of Company D, Forty-second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6, after the word "late," strike out the word "of" and insert in lieu thereof the words "second lieutenant."

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "forty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DAVID EVERITT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1936) granting an increase of pension to David Everitt.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of David Everitt, late of Company F, One hundred and fourth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $35 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty-five" and insert the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOSEPH H. KITZMILLER.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2664) granting an increase of pension to Joseph H. Kitzmiller.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Joseph H. Kitzmiller, late of Company F, Fifty-eighth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $50 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

In line 8 strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

JOSEPH V. STEVENSON.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2687) granting an increase of pension to Joseph V. Stevenson.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Joseph V. Stevenson, late of Company H, Ninety-sixth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Company" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Companies."

In the same line, after the letter "H," insert the words "and D."

In line 8 strike out the word "thirty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-four."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

THOMAS S. BLAKE.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2198) granting an increase of pension to Thomas S. Blake.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Thomas S. Blake, late of United States ships Vandalia and Colorado, United States Navy, and pay him a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

WILLIAM HOGAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2993) granting an increase of pension to William Hogan.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William Hogan, late of Company C, Thirty-fifth Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $24 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 7, after the word "Infantry," insert the words "and Company C, Twentieth Regiment New York Volunteer Cavalry."

In line 8, strike out the word "twenty-four" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

SETH H. PHILLIPS.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 2351) granting an increase of pension to Seth H. Phillips.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Seth H. Phillips, late of Company M, First Regiment Maine Volunteer Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

DEITRICH BELLMAN.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3494) granting an increase of pension to Dietrich Bellman.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Dietrich Bellman, late of Company K, Eighth Regiment Missouri Volunteer State Militia Cavalry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "Dietrich" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Deitrich."

In line 7 strike out the word "Volunteer."

In same line, after the word "Militia," insert the word "Volunteer."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Deitrich Bellman."

SIDNEY S. BRYANT.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 1058) granting an increase of pension to Sidney E. Bryant.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Sidney E. Bryant, late of Company B, Fifty-ninth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $40 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the letter "E" and insert in lieu thereof the letter "S."

In line 8 strike out the word "forty" and insert in lieu thereof the word "thirty-six."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting an increase of pension to Sidney S. Bryant."

JACOB JOHN LOCHER.

The next business was the bill (H. R. 10368) to authorize the Secretary of War to change name of Julius Flemming to his proper name of Jacob John Locher.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of War is hereby empowered to change the name of Julius Flemming, regimental quartermaster-sergeant, retired, on the records of the War Department to his proper name, Jacob John Locher.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

ELSTON ARMSTRONG.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 3200) granting an increase of pension to Elston Armstrong.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Elston Armstrong, late of Company B, Ninety-fourth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay him a pension at the rate of $30 per month in lieu of that he is now receiving.

The bill was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

SIDNEY N. UTLEY.

The next pension business was the bill (H. R. 13303) granting a pension to Sidney N. Utley.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Sidney N. Utley, idiotic child of Thomas J. Utley, late of Company I, One hundred and twentieth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and pay her a pension at the rate of $12 per month.

The amendments recommended by the committee were read, as follows:

In line 6 strike out the word "idiotic" and insert in lieu thereof the words "helpless and dependent."

The amendments were agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be laid aside with a favorable recommendation.

Mr. SULLOWAY. I move that the committee do now rise and report the bills to the House.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. CAPRON, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the Private Calendar, reported that that committee had had under consideration sundry bills, and had directed him to report the same, some with amendments and some without amendments, favorably to the House, and had directed him to report back the bill (H. R. 5978) granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Pennock with the recommendation that the same do lie upon the table.

MATHILDE SANDGREN.

The first business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the joint resolution (H. J. Res. 25) permitting the waiving of the immigration law in the case of Mathilde Sandgren, reported with an amendment.

The amendment recommended by the Committee of the Whole was agreed to.

The joint resolution, as amended, was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was accordingly read the third time and passed.

On motion of Mr. HOUSTON, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

JACOB JOHN LOCHER.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was bill (H. R. 10368) to authorize the Secretary of War to change the name of Julius Flemming to his proper name of Jacob John Locher.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was accordingly read the third time and passed.

PENSION BILLS PASSED.

The following House bills, reported from the Committee of the Whole without amendment, were severally considered, ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read the third time, and passed:

H. R. 4333. A bill granting an increase of pension to John H. Oakley, alias John Hoyt;

H. R. 4332. A bill granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Harter;

H. R. 8774. A bill granting an increase of pension to James R. Batten;

H. R. 4405. A bill granting an increase of pension to Miles C. Christy;

H. R. 4516. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Bain;

H. R. 4315. A bill granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Defendall;

H. R. 4126. A bill granting an increase of pension to Annie M. Owen;

H. R. 2935. A bill granting an increase of pension to George W. Fuchs;

H. R. 4487. A bill granting an increase of pension to Rebecca W. Swain;

H. R. 4485. A bill granting an increase of pension to Jennie S. Risley;
H. R. 6484. A bill granting an increase of pension to Samuel L. Bushong;
H. R. 6651. A bill granting an increase of pension to John Miller;
H. R. 10858. A bill granting an increase of pension to Barbara Popp;
H. R. 2850. A bill granting an increase of pension to Elihu Wheeler;
H. R. 2861. A bill granting an increase of pension to Margaret Cornwell;
H. R. 5317. A bill granting an increase of pension to Lewis W. Crain;
H. R. 6046. A bill granting an increase of pension to Edward T. Tucker;
H. R. 3740. A bill granting an increase of pension to James Walters;
H. R. 3338. A bill granting a pension to Elizabeth James;
H. R. 4535. A bill granting an increase of pension to William L. Jaquett;
H. R. 8695. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Thomas;
H. R. 2913. A bill granting an increase of pension to John R. Pahlman;
H. R. 2198. A bill granting an increase of pension to Thomas S. Blake;
H. R. 2351. A bill granting an increase of pension to Seth H. Phillips; and
H. R. 3200. A bill granting an increase of pension to Elston Armstrong.

The following House bills reported from the Committee of the Whole, with amendments, were severally considered, the amendments agreed to, and the bills as amended ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read a third time, and passed:
H. R. 2949. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Smith O'Brien (title amended);
H. R. 2363. A bill granting an increase of pension to Charles McCoy;
H. R. 586. A bill granting an increase of pension to Squire J. Carlin;
H. R. 2755. A bill granting an increase of pension to John H. Nutter;
H. R. 6872. A bill granting an inerease of pension to Amos W. Polley;
H. R. 10168. A bill granting an increase of pension to Matthew B. Reid (title amended);
H. R. 10411. A bill granting an increase of pension to Albert Butler;
H. R. 8013. A bill granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Young;
H. R. 2101. A bill granting an increase of pension to William H. Mize;
H. R. 1035. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Palmer;
H. R. 2407. A bill granting an increase of pension to Rudolphus Bard (title amended);
H. R. 3180. A bill granting an increase of pension to Charles I. Krickbaum;
H. R. 3341. A bill granting an increase of pension to James R. Grider;
H. R. 3325. A bill granting a pension to Edwin H. Buck (title amended);
H. R. 8462. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry Smith;
H. R. 8088. A bill granting an increase of pension to Thomas Johnson;
H. R. 2408. A bill granting an increase of pension to Frank N. Bement;
H. R. 7333. A bill granting an increase of pension to De Loss Hopkins (title amended);
H. R. 7865. A bill granting an increase of pension to Edwin T. Farmer;
H. R. 3767. A bill granting an increase of pension to John H. Bond;
H. R. 3842. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Winter;
H. R. 8237. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry A. Rice;
H. R. 1884. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Hoover;
H. R. 2803. A bill granting an increase of pension to William B. P. Turner;
H. R. 3628. A bill granting an increase of pension to Charles W. Wheat;
H. R. 1990. A bill granting an increase of pension to Martha Andrews;
H. R. 1501. A bill granting an increase of pension to Harrison Burkett;
H. R. 1036. A bill granting an increase of pension to Alexander W. Skinner;
H. R. 2974. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Little;
H. R. 3334. A bill granting an increase of pension to George Frederick Nichols (title amended);
H. R. 2864. A bill granting an increase of pension to Ferdinand Stritsman;
H. R. 10630. A bill granting an increase of pension to John N. Hubbard;
H. R. 11407. A bill granting an increase of pension to Alfred G. Anderson;
H. R. 2425. A bill granting an increase of pension to J. M. Essington (title amended);
H. R. 8249. A bill granting an increase of pension to Jacob Wiler;
H. R. 5977. A bill granting a pension to Mary Cross and Anna L. Cross;
H. R. 9328. A bill granting an increase of pension to Cecilia Quinlan;
H. R. 2934. A bill granting an increase of pension to Lucy Ferguson;
H. R. 10437. A bill granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth B. Thomason;
H. R. 2940. A bill granting a pension to Frank D. Newberry (title amended);
H. R. 9573. A bill granting an increase of pension to Cynthia Bridges;
H. R. 1060. A bill granting an increase of pension to Rhoda Lloyd (title amended);
H. R. 2364. A bill granting an increase of pension to Anna M Bohn;
H. R. 10309. A bill granting an increase of pension to Albert Hoffman;
H. R. 4666. A bill granting a pension to John H. Monk (title amended);
H. R. 4148. A bill granting an increase of pension to George S. Neill;
H. R. 10379. A bill granting an increase of pension to George F. Laird;
H. R. 4330. A bill granting an increase of pension to Mary J. Baughman;
H. R. 4249. A bill granting an increase of pension to John R. Miller;
H. R. 4175. A bill granting a pension to Adam Meyer (title amended);
H. R. 4752. A bill granting an increase of pension to Theodore Campbell;
H. R. 8662. A bill granting an increase of pension to Michael McDonald;
H. R. 9060. A bill granting an increase of pension to Daniel S. Graves;
H. R. 10306. A bill granting an increase of pension to Tilghman Scholl;
H. R. 10019. A bill granting a pension to Henry Knauff (title amended);
H. R. 9041. A bill granting an increase of pension to John E. Coogle;
H. R. 7275. A bill granting an increase of pension to Edward N. Burns;
H. R. 7316. A bill granting a pension to George W. Richardson;
H. R. 7884. A bill granting an increase of pension to John Shadinger;
H. R. 9283. A bill granting an increase of pension to A. E. Chaffee (title amended);
H. R. 6398. A bill granting an increase of pension to Ann Toomey;
H. R. 2341. A bill granting an increase of pension to Christopher N. Snyder;
H. R. 3215. A bill granting a pension to Oliver P. Johnson (title amended);
H. R. 4695. A bill granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Johnson;
H. R. 10937. A bill granting a pension to J. R. Harwell;
H. R. 11856. A bill granting a pension to William Saunders (title amended);

H. R. 7088. A bill granting an increase of pension to Benson S. Philbrick;
H. R. 3454. A bill granting an increase of pension to John C. Peters;
H. R. 6827. A bill granting a pension to Morton A. Wilcox;
H. R. 3337. A bill granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Evans;
H. R. 1487. A bill granting an increase of pension to Herbert F. Brooks;
H. R. 2899. A bill granting an increase of pension to John Mess;
H. R. 3453. A bill granting an increase of pension to George Taylor, alias George Parks;
H. R. 4371. A bill granting an increase of pension to Palmer Loper;
H. R. 4189. A bill granting an increase of pension to David Wood;
H. R. 4105. A bill granting an increase of pension to George W. Hearing;
H. R. 4755. A bill granting an increase of pension to George P. Goodrich;
H. R. 3737. A bill granting an increase of pension to Thomas E. Story;
H. R. 4247. A bill granting an increase of pension to Alexander Beaty;
H. R. 4150. A bill granting an increase of pension to Charles Miles;
H. R. 4766. A bill granting an increase of pension to Charles P. Leavitt;
H. R. 6521. A bill granting an increase of pension to Caspar Deschler (title amended);
H. R. 5455. A bill granting an increase of pension to Dallas Vernam;
H. R. 4311. A bill granting an increase of pension to David Whitten;
H. R. 6554. A bill granting a pension to Joseph Ralley (title amended);
H. R. 4767. A bill granting an increase of pension to Milton Ross;
H. R. 4937. A bill granting an increase of pension to Rebecca S. Wishart;
H. R. 3616. A bill granting an increase of pension to Eli Masters;
H. R. 1949. A bill granting an increase of pension to David Lemon;
H. R. 1180. A bill granting an increase of pension to Jackson Sizemore (title amended);
H. R. 787. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry McNell;
H. R. 2210. A bill granting an increase of pension to John Horstman;
H. R. 3354. A bill granting a pension to Cristopher Lute (title amended);
H. R. 2767. A bill granting an increase of pension to James M. Endicott;
H. R. 1565. A bill granting an increase of pension to William W. Levering;
H. R. 3335. A bill granting an increase of pension to Henry Holliday;
H. R. 2772. A bill granting an increase of pension to Mathias D. Rodocker;
H. R. 1936. A bill granting an increase of pension to David Everitt;
H. R. 2664. A bill granting an increase of pension to Joseph H. Kitzmiller;
H. R. 2687. A bill granting an increase of pension to Joseph V. Stevenson;
H. R. 2993. A bill granting an increase of pension to William Hogan;
H. R. 3494. A bill granting an increase of pension to Dietrich Bellman (title amended);
H. R. 1058. A bill granting an increase of pension to Sidney E. Bryant (title amended); and
H. R. 13303. A bill granting a pension to Sidney N. Utley.

The following bill reported from the Committee of the Whole, with the recommendation that it lie on the table, was ordered to lie on the table:

H. R. 5978. A bill granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Pennock.

Mr. CAPRON. Mr. Speaker, I have received information in regard to the committee's work this morning which I think ought to be placed before the committee. Out of 130 bills passed I am assured by the chairman that the beneficiaries in 23 cases are totally blind; in 90 other cases they are so disabled as to require the constant attendance of another person. Now, this speaks for itself. I am instructed by the chairman of the committee to move that the vote by which each of the several bills were passed be reconsidered and that that motion lie on the table.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the following resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Agriculture or any subcommittees thereof be given leave to sit during the sessions of the House during the Sixtieth Congress.

The resolution was agreed to.

DISTRIBUTION OF ROOMS IN THE HOUSE OFFICE BUILDING.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following privileged report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the following assignment of rooms be, and the same is hereby, made:

To the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, in place of the room now occupied by it, the room heretofore occupied by the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

To the Committee on Enrolled Bills, as an additional room, room 288 in the House Office Building, as numbered on the plats accompanying H. Res. 53, passed by the House December 19, 1907.

To the Committee on Accounts, as an additional room, the room heretofore occupied by the Committee on Ventilation and Acoustics.

To the Immigration Commission, rooms 152 and 153 and room adjoining 152 in House Office Building.

To the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions, the small room adjoining the present committee room on the north, the two rooms to be connected by a door.

And the rooms in the terrace heretofore occupied by the Committees on Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture, and Mines and Mining, respectively, are hereby temporarily assigned for the use of the Senate.

The resolution was agreed to.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, Senate bills of the following titles were taken from the Speaker's table and referred to their appropriate committees, as indicated below:

S. 4048. An act granting an increase of pension to certain soldiers and sailors of the civil war and certain widows of such soldiers and sailors—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

S. 721. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office at Alexandria, Minn.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

S. 3336. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Wheeling, W. Va.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

S. 2981. An act to increase the limit of cost of the United States post-office and court-house at Colorado Springs, Colo.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

S. 3495. An act to authorize the transfer of books from the Treasury Department library to life-saving stations of the United States—to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department.

S. 3955. An act to provide for the erection of a post-office building at New York City, N. Y.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

ENROLLED BILL PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT FOR HIS APPROVAL.

Mr. WILSON of Illinois, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that this day they had presented to the President for his approval the following bill:

H. R. 9087. An act to amend "An act to authorize Washington and Westmoreland counties, in the State of Pennsylvania, to construct and maintain a bridge across the Monongahela River, in the State of Pennsylvania," approved February 21, 1903.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. BIRDSALL, by unanimous consent, was given leave of absence for ten days, on account of important business.

Mr. HUBBARD of Iowa, by unanimous consent, was given ten days' leave of absence, on account of important business.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. SULLOWAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly (at 1 o'clock and 25 minutes p. m.) the House, under its previous order, adjourned until Monday next at 12 o'clock noon.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XXIV, the following executive communications were taken from the Speaker's table and referred as follows:

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of North Fork of Edisto River, South Carolina—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting, with a letter from the Chief of Engineers, report of examination of South Fork of Edisto River, South Carolina—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting the result of an investigation by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as to the claims of Indians of the Chinook and Chehalis tribes against the United States—to the Committee on Indian Affairs and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings filed by the court in the case of William R. Boyse, heir of estate of Sterling M. Boyse, against The United States—to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

A letter from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings filed by the court in the case of Amanda M. Livesay, administratrix of estate of John W. Livesay, against The United States—to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON PUBLIC BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, bills and resolutions of the following titles were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the several Calendars therein named, as follows:

Mr. ADAMSON, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, to which was referred the bill of the Senate (S. 2694) to authorize the construction of a drawbridge over the Black River in Lawrence County, Ark., reported the same without amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 182), which said bill and report were referred to the House Calendar.

Mr. HINSHAW, from the Committee on Patents, to which was referred the bill of the House (H. R. 7653) to amend section 4919 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes, reported the same with amendment, accompanied by a report (No. 184), which said bill and report were referred to the House Calendar.

PUBLIC BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND MEMORIALS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills, resolutions, and memorials of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. FLOYD: A bill (H. R. 14260) to prevent committeemen or referees of any political party from selling their indorsement for Federal positions—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. HUMPHREY of Washington: A bill (H. R. 14261) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Bellingham, in the State of Washington—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 14262) to limit the jurisdiction of district and circuit courts of the United States in law and equity to sums exceeding $5,000—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14263) authorizing juries to fix punishment of defendants convicted in United States courts in certain cases—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14264) to determine powers of United States judges as to instructions to juries—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. ROBERTS: A bill (H. R. 14265) for the relief of laborers, mechanics, and other employees of the United States Government injured, and the families of those killed without fault of their own, while in the discharge of their duties—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. COOPER of Texas: A bill (H. R. 14266) to establish a fish hatchery and biological station at Woodville, Tyler County, in the State of Texas—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. ADDISON D. JAMES: A bill (H. R. 14267) to stimulate and promote the efficiency of clerks of the United States courts—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. ALEXANDER of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 14268) to prohibit corporations from making contributions in connection with political elections—to the Committee on Election of President, etc.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: A bill (H. R. 14269) authorizing national banking institutions to take advantage of guarantee bank-deposit laws in certain States, and for other purposes—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. ADAIR: A bill (H. R. 14270) to place lumber on the free list—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia: A bill (H. R. 14271) to provide for the erection in Savannah, Ga., on a site to be selected, of a public building for the use of the immigration station located at said city—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. SMALL: A bill (H. R. 14272) for the erection of a Federal building for the United States at Greenville, N. C.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. COOPER of Texas: A bill (H. R. 14273) authorizing and directing the Fish Commissioner to plant and propagate shad fish in the Neches and Sabine rivers in the State of Texas—to the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

By Mr. HACKNEY: A bill (H. R. 14274) to permit common carriers to issue free tickets, passes, and transportation to widows and minor children of deceased employees—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14275) limiting the jurisdiction and authority of circuit and district courts of the United States and of judges thereof to grant temporary writs of injunction—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 14276) to remove restrictions upon the alienation, sale, incumbrance, or taxation of the lands of certain citizens of the Cherokee Nation—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. SMITH of Arizona: A bill (H. R. 14277) to enable the city of Tucson, Ariz., to issue bonds for the extension and repair of its water and sewer system, and for other purposes—to the Committee on the Territories.

By Mr. SHERWOOD: A bill (H. R. 14278) to reduce the number of enlisted men and officers in the United States Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. TAYLOR of Ohio: A bill (H. R. 14279) regulating the pay and allowances of passed midshipmen—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. DALZELL: A bill (H. R. 14280) for the erection of a monument to commemorate the battle historically known as "the battle of the Monongahela," commonly known as "Braddock's defeat"—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. MADISON: A bill (H. R. 14281) providing for the purchase of sites and the erection and equipment of buildings thereon for weather stations—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. SLEMP: A bill (H. R. 14282) to authorize the appointment of a deputy clerk at Big Stone Gap, Va.—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. GAINES of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 14370) to aid the Ladies' Hermitage Association of Tennessee to care for "The Hermitage," the home of Andrew Jackson—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. HACKNEY: A bill (H. R. 14371) to permit common carriers to issue free tickets, passes, and transportation to widows and minor children of deceased employees—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14372) limiting the jurisdiction and authority of circuit and district courts of the United States and of judges thereof to grant temporary writs of injunction—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. SHERMAN: Resolution (H. Res. 157) for the appointment of an assistant clerk to the Committee on Indian Affairs—to the Committee on Accounts.

PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. ANDREWS: A bill (H. R. 14283) granting an increase of pension to Smith H. Simpson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14284) granting an increase of pension to C. H. Kirkpatrick—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANSBERRY: A bill (H. R. 14285) granting a pension to John McConaghuy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14286) to remove charge of desertion from the record of William L. Wiles—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ASHBROOK: A bill (H. R. 14287) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of S. Mains—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BATES: A bill (H. R. 14288) granting an increase of pension to T. H. Apple—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BINGHAM: A bill (H. R. 14289) granting an increase of pension to Flora Johnson Todd—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOOHER: A bill (H. R. 14290) for the relief of Ellis W. Joy—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. BRODHEAD: A bill (H. R. 14291) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Theodore W. Kreamer—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CANNON: A bill (H. R. 14292) granting an increase of pension to David Mitchell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAMPBELL: A bill (H. R. 14293) granting an increase of pension to Edward Eugene Root—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CAPRON (by request): A bill (H. R. 14294) for the relief of Ida Russell Bartlett and Eleanor Bartlett, children of the late Rear-Admiral John Russell Bartlett, United States Navy—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. CHANEY: A bill (H. R. 14295) granting an increase of pension to Eli W. Adams—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14296) granting a pension to David O. Armstrong—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14297) granting a pension to Mary J. Cooper—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14298) granting a pension to Nancy Wharton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. COOPER of Texas: A bill (H. R. 14299) for the relief of the legal representatives of Sarah J. Montgomery, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. COX of Indiana: A bill (H. R. 14300) granting an increase of pension to Andrew J. Summers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14301) granting an increase of pension to George W. Blunk—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DAVENPORT: A bill (H. R. 14302) granting an honorable discharge to Plutoff P. Bush—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DE ARMOND: A bill (H. R. 14303) granting a pension to Sudie Hopkins—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14304) granting an increase of pension to William C. Locke—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ESCH: A bill (H. R. 14305) granting an increase of pension to Ebenezer Watson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FULTON: A bill (H. R. 14306) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Henry Smith and to grant him an honorable discharge—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14307) granting an increase of pension to Clyde Clark—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14308) granting an increase of pension to George G. Sherlock—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GRAHAM: A bill (H. R. 14309) for the relief of W. J. Kountz—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HAMILTON of Iowa: A bill (H. R. 14310) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Porter—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HAMLIN: A bill (H. R. 14311) granting a pension to John B. Clements—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14312) granting a pension to Thomas F. Robinson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14313) granting a pension to Solomon Coan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HARDWICK: A bill (H. R. 14314) granting an increase of pension to Randolph Snell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOWLAND: A bill (H. R. 14315) granting an increase of pension to Edwin T. Donaldson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14316) granting an increase of pension to De Witt Eldred—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HUMPHREY of Washington: A bill (H. R. 14317) for the relief of S. I. Stone and others—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. KIPP: A bill (H. R. 14318) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Loyal F. Russell and grant him an honorable discharge—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14319) granting an increase of pension to William Hewitt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14320) granting a pension to Mary E. Plummer—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14321) granting a pension to Minnie R. Bacon—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14322) granting a pension to Horace Vroman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LANDIS: A bill (H. R. 14323) granting a pension to Harry Lucas—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LANING: A bill (H. R. 14324) for the relief of Wesley C. Barr, of Mount Gilead, Morrow County, Ohio—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14325) granting a pension to Amanda H. Stinchcomb—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14326) granting a pension to Wesley C. Barr—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14327) granting an increase of pension to Thomas A. Wilson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14328) granting an increase of pension to Simon Welch—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14329) granting an increase of pension to Daniel Truman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14330) granting an increase of pension to George M. Bott—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14331) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of William Earl—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14332) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Frank Holmes—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LAWRENCE: A bill (H. R. 14333) granting an increase of pension to Sarah E. Warner—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LINDSAY: A bill (H. R. 14334) granting an increase of pension to Lizzie Yorker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14335) granting an increase of pension to Ole B. Lovass—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LEAKE: A bill (H. R. 14336) granting an increase of pension to Katie B. Meister—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14337) authorizing the President to appoint Rudolph Ullmer first lieutenant on the retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. LEE: A bill (H. R. 14338) granting an increase of pension to Eliza D. Ramey—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LEGARE: A bill (H. R. 14339) for the relief of the heirs of Joseph M. Farr, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14340) for the relief of the estate of Dedrick Stokein—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LEVER: A bill (H. R. 14341) granting an increase of pension to Mary Hutchinson—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14342) granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Crawford—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LOUD: A bill (H. R. 14343) to correct the naval record of Randolph W. Campbell—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14344) granting an increase of pension to Peter Penord—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOWDEN: A bill (H. R. 14345) for the relief of Earl E. White—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. LOVERING: A bill (H. R. 14346) granting an increase of pension to Charles F. Perry—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14347) granting an increase of pension to James H. Williams—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MARSHALL: A bill (H. R. 14348) granting an increase of pension to William B. Wrangham—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14349) granting an increase of pension to Albert E. Oviatt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: A bill (H. R. 14350) granting an honorable discharge to Marion Hixsen—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14351) for the relief of James B. Hoge—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14352) for the relief of the estate of Washington Pryor, deceased—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MORSE: A bill (H. R. 14353) granting an increase of pension to Lewis H. Little—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOUSER: A bill (H. R. 14354) granting an increase of pension to Henry Glenn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14355) granting an increase of pension to William H. Green—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14356) granting an increase of pension to George W. Robinson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. O'CONNELL: A bill (H. R. 14357) for the relief of William W. Stewart—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14358) granting a pension to Margery F. Daly—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. PORTER: A bill (H. R. 14359) granting an increase of pension to Alonson D. Grinnell—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14360) granting an increase of pension to Adda L. Boodger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ROBERTS: A bill (H. R. 14361) to reimburse the Eastern Salt Company, of Boston, Mass., for certain excess duty—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. SHACKLEFORD: A bill (H. R. 14362) granting a pension to James Temple—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SHERMAN: A bill (H. R. 14363) granting an increase of pension to Frank Schader—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SMITH of Michigan: A bill (H. R. 14364) granting an increase of pension to Charles Van Horn—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 14365) to correct the military record of Charles E. Potter—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. STEPHENS of Texas: A bill (H. R. 14366) to protect the rights of William D. Waybourne and his children and descendants, Cherokee Indians by blood—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. STEVENS of Minnesota: A bill (H. R. 14367) to correct the military record of Frank E. Baker—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. TALBOTT: A bill (H. R. 14368) granting a pension to Sterling A. Galt—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WEBB: A bill (H. R. 14369) granting a pension to Jacob W. Aker—to the Committee on Pensions.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By the SPEAKER: Memorial of State of Montana, against legislation prohibiting stock grazing on the public domain without Federal permit—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, memorial of State of Montana, against incorporation by the Government of large areas within forest reserves and for restoration of such lands to the general body of the public lands—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, memorial of the State of Oklahoma, for a constitutional convention to consider proposed amendment to elect United States Senators by the people—to the Committee on Election of President, etc.

Also, petition of R. J. Anderson and 2 others, committee of storekeepers and gaugers in Internal-Revenue Service, for increase of pay to $3 per day and vacation leave—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, memorial of committee of Grand Army of Republic, of New York City, for a volunteer retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, memorial of Mrs. Cleo D. Eads, of Galesburg, Ill., for amendment of clause in copyright law inimical to musical composers—to the Committee on Patents.

Also, petition of C. M. McMillan, of Carthage, Ill., and H. C. McCarrall, of Kinderhook, Ill., for legislation to create a permanent tariff commission—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of A. J. Stutes and 2 others, for a service pension for all honorably discharged soldiers of civil war who served eighteen months, and an increased pension for war widows—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ANSBERRY: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Andrew Tennison and Lionel O. Coleman—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOOHER: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Harriet E. C. L. Bonham—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BROWNLOW: Petition of William Rule and 41 other officers of volunteers, for a volunteer officers' retired list—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CHANEY: Petition of James M. Sinclair, of Sullivan, Ind., against parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of John J. Shuberth, of Sullivan, Ind., against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. DAWSON: Memorial of Dillon Corps, No. 171, Woman's Relief Corps, of Marengo, Iowa, for increase of widows' pensions—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. DENBY: Petition of E. L. Hamilton and 45 others, for increase of pay for Army and Navy officers and men—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DUNWELL: Paper to accompany bill for relief of James Stafford—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of N. Johannsen, against legislation tending to inflate the currency—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. ESCH: Petition of Farmers' Equity Company, for legislation to prevent speculation in farm products—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Ebenezer Watson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FLOYD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of James Fanning—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Horatio M. McGaughey—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FOSTER of Illinois: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Henry J. Remington, Henry Riley, M. Ashcroft, Emaranda Somerville, Edward Price, Sarah C. James, Schuyler Carlton, Francis M. Smith, Herbert C. Mattoon, Samuel E. Tuttle, Robert W. Ross, John Able, Felix M. Wheat, George W. Walker, William S. Foulke, Mary E. Farthing, John Murray, George M. Vincil, William C. Tanner, Jacob Kuntz, Francis M. Lewis, and William Cook—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. FULTON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Barton N. Daily—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Petition of R. J. Anderson and others, committee of storekeepers and gaugers, for increase of pay of storekeepers and gaugers to $3 per day—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. HAMLIN: Papers to accompany bills for relief of James M. Wilkerson, Melina R. Vaughn, Ira Gill, James Dodson, Louis F. Allen, James M. Allen, Andrew J. Patton, R. H. Farrow, Samuel Boren, George T. Beal, Henry Stufflebam, Solomon Perkins, Moses Callison, and Joseph T. Kirby—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Joseph Caton—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HINSHAW: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Mortimer V. Hill—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of the Byron Farmers' Elevator Company, favoring Federal grain inspection—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. HOWELL of New Jersey: Papers to accompany bills for relief of Almeda Clark and George Walton—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KEIFER: Petition of George H. Tickardt and 105 other citizens and business men of Circleville, Ohio, against a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. LEVER: Paper to accompany bill for relief of David T. Kirby—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. LINDSAY: Petition of John L. Hamilton, against the Aldrich (Senate) currency bill—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Also, petition of New York Produce Exchange, against Federal inspection of grain—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. LOUD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Randolph W. Campbell—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of E. G. Cole and others, for amendment of interstate rate law, to prevent railways from charging rates without supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Peter Penord—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. LOWDEN: Petitions of A. J. Jackson, banker, and 49 other volunteer officers of Morristown and Prophetstown; W. A. Hunt and 39 others, of Ashton, Lee County; Jerome F. Cox and 50 others of Oregon and Polo; George C. Slick and 51 others of Lanark; B. F. Shaw and 89 others of Dixon, Lee County; Frank Wertz and 61 others of Forreston, Ogle County; E. C. Combs and 18 others of Hanover; J. W. Cover and 37 others of Franklin Grove, Lee County; William Pippin and 135 others of Galena, and R. S. Burchell and 47 others of Erie, all in the State of Illinois, for enactment of a volunteer retired-list law—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MACON: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Julia E. Rightor—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MOON of Tennessee: Petition for an appropriation to construct a road from Lookout Mountain to Rossville—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Marion Hixon—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. NEEDHAM: Petition of Thirty-third Fruit Growers' Convention, for a parcels-post law—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition of Thirty-third Fruit Growers' Convention of California, for legislation establishing quarantine against insect pests—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition of San Diego Chamber of Commerce, for appropriation to construct submarine torpedo boats for Pacific coast defense—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, petition of the Grangers of Soquel, Cal., for legislation establishing a postal savings bank—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, paper to accompany House joint resolution 101—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. OVERSTREET: Petition of Commercial Telegraphers' Union of Indianapolis, for investigation of the telegraph companies—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. PAYNE: Paper to accompany bill for relief of William Flynn—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. PORTER: Petition of Henry Burke and others, of Lockport, N. Y., for H. R. 7625 (so-called Sherwood bill)—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, paper to accompany bill for relief of Adda L. Boodger—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SHEPPARD: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Oliver P. Boyd—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SMITH of Arizona: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Belle E. Secrist—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. STERLING: Paper to accompany bill for relief of Henry B. Reed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

SENATE.

MONDAY, January 20, 1908.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. EDWARD E. HALE.

The Secretary proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday last, when, on request of Mr. GALLINGER, and by unanimous consent, the further reading was dispensed with.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Journal stands approved.

INDIAN CLAIMS IN STATE OF WASHINGTON.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting, pursuant to law, a report prepared by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs relative to the claims against the United States respectively of the Waukikum bands of the Chinook Indians of the State of Washington, etc., which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs and ordered to be printed.

FRENCH SPOLIATION CLAIMS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting the findings of fact and conclusions of law filed under the act of January 20, 1885, in the French spoliation claims set out in the annexed findings by the court relating to the vessel sloop Anna Corbin, Thomas Justice, master, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

He also laid before the Senate a communication from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting the conclusions of fact and of law filed under the act of January 20, 1885, in the French spoliation claims set out in the annexed findings by the court relating to the vessel brig George, Charles Taylor, master, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

FINDINGS OF THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate communications from the assistant clerk of the Court of Claims, transmitting certified copies of the findings of fact filed by the court in the following causes:

In the cause of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., v. United States;

In the cause of the trustees of the North Alabama College, of Huntsville, Ala., v. United States; and

In the cause of the trustees of the Providence Methodist Episcopal Church, near Suffolk, Nansemond County, Va., v. United States.

The foregoing findings were, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. W. J. BROWNING, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills and joint resolution, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

H. R. 586. An act granting an increase of pension to Squire J. Carlin;

H. R. 787. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry McNeil;

H. R. 1035. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Palmer;

H. R. 1036. An act granting an increase of pension to Alexander W. Skinner;

H. R. 1058. An act granting an increase of pension to Sidney S. Bryant;

H. R. 1060. An act granting a pension to Rhoda Lloyd;

H. R. 1180. An act granting an increase of pension to Jackson Sizemoure;

H. R. 1487. An act granting an increase of pension to Herbert F. Brooks;

H. R. 1501. An act granting an increase of pension to Harrison Burkett;

H. R. 1565. An act granting an increase of pension to William W. Levering;

H. R. 1884. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry C. Hoover;

H. R. 1936. An act granting an increase of pension to David Everitt;

H. R. 1949. An act granting an increase of pension to David Lemon;

H. R. 1990. An act granting an increase of pension to Martha Andrews;

H. R. 2101. An act granting an increase of pension to William H. Mize;

H. R. 2198. An act granting an increase of pension to Thomas S. Blake;

H. R. 2210. An act granting an increase of pension to John Horstman;

H. R. 2341. An act granting an increase of pension to Christopher N. Snyder;

H. R. 2351. An act granting an increase of pension to Seth H. Phillips;

H. R. 2363. An act granting an increase of pension to Charles McCoy;

H. R. 2364. An act granting an increase of pension to Anna M. Bohn;

H. R. 2407. An act granting an increase of pension to Rodolphus Bard;

H. R. 2408. An act granting an increase of pension to Frank N. Bement;

H. R. 2425. An act granting an increase of pension to John M. Essington;

H. R. 2664. An act granting an increase of pension to Joseph H. Kitzmiller;

H. R. 2687. An act granting an increase of pension to Joseph V. Stevenson;

H. R. 2755. An act granting an increase of pension to John H. Nutter;

H. R. 2767. An act granting an increase of pension to James M. Endicott;

H. R. 2772. An act granting an increase of pension to Mathias D. Rodocker;

H. R. 2803. An act granting an increase of pension to William B. P. Turner;

H. R. 2850. An act granting an increase of pension to Elihu Wheeler;

H. R. 2861. An act granting an increase of pension to Margaret Cornwell;

H. R. 2864. An act granting an increase of pension to Ferdinand Stritsman;

H. R. 2899. An act granting an increase of pension to John Mess;

H. R. 2913. An act granting an increase of pension to John R. Pahlman;

H. R. 2934. An act granting an increase of pension to Lucy Ferguson;

H. R. 2935. An act granting an increase of pension to George W. Fuchs;

H. R. 2940. An act granting an increase of pension to Frank D. Newberry;

H. R. 2949. An act granting an increase of pension to William S. O'Brien;

H. R. 2974. An act granting an increase of pension to William Little;

H. R. 2993. An act granting an increase of pension to William Hogan;
H. R. 3180. An act granting an increase of pension to Charles I. Krickbaum;
H. R. 3200. An act granting an increase of pension to Elston Armstrong;
H. R. 3215. An act granting an increase of pension to Oliver P. Johnson;
H. R. 3325. An act granting an increase of pension to Edwin H. Buck;
H. R. 3334. An act granting an increase of pension to George F. Nichols;
H. R. 3335. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry Holliday;
H. R. 3337. An act granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Evans;
H. R. 3338. An act granting a pension to Elizabeth James;
H. R. 3341. An act granting an increase of pension to James R. Grider;
H. R. 3354. An act granting an increase of pension to Christopher Lute;
H. R. 3453. An act granting an increase of pension to George Taylor, alias George Parks;
H. R. 3454. An act granting an increase of pension to John C. Peters;
H. R. 3494. An act granting an increase of pension to Deitrich Bellman;
H. R. 3616. An act granting an increase of pension to Eli Masters;
H. R. 3628. An act granting an increase of pension to Charles W. Wheat;
H. R. 3737. An act granting an increase of pension to Thomas E. Story;
H. R. 3740. An act granting an increase of pension to James Walters;
H. R. 3767. An act granting an increase of pension to John H. Bond;
H. R. 3842. An act granting an increase of pension to William Winter;
H. R. 4105. An act granting an increase of pension to George W. Hearing;
H. R. 4126. An act granting an increase of pension to Annie M. Owen;
H. R. 4148. An act granting an increase of pension to George S. Neill;
H. R. 4150. An act granting an increase of pension to Charles Miles;
H. R. 4175. An act granting an increase of pension to Adam Meyer;
H. R. 4189. An act granting an increase of pension to David Wood;
H. R. 4247. An act granting an increase of pension to Alexander Beaty;
H. R. 4249. An act granting an increase of pension to John R. Miller;
H. R. 4311. An act granting an increase of pension to David Whitten;
H. R. 4315. An act granting an increase of pension to Mary A. Defendall;
H. R. 4330. An act granting an increase of pension to Mary J. Baughman;
H. R. 4332. An act granting an increase of pension to Alonzo Harter;
H. R. 4333. An act granting an increase of pension to John H. Oakley, alias John Hoyt;
H. R. 4371. An act granting an increase of pension to Palmer Loper;
H. R. 4405. An act granting an increase of pension to Miles C. Christy;
H. R. 4485. An act granting an increase of pension to Jennie S. Risley;
H. R. 4487. An act granting an increase of pension to Rebecca W. Swain;
H. R. 4516. An act granting an increase of pension to William Bain;
H. R. 4535. An act granting an increase of pension to William L. Jaquett;
H. R. 4666. An act granting an increase of pension to John H. Monk;
H. R. 4695. An act granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Johnson;
H. R. 4752. An act granting an increase of pension to Theodore Campbell;
H. R. 4755. An act granting an increase of pension to George E. Goodrich;
H. R. 4766. An act granting an increase of pension to Charles P. Leavitt;
H. R. 4767. An act granting an increase of pension to Milton Ross;
H. R. 4937. An act granting an increase of pension to Rebecca S. Wishart;
H. R. 5317. An act granting an increase of pension to Lewis W. Crain;
H. R. 5455. An act granting an increase of pension to Dallas Vernam;
H. R. 5977. An act granting a pension to Mary Cross and Anna L. Cross;
H. R. 6046. An act granting an increase of pension to Edward T. Tucker;
H. R. 6398. An act granting an increase of pension to Ann Toomey;
H. R. 6484. An act granting an increase of pension to Samuel L. Bushong;
H. R. 6521. An act granting an increase of pension to Casper Deschler;
H. R. 6554. An act granting an increase of pension to Joseph Ralley;
H. R. 6651. An act granting an increase of pension to John Miller;
H. R. 6827. An act granting a pension to Morton A. Wilcox;
H. R. 6872. An act granting an increase of pension to Amos W. Polley;
H. R. 7088. An act granting an increase of pension to Benson S. Philbrick;
H. R. 7275. An act granting an increase of pension to Edward N. Burns;
H. R. 7316. An act granting a pension to George W. Richardson;
H. R. 7333. An act granting an increase of pension to DeLoss Hopkins;
H. R. 7606. An act to amend an act entitled "An act permitting the building of a dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, in Beltrami County, Minn.," approved March 3, 1905;
H. R. 7865. An act granting an increase of pension to Edwin T. Farmer;
H. R. 7884. An act granting an increase of pension to John Shadinger;
H. R. 8013. An act granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Young;
H. R. 8088. An act granting an increase of pension to Thomas Johnson;
H. R. 8237. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry A. Rice;
H. R. 8249. An act granting an increase of pension to Jacob Wiler;
H. R. 8462. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry Smith;
H. R. 8662. An act granting an increase of pension to Michael McDonald;
H. R. 8695. An act granting an increase of pension to William Thomas;
H. R. 8774. An act granting an increase of pension to James R. Batten;
H. R. 9041. An act granting an increase of pension to John E. Coogle;
H. R. 9060. An act granting an increase of pension to Daniel S. Graves;
H. R. 9210. An act to authorize the court of county commissioners of Geneva County, Ala., to construct a bridge across the Choctawhatchee River at or near the Jones Old Ferry, in Geneva County, Ala.;
H. R. 9283. An act granting an increase of pension to Asahel E. Chaffee;
H. R. 9328. An act granting an increase of pension to Cecilia Quinlan;
H. R. 9573. An act granting an increase of pension to Cynthia Bridges;
H. R. 10019. An act granting an increase of pension to Henry Knauff;
H. R. 10168. An act granting an increase of pension to Mathew B. Reid;
H. R. 10306. An act granting an increase of pension to Tilghman Scholl;
H. R. 10309. An act granting an increase of pension to Albert Hoffman;
H. R. 10368. An act to authorize the Secretary of War to change name of Julius Flemming to his proper name of Jacob John Locher.

H. R. 10379. An act granting an increase of pension to George F. Laird;

H. R. 10411. An act granting an increase of pension to Albert Butler;

H. R. 10437. An act granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth B. Thomason;

H. R. 10630. An act granting an increase of pension to John N. Hubbard;

H. R. 10858. An act granting an increase of pension to Barbara Popp;

H. R. 10937. An act granting a pension to J. R. Harwell;

H. R. 11407. An act granting an increase of pension to Alfred G. Anderson;

H. R. 11856. An act granting an increase of pension to William Saunders;

H. R. 12439. An act authorizing the construction of a bridge across White River, Arkansas;

H. R. 13303. An act granting a pension to Sidney N. Utley; and

H. J. Res. 25. Joint resolution permitting the waiving of the immigration law in the case of Mathilde Sandgren.

The foregoing House pension bills were subsequently read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

SENATOR FROM MARYLAND.

Mr. RAYNER presented the credentials of WILLIAM PINKNEY WHYTE, chosen January 15, 1908, by the legislature of the State of Maryland, a Senator from that State to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Arthur P. Gorman, in the term beginning March 4, 1903, which were read and ordered to be filed.

Mr. RAYNER. Mr. President, My colleague is present and I ask that the oath may now be administered to him.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator-elect from the State of Maryland will present himself at the Vice-President's desk and take the oath prescribed by law.

Mr. WHYTE was escorted to the Vice-President's desk by Mr. RAYNER and the oath prescribed by law having been administered to him, he took his seat in the Senate.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT presented a resolution adopted by the Association of American Universities in convention at Ann Arbor, Mich., favoring an adequate representation at the proposed Pan-American Scientific Congress as recommended in the report of the Secretary of State, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

He also presented the petition of Hon. Wilkinson Call, ex-United States Senator from the State of Florida, praying that the credentials of Hon. WILLIAM J. BRYAN, appointed by the governor of the State of Florida a Senator from that State, be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections pending an inquiry and report as to whether Napoleon Broward is lawfully the governor of the State of Florida and is possessed of the appointing power, which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

He also presented a memorial of the First Commercial Travelers' Congress of San Francisco, Cal., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. FRYE presented a petition of sundry citizens of Lewiston, Me., and a petition of sundry citizens of Dixfield, Me., praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments for the surviving officers of the civil war, which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PLATT presented the memorial of Irving Van Voris, of Cobleskill, N. Y., and a memorial of the First Commercial Travelers' Congress of San Francisco, Cal., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. HOPKINS presented a petition of Local Union No. 524, International Typographical Union, of Freeport, Ill., praying for the repeal of the duty on white paper, wood pulp, etc., which was referred to the Commitee on Finance.

Mr. PERKINS presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of San Diego, Cal., praying that an appropriation be made for the purchase and construction of submarine torpedo boats for the protection of the principal harbors on the Pacific coast, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also presented a memorial of the First Commercial Travelers' Congress of San Francisco, Cal., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of sundry inspectors of customs of San Francisco, Cal., praying for the enactment of legislation to increase the compensation of inspectors of customs in the district of San Francisco, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. NELSON presented a petition of the Commercial Club of Duluth, Minn., praying for the adoption of a certain amendment of the present interstate-commerce law requiring railroad companies to notify shippers of any proposed increase in interstate freight rates, which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also presented a petition of Local Union No. 30, International Typographical Union, of St. Paul, Minn., praying for the enactment of legislation to repeal the duty on white paper, wood pulp, and the materials used in the manufacture thereof, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. SUTHERLAND presented a petition of the Utah State Council of Women of Salt Lake City, Utah, praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution to prohibit the disfranchisement of citizens of the United States on account of sex, which was referred to the Select Committee on Woman Suffrage.

Mr. GALLINGER presented the memorial of F. Mabel Winchell, of Manchester, N. H., remonstrating against the adoption of a certain amendment to the present copyright law relating to the importation of copies of any book free of duty, which was referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented a petition of the Society of Architects of Boston, Mass., praying for the enactment of legislation providing for the improvement of the city of Washington, D. C., in accordance with the plans of Major l'Enfant, and the placing of the Grant monument at the end of the Mall in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented the petition of Abe Holzmann, of New York City, N. Y., praying for the passage of the so-called "Kittredge copyright bill," which was referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented a memorial of the First Commercial Travelers' Congress of San Francisco, Cal., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of southeast Washington, D. C., praying for the enactment of legislation to remove grade tracks and crossings of railroads in that section of the city, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented the memorial of Tait, Omwake & Co., of Washington, D. C., remonstrating against the enactment of legislation requiring universal transfers to be issued by street railway companies in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Coumbia.

He also presented a petition of the Brightwood and Takoma Park Citizens' Association, of the District of Columbia, praying for the enactment of legislation authorizing the Bureau of Corporations or the Interstate Commerce Commission to make an examination of the railway companies in the District of Columbia with respect to organization, capitalization, valuation, etc., which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a memorial of the German ex-Soldiers' Waffengemessen, of Dallas, Tex., remonstrating against the enactment of legislation to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a petition of the congregation of the Eckington Presbyterian Church, of the District of Columbia, praying for the enactment of legislation to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of New York City, N. Y., and a petition of the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific Coast, of San Francisco, Cal., praying for the passage of the so-called "ship-subsidy bill," which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented a paper to accompany the bill (S. 2900) to consolidate and revise the acts respecting copyright, which was referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. SCOTT presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Parkersburg, W. Va., praying for the establishment of natural forestry reservations in the State of West Virginia, which was referred to the Committee on Forest Reservations and the Protection of Game.

He also presented a petition of Local Union No. 79, International Typographical Union, of Wheeling, W. Va., praying for the repeal of the duty on white paper, wood pulp, and the materials used in the manufacture thereof, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of Andrew Mather Post, No. 14, Grand Army of the Republic, of Parkersburg, W. Va., praying that all soldiers and sailors of the civil war be granted a pension of $30 per month, which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. TELLER. I present a memorial of the legislature of the State of Colorado, which I ask may be read and referred to the Committee on Irrigation.

There being no objection, the memorial was read and referred to the Committee on Irrigation, as follows:

CERTIFICATE.

STATE OF COLORADO.
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, State of Colorado, ss:

I, Timothy O'Connor, secretary of state of the State of Colorado, do hereby certify that the annexed is a full, true, and complete transcript of house joint memorial No. 3, passed by the sixteenth general assembly of the State of Colorado, approved April 2, 1907, and filed in this office the 2d day of April, A. D. 1907, at 2.47 o'clock p. m.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of the State of Colorado, at the city of Denver, this 15th day of January, A. D. 1908.

[SEAL.]

TIMOTHY O'CONNOR,
Secretary of State.

House joint memorial 3.

To the President, the Senate, and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

Your memorialists, the sixteenth general assembly of the State of Colorado, in regular session assembled, do hereby submit for your honorable consideration, the following memorial pertaining to the storage of waters for irrigation purposes on the upper Roaring Fork River and its tributaries in the State of Colorado.

Advised as you are of the very material benefits that have accrued to all sections of the arid West through the construction of storage reservoirs for the conservation of waters that would otherwise go to waste during the periods of annual floods and the nonirrigating season, and knowing the absolute necessity of converting all available supplies of water to some beneficial use to the thousands of acres of exceptionally fertile and arable lands along the many streams of our great Commonwealth, we, your petitioners, do thus desire to call your especial attention to an urgent consideration of the following statement of facts in connection with conditions now existing in that part of our State dependent upon the upper Roaring Fork River and its tributaries for a supply of water for irrigation purposes. Comprised within the broad domain of what is known as "Spring Valley" are 25,000 acres of very fertile arable lands, which for their sufficient irrigation need only a system of reservoir construction, on the many natural and favorable sites that exist along the tributaries of the Roaring Fork River, to conserve the waters that now go to waste during the annual flood and nonirrigating season.

The reservoir will cover about 1,000 acres and can be made to hold 30,000 to 35,000 acre-feet of water. It is proposed to fill this reservoir from Cattle Creek, and all supply ditches for filling same need not be more than 1½ miles in length.

The lands which can be irrigated from this reservoir and the lateral ditches flowing from the same are as good as any that can be found in the State of Colorado; rich mesa soil, free from rock, and easily cultivated. The land is of easy slope, and the ditches can be built to the same with comparative ease and at a reasonable cost.

The lands to be irrigated extend from near Basalt to a point near Glenwood Springs in an almost solid tract of about 25,000 acres, and it is estimated that the total cost of watering the same, including the price of reservoir site, building of reservoir and outlet ditches, and all expense, will not exceed $10 per acre. Considering the excellent quality of this land and the fact that it is located from 1 to 6 miles of the railroad, we think you will readily understand the value of such project to this section of the country.

Therefore the sixteenth general assembly of the State of Colorado respectfully submits this memorial that you may be fully advised as to the exigencies of the existent conditions; and we request that you take such steps as may be deemed advisable, to the end that this section of our State may be reduced to cultivation.

Approved April 2, 1907, at 10.47 a. m.

HENRY A. BUCHTEL,
Governor of the State of Colorado.
E. R. HARPER,
President of the Senate.
R. G. BRECKENRIDGE,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

STATE OF COLORADO, ss:

This act originated in the house.

WILLIAM C. BLAIR, Chief Clerk.

STATE OF COLORADO, Secretary's Office, ss:

This act was filed in my office this 2d day of April, A. D. 1907, at 2.47 o'clock p. m.

TIMOTHY O'CONNOR,
Secretary of State.
By JOHN E. RAMER,
Deputy Secretary.

Mr. LATIMER presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, S. C., praying that an appropriation be made for the construction of submarine torpedo boats for the protection of the port of that city, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also presented petitions of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, of the Board of Trade of Greenville, and of the Chamber of Commerce of Spartanburg, all in the State of South Carolina, praying for the establishment of a national forest reserve in the southern Appalachian and White mountains, which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. SIMMONS presented a petition of Local Union No. 625, International Typographical Union, of Salisbury, N. C., praying for the repeal of the duty on white paper, wood pulp, etc., which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BURKETT presented a memorial of the Commercial Club of Madison, Nebr., remonstrating against the passage of the so-called "parcels-post bill," which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented a petition of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, of Chicago, Ill., praying that an investigation be made into the conditions of the telegraph companies of the country, which was referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

He also presented sundry affidavits to accompany the bill (S. 1130) granting an increase of pension to Charles F. Shepard, which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented sundry affidavits to accompany the bill (S. 2089) granting an increase of pension to Jesse Hiner, which were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a paper to accompany the amendment submitted by himself on December 16, 1907, and intended to be proposed to the post-office appropriation bill relative to the account of the late Edward Rosewater as a delegate to the Universal Postal Congress at Rome, Italy, which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. LONG presented a petition of sundry veterans of the civil war of McCune, Kans., praying for the passage of the so-called "Lafean pension bill," which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of Local Camp, Sons of Veterans, of Parsons, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to create a volunteer retired list in the War and Navy Departments of the surviving officers of the civil war, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of Typographical Union No. 470, American Federation of Labor, of Pittsburg, Kans., praying for the enactment of legislation to repeal the duty on wood pulp used in the manufacture of print paper, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. FLINT presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of San Diego, Cal., praying that an appropriation be made for the construction and purchase of submarine torpedo boats for the protection of the principal harbors of the Pacific coast, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs

He also presented a petition of Local Union No. 6, International Typographical Union, of New York City, N. Y., praying for the repeal of the duty on white paper, wood pulp, and the materials used in the manufacture thereof, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of San Diego, Cal., praying that an appropriation be made for the improvement of Pearl Harbor channel, in the Hawaiian Islands, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. TILLMAN presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, S. C., praying that an appropriation be made for an extension of the custom-house piers at that place, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, S. C., praying that an appropriation be made for the construction of submarine torpedo boats for the protection of the port of that city, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, S. C., praying for the establishment of a national forest reserve in the southern Appalachian and White mountains, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE presented a memorial of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee, Wis., remonstrating against the enactment of legislation to prohibit interference with commerce among the States and Territories and with foreign nations and to remove obstructions thereto, which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

RENT OF BUILDINGS FOR DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. PROCTOR. I present a communication from the Secretary of Agriculture, being a statement of the regulation of the rents for buildings for the Forestry Service of that Department. It is in response to a request of the Senator from Idaho [Mr. HEYBURN]. I move that the communication be printed as a document.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. PILES. I am directed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7618) to authorize the Benton Water Company, its successors or assigns, to construct a dam across the Snake River, in the State of Washiagton, to report it favorably without amendment, and I ask for its present consideration.

Mr. HEYBURN. I object to the consideration of the bill at this time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 929) to confer jurisdiction upon the circuit court of the United States for the ninth circuit to determine in equity the rights of American citizens under the award of the Bering Sea arbitration of Paris and to render judgment thereon, to ask to be discharged from its further consideration and that it be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. This is done because the Committee on Foreign Relations at previous sessions has considered the same bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In the absence of objection, the Committee on the Judiciary will be discharged from the further consideration of the bill and it will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming. For the same reason I ask that the Committee on the Judiciary be discharged from the further consideration of the bill (S. 565) to prevent and punish the desecration, mutilation, or improper use of the flag of the United States of America, and the bill (S. 727) to prevent the desecration of the American flag, and that the bills be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection, the Committee on the Judiciary will be discharged from the further consideration of the bills, and they will be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 597) amending the act of August 3, 1892, clause 361, entitled "An act fixing the fees of jurors and witnesses in the United States courts in certain States and Territories" (27 Stat. L., p. 347), reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. ELKINS, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 12412) to authorize the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cache River, in Woodruff County, Ark., reported it without amendment.

Mr. DAVIS. I am directed by the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3409) to extend the time of payments on certain homestead entries in Oklahoma, to report it favorably without amendment. I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will read the bill for the information of the Senate.

The Secretary read the bill.

Mr. SCOTT. Is there a report accompanying the bill?

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I desire to inquire if the bill comes from any committee?

Mr. DAVIS. I have just reported it from the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In answer to the Senator from West Virginia, the Chair will state that no report accompanies the bill. Is there objection to its present consideration?

Mr. SCOTT. Let the report be read.

Mr. BURROWS. I understand that the bill has just been reported from the committee and that immediate action is asked.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. BURROWS. We have had several instances in the present Congress where bills have been passed in this way and have been subsequently recalled from the other House on account of the hasty action in the Senate. I object to the present consideration of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made. The bill will go to the Calendar.

Mr. BOURNE, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1824) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of Alabama, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 536) to establish a fish-hatching and fish-culture station in the county of Newcastle, Del., reported it with amendments and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. du PONT. I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the bill just reported by the Senator from Oregon.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read for the information of the Senate.

The Secretary read the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. SCOTT. I object.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the bill will go to the Calendar.

Mr. BOURNE, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 2328) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of North Carolina;

A bill (S. 3350) for the establishment of a fish-cultural station on the St. Johns River, in the State of Florida; and

A bill (S. 762) to establish a fish-cultural station in the State of New Jersey.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2024) to amend "An act authorizing Commissioners of the District of Columbia to grant to the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association use of certain property in the city of Washington," approved March 2, 1891, reported it with an amendment and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. WARNER, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 110) for the erection of an addition or extension to the post-office and courthouse at Sioux Falls, S. Dak., reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. WHYTE introduced a bill (S. 4108) to reimburse and indemnify the town of Frederick, in the State of Maryland, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BURKETT introduced a bill (S. 4109) authorizing certain extensions to be made in the lines of the Capital Traction Company in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title.

I desire to say in connection with this bill, which provides for some extensions of street car lines in Northeast Washington, that I had intended to offer it as an amendment to the bill which we expect to call up soon for placing tracks into the grounds of the new Union Station, but after consulting the committee I find they desire that that bill shall remain entirely free from any other matter, and that it shall simply provide for tracks to the depot. Therefore I do not now expect to offer it as an amendment, but will bring the bill before the committee, and after it has been reported I shall ask the Senate to consider it at the earliest possible day.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, inasmuch as there has been a misapprehension as to the attitude the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia has assumed toward the bill just introduced, the report having gone out that the chairman is opposed to such a bill, I desire to say that I am heartily in favor of it, but I wanted to have it considered as a separate measure and not encumber the bill to extend the tracks to the Union Station by being offered as an amendment to that measure.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. STONE (by request) introduced a bill (S. 4110) to place on the citizenship roll of the Cherokee Nation the names of certain Cherokee families omitted by the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes on account of certain technicalities of application and dates of residence, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4111) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of William A. Shoemaker, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 4112) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the reorganization of the consular service of the United States," approved April 5, 1906, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4113) for the relief of Elizabeth L. W. Bailey, administratrix of the estate of Davis W. Bailey, deceased, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompany paper, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4114) granting a pension to Rhoda Bissell Thomas; and

A bill (S. 4115) granting an increase of pension to Nathan G. Springs.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 4116) authorizing the Secretary of War to place the name of Joseph F. Ritcherdson on the rolls of Company C, One hundred and twenty-second Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and issue him an honorable discharge; and

A bill (S. 4117) to correct the military record of Isaac W. Reed.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a bill (S. 4118) in relation to business streets in the District of Columbia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 4119) granting a pension to Lois M. Price, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. LODGE (for Mr. PENROSE) introduced a bill (S. 4120) to provide a site and buildings for an immigrant station at the port of Philadelphia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Immigration.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4121) authorizing the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to procure a site and erect buildings for an immigration station at the port of Boston, in Massachusetts, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Immigration.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 4122) making appropriation for the establishment of the National Training and Industrial Institute, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4123) authorizing the purchase of a site and the construction of a building for customs purposes at Boston, Mass., which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. McCUMBER introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4124) granting an increase of pension to Emma H. Cotton;

A bill (S. 4125) granting an increase of pension to Frank Mougey; and

A bill (S. 4126) granting an increase of pension to Josephus Allen.

Mr. FRYE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4127) granting a pension to William Connelly, alias Connell;

A bill (S. 4128) granting an increase of pension to Adele Paré (with an accompanying paper); and

A bill (S. 4129) granting an increase of pension to James Rugan (with accompanying papers).

Mr. GAMBLE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4130) granting an increase of pension to Hannah Ross; and

A bill (S. 4131) granting an increase of pension to William L. Anderson.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4132) creating an additional land district in the State of South Dakota, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. FULTON introduced a bill (S. 4133) for the relief of certain entrymen known as the Sherman County settlers in the State of Oregon, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. SMOOT introduced a bill (S. 4134) to correct the military record of Thomas Smith, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. McCREARY introduced a bill (S. 4135) to secure proper representation for the United States at future international conferences, and for the proper employment of former Presidents of the United States, which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. McCREARY. I ask that the bill be read.

The bill was read the second time at length, as follows:

A bill (S. 4135) to secure proper representation for the United States at future international conferences, and for the proper employment of former Presidents of the United States.

Whereas definite arrangements have been made for the periodical convening of Pan-American conferences at convenient times hereafter, and for the convening of a third international conference at The Hague after an interval analogous to that which came between the first and second Hague conferences; and

Whereas proper representation of the United States at such conferences calls for such great familiarity with and mastery of the questions to be discussed as can only be acquired by much study and wide experience in the political life of our own country as well as in international affairs; and

Whereas no provision has heretofore been made for the former Presidents of the United States so as to secure for the nation their continued service in the interests of the people; and

Whereas by long years of experience they are eminently qualified to represent the nation in the international conferences already provided for and in those that will hereafter be called into existence and action: Therefore,

Be it enacted, etc., That former Presidents of the United States shall be ex officio representatives, for life, of the United States at the Pan-American and other international conferences in which the United States may participate. The President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint forthwith four other persons as members of the forthcoming Pan-American, Hague, and other international conferences, two for a term of four years, and two for a term of eight years. At the expiration of the terms of the persons so appointed the vacancies shall be filled for a term of eight years, in the same manner, and the previous incumbents shall be eligible for reappointment.

SEC. 2. That it shall be the duty of the former Presidents and the other international representatives hereby appointed to investigate and from time to time report upon the several propositions looking to the substitution of judicial decisions for force in international relations with a view to enabling the United States Government to cooperate intelligently in all international efforts to secure to the people the benefits of more enduring peace. Their reports shall be made to the President and to the Congress of the United States, and they shall investigate and report upon all questions referred to them by the President or by either branch of Congress. They shall also disseminate information on the question of international arbitration and peace by addresses and publications in order to insure to the people the benefits of their investigations and conclusions. Their meetings shall be held upon their own initiative upon the call of the ranking former President or other person chosen by them as chairman at such time and place as they may agree upon.

SEC. 3. That the former Presidents and other representatives of the United States hereby appointed shall receive during their term of office the sum of $10,000 annually, in quarterly payments, and in addition thereto all their actual expenses incurred in the exercise of their official duties, including expenditures for travel and residence in foreign countries and clerical assistance, shall be paid upon vouchers approved by the Secretary of State.

SEC. 4. That each former President and other representatives of the United States hereby appointed shall be authorized to employ a secretary at an annual salary of $3,000, and the actual expenses of the secretaries while residing and traveling in other countries in fulfillment of the duties of their positions shall be paid upon vouchers approved by the Secretary of State.

SEC. 5. That to carry out the provisions of this act the sum of $150,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated from any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 6. That this act shall take effect immediately.

Mr. McCREARY. I move that the bill be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. McENERY (for Mr. FOSTER) introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4136) for the relief of Joseph McCarron;

A bill (S. 4137) for the relief of the estate of James F. Hayden, deceased;

A bill (S. 4138) for the relief of the estate of Louis Gabb, deceased;

A bill (S. 4139) for the relief of the estate of Victor Lauman, deceased;

A bill (S. 4140) for the relief of the estate of Marie Hermine Blanchard, deceased;

A bill (S. 4141) for the relief of Webster Long;

A bill (S. 4142) for the relief of the estate of Kinchen W. McKinney, deceased;

A bill (S. 4143) for the relief of Jean Pierre Lagasse;

A bill (S. 4144) for the relief of the estate of Nicholas Valerie, deceased;

A bill (S. 4145) for the relief of the estate of Catherine S. Prest, deceased;

A bill (S. 4146) for the relief of the estate of James Darby, deceased;

A bill (S. 4147) for the relief of the estate of Owen Conlan, deceased;

A bill (S. 4148) for the relief of the estate of Hypolite Abadie, deceased;

A bill (S. 4149) for the relief of the estate of Thomas Johnston, deceased;

A bill (S. 4150) for the relief of Eveline M. Stafford;

A bill (S. 4151) for the relief of the estate of Thomas H. Oswald, deceased;

A bill (S. 4152) for the relief of the estate of William H. Peyton, sr., deceased;

A bill (S. 4153) for the relief of the estate of Reine S. Welham;

A bill (S. 4154) for the relief of H. Paul Fortin and the estate of William Samuel Johnson, deceased; and

A bill (S. 4155) for the relief of the estate of Mary Phillips, deceased.

Mr. McENERY introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4156) for the relief of Pierre A. Giamarchi;

A bill (S. 4157) for the relief of Thomas C. Payan; and

A bill (S. 4158) for the relief of Gean Charles Harispe.

Mr. FRAZIER introduced a bill (S. 4159) to correct the record of Capt. Thomas H. Reeves, United States Army, retired, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4160) for the relief of the heirs of Erban Powers, deceased;

A bill (S. 4161) for the relief of Payne, James & Co; and

A bill (S. 4162) for the relief of the estate of John W. McKissock, deceased.

Mr. SIMMONS introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4163) granting an increase of pension to Samuel J. Kent; and

A bill (S. 4164) granting an increase of pension to John Medcalf.

Mr. BANKHEAD introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4165) for the relief of the Northern Pacific Railway Company;

A bill (S. 4166) for the relief of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway Company; and

A bill (S. 4167) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust the accounts of the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railway Company for transporting the United States mails.

Mr. FLINT introduced a bill (S. 4168) to provide for the disposal of lands chiefly valuable for oil and asphaltum, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4169) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the compensation of inspectors of customs at the district of San Francisco, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4170) to reimburse the Southern Pacific Company the amounts expended by it from December 1, 1906, to November 30, 1907, in closing and controlling the break in the Colorado River, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4171) to provide for continuation of investigations of the rivers and water resources of the United States, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the Geological Survey.

Mr. WARREN introduced a bill (S. 4172) providing for the erection of an addition to the court-house of the District of Columbia for the use of the court of appeals, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4173) for the relief of the estate of John G. Campbell, deceased, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DOLLIVER introduced a bill (S. 4174) to provide for an addition to the new building for the Department of Agriculture, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4175) granting a pension to Anna E. Grages;

A bill (S. 4176) granting a pension to Martha S. Grimes;

A bill (S. 4177) granting a pension to Samuel H. Portz; and

A bill (S. 4178) granting an increase of penison to Phillip H. Showers.

Mr. SUTHERLAND introduced a bill (S. 4179) granting rights of way and easements for the construction, use, maintenance, and operation of roads, highways, canals, ditches, reservoirs, telephone and telegraph lines, and lines for the transmission of electric light and power within and through forest reserves on the public lands of the United States, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4180) granting an increase of pension to Samuel N. King;

A bill (S. 4181) granting a pension to Alexander Baird; and

A bill (S. 4182) granting an increase of pension to Hugh H. Tarbet.

Mr. ANKENY introduced a bill (S. 4183) to establish a fish-cultural station on the Tucannon River, in the State of Washington, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Fisheries.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4184) for the relief of John M. Hill, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4185) granting an increase of pension to Gage S. Gritman, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CLAPP introduced a bill (S. 4186) creating in the State of Minnesota a national forest reserve consisting of certain described lands, and for other purposes, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4187) granting an increase of pension to Henry P. French; and

A bill (S. 4188) granting an increase of pension to Harrison Lyons (with the accompanying papers).

Mr. LATIMER introduced a bill (S. 4189) to give the Court of Claims jurisdiction of claims for captured and abandoned property which was sold and the proceeds thereof placed in the Treasury of the United States, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BULKELEY introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4190) granting an increase of pension to Henry A. Eastman;

A bill (S. 4191) granting an increase of pension to Martha W. Hatch; and

A bill (S. 4192) granting an increase of pension to Martha E. Gabriel.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4193) for the relief of Edward W. Whitaker, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. NELSON introduced a bill (S. 4194) granting a pension to Annie A. Robins, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CARTER introduced a bill (S. 4195) for the relief of John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HOPKINS introduced a bill (S. 4196) to provide for the enlargement and improvement of the public building at Elgin, Ill., which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4197) granting an increase of pension to Jonathan N. Chandler;

A bill (S. 4198) granting an increase of pension to H. C. Elliott;

A bill (S. 4199) granting a pension to Elijah Foster;

A bill (S. 4200) granting an increase of pension to William A. Hope;

A bill (S. 4201) granting an increase of pension to Martin Jernigan;

A bill (S. 4202) granting an increase of pension to John W. Marcum;

A bill (S. 4203) granting an increase of pension to Isaac Milton;

A bill (S. 4204) granting a pension to Nancy C. Provence;

A bill (S. 4205) granting an increase of pension to John W. Toler;

A bill (S. 4206) granting an increase of pension to W. H. H. Westbrook (with an accompanying paper); and

A bill (S. 4207) granting an increase of pension to John T. Hadden (with accompanying papers).

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 4208) to amend the military record of Nelson J. Blatherwick; and

A bill (S. 4209) to amend the military record of William Morrison.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a bill (S. 4210) granting an increase of pension to Benjamin F. Harless, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4211) to provide for the appointment of an additional district judge in and for the southern judicial district of the State of West Virginia, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 4212) granting an increase of pension to William Flemming;

A bill (S. 4213) granting an increase of pension to John P. D. Stevens;

A bill (S. 4214) granting an increase of pension to Frank M. Montague; and

A bill (S. 4215) granting a pension to Anna Sterr.

Mr. BEVERIDGE introduced a bill (S. 4216) to increase the number of chaplains in the United States Navy, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. LONG introduced a bill (S. 4217) to provide for the purchase of a site and erection of a public building thereon in the city of Abilene, State of Kansas, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4218) granting an increase of pension to Johnson Hinton, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 4219) for the relief of William Fletcher, which was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 4220) for the relief of Carter Gazlay (with accompanying papers);

A bill (S. 4221) for the relief of Franklin Cowan; and

A bill (S. 4222) for the relief of George W. Greene (with an accompanying paper).

Mr. CLAY introduced the following bills, which were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Claims:

A bill (S. 4223) for the relief of the estate of W. H. Kemp, deceased (with accompanying papers); and

A bill (S. 4224) for the relief of Julia B. Fuss.

Mr. PILES introduced a bill (S. 4225) granting an increase of pension to Wyman F. Patten, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 4226) to establish a light station on Duck Island, Isles of Shoals, State of Maine, which was read twice by its title and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Commerce.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. FRYE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (S. 3335) to increase the efficiency of the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps of the United States, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs and ordered to be printed.

Mr. NELSON submitted an amendment authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the owners of the Norwegian steamship Nicaragua $4,926.67, for damage to the owners of the steamship by reason of the rescue of an American citizen, John McCafferty, etc., intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill, which was referred to the Committee on Claims and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PROCTOR submitted an amendment proposing to appropriate $800 for the rent of offices of corporation counsel in the District of Columbia from November 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, etc., intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill, which was ordered to be printed and, with an accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

JOHN PAUL JONES.

Mr. CLAPP submitted the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed and bound 11,000 additional copies of the addresses delivered at the exercises commemorative of John Paul Jones at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., April 24, 1906, together with other papers and illustrations germane thereto compiled and published under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing; 7,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, 4,000 for the use of the Senate.

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE.

Mr. CLAY. I submit a resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas Congress has provided that the Postmaster-General shall require all railroads carrying the mails under contract to comply with the terms of the contract as to time of arrival and departure of mails and to impose and collect reasonable fines for delay when such delay is not caused by unavoidable accidents and conditions; and

Whereas complaint has been made that this provision of law has not been complied with: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Postmaster-General be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the Senate:

1. Does the Post-Office Department keep a record of the arrival and departure of mail trains, especially of mail trains delayed in violation of this act?

2. Does the Post-Office Department keep a record of the fines imposed and collected by reason of such delay?

3. If so, the Postmaster-General is directed to transmit to the Senate a complete transcript of such record, showing what fines have been imposed and collected and what mail trains have been delayed in violation of the provision of this law, especially a record which pertains to mail trains carrying the mails in and through Georgia.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the consideration of the resolution just read?

Mr. KEAN. Let the resolution go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made.

Mr. CLAY. I did not hear the objection of the Senator.

Mr. KEAN. I merely asked that the resolution might go over.

Mr. CLAY. I hope the Senator will withdraw his request. This is a matter of vast importance in my State. We are having no little trouble about the mail. The resolution simply asks for information. I hope the Senator will withdraw his objection and let the resolution be adopted, so that I can get the information at the earliest possible day. I do not think there can be any objection to it.

Mr. KEAN. I do not see the chairman of the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads present, and I think the resolution had better go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution goes over.

ROLLS OF CHOCTAW AND CHICKASAW INDIANS, ETC.

Mr. CLAPP. I offer the resolution which I send to the desk, and ask that it may lie over.

The resolution was read and ordered to lie on the table, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to transmit to the Senate the following records and information:

I.

A list of the rolls which have been prepared since 1830 of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians by Government officers, agents, or representatives, the designation of each of said rolls, the name of the person or persons who prepared each of said rolls and the year in which each of said rolls was made, and the purpose for which each of said rolls was made.

II.

A list of the rolls of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians prepared by the officials, representatives, agents, or individual members of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations from 1880 to 1900, inclusive, and now in the custody and possession of the Department or any bureau, division, or commission thereof or thereunder; the designation of each roll and by whom and in what year or years each of said rolls was prepared, and the purpose for which each of said rolls was made.

III.

Which of said rolls were in the custody and possession of the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes and were used by said Commission in the preparation of the "final citizenship rolls" of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

IV.

A full copy of the decision of Hon. Frank L. Campbell, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, rendered under date of March 24, 1905, in the case of Mary Elizabeth Martin, applicant for enrollment as a citizen of the Choctaw Nation.

V.

A copy of the report of the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes under date of January 24, 1903, in the case of Bettie Lewis, respecting the authenticity and reliability of the rolls therein referred to, and which report is particularly referred to in the decision of the Assistant Attorney-General in the case of Mary Elizabeth Martin, rendered March 24, 1905.

VI.

A copy of the opinion of Hon. Willis J. Van Devanter, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, rendered under date of March 17, 1899, as approved by the Acting Secretary of the Interior, Hon. Thomas Ryan, on March 17, 1899, for the guidance of the Commission and the Department in the preparation of the "final rolls of citizenship" of the Choctaws and Chickasaws.

VII.

Whether the records of the Department and the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes show that any person whose name appears on any tribal roll of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Tribes, or his or her descendants, have been denied enrollment on the "final citizenship rolls" of said tribes and denied the right to share in the tribal property, and approximately how many have been so denied.

VIII.

A copy of the instructions prepared by Hon. W. A. Jones, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under date of July 25, 1899, and approved by the Acting Secretary of the Interior, Hon. Thomas Ryan, August 8, 1899, prescribing rules and regulations for the guidance of the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes in the examination of persons as to their right to enrollment on the final citizenship rolls of said tribes, appearing before said Commission under the provisions of the act approved June 28, 1898.

IX.

A copy of the notice issued by the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes under the act approved June 28, 1898, directing all persons claiming any rights in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations to appear before said Commission at certain specified places and times for examination and identification.

X.

Whether the records in the custody and possession of the Department and the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes show that all persons appearing before the Commission under the provisions of the act approved June 28, 1898, were examined by said Commission as to their Indian blood and descent under oath and their exact statements reduced to writing and made of record.

XI.

Whether the records in the possession and custody of the Department and the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes show that persons of mixed Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian and negro blood appearing before said Commission under the provisions of the act approved June 28, 1898, were examined by said Commission under oath solely as to their negro blood and descent and their testimony reduced to writing and made of record.

XII.

Whether the records in the possession of the Department and the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes show that any other class of persons excepting only persons of mixed Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian and negro blood appearing before said Commission under the provisions of the act approved June 28, 1898, were examined under oath and their statements reduced to writing and made of record.

XIII.

Whether the records of the Department and the Commission show that persons of mixed Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian and negro blood have been enrolled as "freedmen" and denied enrollment as Indians, regardless of the quantum of their Indian blood.

XIV.

Whether the quantum of Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian blood was held by the Department to be material in the determination of the rights of persons of mixed Choctaw or Chickasaw Indian and white blood.

XV.

The number of acres and the appraised value thereof of unselected and unallotted lands in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations, respectively.

XVI.

Whether the order issued by the Hon. Ethan Allen Hitchcock, Secretary of the Interior, under date of December 8, 1906, directing the Commission to suspend "all selections and the issuance of patents" to certain timber lands in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations, has been rescinded in whole or in part.

RULES GOVERNING PRIVATE PENSION BILLS.

On motion of Mr. MCCUMBER, it was

Ordered, That there be printed for the use of the Senate Committee on Pensions 4,000 copies of the rules governing the consideration of private pension bills adopted by said committee.

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY.

Mr. CLARK of Wyoming submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary, or any subcommittee thereof, be authorized to send for persons and papers and to administer oaths, and to employ a stenographer to report such hearings as may be had in connection with any subject which may be pending before said committee; that the committee may sit during the sessions or recess of the Senate, and that the expenses thereof be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITARIES.

Mr. STONE. I offer the resolution which I send to the desk, and ask unanimous consent for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be, and hereby is, authorized and directed to inquire, ascertain, and report to the Senate whether the moneys of the United States deposited by the Secretary of the Treasury in depositaries have been distributed, as far as practicable, equitably between the different States and sections as required by law, and if not, then to report, by bill or otherwise, what additional legislation is necessary to compel such equitable distribution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. HOPKINS. Mr. President, inasmuch as the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], the chairman of the Committee on Finance, is not present, I ask that the resolution go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection being made, the resolution will lie upon the table.

STENOGRAPHER FOR COMMITTEE ON MANUFACTURES.

Mr. HEYBURN submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Manufactures be authorized to employ a stenographer, to be paid at the rate of $1,000 per annum from the contingent fund of the Senate, until the close of the first session of the Sixtieth Congress.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. M. C. LATTA, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 16th instant approved and signed the joint resolution (S. R. 14) extending the time allowed the organized militia of the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia to conform to the provisions of section 3 of the act approved January 21, 1903.

REPORT OF PANAMA RAILROAD COMPANY.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Interoceanic Canals, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith the Fifty-eighth Annual Report of the Board of Directors of the Panama Railroad Company for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 20, 1908.

HOUSE BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTION REFERRED.

The following bills were severally read twice by their titles and referred to the Committee on Commerce:

H. R. 9210. An act to authorize the court of county commissioners of Geneva County, Ala., to construct a bridge across the Choctawhatchee River at or near the Jones Old Ferry, in Geneva County, Ala.; and

H. R. 12439. An act authorizing the construction of a bridge across White River, Arkansas.

H. R. 10368. An act to authorize the Secretary of War to change name of Julius Flemming to his proper name of Jacob John Locher was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

H. J. Res. 25. Joint resolution permitting the waiving of the immigration law in the case of Mathilde Sandgren was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Immigration.

NATIONAL BANKING ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, I should like to call up Senate resolution No. 63, which was submitted by me a few days ago.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no further concurrent or other resolutions, the Chair lays before the Senate the resolution referred to by the Senator from South Carolina, which will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution submitted by Mr. TILLMAN January 14, 1908, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to send to the Senate the following information:

1. The number of national banking associations that have been placed in the hands of receivers as insolvent since January 1, 1893; the capital stock of each such association; the name of the receiver of each such association; the amount of compensation paid to the receiver of each such association, together with the names of all attorneys or special employees under such receiver, together with the compensation paid them for such service, the States from which they were appointed, and their previous occupations.

2. An itemized statement of the amount of money paid out by each receiver to creditors of each national banking association upon the claims proved to shareholders, if any, and the amount of assessment levied upon shareholders of each such association.

3. In making appointments for national bank examiners, receivers, or special employees is the Treasury Department governed by rules established by the Civil Service Commission to determine the qualifications of applicants, or are such appointments made at the discretion of the Comptroller of the Treasury?

4. Have any national bank examiners during the period named been appointed who have not been assigned to a regular district for permanent service? If so, give the names of such examiners, the States from which they were appointed, their previous occupations, and the compensation paid in each case.

5. Is there any rule to determine the compensation to be paid to receivers, attorneys, or special employees of insolvent associations, based upon the capital stock of the association or its resources, or is the fixing of such compensation wholly within the discretion of the Comptroller of the Currency?

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, I should like to make one or two modifications of the resolution. On lines 12 and 13, on the first page of the resolution, I wish to strike out the words "and their previous occupations."

Mr. HOPKINS. Mr. President, is the resolution up for present consideration?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is up for present consideration.

Mr. HOPKINS. I would suggest to the Senator——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from South Carolina has the right to modify his resolution. Does the Senator from South Carolina yield to the Senator from Illinois?

Mr. TILLMAN. With pleasure.

Mr. HOPKINS. Does the Senator desire to have action on the resolution this morning?

Mr. TILLMAN. I do, provided I can get the consent of the Senate to consider it. The chairman of the Committee on Finance and I have had a conference about the resolution, and he has suggested the two modifications I am now making. When they are made he said he would have no objection to having the resolution passed.

Mr. HOPKINS. I have nothing to say, Mr. President, if the chairman of the committee has examined the resolution. I only rose to suggest his absence from the Chamber.

Mr. TILLMAN. I had noticed that the Senator from Rhode Island was absent, but I had a talk with him a few minutes ago, before he left the Chamber.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from South Carolina modifies his resolution in the manner which will be stated by the Secretary.

The SECRETARY. On page 1, line 12, after the word "appointed," strike out the words "and their previous occupations."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be so modified.

Mr. TILLMAN. On page 2, line 13, of the resolution I desire to strike out the words "their previous occupations."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be so modified. The question is on agreeing to the resolution as modified.

The resolution as modified was agreed to.

FINANCIAL STATISTICS.

Mr. GALLINGER. Regular order, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Calendar under Rule VIII is in order. The Secretary will state the first bill on the Calendar.

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, I desire to make an inquiry as to whether we have anything from the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to the resolution of the Senate passed some three or four weeks ago, which was called to the attention of the Senate last week by the Senator from Texas [Mr. CULBERSON]. We were then told that we should get the information on Wednesday. Wednesday came, and nothing appeared; now it is Monday, when we were promised that we would have the inquiry answered. Has anything come this morning, Mr. President?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There has been no report received on the subject.

Mr. TILLMAN. Nothing from the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to the Senate's resolution?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Not as yet.

Mr. TILLMAN. It is a little curious that an officer of the Government should be willing to occupy the attitude of disobedience to an order, after we have given him reasonable time in which to comply with it. I do not see the chairman of the Committee on Finance [Mr. ALDRICH], who has hitherto been sponsor or acted as the intermediary to give us information. I should like to ask if any other member of the Committee on Finance can tell us when we may expect a response to this order? We have an important bill pending here, introduced by the Senator from Rhode Island, and his committee are considering that bill every day. We learn from the newspapers that we are going to have a report in the near future from that committee; that the bill is to be brought in and pressed for consideration; and it does seem to me rather strange and extraordinary that the officer of the Government who is directly responsible for our financial affairs should occupy the attitude of refusing to give us the facts. How are we to discuss a financial bill when it is brought in from the Finance Committee without knowing all about this new issue of bonds and the general financial condition of the Treasury?

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from South Carolina yield to the Senator from New York?

Mr. TILLMAN. With pleasure.

Mr. PLATT. I want to say that when the chairman of the Committee on Finance comes in he will probably have some answer to the Senator's question.

Mr. TILLMAN. I hope somebody will send for the chairman of the committee. It seems to me that it is time for somebody to do something here.

Mr. KEAN. Let us have the regular order, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will state the first bill on the Calendar.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, before passing from this matter, as the Senator from Rhode Island is not now in the Chamber——

Mr. ALDRICH entered the Chamber.

Mr. TILLMAN. The Senator from Rhode Island is now present.

Mr. CULBERSON. In consequence of the presence of the Senator from Rhode Island in the Chamber, I will pretermit what I intended to say.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 902) authorizing certain extensions to be made in the lines of the City and Suburban Railway of Washington, the Washington Railway and Electric Company, the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, and the Capital Traction Company, in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President——

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, if the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia [Mr. GALLINGER], who has risen to this bill, will kindly give us a little time, as the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], the chairman of the Committee on Finance, is now in the Chamber, he can perhaps give us some information.

I will call the attention of the Senator from Rhode Island to the fact that we were promised by him an answer on Wednesday last to a resolution reported by his committee before the holidays, directing to the Secretary of the Treasury various lines of inquiry. When Wednesday came we were told that Secretary Cortelyou had been ill—not too ill, however, to go to New York and make a speech, I noticed—and that we would certainly get something in reply to that resolution to-day. Here Monday has come, and still there is no reply. I should like to know if we are ever going to get any reply?

Mr. ALDRICH rose.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, just a word.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Rhode Island yield to the Senator from New Hampshire?

Mr. ALDRICH. Certainly.

Mr. GALLINGER. As the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. TILLMAN] has appealed to me, the bill, the title of which was read, being one that ought to be considered immediately, I will say to him that, of course, I can not resist his suggestion; but I trust the debate will not be a lengthy one, as really we ought to consider and dispose of the bill that is now before the Senate.

Mr. TILLMAN. I recognize the importance of the bill referred to by the Senator from New Hampshire, because I have been walking through the mud to get to that depot as long as anybody else, and I am tired of it. I do not see why we did not pass the bill on the subject that was before us at the last session, although I do not undertake to criticise anybody, so as to afford reasonable accommodations to travel to and from the depot. I am in favor of having something done, because I want to get an opportunity to get to and from the Union Depot next winter, if we can not do it in the meantime. However, the question of getting information from the Treasury having been thought sufficiently important by the Senate to pass a resolution coming from this important committee, it does seem to me extraordinary and phenomenal that we can not get any reply to it.

Mr. ALDRICH. Mr. President, I gave the assurance which I did to the Senate, that the report of the Secretary of the Treasury would be presented to the Senate at a particular time, upon the authority of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Edwards. The fact was, that when the information in the form prepared by Mr. Edwards was presented to the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary found that it would require some delay in order to make a presentation to the Senate of the matter in a shape that would be satisfactory to himself; that it would require a longer time than he had thought would be required for the preparation of his answer.

I will say also, as a criticism has been made elsewhere as to the action of the Secretary, that the Secretary of the Treasury felt, and I joined him in that feeling, that he should make a frank and explicit answer to all the suggestions as to what he has done in connection with the bonds and certificates of indebtedness. The Secretary assured me this morning that he was preparing the matter as rapidly as possible, and that he would send it to the Senate at the earliest date possible, consistent with the time necessary to present it, in view of the voluminous amount of statistics involved.

Mr. TILLMAN. Mr. President, do I understand from the Senator from Rhode Island that there is no definite period fixed? "As soon as possible" means some time between now and doomsday.

Mr. ALDRICH. The Secretary wrote me a letter this morning, which is now somewhere on the road between the Treasury and the Capitol. I do not know whether or not he makes a definite statement in that letter, but he presents in his letter the reasons, which I have given in perhaps an imperfect way, why the report has not been sent in. The Secretary of the Treasury is as anxious as I am, and as is the Senator from South Carolina, to have this matter presented at the earliest possible moment consistent with the proper preparation of his answer to the inquiry of the Senate.

I have perfect confidence in the Secretary of the Treasury; I know that he has never been delinquent in his public duties, and I feel perfectly sure that if the Senator from South Carolina should have an opportunity to talk the matter over with the Secretary he would be satisfied that the Secretary is doing the very best he can.

Mr. TILLMAN. It did not take him nearly so long to issue the bonds. [Laughter.]

Mr. ALDRICH. That is a simpler matter than to answer inquiries to the extent of those contained in the resolution of inquiry which the Senate passed. The Senator from South Carolina sometimes, I think, does not realize that he can put down in a few moments on paper inquiries that may take months of the time of a large force in the various Departments to answer. It is much easier, in my experience, to ask questions than it is to answer them, especially where the questions involve voluminous examination.

Mr. TILLMAN. The Senator from Rhode Island will recall the fact, however, that none of the questions which have been propounded to the Secretary of the Treasury were asked by the Senator from South Carolina, but were asked by the Senator's committee—the Committee on Finance.

Mr. ALDRICH. I understand that perfectly well. The complexity of the answer, however, does not depend upon the person who asks the question.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President——

Mr. TILLMAN. In this connection, Mr. President, if the Senator from Texas [Mr. CULBERSON] will permit me——

Mr. CULBERSON. Certainly.

Mr. TILLMAN. As I am on my feet, I desire to give some additional reasons why we ought to get an answer, and get one very soon. I have a letter forwarded to me by Mr. Kloberg—a private letter—which it is not necessary to publish; but here is a letter from Mr. J. H. Edwards, which I will read, as it is somewhat extraordinary in its terms and may give some light as to why the Secretary finds it so difficult to answer the inquiries we have propounded. This is a letter from Mr. Edwards addressed to Mr. Kloberg, who had written the Department in regard to the refusal to recognize the bid for bonds, which has already been brought up here by me. This is the letter:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, January 4, 1908.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of December 23, regarding an allotment of the recent issue of Panama bonds, is received. In reply you are advised that under the reservations made—by the Department the allotments were made first to individuals and institutions who were the highest bidders for amounts not exceeding $10,000. The remainder of the $25,000,000 issued was allotted to the highest national-bank bidders. This course was followed for the reason that it was not deemed wise during the existing currency stringency to withdraw any considerable amounts from savings banks and other institutions, which would have inevitably been done had the bonds been allotted to individual bidders in large sums. By making allotments to national banks two objects were accomplished, aside from the one above mentioned, and both of these, it is thought, will commend themselves to the public generally. We were in a position to leave on deposit with such banks 90 per cent of the purchase price, and yet have it available for the expenses of the Government as needed without withdrawing it in a lump sum from the channels of trade. The banks receiving these bonds were also enabled thereby to substitute other bonds as security for these deposits and immediately take out additional circulation on the Panama bonds—a result very desirable at this time.

I want to call particular attention to those words—

Very truly, yours.

J. H. EDWARDS.

Mr. CULBERSON. What is the date of that letter?

Mr. TILLMAN. January 4, 1908.

I simply want to refer, Mr. President, to the words to which I called attention, "under the reservations made by the Department," as being inexplicable to me, because the law does not allow the Secretary of the Treasury to make any reservation, as I understand it, and the circular which called for or invited bids made no reservation. Certainly, it was purely an executive function or exercise of power under the law, and when the facts are all brought out, as we hope to get them some time or other, I think it will be shown that the Secretary of the Treasury has utterly disregarded the law in his anxiety—laudable though it may be—to supply currency to New York, ignoring the needs of the balance of the country in great degree, and certainly ignoring the rights of bidders.

I merely read this letter as throwing some additional light upon this extraordinary transaction, the status with which we find ourselves confronted, and as evidencing the absolute necessity for an early answer from the Secretary of the Treasury to the resolution which has been passed by this Senate calling for the facts.

As I understand it from the newspapers—I do not know but they are misinformed—the Senator from Rhode Island and his Committee on Finance are earnestly considering the bill which he introduced, and will probably report it to the Senate in the near future. Are we to understand that that bill will be brought in here and an effort made to press it to consideration without our getting this information? The Senator from Rhode Island shakes his head.

Mr. ALDRICH. I think that is not likely to happen.

Mr. TILLMAN. I should like the Senator from Rhode Island to answer yes or no. The Senator knows whether he is going to press the bill before the Senate gets an answer to the resolution.

Mr. ALDRICH. I can answer that question for myself, but not for the committee.

Mr. TILLMAN. Judging by the solicitude of your colleagues on that side that nothing shall be done until you come into the Chamber, and that our attention is continually called to the fact that the Senator from Rhode Island, the chairman of the committee, is absent; that he is not in the Chamber, and that we must await until that great personage comes into the body——

Mr. ALDRICH. That arises from the fact, I presume, that it is I, as chairman of the Committee on Finance, who have had these conferences with the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. TILLMAN. No; the Senator knows that the solicitude of his colleagues over there to get his permission——

Mr. ALDRICH. Oh, Mr. President——

Mr. TILLMAN. Is much more important than because of his merely having been the mouthpiece of the committee. The Senator from Rhode Island recognizes—and, if he does not, we do—the great power and influence which he deservedly holds with his colleagues on that side of the Chamber and in the country, and it is not worth while for him to affect any mock modesty. [Laughter.] He is too great a man to have any affectation of any sort.

Mr. ALDRICH. Mr. President, as I have said to the Senator from South Carolina and to the Senate, as to this transaction I have no knowledge of any kind whatever.

I have great confidence in the present Secretary of the Treasury. I believe that whatever he has done has been with the highest ideals of duty to his country and to the people of his country. I do not desire to discuss this question either for the purpose of approving or disapproving the action of the Secretary until I have before me his answer to the statements and suggestions which have been made by the Senator from South Carolina and the Senator from Texas. I think, in fairness to that officer and in fairness to the Senate, we ought to allow this discussion to be postponed until that answer arrives. I am quite sure that within a reasonable time the answer will be here. I can not give the precise reason for the delay. I do know that the statistics which we have called for cover a large number of years, and will certainly be very voluminous in their character and very complex. I think, in ordinary justice and fairness, we ought to give the Secretary, especially in the face of these charges, a chance to take his own time to present his own case in his own way and in the best possible manner for himself. When these statistics and statements are here, I think the Senator will find no disposition on the part of Senators on this side to do anything else than to treat them fairly upon their merits.

Mr. TILLMAN. I hope the Senator from Rhode Island does not understand that I have any malice or any other idea in regard to the Secretary of the Treasury than that he felt that what he did he did as an honorable man, trying to do what he thought was right or best, not whether it was lawful or not. Unfortunately, we have reached a condition in this country in which we find ourselves subject to Executive actions which appear to me to be usurpations of power and authority and as absolutely ignoring the law.

I noted, for instance, in the newspapers, I think it was Saturday, that the Department of Justice is considering and has given notice—so the paper stated—that it would not prosecute the coal-carrying railroads of Pennsylvania if they did not obey the Hepburn rate law which we passed here year before last after long travail, in regard to railroads not owning products which they transport. It was stated that the Department of Justice was willing or had agreed that it would not begin prosecutions. Well, I thought, just casually looking at this statement, that it was so phenomenal and so extraordinary that it must be one of those newspaper imaginings which we frequently come across; that it could not be possible that the Attorney-General had announced authoritatively that he would not obey the law and try to make other people obey it. But that is a sample of what we are coming to in this country.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from South Carolina yield to the Senator from New Hampshire?

Mr. TILLMAN. Certainly.

Mr. GALLINGER. For my personal information I will ask the Senator whether or not I am correct in the opinion that the law in that respect does not become operative until the 1st day of May next?

Mr. TILLMAN. And that is why I can not understand why the Attorney-General should rush ahead and notify the railroads that he would not prosecute them if they broke the law.

Mr. GALLINGER. Does it not seem incredible to the Senator that the Attorney-General has done the thing he is charged with?

Mr. TILLMAN. It does seem incredible, and I do not say he has, but I merely mention it as showing the progress in our affairs toward Executive control of everything. It is time the Senate did a little business on its own hook. That is what I am trying to get the attention of Senators to—the question whether or not the power at the other end of the avenue, or the powers—I do not know whether it is plural or singular; most evidently it is singular in great measure—are going to to run the Government entirely by Executive order.

We have doctors in command of ships and every other kind of thing going on, and I do not know what is going to happen next—a declaration of war, perhaps. I am merely trying to get some little light as to how long the Senate is going to wait upon the Secretary of the Treasury for an answer to a resolution passed nearly a month ago.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER DAM NEAR BEMIDJI, MINN.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the bill (H. R. 7606) to amend an act entitled "An act permitting the building of a dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, in Beltrami County, Minn.," approved March 3, 1905, which was read twice by its title.

Mr. CLAPP. A bill for this purpose passed the Senate some days ago, but in the meantime the House passed the bill now before the Senate before the Senate bill reached there. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider to the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. CLAPP. I move that the House of Representatives be requested to return to the Senate the bill (S. 2725) to extend the time for completion of dam across the Mississippi River near the village of Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn.

The motion was agreed to.

EXTENSION OF STREET RAILWAY TRACKS TO UNION STATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will state the first bill on the Calendar under Rule VIII.

The bill (S. 902) authorizing certain extensions to be made in the lines of the City and Suburban Railway of Washington, the Washington Railway and Electric Company, the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, and the Capital Traction Company, in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company be, and it is hereby, authorized to construct a double-track connection with its tracks on E street south, thence northwardly along First street east to East Capitol street, there to connect with the tracks of the Washington Railway and Electric Company; also a double-track extension from Delaware avenue and C street northeastwardly along Delaware avenue to the plaza in front of the Union Station, together with a double-track loop located as near as may be to the interior circumference of said plaza and passing in front of and near to the Union Station; also a double-track connection with existing tracks on G street near New Jersey avenue NW. and thence eastwardly to and along Massachusetts avenue, with such northerly deviations as may be necessary to bring the tracks immediately in front of and adjacent to the main entrance of the Union Station, to junctions with existing tracks at Third and D streets NE. and at the northwest corner of Stanton square.

SEC. 2. That the City and Suburban Railway of Washington be, and it is hereby, authorized and required to extend its double tracks on North Capitol street southwardly from the intersection of G street to Massachusetts avenue, there to connect with the tracks hereinbefore authorized on Massachusetts avenue.

SEC. 3. That the Capital Traction Company of the District of Columbia be, and it is hereby, authorized to construct a double-track extension of its lines from C street and Delaware avenue NE. along Delaware avenue to the plaza in front of the Union Station, together with a double-track loop passing in front of the station on said plaza; also a double-track extension of its lines beginning at Florida avenue and Seventh street NW. southeastwardly along Florida avenue to its intersection with North Capitol street, thence along North Capitol street southwardly over the existing tracks of the City and Suburban Railway of Washington to its intersection with Massachusetts avenue, thence along said Massachusetts avenue southeastwardly to the said plaza; also a double-track connection from First and B streets SE. along First street north to East Capitol street.

SEC. 4. That the companies hereinbefore named be, and they are hereby, permitted to lay duct lines on such streets as may be necessary for the proper operation of their lines, the location of such duct lines to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 5. That the construction of the aforesaid street railway lines shall be commenced within thirty days and completed on or before February 1, 1909; and in default of such commencement or completion within the time in this section specified, all rights, franchises, and privileges granted by this act shall immediately cease and determine.

SEC. 6. That where the route or routes provided for in this act coincide with each other or with the route or routes of existing street railways one set of tracks shall be used in common upon terms mutually agreed upon, or, in case of disagreement, upon terms determined by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, which is authorized and directed to give hearing to the interested parties and to fix the terms of the joint trackage: Provided, That there shall be at least two sets of double tracks immediately in front of the main entrance of the Union Station, the most northerly rail being not less than 50 feet south of the said main entrance: Provided, That existing transfer arrangements between the Washington Railway and Electric Company and the Metropolitan Coach Company, a corporation of the District of Columbia, shall not be terminated except by authority of Congress; and unless said Metropolitan Coach Company shall, on or before December 1, 1908, substitute motor vehicles to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for the herdics now used by it, its right to operate its line shall cease and determine: Provided further, That all transfers issued by the Metropolitan Coach Company shall be properly dated and punched as to time limit, and that unless said transfers are so dated and punched the Washington Railway and Electric Company shall not be required to receive them.

SEC. 7. That the railway companies affected by this act shall have over and respecting the routes herein provided for the same rights, powers, and privileges as they respectively have and hereafter may have by law over and respecting their other routes, and shall be subject in respect thereto to all the other provisions of their charters and of law.

SEC. 8. That authority is hereby given the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to use such portion of reservation numbered 77 as may in their judgment be necessary for sidewalks and roadways and for street railway use. And authority is hereby given the Commissioners to acquire by purchase or to condemn, in accordance with existing law, for street purposes, so much of square numbered 626, lying north of the north building line of square numbered 567 extended, as they may deem necessary, and the cost of acquiring said property as above shall be paid by the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company: Provided, That where a portion of any lot is authorized to be acquired as above the said Commissioners may, in their discretion, acquire the entire lot; the portion thereof, when so acquired, lying south of the north building line of square numbered 567 extended, to become the property of said Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, as soon as the entire costs of acquisition as above specified shall be paid by it.

SEC. 9. That whenever in the construction of the new tracks herein authorized the Commissioners of the District of Columbia deem it necessary, in order to reasonably accommodate vehicular traffic, to widen the roadway of any street or streets in which said track or tracks are to be laid, such widening shall be done by said Commissioners, the cost and expense of such widening, including the laying of new sidewalks, the adjustment of all underground construction, and of every public appurtenance, shall be borne by the said railway company, and the said railway company shall deposit with the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia the estimated cost of changing or widening the said street or streets, the work to be done by said Commissioners; and whenever at any future time the Commissioners deem it necessary to widen the roadway of any street or streets occupied by the extensions herein authorized, said railway company shall bear one-half the cost of widening and improving such street or streets, to be collected in the same manner as the cost of laying or repairing pavement lying between the exterior rails of the tracks of said street railroad and for a distance of 2 feet exterior to such track or tracks is collectible under the provisions of section 5 of an act entitled "An act to provide a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878: Provided, That the width of the roadway of Massachusetts avenue from the station plaza westward to its intersection with New Jersey avenue shall not be less than 80 feet.

SEC. 10. That the arrangement of all tracks herein authorized within the lines of the plaza in front of the Union Station shall be in accordance with the plans approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and all work of constructing the extensions herein authorized shall be executed in accordance with plans to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and under a permit or permits from the said Commissioners.

SEC. 11. That the Washington Railway and Electric Company and the Capital Traction Company be, and they are hereby, authorized and required jointly to construct, maintain, and operate by overhead trolley temporary railway tracks for passenger service from the Union Station to the intersection of North Capitol and C streets north, said tracks to be constructed within sixty days from the date of the approval of this act in accordance with plans approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, to be maintained and operated by said companies to the satisfaction of said Commissioners, and to be removed by said companies after the construction of the permanent street railway tracks herein provided for within thirty days after notice from said Commissioners so to do.

SEC. 12. That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 13. That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

Mr. GALLINGER. On page 9, line 15, after the word "authorized," I move to insert the words "and directed."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. On page 10, line 8, I move to strike out the word "required" and substitute the word "directed."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In line 14 of the same page, after "authorized," I move to insert the words "and directed."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. On page 11, line 2, after the word "southeast," I move to insert the word "northwardly."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In the same line, after the word "street," I move to strike out the word "North" and substitute the word "East."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. At the end of the line I move to strike out the words "East Capitol" and insert the capital letter "B."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In line 3, on the same page, after the word "street," I move to strike out the period and to insert "north," so as to read "to B street north."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. On page 12, line 1, I move to strike out "50 feet south of the said main entrance" and insert the words "70 feet from the axis of the south portico."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. On page 15, line 5, I move to strike out the word "required" and to substitute the word "directed."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In line 8, on the same page, after the words "North Capitol and C," I move to strike out "street" and insert "streets," so as to read "North Capitol and C streets."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. Those are all the committee amendments, Mr. President.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill is in the Senate as in Committee of the Whole and open to amendment.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I offer an amendment, to be inserted as an additional section.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from North Dakota proposes an amendment, which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to insert as a new section the following:

SEC. —. That all street railway companies within the District of Columbia, both now and hereafter to be chartered by Congress, shall receive and exchange tickets with each other, and shall also give to passengers free transfers which shall be received by all street railway companies at one intersection and connection with all other street railway lines; and also give to and receive from each passenger paying one cash fare of 5 cents a free transfer good for more than one exchange at one intersection, and good continuously at all intersections with all street railways and from intersection to intersection within the said District of Columbia, but transfers on tickets or cash fares shall not be good for a round trip.

And every officer or agent of any street railway company, and every street railway company, for every violation of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10 by the police court of the District of Columbia on prosecution by information brought by the corporation counsel or any of his assistants, and any person or corporation interested shall have the right to apply to the supreme court of the District of Columbia for a mandamus to enforce the free transfers by this act provided.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. TILLMAN. I was not paying very much attention, but I thought I caught something in the reading of the amendment which seemed to indicate that the new policy, if we are going to have one, will compel us all to pay a flat 5-cent rate. Instead of getting six tickets for a quarter, we would get only five.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. No. The amendment does not require anything of that kind, Mr. President. The amendment simply provides for a general transfer between all the lines—a universal transfer.

Mr. TILLMAN. I can see the utility of that, but I do not see why you should have the flat 5-cent rate mixed in with it. I may be mistaken. I should like to have that clause to which I refer read again.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Perhaps the Senator from South Carolina——

Mr. TILLMAN. I have not read the amendment at all.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Let the first page of the amendment be again read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will again read the first page of the amendment.

Mr. CARTER. I think the Senator from South Carolina will find that the amendment limits the exchange on a ticket to one exchange. Where a cash fare is paid the number of exchanges allowed is unlimited.

Mr. TILLMAN. Not an exchange on a ticket? For instance, I buy a quarter's worth of tickets, and I get six, and I suspect that 80 or 90 per cent of the people of the District of Columbia never transfer at all. Now, I want to know whether all of us are going to be compelled to pay 5 cents and get the universal transfer, which we do not need, or whether the privilege of universal transfer once—that is, on the two systems—will apply generally or specifically.

Mr. CARTER. I repeat to the Senator that where a ticket is delivered by the passenger to a conductor the passenger delivering said ticket becomes entitled to one transfer and no further transfer. If, on the other hand, a passenger pays a full 5-cent fare to the conductor, he thereby becomes entitled to an unlimited number of transfers.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. No; not an unlimited number, but two.

Mr. CARTER. I suppose that is unlimited, and practically it is, as two transfers will take one all over the city. I think two transfers would give an unlimited ride over the city of Washington.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from South Carolina yield to the Senator from New Hampshire?

Mr. GALLINGER. I will not interfere with the Senator from South Carolina at all.

Mr. TILLMAN. I simply wanted the chairman, who has this matter in hand, to inform me whether I misunderstood the amendment or not.

Mr. GALLINGER. The statement made by the Senator from Montana is absolutely correct. The amendment proposes that if a passenger tenders a ticket, representing 4½ cents, he shall be entitled to one transfer.

Mr. TILLMAN. And that means I can get on the F street line and go down Seventh street?

Mr. GALLINGER. Yes.

Mr. TILLMAN. As well as Ninth street?

Mr. GALLINGER. Yes; if he tenders a nickel, which is the fare in most of the cities of the country, he is then entitled to two transfers at least under the provisions of the amendment.

Now, Mr. President, if the Senator from South Carolina is through, I desire to say a few words with reference to the amendment. I am so anxious to have the bill passed, it having been a torment to me for three years, that I will not take time to discuss either the pending amendment or the bill itself at length, however much I may feel tempted to do so.

The amendment submitted by the Senator from North Dakota was offered in committee, and the Senator will bear me out in saying that his own vote was the only vote it received. The feeling was that we ought not to encumber this bill with amendments of any kind, but that we ought simply to require the railroad companies to make connections with the Union Station, at an expense to them of somewhere from half a million to a million dollars; that we ought not to complicate that proposition with other collateral issues.

If it is desirable that we should have universal transfers in Washington, let the matter be taken up deliberately, considered carefully, and determined after a full investigation of the entire proposition. I think Senators perhaps have noticed that in another body recently this matter has been discussed, and representatives of the citizens' associations of the District of Columbia appeared and said, "We do not want universal transfers; we do not want any lower fares. What we want is better service." That is what they are going to contend for, and I think they are wise to take that matter up rather than these other issues.

There is a hope expressed in many quarters that all these railroads will be consolidated after a little while. If they are, they will be under one management and we shall have universal transfers. But there are certain railroads in this District that it would be a great hardship at the present time to compel to accept transfers. I am not sure what effect it might have upon them. At any rate, I am unwilling to commit myself to that proposition until we have had a hearing before the Committee on the District of Columbia and have ascertained the exact facts.

Mr. President, I hope the amendment will not be agreed to.

Mr. CLAPP. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from North Dakota yield to the Senator from Minnesota?

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Certainly.

Mr. CLAPP. I merely wish to ask a question. I do not suppose there is anything, but is there anything in the bill which the Senate has under consideration which would embarrass the subsequent enactment of a bill embodying the principles of the amendment of the Senator from North Dakota?

Mr. GALLINGER. Not the least in the world.

Mr. TILLMAN. Before the Senator from New Hampshire takes his seat——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from North Dakota yield to the Senator from South Carolina?

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I yield to the Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. TILLMAN. I should like to know as to one point. I glanced at the headlines rather than read the report of the hearing. I discovered that there was anxiety on the part of some people to have a cross line from Florida avenue down northeast here, which is to give those people an opportunity to come to the southeastern part of the city without having to go all around Robin Hood's barn. Is there anything in the bill which prevents that?

Mr. GALLINGER. There is no such provision in the bill. A bill was offered in the Senate this morning with a view to having that extension built. It is not an extension that is exactly to reach the Union Station, but it is a very necessary extension, and as a separate proposition I am sure the Committee on the District of Columbia will be strongly in favor of it. But inasmuch as it is not an extension designed to reach the Union Station, the committee thought it unwise to encumber this bill with a measure of that kind.

I have no doubt that that bill will pass at the present session. I quite agree with other Senators that the extension ought to be made.

Mr. TILLMAN. If the Senator from North Dakota will permit me——

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I yield to the Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. TILLMAN. I wish to make an inquiry about the little spur which is proposed out here by the old Baltimore and Ohio depot. Is that where the new line for the Union Station makes connection with the other two lines?

Mr. GALLINGER. There will be a direct extension from Delaware avenue and C street to the station, a continuation of the line on Delaware avenue. There is a proposition in the bill, I will say to the Senator, that pending the construction of this permanent work a temporary track may be laid from the Union Station to North Capitol and C streets. It is a very trifling affair, costing a small amount of money, with an overhead trolley, to be removed when the permanent work is completed.

Mr. TILLMAN. The permanent work comes directly here near the Senate stables?

Mr. GALLINGER. It runs directly down Delaware avenue, past the Senate stables.

Mr. TILLMAN. I understood the Senator to say that it will cost something like half a million dollars. I should like to know whether it will cost that much to go 250 yards.

Mr. GALLINGER. That is only one extension. There are half a dozen other extensions provided in the bill, I will say to the Senator.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Mr. President, this amendment has been before the Senate on two or three different occasions, and if I recall aright it was adopted on one occasion by the Senate, and subsequently the bill was recommitted to the committee, since which time the amendment has not had a very great many friends on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. GALLINGER. If the Senator will permit me, I am sure the Senator desires to be accurate.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Certainly.

Mr. GALLINGER. It never was acted on by the Senate.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. This amendment?

Mr. GALLINGER. No; not at all. It was reported.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. There were several amendments offered here on the floor of the Senate, and my recollection is that this was one of the amendments which was favorably acted upon.

Mr. GALLINGER. It never was.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. However, the Senator disagrees with me.

Now, Mr. President, I do not propose to take up the time of the Senate to discuss the reasons why this amendment should be adopted. There are many reasons which could be given in favor of the provision, and there are many reasons which could be given in favor of another amendment that I offered to this bill on a former occasion; in other words, the proposed increase in the taxes of these railroads; but that amendment met with such decided disfavor in the committee that I concluded not to press it here.

I did have some hope, Mr. President, after talking with members of the committee and after getting some expression as to their views in regard to this proposed universal transfer amendment that it would meet with some favor on the part of the members of the committee; but there seems to be a disposition not to put anything on this bill that would interfere with the construction of the street railroads to the Union Station. I contend that this amendment would not interfere with the construction of that line in the least particle, nor would the tax amendment which I offered here on a former occasion have interfered with the construction of that line.

The fact is, Mr. President, unless we put provisions of this kind and provisions relative to taxation of these corporations on bills that the railroad companies themselves want, we shall never get any form of relief of this kind.

It has been said in the local press that the public has been greatly inconvenienced because the street railway companies were not allowed to put their tracks up to the Union Station. Mr. President, the street railway companies of this District could have had their tracks up to the Union Station more than a year ago if they had been willing to have accepted this universal transfer amendment and to have paid the same rate of taxes that are paid by the private citizens of the District; but the railroad companies did not want those two amendments on the bill, and they are not going to have them on the bill.

For that reason I do not propose to waste the time of the Senate or my own time in pressing this amendment. The Senate is perfectly familiar with the amendment and its purposes. I have no personal interest in it. I have no property in this District whatever. Therefore, Mr. President, I am willing that the amendment should come to a vote and be disposed of one way or the other.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. HANSBROUGH].

The amendment was rejected.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill authorizing certain extensions to be made of the lines of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, the Washington Railway and Electric Company, the City and Suburban Railway of Washington, and the Capital Traction Company, in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes."

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. W. J. BROWNING, its chief clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 2694) to authorize the construction of a drawbridge over the Black River in Lawrence County, Ark.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries, asks a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. MONDELL, Mr. GRONNA, and Mr. GAINES of Tennessee managers at the conference on the part of the House.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills, and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

H. R. 251. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the city of St. Louis, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River," approved February 6, 1907;

H. R. 4891. An act to authorize the city of Burlington, Iowa, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River; and

H. R. 10519. An act to authorize the Nashville and Northeastern Railroad Company to construct a bridge across Cumberland River at or near Celina, Tenn.

CORPORATIONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The next bill on the Calendar will be announced.

The bill (S. 2028) to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, relating to corporations, was announced as next in order on the Calendar and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It proposes to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia by striking out the proviso contained therein, so that said section will read as follows:

SEC. 605. CERTIFICATE.—Any three or more persons who desire to form a company for the purpose of carrying on any enterprise or business which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, excepting banks of circulation or discount, railroads, and such other enterprise or business as may be otherwise specially provided for in this Code, may make, sign, and acknowledge, before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and file in the office of the recorder of deeds a certificate in writing.

Mr. KEAN. Is there a report accompanying the bill?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is a report accompanying the bill, Report No. 38.

Mr. KEAN. Let the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read in part the report submitted by Mr. GAMBLE January 13, 1908, which is as follows:

The Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2028) to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, relating to corporations, having considered the same, report thereon with a recommendation that it pass.

A similar bill was introduced in the Senate during the Fifty-eighth Congress and favorably reported by your committee.

A bill identical in form was also introduced in the Senate during the Fifty-ninth Congress, favorably reported by your committee, and passed by the Senate.

The bill was prepared by and introduced at the request of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, whose reasons for recommending its enactment are set forth in the following letter:

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, December 9, 1907.

DEAR SIR: The Commissioners of the District of Columbia have the honor to transmit herewith a draft of "A bill to amend section 605 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia," the object of which is to authorize the incorporation of companies to deal in real estate in the District of Columbia, and to recommend its early enactment.

The section now reads as follows:

"Any three or more persons who desire to form a company for the purpose of carrying on any enterprise or business which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, excepting banks of circulation or discount, corporations to buy, sell, or deal with real property, railroads, and such other enterprise or business as may be otherwise specially provided for in this code, may make, sign, and acknowledge, before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and file in the office of the recorder of deeds a certificate in writing."

The modification contemplated by this proposed amendment consists in the omission of the words "corporations to buy, sell, or deal with real property."

The present law prohibits corporations chartered within the District of Columbia from doing things which are not excepted as to those incorporated outside of the District, thus constituting a discrimination against citizens of the District. There is no reason apparent to the Commissioners why residents of the District should not be authorized to organize for the purposes of purchasing, improving, and selling land within the District limits on the community or park plan, much less why they should be precluded from advantages enjoyed by a combination of persons incorporated outside of the District.

Very respectfully,

HENRY B. F. MACFARLAND,
President Board of Commissioners District of Columbia.

Hon. J. H. GALLINGER,
Chairman Senate Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. KEAN. I have no further desire to have the report read. I recognize the bill. I thought it had passed the other day.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BRANCH LIBRARY.

The bill (S. 1476) to authorize the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to accept donations of money and land for the establishment of a branch library in the District of Columbia, to establish a commission to supervise the erection of a branch library building in said District, and to provide for the suitable maintenance of said branch, was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. HEYBURN. I object. I ask that the bill may go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over under the objection of the Senator from Idaho.

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask that it may go over under Rule IX.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go to the Calendar under Rule IX at the request of the Senator from Idaho.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY.

The bill (S. 1424) to increase the efficiency of the Medical Department of the United States Army was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. BULKELEY. I ask that the bill may go over without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

OMAHA TRIBE OF INDIANS.

The bill (S. 2901) authorizing the Omaha tribe of Indians to submit claims to the Court of Claims, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REVISION OF THE PENAL LAWS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which is Senate bill 2982.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2982) to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will continue the reading of the bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. We passed over section 51 at the request of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON]. Section 52 is the next to be read.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill on page 28, line 24, as follows:

SEC. 52. [Whoever shall unlawfully cut, or aid in unlawfully cutting, or shall wantonly injure or destroy, or procure to be wantonly injured or destroyed, any tree, growing, standing, or being upon any land of the United States which, in pursuance of law, has been reserved or purchased by the United States for any public use, or upon any Indian reservation, or lands belonging to or occupied by any tribe of Indians under the authority of the United States, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.]

SEC. 53. Whoever shall cut, chip, chop, or box any tree upon any lands belonging to the United States, or upon any lands covered by or embraced in any unperfected settlement, application, filing, entry, selection, or location, made under any law of the United States, for the purpose of obtaining from such tree any pitch, turpentine, or other substance, or shall knowingly encourage, cause, procure, or aid in the cutting, chipping, chopping, or boxing of any such tree, or shall buy, trade for, or in any manner acquire any pitch, turpentine, or other substance, or any article or commodity made from any such pitch, turpentine, or other substance, when he has knowledge that the same has been so unlawfully obtained from such trees, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 54. Whoever shall willfully set on fire, or cause to be set on fire, any timber, underbrush, or grass upon the public domain, or shall leave or suffer fire to burn unattended near any timber or other inflammable material shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 55. Whoever shall build a fire in or near any forest, timber, or other inflammable material upon the public domain shall, before leaving said fire, totally extinguish the same; and whoever shall fail to do so shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 56. In all cases arising under the two preceding sections the fines collected shall be paid into the public school fund of the county in which the lands where the offense was committed are situated.

SEC. 57. [Whoever, except forest rangers and other persons employed by the United States to protect the forest, Federal and State officers in the discharge of their duties, and the employees of the water board of the city of Portland, State of Oregon, shall knowingly trespass upon any part of the reserve known as Bull Run National Forest, in the Cascade Mountains, in the State of Oregon, or shall enter thereon for the purpose of grazing stock, or shall engage in grazing stock thereon, or shall permit stock of any kind to graze thereon, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.]

Mr. KEAN. I ask the Senator from Idaho if he will kindly explain section 57?

Mr. CULBERSON. We are unable to hear on this side of the Chamber.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator from New Jersey asks for some explanation of section 57. I would say that section 57 is found in the act of April 28, 1904, the only change made by the committee being stated in part 1 of the report. If the Senator will turn to section 57 as it is printed and then refer to the reference on page 16 of part 1 of the report, he will find there the following statement:

Section 57: While the language of the act revised in this section has been transposed and the redundant matter omitted, the only change made in the section consists in the addition of imprisonment as a part of the punishment, or both. The last sentence of the act directing the Secretary of the Interior to enforce its provisions is unnecessary, as such authority is conferred in general acts applying to all reservations.

I would say to the Senator that this is the reservation which protects the water supply of the city of Portland, in the State of Oregon, and is of really local importance, although made general in its character.

Mr. BURKETT. I should like to ask the Senator from Idaho a question while he is on his feet, and the question pertains to all these several sections. We are now considering the sections in reference to the forests and forest reserves, etc. I notice that some of them have been changed. For instance, section 57, which has just been read, I take it has been changed a good deal. I should like to ask whether in rewriting these laws any of them have been referred to the Departments? I will say to the Senator that it is always the practice here, I think, when committees have bills referred to them making new laws or changes in the law to refer the bill to the particular Department for its consideration. I should like to ask if any of these sections changing the law have been referred to the Department before they have been rewritten?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is unfortunately in a measure true that in some instances, perhaps many, legislation under consideration by the committees of this body is referred to the executive branch of the Government for their opinion as to the wisdom of such legislation. Fortunately, and in entire harmony and accord with the purposes and the powers vested in this body, the committee has not referred any provision of this revision to any executive department of the Government for its advice or consent.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. FULTON. I will state that I was informed by the clerk of the joint committee when I was chairman of it, who was also one of the Commission which made the revision, that as a matter of fact all the laws pertaining to the Departments were referred by the Commission to the several Departments, and they in turn reported to the Commission.

Mr. HEYBURN. I was not speaking for the Commission.

Mr. FULTON. I know.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Commission was not composed of Members of either House; it was made up of civilians, appointed by the President as other nonlegislative commissions are appointed.

Mr. FULTON. Certainly.

Mr. HEYBURN. I desire to be distinctly understood, in response to the suggestion of the senior Senator from Oregon, that it was the Commission which referred these questions to the Departments, if they were referred at all; and that the committee whose report is before the Senate did not refer any provision of the bill as reported to the executive or administrative branches of the Government.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CLARKE of Arkansas in the chair). Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. FULTON. I so understood. I merely made the remark in response to the inquiry of the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT] to show that as a matter of fact the Departments had an opportunity to go over the various changes that were made in the law that might be supposed to affect their Departments or to come under their particular supervision. Of course the joint committee did not do it, and in the nature of things it could not refer these matters to the Departments.

Mr. BURKETT. If the Senator from Idaho will yield——

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. BURKETT. Perhaps he will just answer the question: Was section 57, as we have just heard it read, drafted by the Commission, or has it been redrafted by the committee?

Mr. HEYBURN. It might be said that it was redrafted by both the Commission and the committee.

Mr. BURKETT. What change does it make in the present law?

Mr. HEYBURN. It makes no change in the substance of the present law. If the Senator will indicate a change that may have been suggested to his mind I will be very much pleased to discuss it.

Mr. BURKETT. I will say to the Senator from Idaho that I do not want to disturb him, but I am trying to get at some way whereby we can go along and know the things we do want to raise a question about, without asking each time. I think we ought to have an understanding, for instance, with reference to forestry matters, to which I see this section does not pertain so clearly as I supposed it did. The Senator understands that there are Senators in this body who are not in entire harmony with the present control of the national forests. I think it was said in debate last year by some Senators that those laws should be changed, and the understanding was given to the Senate that if they could change some of those laws they would be changed. In rewriting this criminal code I can see where some changes might be made. We might pass over them hastily and the complete forest-reserve system or the efficacy of it so far as the penal code is concerned could be revolutionized by changing some of these laws.

Now, I do not wish to interpose an objection or to ask a question when I am satisfied or assured by the Senator—and I am always ready to take his word for it—that there has not been any change which in any way would alter the present operation and present control. I am not saying that we could not write some of those laws in a way that would suit me better; but I think the Senate ought to have its attention called to it whenever any of the laws that are going to change the policy and the management of the forest reserves or to change any of the laws pertaining to the handling or the management or distribution of our public lands, are reached.

As the Senator will recall, the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON] said the other day that he felt called upon to ask for an explanation of each section. I hope all that time will not be required. If we were simply assured by the Senator from Idaho that this revision did not change the existing law, that the same control would prevail now that has prevailed heretofore, I should not consider it worth while or necessary to ask any questions about it. The only reason why I rose, I will say to the Senator, was to ask this question. If we can have an understanding that whenever any change is made that will in any way revolutionize or alter the management of the forest reserves or the distribution and the management of any of the public lands or the timber reserves, we shall have it suggested to us by the Senator when those sections are reached, as far as I am concerned I am willing not to make any more interruptions nor interpose any interrogatories along this line. But I think we ought to have that assurance.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the committee, at a very great deal of labor and of time at least, have prepared a very careful report upon every section of this revision. I may be mistaken, but I do not believe the Senator from Nebraska is giving the attention to part 1 of the report that it should receive at his hands. He is asking that I shall take up each of the sections bearing upon their face the indication of some change and explain them to the Senate. That would occupy a great deal of time. If I may have the Senator's attention, I should like to direct it to the fact that we have done in print before the Senate in part 1 of this report just what he is asking may be done every time a section is reached.

Mr. BURKETT. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. HEYBURN. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. BURKETT. I have my hands more than full, I will say to the Senator, in watching these two pages—section 57 as the Senator's committee has rewritten it and the original section—and I can not with any degree of satisfaction make the comparisons as rapidly as the Secretary can read. I can not watch part 1 of the Commission's report—the old law as it is—and the new law as the Senator's committee has rewritten it. We will have to know something about these matters, and if the Senator is not willing to tell us when we come to a place where the present law is revolutionized, then we shall simply have to stop until we can go over each section. I am willing to trust to the Senator's own word in this matter, but I do feel that the Senate ought to be advised when any change in the present law is contemplated by the rewriting of one of these laws. That is all I am asking for.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is unfortunate, Mr. President, that the Senator from Nebraska can not find opportunity to pay attention to the report the committee has made as to what has been done with each of these sections. The rules of this body provide that the report shall be printed. The committee, in compliance with those rules, has printed a report that is very concise, very much to the point, and expresses as tersely as can be expressed the changes that have been made in the different sections. I do not think I should be called upon to read every section that is reached and make explanation in addition to the printing of the report in compliance with the rules of this body.

I think the Senator will find it not difficult, if he will secure possession of a copy of the real report—that is, part 1 of the report, which was separated—and I will call the Senator's attention to it; I hold it in my hand—in order that it might be convenient for reference. There is not the slightest embarrassment in a Senator having that report in his hand and following down in consecutive order the sections of the revision, and knowing exactly from a glance what has been done in regard to each section.

I do not in the slightest degree object to explaining at any length, as fully as the Senator may desire, any of the changes that have been made. I merely want that we shall be given the benefit of the work that we have performed, and when we have made a report that the report shall receive the respectful consideration to which it is entitled. The reason that we made this report in part 1 and part 2 was that part 2 is a voluminous and rather unwieldly document, and it was considered that perhaps Senators would find it very burdensome to have to take part 2 in their hands when they desired to refer to the changes which are aptly and tersely expressed in part 1.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS IN OREGON.

Mr. FULTON. I ask unanimous consent that the unfinished business may be temporarily laid aside.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Oregon asks unanimous consent that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside.

Mr. HEYBURN. I have no objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In the absence of objection, the unfinished business will be laid aside.

Mr. FULTON. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 438) to divide the State of Oregon into two judicial districts, to report it with an amendment, and to ask for its present consideration.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary with an amendment, which was to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That there shall be, and hereby is, created an additional judicial district in the State of Oregon, said State being hereby divided into two judicial districts, which shall be known as the eastern and western judicial districts of the State of Oregon. The eastern district shall include the counties of Baker, Malheur, Harney, Grant, Union, Wallowa, Umatilla, Morrow, Sherman, Gilliam, Crook, Wheeler, and Lake, with the waters thereof. The western district shall include the residue of said State of Oregon, with the waters thereof.

SEC. 2. That the district judge and all officers who have been heretofore appointed for the district of Oregon as heretofore constituted and are in office at the time of the taking effect of this act shall continue in office as such judge and officers of the western district of Oregon until the expiration of their respective terms, or until their successors are appointed and qualified, and the said judge shall have the same powers and jurisdiction, except territorial, and the said judge and all such officers shall perform the same duties and receive the same compensation as heretofore.

SEC. 3. That the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint for said eastern district of Oregon a district judge, a marshal, and a district attorney; and clerks for said circuit and district courts and all other necessary officers shall be appointed in the same manner as is now provided by law in respect to such officers in the district of Oregon.

SEC. 4. That the courts and the judges of said eastern district of Oregon shall, within said district, respectively, possess the same jurisdiction and powers and perform the same duties as are now respectively possessed and performed by the circuit and district courts and judges of the United States of the district of Oregon.

SEC. 5. That the district judge of said eastern district of Oregon shall receive the same compensation as is by law provided for the district judge of the district of Oregon; and the marshal, district attorney, and clerks of the circuit and district courts and other officials shall severally possess the powers and perform the duties in said eastern district lawfully possessed and performed by the like officers in the said district of Oregon and shall be, respectively, entitled to like fees, compensation, and emoluments, and, until otherwise provided by law, the salaries herein provided for shall be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC 6. That the regular terms of the circuit and district courts of the United States for the western district of Oregon shall be held at the city of Portland beginning on the second Mondays of March and October in each year. That the regular terms of the circuit and district courts of the United States for the eastern district of Oregon shall be held at Baker City beginning on the second Mondays of April and November in each year.

SEC. 7. That all civil causes and proceedings of every name and nature, including proceedings in bankruptcy, now pending in the courts of the district of Oregon as heretofore constituted, whereof the courts of the eastern district of Oregon as hereby constituted would have had jurisdiction if the said eastern district of Oregon and the courts thereof had been constituted when said causes or proceedings were instituted, shall be, and are hereby, transferred to and the same shall be proceeded with in the eastern district of Oregon, and jurisdiction thereof is hereby transferred to and vested in the courts of said eastern district, and the records and proceedings therein and relating to said proceeding and causes shall be certified and transferred thereto; and such records and proceedings when so certified and transferred shall thenceforth constitute a part of the record of said causes, respectively, in the court to which such transfer shall be made, and all such suits and proceedings so transferred shall be heard and disposed of at the term of said courts for the eastern district of Oregon to be held at Baker City as herein provided: Provided, That all motions and causes submitted and all causes and proceedings in law, equity, admiralty, or bankruptcy pending at the time of the taking effect of this act in the district of Oregon as heretofore constituted in which the evidence has been taken in whole or in part before the judge of said district of Oregon as heretofore constituted or taken in whole or in part and submitted to and passed upon by the said judge shall be retained, proceeded with, and disposed of in said district of Oregon.

SEC. 8. That all crimes and offenses committed prior to and all prosecutions begun and pending at the taking effect of this act shall be proceeded with and finally determined as if this act had not been passed.

SEC. 9. That all crimes and offenses hereafter committed within either of said districts shall be prosecuted, tried, and determined within the district in which committed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LANDS OF THE FLATHEAD RESERVATION, MONT.

Mr. DIXON. I ask the Senator from Idaho to kindly consent that the unfinished business may be further temporarily laid aside in order that I may call up Senate bill 3640 on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The unfinished business has been temporarily laid aside. The Senator from Montana asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 3640) to amend sections 9 and 14, chapter 1495, Statutes of the United States of America, entitled "An act for the survey and allotment of lands now embraced within the limits of the Flathead Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana, and the sale and disposal of all surplus lands after allotment."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read for the information of the Senate.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President, I was going to ask to have the report of the committee read, but I observe that the Secretary is proceeding to read the bill, and I will await the conclusion of the reading.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill.

Mr. KEAN. Mr. President, what do I understand this bill to be?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary is reading the bill for the information of the Senate.

Mr. KEAN. I thought the Senate was proceeding with the unfinished business.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The unfinished business was temporarily laid aside at the request of the Senator from Oregon [Mr. FULTON], and the Senator from Montana [Mr. DIXON] now asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill which the Secretary is reading.

Mr. KEAN. If the unfinished business is temporarily laid aside, I will move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. HEYBURN. Just a moment, Mr. President. The Senator from New Jersey being absent from the Senate Chamber I agreed that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside with the understanding that we were to resume its consideration immediately afterwards. I do not think, therefore, that the motion to go into executive session should be proposed.

Mr. KEAN. I should certainly not want to interfere with the Senator from Idaho.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is intended to resume consideration of the unfinished business.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the further reading of the bill?

Mr. KEAN. I object.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made.

Mr. HEYBURN. I ask that the unfinished business be laid before the Senate.

Mr. DIXON. I ask the Senator from New Jersey to withdraw his objection. The bill is a very important one, and it is desired to get it over to the House, and have it considered before the springtime opens. It provides for a very important work.

Mr. KEAN. I know nothing of the measure, but there is a very thin Senate at this time.

Mr. DIXON. The bill has a unanimous report.

Mr. KEAN. Every Senator had supposed that the unfinished business was before the Senate. I object to the consideration of any other bill at this time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from New Jersey insists upon his objection. The Senate will proceed with the consideration of the unfinished business.

REVISION OF THE PENAL LAWS.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed consideration of the bill (S. 2982) to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States.

Mr. CULBERSON. The Senator who has charge of the unfinished business has, I think, yielded twice for other business. I respectfully submit to the Chair that that at least is violative of the spirit of the rule adopted a year or two ago, which rule itself made it the duty of the Chair to enforce it without objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The rule does not require the Chair to interpose an objection to a Senator's withdrawing his bill from the consideration of the Senate. The Senator from Oregon [Mr. FULTON] got recognition from the Chair. He asked that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside. The Senator from Idaho [Mr. HEYBURN] made no objection. After the consideration of the bill of the Senator from Oregon was completed, the Senator from Idaho asked that the Senate resume consideration of his measure. The Chair agrees with the Senator from Texas that perhaps it was a violation of the spirit of the rule to which he refers.

The Secretary will proceed with the reading of the bill.

The Secretary proceeded to read section 58.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. President, I will ask the Senator from Idaho what became of section 57?

Mr. HEYBURN. No objection was interposed to it. I will say to the Senator from Georgia that section 57 is of local application.

Mr. CLAY. I know it is of local application.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator from Oregon [Mr. FULTON], the State in which the reservation referred to is located, reported this section.

Mr. CLAY. I will say to the Senator that I can not see any use for it at all; for if you will turn to another section of this bill, you will find a general statute which provides for the punishment of trespassing upon forest reserves. I can not see why a special statute should be passed simply for the Bull Run National Forest, when there is a general statute that would cover that same forest.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the act to which the Senator objects was passed in 1904, nearly four years ago. It is the existing law. Whether or not Congress was wise in enacting it I would not undertake at this time to say.

Mr. CLAY. As I understand the Senator, this committee was appointed for the purpose of revising the laws. The committee does not pretend to have retained all of the old laws. As I understand, the committee has changed in many instances the old laws and has even inserted new statutes in this report.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President——

Mr. CLAY. One moment. I was going to say that I could never see the wisdom of passing a general statute making it a crime to do certain things, and then passing a special statute applying to a particular place when the general statute would cover the particular place.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes.

Mr. FULTON. I suggest to the Senator from Georgia that the general statute does not cover the case as completely as the special statute. The Bull Run Forest Reserve is a small area set aside as a forest reserve by proclamation and then protected by special acts simply to guard and protect the water supply the city of Portland. It was necessary to make the regulations protecting it more specific than in regard to the general forest-reserve system, because it was necessary to prevent any manner of trespassing or stock feeding thereon, in order to maintain the purity of the water. Hence, as the Senator from Idaho says, the special provision was passed some years ago and is now existing law. There can be no good reason for setting it aside.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I should like to supplement what the Senator from Oregon has stated by saying that it was the policy of the committee that reported the bill now under consideration to make no change in existing law except upon the most urgent necessity appearing. So that, this being existing law, considered favorably by existing committees of this body and of Congress, and enacted so recently as 1904, the committee thought that it would not be justified in attempting to drop out of the revision a statute so recently enacted and in the enactment of which many members of the present Congress largely participated.

It was a general conservative policy on the part of the committee to make no change without some compelling reason, and I think that Senators will find that that rule has been observed throughout the work. It is entirely probable that had the committee been recommending legislation in the first instance, they might, in many cases, have arrived at a different conclusion from that which they have reported here; but they did not feel at liberty to legislate upon any subject except to the extent of harmonizing existing law.

The Senator from Georgia [Mr. CLAY] has suggested that the committee has reported many new sections. Out of this entire voluminous work the committee has reported really but eleven new sections, and those growing out of conditions that did not exist up to the time that the necessity was made apparent.

Mr. CLAY. The Senator is probably correct, that the committee has reported but eleven new sections. I will, however, call the Senator's attention to the fact that in going through this report the Senator will find there are 342 sections, and, if I have made a correct calculation, 164 of those sections change to some extent existing law.

Mr. HEYBURN. I see that the Senator from Georgia is holding in his hand the print of the bill and does not seem to have the report before him.

Mr. CLAY. I have also the other before me. I have them both.

Mr. HEYBURN. Reference to the report of the committee, in which the bill is printed on the left-hand page, will indicate to the Senator that there are very few changes, indeed, in existing law. It must be obvious to the Senator that, where you are welding together three or four or five statutes, overlapping each other and passed at intervals long apart, it must be necessary to rearrange the language in order that the construction of the reported sentence may be intelligible and may express what Congress has expressed at different times in different sections. That was one of the important duties that your committee had to perform—the welding together of existing laws, not changing them further than was necessary to use the ordinary form of language for the expression of the intended purpose of Congress, plainly apparent upon the face of the legislation.

Now, Senators must realize that this work was accompanied at times by some difficulty in determining just exactly what form of language this welding together should take; but we have endeavored conscientiously to retain the exact intent and purpose of Congress in the several acts of legislation that we were called upon to deal with. If we have not done so, we are at all times ready to receive suggestions in the nature of amendments, either striking out sections or adding to them. But we have followed a rule that was as nearly accurate and as nearly met the exigencies of the moment as it was possible for us to conceive and to adopt.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 58. Whoever shall knowingly and unlawfully break, open, or destroy, any gate, fence, hedge, or wall inclosing any lands of the United States which, in pursuance of any law have been reserved or purchased by the United States for any public use; or whoever shall drive any cattle, horses, hogs, or other live stock upon any such lands for the purpose of destroying the grass or trees on said lands, or where they may destroy the said grass or trees; or whoever shall knowingly permit his cattle, horses, hogs, or other live stock to enter through any such inclosure upon any such lands of the United States, where such cattle, horses, hogs, or other live stock may or can destroy the grass or trees or other property of the United States on the said lands, shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to unreserved public lands.

SEC. 59. [Whoever shall willfully destroy, deface, change, or remove to another place any section corner, quarter-section corner, or meander post, on any Government line of survey, or shall willfully cut down any witness tree or any tree blazed to mark the line of a Government survey, or shall willfully deface, change, or remove any monument or bench mark of any Government survey, shall be fined not more than $250 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.]

SEC. 60. Whoever in any manner, by threats or force, shall interrupt, hinder, or prevent the surveying of the public lands, or of any private land claim which has been or may be confirmed by the United States, by the persons authorized to survey the same, in conformity with the instructions of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, shall be fined not more than $3,000, and imprisoned not more than three years.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I do not like to appear to be too officious in the matter, but I thought that the Senators in charge of the bill had agreed on a former occasion that whenever we reached a section which, by being printed in brackets, indicated that there had been a change they would without our asking them to do so tell us what the changes were.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, during the absence of the Senator from the Chamber the suggestion which he has just made was, in another form, made by the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT], and I think we had some understanding—if not complete, at least partial—that before requiring that I should repeat that which is already printed for the information of Senators reference would be made by Senators to this report.

If the Senator will turn to section 59, which is on page 16 of the report, he will probably have any question answered that would occur to his mind; and if not, I would be glad to supplement the information.

Mr. BACON. I will just call the attention of the Senator to the fact that it is manifestly physically impracticable while a section is being read to note the changes on the accompanying pamphlet when the Secretary proceeds immediately to the reading of another section, and unless the Secretary will stop long enough for a Senator to read it the necessity for the explanation by the Senator in charge is apparent. For instance, the Secretary has just read one section and immediately, without a moment's pause, is proceeding to read another. So we have no time for a comparison.

Mr. HEYBURN. I was rather expecting that the Secretary in reading would pause at least long enough for an objection to be made, but the Senator doubtless could have interrupted the Secretary and made the objection. However, I hope that in reading the sections that are indicated by brackets, or any other sections a Senator may suggest, the Secretary will pause long enough to give Senators time to interpose objections.

Mr. BACON. I will call the attention of the Senator to another fact. Section 58, which has just been read, is not put in brackets, and yet there are italics in the text, which indicate that there has been some change made.

Mr. HEYBURN. I should like to direct the Senator's attention to that section. If the Senator will turn to the report of the committee, he will find——

Mr. BACON. The Senator altogether misunderstands me. I simply desire to know whether that is a section in which there is no change.

Mr. HEYBURN. No change which should be indicated by brackets.

Mr. BACON. No.

Mr. HEYBURN. No. The report on section 58——

Mr. BACON. I desire to ascertain if I understand the matter correctly. Where the change is not in brackets, but where there are italics, the italics indicate the change, and there is no other?

Mr. HEYBURN. The italics indicate the changes.

Mr. BACON. And there is no other?

Mr. HEYBURN. No other which comes within the rule. The rule says——

Mr. BACON. I know, but the Senator can tell me if I am correct. I am simply trying to find out whether I am correct in the supposition that if there are simply italics without any brackets, that is an indication that the only changes are those indicated by the italics; but if there are brackets, it is an indication that there are some other changes which would be indicated by reference to that report.

Mr. HEYBURN. That in the welding of several sections matters had been dropped out.

Mr. BACON. Or inserted.

Mr. HEYBURN. In order that we may be clear upon that, the note on section 58 indicates changes, and I will read it into the RECORD, if I may have the Senator's attention.

Section 58: The two sections of the act revised in this section are partly duplications of each other, and for that reason have been combined. The section has been broadened so as to include "other live stock"—

That is in brackets—"other live stock"—

The proviso to the section has been simplified, the term "unreserved" being substituted for the omitted language.

That is in italics. So there was no change in that section that brought it within the rule that it should be indicated by brackets. It came within another class of sections. That is the reason.

Mr. BACON. Well, then, in fact, section 58, so far from being one in which there has been no change, is an amalgamation of two sections.

Mr. HEYBURN. Amalgamation at times simply consists in adding one section on the end of another; sometimes it consists in dropping out a large portion of one section and substituting another, and sometimes it consists in the transposition of language. It depends upon the form the original legislation took. In this case the original legislation was in such convenient form that it could be so welded together as to render it unnecessary to put it in brackets, but the changes could be indicated by italics. Doubtless it may be found that in some instances—I trust in very few—the committee has overlooked some matter. If so, we will be glad to have our attention called to it; but I think the Senator will find that that section did not come within the rule of brackets.

Mr. BURKETT. Before the reading is resumed, may I ask the Senator a question?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes.

Mr. BURKETT. In the intermission afforded me during the debate between the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON] and the Senator from Idaho [Mr. HEYBURN] I have had time to read over the key to which the Senator from Idaho referred, and I find that there has been omitted from section 59 the provision authorizing the payment of $25 to the informer.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is so stated in the report.

Mr. BURKETT. After making a comparison I notice that is true. Have the committee adopted the same course throughout the revision—have they generally left out the pay that is given to informers?

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think we reported a single section containing a fee to the informer. If we have my mind does not recur to it.

Mr. BURKETT. It seems to me that is one of the things which the Senator might well have called to the attention of the Senate. I did not notice it.

Mr. HEYBURN. We have done so.

Mr. BURKETT. I know, but it is impossible to follow it as fast as the clerk is reading and also read the report. I did not catch that until I read the report while the Senator from Georgia and the Senator from Idaho were debating. It seems to me when an old-established policy—and it is an old policy—of paying fees to informers in certain criminal matters is changed, it should come under the rule I suggested to the Senator: That if there is any revolution of process or anything of that sort we ought to be advised of it, because if the clerk had continued to read and if the Senator from Georgia had not delayed the clerk's reading for some interrogatories, I would not have caught that; the clerk is reading so rapidly.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, if requested by Senators, when each section is read, read the report of the committee on that section. It will take a lot of time. Really I can not see that it should be necessary to make a report and print it and lay it before Senators and then at the same time make it verbally, but for the convenience of Senators I will do it.

The Senator from Nebraska unfortunately was not in the Senate Chamber when the section to which he refers was reached.

Mr. BURKETT. I will say to the Senator that he is entirely mistaken. I have not been out of the Senate Chamber since the reading began.

Mr. HEYBURN. Perhaps I should have said that he was not in his seat.

Mr. BURKETT. Yes. I did change seats for a moment.

Mr. HEYBURN. However, does the Senator desire to recur to section 59?

Mr. BURKETT. No. I have noted the difference now.

Mr. HEYBURN. Then we can pass on.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill will be resumed.

The SECRETARY. Page 32, section 61——

Mr. BACON. Has section 60 been read?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It has been read.

Mr. BACON. Very well.

Mr. HEYBURN. There is no change in section 60.

Mr. BACON. I noticed that the report says this belongs to class 1.

Mr. HEYBURN. If the Senator will turn to the preceding page, he will find that there is stated just what class 1 comprises. Of course we can not entirely relieve Senators of the burden of recurring to the report. The section contains no new legislation and no change except the general change which is thus expressed in the report:

(1)—

That is class 1—

Those sections derived from a single section or act, in which the only change consists in the use of the word "whoever" for "every person who," and the omission of minimum punishments, the words "hard labor" and the designation of felony, high misdemeanor, or misdemeanor.

Inasmuch as we have stated in the beginning that those provisions of law have been entirely and uniformly and universally abolished, it would hardly seem necessary to repeat it as to each section.

Mr. BACON. I think the Senator is quite correct as to that. That is a matter which runs through the entire code.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is a universal rule which runs through the entire revision, in the interest of uniformity and for other purposes.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill will be resumed.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 61. Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 62. [Whoever shall willfully or maliciously injure or destroy any of the works, property, or material of any telegraph, telephone, or cable line, or system, operated or controlled by the United States, whether constructed or in process of construction, or shall willfully or maliciously interfere in any way with the working or use of any such line, or system, or shall willfully or maliciously obstruct, hinder, or delay the transmission of any communication over any such line, or system, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.]

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the section is in brackets, which indicates that there has been some change, under the rule requiring such sections to be in brackets. The report of the committee as to section 62 is as follows:

The changes made in this section consist in enlarging its terms so as to include telephone and cable lines and systems. The transposition of the language used, and the omission of redundant language, neither adds to nor takes from the section anything material.

I will say that since the enactment of this statute in 1874 new appliances and methods have come into general use, to which it was necessary to adapt existing legislation for their protection. They belong to the same class as those that existed and were the incentive to the enactment of the original law. I think no other change will be found in the section.

Mr. KEAN. Has it been agreed to?

Mr. HEYBURN. The sections are agreed to unless there is some objection.

Mr. KEAN. I should like to have it passed over.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator from New Jersey requests that it be passed over.

Mr. KEAN. Just for a moment. I want to read it.

Mr. HEYBURN. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill will be resumed.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 63. Whoever shall knowingly issue or publish any counterfeit weather forecast or warning of weather conditions falsely representing such forecast or warning to have been issued or published by the Weather Bureau, United States Signal Service, or other branch of the Government service, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than ninety days, or both.

Mr. KEAN. I am not unwilling that the Senator from Idaho should go back to the section which was passed over. I want to ask him whether or not it includes wireless telegraphy.

Mr. HEYBURN. Would the Senator object if we should proceed with the section under consideration and then recur to the other section, which will keep the RECORD straight?

Mr. KEAN. That is perfectly agreeable.

Mr. HEYBURN. The clerk has just finished reading section 63. I want the RECORD to show that it was disposed of. There is no change in it. It belongs to class 1, in which the changes are merely under the general rule.

Mr. BACON. I should like to inquire of the Senator whether in their work the committee was authorized to consider the propriety of the elimination of any statute?

Mr. HEYBURN. Does the Senator refer to section 63?

Mr. BACON. Yes; using it simply for the basis of the inquiry. I do not know whether in the work of the committee they felt authorized to, or did in fact at any time, eliminate from the law any provision which they thought to be unwise.

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think the committee at any time eliminated any provision because they thought it unwise. I think that whatever was eliminated was in response to the necessity arising out of other legislation upon the same subject or changed conditions which no longer made the existing law applicable. For instance, it will be found frequently that conditions had so changed that the existing provisions in the law had no present application to existing conditions; but the committee did not undertake in the instance to which my mind occurs to pass upon the wisdom of an existing law that had any aplication whatever to conditions which now exist. They left that for subsequent amendments to existing law.

Mr. BACON. I will ask, not with reference to this section in particular, but in order that we may know how we are to proceed in the further consideration of the bill, does the Senator recognize that in this proceeding it is now in order and proper, if Senators obect to any existing law, to seek to eliminate it by its repeal in this way?

Mr. HEYBURN. They undoubtedly could do it. I know of no rule of legislation in this body which would prevent any Senator from offering an amendment to repeal existing law, but I should feel impelled to suggest to Senators, if they should do it, that they were perhaps jeopardizing the adoption of the report of the committee in this case, and that it would be better to defer any attempt to amend the law until after these laws shall have been revised and codified and adopted, and then let any proposition to amend them go to the proper committee. Most of the possible amendments in this connection would go to the Committee on the Judiciary. If any Senator were to propose to repeal existing law, I would feel that such a proposition ought to go to the Judiciary Committee, and yet to do that, to undertake to refer any part of this work to another committee, or to a standing committee of this body, would certainly greatly delay, if not entirely jeopardize the passage of this bill, and would render nugatory eleven years of work and a very large expenditure of money, which have resulted in the production of this bill and its presentation to this body.

I think the Senator would not agree with me, that it would be unwise to attempt at this time new legislation in the shape of the repeal of existing laws.

Mr. BACON. I see a good deal of force, of course, in the suggestion of the Senator, and if his committee has been entirely consistent on the other hand in not inserting anything new, then the contention is very much fortified. Do I understand that to be the statement of the committee—that no new legislation has been inserted?

Mr. HEYBURN. No new legislation has been inserted in what purports to be existing law. The new legislation, as I have before said, is contained in sections that are entirely in italics, and they are very limited in number. I think the Senator will find that there are not to exceed eleven new sections. Whenever we reach them we pass them for subsequent consideration.

Mr. BACON. I understand; but I am speaking of the general methods of the committee. It seems to me the same argument which would suggest the propriety of the reference of the question of the repeal of a law to the Judiciary Committee would also make it equally important that any new legislation should be referred to that committee.

Mr. HEYBURN. I have anticipated, and I think each member of the committee has anticipated, the possibility of that question being raised. Of course I take it that under the reference of this subject to a special joint committee of the two Houses, it would be entirely in order for them to report a new section of law, a new subject-matter of legislation, and to refer it to a committee, and that would confine the work of the joint committee to a revision of existing law and perhaps leave some inconsistencies that could only be covered by new legislation. But the question of the wisdom of doing so would arise, and unless it was of such very great importance as to make it appear to be necessary to refer it to the Judiciary Committee, I do not think it ought to be done. I do not think the question should be raised. We could not object to it if it is raised.

Mr. BACON. I do not think it is a matter of very much practical importance, but I am frank to say that if the committee were proceeding to eliminate undesirable laws, this particular section is one which they might very well discard.

Mr. HEYBURN. Which particular section?

Mr. BACON. Section 63.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is existing law.

Mr. BACON. I am not asking them to do it at this time, but it does seem to me that it is going a little far in the way of legislation. Of course it is existing law, and the committee is in no wise responsible for it.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is made up of six sections of the act of 1874, which has been on the statute books a good while.

I have made my explanation of the section under consideration.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Recurring for a moment to section 62, which has been passed over, and replying to the question asked by the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. KEAN], the old law provided that "any person or persons who shall willfully or maliciously injure or destroy any of the works or property or material of any telegraphic line," and so on. The Senator from Idaho explained that the section had been broadened to include new appliances. The Senator from New Jersey desired to know whether it was broad enough to apply to wireless telegraphy. I answer him yes. The committee thinks the word "system" inserted in the new section covers wireless telegraphy.

Mr. HEYBURN. It says "cable line or system."

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes; so as to include cable and telephone and wireless systems. The word "line" in the original law would not include such apparatus.

Mr. KEAN. Yes; but wireless telegraphy does not use a cable.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is a system.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. It is a system.

Mr. HEYBURN. The word "system" is used to cover it.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. It is not a telegraphic line; it is a telegraphic system.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Utah yield to the Senator from Texas?

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes.

Mr. CULBERSON. I was not in the Chamber when the Senator from New Jersey made his statement in reference to section 62, and I may be asking a question which he has already answered; but I should like for the Senator from Utah to explain why it is that the words "or system" have been inserted at these three several places in this section.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. For precisely the same purpose—because the original law covered only a telegraph line, and not a telegraph system. Since this law was originally adopted we have had the invention of wireless telegraphy, which is not a line, but a telegraph system; and it is quite as necessary, the committee think, to protect the apparatus of a wireless telegraph system as it is to protect the apparatus and works of a telegraphic line.

Mr. BACON. The section applies only to lines or systems owned or controlled by the United States.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Yes.

Mr. BACON. It has no reference to other lines.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. It has reference to no others. It says "operated or controlled by the United States."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill will be resumed.

The Secretary read section 64, as follows:

SEC. 64. [Whoever shall forcibly assault, resist, oppose, prevent, impede, or interfere with any officer or employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture in the execution of his duties, or on account of the execution of his duties, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and whoever shall use any deadly or dangerous weapon in resisting any officer or employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture in the execution of his duties, with intent to commit a bodily injury upon him or to deter or prevent him from discharging his duties, or on account of the performance of his duties, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.]

Mr. HEYBURN. That being in brackets, under the suggestion of the Senator from Nebraska and the Senator from Georgia, I will read the report. It says:

Section 64. The only real change made in this section consists in the addition of the words "or both" at the end of the section. The omission of the words "who discharges any deadly weapon at" takes nothing from the section, as the act of discharging a weapon is embraced and covered by the words "shall use any deadly weapon," etc.

We have substituted the term "shall use any deadly weapon" as being more comprehensive than the words "who discharges any deadly weapon," because there are other ways of using deadly weapons than discharging them. At the end of the section the words "or both" have been added, and from the original section we have stricken out the words "imprisoned at hard labor" and have substituted the words "or both" after the designation of the fine and imprisonment.

Mr. BACON. I should like to inquire of the Senator whether or not it is true that there is a general provision of law making it a crime and imposing a penalty in cases where there is any resistance or interference with an officer of the United States in the discharge of his duty?

Mr. HEYBURN. I think there is no provision so general as to include all classes of public officers.

Mr. BACON. We do have, then, specific statutes for each particular class? It seems to me it would have been a very wise thing for the revisionists in examining into all these laws which are of a kindred nature—I know there are such laws with reference to officers of the postal service and others—instead of permitting to remain upon the statute books these separate and different provisions to have embodied them all into some one general provision which would have applied alike to all offenses of interfering with any Government officer.

I suppose, without knowing the history of the particular section now before us, that reference in the minds of the legislators at the time was to conditions out on the public lands, where the officers representing the department were liable to be interfered with in somewhat violent manner, and that this particular statute was enacted to meet that case. But I still think that in the interest of brevity and conciseness there could have been a general law framed which would have applied alike to all cases where an officer of the United States in the discharge of his duty was interfered with and hindred in the discharge of duty.

Mr. BURKETT. Is this a new law?

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator from Nebraska will find the statute from which this provision of the committee's report is taken set opposite in the report of the committee.

Mr. BURKETT. I saw that and was looking at it, and that is what suggested the question. It seems to have a section number only. There is no reference to the date of its passage.

Mr. BACON. You will find the date stated—1894, 1895, and 1896.

Mr. HEYBURN. The Senator will find by looking at the natural place the act referred to. The provisions of section 62 are all contained in the original acts of June 23 and February 4, 1874, the act of March 3, 1875, and of March 3, 1883, all referred to in the margin on page 69. The marginal reference is complete.

Mr. BACON. I was mistaken in my statement as to the dates. It was another statute I had in view.

Mr. HEYBURN. The statute being printed in full, of course the reference to the original publication of it in the Statutes at Large becomes unimportant.

Mr. BURKETT. I notice it is distributed to various other sections to which it pertains. I notice 7 is above 5. It rather reverses it.

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think I understand the Senator.

Mr. BURKETT. Is this a part of the statute found at the top of the page under section 63?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is contained in the second supplement, page 459. That is the reference just above; and there is no difficulty about it. I will call the Senator's attention to the section itself. On page 70 it says "3 Mar., 1905, 33 Stat. L." Look at the bottom of the section itself. The references are at the end of each section. So there can be no confusion about it.

Mr. BURKETT. What was the Senator's reply—I did not understand him if he has replied—to the suggestion of the Senator from Georgia, as I understood him to make it, that instead of making it a penalty for anyone to shoot at an officer of one particular branch or department of the Government, it should be made a general law? Why would it not be a good idea to make it general, and say "whoever shall forcibly assault, resist, oppose, prevent, impede, or interfere with any officer or employee of the United States in the execution of his duties?" What would be the objection, if the committee has any?

Mr. HEYBURN. I think the suggestion of the Senator from Nebraska would have been very pertinent had it been submitted to Congress when it was enacting the law; but as I have before said, it has been the endeavor of the committee to make no changes in existing law except such as were absolutely necessary for the purpose of harmonizing legislation.

Congress, in its wisdom, having enacted that statute, we have merely carried it forward into the criminal code, where it belongs. If it is considered later, after the committee's work shall have been finished, important to introduce an amendment before Congress, and let it go to the proper legislative committee, that is a matter for after consideration. But the committee did not intend to usurp the functions of the standing committees of this body in dealing with existing law or with amendments to existing law, and they have only done so where it was absolutely necessary in order to weld together statutes that overlapped or were inconsistent and needed to be reported in a concrete form.

Mr. BURKETT. There are as I see, hastily glancing through the bill, perhaps a dozen instances of entire new sections.

Mr. HEYBURN. Now, Mr. President, I can not see——

Mr. BURKETT. The committee has not confined itself entirely to rewriting the law. When a matter is so important and yet so simple and easily to be explained as that would—simply to insert the words "United States" for the words "Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture"—it seems to me while we are at it we might better make that little change than rewrite some whole sections or pass a new law, as we shall have to do later on.

Mr. HEYBURN. We have such frequent references to the eleven new sections the committee have reported and which I have endeavored to explain frequently that it seems to me more attention is being paid to the things that are not before the Senate than to those that are before the Senate. No one of those eleven sections has at any time been before the Senate for consideration at all, and if they should ever come before the Senate for consideration I would feel at that time perfectly willing to take them up. But at this time I must decline to consider matters that are not before the Senate.

One reason why this section was not made of general application is because the penalties affixed to the assault upon this class of officers would be inadequate to punish those guilty of graver offenses against other officers under other conditions. For that reason it was doubtless thought best by Congress at the time, rather than to make a general provision which would be applicable to all cases of resistance or assault (for in some cases it would be so aggravated that the punishment should be very severe indeed), that in these cases where the assault was not so great the punishment should be made commensurate with the offense with which Congress was dealing. I do not feel justified at this time to question the wisdom of Congress in enacting this law. It is the existing law and it has been for some time. The Fifty-eighth Congress enacted this law, and it is not so ancient but that many of those here present participated in its enactment.

The committee did not feel justified in criticising the work of the standing committees of this body which passed upon this legislation, and for that reason they made no suggestion in the nature of an amendment, but rather accepted it as the wisdom not of years ago or of some past period, but of to-day and of this generation and of men who in part comprise this Congress.

Mr. BURKETT. While the Senator is on his feet, let me ask him was this passed as a part of an appropriation bill—for instance, the agricultural appropriation bill?

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think that is material.

Mr. BURKETT. I think it is, because it might explain why Congress, in its wisdom, did not make the law general.

Mr. HEYBURN. It will be an unfortunate day in this country when we attempt to give status to legislation that was enacted as a part of an appropriation bill different from that which we give to legislation that was independent in its character, because perhaps the greater part of legislation, of this class at least, comes in connection with appropriation bills.

Mr. BURKETT. No; the Senator misunderstands me. I was not attempting to give different weight to legislation on that account, but only different weight to the remarks of the Senator on that account. I thought it might not possibly have had the general consideration if passed on an appropriation bill that it might have had if it came up as an individual bill, and that is the reason why I asked the question.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is not in an appropriation act. The Senator will find it on page 1265 in 33 Statutes at Large as part of an act entitled "An act to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish and maintain quarantine districts, to permit and regulate the movement of cattle and other live stock therefrom, and for other purposes." It is independent legislation, not on an appropriation bill.

Mr. BURKETT. I suggest then to the Senator that coming up in that kind of a bill it is hardly probable that the Senate did give it all the consideration that he referred to a moment ago as a general proposition. It came up in a special bill pertaining to a special department. Now, if it could be written as a general law for all the officers it seems to me that we would gain more time by it, as I understand the Senator to state that here is no law of a similar nature for other officers of the Government.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the most important consideration that Congress gives to any bill is the vote that it takes upon it. That is conclusive; and it is rather unprofitable to go back of the vote to determine whether or not Congress was justified in arriving at the conclusion which resulted in the enactment of the law. So I will let it rest at that.

Mr. BURKETT. Does the Senator object to an amendment of that sort, so as to make it general?

Mr. HEYBURN. If you would make the section general you would leave crimes consisting of assault on officers under some circumstances inadequately punished. The punishment provided for this class of offenses would be so inadequate to a large majority of the offenses that might come within that description as to leave the legislation absolutely insufficient, and it would probably in effect repeal a number of existing important statutes.

I do not think the Senator upon deliberation would propose to make that punishment applicable to all assaults under all circumstances, assaults upon United States marshals in arresting men charged with crime, and assaults upon United States marshals in enforcing law under cases of great aggravation. I do not think the Senator upon deliberation would ask that such inadequate punishment as was prescribed in that section should be adopted as applying to all cases which might occur under it.

Mr. BURKETT. I understood the Senator. I think there ought to be some law of this nature for every officer who is not specifically covered by a statute, and that is why I hesitated to offer the amendment. There certainly should be such a law.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Nebraska yield to the Senator from Utah?

Mr. BURKETT. I just want to explain why I had not offered the amendment, and then I will be glad to yield.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. I wish to ask the Senator a question right here in regard to this matter. I ask the Senator whether he does not think with reference to the great majority of the officers of the United States that the State laws are adequate to protect them against assaults of this character?

Mr. BURKETT. I do not know. Perhaps it is adequate for most of them. I should say that it is in most cases, at least.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Of course any person who assaults an officer of the Government within the limits of a State is amenable to the State law. This is only in addition to it, as I understand, because of the peculiar duties which this class of officers are called upon to perform.

Now, if the Senator will permit me, I call his attention to the fact, as I am advised at any rate, that there is only one other class of officers whose cases are reached by a statute of this character. The other class of officers are officers in the customs service and officers authorized to make seizures and searches. It was deemed wise on the part of Congress to provide with reference to that class of officers that when they were assaulted in the performance of their duties a Federal law should step in and protect them. Evidently Congress thought the same rule should apply to the officers of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Whether that was wise or not, it seems to me it is not within the province of this committee now to consider. Unless the law is so clearly unwise that everybody would say it ought not to be upon the statute books the committee ought not to undertake to repeal it.

If this law is amended so as to embrace all officers of the United States, it may be that we would be going altogether too far. It might in some instances provide a wholly inadequate punishment, and in other instances the punishment might be altogether too drastic. So it seemed to the committee that the wise thing to do was to leave the law as it exists and not undertake to broaden it by the sort of comprehensive legislation which the Senator suggests.

Mr. BACON. It seems to me that the operation of the minimum penalty in all the statutes deprives the Senator's objection of its force. If the minimum penalties were still preserved, is might be true that punishment might be entirely disproportioned to the offense; but the minimum punishment having been entirely abolished in all these statutes, I do not think his last objection is a good one, because there is a maximum but no minimum, and the punishment can be directly proportioned by the judge imposing the penalty to the grade of the offense. Still I will not insist upon it. I call the attention of the Senator, however, to the fact that such legislation is not only concerning officers of the customs service, but there is legislation of a similar character relative to officers of the postal service, if I recollect aright. I have not the statute before me.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. The legislation has been confined heretofore to officers of some particular class. Evidently Congress at the time this legislation was enacted considered that it was unwise for some reason to give it general application, and having legislated upon it as late as March, 1905, it seemed to the committee that they ought not to undertake now to broaden it.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 65. Whoever shall forge, counterfeit, or falsely alter any certificate of entry made or required to be made in pursuance of law by any officer of the customs, or shall use any such forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered certificate, knowing the same to be forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.

SEC. 66. Whoever shall willfully conceal or destroy any invoice, book, or paper relating to any merchandise liable to duty, which has been or may be imported into the United States from any foreign port or country, after an inspection thereof has been demanded by the collector of any collection district, or shall at any time conceal or destroy any such invoice, book, or paper for the purpose of suppressing any evidence of fraud therein contained, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 67. [Whoever shall forcibly assault, resist, oppose, prevent, impede, or interfere with any officer of the customs or of the internal revenue, or his deputy, or any person assisting him in the execution of his duties, or any person authorized to make searches and seizures, in the execution of his duty, or shall rescue, attempt to rescue, or cause to be rescued, any property which has been seized by any person so authorized; or whoever before, at, or after such seizure, in order to prevent the seizure or securing of any goods, wares, or merchandise by any person so authorized, shall stave, break, throw overboard, destroy, or remove the same, shall be fined not more than $2,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and whoever shall use any deadly or dangerous weapon in resisting any person authorized to make searches or seizures, in the execution of his duty, with intent to commit a bodily injury upon him or to deter or prevent him from discharging his duty, shall be imprisoned not more than ten years.]

Mr. HEYBURN. On the suggestion made by the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BACON] that a section in brackets should have some explanation before being passed, I would say that section 67 has a single change, which consists in interpolating the words "or of the internal revenue," including internal-revenue officers in the same class as customs officers. It was represented to the committee that there was no sufficient or adequate provision for the punishment of those who under the circumstances recited in this section assault internal-revenue officers. So the section was enlarged by including that class of officers with customs officers. There is a very close relation between the classes of officers, and it was thought best to enumerate them. We omitted the phrase "whoever discharges a weapon." We have substituted for that form of expression "whoever uses a weapon," instead of "discharges," and that is within the indication of the brackets. It was thought by the committee that a uniform rule of expression in regard to the use of weapons should be adopted, which should run all through the bill, so that instead of using as heretofore at one time the term "discharging a weapon," and another time "using a weapon," we have adopted the uniform expression of "using a weapon."

The Secretary read the next section of the bill as follows:

SEC. 68. Whoever shall falsely represent himself to be a revenue officer, and, in such assumed character, demand or receive any money or other article of value from any person for any duty or tax due to the United States, or for any violation or pretended violation of any revenue law of the United States, shall be fined not more than $500 and imprisoned not more than two years.

Mr. HEYBURN. That section is not in brackets. I would call the attention of the Senate to the fact that the words "not more than" are words of limitation. It enables the court to impose a fine of less than $500 in cases where it appeals to his discretion and the arbitrary fine of $500 would seem to be too severe a punishment. So we have inserted the words "not more than."

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 69. Whoever, being engaged in the importation into the United States of any goods, wares, or merchandise, or being interested as principal, clerk, or agent in the entry of any goods, wares, or merchandise, shall at any time make, or offer to make, to any officer of the revenue, any gratuity or present of money or other thing of value, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 70. Whoever, being an officer of the revenue, shall, by any means whatever, knowingly admit or aid in admitting to entry, any goods, wares, or merchandise, upon payment of less than the amount of duty legally due thereon, shall be removed from office and fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 71. Whoever, by any means whatever, shall knowingly effect, or aid in effecting, any entry of goods, wares, or merchandise, at less than the true weight or measure thereof, or upon a false classification thereof as to quality or value, or by the payment of less than the amount of duty legally due thereon, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 72. [Whoever, being a consul, or vice-consul, or other person employed in the consular service of the United States, shall knowingly certify falsely to any invoice, or other paper, to which his certificate is by law authorized or required, shall be fined not more than $10,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.]

Mr. HEYBURN. Section 72, in brackets, is changed in this respect. The offices of commercial agent and vice-commercial agent have been abolished by law. So they are omitted from the provisions of the section. The words "or other person employed in the consular service" have been inserted in place of those omitted, because the duties formerly resting upon those officers, the title of which has been abolished, now rest upon another class of officers without a special official designation. So the change is in form and not in substance.

Mr. STONE. Before we leave section 72, I desire to say that a short time ago I had occasion to talk with an ex-consul who served until recently, and the other day I read an interview with him concerning the practice obtaining at some of the consulates under the operation of what is called an Executive order, issued not a great while since by the President.

I understand the statutes governing the exportation of goods from foreign countries to the United States make it the duty of the exporter to appear personally before the consul or vice-consul and make an affidavit to his invoice. The Executive order to which I have referred directed the consul or vice-consul to make the certification required to the invoice without requiring the actual personal presence of the shipper, and I understand that that practice is being observed at a great many consulates in Europe.

I do not know that the Senator can throw any light upon this subject, but reading on section 72 it seemed to me that the consul certifying to an invoice contrary to that requirement of law would or might subject himself to the penalties provided in the section.

I should like to ask the Senator from Idaho, if the policy outlined in the Executive order is to be pursued, whether there ought not to be some change in the phraseology of this section. A consul is directed by Executive order to pursue a certain line of official conduct, and does it almost as a matter of course, while for the doing of it he subjects himself to the penalties of the present statute.

I call the attention of the Senator to it merely, supposing he is perhaps more familiar with the subject than I, and ask his opinion whether there ought not to be some change in this particular statute?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not think there should be a change in section 72, which is the existing section 5442 of the Revised Statutes. I think that the law should be as it is. I do not recall any authority given to any administrative or executive officer to change or modify the law enacted by Congress prescribing the duties and the manner of performing the duties of our consuls or foreign representatives of any class or character.

I have had my attention called to the publication to which the Senator from Missouri refers. Of course I would not undertake to say in any responsible way how much foundation there might be for it, but it does not seem to me that the condition, even though it exists, calls for any change in the law.

This section simply deals with the false certification by a "consul, or vice-consul, or other person employed in the consular service." There were formerly a class of consular officers who do not exist now, and the general term is intended to apply only to those who are responsible, not under an Executive order, but who are responsible under the law, and who are authorized by the law to perform a duty. This section provides that they shall perform it faithfully, and if they should fail to faithfully perform it they shall be punished as provided in the section.

I do not see that the conditions to which the Senator from Missouri refers would necessitate any change in that regard; but I would be very glad of course to hear his suggestion.

Mr. STONE. The consul, under existing conditions, as I understand it, is unfortunately placed between two fires. He must obey the direction of Executive order of his superior, which, I understand the Senator, is probably issued without authority of law, or obey the mandate of the statute, and disobeying either, subjects himself to the danger of some penalty. If the Executive order is wrong, if it is without authority of law, or being warranted by law is still wrong, then there ought to be some change in the law somewhere to relieve that situation.

I think the Senator is right in saying that the law itself should be retained and continued. I should like to have the section passed over for the present until I can look into it tomorrow morning.

Mr. HEYBURN. Will the Senator permit me, before passing it over, in order that the few remarks I may have to submit may appear in connection in the consideration of it, to make a suggestion? I did not intend, nor do I intend, to be understood as criticising, either directly or by implication, any Executive order, because I have no knowledge of any such Executive order having been made, as is suggested by the publication to which the Senator calls my attention and to which my attention had been already called. I think it would be unbecoming to assume in this body that the Executive branch of the Government had either mistaken the law or disregarded it. It is very evident that the duty of the consular officer is prescribed and bounded and limited by the law of Congress, and that he is neither the creature of an Executive order nor is he governed by Executive order. The officer is created by the United States Senate, just as much as he is invested with office by the President. It requires both to do it.

I am not willing to proceed on the assumption that the President has made any improper order in this matter. I have seen the newspaper statement to that effect, but I would not think it becoming to act upon such statements in the consideration of this question. If the Senator desires the section to go over, it can be passed over until he has had time to investigate it.

Mr. STONE. I will examine it. Let it go over until tomorrow.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Section 72 will be passed over.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 73. Whoever shall dispossess or rescue, or attempt to dispossess or rescue, any property taken or detained by any officer or other person under the authority of any revenue law of the United States, or shall aid or assist therein, shall be fined not more than $300 and imprisoned not more than one year.

SEC. 74. Whoever shall falsely make, forge, counterfeit, or alter any instrument in imitation of, or purporting to be, an abstract or official copy or certificate of the recording, registry, or enrollment of any vessel, in the office of any collector of the customs, or a license to any vessel for carrying on the coasting trade or fisheries of the United States, or a certificate of ownership, pass, passport, sea letter, or clearance, granted for any vessel, under the authority of the United States, or a permit, debenture, or other official document granted by any collector or other officer of the customs by virtue of his office; or whoever shall utter, publish, or pass, or attempt to utter, publish, or pass, as true, any such false, forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered instrument, abstract, official copy, certificate, license, pass, passport, sea letter, clearance, permit, debenture, or other official document herein specified, knowing the same to be false, forged, counterfeited, or falsely altered, with an intent to defraud, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.

SEC. 75. [Whoever shall falsely make, alter, forge, or counterfeit any military bounty-land warrant, or military bounty-land warrant certificate, issued or purporting to have been issued by the Commissioner of Pensions under any law of Congress, or any certificate or duplicate certificate of location of any military bounty-land warrant, or military bounty-land warrant certificate upon any of the lands of the United States, or any certificate or duplicate certificate of the purchase of any of the lands of the United States, or any receipt or duplicate receipt for the purchase money of any of the lands of the United States, issued or purporting to have been issued by the register and receiver at any land office of the United States or by either of them; or whoever shall utter, publish, or pass as true, any such false, forged, or counterfeited military bounty-land warrant, military bounty-land warrant certificate, certificate or duplicate certificate of location, certificate or duplicate certificate of purchase, receipt or duplicate receipt for the purchase money of any of the lands of the United States, knowing the same to be false, forged, or counterfeited, shall be imprisoned not more than ten years.]

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, section 75, which has just been read, being in brackets, at the request of the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. BURKETT], I will suggest that the only changes in that section are in the transposition of the language, which was made necessary by the conditions under which the matter presented itself. It really would not have been necessary to inclose that section in brackets under the rule but for the fact that the word "law" was substituted for the word "act" in line 4, the words "or any duplicate thereof," in line 5, were transposed to perfect the construction of the sentence; and in existing law the word "publishes," after the word "or," in the third line from the top of the page, was stricken out because it appears later in the same sentence. It all went to the question of construction and it in no way affects the substance of the law.

Mr. BURKETT. There is none of the old law omitted, I take it?

Mr. HEYBURN. None, except that under the general rule the "hard-labor clause" is stricken out. That is also true as to all that class of legislation.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 76. Whoever shall falsely make, forge, or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, forged, or counterfeited, or shall knowingly aid or assist in falsely making, forging, or counterfeiting any certificate of citizenship, with intent to use the same, or with the intent that the same may be used by some other person, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

SEC. 77. Whoever shall engrave, or cause or procure to be engraved, or assist in engraving, any plate in the likeness of any plate designed for the printing of a certificate of citizenship; or whoever shall sell any such plate, or shall bring into the United States from any foreign place any such plate, except under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor or other proper officer; or whoever shall have in his control, custody, or possession any metallic plate engraved after the similitude of any plate from which any such certificate has been printed, with intent to use or to suffer such plate to be used in forging or counterfeiting any such certificate or any part thereof; or whoever shall print, photograph, or in any manner cause to be printed, photographed, made, or executed, any print or impression in the likeness of any such certificate, or any part thereof; or whoever shall sell any such certificate, or shall bring the same into the United States from any foreign place, except by direction of some proper officer of the United States; or whoever shall have in his possession a distinctive paper which has been adopted by the proper officer of the United States for the printing of such certificate, with intent unlawfully to use the same, shall be fined not more that $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

SEC. 78. Whoever, when applying to be admitted a citizen, or when appearing as a witness for any such person, shall knowingly personate any person other than himself, or shall falsely appear in the name of a deceased person, or in an assumed or fictitious name, or whoever shall falsely make, forge, or counterfeit any oath, notice, affidavit, certificate, order, record, signature, or other instrument, paper, or proceeding required or authorized by any law relating to or providing for the naturalization of aliens, or whoever shall utter, sell, dispose of, or shall use as true or genuine, for any unlawful purpose, any false, forged, antedated, or counterfeit oath, notice, certificate, order, record, signature, instrument, paper, or proceeding above specified, or whoever shall sell or dispose of to any person other than the person for whom it was originally issued any certificate of citizenship or certificate showing any person to be admitted a citizen, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

SEC. 79. [Whoever shall use or attempt to use, or shall aid, assist, or participate in the use of any certificate of citizenship, knowing the same to be forged, counterfeit, or antedated, or knowing the same to have been procured by fraud or otherwise unlawfully obtained; or whoever, without lawful excuse, shall knowingly possess any false, forged, antedated, or counterfeit certificate of citizenship purporting to have been issued under any law of the United States relating to naturalization, knowing such certificate to be false, forged, antedated, or counterfeit, with the intent unlawfully to use the same; or whoever shall obtain, accept, or receive any certificate of citizenship, knowing the same to have been procured by fraud or by the use or means of any false name or statement given or made with the intent to procure, or to aid in procuring, the issuance of such certificate, or knowing the same to have been fraudulently altered or antedated; or whoever, without lawful excuse, shall have in his possession any blank certificate of citizenship provided by the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization with the intent unlawfully to use the same; or whoever, after having been admitted to be a citizen, shall, on oath or by affidavit, knowingly deny that he has been so admitted, with the intent to evade or avoid any duty or liability imposed or required by law, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.]

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, unless Senators should waive the request they made, I feel impelled to call attention to every section in brackets as shown in the print of the bill.

Section 79 is a composite of section 5429 of the Revised Statutes and the act of June 29, 1906. No change has been made in the substance of the existing law. It has merely been welded together so as to be embraced within a single section.

The next section was read as follows:

SEC. 80. Whoever shall in any manner use, for the purpose of registering as a voter, or as evidence of a right to vote, or otherwise unlawfully, any order, certificate of citizenship, or certificate, judgment, or exemplification, showing any person to be admitted to be a citizen, whether heretofore or hereafter issued or made, knowing that such order, certificate, judgment, or exemplification has been unlawfully issued or made; or whoever shall unlawfully use, or attempt to use, any such order or certificate, issued to or in the name of any other person, or in a fictitious name or the name of a deceased person, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

Mr. BACON. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senators in charge of the bill if in the examination of that section they found any difficulty in their minds growing out of the fact of the voting, which can only be alluded to in that section as the voting in a State election? We have no other kind of voting. That is frequently done under a certificate of citizenship of the State only, although it may be an election in which a Representative in Congress is to be chosen; in other words, citizenship of the United States is not essential to citizenship of a State. Of course, now, this may be considered not exactly pertinent to the present business in hand, except that, I suppose, the committee have been called on, in considering every section, to consider its entire propriety. I ask, not for the purpose of argument, but for the purpose of gaining information, whether the committee considered the complications which grow out of the fact that all voting is done in a State election? There is no such thing as a Federal election, no such thing as a vote cast in the United States. Every vote is cast in a State. Did they also consider the additional fact that a great many—certainly some—States have qualifications for citizenship in the State which do not require citizenship of the United States? Therefore not only is the vote cast one which is cast in a State election, but the certificate under which it is cast is not the certificate of citizenship of the United States, although it may relate to the election of a Representative in Congress.

Mr. HEYBURN. The suggestion made by the Senator from Georgia is pertinent. Had it not been existing law, it is very doubtful if the committee would have reported this section; but it is existing law and a part of the statute that was interpreted by the United States Supreme Court in the case of The United States v. Tynen. It was not our idea to drop out as obsolete or inappropriate any section of law or any portion of law that had received the consideration of the United States Supreme Court. The committee did not hesitate to report it as existing law without any attempt to amend it or to change it in form or substance. So it might be proper, after the work now under consideration is completed, for the Senator from Georgia to look into the necessity for the retention of these words in the statute book and represent his conclusion by an amendment.

Mr. BACON. I think it is a proper law if it can be properly limited. I do not mean to say that it can be limited, because it is a very complicated question, as the Senator will readily recognize, though I should be very glad, if the Senator has that decision before him, if he would give us the syllabus of it.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, we never proceeded further than the determination of the fact that this was existing law, that it was not obsolete, and that the conditions under which it was enacted in 1870 are the conditions that exist to-day. I do not think it would be profitable for the Senate to pause at this time to inquire into the wisdom of that legislation, because, should we enter upon that policy, we might be called upon to consider the wisdom of a great deal of existing law. That would take up much more time and it would go far beyond the original intention of Congress in providing for this work to be done.

Mr. BACON. I quite agree with the Senator in that regard, Mr. President. I only desired to know whether or not the particular features and peculiarities of this provision of law had met with the consideration of the committee.

Mr. HEYBURN. I may say to the Senator that every section that is reported here received the most careful and detailed consideration of the committee. Upon some of these sections the committee were engaged for from a few hours to several days. Every decision that had been rendered by the courts was investigated. The matter was considered with that care and particularity that would characterize the consideration of the law were it before a court for interpretation. The committee's work has extended over many weeks in the determination of the propriety of reporting these sections and in sifting and selecting them.

The Secretary resumed the reading of the bill, as follows:

SEC. 81. Whoever shall knowingly use any certificate of naturalization heretofore or which hereafter may be granted by any court, which has been or may be procured through fraud or by false evidence, or which has been or may hereafter be issued by the clerk or any other officer of the court without any appearance and hearing of the applicant in court and without lawful authority; or whoever, for any fraudulent purpose whatever, shall falsely represent himself to be a citizen of the United States without having been duly admitted to citizenship, shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

SEC. 82. [Whoever in any proceding under or by virtue of any law relating to the naturalization of aliens shall knowingly swear falsely in any case where an oath is made or affidavit taken shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than five years.]

SEC. 83. The provisions of the five sections last preceding shall apply to all proceedings had or taken, or attempted to be had or taken, before any court in which any proceeding for naturalization may be commenced, or attempted to be commenced, and whether such court was vested by law with jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings or not.

Mr. BACON. Now, Mr. President, I should like the Senator to give the views of the committee as to those last words which are in italics and which seem to me to be very——

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not know that I can state in any more concise language than the committee have stated it in their report giving their reasons for the change. Section 83 was reported in the form in which it appears for the following reasons:

Section 83: The new matter added to this section is for the purpose of making clear the right to punish violations of the five preceding sections, even though the court in which the proceeding is had or taken had no jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings.

If the Senator will recur to the five preceding sections and give attention to the character of the offenses enumerated in those sections, it will be apparent to him that the amendment suggested by the committee was necessary in order to make effective those sections, otherwise it would have been necessary to make a special reference to the jurisdiction of the court in each of those sections. It was in order that the subject might be consolidated in one section for convenient reference that the committee reported the lines in italics.

Mr. BACON. The committee may be entirely right about it, and doubtless the presumption is that they are, but I wish to have the Senator explain upon what ground the offense is made criminal in a case where the courts have no jurisdiction for such purpose.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, this is the defining of an offense. The jurisdiction of the court was not pertinent to the definition of the offense. The jurisdiction of the court only goes to the question of dealing with the offense.

Mr. BACON. No; I am not speaking of the trial court; I am not speaking of the jurisdiction of the trial court. I am speaking of the jurisdiction of a court in which a party may have committed some of these alleged offenses. I repeat to the Senator that I am not taking issue with the committee, but simply asking them to give an explanation of how and upon what ground an offense can be charged in a case of that kind where a court in which the original transaction was alleged to be had had no jurisdiction of the subject-matter.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. Mr. President——

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Idaho yield to the Senator from Utah?

Mr. HEYBURN. Certainly.

Mr. SUTHERLAND. In some States—at any rate, in my own State—I know it to have been a fact that the probate courts undertook to issue certificates of naturalization—undertook to naturalize citizens. Under the certificates issued by those courts the rights of citizenship were exercised, and people undertook to vote under them. After a lapse of some years the supreme court of the Territory determined that the probate court had no power to grant naturalization. There probably are other cases of that sort in the United States. It is just as great a moral offense for any man to undertake to use a certificate issued by a court of that character which in the end it is determined had no jurisdiction as it would be if the court had really had jurisdiction, and it was in that view that the committee agreed to this amendment.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I now ask that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Idaho asks that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside. The Chair hears no objection, and it is so ordered.

FINANCIAL STATISTICS.

Mr. CULLOM obtained the floor.

Mr. ALDRICH. Will the Senator yield to me for a moment?

Mr. CULLOM. Yes.

Mr. ALDRICH. In a colloquy which I had this morning with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. TILLMAN] I mentioned the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury had sent to me a communication, which I had not at that time received, giving the reasons why he had not complied with the resolution of inquiry of the Senate adopted some time ago. I now ask that the Secretary's letter be printed in the RECORD without reading.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In the absence of objection, the communication from the Secretary of the Treasury submitted by the Senator from Rhode Island will be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. BURKETT. Is the letter short?

Mr. ALDRICH. It is very short.

Mr. BURKETT. Let it be read, then.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will read the letter.

The Secretary read the letter, as follows:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, January 20, 1908.

MY DEAR SENATOR: I am sorry that there should have been any misunderstanding as to the time when my answer to the Senate resolution regarding the Treasury operations would be sent in. Had I been advised of your request to know when it might be expected, I would have replied that I required a little more time to go over the mass of figures it involved. It is my desire, of course, that all business of this kind shall be disposed of promptly, but this matter is so important that I have felt it desirable that every feature of the report should be clearly stated, both for the information of the Senate and in justice to the Department. It is my desire and intention to submit a complete response to the resolution, and I hope to have it ready in the course of the next few days—in all probability about the beginning of next week.

The amount of work involved in the preparation of such voluminous data may not be fully appreciated by some, but it should be remembered that the force in all the bureaus here which have to do intimately with financial matters have been for weeks working overtime on the regular business of the Department, and to have this duty put upon them, in addition, materially increases their burdens.

Very sincerely, yours,

GEO. B. CORTELYOU.

Hon. NELSON W. ALDRICH,
United States Senate.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. CULLOM. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After fifteen minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 4 o'clock and 20 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, January 21, 1908, at 12 o'clock meridian.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate January 20, 1908.

COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS.

James Brady, of Massachusetts, to be collector of customs for the district of Fall River, in the State of Massachusetts. (Reappointment.)

Luke B. Colbert, of Massachusetts, to be collector of customs for the district of Marblehead, in the State of Massachusetts. (Reappointment.)

David M. Little, of Massachusetts, to be collector of customs for the district of Salem and Beverly, in the State of Massachusetts. (Reappointment.)

Obed G. Smith, of Massachusetts, to be collector of customs for the district of Nantucket, in the State of Massachusetts. (Reappointment.)

Frank S. Kellogg, of Connecticut, to be collector of customs for the district of Hartford, in the State of Connecticut, in place of Ezra B. Bailey, whose term will expire by limitation January 22, 1908.

John Bourne, of New York, to be collector of customs for the district of Dunkirk, in the State of New York. (Reappointment.)

SURVEYORS OF CUSTOMS.

Charles J. Robb, of Indiana, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Michigan City, in the State of Indiana. (Reappointment.)

Leander M. Shubert, of Iowa, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Council Bluffs, in the State of Iowa. (Reappointment.)

RECEIVER OF PUBLIC MONEYS.

Joseph C. Auld, of Montana, to be receiver of public moneys at Miles City, Mont., his term having expired November 23, 1907. (Reappointment.)

ASSISTANT TREASURER OF UNITED STATES.

Clarence S. Hebert, of Louisiana, to be assistant treasurer of the United States at New Orleans, La. (Reappointment.)

APPOINTMENT BY TRANSFER IN THE ARMY.

Cavalry Arm.

First Lieut. Edward W. Robinson, Twenty-eighth Infantry, from the Infantry Arm to the Cavalry Arm, with rank from February 2, 1901.

Infantry Arm.

First Lieut. George Steunenberg, Thirteenth Cavalry, from the Cavalry Arm to the Infantry Arm, with rank from February 2, 1901.

PROMOTION IN THE ARMY.

Capt. Cephas C. Bateman, chaplain, Coast Artillery Corps, to be chaplain with the rank of major from January 17, 1908.

TO BE PLACED ON RETIRED LIST OF THE ARMY.

Col. John C. Muhlenberg, Assistant Paymaster-General, to be placed on the retired list of the Army with the rank of brigadier-general from the date on which he shall be retired from active service.

POSTMASTER.

NEW YORK.

W. H. Prangen to be postmaster at Hornell (late Hornellsville), Steuben County, N. Y., in place of Willard F. Sherwood. Incumbent's commission expired December 17, 1907.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Executive nominations confirmed by the Senate January 20, 1908.

PROMOTIONS IN THE NAVY.

Capt. Harrison G. O. Colby, on the active list of the Navy, to be a rear-admiral on the retired list from the 28th day of January, 1908, the date upon which he will be retired in accordance with the provisions of an act of Congress approved June 29, 1906.

Commander Abraham V. Zane to be a captain in the Navy from the 6th day of December, 1907.

Lieut. Francis L. Chadwick to be a lieutenant-commander in the Navy from the 1st day of July, 1907.

Lieut. Alfred A. Pratt to be a lieutenant-commander in the Navy from the 1st day of July, 1907.

Boatswain Belmar H. Shepley to be a chief boatswain in the Navy from the 11th day of April, 1907, upon the completion of six years' service in his present grade.

POSTMASTERS.

CALIFORNIA.

Angelo Genelly to be postmaster at Los Banos, Merced County, Cal.

Thomas E. Knox to be postmaster at Livermore, Alameda County, Cal.

Adolphus M. Shenk to be postmaster at Calexico, Imperial County, Cal.

Charles A. Stilson to be postmaster at Oceanpark, Los Angeles County, Cal.

William F. Wulf to be postmaster at Crescent City, Del Norte County, Cal.

COLORADO.

Paul J. Sours to be postmaster at Denver, Denver County, Colo.

GEORGIA.

Charles P. Neal to be postmaster at Summerville, in the county of Chattooga and State of Georgia.

INDIANA.

Timothy De Brular to be postmaster at Garrett, Dekalb County, Ind.

Harry C. Linkhart to be postmaster at Hobart, Lake County, Ind.

Duane Scott to be postmaster at Fremont, Steuben County, Ind.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Clara S. Hill to be postmaster at Amherst, Hampshire County, Mass.

William L. Lathrop to be postmaster at Orange, Franklin County, Mass.

George L. Minott to be postmaster at Gardner, Worcester County, Mass.

Charles Newhall to be postmaster at Danvers, Essex County, Mass.

Everett I. Nye to be postmaster at Wellfleet, Barnstable County, Mass.

Agnes J. Smith to be postmaster at Stockbridge, Berkshire County, Mass.

William H. Sprague to be postmaster at Stoneham, Middlesex County, Mass.

Charles E. Wallace to be postmaster at Fitchburg, Worcester County, Mass.

MICHIGAN.

Archibald K. Dougherty to be postmaster at Elk Rapids, Antrim County, Mich.

Edward F. Evarts to be postmaster at Chesaning, Saginaw County, Mich.

Edgar B. Gregory to be postmaster at Jonesville, Hillsdale County, Mich.

Willard E. Holt to be postmaster at Bellevue, Eaton County, Mich.

George Preston to be postmaster at Grass Lake, Jackson County, Mich.

MINNESOTA.

Carl S. Dahlquist to be postmaster at Baudette, Beltrami County, Minn.

Hakon E. Glassoe to be postmaster at Lanesboro, Fillmore County, Minn.

John A. Hawkinson to be postmaster at Parkers Prairie, Otter Tail County, Minn.

NEVADA.

Benjamin I. Barlow to be postmaster at Columbia, Esmeralda County, Nev.

Henry S. Starrett to be postmaster at Battle Mountain, Lander County, Nev.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

George A. McIntire to be postmaster at Milford, Hillsboro County, N. H.

Henry E. Merrick to be postmaster at Henniker, Merrimack County, N. H.

Ernest R. Roberts to be postmaster at Salmon Falls, Strafford County, N. H.

Edwin B. Pike to be postmaster at Pike, Grafton County, N. H.

George D. Stevens to be postmaster at Durham, Strafford County, N. H.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Daniel W. Reynolds to be postmaster at Reedsville, Mifflin County, Pa.

Samuel G. Wilson to be postmaster at Bridgeport, Montgomery County, Pa.

VERMONT.

Willard S. Hatch to be postmaster at Chelsea, Orange County, Vt.

WASHINGTON.

Robert O'Neil to be postmaster at Lynden, Whatcom County, Wash.

Peter E. Nelson to be postmaster at Cashton, Monroe County, Wis.

WISCONSIN.

Joseph A. Oenning to be postmaster at Fountain City, Buffalo County, Wis.

Lansing A. Wilcox to be postmaster at Cadott, Chippewa County, Wis.

---

REJECTION.

Executive nomination rejected by the Senate, January 20, 1908.

PENSION AGENT.

Charles Fairbanks, of Concord, N. H., to be pension agent at Concord, N. H.

---

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, January 20, 1908.

The House met at 12 o'clock m.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. HENRY N. COUDEN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Friday, January 17, 1908, was read and approved.

SECOND HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the bill (H. R. 300) providing for second homestead entries, with Senate amendments thereto.

The Senate amendments were read.

Mr. MONDELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House disagree to the Senate amendments and ask for a conference thereon.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker——

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman yield?

Mr. MONDELL. Yes.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what the Senate amendments are.

Mr. MONDELL. The Senate amendments add to the bill some provisos, and leave from it some of the provisions of the House bill, particularly a provision in which the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] was interested.

Mr. MANN. I judge from the reading it left out the proviso that was inserted here in the amendment to the bill.

Mr. MONDELL. It does.

Mr. MANN. I hope the gentleman will insist upon that proviso being retained in the bill as passed.

Mr. MONDELL. That is the gentleman's intention, to stand by the decision of the House in that matter.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman in what respect the Senate amendments change the original bill.

Mr. MONDELL. The Senate amendments modify the original bill considerably in phraseology. It would not be an easy bill to administer. The Senate bill does not differ essentially in spirit or intent from the House bill, but the language used is not so clear; it is somewhat ambiguous, and the Senate bill does not contain the amendments placed upon the House bill in the House.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. The intention of the bill as it passed the House was to give the man who undertook to make an entry and was knocked out on some technicality the right to make another.

Mr. MONDELL. Yes.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. But it provides that if he has sold out or got anything of value for his claim he can not do it.

Mr. MONDELL. That is the provision of the House amendment.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Does the Senate bill contain that provision, too?

Mr. MONDELL. The Senate bill contains that provision, but does not contain the provision respecting the loss of the former entry through fraud, which was also contained in the House amendment.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Wyoming, that the House disagree to the Senate amendments and ask for a conference.

The question was taken, and the motion was agreed to.

The Chair announced the following conferees on the part of the House:

Mr. MONDELL, Mr. GRONNA, and Mr. GAINES of Tennessee.

ASSISTANT CLERK COMMITTEE ON DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I present the following privileged resolution from the Committee on Accounts, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

In lieu of House resolution 64—

Resolved, That there shall be paid, out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of an assistant clerk to the Committee on the District of Columbia, during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, a per diem compensation of $6, which shall equal in the aggregate the amount paid session clerks whose employment is provided for by law. The pay of said clerk shall commence from the time he entered upon the discharge of his duties, which shall be ascertained and evidenced by the certificate of the chairman of said committee.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, is this the same resolution made in the last Congress?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Made in the Fifty-eighth and the Fifty-ninth Congresses, yes; the same provision.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. To add this assistant clerk?

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Yes.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

MESSENGER TO COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I present the following privileged resolution from the Committee on Accounts, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

In lieu of House resolution 33—

Resolved, That there shall be paid, out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of a messenger to the Committee on the Judiciary, during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, compensation at the rate of $60 per month from December 2, 1907.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

ATTENDANT, LADIES' RECEPTION ROOM.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I also offer the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolution 128.

Resolved, That there shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of an attendant in the ladies' reception room, compensation at the same rate as was paid during the Fifty-ninth Congress, namely, $60 per month, during the sessions, the same to commence from the beginning of the present session, said attendant to be under the charge of the Doorkeeper of the House.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

ASSISTANT CLERK, COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I also offer the following resolution in lieu of House resolution No. 114.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That there shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of an assistant clerk to the Committee on Agriculture during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, per diem compensation of $6, which shall equal in the aggregate the amount paid session clerks whose employment is provided for by law, the payment of said clerk to commence from the time he entered upon the discharge of his duties, which shall be ascertained and evidenced by the certificate of the chairman of said committee.

The question was taken, and the substitute for the resolution agreed to.

STENOGRAPHER TO COMMITTEE ON WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. HUGHES of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I also offer the following resolution in lieu of House resolution No. 142.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That there shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, for the services of a stenographer to the Committee on War Claims during the sessions of the Sixtieth Congress, compensation at the rate of $75 per month, payment to commence from the time said stenographer entered upon the discharge of his duties, which shall be ascertained and evidenced by the chairman of said committee.

The question was taken, and the substitute was agreed to.

MONEYS EXPENDED BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

Mr. WEEKS. Mr. Speaker, I am instructed by the Committee on Expenditures in the State Department to report the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolution 133.

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be, and he is hereby, requested to furnish to the House of Representatives, for its information, the following:

First. An itemized statement of all moneys paid through the State Department during the last fiscal year for the maintenance of the ambassadorial, ministerial, and consulate service, and for what particular purposes expended.

Sesond. An itemized statement of all moneys expended during the last fiscal year through the State Department in the administration of said Department locally, and for what purposes expended.

Third. An itemized statement of all moneys expended under the jurisdiction of the State Department during the last fiscal year in connection with the United States courts in China and Korea, and for what purposes expended.

The question was taken, and the resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. WEEKS, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

IMMIGRATION STATION, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I desire unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 7694) to provide for the purchase of ground for and the erection of a public building for an immigration station, on a site to be selected for said station, in the city of Philadelphia, Pa.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen from Pennsylvania asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of a bill on the Union Calendar which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause to be erected, on a site to be selected, a public building to temporarily accommodate and care for immigrants arriving at the city of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania.

SEC. 2. That the sum of $250,000 is hereby appropriated for the purchase of ground for and the erection of said building, which sum shall be paid from the immigrant fund, said sum to include heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators, and approaches of and to said building.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I would like to ask the gentleman why the bill comes in in this shape at this time?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Simply because of the great necessities of the port of Philadelphia in this respect. The immigration to Philadelphia has been increasing from year to year, and immigrants have been coming to a station that is not owned by the Government of the United States, but which is owned by a railway corporation and is leased to a steamship corporation, so that all those who come to this country for the first time pass in part through other hands than those of the Government. The station at present is entirely inadequate for the purpose for which it is intended. Thirty-four thousand people now pass annually through this station. The number is increasing from year to year. I have the statistics here, but do not at this time care to burden the House with them. The conditions of the station in hot weather are deplorable, and in cold weather are even worse. We simply ask that the Government provide a station in its own behalf and properly receive those who come to our shores through the port of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say this bill has been unanimously reported by the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization; that it has received the approval of the commissioners recently appointed to investigate immigration affairs of this country and elsewhere; that it is heartily approved by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, and has the indorsement of the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. MANN. How long would it take to construct this building after acquiring the site?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I presume not more than a year.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman has great hope if he thinks the Government ever constructs any building within a year. It will take a year to acquire the site.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. We are simply moving in what we think is the right direction to obtain without further delay a much-needed station for the comfort and convenience of the people who have to occupy it.

Mr. MANN. Can the gentleman further inform the House whether the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization is the committee which ordinarily reports buildings for that service?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The bill is on the Calendar.

Mr. MANN. I have the Calendar in my hand. I had noted the bill on the Calendar before the gentleman called it up, and it seemed to me quite irregular for the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization to be reporting bills. That, it seemed to me, belonged to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Possibly it may help the gentleman if I say that the bill does not contemplate an appropriation from the funds of the Government of the United States, but provides that the money is to come from the immigration fund, which is the head tax levied on the people coming into this country.

Mr. MANN. Does the gentleman consider the immigration fund as a fund not belonging to the Government of the United States?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It is under Government control.

Mr. MANN. To whom does it belong if it does not belong to the Government?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I said that it was not a part of the regular appropriations of the United States.

Mr. MANN. That is just the difficulty. For the present, Mr. Speaker, until I have a chance at least and other Members have a chance to look into this matter, I shall be compelled to object.

BRIDGE OVER BLACK RIVER, ARKANSAS.

Mr. MACON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. MACON] asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the Senate bill 2694, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That Maxwell Coffin and his assigns are hereby authorized to construct a railroad and wagon drawbridge across Black River at or near the town of Powhatan, in the county of Lawrence and State of Arkansas, in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled "An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters," approved March 23, 1906.

SEC. 2. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

The bill was ordered to a third reading, was read a third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. MACON, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed was laid on the table.

IMMIGRATION STATION, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The SPEAKER. The Chair again recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE].

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill H. R. 7694.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I will suggest to the gentleman that bills of this character ought to be considered in Committee of the Whole House. If consent is given to make a motion to go into Committee of the Whole House, I will have no objection.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Appreciating what the gentleman has just said, I move that we go into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of this bill.

The SPEAKER. The bill is on the Union Calendar, and if unanimous consent is given for its present consideration it could only be considered in the Committee of the Whole House.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, before unanimous consent is given I would like to ask the gentleman a few questions. I would like to ask him as to whether the committee that had this bill under consideration had investigated the question as to the amount of the falling off of the immigration coming into this country since the beginning of the panic, and ask whether or not that did not relieve the situation without bringing up the necessity for any new buildings?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. If the gentleman will permit, I will refer that question to the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET], a member of the committee, to answer.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] has asked me to reply to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. UNDERWOOD], I would say that the Committee on Immigration, which considered this question, was perfectly aware of the present condition of the east-bound traffic in the third-class passenger travel.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. That does not give the information to the House. What was the immigration coming into this particular station before this panic started in, before last July? What was the report of the number of immigrants that came in before July?

Mr. BENNET of New York. The east-bound traffic from all ports—of course, you can not segregate one port—during the year ending December 31, 1907, was about 558,000. That is a phenomenon that has occurred every time in this country that we have any industrial falling off.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. But the gentleman from New York does not answer my question, which was as to the number of immigrants coming into this country at that port; what I want to know is whether the committee has been informed by the Bureau of Immigration as to how many immigrants landed in July last.

Mr. BENNET of New York. At the rate of about 38,000 a year.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. But you make no answer as to whether the number had fallen off after the panic and after the immigrants had started westward instead of coming eastward.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Our committee finds that immigration has fallen off since the 15th of November.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Well, now, has it fallen off sufficiently to enable the present station to accommodate the immigrants that come?

Mr. BENNET of New York. The present station is not fit for the transaction of the immigration business. In the first place, it is divided into three parts; the detention station is away up in the middle of the city; the receiving station is not under the control of the United States at all, out on a rickety, wind-swept, dirty wharf, and the detention house a place where immigrants ought not to be allowed to land. They occupy a building which is apparently about 125 years old, is absolutely unfit for the purpose, and so insecure that any immigrant detained for trachoma, anarchy, or any other reason, with usual intelligence, ought to be able to get out of that place and get into the United States. It is not under United States officials, but steamship officials. The Immigration Commission, which has visited every port north of Baltimore on the Atlantic seaboard, is unanimously of the opinion that the station at Philadelphia is a disgrace and ought to be ended.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I understand the demand comes from the fact that we are not able to protect the present immigration laws with the facilities provided at this station.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Clearly so.

Mr. NORRIS. Reserving the right to object, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. When the gentleman called up the bill before, the chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds was in the room, and I think intended either to object or make some inquiry in regard to it, when the gentleman from Illinois took the floor. The gentleman from Missouri, the chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, is not in the room at the present time, and I would dislike to see the bill taken up until he is present. I think he wanted to raise some question whether the committee reporting the bill is the proper committee.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds was present a moment ago. The matter was briefly discussed with him, and I think he has no serious objection to the passage of the bill, notwithstanding the fact that it was not referred to his committee. I am not authorized to speak for him, but I understand he has little objection to this bill.

Mr. NORRIS. This bill contemplates the erection of a building, and this kind of bill ordinarily is referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. I do not intend to object, I will say to the gentleman, but I want to protect the rights of the chairman of that committee, and I will ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania if he will not let it go over until the chairman is present.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania for unanimous consent to consider this bill as bills on the Union Calendar are considered under the rules?

Mr. NORRIS. I understand that the chairman of the committee is satisfied, and I have no objection to make.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, Mr. BOUTELL in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The House is in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill H. R. 7694, which the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 7694) to provide for the purchase of ground for and the erection of a public building for an immigration station, on a site to be selected for said station, in the city of Philadelphia, Pa.

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause to be erected, on a site to be selected, a public building to temporarily accommodate and care for immigrants arriving at the city of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania.

SEC. 2. That the sum of $250,000 is hereby appropriated for the purchase of ground for and the erection of said building, which sum shall be paid from the immigrant fund, said sum to include heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators, and approaches of and to said building.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I might very readily give a descriptive story of this structure and picture in detail all the objections to the building and the reasons for a new one, but it seems to me that inasmuch as the suggestion is for a new station and the bill has been indorsed by the interested authorities, including the committee in charge of immigration and naturalization, that would be unnecessary. We find that our immigration in Philadelphia has been increasing during the last ten years. I have taken the trouble to secure the statistics, which would readily answer the inquiry of the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. UNDERWOOD] a moment ago. In 1898 the immigrants landing at that port were 11,999; in 1899, 12,338. The rest of the statistics I shall omit at this moment, but each year the number of immigrants has increased, with one or two exceptions, until 1907, when the total number of people landing at that port was 39,955.

There has been a slight decrease during the last few months, but the normal increase is likely to continue from year to year, and the necessities of the port are becoming constantly greater. It is most unfortunate that for a number of years the officials of the Government of the United States have been compelled to do the business connected with this immigration at that port by courtesy of private corporations. They have not had an office of their own, except in the central part of the city. The headquarters in the immigration station have been maintained by courtesy of the railroad company, which owns the ground and the building, and of the steamship company, which leases the ground and the building. It seems to me that it is high time that the Government should step in, in its proper and dignified way, and assume entire control of the situation; that it should not only own the ground, but it should own the building, and that that building should comport with all the modern requirements of a station of this kind.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Yes; reserving the balance of my time.

Mr. MANN. What is this building to cost?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The Commissioner of Immigration has fixed the cost at $250,000.

Mr. MANN. Of course there is no limitation in the bill as to what the building will cost?

Mr. TAWNEY. I have an amendment covering that.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It is intended to leave that to the discretion of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. MANN. They might make it $4,500,000. Does the gentleman think it desirable to give to the Department of Commerce and Labor, or any other bureau of the Government, the right to say how much money shall be paid out of a fund over which we have no control?

Mr. TAWNEY. Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman from Pennsylvania will permit me, I will say to the gentleman from Illinois that I have prepared an amendment to section 1, to insert after the word "erected" the words "and completed," and then at the end of that section to insert the words "at a cost, including site and equipment, of $200,000." Then follows the appropriation.

Mr. MANN. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is the amount of the bill.

Mr. TAWNEY. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Would that amendment be satisfactory to the gentleman from Illinois?

Mr. MANN. I think there ought to be some limitation of cost in all these bills. Without that, as the gentleman well knows, Congress having no control over the immigration funds unless they are restricted, there is no telling what that building will cost.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I desire to say that if the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Minnesota is agreeable to the gentleman from Illinois, it is entirely agreeable to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. MANN. I think with the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Minnesota the bill would be an ideal bill.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I accept the amendment suggested by the gentleman from Minnesota.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair would suggest that the committee is now under general debate. When the bill is being read for amendment, that amendment would be in order.

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield to the gentleman from Iowa for a question?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Yes.

Mr. HEPBURN. I should like to ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania what has been the cost of the immigrant station at New York, on Ellis Island?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I am not entirely familiar with the figures, but it has run into the millions.

Mr. HEPBURN. I should doubt that. I remember that the first building cost something in the neighborhood of $300,000, and it seems to me if that building could be erected for that sum, this sum is wonderfully disproportionate to the number of people that arrive at the port of Philadelphia, considerably less than 100 immigrants a day, while at the other station more than 5,000 have been received in a day, and that has occurred on many days. Now, if that establishment could be erected for less than $400,000, it seems to me that $250,000 to care for the reception of less than 100 immigrants a day is an extravagantly large sum.

Mr. BINGHAM. They do not come by days, they come by ship loads, and the comparison of averages does not at all represent the demands which may be made upon the capacity of the immigrant station.

Mr. HEPBURN. I am speaking of the average. That probably is a fair basis of comparison.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The bill contemplates acquiring a site, and we are now cooperating with the city authorities for that purpose, and so there will be an additional expense above the cost of the building.

Mr. HEPBURN. That is not a very large number of people to be cared for at an immigrant station. I think that a very much less sum might be required.

Mr. MANN. How long are these immigrants detained at the station, may I ask the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET]?

Mr. BENNET of New York. If the gentleman from Pennsylvania will yield, I will answer.

Mr. MANN. Oh, he will be glad to yield. [Laughter.]

Mr. BENNET of New York. Immigrants are detained at immigration stations for a varying period. The ordinary period of a detained immigrant would be two or three days. The ordinary immigrant, with whom there is nothing the matter and who is suitable in every way, is not detained longer than it takes to examine him physically and to take his examination on the manifest. He is not detained more than two or three hours. The ones with whom we are interested, however, are detained anywhere from two days to a month. I will say to the gentleman from Illinois that when the Department of Commerce and Labor sent people abroad to investigate the action of the steamship companies in 1905 and 1906 every single inspector reported that the steamship subagents all through Europe, or in Austria and Italy and Russia, were advising people who could not get in ordinarily to New York to come through Philadelphia, because the law was not being enforced there as well as it was in other places. The law could not be enforced as well at Philadelphia, because we have not the accommodations.

Mr. MANN. Perhaps when they enforce the law they will not need this new station. [Laughter.]

Mr. BENNET of New York. They could not enforce it; they have not the place and accommodations to do it, and that is the reason the law has been more lax. The immigration commission as well as the committee was of the opinion that if enforced the immigration law would cut out people who ought to be kept out—physically and mentally defective. We ought to have a new building in that important port.

Mr. HEPBURN. Will the gentleman permit me to ask him a question?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Certainly.

Mr. HEPBURN. Does not the gentleman think, when he speaks of the detained immigrant, that he ought to have suggested to the House that that was a very small portion of the percentage of the whole number?

Mr. BENNET of New York. It is.

Mr. HEPBURN. Probably not 5 per cent. The great majority of them are only detained for a day or a very short period.

Mr. BENNET of New York. So far as the remarks of the gentleman from Iowa go that is absolutely correct, except that I do not mean to commit myself to the percentage. When they are aware on the other side that the law against the mentally defective is well enforced here, they do not start from the other side, but every time we let down the bars of inspection on this side, that encourages those who ought not to come to start, and the records of the steamship companies to which we have access show that in the year 1906, while 12,000 aliens were barred by law the steamship companies stopped 50,000 of them that had already paid for a ticket but whom they knew the authorities would not allow to enter the United States. You provide a loophole for them anywhere and those 50,000 will come, and the Immigration Committee realizes these facts and realizes that there is a weak spot in Philadelphia, and the committee, so far as those present were concerned, were unanimously in favor of this bill.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield for a further question? I do not care which gentleman answers it. The gentleman knows that the policy of the Government is not to pave streets around Government buildings. The gentleman from Illinois is affected by that proposition. This bill proposes to pave the streets around this building. Does the gentleman from New York think we ought to inaugurate a special policy for Philadelphia?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Where does it say that it shall pave the streets?

Mr. MANN. It says "approaches of and to said building." We approach the building by the street, and it means that you can pave the street.

Mr. BENNET of New York. I think the gentleman's construction is far fetched.

Mr. MANN. If the gentleman deals with the Departments long, he will understand that that language is quite wide enough to pave every street around this building.

Mr. BENNET of New York. I do not think we could buy the land and build the building and pave Philadelphia for this appropriation.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman from Iowa thinks that you can build the building for less. We appropriated $50,000 for two stations on the Atlantic, and another one costing $70,000.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Seventy thousand dollars each for three.

Mr. MANN. Well, then, this station will cost more than all three.

Mr. BENNET of New York. But Philadelphia has more traffic than the other three.

Mr. MANN. The traffic and the building do not necessarily correspond. Now, the gentleman does not seriously expect the Government to waive its usual policy and provide out of the immigrant fund—as some gentleman said the poor immigrants' fund—money to pave the streets of Philadelphia.

Mr. BENNET of New York. I think that is a very small part of the cost.

Mr. BINGHAM. But that is not in the bill—it provides only for the approaches.

Mr. MANN. This covers outside of the building. Does the gentleman think for a moment that if the Chicago post-office law had provided for taking care of approaches that we would not have paved the streets before this at Government expense?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Oh, I will admit if the gentleman had a chance he would have gone as far as he could in Chicago.

Mr. MANN. You may be very sure that would have been chance enough.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman will introduce an amendment that will eliminate the street paving from this bill I would be glad to accept it.

Mr. TAWNEY. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman if it is contemplated that any part of this $250,000 is to be expended for paving?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. None whatever.

Mr. TAWNEY. Would the gentleman have any objections to an amendment inserting after the word "erection" in line 10 the words "including equipment and furniture for said building," and striking out the balance of the bill entirely.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. That is entirely satisfactory.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Mr. Chairman, the question of the reference of this bill to the Committee on Immigration seems not now relevant, though I think it is due to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and myself to state that this bill should have been referred to that committee. I own that if it had been so referred it would not have been reported until the general omnibus public building bill would be reported to the House, which may be very late in the session, or not at all. There is another reason which prompts me not to object, and that is because the money to be expended on this building is to come from the immigrants' fund, which fund is specially devoted to the care of immigrants, and this building is to be erected for that very purpose. I want to suggest, however, to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] that this building should be erected under the supervision of the Supervising Architect. That is the office in our Government which is doing the construction work, and in my judgment all Government buildings ought to be erected under the supervision of that office. They have a force of superintendents, inspectors, and trained draftsmen; they know all about this business, and I don't see why another Department should be called upon to erect a building and employ special experts and draftsmen of their own. Therefore I should like to see an amendment adopted which will place the construction of this building under the supervision of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman from Missouri a question. The gentleman recalls that the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANN] referred to the fact of the approaches being provided for in this bill. He seemed to think that that included the pavement of the streets about the building. Is not that the language used in the general public building bill reported from the gentleman's committee—to build the building and approaches?

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Yes.

Mr. PAYNE. It has never been held that that included the pavement of the streets?

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Not to my recollection.

Mr. PAYNE. I think the gentleman from Illinois is in error about that.

Mr. MANN. I think the gentleman is in error about the form of the bill which the gentleman reports.

Mr. PAYNE. I think the approaches are understood to be the steps that go into the building. I think that is the usual thing.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I wish to say to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. BARTHOLDT] that if he will suggest an amendment that will send the architectural work to the Supervising Architect of the Government I would be very pleased to accept it.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. I suggest this amendment, at the end of line 7, that the building shall be erected according to plans and specifications to be prepared by the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department and under the supervision of the Treasury Department.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I will accept that amendment.

Mr. BURLESON. Mr. Chairman, I will state to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] that I am not opposed to the bill, but I would like to have some information about it. Is this the same character of bill that passed Congress during the last session, making a provision for immigration stations at Galveston and New Orleans?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. This bill was framed in exactly the same language as the bills to which the gentleman referred.

Mr. BURLESON. What provision is made in this bill for the acquisition of the site?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. There is no provision, except that it shall be left to the discretion of the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. BURLESON. Now, under the terms of the bills providing for the erection of the buildings at Galveston and New Orleans, were not those cities required to furnish the sites free of cost to the Government?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. There was such a concession by the people of one or the other of those cities.

Mr. BURLESON. Was it a concession or was it a requirement before the bill was given consideration?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I am informed by Mr. BENNET of New York, who is more familiar with the facts than I am, that it was a concession and not a requirement.

Mr. BURLESON. If that is so, I have nothing further to say upon that point. One further point: How does the number of immigrants arriving at Philadelphia compare with the number arriving at Galveston?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Very much in excess.

Mr. BURLESON. Very much in excess?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Yes, sir.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri rose.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman yield to the gentleman from Missouri?

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Missouri will state it.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Ought not this bill to have gone to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and been reported by that committee instead of being reported by the Committee on Immigration?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, in reply to the gentleman I desire to say the other bills, to which reference has been just made for Galveston, Charleston, and New Orleans, we are pursuing exactly the same course that was pursued in those cases.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair would state, although as Chairman of the Whole he would not be called upon to rule on this question, as a matter of precedent bills similar to this have been uniformly reported from the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, passed, and become laws.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. With the permission of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, I would like to ask my colleague from St. Louis a question or two.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection the gentleman may proceed to do so. [After a pause.] The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Are you in favor of this bill?

Mr. BARTHOLDT. I think my colleague from Missouri has not heard my statement.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. I did not hear it; I had to go out to see a lady who was out there. [Laughter.]

Mr. BARTHOLDT. I think I will not detain the committee to repeat it.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Are you in favor of it or against it?

Mr. BARTHOLDT. I said I waived my objection because if referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds it could not be reported until an omnibus public-building bill was reported, and since this case is very urgent, and since the money for the building is to come out of the immigrant fund, I waive my objection.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. I understand the chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings to state his committee is not going to report a public buildings bill this session of Congress?

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Mr. Chairman, in answer to that I am not prepared to say at this time whether a public buildings bill will be reported or not.

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. Mr. Chairman, as a member of the Immigration Committee I will say we have given this bill a most full and conscientious consideration, and we have come to the conclusion that in order to properly carry out the immigration laws and have a proper examination of the immigrants, it is far better to close up this Philadelphia station, unless you give this new building, and for that reason I say it is a bill that should be passed by this House. [Applause.]

Mr. MADDEN. Will the gentleman from Wisconsin allow me?

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Wisconsin yield?

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. Certainly.

Mr. MADDEN. Will the gentleman state to the House how many immigrants arrive at the port of Galveston?

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. I would have to leave that to my colleague.

Mr. MADDEN. How many arrive at Philadelphia?

Mr. KÜSTERMANN. I should say about 35,000 during the year 1907.

Mr. MADDEN. Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield for a question?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Yes, sir.

Mr. MADDEN. Can you state to the committee how many immigrants arrive at Galveston annually?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I will say to the gentleman I have been so much interested in the other end of the question that I have not looked up in regard to Galveston.

Mr. MADDEN. The purpose of my question is to ascertain whether or not the amount required for the construction of the building in Philadelphia is more in proportion to the needs than that secured by Galveston.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I am informed that about 7,000 or 8,000 immigrants arrived in Galveston last year. By placing those figures beside the 34,000 arriving in Philadelphia, we are able to make a comparison.

Mr. MADDEN. Does this bill contemplate the acquisition of ground upon which to construct the building?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It does contemplate the acquisition of ground.

Mr. MADDEN. Then the $250,000 is to cover the cost of the ground and the building?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. That is correct.

Mr. BURLESON. As I understand it, the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET] is now able to give the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MADDEN] the information he asks for in reference to the number of immigrants arriving at Galveston.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The number of immigrants that came into Galveston in 1907 was 9,842.

Mr. BURLESON. What was the number at New Orleans?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Two thousand six hundred and eighty-three.

Mr. BURLESON. That is satisfactory to me.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] yield just for a moment?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I will.

Mr. MANN. When this bill came before the House first I reserved the right to object, because it seemed to me that the bill ought to have been referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. When my recollection is refreshed, I remember at the last session of Congress I objected, whether in the House or out, for quite a while, to three bills for the construction of immigrant stations at three of the southern points, for the same reason. Those bills were passed and, I suppose, create a precedent to that effect. As a matter of fact, this bill ought to have been referred to the Committee on Appropriations, because it makes a direct appropriation of the $250,000. In that respect it ought to be changed. It is a rather dangerous practice for three different committees of the House to have possible jurisdiction of the same bill, appropriating money for the construction of a public building, and we know that there are efforts made at different times to get public buildings in certain Congressional districts of the United States. There ought to be some practice adopted by the House, and it seems to me it would be a very wise practice in the future to refer all of these public-building bills to some one committee, or if the limitation be made that different bills shall be referred to the Immigration Committee because appropriation is to be paid out of the immigrant fund, then it ought not to carry an appropriation with the bill itself. There ought to be simply a limit of cost. On the committee on which I have the honor to serve, where we report various additions to the Light-House and Life-Saving Services, we invariably strike out of any bill a direct appropriation and fix merely a limit of cost, leaving the appropriation to be put in the appropriate appropriation bill, so that the fund can be properly kept track of, and that ought to be done in this case. I suppose the gentleman would have no objection, but I understand the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, who prepares everything in proper shape, is prepared to put this bill in proper shape.

Mr. HARRISON rose.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. HARRISON]?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I do.

Mr. HARRISON. I would like to ask the gentleman whether the immigration into the port of Philadelphia has increased very largely in the last few years?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It has steadily increased during the last ten years.

Mr. HARRISON. Does the gentleman agree with his colleague upon the committee in his statement that the increase in the last few years is due very largely to the efforts of steamship agents to induce "undesirables" to believe they can enter the port of Philadelphia rather than some other port?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Since the gentleman questions the statement of the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET], I prefer to let the gentleman from New York answer for himself.

Mr. BENNET of New York. I think I shall have to differ with my colleague as to the exact statement I made. I did not say the large increase in Philadelphia was due to the improper persons who were coming there, but I did say, so far as the subagents of the steamship companies of Europe could influence those who ought not to come, to come through Philadelphia, that was done.

Mr. HARRISON. Did not the gentleman say that those efforts had been followed by results?

Mr. BENNET of New York. I did say that those efforts apparently had been followed by results, because the effort is being continued.

Mr. HARRISON. Did not the gentleman use that as an argument why we should use that sum of money for the acquirement of the ground and the construction of this building?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Exactly.

Mr. HARRISON. If we do appropriate the money to construct these buildings, will it be any longer necessary or advisable for immigrants to make use of this port? In other words, could not the officials enforce the law at the beginning?

Mr. BENNET of New York. In other words, if we build the house, and therefore effect a cure, then we shall discontinue the house and let the bad practice be resumed? I do not agree with that.

Mr. THOMAS of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman——

Mr. HARRISON. I would like to ask the gentleman a further question. Does the gentleman believe——

The CHAIRMAN. To what gentleman does the gentleman from Pennsylvania in charge of the bill yield?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I had yielded to the gentleman from North Carolina.

Mr. THOMAS of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I wish to ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania one question. Has this bill the unanimous report of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization and the indorsement of the Immigration Commissioner?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It has, undoubtedly.

Mr. HARRISON. Will the gentleman answer in his own stead or allow his colleague to answer the question I was about to put to him? The question is as to the necessity for this building and for an appropriation of so much larger sum than was appropriated for Galveston and Charleston—$250,000 instead of $70,000. It appeared to be the statement of members of the committee on the floor that undesirable immigrants were coming in larger numbers to the port of Philadelphia because it was impossible for the United States to enforce the law in view of the condition of the buildings there. If that be true, I will ask the gentleman if he does not think if the laws are enforced the number of people will not come to this new building, and it will not be needed?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Inasmuch as the question was originally addressed to me, I will say in reply that, in view of the defective construction of the building now in use, it is practically impossible—it is impossible—to thoroughly enforce the immigration laws at the port of Philadelphia as they are enforced at other ports. The building is utterly unsuited. There is no proper light; there is no proper space; there are no proper facilities. I stood there myself for hours and watched the very conscientious doctor, Doctor Clark, who conducts the examinations, and I marveled at the result he got in a place where he had no light and where he had practically no private rooms for examination where those who were being even temporarily detained were herded together in a board inclosure.

Mr. HARRISON. I have no desire to do anything in opposition to aiding the city of Philadelphia to enforce the immigration laws, but I question whether Philadelphia is so large a port for immigrants in this country that it should have a provision made so greatly out of proportion to those which have been made in the last two years for Galveston and Charleston.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. It is a little difficult to answer the question of the gentleman, because part of it is argument and part question. I understand the gentleman's objection to the appropriation of $250,000 to be on the ground that the amount of business there does not warrant the appropriation of that amount.

Mr. HARRISON. Precisely, and will not if the laws are enforced.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I am unable to agree with that statement. I think I have undertaken to demonstrate that at that port we receive these unfortunate wanderers from abroad, and that the number has been constantly increasing. During the last year we received 34,000 immigrants at this port, and it is entirely proper that the Government should take this station and provide accommodations suitable to the needs of those unfortunates.

Mr. HARRISON. Does the gentleman think that immigrants will continue to come in such large number to the port of Philadelphia when the immigrant agents in Italy, Austria, and Russia know that it will be as difficult to get undesirable immigrants in at Philadelphia as at the port of New York?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I can not understand why the gentleman feels that those whom he denominates as undesirable find their way into the port of Philadelphia more readily than into the port of New York.

Mr. HARRISON. From the statement of your colleague on the committee that that was a fact.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I did not understand him to say so.

Mr. HARRISON. He repeated it.

Mr. MANN. The position is that if we do not construct the building we will need it, and if we do construct the building we will not need it.

Mr. PAYNE. I notice in the bill reported that the Secretary is not even authorized to purchase a site. He is simply authorized and directed to cause to be erected, on a site to be selected, a public building, without any authority to purchase, condemn, or otherwise acquire a site.

Mr. TAWNEY. If the gentleman will look in section 2, as proposed in the bill, he will see that the sum of $250,000 is hereby appropriated for the purchase of the ground and the erection of said building. I suppose that implies the authority to purchase.

Mr. PAYNE. One might help out the other, but suppose it was necessary to condemn the ground.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I can only say to the gentleman from New York that if this bill is not now in proper form, then the gentleman should look further back for the reason, because it is in the same form as the bills that were passed last year, making appropriations in exactly the same language, for three other cities.

Mr. PAYNE. That does not help out the question of condemnation if we have to condemn land for the site. It seems to me that there ought to be a provision of law allowing you to condemn land if necessary.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. If it is satisfactory to my friend, I will say to him that we will offer an amendment to cover that point.

Mr. PAYNE. I think the bill might be amended in several particulars. I suggest also that the question of approaches has not heretofore been held to cover the paving of streets, and so forth. The words "approaches of and to said building" seem to have been interpolated here. I do not know exactly what construction some future committee will put upon that in case an appropriation should be made to pave streets there.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The gentleman will realize how dangerous it is for a new Member of the House of Representatives to follow a precedent. I have carefully watched the bills presented here covering exactly similar cases, and apparently have been led into a verbal error, to be corrected when the bill is read for amendment.

Mr. BINGHAM. There has been no embarrassment in carrying out the purposes of those other bills.

Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Yes.

Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia. I wish to ask the gentleman if it costs $250,000 to erect a building for Philadelphia, how much would it cost to erect one in Harrisburg?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. The gentleman's inquiry is not quite germane, but if the gentleman will follow the proceedings conducted by gentlemen who belong to a party to which he does not belong, which proceedings are to take place in Harrisburg very shortly, he will learn that we are an exceedingly honest people in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. EDWARDS of Georgia. I have no doubt that they are also very expensive in the construction of public buildings around Harrisburg.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. We like large buildings. We like them commodious enough to take care of the people expected to be benefited by them.

Mr. BINGHAM. This bill relates to Philadelphia.

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman——

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield to the gentleman from Iowa?

Mr. HEPBURN. I desire to be recognized in my own right when the gentleman yields the floor.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield the floor?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. I yield the floor, reserving the balance of my time.

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that there may be something in this proposition that is more important than the question of preserving the dignity of the city that the gentleman represents, or of increasing the facilities for immigration at that city.

I think there is a disposition all through this country to throw some impediment in the way of the extraordinary immigration of a class of immigrants who are now coming to this country.

There was a time when all men welcomed the emigrant from Europe. At that time those emigrants were of the best—of the English, the Irish, the Scotch, the Scandinavian, the German—those classes that made the very best of our citizenship, but that is not true now. The countries that I have named furnish but a comparatively small portion of the million or more who are now each year crowding our labor fields. I, for one, am ready to do whatever is reasonable and right to check this undesirable flow of extraordinary immigration. If I had my way, there would be but three ports in the United States where these emigrants could be received. I would have one upon the south Atlantic or the Gulf, and one at New York, and one on the Pacific coast. We are, by this legislation, simply increasing the facilities of the steamship companies to flood our shores. It is the steamship company more than any other agency that brings to us this vast horde of undesirable immigrants. If we would prohibit all of the lines save those at two or three of the cities, you would find a very marked diminution of this large number, in my judgment. Therefore I am unwilling to increase their facilities. I do not believe it is at all necessary for us to locate our immigrant station on expensive land in the city of Philadelphia. We have the power to compel the steamship company to land its immigrants wherever we choose and to bring them to the station, wherever that station may be located.

I have said that I believe the steamships were largely responsible for this immigration. I have seen some years ago advertisements of steamship companies in which they advertised to the ignorant people of Europe that, by coming to this country, they would be cared for from a public fund for five years after their arrival here. I have seen an advertisement in which they said that there was a lying-in hospital in New York where all of an unfortunate class could be cared for in secrecy, and after a time, if they saw fit, return; and, as a result of that, in that station they had a human incubator, and that they would receive for care one hundred or more of these unfortunates. They had at that time an agency for the placing of wet nurses, and they advertised that these women would receive $3 a day.

All such advertisements as that used to be, when the immigration was under the charge of the State of New York, sent broadcast over Europe as an inducement to patronize the steamship companies. I have no doubt but that to some extent that has been corrected, and yet I know that to-day steamship companies flood Europe with advertisements showing to them the desirableness of their coming to this country.

Now, I am not willing to facilitate that state of things, and, as I said before, I would be glad if we could limit the places of reception of these immigrants to two or three in the United States.

Mr. Chairman, we have tried over and over again to restrict immigration. We have practically done nothing as yet. Men differ as to the mode that should be adopted, and because of these differences almost all restrictive legislation has up to this time practically failed, at least we have done but little. Here is an opportunity now to do something, to refuse to increase these facilities, and let it be known that we do not intend to encourage the steamship companies in the prosecution of this part of their business. I think that this bill might properly be denominated "a bill in the interest of the steamships that ply between Philadelphia and the European ports."

I am opposed to making any appropriation for any station there, and if I had the power I would prohibit the landing of the immigrants until they had been examined at New York and one or two other ports. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BINGHAM. Mr. Chairman, the honorable gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] in his discussion of the broad question of immigration has of course touched upon a live question in this House. We are now operating under existing law. The port of Philadelphia has been a receiving port by authority of the Government designation for years and years. As suggested by the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET], because of its questionable facilities, the law at Philadelphia has not been as well enforced—there has not been that severity in the examination that heretofore has existed at other ports. I regret to hear that comment made with reference to Philadelphia. That fact, however, has nothing to do with this question of the passage of this bill. The question is, Do we need a better receiving station at Philadelphia? Preceding Congresses have given the port at Philadelphia a depth of 35 feet, channel to be completed this year, at an expenditure of almost $10,000,000, capable of receiving the largest vessels that come into the ports of this country. Commenting upon the remarks of the gentleman from Iowa as to whether this port will be less or greater in the future, I would say that we will have larger commercial facilities, and therefore the port would be greater in the future in every respect—immigration and traffic.

The competition of the steamship companies will go on and the immigration to this country will go on. It is our bounden duty, in view of the report of the Commissioner of Immigration, in view of the investigation of your special commission, in view of the examination that has been made as to the facilities of that port, as long as your immigration laws exist, to treat this body of immigrants decently and give them healthy surroundings. I have no doubt that the gentleman in charge of this bill will accept any amendment that qualifies its limitation, any amendment that will make assured the success of the proposed legislation, and in view of the large sums of money that are required to purchase real estate along the line of a water front, and especially in the built-up sections of the city, the $250,000 the bill carries is reasonable and necessary. The port at Philadelphia is at times the second and at times the third largest port of entry in the country, through which are received importations to a city that is the third largest in population, and I can not understand why there should be any question as to whether that city with its great industries and which can in itself absorb a vast body of the immigrants—why there would be objection to the expenditure of so reasonable a sum as $250,000 for that which is absolutely needed, especially because of the unfitness of the present immigration station. [Applause.]

Mr. O'CONNELL. Mr. Chairman, I will ask the gentleman to yield.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman yield?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield to my colleague from Massachusetts. I do not care to yield much of my own time, but I will yield to the gentleman a reasonable amount.

Mr. O'CONNELL. Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that I am heartily in favor of this bill, but the remarks of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] have struck me with peculiar significance. He says that the races coming in to-day are undesirable. I would like to ask him what races he considers to-day undesirable. Are they the Italian, Hebrew, Russian, and Polish races? I come from Boston, the second port of entry as far as immigration is concerned, and have had a good chance to observe the classes and the races and kinds, and I would like the gentleman to state to this House what races he considers undesirable in this day. We in Massachusetts honor the Italian, the Hebrew, the Pole, and Russian; we are proud of the great success of the Irish immigration of the past and present and the great part they have played in upbuilding the State, and we are confident that these later races will equal the races that preceded them. We admire the people who come to us for their various virtues, and we hope that, by adding their virtues to our demonstrated strength, we will continue to grow great and wise, and by this immigration hold our proud place among the States of this Union.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Mr. Chairman, I would like to be recognized in my own time.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York is recognized for one hour.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Mr. Chairman, I do not intend at this time to consume one hour. It is not my purpose at this time, with the Immigration Commission, of which I am a member, still sitting and considering this question, to go into a consideration of the entire question of immigration. I do wish, however, to make some remarks in connection with the remarks of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN], and I think it only fair that I should state to the House that the times when those advertisements were printed to which he referred were at least twenty years ago, and that to-day there is not a country in Europe, with the exception of Greece, where a steamship agent who would put out an advertisement like that would not be put into jail. In Hungary, within the last five years, where steamship agents have tried that, they have been arrested, convicted, and imprisoned. Twenty-five years ago the conditions were even worse than the gentleman from Iowa says. The advertisements were even more widespread than he says, and the British Government added to its oppression of Ireland this humiliation, that it sent the ship Formosa around the coasts of Ireland and took people from the poorhouses of Ireland, whom its methods had sent to the poorhouses, who had been denied the right to earn a livelihood there, and it landed them on the shores of New York State, and we supported them in our State. From Germany the same thing was done. Associations were formed twenty or twenty-five years ago which advertised in the newspapers that they would send people to New York and Pittsburg for the purpose of having them cared for in their old age, and there is instance after instance of people landing in the poorhouses of New York and Pittsburg within twenty or twenty-four hours after they landed in New York City. We have stopped all that; stopped it with the laws that have been passed, commencing in 1893 and down to the act of 1897. I am in favor of keeping right on enforcing the law, of keeping the poverty-stricken who can not support themselves here out, of keeping the sickly and those who can not make success here out, and you have to do that by a national law. Philadelphia, owing to our own neglect, owing to our not providing it with the right kind of a building, is one of the last loopholes left on the Atlantic seaboard where an undesirable class can have the chance of creeping in—just the kind of people that they used to advertise to bring in—and I say that we owe a duty to the laws we enact to provide the proper way for carrying them out and enforcing them.

Mr. DRISCOLL. How many immigration stations are there?

Mr. BENNET of New York. There are not so very many immigration stations, not more than 15 or 20 all around the United States on the seaboards. I do not include the border stations like Niagara Falls, but the number is not large.

Mr. LONGWORTH. Will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Yes.

Mr. LONGWORTH. I would like to ask the gentleman how this amount was arrived at, this amount of $250,000.

Mr. BENNET of New York. It was the amount that the Commissioner of Immigration, after inspecting the various sites that had been offered, and having in mind his previous experience in erecting a building, recommended, and that the Immigration Commission and the Immigration Committee thought ought to build a good building.

Mr. LONGWORTH. About how much of that amount is it expected will be expended in the ground and how much in the building?

Mr. BENNET of New York. I am not prepared at this moment to state.

Mr. LONGWORTH. Approximately?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Well, I should say there would be something like a hundred and fifty thousand dollars go to the building.

Mr. LONGWORTH. And $100,000 for the ground, so this building would not cost probably more than twice what the buildings did at Charleston and these various other buildings provided for by the last Congress.

Mr. BENNET of New York. Yes.

Mr. GOULDEN. Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask my colleague from New York, who has made a very careful study of this subject, having gone abroad last summer for some four months or over, and perhaps no man in this House is better informed on this subject, if he does not regard the laws of 1907 as sufficient to keep out the undesirable immigrants of which my distinguished friend from Iowa speaks?

Mr. BENNET of New York. That is a question I must respectfully decline to answer as long as I am a member of the Immigration Commission—until that Commission reports.

Mr. GOULDEN. The gentleman declines to answer that question. I will give him another. Does he regard it as necessary to have an immigration station in the city of Philadelphia?

Mr. BENNET of New York. I will answer that in a sort of Yankee way by saying there is an immigration station in Philadelphia, and whether we pass this bill or not an immigration station will continue to be there; that the choice we are making to-day is between a station where we can not properly enforce the laws and a station where by the expenditure of $250,000 we can.

Mr. GOULDEN. The gentleman has answered my question to my satisfaction——

Mr. BENNET of New York. Thank you.

Mr. GOULDEN. I am a thorough believer in the fact that we should have the laws properly enforced in the city of Philadelphia, and therefore should have this station.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. May I ask the gentleman from New York a question?

Mr. BENNET of New York. Certainly.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. With reference to the large influx of immigrants to which the distinguished gentleman from Iowa has called attention, is it not true that during the last two or three years about one-third of those who came to these shores have returned to Europe? Is it not also true—I am aware we have no official statistics, but the statistics I have at hand show it—is it not also true that in the number in the tables, as given and published in the newspapers and by the Department of Commerce and Labor, all those who have been in this country before and are merely returning to the United States are included?

Mr. BENNET of New York. I can not answer that categorically. It is true that of the number coming in those who have been in the United States before are included. The figures to which the gentleman alludes, of those who have gone back, are the figures furnished to anyone who wants them by the steamship company of third-class passengers they take back, and include, of course, citizens as well as aliens. About 40 per cent have gone back, and in the year ending December 31, 1907, the number was nearly 50 per cent.

Mr. MANN. I would like to ask one question. Is not one of the real purposes of this bill to keep out, through better inspection and better opportunity for inspection, the undesirable immigrants who are forbidden now under the law?

Mr. BENNET of New York. That and a proper, fair, and decent treatment of human beings that come to that station.

Mr. MANN. Is not that one of the objects of this bill?

Mr. BENNET of New York. It is.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] is recognized for one hour.

Mr. BURNETT. I only want about five minutes, and I will reserve the balance of my time. I was not present at the meeting of this committee when the bill was reported, and I have come in since the discussion began, and I really do not know the amount that is asked for. I understand it is $250,000. Is that correct?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. That is correct.

Mr. BURNETT. Is it for a new station or for improvement of the old station?

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. For a new station and ground.

Mr. BURNETT. Mr. Chairman, I visited the immigrant station at Philadelphia last spring with some other members of the Commission, and I found it in a very deplorable condition. I think the management of it was as bad or worse than the station itself. We found, I think, one policeman down there, and the rest of the men who had charge of it were up in the city in some offices. It was some time before we could even find where the offices were.

I am one of those, Mr. Chairman, who believe that too many of some classes of immigrants are coming to this country, but I do not think that fact is germane to this discussion. I think that we are going outside the purview of a legitimate discussion of this bill by entering upon the question as to whether there should be a restriction of immigration or not. I believe that immigration is right so far as those whom I think ought to come is right, and as long as those come there ought to be comfortable quarters for them. Hence, Mr. Chairman, whether we are restrictionists or antirestrictionists, if I may use those terms, I believe that comfortable quarters ought to be provided for those who are coming to our shores. And as long as they are admitted I believe it is the duty of the Government to make stations that are comfortable for them. Hence, I desire to say, while I was not present in the committee when the bill was under discussion, I believe, regardless of the question as to whether there ought to be restrictions or not, we ought to make the quarters for them at Philadelphia more comfortable than they are, because from the observation that I made and the examination that I had the opportunity of giving it, I regard the quarters as being altogether incommensurate with the influx of immigration and also lacking in the comforts of life that human beings ought to have and are entitled to.

I want to answer the question of the distinguished gentleman from Missouri [Mr. BARTHOLDT] which he asked about the numbers that were going back. I might add that while they are going back they are taking with them good American money, and the number that have gone out in the last three or four months have carried more money from our shores than we borrowed from Europe in order to tide us over the crisis that we have just passed through.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Who is carrying the more money to Europe, those emigrants who have earned it in the sweat of their brow, or the wealthy gentlemen who are living in Europe in luxury?

Mr. BURNETT. The emigrants who earned it by the sweat of their brow, but when they were earning it they were depriving some good American citizen of earning it. The American laborer would keep it here and not save it up to fill the coffers of some European country.

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Why, then, enlarge the accommodations for immigrants coming here in order to give them an opportunity to make money in this country and then carry it back with them?

Mr. BURNETT. Well, Mr. Chairman, that brings up another question; that brings up the question as to whether we are going to restrict the influx of immigration. If we do, and if that bill can ever be brought to the House, it is unnecessary for me to tell the House my position in regard to it, because I am on the records. I believe in cutting many of them off that are now coming here; but we have not done so, Mr. Chairman, and, as long as we have not done so, I ask if it is right, if it is just, and if it is humane not to allow those that do come at least ordinarily comfortable quarters in which to land when they reach our shores? As I have said, it is not germane to this discussion whether immigration ought to be curtailed or restricted, or whether it ought to be encouraged and enlarged, but the question is, from the examination I have made of that station, Is it comfortable and commensurate with the influx that is coming in under the law as it now stands? And, for my part, although I was not present when the bill was considered before the committee, I shall vote in favor of the bill for the new station. At some future time I will more fully discuss the question of whether immigration should not be restricted and many of the undesirables from Mediterranean shores be shut out.

Mr. MOORE of Pennsylvania. My colleague [Mr. BURKE] during this discussion has formulated the amendments in such shape as, I believe, we desire to have them, and after consultation with the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations [Mr. TAWNEY] handed them back to me. I now call for a reading of the bill as amended under the five-minute rule.

Mr. HEPBURN rose.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORE] yield to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN]?

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman, I believe I have some time in my own right.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Iowa has fifty-three minutes remaining.

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman, I have a great deal more interest in the immigrant that is here than I have in the one that wants to come.

I believe that the greatest question that is before or will be before the American people is how shall we care for our laborer, and how shall we maintain a comfortable and stable wage for him? That is an important question that is now addressing itself to every Government on earth. The stability of all government is dependent upon the answer to that question. Can you do it? The menacing influences to stable government has always come from the unemployed, the poor, that can not have comfort in their homes. It is a momentous question for us how we will care for our labor, how we will keep it employed; how we will secure a remunerative wage for it. That is important, gentlemen; and you men who are insisting upon throwing wide open the doors to immigration, who are insisting that all classes of persons, without restriction, shall come here, are adding to the difficulties of the problem and making it more a peril to this Government. Of all governments on earth we will be the least able to maintain ourselves when want comes into the homes of the majority of our people.

There are countries where there are great standing armies—in Germany, in France, in all the States of Europe, and if there is discontent or crime which comes from poverty in the home it can be stifled by the bayonets of the standing army. It is not so here. We have no such prop to stability here. The stability of our Government must rest in the hearts and the minds of the people. And if it is to be stable, permanent, secure, its people must be comfortable in their homes, and that comfort depends upon the labor market. It depends upon the wage that may be paid; and every thousand immigrants that come here—every million, as they came last year—makes more and more terrible the possibilities of successfully answering this question. I do not base my opposition to unrestricted immigration alone because very many of them are undesirable citizens, but I base it largely upon this broader question, upon this more important one, that ought to address itself even to the gentleman from Missouri, who upon all occasions when the immigration question is broached waxes eloquent in defense of allowing all people to come here to increase our vexation in the solving of this great problem.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. Will the gentleman yield to me for a question?

Mr. HEPBURN. Certainly.

Mr. BARTHOLDT. In discussing this great problem, Mr. Chairman, does not the gentleman from Iowa possibly overlook the fact that the immigrant is not only a producer, but a consumer?

Mr. HEPBURN. The immigrant is not a producer or a valuable consumer that can not have a satisfactory wage, and therefore either in consumption or in labor must depend upon whether there is a demand for that labor. I do not want him to be provided with a market for that labor to the detriment of our people who are here. [Applause.]

Now, Mr. Chairman, gentlemen have said that this discussion is not germane to the bill. I think it is, and that when this $250,000 shall have been appropriated for this establishment gentlemen will be loath to vote for those restrictions that will take away all possibility for the use of that investment, which I hope shortly may come. I am willing that there shall be an establishment on the Pacific coast, one on the North Atlantic, at New York, one at some place on the South Atlantic, or on the Gulf, and one on the Pacific coast, where immigrants may be received, but I do not want to encourage their coming by increasing the facilities for their reception here. [Loud applause.]

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Chairman, I feel that the range which this debate has taken gives me a special justification for intervening in it. I am one of those who have been deeply affected and blessed by the liberal laws governing the admission to this country of persons not so fortunate as to have been born upon its soil; and therefore I feel that I ought not to let pass what has been said by the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] and by the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] without explaining my attitude, not indeed upon this question actually before the House, but on the wider question which they have broached.

If I agreed with the gentleman from Alabama or the gentleman from Iowa that the admission of immigrants to this country lessened the prospect of employment to one of our inhabitants; if I thought it could work otherwise than to increase the prospect of employment and of larger wages for every worker among our people, I should join most heartily in every proposal for the exclusion of aliens. But, Mr. Chairman, I believe that our whole experience shows conclusively the immigrant coming here does not restrict but extends the opportunities of the native toiler.

The gentleman from Alabama said that the immigrant who returned to Italy with some money in his pockets had earned the wages of which this money was the fruit by displacing some American laborer. Mr. Chairman, to some extent that is true. The immigrant laborer does indeed displace the native laborer; but how? Not by driving him from the field of employment, but by raising him on his back to a higher plane of employment, where he gains vastly larger wages and enjoys much better conditions. Let us examine this assertion by the test of practical experience.

Mr. BURNETT. May I ask the gentleman a question?

Mr. COCKRAN. Certainly.

Mr. BURNETT. If that is true, why is it that 90 per cent of the American laborers are opposed to that class of immigration?

Mr. COCKRAN. I deny the statement to begin with. In the second place, I am far from willing to admit that by matters of legislation members of any one class are always wisest in dealing with their own interests. If they were, the necessity for reform would not be of constant recurrence throughout the world, and short-sighted laws would not so often have wrecked the prosperity among men and nations which they had been enacted to promote.

But, Mr. Chairman, I was about to illustrate the issue or difference between this attitude of mine and that of the gentleman by a practical test. A bricklayer in the city of New York earns $6 a day for eight hours' labor. Will the gentleman from Alabama explain how that rate of wages could be paid to such a worker if he were compelled to carry every brick that he used to the top of the wall where it must be laid in mortar? Obviously it would be impracticable. Such wages can only be paid where every moment of time at the disposal of that highly paid artificer is employed in the higher form of productive labor. How can that be done? Only by employing cheaper labor to do the ancillary work. If there were not some cheaper laborer available to carry the bricks for $1.75 or $2 a day, it would be impossible to pay the bricklayer any such wages as now prevail.

Mr. BURNETT. Does the gentleman assume that he could not get an American laborer who would carry the brick at that rate?

Mr. COCKRAN. Thank God you can not, under normal conditions. [Applause.] And you will not, so long as the immigrant arrives here in sufficient numbers to perform what may be called this simpler, cruder, elemental, yet all-essential labor, leaving the higher and better-paid field of employment to the native laborer.

Mr. BURNETT. You did get him until the immigrant ran him out, though.

Mr. COCKRAN. The gentleman is completely and woefully mistaken. At the time when the gentleman says the immigrant had run the native laborer out there was not a healthy man, native or foreign, without employment in the United States. The farmers were clamoring for labor and could not obtain it. In the gentleman's own State what is the complaint? Here I am going to speak frankly. What is the universal complaint in several of the Southern States? That it is impossible to secure a supply of laborers adequate to the pressing necessities of the country. The scarcity of labor there is such that the importance of the negro (the only laborer available) is rising to a point where he may yet find himself in a position to demand the concession of political rights which now you do not think it safe to accord him. [Laughter on the Republican side.] In every direction for the last five years there has been a positive famine of labor. It was in response to the demand for it that millions of healthy men have sought our shores, and that mighty tide pouring through our ports has directed itself to the very fountains of production. These hardy laborers have paved streets, dug foundations, constructed sewers, built railways, plowed fields, sown seeds, and harvested crops—work without which no other could be performed or even undertaken, but which the native American always avoids. These immigrants have found employment and gain their own livelihood by the elemental labor that is the basis on which all highly paid labor must depend. I wonder if the gentleman from Alabama and the gentleman from Iowa realize the fact that no highly paid mechanic is ever employed directly upon the earth, but always on some product of the earth. The primary products of the earth are the fountain and the origin of all the higher or skilled employment. The bricklayer can not be employed until the foundations of the wall are dug by some coarser labor. The cabinetmaker can not put together the pieces that form this desk until some day laborers out in the forest has felled the trees which furnish him his raw material——

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, does that apply to specialists in mines, who operate air drills, and superintend the highest class of mining?

Mr. COCKRAN. I do not understand the gentleman's question.

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. I understood you to say that no man who works the ground can command the highest wages.

Mr. COCKRAN. I am speaking of ordinary unskilled labor. I say that no skilled labor can be employed directly upon the earth, but always upon some product of the earth or upon some previous preparation of the earth. The miller can not mill corn until it is first sown and tilled and reaped by a day laborer.

Our whole industrial system may be described as a vast multitude of unskilled laborers, creating conditions under which highly trained artisans obtain employment that wins liberal remuneration.

Mr. BURNETT. How about the specialist who inspects mines?

Mr. COCKRAN. He is a professional man, not a laborer. I am speaking of manual labor. I am not speaking of the mining engineer; I am not speaking of the highly trained professional man; his theater of employment is the world. In every country of the globe his admission is free. I am speaking now of immigrants and trying to show that, instead of being obstacles to our country's prosperity, they have been its promoters and its architects. [Applause.]

Mr. Chairman, we read that in Sparta the Helots purchased their admission to citizenship by service to the country in the field of battle. Here the immigrant has been the Helot who has purchased admission to our citizenship for himself and his children by more valuable service to the country in the field of industry. [Applause.] He has maintained, if indeed he has not established, the conditions under which the high wages paid to American mechanics have been the wonder and the inspiration of mankind. I put to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] a case which shows conclusively that we could not pay the wages which the mechanics now enjoy if it were not for that supply of cheap labor that comes to our shores every year. I challenge him to show any possible injury that could flow to the country from the advent of men who seek no other end than a chance to work. The gentleman says returning immigrants take vast sums of money from the country. But every man who brought back a dollar from this country to his native soil must have created it by the labor of his own hand. Aye, and he created many times the amount that he took back with him. Whatever amount he may have taken away he must have left a vastly greater sum behind that he could not move. Every man knows that the laborer who works for wages must himself produce and create every dollar that he is paid. There is no other fund from which he can be compensated. And no laborer ever obtains the full value of his own product. This is another way of saying that every laborer produces more than he consumes. The difference is his contribution to the wealth of the country. The profit of capital is the difference between the value of the thing which the laborer produces and the amount which he obtains for himself. Even if the departing immigrant took with him every dollar of wages paid here he must leave here the wealth which represents the profit made in employing him. What he brought back to his own country represents that which he made at no man's expense. It was but the residuum of what was left to him after he had contributed to the welfare of everybody by increasing the volume of wealth throughout the community. [Applause.] Every one here, I assume, will concede that what I have described as the elemental labor—the digging of drains and foundations, the tilling of fields, and the reaping of crops—must be performed before any higher form of labor can be employed. It follows that if the supply of unskilled laborers now flowing to our shores from foreign lands be shut off, then the American laborer must do it.

I ask again, Can Americans mill corn if there be not hands to sow the seed and laborers to reap the crop? Can skilled American mechanics build steel structures unless common laborers dig the foundations? Can a single form of industry be exercised in its higher phase unless every lesser be performed by some cheaper labor? Does not the skilled mechanic find his field of employment furnished for him by the common laborer? Is it not the experience of every man in every great city that the pavements of streets are laid, the sewers that drain the refuse are built, the foundations of buildings are dug by foreign laborers, while Americans are employed in the higher form of industry where rewards are more liberal and hours of labor shorter?

When any gentleman here professes to apprehend that the future prosperity of American labor is threatened or imperiled by immigration, I say most respectfully he misapprehends the economic conditions that govern production. Were I convinced or did I deem it possible that the apprehensions of the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] or of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] were well founded, I would vote to close the doors now and forever against all immigrants. I concede, Mr. Chairman, that our duty here is only and solely to our own people. The question whether we shall admit or exclude immigrants should be decided not by the results to aliens who may be anxious to come here, but by the results to men and women who are here now and who constitute our population. [Applause.]

I welcome this tide of immigration, because I believe there is nothing that can enter our ports so valuable to us as a pair of human hands eager and anxious to engage in labor upon our soil [applause], to increase the volume of commodities available for you and for me, to widen the field of production in which highly paid American laborers can find employment. Because I am firmly convinced this is the economic result of immigration I have felt bound to rise and submit these remarks in answer to the assertion of the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] and of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] that every laborer admitted to the country gains his bread not by serving his fellows, increasing their opportunities of employment, thus stimulating the rate of wages, but by competing vigorously if not ruinously with the American worker.

Before concluding I should add of course that I realize this question of immigration is not properly issuable here. Whatever the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] may think about that general question, he surely must concur in the suggestion of the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BURNETT] that so long as immigrants are admitted their arrival should not be made discreditable to us by barbarity or inhumanity on the part of this nation. If we don't wish to admit them, let us exercise the power which this lawmaking body enjoys, and prohibit directly and specifically their landing. But do not let us discourage immigration indirectly by inflicting upon people whom we have suffered to land in our ports conditions so abominable as those the gentleman from New York [Mr. BENNET] describes and denounces as barbarous. We have the power to make these immigrants the victims of our barbarity; but we ourselves would suffer more than they. Theirs would be the inconvenience, discomfort, perhaps suffering, which, however severe, would be temporary; ours would be the shame of it, and that would be lasting. However we may differ on questions of policy, I hope we will be at least unanimous on this proposition that no man admitted to our soil under sanction of the law shall be treated otherwise than with equity, justice, and due regard for common humanity. [Applause.]

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Chairman, it occurs to me that this nation can scarcely be charged with barbarity, even if the stations in Philadelphia are as suggested, so long as we have opened the port of New York, where we have expended the hundreds of thousands of dollars that we have for the comfort and accommodation of these people. If they choose to turn their backs on those facilities, if they choose to refuse to accept these hospitalities of New York, they can scarcely charge us with barbarity because we do not expend millions in order that they may have comfort. Mr. Chairman, I doubt very much whether the gentleman's proposition that "the immigrant pushes up the American laborer" is true, because we know that all classes of labor come to us from abroad. It is not menial labor only, although I am free to say that is the larger part of it. But, suppose that even that were true, they do not push up all of American labor. They compete with many, they dilute the wage of many, they increase the glut of the market of labor for many, and compel those that are not "pushed up" to meet all of the disadvantages of competition. One gentleman tells us that one-third of the immigrants return to their homes each year. One-third of a million! Suppose there are 300,000 of them. I have seen the statement in a newspaper that each one of them carried back $200, the result of his few months' labor—$60,000,000 in all they take back to their old homes from the wage of those that were here, because if it had not been for the influx, those that remained at home, those that belonged here, would have been able to secure that increased wage, because the employers would have competed with one another; and when the employer competes for labor with the other employer the wage goes up. It is when these men come in here and compete with our labor, when the laborers compete for the jobs, one against the other, that the wage goes down. I think I know that much, at least, of economics.

Mr. COCKRAN. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HEPBURN. Yes.

Mr. COCKRAN. Will the gentleman deny that for the last five years there was active competition for labor in every department of industry in this country?

Mr. HEPBURN. I would not say that there was an active competition for labor. I would say that there was some of competition, but there would have been infinitely more of competition if four millions of immigrants had not crowded themselves into our labor markets during the last five years. I believe that is all I desire to say upon this subject.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of the pending bill because we need the labor of those immigrants. I come from a State where less than a year ago there was a demand for labor that could not be supplied. The gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HEPBURN] is disturbed because a large number of those immigrants have returned to their native lands in the last few months and have taken with them a portion of the money they had earned here. Why have they gone, Mr. Chairman? Not because there was no work for them to do, but because the breaking down of your financial system compelled the abandonment of necessary works of improvement and development in a period of great agricultural and business prosperity. Were it not for the financial panic those laborers would still be here, doing the necessary work on great undertakings that must now wait the slow return of better days. [Applause.] They have gone, but when they do return they will come to stay, to build their homes, to rear their families, and to advance the prosperity of the country. No man who has once been perimtted to breathe the air of liberty and share the opportunities that await the industrious and frugal in our glorious land will be content to dwell where banners of oppression wave.

The question of the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. SMITH] would indicate that he doubts the ability of those incoming laborers to operate such machinery as the air drill in the mines and similar appliances. I would say to him that I have been engaged in the mining business for years, and that in the last year one of the best men engaged in our mines on the air drill was an Italian who did not speak English. The copper mines of Michigan and the great iron mines of Minnesota are operated almost entirely by Hungarians and Finlanders, because native American labor can not be had. Italian miners are in the front rank of the miners of Europe to-day. These are the men who have driven the tunnels through the Alps; they are working in the mines of every country of Europe, and among the recent immigrants to this country are numbers of those men who will be a valuable addition to our army of producers. We need them in my State to open up farms. We have there thousands, yes, millions of acres of land suitable for homes that await but the coming of the class of labor which some gentlemen here would exclude. We have an immigration bureau that is saying to those people, "Come, here is work; here is land upon which you can provide for and educate your family to become citizens of the land of the free. We want you; we need your labor."

The great State of Wisconsin has always extended to the immigrant a welcome, and he has repaid her generosity an hundredfold, nor does she fear that by his coming her institutions will be subverted or her civilization degraded. The laws we have enacted are a sufficient safeguard against the admission of dangerous classes and the officers intrusted with the enforcement of those laws should be provided with the facilities necessary for a careful, just, and humane administration of those laws. We want the people that such an enforcement of those laws will let in. As an example of how badly we need them, I cite you an instance in my own town last summer. It is a small city of 6,000 people, 1,000 miles in the interior. A sewage system was being installed and the parties in charge, after seeking in vain for American labor, were compelled to employ for that purpose some of those Hungarian immigrants who have since returned to their native land.

Why did they return? Not because there was not work enough that ought to be done, for necessary improvements and undertakings are abundant, but because of the rotten financial condition in Wall street there is not enough money in the legitimate channels of business to pay for the labor required in those improvements. Set your financial affairs in order and work enough will be inaugurated to employ all of our own labor and all of the desirable labor from Europe that can be secured. Allow the honest, industrious people of Europe to come to our shores and they will greatly improve their own condition and will help to make this a better land for you and me.

Sir, as the son of one of those immigrants whom a misguided portion of our people a generation ago sought to exclude, I could not stand here to-day and not say to those people longing for liberty, longing for a free home, and a happy fireside, "Come."

My father came here as an Irish immigrant at a time when many people believed that his coming and the coming of others of his class should be prohibited. He helped, with others like him, to build the railroads, to develop the mines, to open the farms, to extend the business of the country; and I believe that this country has not been the worse for his coming. [Applause.] Sir, I am speaking here for the people of my district and my State, and I know whereof I speak when I say that, although seven languages of Europe besides English are spoken in my district, we have no undesirable citizens there. We have the German, the Norwegian, the Bohemian, the Frenchman, the Pole, the Welshman, and even the much-reviled Italian, besides the English, Irish, Scotch, and Canadians who speak the English tongue. They are all good and valuable citizens, honest, frugal, and patriotic. Their coming has been a blessing to the State, a benefit to the nation. They have fulfilled every duty as good and patriotic citizens. With the record of the past to guide her, the State is saying to the worthy and oppressed, "Come, a home and a competence await you." When they do come we want the Government to have such facilities for receiving, examining, and caring for them that they may be treated as civilized beings. They may come to us poorly clad as passengers of the crowded steerage quarters, but no man shall say what their future will be in this land of enlarged opportunities.

Less than thirty years ago a young man clad in the homely garb of his native land of Norway walked up the gang plank from a steerage berth of a trans-Atlantic liner. He is to-day the honored governor of the State of Wisconsin. Two of my colleagues on this floor were born beyond the sea, and no man presumes to say the State has not been benefited by their presence.

It has been urged as an objection to this measure that the other ports of this country with present facilities accommodate these incoming people. But, sir, they can not all go to the port of New York, nor can all land at New Orleans, nor is it desirable that they should do so. The steamship lines that bring them have not been set in motion by them. They must take the vessel at the port nearest to them in their native land, and if the line unloads at Philadelphia they must go there.

Whether they arrive at Philadelphia or elsewhere, they should be accorded the treatment of civilized people. For that reason I favor the pending bill, and I say again of the 500,000 men who have recently left our shores that if our financial condition was what it should be at this time we would need and could use them and as many more besides to carry on and to complete necessary work in the United States, and the country would be better, richer, and grander for having them here to do the work. [Applause.]

Mr. BURNETT. Mr. Chairman, I desire to yield ten minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. SMITH].

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Chairman, I would ask leave to extend my remarks in the RECORD.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Wisconsin asks unanimous consent to extend his remarks in the RECORD. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered. The gentleman from Alabama, who has fifty-five minutes of his hour remaining, yields ten minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. SMITH].

Mr. SMITH of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, like the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. MURPHY], I come from a mining district, but I am neither a mine operator nor a mine worker. My business has been that of a lawyer, and to some extent an observer of matters of this kind. Within the last three or four months not less than 2,000, or perhaps 2,500, miners have gone out of the employment of the mine operators of the county from which I come. My friend speaks about the broad acres up in the Northwest, and he wants the immigrant to come from the old country in order to buy up and settle the unoccupied land of that section. I want to ask him whether or not the children of the people of this country to-day shall at no distant future time be able to settle up these lands? Are they not also awaiting the coming of the immigrant from the East of our own country within the next quarter of a century? I think so. Let's not rush as if to-morrow would end all time. One of the troubles with us Americans is—and I'm not apologizing for that other trouble, our unreliable and defunct financial system—that we are forever and eternally striving to do everything now—right now. Our motto, our national motto, with regard to everything, seems to be "Do it now." Not one thing must be left for the future. Why, the mineral deposits in my own county in Missouri will require fifty or one hundred years in which to be developed properly, and yet the mine owners are buying up every square foot of mineral-bearing land and are trying to develop it to-day or to-morrow and allow nothing to be done by the future. No wonder the steamship companies advertise all over Europe for immigrants. It means money to them, and besides the great anxiety of the American people to build this country in a day and not wait for future years to help in the process has something to do with their activity in pouring Europe's hordes into our country. Such a policy gluts the labor market, and when a financial depression comes the laboring man is thrown out of employment, and he tramps the country for lodgment and goes to the great cities for a bowl of soup or a sandwich or some place whereon to lay his head. In Chicago last night, and possibly in New York, there were not less than 10,000 men tramping the streets and besieging free soup houses as they did in 1893. And yet you want more pauper immigrants, more men to tramp our streets.

OUR UNEMPLOYED HOSTS.

And right here, although I may be accused of digressing from the subject, I wish to use some extracts from The Public, a periodical edited by Louis F. Post, of Chicago, and published in that city, to show the condition of labor to-day, and that we have an abundance of laboring men in this country, if there were not so much of this everlasting, crazy speculation and business run mad, which unduly inflate the demand for labor as well as for everything else, and when trouble comes the business bubble bursts, the mill is closed, the factory is shut down, the mine stands idle, and the tramp is abroad in the land. If business were run on a sane basis, we would have all the labor we need in this country and just and high wages would be paid. Now listen to the tale of woe from Chicago, taken from the Chicago Tribune. It says:

Police officials, charitable workers, and lodging-house keepers are face to face this winter with the problem of housing an army of idle men, beggars, hoboes tramps, and criminals, such as has not been seen in Chicago before in nine years. The number of unemployed wandering the streets of Chicago is estimated by men who have for years been living and working among these men as close to 75,000. This is an increase of 30,000 or 40,000 over the ordinary winter contingent. For the first time in several winters the police stations in the districts where the unemployed gather have been forced to turn over their basements as shelter for the hundreds of men who apply for help. On the cold nights the scenes in the Desplaines street, West Lake street, Harrison street, Chicago avenue, and Maxwell street stations are similar to those of the winters of the middle nineties. On warm nights large numbers of men walk the streets without a nickel in their pockets for food or lodging. The municipal lodging house at 10 North Union street for the first time in its history has found it necessary to suspend the rules and allow men to sleep on the floor. More than 200 men a night may be found stretched in rows along the corridors of the city lodging house. At least 200 more are able to get beds. The same men apply night after night, Superintendent Mullenbach stated, and the number is increasing week after week. Few of these men have been able to secure work. The number of applications for men to work turned in at the municipal lodging house has dwindled to almost nothing. The city intends to open on January 1 an annex to this lodging house big enough to accommodate in conjunction with the old building 1,000 men a night. This will help in part to solve the problem that the police now are forced to take in hand. The municipal lodging house closes its doors at 10 o'clock, and it is the men thrown out of the saloons and "barrel houses" after this hour that the police have to take care of in that district. The lodging houses of West Madison and State streets are breaking all the city regulations in regard to the breathing space for lodgers. The city authorities are inclined to be lenient because the situation is acute, and some place must be provided for the men able to pay the small price demanded by these lodging houses. The men are sleeping in hallways or in rooms containing three or four beds. The Bridewell is filled to overflowing. Reports from men who have been turned out of this prison to make room for criminals of a harder class are that the prisoners are sleeping two in a cell. The almshouse and other institutions at Dunning also are crowded. At "Hogan's Flop," in Meridian alley, where the lowest of the tramps and hoboes and unemployed go, the conditions are the most crowded in ten years. The doors are closed early because all the bunks are filled. "We have to crowd them because they must have some place to sleep," said "Ed" Hogan, the manager of the "flop." "The trouble is that the railroads all over the country have been laying off men and shipping them into Chicago free. Some had clearing-house checks on other cities when they came in. The barrel-house men took the checks and gave them about half what they called for. Now the men are 'broke.' They usually work until Christmas and save up enough money to keep them the rest of the winter, but now I don't know what they will do. When we take them off the street we lessen the chance of crime, for the men may be driven into it if something does not happen."

NEW YORK'S BREAD LINE.

That is a true story, and that it is not local is confirmed by reports from other cities. In the same issue of the Chicago Tribune appeared the following dispatch from New York, under date of December 28:

